Northam Sets Clean Energy Goal Plan to reach goal includes wind energy farm 27 miles off the coast of Virginia Beach

By Stefanie Jackson

Gov. Ralph Northam has signed an executive order that sets a goal for Virginia to be powered with 100% clean energy by 2050, according to a Sept. 17 press release.

“Since I took office, our administration has been focused on establishing a strong and bold vision for Virginia as we work to modernize our electric grid and reduce barriers to the development of clean energy resources,” he said.

Northam wants 30% of Virginia’s electricity provided by renewable energy sources by 2030, and 100% of its electricity provided by carbon-free sources, including solar, wind, and nuclear power, by 2050.

According to the U.S. Energy Information Administration (EIA), as of 2017, Virginia can supply more than 27,000 megawatts of electricity during summer peak demand.

The first step toward Virginia’s clean-energy goal will be taken by 2022, developing plans to produce at least 3,000 megawatts of solar and on-shore wind power. By 2026, plans will be developed to supply up to 2,500 megawatts of offshore wind power.

Virginia and North Carolina, will play a major role in the development of offshore wind power.

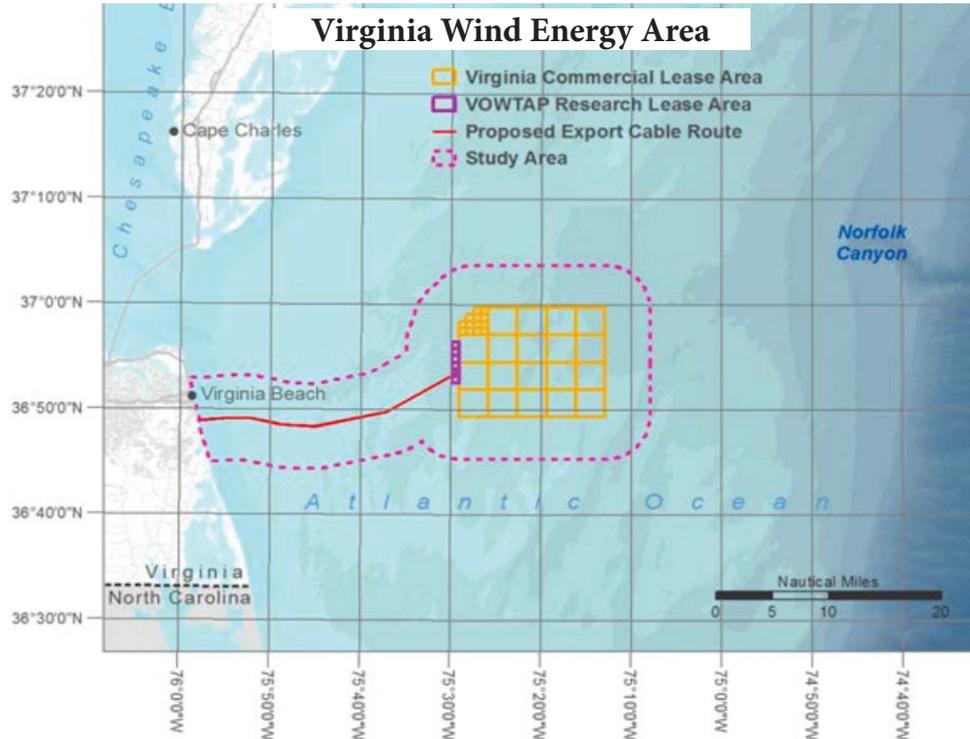

In a Dominion Energy document published just two days after Northam's press release, the power company announced it will begin the largest offshore wind project in the U.S.

More than 220 wind turbines off the Virginia coast will produce more than 2,600 megawatts of electricity by 2026, powering up to 650,000 homes during peak demand.

The project will further Dominion Energy's efforts to reduce its carbon emissions by 55% by 2030.

As Dominion Energy moves forward with its offshore wind project, it "shows how serious we are about bringing commercial-scale offshore wind to Virginia, giving our customers what they asked for – more renewable energy," said Mark Mitchell, the company's vice president of generation construction.

teries and other methods of energy storage, since sunny and windy conditions are not constant. The company will round out its energy portfolio with carbon-free nuclear power and low-carbon natural gas.

According to EIA data, Virginia is generating about 60% of its electricity from natural gas, less than 30% from nuclear power, and roughly 5% from coal, with hydroelectric power and other types of renewable energy filling in the gaps.

Dominion Energy has submitted an application for its offshore wind project to PJM Interconnection, the company that manages the high-voltage electricity grid that serves 65 million people in Washington, D.C., and 13 states that include Virginia, Maryland, and Delaware.

If approved, the offshore wind project will be located not far from the Eastern Shore – 27 miles off the coast of Virginia Beach on 112,800 acres, or about 175 square miles, leased from the Bureau of Ocean Energy Management.

A news report published Sept. 24 on the Connect commercial real estate website suggested that the 90-acre, former site of Bayshore Concrete in Cape Charles is one of many waterfront properties supporting offshore wind.

Dominion Energy's 2,600-megawatt offshore wind project will be built out in three phases, 880 megawatts each.

Its 12-megawatt Coastal Virginia Offshore Wind project, under construction since June, is the first wind energy project to be fully permitted in U.S. federal waters.

"Virginia is already feeling the impacts of global warming in the form of rising sea levels, increased flooding, and more extreme weather events," said Secretary of Natural Resources Matthew Strickler.

"The public health, public safety, and economic consequences of climate change are undeniable, and this executive order is a necessary piece of our strategy to reduce carbon pollution and related emissions and improve quality of life for all Virginians," he said.

Secretary of Commerce and Trade Brian Ball and Chief Workforce Development Advisor Megan Healy will assist stakeholders in developing an energy workforce plan that will fill jobs in the renewable energy and energy efficiency sectors by linking education and training with career opportunities in those fields.

Northampton School Board Strategizes About Money

By Stefanie Jackson

The Northampton school board has written its wish list for state funding in 2020, and money for competitive teacher salaries, called the Cost of Competing Adjustment (COCA), is the top priority, Superintendent Eddie Lawrence said Sept. 12.

“If Accomack’s pushing for it, we need to push for it, too, because if they get it and we don’t, it’s going to put us at a disadvantage forever,” he said.

COCA was created for Northern Virginia counties that compete with the Washington, D.C., area for teachers and school staff.

COCA is “the easiest way for us to be competitive with teacher pay. I don’t think it’s going to happen,” Lawrence cautioned.

But the Eastern Shore still has a chance to receive COCA. “Accomack really has a great case” for it “because they’re bordering the richest county in Maryland, because of Ocean City,” he said.

In Northampton, “our contention will be ... if you give it to Accomack and don’t give it to us, it will destroy us,” Lawrence said.

Accomack and Northampton have a better chance of getting COCA by submitting a joint application, since Northampton has a higher, more burdensome real estate tax rate, he added.

The second priority is finding alternative funding for increasing teacher pay in the event that Northampton doesn’t qualify for COCA.

At-Risk Add-On funds are third on the list. The At-Risk Add-On program began in 1993, after a commission appointed by Virginia’s governor discovered that the cost to educate at-risk students exceeded the funding received by school divisions that serve those students.

The amount of At-Risk Add-On funds a school division receives is based on the percentage of students who qualify for free lunch. A student qualifies for the National Free Lunch Program if his family’s household income is near or below the federal poverty level.

(The National School Lunch Program, in which only students who qualify for the program receive free lunch, should not be confused with the Community Eligibility Provision, in which all students receive free lunch based on the percentage of students who qualify. Both programs are funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.)

The Northampton school division will ask state legislators to increase the percentage by which the At-Risk Add-On program funds schools in high-poverty areas.

School divisions welcome At-Risk Add-On funds because they are “much more flexible, with fewer strings attached,” Lawrence said.

During the Great Recession, Virginia legislators limited the number of school support staff that the state funds. The Northampton school division’s fourth legislative priority is urging the General Assembly to lift the cap, giving public schools more funding for personnel such as social workers and guidance counselors.

The fifth priority is seeking what Lawrence called an “enrollment decline allocation” – assistance for school divisions in which the number of students is dropping, but not enough to cut teachers and other staff.

Previously, schools received this additional funding based on the “10-10-10” rule: a school must have 10,000 or fewer students and have experienced a population decline of at least 10% within a 10-year period.

School board member Nancy Proto suggested adding a sixth priority, requesting that the Virginia Department of Education amend its Standards of Quality to lower the required ratio of school staff to students, meaning school divisions could hire more staff to serve student needs and get more state funding for those positions. Her peers agreed.

Chief Financial Officer Brook Thomas noted the Northampton school division could get the extra funding without hiring more people, because it already exceeds Standards of Quality school staffing requirements.

“It doesn’t change your staffing as much as it changes the state’s share of the funding for the staffing you already have.”

Six Convicted of Placing Credit Card Skimmers on Cape Charles Gas Pumps

By Linda Cicoira

Six Cuban nationals were indicted in U.S. District Court, in Norfolk, Va., last Wednesday on 16 counts of conspiracy, fraud, grand larceny, and identity theft in connection with using credit card skimming devices on two gas pumps at Shore Stop on Lankford Highway, near Cape Charles.

The incidents occurred between April and May and involved victims from Virginia, North Carolina, Maryland, Georgia, New York, New Jersey, Minnesota, and Pennsylvania.

All six men were listed as having Florida addresses and are Pedro Emilio Duran, 40, Yariel Monsibaez Ruiz, 28, Ariel Mora Quijada, 25, Guillermo Bello Fuentes, 33, Jorge Bello Fuentes, 33, and Luis Miguel Fernandez Cardente, 28.

They reportedly stole more than $50,000.

The FBI was involved. The Northampton County Sheriff's Office investigated the incidents locally. Court documents state an unauthorized cash withdrawal of $400 was made from Sunrise Pizzeria, in Exmore, and there was an attempt to make an illegal withdrawal of $300 from there.

Other transactions also occurred at Harris Teeter grocery stores in Virginia and North Carolina.

The Eastern Shore is Sweet on Salty New Business

By Stefanie Jackson

David and Anna Lee, of Cape Charles, may have come up with the perfect recipe for a small business in Northampton County – a blend of economic development and environmental sustainability, with a main ingredient that's one of the world's tastiest and simplest compounds: salt.

"We can't make it fast enough," Anna Lee said of the sea salt that has made their new business, Barrier Islands Salt, an overwhelming success.

The Lees made a special presentation at the Barrier Islands Center in Machipongo Sept. 20 to describe how they are renewing an old Eastern Shore tradition of salt making that can be traced back to Assateague Island and Smith Island.

Barrier Islands Salt is named after the product's location of origin. David Lee, who is a boat captain, ventures about seven or eight miles out to Cobb Island and Wreck Island to harvest the sea salt.

The Lees plan to invest in water pumps to make collecting saltwater more efficient, but for now, the water is scooped up in five-gallon buckets.

Every two weeks, usually at high tide, David Lee collects 100 gallons of saltwater that will produce about 25 pounds of salt.

Since 100 gallons of saltwater weighs about 860 pounds, and water from the barrier islands has a salinity of 3.2%, the Lees would get about 27.5 pounds of salt from every batch of saltwater if they could extract every flake.

"You lose some in the process. You don't get all 3.2% out. I wish we did," remarked Anna Lee, who learned a lot about sea salt when she worked for a major spice manufacturer.

The saltwater is left undisturbed for one or two days, then it's boiled in kettles. When the 100 gallons of water boil down to eight to 10 gallons of saltwater brine, it's transferred to stainless steel pans.

The warm temperature of the stainless steel pans must be maintained and the water must remain still as it gradually evaporates, leaving behind "quite beautiful and amazing" flakes of sea salt, Anna Lee said.

Then it's time to start scooping. Once the water evaporates enough that only two or three gallons remain, "we're just scooping salt out the whole time," David Lee said. This part of the process takes about 10 hours.

Some businesses use saltwater ponds to make salt, and the finished product must be scooped off the top of the pond to avoid scooping up dirt along with the salt.

The Lees' salt-making process allows them to scoop salt from the bottom of a clean pan, where bigger flakes form.

The salt is transferred to trays that are racked up in a drying room, a dehumidified space where the salt will stay for seven to 10 days. It's raked so it dries evenly.

The salt-making process starts in an open-air environment, with overhead coverings protecting the evaporation pans from debris.

As an added measure, before packing the salt, Anna Lee "meticulously scrutinizes literally every flake" to ensure that only salt makes its way into each jar, she said.

Barrier Islands Salt is currently found in 30 retail locations from Chincoteague to Hampton Roads and as far as Charlottesville, Va., about four hours from the Eastern Shore.

Anna Lee plans to offer new sea salt products in the future, including a seafood seasoning blend. She makes rosé sea salt using another local product, Chatham Vineyards rosé wine, and she is interested in partnering with a Virginia distillery to make Scotch salt. Partnering with a local caramel maker to create barrier islands salted caramels is also on Lee's wish list.

But the business opportunities don't stop there. The Lees, who also run a boat tour business, offer a "champagne and salt making" private, six-guest boat tour of the barrier islands.

They will bring business to Cherriton this November when they open a new location in a repurposed, 1936 gas station. It will be a combined salt production facility and general store selling sea salt and many other goods. Tours of the production facility will be available.

Barrier Islands Center Executive Director Laura Vaughan called David and Anna Lee artists, and Barrier Islands Salt is their composition.

“Time and love” are among the ingredients in all-natural Barrier Islands Salt, Vaughan said, and the quality of the product is worth its price.

The Lee’s business is “securing the Shore” and “keeping it going,” Vaughan said.

Making salt again on the Eastern Shore helps the region restore a little piece of its history and “hang on to its most preciousness.”

BIC's 'Sounding Science' Exhibit Lets Visitors Hear Coastal Changes

By Stefanie Jackson

Science and art come together and beckon the willing listener to embark on a sonic journey at the newest exhibit that opened Sept. 21 at the Barrier Islands Center in Machipongo, Sounding Science: Listening for Coastal Futures.

"You've heard the phrase, 'We need to listen to the science,' so we have created ways for you to listen to the science in new ways," said Willis Jenkins, a University of Virginia professor who also works in the environmental humanities.

The exhibit features field recordings, many of which have been "sonified" by music composers, allowing a broad audience to hear and understand scientific data in a different perspective.

Sounding Science was made possible by a UVA grant awarded to the Coastal Futures Conservatory, of which Jenkins is a member. The conservatory integrates arts and humanities into the studies conducted by the Virginia Coast Reserve, which has a research facility in Oyster directed by Cora Johnston.

The exhibit of nine listening stations is on the second floor of the Barrier Islands Center. If one visits the stations in order, one may note a progression from the real to the abstract, from sound to music.

Station 1 features "Barrier Island Ecosystem Field Recordings" by Matthew Burtner. One hears the simple sounds of crabs scuttling across the banks of the Eastern Shore. They are fiddler crabs that dig tunnels in the mud. One can also hear water lapping against the shore. Listen closer to hear the forces of both erosion and coastal resilience, the author says.

At Station 2, though no melody is heard, the sounds of music arrive during "Seaside Oyster Reef Recordings and Translations" by Eli Stine. The impression of water flowing and trickling is intermingled with reminiscences of an orchestra, perhaps even a calliope, and the clear but tentative tapping of piano keys.

Station 3 features the work of composer Christopher Luna-Mega and data compiled by Karen McGlathery and R.R. Christian from a water-quality sampling of ammonium and phosphate. The composition evokes the sounds of the ebb and flow of a gentle wind.

At Station 4, "Dreams of Seagrass-es" by Matthew Burtner, incorporating data collected by McGlathery and Peter Berg, might appeal to those who appreciate popular, modern music. In the background, one can hear slow strings and rustling seagrass. Almost melodic, electronic, even robotic tones accompany sounds like crabs walking through grass and an underwater creature feeding. "This sonification explores the photosynthesis and respiration of seagrasses," the author writes.

Station 5 presents "Piano etude no. 2: Tidal Flow," also by Luna-Mega. A rising and falling tide is heard in the background, with high and low piano notes corresponding to the tide's height in meters, one pitch per day. High tides are played with the right hand and low tides are played with the left hand, resulting in an odd and mystical composition.

At Station 6, the moaning of whales is heard in addition to noises so exotic, the listener may mistake them for the sounds of birds preening their feathers and insects' wings flitting in a jungle rather than the sounds of any creature that lives underwater.

Station 7 contains the only composition featuring poetry. It's recited with a background of water spurtling and shooting and waves roaring mightily yet softly.

The composition heard at Station 8 is titled "[in]," by Erik Deluca. Water seems to crackle and bubble and waves roll and rumble. The author notes the sounds heard include a variety of marine life, including snails, crabs, koi, a dolphin, and a manatee.

More underwater creatures are heard at Station 9, including whales calling and other wild sea life howling and shrieking. And if it seems like an elephant is trumpeting, don't worry – it's probably just a walrus.

For more information on the composers and scientists who made this science and humanities project possible, visit the Barrier Islands Center and check out Sounding Science, the exhibit that has to be heard to be believed.

The Sounding Science exhibit will be open through Dec. 21.

Ralph Edward Brady

Mr. Ralph E. Brady departed this life peacefully Sept. 22, 2019, at Heritage Hall Healthcare in Nassawadox. He was born Sept. 10, 1948, in Oyster, to the late Ralph Brady and the late Della Mae Tull Brady. He grew up in Northampton County where he spent years working the waters of the Chesapeake Bay with his Daddy, whom he admired. Mr. Brady, who was also called "Buddy" and "RE" by his loved ones, had a happy and sweet personality that drew people to him. He was a great sports fan and enjoyed sitting around watching football, baseball, and NASCAR racing, as well as his favorite westerns. When he wasn't watching TV he relaxed playing solitaire while sipping on his beloved mist.

Mr. Brady

Mr. Brady leaves to cherish his memory four children, Eddie (Tara) Brady, Bonnie (Robert) Brady, Darius Weeks, of Marion, Ind., and Ronnie (Shanda) Brady, of Nassawadox; three sisters, Ann (Roy) Johnson, of Nassawadox, Dina Brady Martinez, of Exmore, and Terry Lynn Kessell, of Darian, Ga.; fifteen grandchildren; seven great-grandchildren; numerous nieces, nephews, and cousins; and a very special friend, Tracy Joynes. He was predeceased by three wives, Darlene, Faye, and Pauline; his beloved partner of 28 years, Catherine Moore; sister, Malinda Brady Echols; two brothers, Steve Brady and James Bradshaw; and granddaughter, Miranda Merritt.

The family would like to express sincere gratitude and thanks to those who have shown their support during this time of loss. A special thanks to the professional and caring staff at Heritage Hall Healthcare and Riverside Shore Hospice.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday, Sept. 28, 2019, at 1 p.m., at Doughty Funeral Home in Exmore with the Rev. Jonathan Carpenter officiat-

Responsible progress for
Northampton County

I OPPOSE ANY CHANGE TO THE ZONING ORDINANCE WHICH WOULD ENCOURAGE COMMERCIAL POULTRY PRODUCTION.

There is a rumor being circulated alleging that I would support or foster industrial chicken farming. That rumor is absolutely false. The Supervisors of the County, with input from public hearings, enacted zoning on poultry housing in 2016 which I support.

I SUPPORT ALL REASONABLE MEANS OF IMPROVING OUR SYSTEM OF PUBLIC EDUCATION.

Quality public education is not only critical to the success of our children now living in Northampton County but is also essential to the future of the County by attracting families with school aged children to come to and continue living in our County.

I SUPPORT THE DEVELOPMENT OF AFFORDABLE WORKFORCE HOUSING IN NORTHAMPTON COUNTY.

Lack of decent and affordable housing is a serious obstacle to attracting and retaining young professionals and skilled workers, including quality teachers in the public schools to Northampton County.

I SUPPORT THE RAPID EXPANSION OF AFFORDABLE AND QUALITY INTERNET ACCESS THROUGHOUT OUR WHOLE COUNTY.

Economic and educational success in the 21st century is increasingly dependent on access to fast and reliable internet service. Making such service available to all our residents is critically important for the future of our County.

Clippers Secure Game Against Warriors, 40-20

Brennan Waldorf*

James M. Bennet came into town sporting a highly experienced team that had 21 seniors on its roster. The Clippers came prepared to run on the evening of Sept. 21, as they found success with a series of running plays that were featured all game. The young Warriors squad came out flat-footed and possibly still suffering the aftereffects from a hard-fought win at district rival Arcadia. "That took a lot out of us but that's no excuse, you have to come out every week and play," said head coach Rotkowski.

The Nandua players looked lost at times in the first half finding themselves out of position when facing the run that put them in a 34-0 hole. "It took us a couple of series to get used to their speed off the ball. That's always the challenge when you play big schools," said Rotkowski of the James M. Bennet team that hails from Salisbury, Md., with a student enrollment of 1,400.

In the second half the Warriors found success as Joe Teasley threw for two touchdowns while also adding one on the ground. The Clippers would only score one time in the half but it was all the Clippers needed as its offensive line created several holes for its running game.

With 9 minutes left in the game the determined Warriors continued to fight as they gained possession on their own 45 after recording a critical stop on fourth-and-6. The Warriors would go to senior Bailey on third-and-9 who would take a pitch down to the Bennet 30. The next play Joe Teasley threw a touchdown to Tyler Greene to the left for 30 yards. The Warriors fumbled on the extra point and put the score 34-20 with 8:16 left.

A comeback appeared to be on the horizon but an onside kick was quickly fallen on by the Clippers who had full intention of running the clock out. Behind several good blocks Bennet's Micah Reddish was able to find the end zone one more time and take three minutes of off the clock. The Warriors looked to pass as they would try and battle back but a key sack on fourth-and-13 to Joe Teasley put the game away for the Clippers.

Larry Jones led the way on defense recording 11 tackles including four for a loss, a fumble recovery, and a blocked field goal. Desean Jackson, a sophomore for the Warriors, also had an eventful game recording 13 total tackles. Offensive standouts include Joe Teasley's two passing touchdowns with no interceptions and a rushing touchdown. Once again, senior Jahiem Bailey leads Nandua rushing, running for 94 yards on 14 carriers and Tyler Greene led receptions ending the game with two touchdowns.

"We'll be preaching 48 minutes all week in practice," said Rotkowski as he prepares his Warriors squad to get back in action at home this Friday Sept. 27, against a winless Lancaster Red Devil squad.

Yellow Jackets Lose at Home in Blackout Game 44-28

by Brennan Waldorf

In a battle of the trenches the Jackets came out empty as the Windsor Dukes were more physical upon contact and controlled the line of scrimmage. With good blocking the Windsor Dukes were able to run the ball all game throwing only one pass in the first half.

The Jackets were first to put points on the board in the first quarter after a successful drive, which featured several running plays, resulted in a fumble inside the 10-yard line. The opening drive on defense looked promising for the Jackets as they gang tackled and stuffed the Duke runners at the line. The Dukes' only pass of the half was a pick six, intercepted by Landon Custis inside the Dukes' 20. The Jackets would go for two but failed on a sweep that resulted in Northampton going up 6-0.

Back on defense, the Jackets continued to find success as the Dukes attempted to run the ball up the middle several times eventually fumbling the ball on the Northampton 35-yard line. The Jackets would deploy their running offense and after a 12-play series, they would find the end zone on second and goal when Liam Flynn tucked the ball and crossed the plane for the Jackets second touchdown of the night. Liam and company would then go for two, passing to a wide open Landen Sayers that would put them up 14-0.

The Windsor Dukes were down but not out as they leaned heavily on the legs of senior Daequan Garris who gashed the Jackets for several yards running in between the tackles all night. After a series of runs up the middle, Malik Lee first found the end zone on a 20-yard scamper to the left. The Jackets burst through the line and caused a fumble on the Dukes' 2-point conversion attempt, putting the score at 14-6.

The Jackets received the ball on their own 36 and would run that ball successfully but would rack up penalties that had them facing a third-and-26. They attempted a pass over the middle to Dustin Splawn who resembled Odell Beckham Jr. as he attempted to corral the pass one handedly. The incompleteness would have the Jackets punt but a bad snap had Landon Custis dodging Dukes in an open backfield ultimately fumbling the ball on the Jackets' 21-yard line. The Dukes capitalized on the play and scored on a single running play up the middle, followed by another run up the middle for the 2-point conversion locking the score at 14. The Jackets recorded seven first downs compared to the Dukes' six but would be down at the half 22-14.

The pattern continued in the second half as the Jackets found themselves in a losing battle at the line of scrimmage, suffering from several runs up the middle that put the game away. With the young Jacket players now in the middle of the season they've become acclimated to the speed but "just have to put ourselves in better positions to be successful," said head coach Edney of the young defense.

The Dukes would come out on top with 310 rushing yards, finishing the game 44-28 and moving to 2-1 for the season. Dustin Splawn led rushing for the Jackets with 115 yards on 13 carries and one touchdown. Gavin Brittingham led the defense with 11 tackles and a fumble, and Landon Custis recorded two interceptions and a touchdown. The Jackets will be back in action at home Sept. 27, facing West Point for a 7 p.m. homecoming showdown.

It takes nearly the whole Windsor team to tackle Northampton's number 44 Jeremiah Major.

Speedy King and Queen Central Outruns Ponies

From a line of scrimmage perspective, the teams appeared evenly matched, but the speed at which King and Queen Central played was too much for Chincoteague to catch up with in their 46-0 loss at home last Friday.

Chincoteague opened the game running the ball exclusively, with effective gains by Wes Britton but the Ponies' drive stalled, forging a trend that carried through the evening. Strong tackling by Xavon Montgomery and Tyquan Speight led to a turnover of downs for Chincoteague.

Unlike the Ponies, the Royal Tigers came out throwing the ball to all sides of the field. Malik Holmes, a freshman starting quarterback completed passes to Deandre Hill, Cameron Graham, and Speight on King and Queen Central's first drive. He threw screen passes to the left and right sides, allowing for the speed of his receivers to make positive yardage. Ultimately their first drive ended in a loss of downs, as Ayden Leonard and Kyle Willis held their ground on defense for the Ponies.

The Royal Tigers slow start, following a long bus ride to the island, ended here. Antonio Carter pressured Ponies quarterback Leonard on the following drive, forcing an intentional grounding penalty and pinning Chincoteague deep in punt formation.

King and Queen Central started its second drive at Chincoteague's 47-yard line and needed only four plays to find the end zone. Kam Berry ran 22 yards to the left, giving the Royal Tigers their first score with 1:19 left in the first quarter.

Chincoteague's second quarter possessions were a host of three-and-outs and were saved only by strong punts off the foot of Giovanni Rosanova III.

King and Queen Central, on the other hand, executed their game plan with increasing skill. They continued to throw the ball, employing their speed. Chincoteague had King and Queen Central on the ropes of their first drive of the second quarter but an untimely offsides penalty by the Ponies on a fourth-and-5 prolonged the drive for the Royal Tigers. Strong gang tackling by the Ponies forced the Royal Tigers into another fourth down situation, but this time Holmes rolled out to the right and connected on a 4-yard touchdown pass to Dre Berry.

King and Queen Central coach Kenny Waters' game plan coming in was to rely heavily on his team's athleticism.

"We gotta take what the defense gives us, we like the matchup," Waters said.

His team even attacked matchups that were evenly defended. Rosanova was great at times in pass coverage for Chincoteague, even intercepting a pass in the end zone, but King and Queen Central kept their composure behind their freshman quarterback and were steadfast, padding their lead in the first half with a 42-yard pump fake touchdown pass down the left sideline to Graham, and a similar ball fake seconds later to Hill for 26 yards. The score was 25-0 at halftime, a true runaway built on track-like speed.

"We're small, but we're feisty," Waters said.

Chincoteague athletic director Jimmy Bloxom spoke similarly of the opposing team.

"You can't teach speed, they have athletes," Bloxom said.

In the stands and on the sidelines, Chincoteague's fans described a game that was beyond reach.

"It boils down to speed," said Wade Townsend. "They believe their team can outrun ours on pass plays."

Townsend viewed the game with an expert eye and believed inside pressure was lacking on defense for the Ponies.

"The quarterback is getting too much time, the team needs someone who can disrupt things and it's not happening," Townsend said.

The second half was essentially a continuation of the first. Holmes ran for a touchdown and threw for another, completing on a 25-yard pass to Berry. Charles Mills concluded the scoring with a strong 25-yard touchdown run.

Chincoteague coach Tony Nock was very blunt in describing his team's effort.

"We played flat, stayed flat," said Nock.

Chincoteague's misfortunes were further realized with the loss of quarterback Leonard to injury. His effort was undeniable all night, but he took

Ponies, Jackets Trade Home Losses

Above: Emma Jackson went to work for the Ponies last week recording 13 kills along with several diving digs.

Yeats James recorded 6 kills on the night including this one of Chincoteague's Emma Jackson.

Story and Photos by Brennan Waldorf

Sept. 19, the Ponies avenged an earlier home loss this season from Northampton on the road, when they traveled to Eastville last Thursday.

The first match took only four sets for the Jackets to edge their district opponent Chincoteague on the Jackets' home court. This time it was the Ponies who pushed the limits and took the Jackets to five sets (25-20, 20-25, 25-27, 25-15, 15-8) walking out of the Jackets' home court victorious.

The Yellow Jackets came out hot, capturing a 7-1 lead in the first set before Chincoteague's Emma Jackson stepped up making several plays that put her team back in the set tying the game 12-12. She was often met with double blockers from the Jacket squad but the Ponies prevailed and took the first set 25-20 with Jackson sealing the win with back-to-back kills.

The second set started similar to the first with the Jackets taking an early 11-4 lead. Mariah Matthews and Yeats James, who led their team in kills recording eight and six a piece on the night, helped extend the lead to 22-13 before the Ponies took a much needed timeout. From there the Jackets stumbled. With only three points needed to close the set they allowed the Ponies to gain ground but ultimately put them away with the set ending 25-20.

The third set was a nail-bitter for both teams as they battled a close set with the Jackets leading for the majority of the set. The Ponies wouldn't allow their opponents to pull far away and kept the game close as both teams made spectacular saves and battled long volleys. Northampton's Peyton Sayers recorded 22 digs in the series and would help the jackets win the set, as they would zone in on the open middle court of the Ponies, wining 27-25.

The last two sets were all Chincoteague as Emma Jackson, Alanna Hall, and Caroline Shelley were all business as they focused in on capturing a road win. They closed the gap in between the front and back row where they Jackets found success in the earlier sets and jumped at the net on any given chance, along with multiple tenacious digs from the back line. They won the fourth set 25-15 with a tone that would roll over to the final fifth set. With the Chincoteague road crowd roaring, Alanna Hall opened the set with an ace and the Ponies would go on a tear, winning the set 15-8.

Snow Hill Demolished by Arcadia

By Matthew Yoder

Reeling from a difficult home loss to Nandua and trading early touchdowns with Snow Hill, the Arcadia Firebirds found themselves at a pivotal juncture for early season play last Friday night. What followed was another determined effort by the defensive unit and a barrage of scoring by the offense and special teams culminating in a 41-12 victory, moving the Firebirds record to 2-2.

Arcadia made the trip north with 17 players and started backup quarterback, Collin Marshall. They opened the scoring with a long touchdown run by Tiair Bibbins but relinquished the momentum, just as soon as establishing it, following a long pass play for a touchdown on Snow Hill's first play from scrimmage.

"We thought we were in for it," said Arcadia assistant coach Jeff Shaffer.

The Firebirds settled, and as the case has been all season, relied on their defense to temper the pace of the game. They faced an improved Snow Hill offense but held their opponents to only 14 yards rushing all night. Shaffer credited shutting down Keondre Harmon as a key factor in the game.

"Once the defense shut down number 15 the game was ours," Shaffer said. "I think for the defense this was the best game they had, they played positions and situations the way they have to."

Standout for Shaffer was the play of Chris Wharton, newly inserted at middle linebacker. He spoke of Wharton's intangibles, alluding to a sixth sense mentality to read the offense.

"He's very keen," said Shaffer.

For Wharton, the promotion was just as much a matter of effort in practice.

"I'm the first one out, last to leave, and I'm glad they moved me up," said Wharton.

Like Shaffer, Wharton believed it was his unit's best effort to this point.

"This was the best defense I have ever played, everybody was working together," Wharton said.

He admitted to jitters saying, "I was a little nervous," but finished the game believing, "this is a piece of cake."

With backup Marshall taking the snaps, Arcadia ran the ball the majority of the time. In addition to Bibbins, the Firebirds were bolstered by scores from William Scarborough, Brandon Bibbins, and a kickoff return from Lethon Williams, who shook off injuries to step in at wide receiver and contribute on defense at safety.

When they did pass, the Firebirds eased Marshall in.

"We had to go with quick screens," said Williams, allowing for the Firebirds to take advantage on the edges with their speed.

It's difficult to believe at this point in the season, the Firebirds needed the win to salvage postseason hopes, but Shaffer believed such was the case.

"It was definitely a good win," said Shaffer. "They were fighting against themselves, and this brought their spirits up."

Now in the midst of a bye week, Arcadia starts preparing for an October 4 matchup with 2-1 Colonel Richardson. The team could use some time to heal a bit and prepare keenly against a difficult opponent.

"I think it helps having a bye week, especially if the team you're going up against doesn't have one," said Shaffer. "We got stomped by them last year, Colonel's going to be a tough game."

a lot of hits and an airborne hit from a helmet to his back forced him to the sidelines, exiting the game in an ambulance.

Chincoteague will have a lot of adjustments to address headed into this week's homecoming matchup with Broadwater Academy, a team sporting a 2-1 record. With a depleted roster and a number of losses, Chincoteague needs to foster an identity moving forward.

"They gotta get back to finding themselves," said Nock.

Undefeated King and Queen Central faces Middlesex next and Waters is all business ahead of the game.

"We've got a good mesh right now, we just need to keep the focus," said Waters.

Firebirds Play Strong, Take Victory

By Matthew Yoder

Slow starts have been a dilemma difficult to overcome for Arcadia's volleyball team this season. Tuesday night Northampton's diminutive but crafty Jacqueline Maldonado opened the match with 8 straight points on her serve and history appeared poised to repeat itself. On this night, however, trends did not follow suit and the Firebirds employed balanced play en route to a four-set victory at home against the Yellow Jackets.

Arcadia fought hard to erase an early large lead in the first set by Northampton, with strong play at the net by Imani Press. The Firebirds delivered on long rallies and after a bit of a seesaw midway through the set grabbed the lead and finished strong, winning 25-19.

Northampton opened the second set with another considerable lead and kept that lead with a strong effort by Jada Giddens. The net was her domain, placing the ball effectively on offense and defending with confident blocks. Arcadia made a run to get back into the set, but powerful spike attempts by Emani Press fell just short and the match was level. Yeats James ended the set at 25-14 with a strong spike for the Yellow Jackets.

Arcadia took control of the match in the third set, and the Press sisters asserted themselves as dominating presences, even to themselves. Early in the set they collided with one another and Emani had to exit the match, albeit temporarily. Her sister remained on the court, serving powerfully and handling herself at the net intelligently. By the time Emani returned, Arcadia had built a strong lead against a tense Northampton team, and her serves signaled a swift end to the set at 25-9.

She joked about her absence following the collision as potentially restoring her energy.

"I guess I just needed a break," Press said.

Northampton appeared determined to lengthen the match with their play in the fourth set. Again Giddens was strong at the net, as was James for the Yellow Jackets. The set played itself out evenly for a time, but the Press sisters were again too much. Their serves and play at the net were equally effective and were complemented by strong efforts down the depth chart for the Firebirds. Coach Anna Williams entered this match tooling with her lineup, inserting players from her JV squad even.

"I changed my lineup, I am very proud of my team, they all played very well," Williams said.

Arcadia advanced the fourth set in their favor midway through and at 21-13 Emani Press confidently approached a spike attempt, saying, "I got it," completing it with ease.

Haley McDaniel dove to her knees and stretched her forearms for great saves on consecutive points for the Firebirds, and as by chance with the rotation, she served the match out energetically for the win.

"We played tonight like we know how to play," said Williams.

Her sister duo was all smiles describing what changed for their team in this match.

"We set the tone," Imani Press said.

Her sister concurred.

"We learned how to start strong," said Emani Press.

Twins humbly stating the facts and now looking for future gains.

"We need to keep the momentum of this game and get even better next time," Imani Press said.

Northampton coach Cathy Doughty was quick to praise Arcadia's effort and remain optimistic moving forward with her squad.

"They served really tough," said Doughty.

She believed her young team played a bit too aggressive and were hampered by unforced errors. Such is the case for a team learning in the heat of competition.

"The outlook is good, but the growing pains are tough," Doughty said.

Emani Press, Sarah Wenzel, and Haley McDaniel await a serve from Northampton.

Imani Press, at right, goes to the net to finish on a spike for Arcadia against Northampton.

Hockey League Game Summaries for the Eastern Shore

By Michael Garbacz

Game 1: Blues 2, Thornton Services Renegades 3

This series of games started off with a fun, close tilt between Renegades and Blues. It looked like the boys in grey were going to waltz away with an easy win for a while, as they more than doubled up the Blues in total shots (25-12) and held a 2-0 advantage heading into the third period. But the Blues stormed back, putting the biscuit in the basket twice on four shots to make it interesting. It wasn't meant to be, though, as the Renegades poured it on as time wound down and found the game winner. Trey Lodge led the way, tickling the twine twice; Cliff Windsor notched the other goal; Dustin Aigner picked up a pair of helpers; the Onancock Kid had one. For the Blues, the Parksley Original and James Haley each found the back of the net; both goals were unassisted.

Game 2: Delmarva Soil and Concrete Red Wings 0, EZ Loan Bruins 2

The Wings found themselves without their captain, the Huntsman, on this day, and it would prove to be fatal for their offense. While they managed to contain the Smooth Criminal (as he can't be stopped), they weren't so lucky on the offensive zone, never establishing sustained pressure. Williams scored one to seal it and one for insurance, both unassisted, and that was it. Alex McCullough's reward in net for showing up was a glorious goose egg.

Game 3: K&E Marine Capitals 8, 3 Knots Taphouse Whalers 5

We now leave the safety and comfort of defensive-minded hockey for a real barnburner. The Caps are probably the last team you'd want to open up a game against, but that's exactly what happened. The Whalers were looking good throughout two periods, holding a 4-1 lead, but then the dam burst, as the Capitals exploded for seven goals in the final frame to sail by the Whale. The Pat Trick was held to a relatively measly one goal and one assist; meanwhile, Sharkey Parks blew up for a Mirror Hattie (three goals, three assists); Brett Morgan registered a natural hat trick, plus two helpers; Keith Hagler tickled the twine; Jack Smith, Chauncey Smith, and Jenny Hagler each chipped in an apple. For the Whalers, Brandon Morgan put up two goals and an assist; Nate "New York" Metzger scored a pair of goals; Scott Millikin registered the other goal.

Game 4: NeuBeam Harambe 4, Blues 1

Despite outshooting their opponents and generally playing better than in their first contest, the Blues could not pick up enough steam to edge out the gorilla squad. Harambe took the lead early and never looked back, registering goals in each period. Preston Shover led the charge, potting a "pace yourself" hat trick (a goal in each period); power forward Jennie Rice netted the other marker; Luke Webb picked up two assists; Zach Webb had one. For the Blues, TR Hoyt staved off the shutout loss with a goal in the second, assisted by Guy Shover and Chris Cartwright.

Game 5: Thornton Services Renegades 3, Delmarva Soil and Concrete Red Wings 0

For their second game of the day, the Wings found themselves on the business end of a goose egg. While they managed to stay fairly well positioned defensively, they wound up outshot 17-9 for the game and could not get the motor going on offense. La Boca (Jesse West), Ray Johnson, and CJ Jones each scored for the Renegades; the Onancock Kid picked up a pair of helpers. Dylan Harrington did the goalie dance of joy (which is not defined by a particular set of moves per se) in earning the shutout victory.

Game 6: EZ Loan Bruins 5, 3 Knots Taphouse Whalers 4

The Whalers found themselves in another racy tilt on this day, and boy what a weird, fun contest it turned out to be. After a very sedate, careful, and scoreless first period, the Killer B's went off in the second, scoring four goals and taking a big lead into the third. Just when it looked like the Whale was ready for lamp oil, they went out and scored four goals of their own in the third. Alas, the Bruins also found one more in the final frame to steal the win. The Smooth Criminal picked up two goals and an assist; Pat Cornwell registered a goal and a helper; Garrett Baylis and Gabe Nock each tickled the twine; Chris Potter threw in an apple. For the Whalers, New York Metzger sparked the comeback with a pair of dazzling old-guy goals to go along with an assist; Brandon Morgan found himself a pair of markers; Scott Millikin registered an assist.

Game 7: K&E Marine Capitals 5, NeuBeam Harambe 1

The gorilla squad, for whatever reason, wasn't able to establish their game against the Caps, getting outshot 19-9. Also, Keith Hagler recorded the coveted Old Guy Breakaway goal in the first, and that's a tough one to come back from, folks. Hagler would finish the contest with a pair of markers. Brett Morgan scored twice and added an assist; Sharkey Parks put up a goal and a pair of helpers; the Pat Trick was content to let the kids (and, uh, Keith) to do the heavy lifting, finishing with a pair of apples; Chauncey Smith added an assist. Preston Shover spoiled Cabe Morgan's shutout parade with a goal in the third, assisted by Zach Webb.

Fishing from the Shore

By Bill Hall

It is the first official week of autumn, but fishing remains as good or better than it has been most of the summer. Productive speckled trout action has occurred along the entire length of the Eastern Shore over the last week, on both the bayside and the seaside. Pompano have been one of the most dominant species in the surf over the last week, but the largest of the pompano have come from the upper bayside, including a 2-pound, 5-ounce fish for Johnny Johnson and a huge 3-pound, 13-ounce fish for Billy Webb, both from the Parksley area. Big red drum continue to be caught along the shoals of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel, but one species of fish, cobia, was conspicuously absent from any of the local tackle shops' reports this week.

Upper Shore - Captain Matt Abell, at the Sea Hawk Sports Center, told me that it has been a "really good week on speckled trout, on both the bay and seaside." Abell said that he had received positive reports from his customers who have fished from Bloodsworth Island, Md., south to Nassawadox Creek. It took a trout of almost 7 pounds caught by Brooks Bailey to win the "West Side Outcasters Open" tournament, according to Abell. Ethan Abell landed a 23-inch trout while fishing near Chincoteague. Productive lure colors have included salt and pepper, "Opening Night," and anything with the color pink. Captain Abell said that a "handful" of red drum had been caught by anglers targeting speckles in the shallows. Rockfish/striped bass fishing has been good in Maryland waters. Allan Ring caught a mixed bag of rockfish, white perch, and speckled trout on a recent trip. Abell had no reports on flounder fishing but did say that the anglers who were able to get offshore were rewarded with good catches of black sea bass over wrecks in 100 feet of water and deeper.

Chincoteague - Jimmy Vasiliou, at Captain Steve's Bait and Tackle, reported that there has been a lot of "short" flounder landed recently. One customer landed 20 fish on a recent trip, of which four met the minimum size limit. Speckled trout, though mostly small, have been caught in the eel grass. The fish have been hitting Berkley Gulp and Z-Mans, according to Vasiliou. Snapper bluefish to 16 inches, pompano, spot, small sharks, and rays have been hitting in the surf. J. D. Shrieves landed a 1-pound, 12-ounce pompano in the surf. The shop weighed in a giant 3-pound, 13-ounce pompano for Billy Webb, of Parksley. The fish was caught on the bayside. Pufferfish, also known as swelling toads, have been abundant on both sides of the island.

Donna Rae Roeske, of Captain Bob's Marina, reported that flounder were still being caught inside the Chincoteague Channel. A few flounder have also been landed along the Queen Sound Bridge. Shark fishing has been productive in Queen Sound as well as in the inlet waters. The Robert Reed Park pier has produced croakers, puffers, and a variety of small panfish species, while trout and kingfish/whiting have been caught off Chincoteague Point. The surf is producing a mix of panfish, black drum, red drum, and small striped bass, according to Roeske. She had no reports of any action on the structures on Blackfish Banks due to windy conditions and rough waters. Nice catches of blue crabs were made from the shoreline.

Lower Shore - Chris Snook, of Chris' Bait & Tackle, reported the speckled trout fishing on both the bayside and seaside of the lower shore has been "hot!" Puppy drum catches have also come from the same areas, while good catches of larger red drum have come from the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel. Flounder fishing was good when anglers were able to find clear water, but the clean water has been in short supply for most of the last week.

Jeb Brady, of Bailey's Bait & Tackle, said speckled trout fishing has been good this week. Anglers fishing both sides of the lower shore reported limit catches of 18-21-inch fish, with a few reaching 23 inches in length. Live baiting for the trout has been a productive technique, according to Brady. He said that big red drum are being encountered on the shoals along the bridge-tunnel. One red drum angler was surprised when an estimated 9-foot sand tiger shark engulfed his drum bait! The Cape Charles Pier has been producing catches of spot and croaker.

Bill Hall was the first Eastern Shore resident to achieve Virginia Salt Water Master Angler Status. He has been named Virginia Saltwater Angler of the Year and Virginia Saltwater Release Angler of the Year and is a Virginia Press Association award-winning sports columnist.

CHINCOTEAGUE AMERICAN LEGION HOSTS VETERANS FOR DAY AWAY

Story and Photos by Connie Morrison

The Chincoteague American Legion Post 159 hosted an outing for veterans from the Veterans Administration medical center in Hampton Roads.

Guests toured the Chincoteague Island National Wildlife Refuge before arriving at the American Legion Post for a luncheon.

Town dignitaries and representatives of the island's business community were invited to the mid-afternoon meal.

"It's something different from a lot of places," said Marine Corps veteran Phillip Corum, of Norfolk. It was his second trip to the island. "This time I saw some things we didn't see before. We got to meet the ponies."

Others, like Navy veteran Keith Gates and Army veteran Jeremy Miller, had never heard of Chincoteague before the tour.

First Vice Commander and Service Officer Mike Terry planned the outing with Joe Lewis of the Veterans Administration.

"It's good to get out," said Corum.

When big-spending politicians wanted to take more money out of our pocketbooks and send it to Richmond, Rob said no. Thanks to his votes, taxes went down, and most folks in our neighborhood will be getting a rebate check in the mail.

Exmore Presents Third Annual Shakespeare in the Park

Julietta (Ivy Ryan) is the imprisoned Claudio's intended wife and the mother of his unborn child.

*Story by Stefanie Jackson
Submitted Photos*

Exmore Town Park filled up with warmly dressed guests on a cool, crisp Friday evening, Sept. 20, for the town's third annual Shakespeare in the Park event, featuring the Brown Box Theatre presentation of "Measure for Measure."

Claudio (Drew Cleveland) and his intended wife Julietta (Ivy Ryan) find themselves in a frightening predicament when she becomes pregnant and Claudio is thrown in prison by Angelo (Spencer Parli Tew), an overzealous deputy.

Claudio faces the death penalty for fornication, and his sister Isabella, who is planning to enter a convent, seeks out Angelo to plead for Claudio's release.

"Measure for Measure" was directed by Kyler Taustin, who also co-founded the Brown Box Theatre project in 2010.

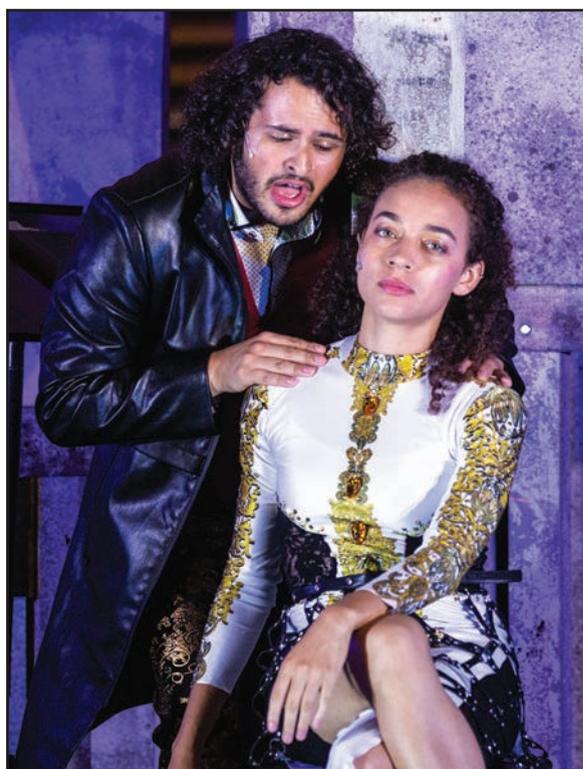

Brown Box Theatre's mission is to bring high-quality theatre to underserved communities in unconventional venues.

About 70% of Brown Box Theatre's annual budget is funded by its donors.

Shakespeare in the Park is an annual, free event for the town of Exmore and its neighboring communities and visitors.

Virginia Chorale To Perform at Hungars Church

The Virginia Chorale is Virginia's only fully professional chorale.

Submitted Article and Photo

The Virginia Chorale will perform at Hungars Episcopal Church Sunday, Oct. 6, at 4 p.m. The Commonwealth's premier professional chamber chorus, now in its 36th season, will present "Music of the Chapel Royal."

Anglophiles will delight in this concert of 16th and 17th century motets and madrigals written by composers of the Chapel Royal, including William Byrd, Thomas Tallis, and Henry Purcell. Selections are paired with works by Edward Elgar, William Henry Harris, Arthur Sullivan, and Judith Weir, composers associated with the British monarchy.

As a fully professional performing and educating ensemble, the Virginia Chorale has performed hundreds of concerts throughout Hampton Roads, engaged hundreds of singers, recorded three compact discs, appeared on local and national radio broadcasts, launched a pre-professional education program for young singers, and performed internationally.

Artistic director Charles Woodward is known in Hampton Roads as a pianist and choral conductor. He is the music director of Ohef Sholom Temple and of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Norfolk.

The concert is part of the 2019 series presented by the Music Ministry of Hungars Church. Upcoming events include the fifth annual Messiah Sing-Along on Sunday, Dec. 6, and the Broadwater Academy annual Christmas Concert on Thursday, Dec. 12. All performances are free of charge, with a free-will offering received. Meet-the-artists receptions in the Parish Hall follow the Virginia Chorale and Messiah presentations. Hungars Episcopal Church is located at 10107 Bayside Road, Machipongo.

Wachapreague's Shark Tanks and Think Tanks: The Virginia Institute of Marine Science Saltwater Laboratory

Story and Photos by Connie Morrison

Nandua Middle School seventh-grade science students had a touchy-feely experience at VIMS this week when they toured the saltwater lab in Wachapreague.

The objective, said science teachers Nancy Biegel and Sarah Prior, was to introduce students to VIMS and the ecosystem of the Eastern Shore.

"I want them to get a sense of curiosity about what's around them," said Biegel, who had a 20-year career as an outdoor educator before becoming a teacher. "It gives them a chance to see what's in their backyard."

It was the second year VIMS has hosted the field trips, and by midweek, the entire Nandua seventh grade had toured the lab.

It's all part of the VIMS mission, says Richard Snyder, director of the Eastern Shore laboratory. Besides introducing youth to STEM (science, technology, engineering, and mathematics) careers, the facility helps to "educate local children and adults about the Marine environment that is so much a part of the Eastern Shore, but so many never see," he said in an email to the Post.

"I think it is very important to reach elementary and middle school students who are beginning to develop interests in different areas of study, waiting until high school or college may be too late!"

VIMS holds an annual open house for the public, so it is able to "capitalize on that effort by inviting groups to come by the lab during the week following," Snyder wrote.

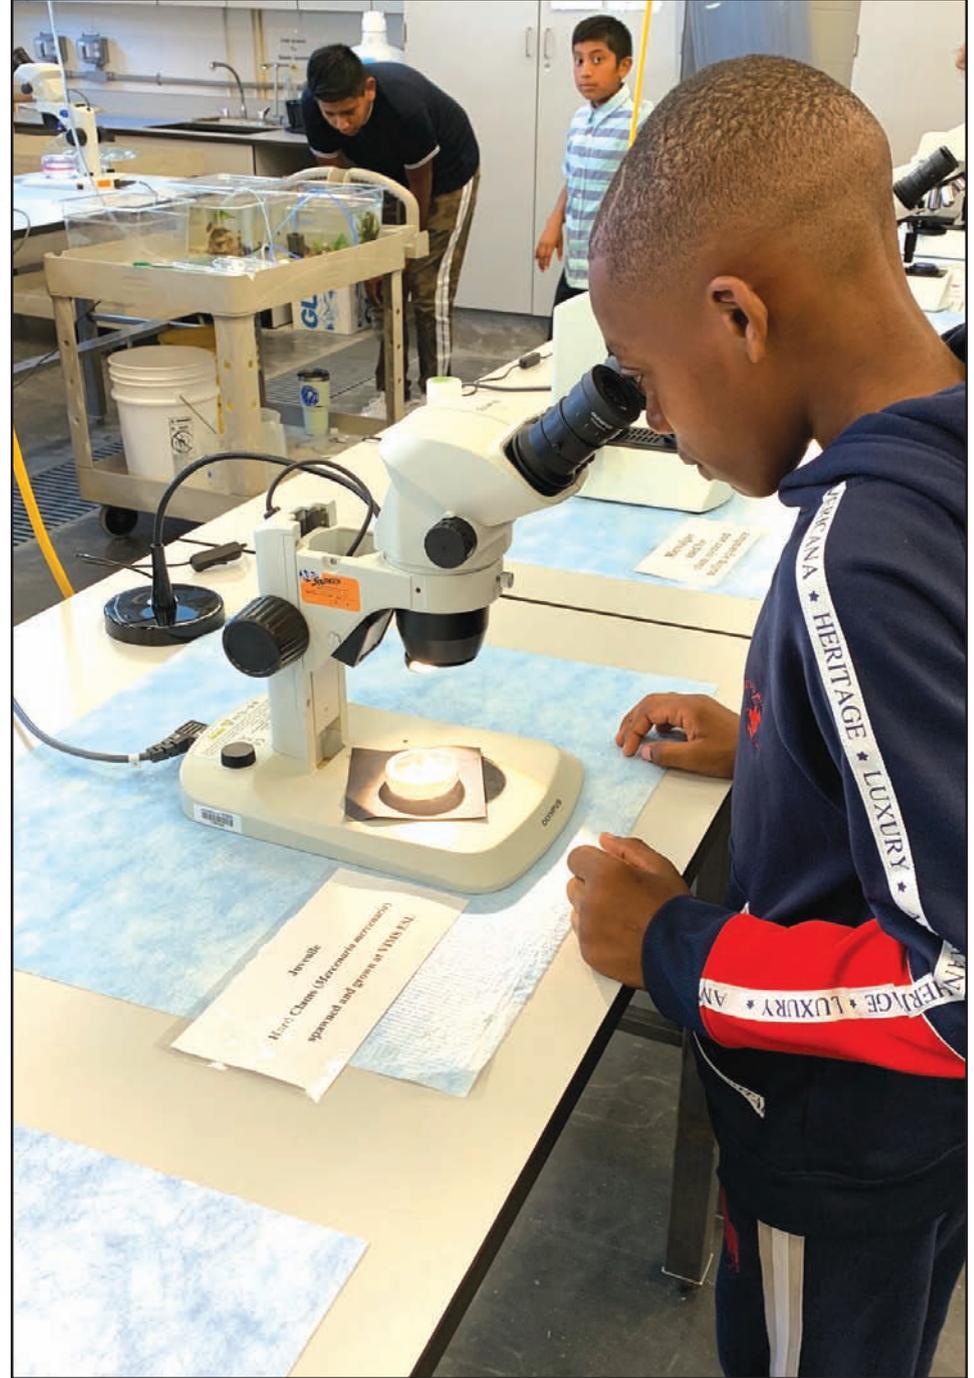

Ecology is the next science unit the seventh graders will study, said the teachers, and classroom lessons will be about organisms in different ecosystems, including the marine environment.

Student Kayleigh Maleski examined the ghost crab tank with Marielle Warren. She was enjoying the field trip because "there's stuff you can touch."

A microscope with a view of juvenile clams caught the interest of Isaiah Williams. The equipment is "a more powerful version of what's in the classroom," said Biegel. "The kids get to see things they've never seen before."

Participants viewed selected sea life under the microscope, touched the animals in tanks, and watched a video that shows the same creatures' movements and habits. The three-pronged approach helps students "to make all the connections," Prior said.

"We study biomes and ecosystems in the classroom," said Prior. "We can say, 'Remember when you saw this at the lab.'

"Students know about the (annual Wachapreague firemen's) carnival, but don't know there's a living science laboratory" just down the road.

The same students will take another field trip in October, this time to the Nature Conservancy's Brownsville Preserve, near Nassawadox.

Their lessons will include oyster reef denizens and water quality, and they will paddle kayaks. The trip will be covered by a NOAA B-WET (Bay Watershed Education and Training) grant.

Kiptopeke Challenge Tests Bird Identification Skills

By Connie Morrison

Birders across the Eastern Shore and across the bay will put their spotting and identification skills to the test this weekend in the Kiptopeke Challenge.

In its 24th year, the competition supports the habitat conservation, avian research, and the outreach mission of Coastal Virginia Wildlife Observatory by sponsoring teams in their birding quests. “It started in 1995 as a means to bring attention to fall bird migration and to help raise money to support the mission” of the observatory, said event coordinator Dave Youker.

The nonprofit observatory was begun in 1994 “to expand on the songbird and hawk studies that were begun by volunteers in 1963 on land which later became Kiptopeke State Park, on Virginia’s Eastern Shore,” according to the observatory’s Facebook page.

“The platforms you see are where we conduct a hawkwatch each fall, and we encourage the public to visit,” said Youker. “We have an educator on-site during this time to provide information to visitors.”

Birding is a popular outdoor activity. A 2016 study by U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service found about 45 million people enjoyed birding as a pastime, with 39 million “backyard birders” and another 16 million traveling away from home to view birds.

“There are obvious health benefits from getting outdoors and socializing with friends during a birding adventure,” Youker continued. “Many people also like the challenge of a birding event such as the KC where you strive to find as many species as you can or to find those rare species that occasionally make an appearance in Virginia.”

The Kiptopeke observation platforms are a good spot to observe various species. “Many people marvel at the incredible feats performed by birds,” said Youker.

This Saturday (Sept. 28) is also Outdoor Exploration Day at Kiptopeke State Park. It’s part of National Public Lands Day and it’s free and family friendly.

The event will offer animal presentations and a walk through a live butterfly tent. Participants can also enjoy hands-on programs, crafts, music, and many more fun activities. Rent a kayak, take a hike, or a wagon ride and learn more about the different ecosystems, history, and unique culture of the Chesapeake Bay and Eastern Shore of Virginia.

A hawk identification workshop will be held at Kiptopeke State Park. Sunday, Sept. 29, beginning at 10 a.m.

I would like to express my deepest gratitude

Patience ~ Care ~ Compassion that I witnessed each and every time I called, whether it was once a week or two times in one day, you responded with compassion, patience, and care not because it was required of you but because of you performed on my brother. I pray that God will forever bless all of you as you continue providing medical services with patience, care, and compassion.

CAT TALK WITH LITTLE BIT

I'm sitting in for Linda, of POSTed at Sea Level, this week as she is taking a little time off to rest and rejuvenate. That's what she called it. I think she just wants to stay up late and binge-watch TV, sleep in, and eat all her favorite foods.

Wait a minute, she does that all the time!

I keep telling her to get up on the deck railing with me and hunt birds but she won't listen. Between entertaining neighboring felines, who love to visit, keeping birds away from the cherry tree, chasing deer, grooming, dining on Sheba pâté, and kneading the dough (also called making biscuits) on the dog's back, I never get a rest. Now she wants me to write a column? Really, OK. I decided the world needs a little education on cats, so here goes.

We are on to you humans so don't take us for granted. We are just like you, we want to be loved when we feel like it. We are not dogs. So if we are asleep, don't pet us. Wait until we wake up to see if we are in the mood. After all, we are the most popular "pet" in the world. But for your information, we don't like being called by the "P" name. It is ugly. We are your family. Curse us like you do everyone else.

There are more than 500 million of "domestics" in the world so know that we can officially take over at any time. We also don't like the "D" word; it sounds like we do house cleaning. We don't like that any better than you do. We've been putting up with humans for 10,000 years, but that is subject to change at any time.

We like to sleep. It conserves energy and we have a conscience and are making an effort to save the environment. Also, a group of us is called a clowder so stop calling us pack animals. Dogs are packs! Not cats. A male cat is a tom. A female is a queen, much like with humans.

Don't call us fat cats. It hurts our feelings.

We also have powerful night vision.

That means we are nocturnal. So please don't do stuff in our house that we don't want to see just because the lights are out. We can hear well too and smells overpower us. We like to play too so if you start something, we will tell you when we are finished, not the other way around.

We also like to be clean. We would appreciate you keeping up with your grooming too. If we slowly blink at you, that is a kitty kiss. If you blink back and we like you, we will blink some more. Otherwise, we will nudge you when we want something and you are slow to catch on.

I read an article about one of my ancestors on www.sheppard-software.com She was the famous WWII cat named Faith, whose kitten was Panda. Faith was living in a London Church and moved herself and Panda to the cold damp basement. The congregation had taken a real liking to the pair but could not persuade them to come back upstairs. The next night the church and nearby houses were damaged in an air raid. Nearly the whole church was destroyed but the Queen and her kitten were fine. Faith was awarded a special silver medal that was presented to her by the Archbishop of Canterbury on Oct. 12, 1945.

The moral of the story is we know stuff. So pay attention. Meow!

Hernandez Campaigning Fuels Bayview Excitement

Dear Editor:

A few weeks ago, I received a flurry of phone calls and messages concerning a man who had been knocking on doors and campaigning in Bayview. People campaign in Bayview all the time, but this sparked an excitement unlike any I'd seen in years. From further conversations with neighbors, I learned it was Phil Hernandez, who is running for delegate in the 100th district this year. And I learned there is something special about Phil: namely, he listens.

When Phil knocks on your door, it's because he cares. He engages with you as if he has known you for years. He has encouraged community members to speak out on the issues that matter to them and it's reflected in his platform: he will protect Medicaid expansion, support economic policies to jumpstart new businesses, and fight for higher teacher salaries.

Because of Phil, so many members of my community are inspired to vote for the first time in years. They are excited to see someone who puts people before politics. He has forged a bond with Bayview residents that not only persuaded me to support him, but to work to turn out voters to the polls for him on November 5th. I encourage you to do the same.

Relay for Life Says "Thanks!"

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Nandua Relay For Life, I would like to thank the community for its continued support.

Without our faithful sponsors and volunteers, this event would not be possible. On the weekend of Sept. 7, 20 teams came together to raise nearly $70,000 for the American Cancer Society. Money raised is used for programs to support cancer patients, to educate people about cancer prevention, and to support research.

For over 25 years, the Eastern Shore has proven that the fight against cancer is personal. Folks here rally around their friends and neighbors, giving unselfishly of both their time and from their pockets. The event, which lasts 24 hours because cancer never sleeps, celebrates hope in the fight against cancer by honoring survivors and remembering those who have lost the battle.

A dinner was provided for over 40 survivors and was followed by a touching service where 1,375 luminaria bags were lit in honor and remembrance of loved ones. Again, we are grateful for all the support and hope that even more will join us when we kick off the 2020 Relay season in February.

*Cheli West
Event Chair, Relay For Life of Nandua*
