Delaware Man Dies After Car Crashes Into Tree

By Linda Cicaira

A man was killed Wednesday night in Greenbackville after he drove his vehicle off the road and struck a tree.

State Police Sgt. Michelle Anaya identified the deceased as Kenneth R. Wolhar, 66, of Newark, Del. The accident occurred at approximately 8:20 p.m. on the 37400 block of Davy Jones Boulevard. Wolhar was driving north in a 2012 Toyota Prius just north of Route 679. He died on impact, Anaya said.

"Alcohol did not play a factor in the crash and it is undetermined ... if the driver was wearing his seatbelt," she added.

First Sgt. B.E. Jeff Jones, commander of the Eastern Shore division, said, "The investigation is ongoing and it is unknown if speed, alcohol or a medical condition are factors in the crash." He said Trooper Dane Lawson is investigating.

It was the seventh traffic fatality on the Eastern Shore this year and the second this week.

Correction

Cape Charles Councilman Steven R. Bennett was re-elected earlier this month. Andy Buchholz and former Mayor Dora Sullivan also won council seats. The Post previously reported that there was a fourth winner.

Greenbush Man Fatally Struck Crossing Lankford Highway

By Linda Cicaira

The sixth fatal traffic accident on the Eastern Shore this year took the life of a 28-year-old pedestrian Monday night.

Trooper Ethan Price was called to the intersection of Lankford Highway and Accomac Road at about 9:15 p.m. after being notified that two people, who were walking in the area had been hit by a vehicle, 1st Sgt. B.E. Jeff Jones, state police commander for the area, reported.

It was determined that three males had been attempting to cross Lankford Highway in a place that "was not lit or visible," according to State Police Sgt. Michelle Anaya. Two of the pedestrians were struck by a 2016 Nissan Altima driven by Charles M. Gale, 63, of Berlin, Md.

Damarcus Johnson of Adams Road in Greenbush died at the scene, Anaya said. Kentrell Savage, 25, of Wharton Circle in Greenbush was flown to Sentara Norfolk General Hospital with serious injuries.

Jones said the northbound lanes of Lankford Highway were closed for almost three hours while Senior Trooper Johnny Godwin led crash reconstruction efforts. The investigation is continuing. No charges have been made. The driver had minor injuries. Anaya said, "Neither alcohol nor speed played a factor" in the crash.

The third pedestrian was not identified as he was not considered a part of the crash.

A spokesperson for the Eastern Shore 9-1-1 Center said units from Parksley, Bloxom, Onley and Tasley responded.

The Riverside Foundation recently received $300,000 in two gifts. Pictured above is a check for $200,000 presented by Caramine Kellam (second from right), a former chairman of board of directors, current board member and past president of auxiliary for Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital. The money comes from the E. Polk Kellam Foundation Fund at the Hampton Roads Foundation. E. Polk Kellam (inset) was Caramine Kellam's father and the founder of a hospital foundation. The funds are earmarked for the Heart Center at the new hospital near Onley. The center will be named after Dr. Lloyd J. Kellam III, the area's long-time cardiologist. It will combine all cardiopulmonary services on the first floor, where Dr. Kellam also will have his offices. Pictured (from left) are: Debbie Atkinson, executive director of the Riverside Foundation; Dr. Kellam; Debbie Cooley, treasurer for Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital Auxiliary; Caramine Kellam; and Jane Bullette, auxiliary president and RSMH board director. The additional $100,000, also donated by Caramine Kellam, will go to the Riverside Foundation's Make-A-Difference Fund and can be used for general needs at the new hospital.

Men Killed in Crash Identified

By Linda Cicaira

Two brothers were identified Monday as the men who were burned beyond recognition in a traffic crash near Parksley last month.

First Sgt. B.E. Jeff Jones, commander of the State Police on the Eastern Shore, said the driver was Joel Aguilar-Vasquez, 34, of Parks Road in Parksley. His brother, Hugolino Aguilar-Vasquez, 18, of Eden Street in Salisbury, Md., was the passenger. Both were originally from Guatemala.

The identifications were made by the Virginia Department of Forensic Science through DNA analysis. It is still unknown why they were southbound in the northbound lanes of Lankford Highway when they collided head-on with a 1995 Peterbilt tractor-trailer. Jones said toxicology reports have not been completed yet.

State Police Sgt. Michelle Anaya said officers were dispatched to the scene at 1:12 a.m. April 17. Upon arrival, they found "a 2001 Kia fully engulfed shutting down all lanes" of the highway. When the fire was extinguished, the two bodies were found inside the car.

Richard Timmons, the driver of the truck, was not injured. No other information about him was available.

Accomack Circuit Court

A Parksley man was sentenced last week in Accomack Circuit Court to five years in prison for threatening to burn down his girlfriend's house last year.

All but a year was suspended for Efrain Soto Lopez, 28, of Parksley. The term was set to run consecutively with the 12 months in jail he got for assault and battery of a family member. Both incidents occurred Jan. 24, 2015.

The victim, Elvia Sandoval, told police Lopez was drinking a lot of alcohol all week. She "told Lopez she did not want to be with him anymore ... Lopez grabbed her by the throat and punched her in the face." He then threatened "to burn her house down and kill her."

In another case, Jay Anthony McGlown, 23, of Belle Haven, formerly of Chincoteague, was sentenced to five years in prison for grand larceny of property belonging to Thomas Clark on April 19, 2015. All but a year was suspended. He was ordered to go through a diversion program after serving the time. Supervised probation was set for three years. McGlown was ordered to pay restitution of $640 to Clark.

Lewis said Drummond came to his home and an argument ensued. "I was standing to my door and he pulled out a knife," the victim reported to police. "He kept throwing things at my house. He said when it gets dark, he is going to burn my trailer."

Drummond also was charged with assault and intentionally destroying property, both misdemeanors. Bail was set at $1,000 secured.

Kenyon Lamar Holden, 23, of Melfa was charged with arson of an unoccupied building on April 19. He is being held without bond.

Patrick Richard Corey, 28, of Horn-town is charged with making a bomb threat intentionally causing damage and disorderly conduct on April 8. Secured bond was set at $2,500.

Northampton County Closes in on FY2017 Budget

By Ron West

Northampton supervisors are rapidly reaching a consensus on the proposed FY2017 tax rate.

At Tuesday's session, Chairman Spencer Murray reported that the board has shaved as much as possible from the budget presented by the various departments to the point that taxes might need to be raised less than one-half of a cent per $100 of assessed value. It was generally agreed that the board would advertise for no more than a 2-cent increase in the event that items are added back into the budget as a result of the public hearing that will be held May 23.

Given the adjustments made as a result of the recent property assessments, the actual tax rate could range from 83 cents to 85 cents per $100. The average property value fell about 20 percent due to the re-assessment. Those wishing to see just what their new taxes would be can contact the office of Commissioner of the Revenue Charlene Gray after the board settles on a final tax rate.

The board will hold a public hearing on the re-assessment on May 17.

Supervisor Granville Hogg questioned Gray regarding tax rebates for citizens on a very limited income. Gray said that depending on the individual's income, tax relief up to $400 is available for the coming tax year. She added that 78 citizens had applied for tax relief based on their income, and that if all are approved for the full amount, $31,000 would be added to the budget for next year.

The proposed FY2017 budget includes four new Emergency Medical Services (EMS) positions, four new patrol vehicles for the Sheriff's Department, 2 percent raises for county personnel, and the addition of two short-term positions for the commissioner of the revenue, a school resource officer, a part-time building inspector, and a code compliance official.

Virginia Department of Transportation (VDOT) Residency Administrator Chris Isdell reviewed the Six-Year Secondary Road plan with the Board. The one project that has been fully funded by the state is a new road connecting Route 642 (Old Cape Charles Road) to Stone Road (the main roadway entering Cape Charles). It has been bid and barring unforeseen problems, construction should begin later this year. The total cost for the project is just over $11.4 million.

The board voted to repeal a portion of the county Zoning Ordinance regarding wells and septic systems after it was pointed out that the matter is covered by Virginia Department of Health policies.

Additionally, the board voted to vacate a subdivision, know as Brockenberry Estates, consisting of two plats on Route 600 between Eastville and Cheriton, owned by Hyler Stanavage, who requested the change.

During the public comment portion of the session, two speakers addressed the board regarding the proposed Royal Farms convenience store proposed near Kiptopeke State Park.

Kiptopeke resident Senora Lewis offered a petition with the names of residents who oppose the store. She noted the risk of accidents that could result from a convenience store and gas facility, including campers and trucks turning off of Lankford Highway into the facility.

Robert Pfund, also of Kiptopeke, likewise spoke in opposition to the operation of a commercial enterprise for the same reasons. Hogg proposed that the special use permit (SUP) that had been issued by the board for the Royal Farms facility, as well as one issued for a new Rural Health Center in Eastville, be revoked by the board. Murray noted that while some were opposed to both of the projects, once the board had issues an SUP, he knew of no way to revoke it.

The board again addressed the ongoing issue of what to do regarding the proposed EMS garage in Machipongo. Proposals ranging from $250,000 to nearly $500,000 have been received from Beauchamp Construction, based in Pocomoke City, Md.

Hogg noted that the irregularly shaped property would require extensive site work as it had previously been the location of a service station, and a portion of the old Route 13 transverses the property. Because the roadbed and concrete from the old roadway remain on the property, removal would require extensive excavation and fill.

The board agreed to continue reviewing the project. Murray noted his desire to find a solution that would cost considerably less than the proposals that had been presented.

In a related area, the board agreed to accept a proposal by Emergency Services, Inc. to conduct a survey of the EMS needs of the county. Exmore EMS provider Greg DeYoung spoke in opposition to the move, noting that the company is not qualified to conduct such a study.

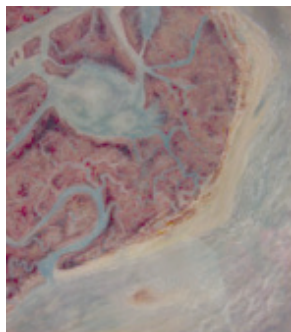

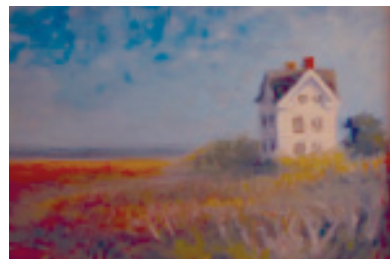

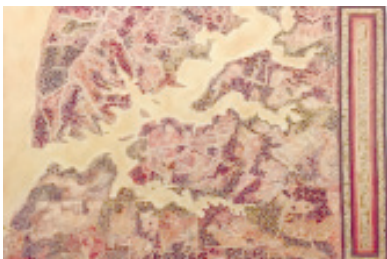

Murray initiated discussion regarding a speed study for Route 618 just south of Exmore in the area of Tankard Nursery. He cited safety issues in the area where tractors and other slow equipment operate. The posted speed on Route 618 in the area goes from 45 miles per hour to 55, and then back down to 35 on the approach to the traffic signal.

Murray also briefly discussed the need to review an inspection report on the condition of the roof of the former middle school in Machipongo. It was agreed to issue a request for proposals for repairs to the roof above the gym and adjacent classrooms.

Kegotank Elementary PTA Prepared To Fight for New Gym

By Linda Cicaira

About 580 students who attend Kegotank Elementary School were sent home with a letter last week from the PTA.

It warned parents of the unnecessary hardships that would occur if the school's new gym is not built before renovation is started.

The total project has already been a sore subject among Accomack officials because bonds were issued for the projects by county supervisors who were told Accomack County Public Schools (ACPS) could not afford them. It was later realized that state money had been stockpiled by the division and the funds were available.

At a recent district meeting conducted by Supervisor Ron Wolff, it also was learned that renovation projects, including turning the old gym into offices and a cafeteria, were set to be completed this summer. The new gym would be started later because of the five-month schedule that includes bidding and permit processes, ACPS Chief of Management and Operations Mike Tolbert told the gathering.

"That's just not fair for the teachers," Elizabeth Taylor, a local parent, told Tolbert that night. "I feel that the students are being sacrificed for this."

In the letter to parents, Kegotank's PTA wrote, "It has come to our attention that there is a plan in the works to renovate our school gymnasium over the summer into offices for the Special Education Department. As you may know, Kegotank is supposed to get several renovations done including a bigger cafeteria and kitchen and a new gym. However, this renovation is starting before a new gymnasium is built."

"What does this mean?" the letter asks and then answers. "No gymnasium for P.E. class!!!!!! No award programs. No grade-level music programs. No Pre-K graduation. No 5th grade graduation. No DARE graduation. No events for PTA or BETA. No special performances like animal shows, basketball shows, etc. No school assemblies. No Goodies for Grandparents or Pastries for Parents (programs.) No Title 1 programs. No school pictures of our kids. No Pre-K or Kindergarten registration. No after school programs (Winter Fun Day or after school movies). No Science Fair. No "Benchmark Boogies." (And) no "Fintastic" parties."

"We need to stop this now!" the letter continues. "We are asking all families to voice their opinion to the School Board to stop this renovation until a new gymnasium is built. So far, the School Board has no concern about how much this renovation is taking away from our students. The School Board can get trailers to house the Special Education Department offices. The PTA plans on doing everything possible to stop this and we are asking for your help. We will do petitions, letters, phone calls, meetings, etc. — whatever it takes. We will hold a meeting at the school in the very near future, so please be on the lookout for that date."

The letter, which was dated in April but sent out May 4, asks the parents to call Superintendent Chris Holland and Tolbert. "We need everyone's help," it states.

Parents reportedly have bombarded the central office with calls.

The letter also notes, "The school has no control over this, so please do not call Kegotank to complain. The plan is coming from the School Board. Our (Kegotank) administrators' hands are tied. They do not have the power to stop this. But, we do if we raise enough noise. ... If you want to stop the School Board from taking our gymnasium away from our kids, then please provide your support. We CANNOT do this without you!!!"

By Sen.
Lynwood Lewis

This will be my final report on the activities of the 2016 General Assembly.

We completed all of our work in Richmond at approximately 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 20, when we adjourned sine die after completing work on the governor's vetoes and suggested amendments, which is known, generally, as the "Veto Session" but, more formally, referred to in the Virginia State Constitution as the "Reconvened Session."

Gov. McAuliffe vetoed 32 pieces of legislation and made many amendments to various other legislation. Many of the amendments were minor and technical in nature. Many of the controversies around the Veto Session are often political in nature in that they are more designed to excite each political party's base of voters rather than initiate a serious policy discussion. The polarized times in which we live were highlighted, to some extent, during the Veto Session.

Legislation important to the Shore was untouched during the Veto Session. While the governor made amendments to the budget bill, as well as other legislation, none affected the appropriations for the Eastern Shore, which I highlighted in my last report.

Work during the off-session for the 6th Senate District begins in earnest. Spring is a busy time as many groups and organizations have their spring meetings. In addition, I will be organizing my usual round of town halls across the district. Please be on the lookout for these dates and times as the meetings help me better represent our district.

Along with Del. Rob Bloxom, I will be continuing to work on issues involving the National Park Service and the aquaculture and commercial fishing activities in Tom's Cove on Chincoteague, as well as various other local issues.

I am pleased to report that the issues involving the GO Virginia initiative were resolved between the governor and the legislative leadership. I believe that this initiative and the $32 million appropriated to support it offer promise for regional economic development efforts. I am hopeful that our two counties will, as this program becomes fleshed out, be able to tap in to some of the funding available.

I have been re-appointed by the Senate leadership to the Committee to Study Recurrent Flooding and also to the Governor's Modeling and Simulation Advisory Committee. In addition, I am a new appointee to the State Water Commission which, as the name implies, deals with all issues regarding water quality and access. I am looking forward to serving in this new capacity.

I am back in Accomac full-time and can be contacted toll-free at 866-787-1094, P.O. Box 760, Accomac, VA 23301, district06@senate.virginia.gov

IS STEALING A PET EVER JUSTIFIED?

By Linda Cicaira

"If you forgive the fox for stealing your chickens, he will take your sheep," is a Georgian proverb that might explain the way a considerable number of Accomack and Northampton folks feel about dognapping.

Those who participated in a recent email survey conducted by the Eastern Shore Post were asked, "Should a defendant be convicted of stealing a dog if that person admitted the crime but claims the dog was not being properly taken care of?" The overwhelming majority replied, "Yes."

"The dog was someone's property," wrote Wanda Johnson of Eastville. "If the dog was not properly cared for, then the SPCA or sheriff's department should have been contacted."

"Of course they should be" convicted, said Bill Mapp of Exmore. "They committed a crime. Why is this even being questioned? If someone took your house or car because it was not being properly taken care of, wouldn't they be convicted? If they feel there is a problem, there are legal channels for resolution. If we all become vigilantes and do what we feel needs to be done, who knows what would happen? If you let one crime be committed 'because (it) wasn't being properly taken care of' then what crime will be let off next for the same reason? Should we allow kidnapping of poorly taken care of children next?"

"Stealing is a crime, no matter what the reason," wrote Karen Simpson of Quinby. "The sentence should be lessened if the animal was not properly being taken care of. The person abusing the animal needs to be punished as well. There is no excuse in the world for abusing animals. Apparently animal abusers have not learned the lesson to treat others as you would like to be treated."

"The person should be convicted because a crime was committed," said Lynn Bowen of Townsend. "If the animal was not being taken care of properly, animal services should have been contacted. The person could have monitored the situation, documented the treatment of the dog, and continued to contact authorities. Should the person serve time in jail? No."

Judy Brunk of Jamesville said, "Yes"

to conviction. "Because it was a matter of opinion and should have been done through legal means with an investigation."

"Yes," wrote Edean Bundick of Greenbackville. "Stealing is stealing. Report it to the officials and let the situation be pursued in a legal manner."

"Yes, they should be convicted because it was not their dog to take," wrote Brenda Dize of Onancock. "They should have called the animal shelter if they thought the dog was in danger of any kind."

Patsy Goard of Hallwood wrote, "No one should take the law in their own hands and steal from anyone. Report the suspected abuse to the sheriff's department for processing."

"If the abuse was reported to the proper authorities and nothing was done, then there should be no conviction," Jan of Onancock replied. "If the dog was just taken, there should be a conviction."

"Stealing is stealing," wrote Robert Doughty of South Chesconessex. "There are other measures that can be taken."

"Stealing is wrong and not justifiable," Greg L Duncan Sr. of Accomack noted. "If there is a passion (or) concern, then report it to the proper authorities and let them take the necessary action," he said.

"Hmm," wrote Carrie Jacobson of Wachapreague. "I think the person should be convicted, and pay a fine, but I think the police should be automatically involved to investigate the former, allegedly abusive, owner."

"Stealing is stealing regardless of the circumstances," wrote Christine Caton Murphy of Captain's Cove. "The person should report the animal abuse to the proper authorities and then offer to take care of the dog until such time as a verdict could be rendered in a court of law."

But not everyone was convinced a conviction would be in order. "NO!" wrote Jennifer Young of Assawoman.

"An animal is not a possession. Animal rights are a basic standard for a civilized society."

Denise Bowden of Chincoteague also said, "No. I am a huge animal lover and if I saw an animal being mistreated, I would probably take the dog myself. Animals have no voice, they have those big eyes full of love and they look at us to take care of them. I have absolutely no use for any human being who mistreats an animal in any way, shape or form. If you want a pet, then get one with the intention of making it part of the family and treating it as such."

Constituents' Session Will Feature State Reps.

Ron Wolff will host his monthly constituents' meeting Monday, May 16, at 7 p.m. at a different location: Captain's Cove Community Center.

State Sen. Lynwood Lewis and Del. Bloxom will be the speakers.

Maddox Campground Sold

By Linda Cicaira

Maddox Family Campground on Chincoteague recently sold for $7 million, according to documents filed in the Accomack Circuit Court on May 3.

Wayne Maddox and Mary Lou Birch, individually and under trust deed, and Thomas Savage, Annie Parkes and Christy Marvomatis sold the two parcels to Oceanside Resort, LLC.

The limited liability corporation, formed in Virginia on Feb. 25, is headquartered in Berlin, Md. and connected to developers Todd and John Burbage.

The approximately 100 acres includes marshland on the east and west side of Maddox Boulevard and have been a source of concern to Chincoteague residents who fear development of the wetlands.

Tyson Donates $21,000 to Literacy Council

The Eastern Shore Literacy Council has been awarded $21,000 from Tyson Foods.

Rollie Guinn, human resources manager of Tyson's Temperanceville plant, was instrumental in forwarding the request to headquarters. He said Tyson takes a personal interest in the communities where it is located and he firmly believes that "improved literacy is key to improving the quality of life for residents of the Eastern Shore."

This grant enables the Literacy Council to expand services by hiring experienced teachers to instruct two formal English to Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL) classes for up to 25 learners each.

Betty Mariner, Literacy Council Board president and a retired English as a Second Language (ESL) teacher, is excited that "these funds from Tyson lead us into a new era. We are in our 30th year of providing free reading, writing and English tutoring to Shore residents through one-to-one or small group instruction. This grant will allow us to reach a significantly greater number of Hispanic and Haitian residents, many of whom work at Tyson. Even more exciting is that at our Metompkin Elementary School site, where Tyson funds are providing supervised child care, several learners are interested in becoming citizens. That's a win-win opportunity for Tyson Foods, their workers, and our entire community."

"Tyson Foods has supported our Drive for Literacy Golf Tournament for a number of years, but the award of $21,000 is their biggest commitment to the Literacy Council in our history," said Executive Director Jennifer Giddens. "The financial support of Tyson Foods helps us attain our goal of empowering adult residents to more fully and confidently participate in our community and attain higher levels of education and employment."

Eastern Shore Literacy Council actively recruits both adult learners who wish to improve their English reading and writing skills and volunteer tutors. The council will train anyone interested in tutoring. Call 789-1761 or visit www.shoreliteracy.org for more information.

Habitat for Humanity Continues Its Mission To Provide Homes

Just after sunrise Saturday, a small army of volunteers descended on the community of Treherneville, hammers in hand, eager to do their part to help improve housing for one family.

Nancy Gonzalez, executive director for the Eastern Shore Habitat for Humanity, busied herself signing in volunteers while Will Gleim choreographed the workers who were racing the weather, hoping to get a floor attached to the foundation. The footings had been poured and the blocks laid two weeks earlier during breaks in the weather.

Dozens of workers from the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel (CBBT), Northampton County Sheriff's Department, U.S. Navy, and Northampton High School, as well as HNTB and Jacobs Engineering contractors helping with the new tunnel at the CBBT, buzzed about the site like worker bees, measuring, sawing, and hammering.

The home, and a second, which is 50 percent complete in upper Accomack County, are the latest efforts by Habitat for Humanity to improve housing, one family at a time. Habitat houses are constructed, for the most part by volunteers, many of whom have little or no previous background in the building trades, but who want to make a difference in their community.

According to Gonzalez, the families that are selected to receive a Habitat house must contribute hundreds of hours toward fundraising or construction of their home. In addition, they must make mortgage payments like other homebuyers. The difference is that the homes are built by volunteers who donate their time and expertise in the interest of helping their fellow citizens.

Those who feel the urge to try hammering a nail (hopefully not their own), or who want to make some sawdust, should visit www.easternshorehabitat.org

Baseball fans love to debate what record will never be broken.

The one mark many fans point to is Cy Young's 511 career wins. There can be little argument that in today's game, no pitcher will ever approach that mark. With hurlers going to the mound every five days and relief specialists coming in as early as the sixth inning, some doubt that baseball will ever see another 300-game winner. No active Major League pitcher has as many as 200 wins. CC Sabathia of the New York Yankees, at 194 wins, leads the current major league pitchers.

Keep in mind, however, Young played from 1890 to 1911, when pitchers had no set schedule and threw as often as their managers would trot them out to the mound. Young once won both games of a double header.

Coming closer to modern times, another record that some feel is unbreakable is Cal Ripken's consecutive games played streak of 2,632. Of course, many felt the mark of 2,130 set by Lou Gehrig from 1925 to 1939 was unattainable. But Ripken proved to be the modern day Iron Man and eclipsed Gehrig's mark in 1995.

It is another Oriole who currently holds the longest game streak in the majors. Manny Machado has played in 183 straight games as of earlier this week. But imagine this: He would have to play in every game until 2031 to break Ripken's record. Don't think that will happen.

The all-time home run record has been stigmatized by the steroid age. Babe Ruth held the career record of 714 for 31 years before Hank Aaron set a new mark of 755, retiring in 1976. Roger Maris set the single-season mark of 61 homers in 1961, though many like to point out he broke Ruth's former record of 60 playing in eight more games. Those marks were obliterated when Barry Bonds came along and clubbed 73 homers in 2001 and reached 762 career homers before retiring in 2007. Three years earlier, Mark McGwire had broken Maris' record with 70 homers. Sammy Sosa also hit 66 in that 1998 season. But many still see Aaron as the true home run king and Maris as the single-season record holder because of the rampant steroid use in that era when homers were flying out of the park.

SPORTS

There's also Hack Wilson's 191 RBIs in the 1930 season, Rogers Hornsby's .424 batting average in 1924 and Joe DiMaggio's hitting streak of 56 games in 1941, all records that many feel will never be approached again.

I would like to offer one record to the list of unbreakable marks that few fans bring up when discussing this topic. And it was set less than a decade ago, so we are not talking about the early years of baseball.

That would be Bobby Cox's career record of 161 ejections. Cox, who managed 27 years for the Atlanta Braves and Toronto Blue Jays, was tossed from the game by the umpires more than any manager or player ever. Cox retired only six years ago, but his mark seems safe because of the introduction of instant replay.

I was watching a baseball game on TV recently and had to endure two delays of over four minutes waiting for an umpire crew to review a close play. Baseball fans know the game is slow, but the replay review is making it slower.

I am all for getting the play right, but for over a century, fans accepted that umpires called the play the best they could and human error plays a part in the game, not unlike a fielder booting the ball.

The reason Cox's ejection record is safe is because managers no longer need to argue with the umpire making the call. They emerge from the dugout calmly, delaying the game until a coach can look at the play and determine if it is worth reviewing. After chatting with the umpire about what could be the dinner reservations after the game, the manager gets the signal whether to have the play reviewed.

The umpires then stand around while a replay crew in New York City reviews the play from all possible angles. Meanwhile, a runner on base can be seen casually chatting with a fielder, possibly also sharing information about hotspots to frequent post-game. After what seems like an eternity, the umpire signals that the call on the field either stands or is reversed. Everyone then accepts the call without argument, and the game finally continues.

Today's young fans will never know what it's like to see Earl Weaver storm out of the dugout and rush the umpire, sputtering in anger at a close call. Or Billy Martin reverse his hat and go chin-to-chin with an umpire, each giving as much as he's getting. Scenes of Lou Piniella kicking dirt on the home plate just before the umpire sends him to the showers have no place in the civility of today's game.

There can be as many as 15 Major League games being played at any one time. As I understand it, there is one replay crew in New York City that rules on all reviews. What happens if there are three plays that occur simultaneously that need reviewing? Does the umpire at the game get a recorded message, "You are caller number three, and there will be a wait of approximately 10 minutes before a representative is available" and then "Jeopardy" music begins playing.

Getting the call right is good when it helps your team, but I miss the rubarbs of yesteryear when managers and umpires added some zest to the game.

I know very little about hockey, but the other day during a lengthy baseball review, I switched channels and saw players skating across the screen with the fans buzzing and the announcers shouting before a fight broke out. Then it got even wilder.

I then turned back to the baseball game, and sure enough, the fans were still sitting on their hands, the players from both teams were standing around talking about who knows what, and the umpires were gazing skyward, waiting on a ruling from New York City.

I tell you, it's enough to make a grown man cry, but we all know there's no crying in baseball. Only waiting.

Nandua, Chincoteague Win As Rain Postpones Matchups

Rainy weather is wreaking havoc with the baseball schedule as the season narrows to a close. A Nandua-Chincoteague matchup was called due to rain Wednesday, the third time this season bad weather has forced a postponement between those two teams.

Nandua will travel to Chincoteague next Tuesday, a rescheduled game from a previous rain-out.

Nandua blanked Arcadia 6-0 last Thursday as five pitchers each hurled one scoreless inning. John Mark Kilmon, Mark, McCluskey, Evan McGregor, Austin Atkinson and Jake Guy combined for the shutout.

McCluskey led the offense with a 2-for-3 day and a pair of RBIs. Atkinson and Waylon White each knocked in a run. Kilmon, Guy, McCluskey and Atkinson each had a double.

Ponies Top Firebirds

Chincoteague won its 13th consecutive game with a 13-1 win over Arcadia Monday. Trevor Reed was 3 for 4 and also pitched a strong game, fanning seven in five innings. Joe Thornton was 2 for 4 with an RBI single, Dylan

For the Firebirds, Dom Semenski,

Logan Godwin, Trevor Barnes and Jeremy Steihl had hits. Steihl also made a diving catch in the outfield to save runs.

Dalton McDaniel started and took the loss with relief help from Tah're Pettit.

Nandua third baseman Amanda Baylis is late with a tag on a Central Sussex runner Monday. The Warriors dropped to 13-2 with a 7-0 loss.

Warriors Fall to Sussex

Nandua met its match in dropping only its second game of the season Monday as visiting Central Sussex of Georgetown, Del. blanked the Warriors 7-0.

Sarah Gepes had the only two hits of the game for Nandua as Sussex's Hayley McCabe kept the Warriors batters off the basepaths by not issuing any walks while striking out seven Warriors. The Knights defense was also flawless, committing no errors.

Nandua's Emily Justis pitched a complete game, striking out five.

Ponies Win Easily

Chincoteague crushed Arcadia 22-0 on Monday in a game moved to the island due to a wet field in Oak Hall.

Caroline Thornton was 3-for-4 with two RBIs and three runs scored, Ronny Malone was 3-for-4 with two RBIs and three runs scored and Krista Reed was 2-for-4 with two runs scored. Madison Tyndall pitched a shutout for the Ponies.

For the Firebirds, Logan Holland started the game pitching and had three strikeouts. Amanda Stalgaitis finished the game pitching and had one strikeout. Nyderia Samuels had two singles. Samuels and Holland also completed a double play.

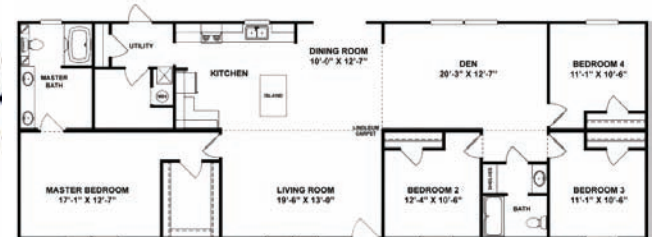

Nandua's Kimberly Wert is congratulated by her teammates after her second homer against Arcadia in a 22-0 win last week. The Lady Warriors were beaten by Central Sussex 7-0 Monday.

Northampton, Nandua Play to 2-2 Tie; Firebirds, Ponies Also Tie

Story and photos by Bill Sterling

Northampton and Nandua soccer teams battled to a 2-2 tie Monday night after two overtime periods.

Tanner Troyer put the Warriors up 1-0 with just over three minutes left in the first half.

Then Junior Gildo and Noah Lef-fell scored two quick goals in the first five minutes of the second half to give Northampton a 2-1 lead.

Nandua's Christian Esteban tied it up, forcing the overtime periods.

Northampton goalkeeper Gabe Webb saved a penalty kick in the second overtime period to stave off a Nandua win.

Northampton won the two earlier meetings of the season.

"It was a very entertaining game to watch. I believe the game helped us improve as a team," said Nandua coach Paul Nolz.

Chincoteague and Arcadia played to a 1-1 tie Monday night. Caroline Thornton scored an unassisted goal for the Ponies. Luis Lopez scored for Arcadia.

Warrior, Jacket Girls Win

Nandua and Central Sussex of Delaware played to a 1-1 tie in girls' soccer Monday in Onley. Ryan Wright put the Warriors ahead on a free kick early in the second half before Sussex quickly tied the score.

"I was proud of how everyone played,"

said Nandua coach Dana Wright.

Northampton blanked Essex 8-0 on Senior Night as Ashley Carpenter scored a pair of goals and Erica Head, Taylor Webb, Nohemi Montalvo, Kennedy Webb, Brenda Guerrero and Ashlyn Arnold scored one each. Taylor Webb also had an assist.

"It was a true team effort. All the girls played very well. They set their minds to scoring more in the second half, and created good scoring opportunities that paid off," said Northampton coach Tabi Webb.

Nandua's Carolyn Olmsted kicks the ball upfield from her defensive position in a 1-1 tie with Central Sussex of Georgetown, Del., Monday in Onley.

Lynn Atkinson Davis

Love,
Daddy and Stepmom

Daniyah Nyshea Nock
May 10, 2003–May 29, 2009

Our Dear Daniyah is as a beautiful rose picked while in its early bloom. For our God looked upon our Daniyah and said, "You must come home!"

The Lord declared her to be too precious to remain on this earth. For God had already chosen her to be with him even before her birth. Our hearts are so heavy because we can't see her grow into full bloom.

But by the grace of our God, we all hope to see her again real soon!

Happy 13th Birthday, Our Love!
With Love: Dad, Daniel Jr.;
Grandparents, Daniel Sr. &
Joanna; Aunt Cheketa; Sisters,
Danaisha, Jymirah and Malani;
Brother, Daniel III

Jerome Custis
2/23/52–5/12/15

Saying goodbye to someone you love is very difficult, but thank you, Lord, for the time we had together.

*I think of you in silence
I call out your name*

*But all I have are memories
And your picture in a frame
God has you in His keeping
And I have you in my heart
So goodbye for now my love
Until we meet again,*

Our souls will never part
Greatly missed by Cathy, Arlene and Rex.

Thanks to everyone who participated in the appreciation service for Jerome Custis.

~We love and miss you~
Sorrowfully submitted by wife, Tina Custis; Pearl Cropper; Cookie Francis; and The Gospel Anointed Singers

By Linda Cicaira

There are millions of things that people detest. Having their picture taken, cleaning, speaking in public or even going out on a blind date are among those intolerable acts that may fall upon us at one time or another.

Perhaps rain, the cold, a math test or getting older could be included in the list, too. Some hate saying “good-bye” while others avoid shaking hands. There are even those who dislike Facebook. Unbelievable, I know.

What about when the string comes out of your hoodie? Ahh! Or restaurants that make you think about the signs on the bathroom door when you don't have time to stop and consider? Some people put work and getting up early on their tally of things for which they have contempt. That latter one will get me every time.

But what I really loathe is Friday the 13th. There's a black cat in my neighborhood that makes me drive around the circular development until I'm dizzy. I don't want it to cross my path. Today is that evil day, in case you didn't realize it. Want to head on back home?

You've heard of a countdown to the new year, or for the sun-worshipping crowd, that mind-melting season called summer. Well now there's a website that counts down to May 13, 2016. Check it out at www.timeanddate.com/countdown Maybe because it's the birthday of Dennis Rodman, Stevie Wonder and Stephen Colbert?

There are also a few words I refuse to use unless I'm being caustic. “Myriad” is so pretentious. I'm not the only one who feels this way. There's the website wordfreaks.tribe.net that says using “mundane” is like saying, “Look at me, I'm sophisticated.”

“Menial” is one of those words, too. No matter how you say it, it is going to be a putdown. It's like “negative.”

My mother used to say things were “vulgar” instead of “distasteful.” So, I rather love that v-term. My favorite word is “ort,” the little piece of food left on your plate when you're trying not to look like a pig. “Yippee” runs a close second.

Most women don't like the word “moist.” The Huffington Post ranked it as “one of the most phonetically displeasing components of the English language.” Really? How else would you describe a great cake? Like my younger brother used to say, “gooddelicious?”

The girls are said to also hate the words “curd,” “chunky” and “flap.” I'm not repelled by those. But how about the four words men hate most? “We need to talk” or “what are you thinking?” Yup.

Recently in an Eastern Shore Post survey, participants were asked, “What is the biggest thing that others do that offends you?” One man quickly answered, “besides sending me surveys?”

He was kidding.

A woman said she is offended by “use of the F-word anytime, anywhere.” Yes, that is more common than ever these days. But, is it worse than “flap”?

People also said they feel distress when others are rude, act like leeches and tell lies.

I can go with all that. Another participant said “apathy, intolerance and greed” are her pet peeves.

I really appreciated another answer, too. “Ask my opinion on a subject and then make me defend my response because they disagree with me.” Oh yeah. That always gets me and when I said so, I've been told, “I'm just playing devil's advocate.”

That devil guy is rude, crude, socially unacceptable, indecent, indelicate, offensive, distasteful and coarse. Which reminds me I like to say, “Hallelujah and God save the queen.”

Franktown UMC Grateful for Help with Spring Fling

Dear Editor:

Once again, Franktown United Methodist Church hosted a successful, fun, lively Spring Fling for our special-needs individuals on the Shore.

Franktown United Methodist Women provided the food, decorations, corsages and boutonnieres and Bill LeCato was the evening's DJ, as we “Danced the Night Away.”

The Arc is so very grateful for this selfless gift, which Franktown has been hosting for over 20 years. What a fun way to participate in the lives of our special needs community! Thank you, Franktown UMC!

Suzanne Joyner, The Arc, Office Secretary

Thornton Thanks Voters

Dear Editor:

I would like to thank the residents who supported me in the May 3 election. I would also like to congratulate all the candidates who won and wish them well.

Wanda Thornton, Chincoteague
