Davis Acquitted of Murder

An Accomack Circuit Court jury acquitted an Atlantic area man Wednesday of premeditated murder in the shooting death of his neighbor nearly two years ago.

The panel deliberated over the circumstantial case for about 90 minutes before finding Marcus Mitchell Davis, 28, of Nocks Landing Road not guilty of killing 35-year-old Jacques DuVual Fauntleroy and using a firearm in the murder.

Davis

Davis also was charged with being a felon and transporting a firearm on Sept. 17, 2014. That charge was not part of the two-day trial. However, once the verdict came back, defense lawyer James Broccoletti of Norfolk asked that the transportation offense be dismissed. Deputy Commonwealth's Attorney Matthew Brenner reluctantly agreed not to prosecute the charge.

The defendant had been held without bond in Accomack Jail since he was arrested a short time after Fauntleroy's body was found at his house on Sept. 18, 2014. There was no DNA nor fingerprint evidence to link Davis to the death. The 45-caliber murder weapon was never found.

Fauntleroy had been shot 12 times, mostly in the back, according to testimony. He died of gunshot wounds to the torso,

Northampton Strives To Maintain Tax Rate

By Ron West

The Northampton County Board of Supervisors met briefly Tuesday to conduct a public hearing on the tax rate.

Based on 2016 re-assessment figures, County Finance Director John Andrzejewski said total real-estate values in the county dropped by 16.72 percent, a $400 million decrease countywide.

Under state law, the equalized tax rate can generate no more than 101 percent of the previous year's revenue, excluding new construction. Consequently, the equalized tax rate per $100 in value is 82.53 cents.

Board Chairman Spencer Murray said the board wants to minimize the impact on county property owners as much as possible. While no tax rate has been voted on, discussions by the board have indicated a desire to hold it at between 83 and 85 cents per $100 of property value.

Several samples of properties were provided at the session, some of which showed a slight decrease in the tax, while others showed an increase.

County Commissioner of the Revenue Charlene Gray said the actual tax bill on a given property will depend on the re-assessment and the final tax rate established by the board.

The public hearing on the FY2017 budget originally scheduled for May 23 has been rescheduled for May 31 and will begin at 7 p.m. in Eastville. A final vote on the FY2017 budget and tax rate will be held in June. Those wishing to ascertain what their new property tax will be may contact the Commissioner of the Revenue's Office, once the board reaches a final decision on the tax rate.

SUPERVISORS TACKLE HOST OF COUNTY ISSUES

After witnessing a fatal traffic accident that killed a young college student earlier this year, Linda Stevens, a local pastor, says she wants a traffic light at the intersection of Lankford Highway and Daugherty Road.

She asked Accomack supervisors Wednesday to help. And they did, directing Public Works Director Stewart Hall to make the request of the Virginia Department of Transportation.

“On Feb. 18, I was involved in a car accident,” Stevens said. “Within five minutes or less, the second accident occurred with a tractor-trailer ... and caused a fatality.”

“I had heard that same spot had produced a lot of accidents,” she said, adding that she called the state to find out.

Stevens learned that 24 crashes occurred within a half-mile of the site between 2011 and 2015. Sixteen of those were directly at the intersection. Another fatal crash occurred in 2013, she said.

“I really don’t want to see another fatality,” Stevens continued. “I was not injured. Neither were the other four college students. ... He did not get out of the car. He was killed instantly. ... Statistics warrant something be done. Eight hours after my accident, on Feb. 19, two more accidents occurred at the same spot. But no fatalities, thank God.”

The supervisors also agreed to pay about $30,000 toward bringing conditions of Fooks Lane up to standards so it can join the state secondary road system. Supervisor Reneta Major said it would cost about $400,000 for the upgrades and that about half would be provided by the state. Special assessment would be made to adjacent landowners for up to 15 years to come up with the rest of the funds.

Linda Meham of Machipongo said she takes care of a handicapped girl who lives on the road. “Her mother has already lost a significant other because the ambulance couldn’t reach her. I’m due for a front-end alignment. Pot holes are six to eight inches deep. ... Speed this up. These people have made this place their home. ... I don’t want it on my watch if something happens to this child. ... I know it’s a lot of money. I would give it to you if I had it.”

“Her daughter is in dire need,” said John Owens of Painter. “It’s a horrible road. I’m lucky I have a four-wheel drive. ... UPS would not go down it with life-saving supplies ... minutes could mean everything.”

Animal activist Shawn Coyte of Mappsville was back Wednesday, asking the board to consider a draft ordinance that would require dog owners to bring chained dogs in from dusk un-

Vintage Plane Looking a Bit Plain

The old guy needs a facelift.

Last year when the Navy sent a team to inspect the decades-old A4-F Skyhawk on display at the county airport, they were pleasantly surprised.

“There were no structural issues and all original parts are in intact, including the rivets,” Airport Manager Barbara Haxter told the Accomack Board of Supervisors Wednesday.

Reflecting the weariness felt by many at Wednesday’s lengthy Board of Supervisors meeting, K’loure Harmon of Fooks Lane in Painter waits for the board to decide if his road will be upgraded.

til dawn and other safety and welfare issues for canines. The supervisors nixed the idea.

“Can you imagine?” asked Supervisor Robert Crockett, a former Accomack sheriff. “It would have to go through the sheriff’s office. Can you imagine the number of deputies that would be needed? It’s an impossibility. Why adopt an ordinance you know you can’t enforce?”

“Let a sleeping dog lie,” said Chairman Ron Wolff

“We are disappointed with the decision of the ... supervisors,” Coyte said later. “The current ordinance is very vague. We will be pursuing it further.”

“Ninety-five percent of the required maintenance is cosmetic, with some minor corrosion control.”

Accomack acquired the aircraft from the National Naval Aviation Museum in the 1990s. The loan agreement requires the county to maintain it in “display-ready condition.” Haxter said the task would cost $25,000, which includes a pedestal.

The supervisors could approve fundraising efforts for the restoration or request that the museum find another location. The consensus appeared to be to continue to try to find a way to take care of the plane.

The Navy now requires a Scope of Work to be submitted that specifies the methods and level of expertise of those restoring the aircraft, as they have experienced issues with past restoration efforts, Haxter said. She listed dozens of organizations that have already been contacted for assistance.

Supervisor Robert Crockett wanted to know if it would cost the county to have it sent back. Haxter thought “the cost of moving would be very significant.” She suggested selling bricks for a fundraiser.

“It’s sort of a hidden gem back there,” said Supervisor Paul Muhly. “I’d like to see it moved to the highway if they restore it.”

Chairman Ron Wolff recommended doing what Tangier did to raise money. Have a “fly-in for lunch or dinner or whatever ... quite a number of people flew into Tangier when we offered crab cakes for dinner.” Wolff also said he would check with his contacts at Oceana.

“When you say fly into Melfa, it’s not going to be the same thing as flying into Tangier,” laughed Supervisor Laura Belle Gordy.

In other business, the supervisors:

- changed the setbacks for poultry houses to 500 feet from property lines instead of 500 feet from structures where schools, churches, nursing homes, day care centers, campgrounds, public recreation areas, and public wells are concerned, as was previously agreed upon when changes were made to the ordinance earlier this year;

- moved polling places in Onley and Onancock to Nandua Middle School;

- moved the voting booths at Arcadia High School to New Church Volunteer Fire & Rescue Company;

- established two more seats on the Accomack Wallops Working Group, one for a member of the Air Navy at the request for Caroline Massey of NASA, and one for a supervisor, appointing Harris Phillips;

- approved a resolution supporting a grant application for the development of a small business incubator or community kitchen that Northampton is interested in developing in the former middle school in Machipongo.

Northampton Grand Jury

Two quiet indictments handed down against a Cape Charles man by a Northampton Grand Jury earlier were made public this week.

Khiry Di-Frederick Washington, 21, of Cape Charles was indicted on counts of burglary, a felony, and destruction of property worth less than $1,000, a misdemeanor.

The defendant also goes by the name Khirey Washington. The alleged offenses occurred on Feb. 23. He was indicted May 6 and arrested May 9. Washington is being held in Eastern Shore Regional Jail.

Accomack Circuit Court

A Parksley woman will serve a year in jail for three counts of felony child endangerment and a count of eluding

Andrea Lee Timmons, 34, of Germaine Lane was sentenced to three years for each of the Sept. 3, 2015, offenses in Accomack Circuit Court last week. All but six months of the endangerment counts and all but six months of the eluding charge were suspended. The two terms were set to run consecutively.

Northampton Circuit Court

Regineka Lekia Upshur, 25, of Painter was sentenced in Northampton Circuit Court this week for felony convictions. She got five years in prison on each of two counts of shooting at an occupied vehicle. All the time was suspended for one count and all but two years was suspended for the other.

Upshur got a suspended five-year sentence for attempted malicious wounding and a 12-month suspended sentence for carrying a concealed weapon. The crimes occurred April 17, 2015. Upshur is in Eastern Shore Regional Jail.

Habitat Garden Tour May 28

The Habitat for Humanity Small Garden Tour will be held Saturday, May 28.

Visitors will be welcome to explore the gardens of Dr. William Turner II, Peter and Betty Mariner, Curtis and Lynn Badger, Dallas and Peggy Swan, and Bob and Linda Mormile from 9:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

Backed by the waters of Craddock Creek, Dr. Turner's Craddockville home, which has been in his family since 1850, is surrounded by buckeye, hackberry and pecan trees, along with apple, pear, peach and cherry trees. Fragrant lilacs, hydrangea and osmanthus dot the property.

Peter and Betty Mariner's home in Pungoteague could be appropriately named "Peter's Playground," as Mr. Mariner has put his interests in gardening and carpentry to the test, building both structures and gardens on the lawn.

In Melfa, Curtis and Lynn Badger are both Master Naturalists. They have a combination of wood-land, wet-land, decorative garden and kitchen gardens to share with you.

In the Onancock area, stroll through the half-mile of pathways in a walking garden at the home of Dallas and Peggy Swan. Along the path you will find hollies, hydrangeas, phlox, azalea, grasses, native wildflowers and much more.

Bob and Linda Mormile in East Point have transformed former beach-house property to include free-form gardens, raised beds for salt tolerant plants, and a sizeable koi pond.

An $8 lunch will be available at St. George's Episcopal Church in Pungoteague, and a portable bird-bath will be raffled off at the end of the event. Tickets are $25 through May 27 at nurseries up and down the Shore — Appleseed, Giving Tree, Hortco, Sunnyside, and Thomas Gardens — and at the Habitat ReStore in Exmore. Tickets are available on location the day of the event for $30 each.

Kegotank, Metompkin PTAs Vent to School Board

By Linda Cicaira

PTAs from two Accomack elementary schools were vocal Tuesday night during a School Board session about their dismay with the hierarchy. Outside the meeting, others discussed circulating petitions to get an elected board.

Kegotank Elementary parents are upset that renovations for offices and a bigger cafeteria and kitchen would close the gym for a year before a new gym is built, causing numerous programs to be unavailable in the upcoming term. In the end, it was announced that the division had been working on plans that would keep that from happening.

Construction of the new gym would begin as soon as proper documents and permits are ready, probably in the fall. Demolition and renovation of the existing gym would not begin until school is out for the summer in 2017. Officials said the new gym would not have a stage but the huge new lunchroom would have a portable stage and tables that could be wheeled away. Offices would be put elsewhere.

But it wasn't just the construction that perturbed the parents. It was the perceived lack of communication.

The PTA sent a letter out early this month, alerting parents about the gym closure. In turn, Superintendent Chris Holland send a letter last Friday to all the parents, claiming the PTA message contained "inaccurate information."

"There might as well not have been any other words on the page," said Jennifer Stapleton, Kegotank's PTA president. "No other words mattered except those two ... very little information was provided in the letter. One piece of missing information was explaining exactly what inaccurate information was given to the parents."

"When parents called the School Board after the PTA letter came home to voice ... concern, were they told they received inaccurate information?" Stapleton asked. "When I talked to the head of Central Office on May 6 and May 11, was I told that I have given the parents inaccurate information?" she continued. "When the School Board engineer announced twice in a public meeting held in April, with two Board of Supervisor members in attendance as well as parents and Accomack school employees, that Kegotank would not have a gym next school year, was he interrupted either time to say that he was providing inaccurate information? When we were told by the custodians on April 13, April 22 and April 28, among other dates, that we had to remove all PTA items from the gym so that construction could start, were they giving us inaccurate information?" she asked.

"The answer to these four questions is NO!" Stapleton said. "Our letter contained no inaccurate information. We gave information to our parents so that we could save our gym. ... In the two years that this plan has been in progress, ... did the School Board hold a meeting with the parents? ... NO!" she said.

"The parents had a right to know," Stapleton said, adding, "That was the purpose of our letter. What was the purpose of the letter that was sent home Friday? ... That letter did more harm to this already delicate situation. The letter was unprofessional. ... The School Board should have a willingness and desire to mend fences with parents, PTAs and employees, not look for a way to turn us against each other."

Holland's correspondence stated the PTA letter "contained many inaccuracies. ... Had this letter followed proper channels and been presented to the building administrator for review as is required by Accomack County Schools' policy, these inaccuracies would have been discovered and corrected prior to distribution."

The superintendent wrote, "At my direction ... staff has been reviewing and preparing alternatives for this project for nearly a month. Legal questions concerning the funding of this project prevented disclosure of these alternatives until the issues were resolved."

Elizabeth Taylor, another PTA member and parent, said she had asked about alternatives and was told none were available.

Holland's letter encouraged the parents to attend Tuesday's meeting, where an alternative would be presented. The board voted for the change, with members Camesha Handy and Ronnie Holden participating through a conference call. Chairwoman Margaret Miles and Member Paul Bull were absent.

"You can put offices anywhere," Holland told the crowd when discussing the planned 3,500-square-foot lunch and multi-purpose room. "But you can't put kids anywhere ... If you're going to have a dance, refrigeration and ice would be right there for activities ... I can make money with a cafeteria. I can do dances. I can have bingo. It's been a win/win situation at Chincoteague. We love it over there," the superintendent and former Chincoteague principal said.

But he was soon reminded that parking is a problem at Kegotank. Big events used to mean parking at a nearby bank. But the bank manager has been complaining and threatening to tow vehicles from there.

Metompkin Elementary School PTA President Meredith O'Brien, the parent of a first grader and rising kindergarten student, asked what the School Board's plan is for that school, which is a priority facility.

"According to greatschools.org it is rated a 2 out of 10. They have the highest elementary student population in Accomack ... and prior to pre-K and kindergarten registration, Metompkin was shown to be at 93.5 percent capacity," said O'Brien. "Based on the amount of new children I have seen in my neighborhood recently, that number will not be going down."

Despite the superintendent's opinion on the "importance of arts to a well-rounded education, Metompkin Elementary has no art room," she said, praising Jillian Stabler, the school's art teacher, who has been instructing students from a mobile cart for more than a decade and still "managed to produce students that place at the county and state levels for Reflections and Beta ... there is no designated music room either. Class is held behind the stage in the cafetorium. And in the computer lab there is zero elbow room for these poor kids to work. ... It is completely unacceptable."

O'Brien also complained that the school has the highest student/teacher ratio and the highest teacher turnover rate. She said that for 45 percent of the students, English as a second language.

"How can we possibly expect teachers to effectively communicate with parents during conferences or at open house and at the same time hammer them over test scores? ... Test scores may be improving but morale most definitely is not."

Teachers are afraid to speak up, O'Brien said, and parents "can't wait until their kids are finished there."

"I'm very disheartened at things that happened at Kegotank," said School Board member Janet Turner. "Maybe it would be good to involve the parents. Have a town hall meeting. At Metompkin too," she continued. "People from the Central Office go there and hear their concerns and see it."

Critic of Supervisors' Attitude Toward NASA Joins Wallops Alliance

By Linda Cicaira

The rocket scientist who recently told Accomack supervisors they are too negative to attract commerce to Wallops Research Park (WRP) just took a position with Wallops Island Regional Alliance (WIRA).

The non-profit group of business folks is focused on enhancing and protecting federal and defense assets on the Eastern Shore, according to its website statement.

Thomas (Tom) Young will serve as a WIRA strategic adviser.

After informing the supervisors of his stance on April 19, Young resigned as chairman of the WRP Leadership Council.

In a letter, Young wrote, "Unfortunately, I believe the negative business environment created by the ... supervisors along with other factors is just the opposite of what is required for success. Potential businesses and projects will be influenced by this environment when making location decisions. Those who make decisions about the NASA infrastructure in the future will also be influenced by this adverse environment."

The 77-year-old Wachapreague native and resident of Onancock was appointed by former Gov. Bob McDonnell to the Virginia Commercial Space

Young

Flight Authority in 2013. He is a former director of NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center and former president and chief operating officer of Martin Marietta. Young retired from Lockheed Martin in July 1995 and from the Science Applications International Corporation in 2013. He also served as deputy director of the Ames Research Center, director of the Planetary Program in the Office of Space Science at NASA Headquarters and as mission director of the Project Viking Mars landing program at Langley.

Peter Bale, WIRA's chairman, said in an announcement this week that Young's "broad depth of experience at the highest levels in government and the private sector brings strengths to the WIRA Board for specific growth opportunities." Young "will assist with strategic guidance on matters such as the United States Navy's unmanned reconnaissance aircraft 'Triton,' ... the Navy's latest unmanned system program of record with a projected life cycle continuing over the next two decades and bringing the possibility of hundreds of jobs and hundreds of millions of dollars of equipment and sustainment opportunities to our Delmarva region."

Wallops and Mayport, Fla., are competing for the drone program.

Accomack supervisors were upset by Young's accusation of negativity. His comments were meant for Supervisor Grayson Chesser, the only member of the board to vote against building WRP and speak out about the short distance between Kegotank Elementary School and the launch hazard area. Young promised that night to visit Kegotank and instruct teachers about the launch so as to better prepare students.

A mishap in October 2014 and the corresponding rocket explosion after it failed on the launch pad has been the topic of many local discussions.

Accomack County Getting New DMV Office

By Linda Cicaira

A new DMV office will be coming to Accomack County in the near future, Board of Supervisors Chairman Ron Wolf announced Wednesday.

"The state is extremely close to having a location in the northern part of the county," he told fellow supervisors. "It would be most acceptable to everybody," he added.

Wolff did not disclose any other details.

The topic was raised by Supervisor Paul Muhly, who complained that a Sax-is resident visiting the Onancock office recently was "told to come back the next day" because the line was so long.

State officials closed the privately contracted DMV facility in Oak Hall on Dec. 31. The supervisors have complained to the agency that the action was taken without adequate notice and would greatly inconvenience residents from Chincoteague to Exmore.

Supervisors Take Pledge To Support Local NASA Activities

By Linda Cicaira

They spent more than $4 million establishing a business park, but were still criticized for not giving enough encouragement to federal agencies on Wallops Island.

So, Wednesday Accomack supervisors passed a resolution to prove their allegiance. Never mind that last month they pledged to show solidarity with NASA in getting the Navy to fly its drone, Triton, from there, possibly as a tenant of the park.

The board promised, "Now, therefore be it resolved that the Accomack Board of Supervisors does hereby realize Wallops and other Navy, Department of Defense, and Federal facilities in Virginia benefit from the strong support of the communities of which they are a part and pledges to fully support an expanded Navy mission at Wallops, as may be required to ensure the success of the mission in the event that Wallops is selected as the base for this vital national asset."

But the drone project does come with 400 jobs. And competition is down to two locations, Accomack or Mayport, Fla.

Chairman Peter Bale of the Wallops Island Regional Alliance joined the bandwagon and also urged the supervisors to get on board.

"Sixty-eight aircraft are going to be purchased," Bale said. "We have a unique opportunity here. ... This is a 20-year program ... it will continue to spiral up." He urged the supervisors to "support national and international maritime security ... there's a real interest in the northern part of where we live ... Northrup Grumman is a prime contractor ... and WIRA (Wallops Island Regional Alliance) member," he added.

Bale said the contract would allow the area to become a "technology corridor" with "real tenant potential for the Wallops Research Park (WRP). ... Let's become an unmanned center of national interest ... create an environment of excitement and opportunity. Let's raise the median wage of the region." Bale also reported that his group now has 501c6 status which will allow it to lobby.

"I cannot stress this use of local support," said Deborah Christie, WIRA's secretary. "That's why you guys are so important," she told the supervisors.

The supervisors have recently been criticized for not supporting local aeronautical endeavors. Supervisor Grayson Chesser was the target of the disapproval for publicly asking about the safety of students at Kegotank Elementary School, which is near the launch hazard zone, and for voting against spending for the WRP. The rest of the supervisors were irked at being lumped with him, but they supported his right to question and vote.

Chairman Thomas (Tom) Young resigned from the WRP Leadership Council last month after complaining the supervisors were too negative to attract commerce to the new park. Since then he has become an WIRA adviser. (See story on Page 6.)

Atlantic resident Ronnie Thomas, who works for NASA, added his fuel to the fire Wednesday.

"First you ask for a referendum to test the citizens to see if they wanted to support a library," Thomas said. "They emphatically said, 'no' but that did not matter to you because you felt you knew better than the public. So you promised to fund the library anyway with $2 million of our tax money. Don't you realize you trashed a democratic process?" he asked.

"Then ... you decided to nominate a board member to the Accomack Wallops Work Group that is known to speak out against the Antares rocket launches on Wallops Island," he said, referring to Supervisor Grayson Chesser. "The so-called concern, is the rockets scaring little children. Well, in fact, the opposite is true ... the only person scaring little children is the supervisor you chose to represent the group. In fact, the children are in awe at the rocket launch and the danger is zero to the children and the general public," Thomas said.

"Then you made things worse," he continued. "You nominated Tommy Clark to the Wallops Working Group and Tommy has been an outspoken critic and a chronic complainer about the aircraft project at Wallops. ... I say when you move off Chincoteague and build your house right at or near the end of an active runway, you can expect runway noise. So the complaints are unwarranted."

Thomas continued to scold the rest of the supervisors. "Don't you realize what you have at stake in this county?" he asked. "Just look at the vast potential that exists at Wallops Flight Facility. The activities and projects ... are a gold mine to this area. Every state wishes they had what you are putting in jeopardy with those nominations."

Board of Supervisors Chairman Frustrated With School Officials

By Linda Cicoira

Accomack school officials were disparaged again this week.

Chairman Ron Wolff of the county Board of Supervisors complained about School Board Chairwoman Margaret Miles and Superintendent Chris Holland at his panel's meeting Wednesday. He said neither of them has done what he requested.

Wolff said when he was first chosen to be chairman in January, he called Miles to set up a date and time for a joint meeting of the School Board and supervisors. "She hasn't called me" back, he said.

"I called her a second time, again, trying to get another date," Wolff said. He was told, "I'll stop by your restaurant" to compare calendars. "Have any of you come to my restaurant lately?" he asked the supervisors. "She hasn't either."

"The School Board receives the greatest sum of county money," said Wolff. "Based on state formula, Accomack County has always superseded that formula every year. They are a division of this county just like the Finance Department, the Planning Department, Public Works. We don't get to hear from them. We don't know what's going on."

Wolff recalled that in January, Holland "said he was not going to be like other superintendents. He was right. He's not like other superintendents. The others have come here. ... He has not."

"She hasn't called me," the chairman continued. "I asked the school superintendent to come to board meetings to give a brief update on what is taking place at the county schools ... he's never been here to make that presentation."

Wolff directed County Administrator Steve Miner to "write a letter demanding that they set up a meeting. I hate to do this. They should be courteous. The school year is almost over. This is five months."

Wolff directed County Administrator Steve Miner to "write a letter demanding that they set up a meeting. I hate to do this. They should be courteous. The school year is almost over. This is five months."

Wolff changed the word "demand" to "strongly requesting. I hope I have the consensus," he added. None of the other supervisors spoke on the subject.

The supervisors had withheld appropriations from all departments and agencies for the upcoming fiscal year until they got straight about issues pertaining to a bond that was taken to cover the expense of capital projects at Kegotank Elementary School. They had learned that the School Board had money for the projects and was stockpiling the state money as contingencies.

In turn Wednesday, the supervisors reduced the School Board's budget transfers by $1,525,603 and increased the amount of state carryover by the same amount. Finance Director Mike Mason said, "This amendment has no impact on the adopted School Board expenditure budget which will remain at $51,249,710."

On the previous day, the School Board approved an operating budget of $48,486,218. It also adopted a capital improvement list of spending for upcoming years.

For the next fiscal year, it includes renovating science labs at Arcadia High for $177,700; renovating science labs at Nandua High for $182,900; replacing field lighting at Chincoteague High for $142,500; rebuilding the track at Arcadia for $325,000; rebuilding the track at Chincoteague for $200,000; rebuilding the track at Nandua High for $175,000; restroom renovation at Arcadia High, $60,000; restroom renovation at Nandua High, $60,000; and façade renovation at Arcadia High $55,000.

Another list showed that renovating the science labs was the top priority. Replacing a generator at Nandua High was next, followed by floor installation at Tangier Combined School. Upgrading phone/intercom systems at Tangier, Kegotank, Pungoteague and Nandua High were listed as the fourth highest priority.

the medical examiner's report noted.

The key witness in the murder trial was 43-year-old neighbor Deandre Brown. A deaf mute, Brown uses a slang form of sign language to communicate. Four interpreters translated his answers into American Sign Language and then spoken words.

Through them, he told the court that he saw Davis kick in Fauntleroy's front door and go inside the house for a few minutes before running out on the night of Sept 17. Brown also said the two men had argued earlier in the day. But being deaf, the witness didn't hear the gunshots that other neighbors did. He also didn't know what the quarrel was about. And when he twice entered the house to check on Fauntleroy, after he said Davis broke in, he didn't find Fauntleroy's body.

When questioned by Broccoletti, Brown got confused with the wording of his questions and said he didn't see Davis break into the house or go inside. At one point his answer to a question was "yes" and "no."

At a hearing last month, Brown used the same interpreters to answer dozens of questions from both Broccoletti and Brenner. At that time, Judge W. Revell Lewis, who presided over the trial, declared him capable of testifying at the trial.

Other neighbors heard the gunshots about the same time Brown said he saw Davis at the victim's house. Tammy Tull said she heard the shots and then saw a short man in a white T-shirt walking, but she couldn't tell who it was.

Dale Simmons, a neighbor who rented the victim his house, said she heard Fauntleroy yelling earlier in the evening. After hearing the shots, she looked outside and saw a man, whom she could not identify, running into the trailer park across the road from her residence, she testified.

Tull, Simmons and Brown went together to Fauntleroy's residence to check on him. The women waited in the doorway while Brown looked around. They saw the door knocked off its hinges, but nothing else out of the ordinary. Tull said the victim's car was in his driveway.

Another neighbor, Wanda Harris, said Davis showed up at her house later that night with a "wad of cash" and between a quarter- and a half-ounce of cocaine. She said her husband, Michael Harris, came home about a half an hour later and saw the cocaine and the new tennis shoes that Davis showed him he was wearing. Both said he appeared to be high and offered them cocaine but they declined. Wanda Harris described him as "edgy," "paranoid" and "amped up." She admitted she is a cocaine addict. Michael Harris said Davis was "nervous" and "paranoid." Both also said they did not see any blood on Davis or his clothing.

Broccoletti told the jury the murder must have occurred after the three neighbors were at the house. Otherwise, he said, Brown would have found the body or seen the bullet holes and other damage. The witnesses and Brenner said the house was dark except for a living room light and the television, and that Brown was checking for Fauntleroy, not a body or a puddle of blood.

Investigator Vincent Lee of Accomack County Sheriff's Office said Davis told him that Fauntleroy was a drug dealer.

"He (Davis) told me that he (Fauntleroy) was a weight man," Lee said that means he deals with larger quantities of drugs. "He's big time," Lee said Davis told him. "He's big time. He's got rims. He's got a nice car. He's the showoff. He had enough stuff for someone to pop him off," the defendant told the officer. "Marcus Davis said he would never do that," Lee testified.

Lee said the defendant also told him that the argument that night occurred after Davis asked for "$5 or $10 to get a 12-pack of beer or something like that." Davis told police that Fauntleroy said, "He needed to get his own money."

Evidence also disclosed that Brown had been drinking that day and that over the course of hours, he consumed a six pack of beer, some gin and some vodka.

Shortly after the trial, Davis was escorted by deputies back to the jail where he was processed and released.

SPORTS

Rain, Go Away So We Won't Have to Play Another Day

make huge commitments to allow our area athletes to compete.

It's a constant juggle of duties, schedules, equipment and personnel to get to the point when the game actually is played.

Head coaches get little pay for their efforts, and assistant coaches often get no pay, although many use vacation time to attend practices and games throughout the season. If the game is on the other side of the bay, it often means a full day away from work.

Northampton soccer coach John Gorman coaches both field hockey in the fall and soccer in the spring. Gorman is a self-employed contractor whose hours away from work must cost him untold dollars in the course of a year — certainly, far more than the coaching stipend he gets.

Many coaches also prepare the field in addition to spending time with their players at practice. While I am covering one sport at a school, I often see a coach of another sport working on a field for an upcoming game. Those are the lonely hours spent that few spectators ever see or appreciate.

Parents need a shout-out, too. There are uniforms to be washed, often with little turnaround, especially with weather forcing condensed schedules. There are kids to get to practice and then long days at the field. Road trips for Shore teams are especially daunting when they involve Maryland or Tidewater teams.

Northampton girls' tennis coach Mike Varricchio, whose squad is unbeaten this season, says it's difficult to get teams from across the bay to travel to the Eastern Shore for a match. Some scheduled opponents have canceled at the last minute, not for weather reasons but simply because they don't want to endure the rigors of the travel. Since there are no other tennis teams on the Shore, many of the tennis matches are away.

The new conference alignments force local teams to travel more often.

Ask a coach if he or she has been on a bus caught in Friday rush-hour traffic trying to get to or return from a game, and you might get a sense of the frustration that these long-distance match-ups create. It also adds considerable expense to the athletic budgets.

That's one reason the conference alignments are being done away with after next season.

Let's not forget those who umpire, a thankless job that is performed best when it goes unnoticed. Fans are obviously loyal to their team and see the action through eyes that want every call to go for their team. Some are pretty vocal when a close call goes against the boys and girls they are supporting.

Umpires are most often former athletes and usually involved because they love the sport and like to be around it. Keep in mind that baseball and softball often have two-man crews who must rotate around the field to cover all the bases. It's not always easy to predict where the play will be, sometimes forcing them to make a call from a long distance. From what I see, they usually get the call right.

I saw one soccer game this spring being worked by a single official rather than the typical three-man crew. I thought it showed good sportsmanship by both teams and coaches, who realized he was doing the best he could under the circumstances and did not contest any calls made from afar.

Let's hope the weather cooperates for a change as area teams head into the regional and state playoffs, where deadlines are not all that flexible.

Nandua Knocks Off Chinco 6-2, Forces Game for Title

By Bill Sterling

Nandua staged a three-run rally in the sixth inning to take a 6-2 win over Chincoteague Wednesday, forcing a game on Thursday that would give the winner the Eastern Shore District title. Yesterday's game was completed after Post deadlines.

The Warriors' Evan McGregor kept the Pony offense in check, giving up only two unearned runs on four hits while striking out three and walking none. Aside from the miscue that led to two Pony runs, Nandua played strong defense, chasing down fly balls and cleanly fielding grounders.

Waylon White scored the first Nandua run on a steal of home plate shortly after the game was resumed with a scoreless tie in the top of the second inning after rain stopped play on Tuesday.

Nandua's Derek Bjorlo had two hits and Mike McCluskey, Matthew Teasley and White had RBI singles. Ben Marra also had a hit.

Nandua baserunners stole six bases in six attempts and often played "small ball" with bunts advancing baserunners and sometimes resulting in base hits or forcing bad throws by the Chincoteague defense.

For Chincoteague, Collin Derrickson had two hits and an RBI. Dustin Chincoteague players, including catcher Matt Reed, have Northampton's Koby Sparrow in a rundown in action Monday at Eastville. Third baseman Voshwan Davis (not pictured) finally made the tag.

Holloway and Joe Thornton also had singles. Trey Fisher took the loss for the Ponies, striking out nine while allowing six hits.

Both Nandua and Chincoteague likely will host 2A and 1A conference games next week. Matchups were not set at press time Thursday.

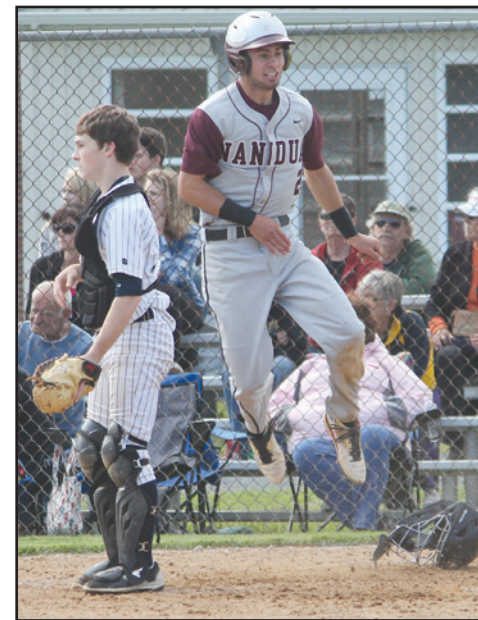

Ponies Stomp Jackets

Chincoteague blasted Northampton 25-0 on Monday in Eastville. Matt Reed had a two-run homer for the Ponies. Joe Thornton went 3 for 3, and Trevor Reed and Dustin Holloway each added a pair of hits. Dylan Mason, Ryan Mason and Spencer White each had a hit.

Vikings Split Tourney Games in Metro Baseball

Broadwater staged a three-run rally in the seventh inning to advance in the Metro Conference baseball tournament with a 6-5 walk-off win last Thursday.

Cortland Bunce and Austin Murphy opened the seventh with singles before Aidan Blair smacked a triple down the line to tie the game at 5-5. With one out, Andrew Hart scored Blair with the winning run on a single. Blair had three RBIs with a run-scoring single in addition to his two-run triple.

Murphy had a pair of doubles, Daniel Rohde had two hits with a triple, and Bunce had two hits with a double for the Vikings.

Ben Farlow struck out 10 in pitching a complete game, walking only one batter and giving up seven hits.

Vikes Fall to AS

Broadwater fell to Atlantic Shores 10-0 last Thursday in the Metro Conference semi-final. The Vikings, forced to play a double header after edging Alliance 6-5, met the rested Seahawks immediately following their victory.

Broadwater trailed only 2-0 entering the fourth inning before a couple of miscues in the field led to a five-run rally for Atlantic Shores.

"It was a challenging situation for the team, but they responded well," said Viking coach Billy Murphy.

For Northampton, Michaela Lewis was 2 for 3 and Cassie Nadeau, Sara Weber, McKenzie Widgeon and Blaise Feltes each had a hit.

Nandua Blanks Jackets

Kimberly Wert hit two home runs, raising her season total to nine, and Courtney Barker and Baylee Justis combined to throw a no-hitter as Nandua blanked Northampton 16-0 last Thursday in Eastville.

The Warriors broke open the game with a 10-run second inning. In addition to Wert's 4-RBI day, Paige Martino knocked in three runs with a triple and Madison Greer had a pair of hits and two RBIs with a triple and a double. Leah Truitt knocked in three runs with a double. Katie Brewster also had a double.

Nandua is unbeaten in the district and 14-2 on the season.

Warriors Edge IR

Sarah Gepes drove in what proved to be the winning run in the fourth inning, and Emily Justis scattered four hits as Nandua edged Indian River of Delaware 2-1 Wednesday on the road.

Kim Wert had two of the Warriors' six hits and Paige DiMartino, Michaela Wescott and Leah Truitt each had singles in addition to Gepes' RBI single.

Justis got the win, striking out two and walking two.

Both teams committed four errors, and one Indian River error led to the two-run Nandua fourth inning, wiping out a 1-0 deficit. Wescott and Wert had stolen bases for the Warriors.

Chincoteague third baseman Ronny Malone attempts to tag the sliding Michaela Lewis of Northampton in the Ponies' 18-3 win Monday.

Flounder, Drum Highlight Fishing Action

Flounder fishing from Folly Creek down to Quinby was very good this past week, according to Ron Greaser of Don's Tackle Shop in Wachapreague.

Flounder also started to make a showing at Willis Wharf, said Greaser, noting that the normal flounder rigs with white, chartreuse, pink and orange teasers rigged with Gulp or Zman and tipped with a minnow are your best bet. Trolling with these rigs during tide movement is the best fishing.

Greaser added that the use of drift socks lets you control your trolling speed. At slack tide, jig a bucktail tipped with a Gulp or Zman, and add a dropper loop 12" above your bucktail for a 4/0 or 5/0 hook rigged with a Gulp or Zman. The top hook on this bucktail rig will usually outfish the bucktail.

Greaser also said that inside the inlet are good numbers of large rockfish, bluefish and some gray trout. In the breakers outside, black drum and rockfish are being caught on sea clams.

On the bayside, Greaser reported, red drum are thick off Parkers Island and the mouth of Occohannock Creek. Troll 4'-10' of water with big Drone Spoons, Tonys or Hopkins spoons. Keep a rod tied up with a big swim shad or jerk bait to sight cast into the schools.

Black drum are being caught in the lower Chesapeake Bay at the usual hotspots. A number of trophy rock were taken before the season ended on May 15.

On Chincoteague, teenager Matthew Jenkins won Capt. Bob's Marina Flounder Tournament with a three-fish total of 9 pounds, 13 ounces. Jon Miller was second at 9-2, Jay Johnston was third at 8-11, Mike Kelly was fourth at 8-7, and Justin Strouse was fifth with a three-fish total of 8 pounds, 6 ounces.

Northampton Boys, Girls Earn Soccer Wins

Northampton capped an unbeaten season in district soccer with a 9-0 win over Chincoteague Monday on the island.

Auturo "Junior" Gildo had three goals, and Jesus Maldonado, Mariano Gaytan, Gerardo Santos, Chris Montalvo, Billy Martinez and Bayron Ortiz had one each. Ortiz had three assists, Maldonado had two and Santos added one assist.

Jacket Girls Top Bruton

The Northampton girls' soccer team defeated Bruton 2-0 last Friday at home. After just missing on numerous shots on goal, the Lady Jackets got on the scoreboard when Taylor Webb was fouled by the goalkeeper and scored on the ensuing penalty kick. At the 38-minute mark, Ashlyn Arnold scored off a pass by Erica Head to put Northampton up 2-0 at half.

The second half was scoreless despite some opportunities for Northampton. "Our defense did another outstanding job controlling the game and keeping them on their own half the majority of the game with only one shot on goal and one corner kick," said Jacket coach Tabi Webb.

From the OutPost

By Candy Farlow

It's camping season again! Although my own camping days are over, some of my fondest memories are of those days when my kids were young and they will tell you it was eating little sandwiches made of vanilla wafers, peanut butter and sand. I think they liked the crunchiness.

And, of course, there was the togetherness. Nothing brings a family closer than four people in a two-person pup tent on a deserted island in the middle of a storm.

But all of that was part of the adventure. So was the night surf fishing, praying you'd catch something good because you just remembered you left the hot dogs for tomorrow's meal at home.

And what could have been better than sitting around a campfire, gazing at the heavens while being lulled by the rhythm of the ocean waves.

Now that was real camping, an experience I wanted my nephews to enjoy as well. It didn't take too much prodding to get my citified sister-in-law to agree to come along on one trip. That's because we neglected to explain to her that this was real camping ... not a night out at a five-star camping resort. Her discomfort began on the boat ride over to the island when she started talking about needing to use the facilities. Her discomfort intensified considerably when we put ashore. "Where is the bathroom?" she demanded. I just wish I'd had a camera to catch the look on her face when she was handed the camp shovel and a roll of toilet paper. I'm quite sure that was her first and last camping adventure.

Those days are long gone. Those kids who loved my SANDwiches are now parents themselves who, for some odd reason, aren't into camping. But a lot of folks are, although it can't be quite the same as back then with no cell phones and such. Still, some of the tenets of camping will never change.

For example, you need to accept the fact that while setting up, you will realize you are missing two tent pegs.

Also remember that waterproof clothing and matches aren't, and it does matter because at some point it will rain. Tents leak, there is no such thing as "smooth ground" and the urgency of a nighttime potty call is always relative to the person's placement in the tent. Finally, embrace the reality that camping is actually nature's way of ensuring insects are well fed.

As for me, camping is just a memory and I ceded the island to the piping plovers years ago. Roughing it has taken on a completely new meaning at this stage of my life. Staying at a hotel without WiFi is about as far as I'm willing to take it.

Meanwhile, I'm content to star gaze from my back deck – vanilla wafers and peanut butter in hand – sans sand.

Kind Deed Was Very Special

Dear Editor:

As I was born in Withams 92 years ago, moving away at age 8 and now Salisbury has been my home for many years, I have always loved going back to parts of Virginia — the Eastern Shore — to see the beautiful farmlands, a wonderful ride out. My father often spoke of Parksley and Bloxom as my husband, from Stockton, Md., had relatives in the Bloxom area.

So we all enjoyed those days that brought memories. My niece, who has a beauty shop near Tasley, saves the Eastern Shore Post for me as I enjoy reading it. I love reading about Virginia!

I write because of the kindness of Bonnie Wallace helping Dan Hillman of Locustville when he left his keys in his car with the motor running and he was in trouble. The lady saw the door was locked. She was so kind to give him her car keys so he could go home and get his other keys.

How wonderful to have someone do such a kind and Christian thing.

I just had to write and say the people who live on the Eastern Shore of Virginia are special.

There are good people in Virginia, but really, there are good ones across our country, I think. I just happened to read this and it brought a smile to my face and a heart full of thankfulness for people who care and do kind deeds.

Come Sunday, if the weather is nice, we are going to ride down to Cape Charles and Oyster to see the countryside. My husband, in the Navy in World War II, traveled across the bay by ferry to Virginia Beach to Fort Story, but he passed in 2011, so my daughter and I ride out.

Frances Taylor Hickman, Salisbury, Md.

Project Not Van Kesteren Project

Dear Editor:

I would like to clarify one of the points stated in the excellent report pertaining to solar systems by Ms. Cicaira that appeared in the April 22, 2016, newspaper.

The issue relates to the solar project that I was making reference to when I spoke at the last Accomack Board of Supervisors meeting. The endeavor is not a Van Kesteren project as stated in the report. I am indeed, however, one of the four siblings who are equal owners of the farmland which we have agreed to lease to the solar energy company SunTec.

It is a SunTec project since they are assuming all the financial arrangements, satisfying all the government requirements obtaining permits, hiring construction contractors, arranging for and financing grid and substation upgrades, and contracting for the sale of energy produced.

My interest is mainly as one of the landowners, with the exception of our land lease contract with them. I am not in any way a participant nor connected with SunTec. SunTec is, however, owned and being managed by my daughter and members of her family.

John Van Kesteren, Tasley
