Two Die in Oak Hall Crash

By Linda Cicoira

Two Delaware residents died following a crash on the Eastern Shore during Memorial Day weekend, according to State Police Sgt. Michelle Anaya.

The incident occurred at nearly 8:35 p.m. Monday, north of the intersection of Lankford Highway and Nocks Landing Road in Oak Hall.

Anaya said a 2004 Nissan Armada was on Lankford Highway when the driver, Lauren K. Burris, 56, of Magnolia "lost control, veered off the road and struck a light pole." Burris died on the way to Peninsula Regional Medical Center in Salisbury, Md.

The back-seat passenger, Camilla M. Williams, 57, of Felton died the next day from injuries sustained in the crash. The front-seat passenger, also from Magnolia, was not identified and was not injured.

All passengers were properly restrained. Speed and weather conditions are believed to be contributing factors to the crash. Alcohol was not involved.

Ambulances from Oak Hall rescue and Bloxom and Saxis Volunteer Fire & Rescue responded, according to a spokesperson for the 9-1-1 Center. Firefighters from Atlantic also responded, as did Trooper Dan Wallace.

These deaths mark the 10th and 11th traffic-related fatalities on Eastern Shore roads this year. The Shore recorded seven fatal vehicle accidents in 2015.

Eight drivers and passengers died in seven traffic crashes statewide this Memorial Day weekend. During the same period in 2015, traffic crashes claimed 14 lives on Virginia highways.

Antares Test Clears Way for July Launch

Residents across the Eastern Shore heard the boom and felt the rumble as Orbital ATK tested its upgraded first-stage propulsion system for the Antares rocket Tuesday. But just across the creek from the site, the sound was directed toward the ocean and went virtually unnoticed.

The steam arose in a mass of spectacular white and made several rotations imitating funnels. The formations dispersed up and away as any other cloud in the sky.

The 30-second test was performed at about 5:30 p.m. at the Mid-Atlantic Regional Spaceport (MARS) at Wallops Flight Facility.

"Early indications show the upgraded propulsion system, core stage and launch complex all worked together as planned," said General Manager Mike Pinkston of Orbital. Pinkston is also vice president of the Antares program. "Congratulations to the combined NASA, Orbital ATK and Virginia Space team on a successful test," he said.

The Antares engineering team will review test data over the next two weeks to confirm that all test parameters were met.

That confirmation would clear the way for Orbital to resume cargo resupply services to the International Space Station. The launch is set for July.

The primary goal of the test was to verify the functionality of the integrated first stage, including new engines, modified Stage 1 core, avionics, thrust vector control and pad fueling systems in an operational environment.

The test also met a number of operational milestones, including full propellant loading sequence, launch countdown and engine ignition and shut-down commands, as well as multiple throttle settings, including full engine power. The test also validated the launch pad's operation, including propellant tanking and the use of the water deluge system to protect the pad from damage and suppress noise.

ACCOMACK SHERIFF AND INVESTIGATOR RESPOND TO LAWSUIT

By Linda Cicaira

Accomack Sheriff Todd Godwin and his deputy, Investigator Sam Castiglia, recently denied a false arrest accusation made in a $250,000 lawsuit filed against them in April, according to Accomack Circuit Court records.

They contend that the case fails at every angle. "The plaintiff's arrest was pursuant to a lawful warrant, thus his arrest and detention was lawful and there is no cause of action for false arrest," the officers' response states. They further argued that the lawsuit does not prove the four necessary elements of malicious prosecution.

"The defendants have immunity," the response also claims. "Sheriff Todd Godwin is a constitutional officer and is immune" by virtue of the state constitution. "This protection is not absolute, for if the defendant acted wantonly or in a culpable or a grossly negligent manner, he would lose this protection. However ... here there are no facts ... which indicated the sheriff or his deputy acted wantonly or grossly."

"Deputy Castiglia was required to use his own judgment and discretion as to how best to accomplish his mission of investigating criminal activity in Accomack ... without the guidance or control of a supervisor but instead by the application of his law enforcement training and experience," the answer further states.

"Gross negligence is that degree of negligence which shows indifference to others as constitutes utter disregard of prudence amounting to complete neglect of the safety of others," the response argues. "It must be such a degree of negligence as would shock fair minded persons."

Attorney Jonathan L. Sone of Virginia Beach filed the answer for the officers. Moody E. Stalling Jr. of Virginia Beach is representing the plaintiff, Keith Bailey of Kinsdale, Va.

Bailey claims he was falsely arrested for two felony charges and imprisoned for 10 days. Castiglia showed "complete disregard" for his rights and "acted with such disregard that his conduct constituted gross negligence," Bailey claims.

Bailey demands a jury trial and wants $200,000 in compensatory damages and the rest in punitive damages.

He contends that on Nov. 6, 2014, the sheriff's office and Castiglia "issued a warrant for the arrest of one Keith Bailey for two felony offenses of credit card fraud greater than $200." The charges were in connection to incidents committed on Oct. 8, 2014, at Vernon Powell Shoes and Walmart, both in Onley.

During an investigation, "Castiglia interviewed a store clerk in Onley ... who identified the individual committing the credit card fraud via a composite pulled from surveillance video." The clerk said the suspect's name was Keith Bailey. "The correct Keith Bailey's build was particular and easily distinguishable in the composite as a tall and slender build," the complaint states. "The plaintiff has a height of 5'2" and a weight of 198 pounds."

"Castiglia failed to properly identify the proper individual ... no attempt was made to contact the plaintiff to ascertain if he was the Keith Bailey identified by" the clerk, according to Bailey's suit.

On Feb. 2, 2015, Bailey was arrested in Warsaw, Va. He was held in Northern Neck Regional Jail and later was taken to Accomack Jail. He said he repeatedly told the deputy who arrested him "that he had not lived in Accomack County for years and specifically was not in Accomack on Oct. 8, 2014."

"During this time, the plaintiff made numerous attempts to assert his innocence and mistaken identity ... by requesting to speak with law enforcement officials and speaking with his attorney," according to the complaint.

On April 14, 2015, the commonwealth's attorney's office decided not to prosecute the charges.

Bailey claims the arrest and imprisonment were without legal justification, "that the arrest ... was an intentional restriction of the plaintiff's freedom of movement," and that he suffered great inconvenience, humiliation, pain and anguish of mind."

Bailey says when the case wasn't prosecuted, it was "further confirmed" that he "was incorrectly identified as a suspect in this matter."

Accomack Circuit Court

A Virginia Beach animal activist and a former mixed martial arts fighter pleaded guilty to misdemeanor petty theft last week in Accomack Circuit Court in connection with a dognapping that occurred last year in Hopeton.

Bettina Cuce Rodriguez, 40, of Inlet Road and Gordon A. Shell, 46, of Utica, Mich., entered their pleas in an agreement with Commonwealth's Attorney Gary Agar. Initially, they were charged with stealing a dog, a felony. The agreement did not specify a punishment.

Judge W. Revell Lewis III accepted the arrangement. He sentenced both defendants to 90 days in jail, with all but 10 days suspended. The terms may be served on weekends. Rodriguez and Shell also were each fined $1,000. Additionally, Rodriguez was ordered to do 50 hours of community service cleaning local roads.

Chico, the pit bull taken from his owner's yard on Jan. 11, 2015, never was recovered. The dog belonged to Daniel Melendez of Hopeton. The defendants claimed the canine did not receive proper care and their actions were justified.

An animal control officer said she checked on Chico after getting complaints in November 2014 and the dog was healthy. No physical evidence to the contrary was shown.

Rodriquez pleaded not guilty to the felony in March. Judgment was withheld at that time. A third suspect, Charlene Boyajian, 46, of Virginia Beach, is to be tried in August.

In another case, Kevon Lamar Smith, 31, of Drummondtown Road in Accomack pleaded guilty to taking indecent liberties with a child under the age of 15 on Jan. 9 and 10. Lewis ordered a short-form presentence report and remanded Smith to jail to await sentencing.

Tanisha Renee Hamsley, 29, of Madam C.J. Walker Lane in Exmore was sentenced on each of three counts of passing bad checks worth a total of about $865 on Sept. 26, 29 and 30, 2014, to three years, with all but seven months suspended.

Taylor Robert Lamphier, 21, of Wishart's Point Road in Atlantic was charged with unauthorized use of a vehicle over Memorial Day weekend, ac-ording to records filed in Accomack General District Court. He is also is charged with DUI and driving without a valid operator's license. Secured bail was set at $2,000.

Johnson responded to a two-vehicle crash on Atlantic Road in Atlantic, in which Lamphier was allegedly involved. Lamphier told the officer that he ran into the vehicle about 15 minutes earlier.

Gov. Wants To Hear Internet Woes

By Linda Cicaira

Gov. Terry McAuliffe wants to know about your Internet connection.

Beginning this week and running through early August, residents in need of Internet service or better service who would like to log on to RUOnline.virginia.gov to have their say.

Those unable to access the website at home can visit their local library or call, toll-free, (877) 969-6685 to "answer a few simple questions" regarding location and the level of connectivity. Responses will be aggregated, mapped and shared with policy makers and the public to stimulate broadband policy and funding discussions throughout the remainder of the administration.

McAuliffe announced last week a new statewide initiative regarding the state's largest gaps in broadband coverage. The news came at a ceremony to sign House Bill 912, which clarifies and improves the process for installing communications infrastructure, benefiting rural communities. The bill "makes it easier to put telecommunications infrastructure in the rights-of-way for state-maintained roads. In addition ... the governor's budget includes $2.5 million ... funding for infrastructure expansion in unserved areas."

"Broadband has become as essential as any utility for maintaining a high quality of life in our communities and meeting our economic and workforce development goals," he said. "Yet too many Virginia communities lack access to reliable, fast and affordable Internet connections

Few Who Spoke Asked That School Funds Not Be Cut

By Ron West

Northampton supervisors conducted a public hearing Tuesday on the proposed $42,375,399 FY2017 budget and the tax rates that would accompany it.

County Finance Director John Andrzejewski provided an overview of the spending package, based on the tax rate proposed by the board. Based on the recent re-assessment, the equalization tax rate required would be $0.83 per $100 assessed value.

Included in the proposed budget are four additional emergency medical technician positions, enhanced retirement funding for Emergency Medical Services personnel, a school resource officer, a Parks and Recreation assistant, a 2 percent pay increase for county personnel, and three additional part-time county employees.

The proposed budget also includes $303,000 more for the schools. While this is slightly more than that which was provided to the schools in the current budget, it is nearly 25 percent less than what the School Board requested.

In order to fund the proposed budget, the supervisors have proposed the following rates for FY 2017:

Real Estate and Mobile Homes.....	$0.85 per $100 assessed value
Tangible personal property and aircraft...	$3.90 per $100 assessed value
Boats.....	$0.99 per $100 assessed value
Machinery and Tools.....	$2.00 per $100 assessed value
Farm Machinery and Equipment.....	$1.43 per $100 assessed value
Heavy Construction.....	$2.86 per $100 assessed value
Solar and Wind generation/installations...	$0.49 per $100 assessed value

The first speaker of the evening, teacher Justin Wheeler, president of the Northampton County Education Association, urged the board not to make any additional cuts in the school budget. He reminded the board that the school budget is not about teachers and staff, but rather about the 1,500 students. "Those kids will be the future of the County. We need to keep putting them first."

School Board Chairman Skip Oakley said the county cannot put off replacing the 60-year-old high school anymore and noted the need to retain staff members.

School Superintendent Eddie Lawrence echoed Oakley's comments. He noted that the County was committed to building better schools and urged them not to take more funds from the school budget, which is already been spread thin.

A final speaker of the evening was Silver Beach resident Robert Meyers. He urged the board to consider reducing the tax rate on business, construction, and agricultural equipment to encourage economic growth. Meyers was likewise critical of the low tax rate set for solar and wind energy equipment. Currently, there are no wind energy projects slated for Northampton County. The only solar project that has been approved is a project that falls under the threshold set by the state regarding taxing alternative energy projects. As such, the county is limited in its ability to tax the project that will be constructed on Seaside Road, just north of Eastville.

The board will have an opportunity to vote on the proposed budget and tax rates at its session June 14. While the board may choose to implement a lower tax rate than has been advertised, it may not increase it.

Juveniles Charged with Arson

By Linda Cicoira

Onley Volunteer Fire & Rescue Chief Chris Davis confirmed that one of the three male juveniles arrested recently and charged with arson was a member of his company.

"He was removed and placed on administrative leave during the course of the investigation," Davis said. "He has resigned his membership. The other two are with neighboring fire companies."

Junior members must be at least 16 years old, have a criminal background check and have parental consent to join. They also must be approved by the rest of the members.

Last week, State Police Sgt. Michelle Anaya reported that the three Accomack juveniles were charged with setting fire late last year. One of the suspects was 17 when the crimes occurred, but has since turned 18. That suspect is accused of arson on Dec. 15, 2015, of an unoccupied building in Locustville. A 17-year-old also was charged with that offense.

Those two and another 17-year-old also were charged with setting a hay bale afire in Locustville Nov. 7, 2015.

Brandon Travis Haynes, 20, of Maple Street in Onley, a fire and rescue volunteer in that town, was arrested last month and charged with arson in connection with a 1993 Freightline tractor-trailer truck that burned in February. The vehicle was valued at $10,000.

Haynes told police he set the fire because he was "bored at the station."

Davis believes the arsons "can be directly attributed to the breakdown in families, lack of involved fathers, a society that says prayer in school is bad, but men in girls' restrooms are OK."

Waterway Markers Ineffective

By Ron West

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the U.S. Coast Guard conducted a joint public information session at Eastern Shore Community College last week regarding the status of the Waterway on the Coast of Virginia (WCV), also known locally as the Virginia Inside Passage (VIP).

The purpose of the session was to lay out a schedule for the removal of most of the fixed and floating aids to navigation (ATONs) along the 87 nautical miles of the waterway.

Chris Scraba, deputy chief of waterways management for the U.S. Coast Guard, and Capt. Richard Wester, deputy commander for Coast Guard Sector Hampton Roads, offered a bleak picture of the condition of the waterway and many of the ATONs that mark the north-south channel.

Dating the early 1960s, the VIP was designed to offer vessels an option to use the protected inland waters between the barrier islands and the Eastern Shore as opposed to the sometimes turbulent waters of the Atlantic. Extending from just inside Chincoteague Inlet, it meanders southward via a series of natural and manmade channels, passing Folly Creek, Wachapreague, Quinby, Willis Wharf, and Oyster, before exiting under the Fisherman's Inlet bridge near Kiptopeke.

The project depth of six feet at mean low water and a channel width of 60 feet offered a reasonable alternative for boaters. When it was created, a number of coastal communities offered amenities, such as fuel, groceries, protected anchorages, and even marine repair facilities to passing vessels.

The changing economic climate of the Eastern Shore saw the demise of most of the commercial clamming operations and shucking houses, resulting in the loss of clam boats that helped keep the silt from building up in the channels.

Recent surveys by the Corps of Engineers and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration show that the channel depth in many places is shallower than the six-foot minimum and, in some cases, approaches a foot or less.

With shoaling encroaching more and more in the VIP, many of the fixed and in some case, floating ATONs no longer serve to mark the best water in the channel. While the smaller Coast Guard ATON vessels can, in some cases, replace dayboards or service small floating ATONs, repositioning or removing fixed markers is beyond their capability. That job falls to a buoy tender such as the Kennebec, a 160-foot construction tender that needs a minimum of six feet of water to maneuver.

Congressional funding to support dredging of waterways has dried up almost as fast as the VIP's channels.

According to Scraba and Wester, the immediate plan calls for removing the lighting equipment from approximately 40 fixed aids which still have them and changing them to unlighted markers, commonly referred to as daymarkers or daybeacons. The next step is to mark certain areas of the VIP, which cannot be safely navigated, with "danger-shoaling" dayboards. Mariners would be advised that they transit these waters at their own peril.

Some portions of the VIP currently have completely filled in and actually have fixed markers on dry sand. The timeline calls for the fixed structures to eventually be removed; some will be replaced with floating ATONs.

Removal of the fixed structures is slated to begin this year and could take up to two years. Funding and availability of personnel will be limiting factors.

Assuming that the plan does not change, the markers leading from the ocean to Chincoteague, Wachapreague, and Willis Wharf will continue to be marked. The east-west channel from Folly Creek will remain marked. Because the Corps of Engineers received a small allocation, a portion of the channel leading to Quinby (but not Quinby Inlet itself) will be dredged this fall. Floating ATONs may be installed to mark the channel. Sand Shoal Channel leading to the Atlantic from Oyster, while at one time slated to lose its markers, may see the fixed markers replaced with floating aids. Two markers adjacent to Fisherman's Inlet Bridge may remain or be replaced with floating aids.

It was made clear that should funding be obtained, portions of the VIP, might be dredged, but restrictions on funding make it a very remote possibility.

Health Matters News on Cancer Survivors' Day, Zika, Mosquitoes

Riverside on the Eastern Shore is observing National Cancer Survivors' Day today, June 3, with an open house at the Riverside Shore Cancer Center. From 9 a.m. through 3 p.m., survivors can visit the center, ring the Bell of Hope, receive a survivor's gift bag, and enjoy light refreshments.

This 29th annual event is a national celebration of "life after a cancer diagnosis." It is a celebration for those who have survived, an inspiration for those recently diagnosed, a gathering of support for families touched by cancer, and an opportunity for communities to learn more about cancer in general and specifically about the survivorship resources in their area.

A Zika Health Seminar has been scheduled at the Chincoteague Center for Saturday, June 4, from 10 a.m. to noon.

Presented by the Eastern Shore Health District, the event will feature Dr. David O. Matson and Dr. Jennifer P. Reason.

The Health District recently received a shipment of Zika preparedness kits from the Virginia Department of Health that will be provided to pregnant women in the clinic setting for the purpose of Zika education and prevention. Riverside Shore OB/GYN is partnering with the Eastern Shore Health District, to reach as many pregnant women in Accomack and Northampton counties as possible.

All permanent residents, seasonal workers, tourists and visitors to the Shore are encouraged to protect themselves and their families from mosquito bites. While there is no local mosquito transmission of the Zika Virus yet on Delmarva, or in the United States, mosquitoes have transmitted other serious diseases that can affect families, pets, and/or livestock.

The Eastern Shore Health District also reminds Shore residents to protect themselves, their children, and their pets from ticks as the weather warms up and they are spending more time outdoors. The mild winter weather may result in a larger tick population than average.

Three types of ticks are well established on the Eastern Shore: the Lone Star Tick (Amblyomma americanum), the Blacklegged Tick or Deer Tick (Ixodes scapularis), and the Dog Tick (Dermacentor variabilis). Each can transmit zoonotic diseases that affect both humans and other mammals like dogs and horses. The primary diseases diagnosed on the Eastern Shore are Lyme Disease (Blacklegged Tick only), Spotted Fever Rickettsiosis (Lone Star Tick and Dog Tick), Ehrlichiosis (Lone Star Tick and Dog Tick), and Anaplasmosis (Blacklegged Tick).

Lyme disease is by far the most commonly reported disease transmitted to humans by ticks, mosquitoes or fleas in Virginia. The typical symptoms of Lyme disease include fever, headache, fatigue, and a large, expanding skin rash that may have a bull's-eye appearance (however the rash is not always seen). If left untreated, the infection can spread to joints, the heart, and the nervous system. Anyone who develops a fever or a rash after being bitten by a tick or spending time in tick-infested areas should seek prompt medical care. Most patients with Lyme disease can be treated successfully with a few weeks' of antibiotics, especially if treated early.

Other tick-borne diseases that have also been reported on the Eastern Shore of Virginia include Rickettsial Spotted Fevers, Ehrlichiosis, Anaplasmosis, Babesiosis, and Bartonella. Co-infections also are possible from one tick bite, as ticks are able to be infected with more than one disease at a time.

To avoid tick-borne illnesses:

- Avoid areas with high grass and leaf litter and walk in the center of trails when hiking.
- Use repellent that contains 20 percent or more DEET on exposed skin for protection that lasts several hours.

- Use products that contain permethrin to pre-treat clothing and gear.

- Bathe or shower as soon as possible after coming indoors to wash off and more easily find crawling ticks before they bite you.

- Conduct a full-body tick check using a hand-held or full-length mirror to view all parts of your body upon returning indoors. Parents should help children check thoroughly for ticks. Remove any ticks right away.

Cheriton Playground About Ready

By Ron West

Cheriton's town playground is on schedule to be completed in time for the July 4th holiday.

The playground will be situated on the rear third of the town parking lot, adjacent to the commercial district. It was announced at last week's Cheriton Town Council meeting that the playground equipment is arriving. Mayor Joe Habel asked all interested citizens to come out on June 11 at 9 a.m. to help set up the equipment.

Councilwoman Mary Mears announced that the long-awaited Cheriton History DVD is now available at Town Hall for $14.50. The DVD contains four hours of information, including interviews with citizens.

Council briefly discussed moving the town election from May to November. Habel said the election conducted earlier in May had cost the town $1,671. Moving it to November could save the town more than $1,000 and could increase voter turnout.

Habel led a discussion of how to change the entryway signs along Lankford Highway. It was agreed that the signs need to be replaced and, in some cases, repositioned in such a way that they will attract additional traffic into the town. Council agreed to continue the discussion at a work session to be conducted June 2.

At that same session, council will continue working on the FY2017 budget.

Mears reviewed suggestions from County Economic Development Director Chris Tucker on how to increase visitors to the community. She said efforts to improve the appearance of buildings downtown should be initiated.

Outgoing Councilwoman Norma Spencer, who served on council off and on for four terms, spoke of the pleasure it has been to work with council members over the years and how proud she is that the town is moving forward. "The Town of Cheriton is fortunate to have such a progressive council," Spencer said.

Habel noted that the June 22 council session will begin an hour earlier, at 6 p.m.

3rd Paint Wachapreague Workshop with Artist Mike Francis

Spend a week with Mike Francis. This workshop is going to be the best yet. Mike will give instructions, critiques in the gallery, and material techniques. Sat 6/11 through 6/15 (or Weekend Only 6/11 & 6/12) Sat - Chatham Vineyards, Wine Tasting & Gourmet Lunch. Sun - South Cedar & Parramore Barrier Islands Travel by DayTrippers includes Box Lunch. Mon - Tangier, Onancock Ferry to Tangier Island, returning to Onancock, Virginia & an Eastern Shore Boil by Johnny Mo Mallards At The Wharf. Tues - Paint Wachapreague and Dinner Island House Restaurant. Wed - Assateague Light & Pony Pens.

Lodging Options: Wachapreague Inn, discounts at the Charlotte Hotel & Restaurant in Onancock, Virginia about 10 minutes from Wachapreague

Cost: 5 Days $540 ($240 Weekend). I strongly encourage you to join us for the week. Painting at a Virginia Winery or on the Barrier Islands compliments of The Nature Conservancy's Brownsville Preserve, or even on an Island that has its own language and dialect so unique, it doesn't happen every day. Only to follow up with a chartered "Dead Rise" boat to return us to Mallards At The Wharf for an authentic private Eastern Shore Boil for Artists and their guests. This doesn't happen every month. I have designed this Mike Francis Workshop on the heels of painting at The Cedar Island Coast Guard Station event last year, which was very well attended.

Our Town Common Wachapreague has been well maintained with native plants and trees overlooking the Marsh and Wetlands. Without getting in a boat allows each artist to rest their sea legs, only to travel to Assateague State Park to paint "Plein Aire" as you incorporate the Lighthouse, or the world famous Chincoteague Ponies.

Additional Cost:

- Chatham Vineyards Wine Tasting & Box Lunch - $30
- Cedar & Parramore Island Water Taxi & Box Lunch - $30
- Tangier Onancock Ferry - $30. Round Trip (min. 15 passengers)
- Mallards At The Wharf - Eastern Shore Boil - $25

Lodging is not included. However, you can contact Nikki Wardius at the Wachapreague Inn. She also has large apartments and a lodge with family style kitchen. Homes are available. Be certain to mention The Mike Francis Workshop to get the discounted rate. The Charlotte Hotel & Restaurant is also recommended for an alternative upgrade and a short drive from the town of Wachapreague.

Students Earn Trip to Space Camp

Ten county students will attend space camp this summer because of a partnership between Accomack County Public Schools and Virginia Space Flight Academy (VSFA), according to Superintendent Chris Holland.

“This wonderful opportunity will allow area students to participate in a camp that might otherwise be impossible,” said Holland. “The county provides 50 percent of the tuition fees for these students, and VSFA covers the other 50 percent.”

“Our summer space camp program draws middle-school students from all around the country,” said Helen Sramek, executive director of VSFA. “We are able to reach area students with a goal of inspiring them to pursue a future in the sciences or engineering, perhaps right here on the Eastern Shore.”

Students, ages 11-15, were asked to submit a 500-word essay on the topic, “What does the expression ‘Reach for the Stars’ mean to you?”

“Obviously, the topic captured the imaginations of our students as we received over 80 applications, an unexpected record number,” said Holland.

An outside, independent review panel helped the county and VSFA staff choose the winning applicants.

“The process of winning the field and making the final decisions was difficult,” according to Sramek. “We read some amazing essays where students poured their hearts out to address the topic. School administrators, teachers, and parents are to be commended for their support in this process.”

Winning essays were submitted by Kaitlyn Miller, Tori Miller, Marvin Alvaro, J’Nya Gailliard, Conway Rough-ton and Pablo Rodriguez of Arcadia Middle School; Caitlyn Williams and Dezarey Snyder of Chincoteague; and Makayla Harding and Vaden Linton of Nandua.

Stanfield will begin his undergraduate studies at Old Dominion University, majoring in Business Information Systems with the ultimate goal of owning his own business.

During high school, he earned numerous awards and recognitions, held various positions of leadership, and played soccer — all while maintaining a high GPA. He has attained the rank of Eagle Scout and has logged countless hours of community service at chamber-sponsored events and other activities hosted by local organizations.

Handy and Perry Awarded Scholarships

Eastern Shore Training and Consulting, Inc. (ESTACI) has awarded its first Young Leaders Scholarships to Camra Handy of Arcadia High School and Kimberly Perry of Nandua High School.

Each will receive $2,500 toward a college education.

Road-e-o Winners

Awards were presented by Superintendent Chris Holland to the winners of the Annual Accomack County Public Schools Bus Road-e-o (from left): Donald Parrish, second place; Tammy Reilly, third place; and Robbie Cherrix, first place. The Road-e-o is held each year at Arcadia High School and challenges the knowledge and skills of school-bus drivers. There is a written portion and then a 10 station skills course. Cherrix will go on to compete in the State Competition this month in Richmond.

Michaela Bloxom Wins Logo Competition

Each year the Eastern Soil and Water Conservation District holds a T-shirt design competition that rotates annually for local high-school art students.

This year's Dominion Envirothon T-shirt Logo Competition was held at Nandua High School and the winning design was created by junior Michaela Bloxom.

Her design will be printed on T-Shirts to be worn by the local Dominion Envirothon teams during their competition.

For her winning design, Bloxom received a $50 cash prize and T-shirts for her and her family.

An 11th grader at Arcadia High School, Bass plans to go to a four-year college in Virginia and major in architecture and minor in interior design or painting. “We moved here from New Jersey because we thought it was the right place to raise our children. Turns out it’s also the right place to experience a special kind of warmth when you’re getting breast cancer treatment. You notice it when you walk into the Riverside Shore Cancer Center where I went every day for months. In that time, I never felt anything but total support and professionalism from the staff. They must leave their own personal lives and challenges at the door, because they never have a bad day when it comes to the people they care for.” -Sharon Bjorlo

TYLER WEBB SHINES ON SPECIAL NIGHT AT HARBOR PARK

The script for Tyler Webb could not have been more perfect last Saturday night at Harbor Park in Norfolk.

The 2009 graduate of Northampton High School, now playing for the New York Yankees' Triple A club, was making his first professional start about an hour away from his boyhood home in Nassawadox. Family and a large contingent of friends were there, knowing he would be pitching. Last year, the same group attended all three games the Scranton/Wilkes Barre Railriders played against the Norfolk Tides at Harbor Park, but Webb, a reliever, never saw any action in that series.

Webb wrote the perfect ending with four innings of scoreless ball, striking out six and allowing only two hits, one an infield single, and walking none as the Railriders won 4-0. The longest stint of the season for Webb reduced his earned run average to a sparkling 1.59. In 22.2 innings, he has struck out 32 batters while walking only six, an outstanding ratio.

Webb learned he was to be the starter for the second game of the series earlier in the week, but he's not sure if it is part of a plan to convert him to a starter, a role he had his freshman season and early his sophomore year at the University of South Carolina, where he eventually was a third team All-American reliever who appeared in three college World Series.

"I am not even sure they (management) know at this point," said Webb on Monday, then in Durham, N.C., for a four-game series. "The team needed a starter because of some call-ups, and I was the reliever who could go the most innings. The plan was for me to pitch three innings and throw about 50 pitches, but it was going well, so I went back out for the fourth inning and wound up throwing about 60," said Webb.

"They told me to get my rest and be ready, but I don't know if it will be as a starter or reliever," added Webb, who will turn 26 in July.

The 6', 6" lefthander threw out of the stretch — typical for most relievers who often come into the game with runners on base — and has no plans to incorporate a windup into his delivery, even if he continues to start. "I haven't used a windup since I was a starter in college," Webb said. "I try to simplify things, and there's less that can go wrong pitching from the stretch. I don't feel I gain that much using a windup."

The lights reflecting pitch speeds showed Webb's fastball hit a high of 93, but several of his strikeouts came on breaking pitches or changeups in the dirt. The Tides' Christian Walker, Webb's roommate for three years at USC and still a very good friend, was twice a strikeout victim.

"I try to treat Christian as just another batter, but he was the last batter I faced in the fourth inning, and with a runner on base, I had a little extra juice to get me through the at-bat. We texted a few times during the series and will get together when the Tides come to Scranton," said Webb.

If Webb is frustrated that his impressive pitching stats haven't earned him a promotion to the majors, particularly when the Yankees have signed veteran hurlers discarded by other teams or have called up minor leaguers with higher ERAs, he doesn't let it show.

"I am always happy when my teammates get called up. As for me, all I can do is pitch as well as I can and be ready if I get an opportunity, knowing that it's not always performance that dictates who gets called up."

A Yankee fan as a child, Webb hopes his next baseball address is New York City, but would settle for any major league city. "I hope to wear pinstripes one day, but my ultimate goal is to pitch in the major leagues, so I would welcome any opportunity that might arise," he said.

Later this year, the Yankees will have to make a decision on Webb. Because he has four years in the minors, he will have to be placed on New York's 40-man roster or be made available in a draft to other major league teams in a Rule 5 draft. The Rule 5 draft is a Major League Baseball player draft that occurs each December at the annual winter meeting of general managers. It aims to prevent teams from stockpiling too many young players on their minor league affiliate teams when other major league teams would be willing to have them.

The only stipulation is that a team that selects a player in the Rule 5 draft must then keep the player on the major league 25-man roster for the entire next season, and the selected player must remain active (not on the disabled list) for a minimum of 90 days, or he goes back to his original team.

As for Webb, as low-keyed and modest an athlete as I have ever encountered, he maintains he only focuses on what he can do to be ready for any opportunity that comes his way. "I am only trying to control what I can control," he said. "Everything else will take care of itself."

Staying healthy is paramount, added Webb, who saw his season cut short at the end of June last year with a tendon injury in the index finger on his throwing hand. "Some of my teammates are out for the season with injuries, including (Nick) Rumbelow, who had Tommy John surgery. I know how that feels," says Webb, who as a junior in high school had the surgical procedure in which a healthy tendon extracted from an arm or sometimes a leg is used to replace an arm's torn ligament.

He says he doesn't even think about the injury to his finger this season and wants to continue to put up numbers that help the team.

Watching him pitch last Saturday night were his father, Kirk, who once pitched at Old Dominion, and both sets of grandparents, Kenny and Fay Webb, and Bart and Margaret Holland. His mother, Kristin, had to be with Tyler's high-school twin sisters, Taylor and Kennedy, at a volleyball tournament in Blacksburg. The sisters, who both scored in a Northampton regional soccer match Friday night in Goochland, are bound for Randolph College in Lynchburg next year to play volleyball.

Also there was his wife of about six months, Lauren, a nurse in Columbia, S.C., where the Webbs make their off-season home.

There had to be a gasp among Webb's supporters when in the third inning, the first hit he gave up was a line drive that ricocheted off his leg and bounced toward third base.

Webb never flinched, and though teammates rushed to the mound to check him out, no trainer came out of the dugout. Webb waved off his teammates and didn't require a warm-up pitch. "It was a little sore the next day, but it was no big deal. I should have caught it," said Webb manner-of-factly.

Webb threw 58 pitches, 40 for strikes in a very efficient outing.

That same night, Michael Pineda, the Yankee starter, gave up five runs in the first two innings and is 1-5 with a 7.68 ERA over his last seven starts.

While the Yankee bullpen is outstanding, with relievers Dellin Betances, Andrew Miller and Aroldis Chapman locking down wins beginning in the seventh inning, the starters have been uneven this season.

That's why some speculated the start for Webb was a sign he was being groomed to be the starter he once was.

Yankee blogs are calling for changes in the rotation, but you will not get Webb to weigh in on that.

One thing that can't be denied is the difference in compensation between Triple A and the majors. While it is not all that many miles from Scranton, Pa., to New York City, the difference in pay can be measured in light years.

Many think baseball players are overpaid, but that certainly is not true at the minor league level. Triple A players might make $3,000 a month when playing. The major league minimum salary is currently $503,000 annually. So, a promotion for Webb would mean going from about $3,000 a month to just over $3,000 a game, whether he plays or not. And then there are the perks.

Saturday night, Webb did nothing to hurt his chances of making his dream of playing major league baseball come true.

The truth is no one grows up dreaming of starting a minor league game. That is just a step along the way. Webb said he can recall visiting Harbor Park only once as a boy growing up on the Eastern Shore. "I played a lot of travel ball, and when I wasn't playing ball, I wanted to go out on the boat and be on the water."

Spoken like a true Shoreman.

Ponies Win Conference, Nipped in Regional Semis

Story and photos by Bill Sterling

In a bizarre game that lasted 11 innings, Chincoteague finally bit the dust in a 6-3 loss to Rappahannock Wednesday at the Pony field. The winner of the regional semi-final was guaranteed a trip to Radford for the state semi-final next Friday.

The quick-moving game appeared to be nearing an end in less than 90 minutes before Chincoteague rallied to tie the game 1-1 in the sixth inning on a Dylan Mason single, scoring Trevor Reed.

Then when Rappahannock moved ahead in the top of the ninth inning on a sacrifice fly and a hit batsman with the bases loaded to take a 3-1 lead, Chincoteague's Trey Fisher delivered a two-out, two-strike, two-run homer to tie the game and force two more innings.

That call, among several others, was argued vehemently. Rappahannock players and coaches said the ball bounced over the fence and should have been a ground-rule double.

Chincoteague felt a ball ruled fair in the Rappahannock ninth that loaded the bases was clearly wide of the base line.

Rappahannock's Devin Sisson hit a three-run homer in the top of the 11th inning, and the Ponies could not answer in the home half of the final inning, concluding a game that spanned three and one half hours.

Pony starter Dustin Holloway escaped two bases-loaded jams in the first two innings, with help from catcher Matt Reed, who picked off a Cougar runner off third base in the opening frame.

Holloway settled down and held the Cougars to a single run in 8.2 innings, delivering a valiant effort before giving away to Trevor Reed, then Ryan Mason and finally Dylan Mason. Both teams made outstanding plays on defense to save runs.

Holloway, at times, couldn't find the plate, but then helped himself by picking a Cougar runner off first in the seventh, before Matt Reed eliminated another runner who reached on a walk by throwing him out on an attempted steal.

"It was as strange a game as I've ever been part of," said Pony coach Will Thompson, "but I am proud of the way the guys hung in there right to the end."

Chincoteague entered the postseason limited in its options, as its starting catcher and number two pitcher, Collin Derrickson, is scheduled for Tommy John surgery next week. The junior did play right field and contributed at the plate. Holloway, a sophomore, came up big for the Ponies in the playoffs on the mound.

Ponies Claim Title

Chincoteague players celebrate winning the Conference 41 baseball title following a 6-2 win over Windsor last Thursday.

Windsor last Thursday at the Pony field.

Dustin Holloway started the game and was relieved by Trey Fisher after encountering control problems, but Holloway returned to the mound to pitch two strong innings to nail the win.

Two running catches by Holloway and Collin Derrickson in the third inning limited Windsor to only one run. Derrickson's catch in deep right field came with two outs and the bases loaded and likely saved three runs.

Chinco Wins Opener

Chincoteague won its regional opener at home with a 5-2 win over Mathews Tuesday.

Pony starter Trey Fisher gave up two runs in the opening inning, then shut down the Mathews attack the remainder of the game, fanning seven batters.

Dustin Holloway, Collin Derrickson, Ryan Mason, Matt Reed and Miles Libertino each scored a run for the Ponies to lead the offense.

Nandua Wins Conference, Bows Out in Regional Opener

Story and photos by Bill Sterling

Nandua softballers tried to give the game away in the top of the seventh inning, but then took it back and claimed the Conference 33 championship with a 4-3 win over Maggie Walker last Friday at home.

Tyra BJORLO highlighted the two-run rally in the seventh with a triple that scored D'errica Toppin from first base for the tying run. BJORLO then scored the winning run on a line drive by Sarah GEPES that was dropped by the Green Dragon left fielder.

BJORLO was 3 for 3 and drove in a run. Emily JUSTIS had a double, Amanda BAYLIS had a run-scoring single, and Paige DiMartino had a single.

Toppin struck out six and walked none in 6.2 innings, allowing five hits. JUSTIS got the final out and was the winning pitcher, thanks to the Warrior rally.

Maggie Walker was held scoreless and was down to its last out, trailing 2-0 with a runner on first, when a Warrior error started a three-run rally aided by a walk and passed ball.

But Nandua responded with two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to claim the conference trophy.

"It was a crazy ending. We tried to hard to lose it," said Nandua coach Lynn Williams. "It took every single one of us to win that game. Defensively and offensively, we played together as a team to get the win. We made some great diving catches and snagged some hard-hit line drives that could have easily hurt us," added Williams.

Nandua Topped by Nottoway 9-1

Nandua softball's stellar season came to an end Tuesday with a 9-1 home loss to Nottoway in regional play.

After winning the Eastern Shore District with a 9-0 mark and compiling an 18-3 overall mark in taking the Conference 33 title, the Lady Warriors ran into a tough pitcher in the Cougars' Hannah Hudson, who struck out nine and scattered seven hits.

Paige DiMartino had two hits and accounted for the lone Nandua run with a third-inning double, scoring Leah Truitt, who had singled.

Four of the nine Nottoway runs were unearned as three Nandua errors padded the Cougar scoring.

nings, with Emily JUSTIS finishing up the final three innings.

C. Garrett had three hits, drove in two runs and scored a pair for Nottoway.

Ponies Fall in Conference, Regional

Chincoteague came up short against Essex in a regional opener, dropping a 6-1 decision as opposing pitcher Arleigh Wood struck out 13 batters.

Ronny Malone had a single, stole a base and scored a run for the Ponies.

Caroline Thornton was 1 for 3 and saved at least three runs with outstanding defense.

Chincoteague reached the Conference 41 softball finals before falling to Windsor 10-0 last Thursday on the road. Ronny Malone and Nicole Howard had the only hits for the Ponies. Madison Tyndall took the loss.

"I was pleased with the way we played this year, said Chincoteague coach Jimmy Bloxom. "We had nine wins, good for our program, and have everyone back next year except one player."

Northampton Boys' Soccer Advances to State Final Four

Story and photos by Bill Sterling

Northampton will return to the final four in the state soccer playoffs for a second consecutive year with a 2-1 win over Rappahannock Wednesday night.

After a scoreless first half, the Jackets took a 2-0 lead with a goal by Arturo "Junior" Gildo and then a penalty kick by Brian Terron. Rappahannock scored late in the game and pushed its players forward, attempting to tie the game in the final minutes, but the Jacket defense stiffened and held on

Jacket Netters Fall

The Northampton girls tennis team dropped their first match after 10 wins in falling to Mathews 6-0 last Friday.

"The girls realize that we are now playing in a higher level of tennis, and I believe it goes a long way for us to meet in the state finals," said Jacket coach Mike Varricchio.

Northampton netters will compete in the state semi-finals on Tuesday.

Northampton plays in the 1A Regional championship tonight at Riverheads, 16-0 with dominating wins this season, but win or lose, will advance to next Friday's state semi-final in Radford.

Northampton coach John Gorman has praised this year's team for its unselfishness, stating his team has tremendous depth and the players don't worry about their minutes on the field.

Jackets Win Opener

Northampton won a 1A East Regional opener by blanking Middlesex 5-0 Tuesday night at home.

The Jackets took a 3-0 halftime lead, with Jesus Maldonado finding the net just seconds before the whistle with his second goal. Brian Terron notched the first Jacket goal.

Middlesex held Northampton scoreless in the second half until Billy Martinez scored with 7:30 remaining in the game. Noah Leffell capped the scoring with a breakaway, beating the goalie in

Chris Montalvo had two assists.

Jacket coach John Gorman said defensive players Abimael Ortiz, Brian Terron, Garrett Marsh and José Palacio played well, keeping the ball on the offensive side of the field.

Jackets Win Conference

Northampton claimed the Conference 41 soccer title for the second consecutive year with a 4-0 win over Windsor last Thursday.

Chris Montalvo scored two goals and Noah Leffell and Mariano Gaytan added one each.

Jesus Maldonado, 13, nears the goal in Tuesday's 5-0 win over Middlesex. Maldonado had two goals to lead Jacket scoring.

Northampton Girls' Soccer Defeated in Regional Play

The Northampton girls' soccer team saw its season come to an end Monday on an extremely wet field at Maggie Walker with a 4-0 loss in regional play.

The Jackets' Taylor Webb barely missed some scoring opportunities in the first half as Maggie Walker took a 2-0 halftime lead. The Dragons' Claire Schweiker and Kira Flores scored two goals apiece to make the final 4-0.

"I thought we played them very well; they had to earn all of their goals, and again we never gave up. In tough game situations, our defense and goal keeper have really stepped up and played with confidence. Our offense has been very strong all season. I'm very proud of this team for having an outstanding season and most of all for having a great time doing it," said Northampton coach Tabi Webb.

Jackets Reach Conference Finals

The Northampton girls' soccer team dropped a 7-3 decision to Goochland

Friday on the road. Although a 1A school, the Jackets are moved up to 2A Conference 34 for the postseason tournament due to the low number of 1A schools fielding soccer squads. Still, the Jackets reached the conference finals with two wins prior to Friday's match.

Goochland scored with 24 minutes left in the first half, though Jacket goalkeeper Elizabeth Lilliston had saved two shots just prior to the goal. Goochland added two more goals to go up 3-0, but Kennedy Webb scored on a direct kick with seven minutes remaining, and then with three minutes left, Taylor Webb scored on a cross from Erica Head to draw Northampton within one goal at half.

Goochland scored two more goals in the second half before Taylor Webb scored off a pass from Ashlyn Arnold to make the score 5-3. However, Goochland added two more goals prior to the final whistle.

"They were a strong team. Despite the score, the girls never gave up, still having offensive opportunities throughout the game," said Northampton coach Tabi Webb, who praised goal-superb saves and Taylor Webb, who scored seven postseason goals.

Northampton's Michael Jones won the 300-meter hurdles in 41.78 and placed second in the 110-meter hurdles in 16.34 to lead the Jacket boys to a third-place finish among 19 teams in the 1A East Regional Track and Field Meet at Sussex Central High School last Thursday.

Austin Brady

Middlesex won the meet with 72 points, Lancaster was second with 70, followed by Northampton with 57 and Mathews with 45.

The Jacket girls had 5 points for a 17th place finish.

The state track and field meet for 1A Northampton and 2A Arcadia and Nandua athletes is today and tomorrow in Radford.

Nandua Nine Reach Conference Finals, Fall to Goochland in Regional Play

The Nandua baseball team dropped a 3-2 nail biter to Maggie Walker on the road in the Conference 33 championship last Friday.

Playing on the road, the Warriors tied the game 2-2 in the top of the fifth inning, but the Green Dragons pushed a run across the the bottom of the sixth inning

Austin Atkinson was the hard-luck loser for Nandua, giving up only five hits and being hurt by three Warrior errors.

Derek Bjorlo was 3-for-3 and scored a run. Hunter Hickman was 2-for-3.

Nandua finished its season Monday at 13-7 with a 4-0 defeat at the hands of Goochland, who finished 19-3 on the year.

Coleman Duty pitched seven scoreless innings to lead Goochland. John King recorded two runs and two stolen bases for the victors.

"We showed great improvement as a team this year compared to last year," said Nandua coach Luke Brankley. "That's all a coach can ask for, is improvement. The players got a taste of regionals, and they understand what it takes to get there and to advance. The future looks bright again."

The Warriors started as many as five sophomores and a junior this season.

Flounder, Drum Still the Staples for Anglers

Ron Greaser of Don's Tackle Shop says flounder fishing is holding up fairly well as water temps are now in the mid 60s. Flounder fishing from Gargatha south to Willis Wharf is steady throughout, with the best bite on the incoming tides. The red worm hatch is in full swing on Swash Flats at Wachapreague.

Black drum are still being caught outside Quinby Inlet and surf fishermen are picking up a few rockfish and a decent bite on red drum. Jeff Mears weighed in a 8¼-pound sheepshead, along with two black drum in the Wachapreague surf.

Offshore anglers scored big numbers of dolphin and yellowfin tuna in the Norfolk Canyon. Sea bass are on the inshore wrecks, and Paramore Reef has sea bass, and some flounder were taken there last weekend.

Bayside anglers are scoring on rockfish in the creeks, casting to them with hard baits and Zman and Bass Assassin plastic on jig heads.

Greaser says bull red drum and good numbers of cobia are on the edges of Pungoteague flats. They still are being taken trolling spoons and sight casting with big swim baits. Anchoring up and setting up a chum line will bring in cobia and rockfish.

Lower bay anglers are scoring big on the black drum bite at Buoy 13 above the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel. Don's Tackle Shop also weighed in a 9½-pound sheepshead taken the by the crew on Kevin Lewis' boat and a 10-pound, 11-ounce sheepshead caught by Ray Willett, both caught around Buoy 13.

Some flounder are showing around the CBBT.

Bradford Still Landing Fish

Nathan Bradford of Belle Haven caught this 40-pound, 15-ounce black drum measuring 42.5 inches fishing with Monte Penney last week in the lower Chesapeake Bay. The 13-year-old angler photographs and records detailed information on his catches and has now caught 553 fish in 2016, more than he had caught at this point last year, when he landed 1,569 fish.

By Cheryl Nowak

Lord knows I have at times lost my way, lost my place, lost my bearings, lost track of time and lost my mind — often simultaneously.

But lately, I appear to have progressed from the metaphorical to the literal.

It all started with the loss of an earring — unfortunately, not the most unusual occurrence for me. But this was in the middle of a dinner meeting and it was difficult to account for the sudden baring of my earlobe since I had pretty much been sitting still for the previous hour. Perhaps we can blame it on some extra vigorous chewing. The earring remains among the missing.

(But as an aside, can we please initiate a fad of wearing a different earring in each ear? Why must they match? Nothing else in fashion does. That would open a whole new wealth of choices for my wearing pleasure.)

Anyway, it wasn't long before I discovered while riding in the car on a dark night that my birthstone ring belied its name and had no stone.

And what greater meaning might that signify? That my birth was annulled? That I couldn't hold on to a complete piece of jewelry for either ears or finger?

No, that latter explanation was eliminated in short order as I soon discovered I had lost a dress. Yes, that's right. A dress.

Getting ready for a date with my husband, we both agreed that I would just wear my standby black dress. As I nonchalantly approached my closet to retrieve said dress, I was a bit perplexed when it didn't materialize immediately. Shuffling through a few more hangers, I became slightly concerned and then downright shocked to come up empty. I subsequently searched suitcases, dry cleaners and faraway relatives in an attempt to locate the fugitive dress.

But alas, it was not to be. And the dress remains AWOL. How does one lose a dress?

Probably the same way one loses a cat.

Yep, though this happens periodically with my older feline who loves to explore, this time there was no finding my younger orange recluse, Brandy. This is a cat who is rarely seen even when she isn't lost. You could live in my house for a month and never lay eyes on Brandy, whose preferred refuge is under a bed in the guest room.

But this time, Brandy was nowhere to be found. I tried calling, and searching, and even announcing "The Game," whereby treats are thrown for her and her brother, but all to no avail.

Acknowledging that if this homebound cat escaped to the Great Outdoors, she would be overwhelmed into a CATatonic state, I told my husband that I thought Brandy had gone to the Great Beyond — or into the backyard — same thing.

Eventually accepting what I assumed to be the inevitable, I was not prepared to hear the faint mewling emanating from who knew where. Investigating "meow" by "meow," I ultimately located one traumatized kitty in the back recesses of the attic.

The uncanny aspect of this whole "losing season" is that it is my husband who normally loses pretty much everything (he would agree).

In fact, for his recent birthday, his sister gave him a "Tile," an electronic gizmo which can be attached to an item, such as car keys, to notify the owner of its location in the event that it is lost. In fact, I recommended the present.

Unfortunately — and she is reading it here for the first time — we have been unable to thank her for the effectiveness of this oh-so-appropriate gift.

We lost it.

Repave Belinda Road, Not Saxis Road

Dear Editor:

Our tax dollars were spent repaving a road that did not need it — Saxis Road coming in from Temperanceville. It was in good shape, but Belinda Road has been bad for years and the last year has been the worst.

It is so bumpy it is like riding on a railroad track and last week, there was fatality on that road. It has "under construction" signs that have been there for over a year and all they did was put some gravel on it, making it worse.

The road coming in from Horsey is getting bad.

Do the roads that need it.

Eva Porter, Temperanceville
