One Dies After Four Shot in Exmore; Capeville Man Charged with Murder

By Cheryl Nowak

Twenty-two-year-old Alexander Hunter Picott-Cleveland of Capeville is being held in Eastern Shore Regional Jail, charged with murder, following a multiple shooting in Exmore Saturday night.

Picott-Cleveland also faces charges of using a firearm while committing murder, three counts of malicious wounding, three counts of using a firearm while committing malicious wounding, reckless handling of a firearm, and brandishing a firearm.

On Saturday at approximately 7:30 p.m., Exmore Police Department and Northampton County Sheriff's Office responded to a report that three people had been shot in the area of Frederick Douglass Road in Exmore.

According to Sheriff David Doughty, when officers arrived on the scene, they discovered two male victims; both were transported to Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital (RSMH) in critical condition. The suspect had fled the scene in a vehicle prior to the officers' arrival.

Shortly after 8 p.m., Northampton Sheriff's Office received information that the suspect was at a residence on Arlington Road near Kiptopeke State Park. At 8:09 p.m., a second call was received through 911 that there was a gunshot victim at 29192 Arlington Rd.

Doughty said that when deputies arrived, they discovered one male and one female victim. The male was in critical condition and the female was stable with non-life-threatening injuries. The male, Ronald Graves, 30, of Portsmouth, Va., was transported to Sentara Norfolk General Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival, the sheriff said, adding that the female victim had been injured in the previous incident in Exmore and was taken to RSMH.

Picott-Cleveland

According to Doughty, Picott-Cleveland, had fled the scene. Law-enforcement officers from Northampton Sheriff's Office, Exmore and Cape Charles police departments, and Virginia State Police, and aircraft from the Virginia Beach Police Department and Maryland State Police searched the surrounding areas for Picott-Cleveland until around 3:30 a.m.

He was taken into custody without incident by deputies around 6:45 a.m.

One of the victims from the Exmore incident is still hospitalized and listed in stable but critical condition. The other two victims from the Exmore incident have been treated and released.

Anyone with information on this incident is asked to contact Northampton Sheriff's Office or Exmore Police Department.

Parents Bring Complaints to Accomack School Board

By Linda Cicaira

Two parents complained to the Accomack School Board Tuesday night about separate safety issues at two schools.

"There was an incident at Nandua High School where the video surveillance cameras in the gym were of utmost importance," Connie Burford of Bloxom told the board members during a public participation portion of the monthly meeting. "Because I was involved in the incident, I submitted a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request for the video from both cameras during the specific time period in question."

Burford, whose son attends the school, said her intention was to send those videos and her cell phone video with a formal complaint about principal George Parker to school division compliance officer, Chief of Staff Jason Baldwin.

"What I received back was a single camera angle, aimed approximately 10 feet from the wall, even though it had drapes about three feet in front of it from prom decorations" and "would have been rendered unusable even if it was a clear view. It simply showed nothing," she reported.

"NHS, the prima donna school in the county, has less surveillance than any other school in this county," she said. "I don't believe that is the case."

"It would be disheartening to find out that the principal did not report that the equipment was in need of repair and even more shocking to find that (Chief of Management and Operations) Mr. (Mike) Tolbert did not comply with the FOIA request and release both camera views," Burford said, "especially since the camera he didn't release was completely unblocked."

"The fact remains if there had been a legitimate safety issue in that school, the camera would have been of no use to law enforcement or school administration ... and this defeats the purpose of the cameras in the first place," the parent said.

The School Board, Parker, Baldwin and Tolbert offered no response to Bur-ford's comments. Burford said she filed her formal complaint anyway. Parker was interim principal on May 13, the day for which Burford wanted a copy of the videos. He has since been made principal for the upcoming term.

Meredith O'Brien of Parksley, PTA president for Metompkin Elementary School, complained about the recent septic-system failure at the facility and the lack of communication among school workers. O'Brien will have two children at the school in the next term, a kindergarten student and a second grader.

"Somewhere here, communication seriously broke down," she said. "To the best of my knowledge, I am the one who reported the raw sewage leak on the playground to the health department very late in the day on May 25," O'Brien reported. "It is nothing short of infuriating at the thought of my child, and everyone else's children, playing in human feces for more than a few days."

"Somewhere, somehow, this needs to be fixed," she added. "And fixed now. No more fear from teachers trying to protect their students. This isn't a game. Transparency and communication, from the bottom up, needs to be priority number one within this district."

O'Brien said she learned of the problem when "I received an urgent phone call from a teacher at the school, telling me" there was "still sewage bubbling up on the playground."

One teacher reported "the wet ground and sewage smell a week prior to the principal and assistant principal." She said the teacher noticed it on May 25 and reported it to a custodian.

O'Brien said she called the health department and was told "there were no active reports regarding raw sewage on Metompkin's playground. ... By the time I made it home from picking up my son at preschool, there was a message on my machine telling me that the septic system was failing, the playground is sitting on top of the drain field and they have spread it with lime."

Tolbert said the problem was resolved with the replacement of pumps and a control panel but that the health department was not yet brought in to inspect the system because the contractor needed to file a report on the work. He said the area was closed to students and work began as soon as a report was made. He voiced dismay that the teachers or school administrators would not have reported the issue to him sooner. School Board members also complained that they knew nothing about the problem until they read about it in the newspaper.

O'Brien said later that school workers call her because she doesn't work for the division and can't be fired. "People fear for their jobs," she explained.

Robert Snyder of New Church spoke about the proposed new gym at Kegotank Elementary, where his children attend. He inquired about the square footage and how it would affect the parking issue there.

Officials said the gym size would not be affected, but the number of people who could attend functions there would.

"I can't see why parking can't be added to the front yard," said member Audrey Furness. "Maybe not the most beautiful thing. It's not feasible to build a building that is not going to meet our needs."

"The land mass does exist ... that we could add parking," Tolbert said, adding that it is "more difficult to plan these days than the building is."

Furness also complained that erecting and dismantling a mobile stage would become tiresome. Tolbert replied that such tasks were just part of his staff's job.

Superintendent Chris Holland has mentioned several times publicly that he has eliminated positions, but has not elaborated. A recent personnel list approved by the School Board showed the position of coordinator for public affairs, held by Roberta Baldwin, was eliminated, effective June 30. Baldwin declined to comment about the change.

The School Board also authorized Finance Director Beth Onley and Tolbert to sign all state education department reports, documents, requisitions and other official correspondence in the absence of the superintendent, as was recommended by Holland.

Details Disclosed in Rhatigan Homicide

By Linda Cicoira

More details became available Monday in the homicide of a Northampton man whose body was found last week off Davis Wharf Road near Craddockville.

According to a search warrant filed in Accomack, the body of 41-year-old Eric Clifford Rhatigan, was found in "a dirt field" about "145 feet from the street." The report was made by Susan Kelly Antrim, who identified him for police and said he was the father of her children.

The search warrant involved a "black/gray cell phone" that was found 70 feet from the body. "The cell phone is currently in the custody of the Accomack County Sheriff's Office evidence room," the document states. "The search warrant will allow for a phone dump of all data currently from the phone and ... could further any information that could lead to an arrest."

"The search would include any flash/memory media found attached therein to include call lists, contacts, logs, calendars, text messages, email, photo or video," according to the record.

Though the Norfolk Medical Examiner's Office completed an autopsy, Donna Price of that office would not disclose information about the cause and manner of Rhatigan's death, nor would Accomack Sheriff Todd Godwin.

Drowning Was Cause of Quinby Harbor Death

By Linda Cicoira

According to the Norfolk Medical Examiner's Office, the cause of death for Roger Meeks Jr., 61, of Eldersburg, Md., whose body was pulled from the water at Quinby Harbor June 11, was accidentally drowning.

While foul play was not indicated, Meeks was taken for autopsy so a final determination of the cause of death could be made.

Sheriff Todd Godwin previously reported that Meeks had been staying with a friend who owns property in Quinby.

U.S. District Court

A Bloxom woman was given five years of probation Monday in U.S. District Court in Norfolk for embezzling $7,510.69 from an Eastern Shore post office between July 2012 and September 2013.

Thirty-eight-year-old Cynthia Joy Merritt also was ordered to pay restitution for fraudulently obtaining the money in cash and money orders. It was not clear from records at which post office she worked.

“Taking all ... factors into account, the government respectfully submits a sentence of incarceration would not serve the United States at this time,” prosecutor Dana J. Boente wrote. “The defendant is responsible for many minor children that would probably need to be designated for social services. The defendant does need education and a condition of her probation would appropriately include completing her GED.”

Merritt pleaded guilty March 31, 2016. Her lawyer stated that the “sentence of probation would reflect the seriousness of the offense, promote respect for the law and provide just punishment to Ms. Merritt. With this conviction, Ms. Merritt is now a convicted felon. She is mature enough to appreciate the negative stigma that is now attached to her because of her ill-advised decisions to make some extra money by engaging in this fraudulent activity.”

Accomack Circuit Court

A New York woman was acquitted of a felony drug offense last week in Accomack Circuit Court.

Tanisha Ayanna Jacobs, 39, of Wall Street in Garnerville was found not guilty of possessing cocaine April 9, 2015.

“I had a leather jacket that I wore to Virginia,” she told police. “It was too warm, so I borrowed my cousin’s sweatshirt. I was driving back to New York from Norfolk. I was speeding, so I was pulled over. When the officer came to me, he asked if I had anything in my car and I gave him permission to search. When he searched the sweat jacket, he found drugs,” she said.

Devin Treye Wessells, 22, with addresses in Bloxom and Pocomoke, Md., was sentenced to seven years and three months for stealing a car belonging to Alise Bailey. All but two years and three months was suspended. Wessells’ license was suspended for 60 days beginning when he is released.

John Lodise, 39, of Steele Avenue in Bristol, Pa., initially was charged with felony property destruction occurring May 25, 2014. He pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor and was sentenced to a year in jail, with all but 12 days suspended. Lodise also was ordered to make restitution of $650 to John Gillespie by July 16.

Laurie Criss, 41, of Cardinal Acres Drive in Parksley pleaded guilty to grand larceny, felony eluding, credit-card fraud, attempted credit-card fraud and felony property destruction, occurring Jan. 25. A presentence report and evaluation for diversion and detention were ordered.

Northampton Circuit Court

A Willis Wharf man pleaded guilty Monday in Northampton Circuit Court to robbing a 9-year-old girl at gunpoint last August and related offenses.

Eighteen-year-old Jabias (Nika) Keandre Kellam admitted to using a semi-automatic pistol while breaking into the El Rachito store in Cheriton Aug. 7, 2015, with the intent to commit robbery. The store belongs to Adela Montalvo. A count of use of a firearm in a felony in connection with the incident will not be prosecuted. A presentence report was ordered.

Kellam also was convicted of two counts of possession with intent to distribute cocaine, occurring Jan. 4 and 26. Five other similar counts and a count of possession of cocaine were not prosecuted.

Ivan Ray Ross, 57, of Fox Trailer Court in Eastville was sentenced for possession of a firearm by a felon to three years and three months, with all but three months suspended. He was also given a 12-month suspended term for reckless handling of a firearm. Both crimes occurred April 4, 2015.

A Chincoteague man was accused Sunday of strangling another island resident, according to records filed in Accomack General District Court.

4 CAMPAIGN FOR SCHOOL BOARD SEATS

By Linda Cicaira

Accomack School Board members Janet Turner, Aaron Kane and Naudya Mapp asked the School Board Selection Commission to re-appoint them last week. Peggy Drewer, a retired banker and teacher from Davis Wharf, is competing against Mapp for the District 9 position.

At a public hearing June 16, Turner, Kane and Drewer each offered information about themselves and why they want to be on the panel. Chairwoman Jodi Green said Mapp was out-of-town, but wants to retain her post. Decisions were expected around press time Thursday.

"My feeling is our children are the future," said Drewer, who taught kindergarten at Pungoteague Elementary when it was South Accomack. "I've listened to the community." Most recently, Drewer volunteered at Nandua Middle School's library. "Tuesday was my last day," she said. "When I left, I almost cried. I fell in love with those kids. ... I can tell you I'm very adaptable, but I am not a pushover for these kids."

"She pulled up disadvantaged students' test scores ... and takes every opportunity ... even when they don't know that they are being taught," said daughter-in-law Leslie Drewer. "You will never find anyone more dedicated and no one with the fiscal background to go with it."

Ann Gregory, also of Davis Wharf, said her neighbor "does a lot of tutoring. She would drop everything and go where she's needed. She is what kids need."

Nancy Davis, another neighbor and friend, added, "We're a small rural county, but that need not mean we fall behind. We need on the School Board, a good businesswoman who will make wise financial decisions ... I urge you to choose her to represent us."

Sharon Gray said Drewer taught two of her children. "When A.J. (her son) moved on to first grade, he would always end up (going) in Mrs. Drewer's class" and taking a seat. "She had tears in her eyes when she learned my daughter graduated from college with honors ... Thank you for what you did," Gray said.

Kane, a music teacher and then assistant principal with 35 prior years in education, has been on the School Board for a decade. "I have truly enjoyed my experience," he said. "It's been quite rewarding. ... All I know is working with the boys and girls."

Kane said he is proud to be a product of Accomack County Public Schools. "We teach our children because they are our future," he added.

"I am low key," Kane said. "I like things done in order. My experience in the Army has helped me a lot. I never had discipline problems. ... I let them know what I was there for and we accomplished our mission."

Supervisor Grayson Chesser said Kane is "an honorable man. He does a very good job. ... It would be very hard to find someone who would do better."

District 7 representative Janet Turner was selected to fill the unexpired term of Shannon Wessells who moved out of the district. "My goals would continue to be the same," Turner said. "Provide the best education for the students, better communication between the school system and parents and promote ... transparency."

She was asked how other people who describe her. "I would hope ... as hard working, passionate about our school division. ... I don't have an agenda. I don't have relatives who work for the division."

Kegotank parent Elizabeth Taylor said Turner "has been a huge asset. She's done a wonderful job. She cares about the kids, the parents and the staff ... I beg you to keep her for another four years."

Metompkin Elementary PTA president Meredith O'Brien praised Turner. "She walked around the school to see how crowded they really are there. Even dropped off bags of items for our art teacher. ... Janet retaining her seat would be in the best interest of everyone."

Chesser was also there to speak for Turner on behalf of Supervisor Laura Belle Gordy. "She is one of the most engaged members of the board," he said of Turner. "She asks a lot of questions, sometimes the hard questions."

Accomack Board of Supervisors Chairman Ron Wolff also spoke for Turner. "She has made the greatest impact of any School Board member that is on the board today," he said, praising Turner for attending all school functions and for seeking information parents need.

"Her passion is for the students of Accomack County," said Wolff. "She's here to work hard."

Cape Charles OKs Budget

By Ron West

At its session last Thursday, Cape Charles Town Council unanimously approved the FY2017 budget and tax rates for the coming year.

The $7,974,132 budget will be funded by a combination of taxes, fees, and grants. The real estate tax rate was set at $0.3260 per $100 of assessed value; personal property at $2 per $100 assessed value; vehicle and golf-cart tax (decal) at $31 per vehicle; trailers at $18; and boats at $0.01 per $100 assessed value. Council unanimously approved the tax rate and proposed budget.

Also at last week's session, Stephen Fox and George Ferguson urged council to better manage the sand dunes that have grown along the beachfront. They said there needs to be a plan on how the dunes should look.

Bill Prickett and Tammy Holloway raised concerns over the delay in dredging that has been scheduled for Cape Charles Harbor. Specifically, they worried that its summer timing could have a negative impact on tourist traffic.

Police Chief Jim Pruitt reported that the number of incidents of thefts from vehicles and or homes has increased. He urged everyone to be extra vigilant locking doors as well as vehicles, and to avoid leaving valuables in plain sight.

Asked by Councilman Frank Wendell about the most expedient way to contact a town officer in the event of an emergency or to report a suspicious act, Pruitt responded that it is best to call 678-0458, the Sheriff's Department, which dispatches town officers.

A request by Cape Charles Yacht Center to reclassify 20 acres between the Yacht Center and Bayshore Concrete Products from Harbor District to Industrial was reviewed by council, which voted to forward the request to the Planning Commission for review.

Also at last week's meeting, two new and one returning council member were sworn in. Former Councilwoman and Mayor Dora Sullivan will be returning to a council seat July 1. Joining Sullivan will be Councilman Stephen Bennett, who won re-election, as well as newly elected Councilman Any Buchholz.

Early Christians

The first Christians came from among the Jews. They continued to worship as Jews and continued to observe the Sabbath (Acts 13:14, 17:1-2, 18:1-4). But because Jesus arose from the dead on the first day of the week, Sunday, those early Christians called it the "Lord's Day" (Revelation 1:10), and also regularly met for their Christian worship on Sunday (Acts 20:7, 1 Corinthians 16:2). So the Lord's Day is not the Sabbath day. It's okay to worship on Sunday, you break the Fourth Commandment if you work on Saturday the 7th day.

Thank You, Post Angel

Maternity Unit nurses

RSMH Nurses Earn Recognition

Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital recently presented the annual Florence Nightingale Awards to several nurses.

Named for the founder of modern nursing, the recognition comprises three nursing awards: Excellence in Nursing, Advancing and Leading the Profession and Community Service.

Cheryl Warren, BSN, RN, CCRN in the Intensive Care Unit was the recipient of the 2016 Excellence in Nursing award, which recognizes outstanding quality and safety in patient care, superior clinical skills, and extraordinary compassion.

Warren

"I was so surprised to be this year's honoree," said Warren. "I work with so many wonderful and deserving nurses. To be chosen by my peers is a real honor. I recently attained my bachelor of science in nursing degree after working as a registered nurse for almost 30 years, and it has transformed how I view the profession."

Along with being an ICU nurse, Warren co-chairs the Pathways to Excellence committee which supports patient care through a focus on an optimal nursing environment.

A native of the Shore, Warren has been with the hospital for more than 31 years and is active in the community.

This year's recipient of the Nightingale Award for Advancing and Leading the Profession was Ellen White, BSN, RN, CMSRN, CDE. The recognition is awarded to a nurse for having led, advanced, or strengthened nursing, either as a profession or in the delivery of patient care within and beyond the health care facility.

White explained, "I'm excited and honored — recognition by one's peers means so much to me. I love being a nurse, and I love learning and teaching. Knowledge gained only makes a difference if it is shared. It's so very important, and I hope to never stop learning."

White, a Shore native, has worked with the hospital for 14 years and is a wife, mother and grandmother as well as being very active in the community.

The final award, the Nightingale Award for Community Service, which recognizes the nursing team that has made significant contributions to the community, was given to the Maternal Child Health Unit of Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital for their work with the March of Dimes. The unit raised $2,800 for the cause and had more than 25 team members walk in the fundraiser.

Team manager Ann Pruitt accepted the award on behalf of the unit. "The Maternal Child Health Unit strives all year long to connect with our community," Pruitt said. "We look for ways to give back to the community that supports us. This acknowledgement is truly meaningful. ... We love our work and our families; bringing new life into the world is always exciting and a challenge, but we work together as a team to give our patients the highest care possible."

DO YOU KNOW WHAT DROWNING LOOKS LIKE?

There is very little splashing, waving, or shouting. Often help is nearby but no one knows what is happening. Drowning takes as little as 20-60 seconds.

Look for these signs:

- An inability to call for help.
- Panicked facial expression.
- Little or no support from the kick.
- Head is low in the water with mouth at water level.
- Hyperventilating or gasping.
- Trying to swim or grab something but going nowhere.
- Spreading hands or climbing “an invisible ladder.”
- An upright (vertical) position facing the nearest source of assistance.

If you think someone needs help ask if they are OK. If you don't get an answer act fast to help. Kids playing in the water make noise. When they get quiet, find out why.

Neuman Northam Remains 'Forever Young' Competing

Neuman Northam ran a bit of cross country back at Onancock High School, but never competed in track and field before graduating in 1974.

He joined the military after high school and during a six-year career took part in Golden Gloves boxing competition.

The Onley resident always liked staying in shape, and when he turned 50, he started training for the Senior Olympics.

Now 60, Northam is winning gold medals and qualifying for the National Senior Olympics with times that rival what many high-school runners can post.

"I work out two or three times a week," said Northam earlier this week after getting off his job as a truck driver for Perdue. "I go to the high-school tracks after school, or work out at the YMCA in Onley. I also train at William Wise Boxing and Fitness Center in Exmore. Everyone has really been supportive and helped me to compete."

Northam has excelled at running events in the 55 to 59 age group, but in May at the Virginia Senior Olympics, he captured a gold medal for his 101' eight" discus throw. The meet was held at Christopher Newport University in Newport News.

Two years ago, he tied the nation's fastest 50-meter time in his age group in 6.9 seconds. His personal best in the 100 meters is 13.1 seconds. His top time in the 200 meters is 28.23 seconds. Those times would not place him in the top six in last month's Eastern Shore District track and field meet, but he wouldn't be far behind the sixth-place times of 12.38 seconds in the 100 meter and 26.06 seconds in the 200. However, his discus throw at the State Olympics would have won third place at the district meet among the boys.

"I train with the high-school track athletes and can scare them a little, but I would never beat them," laughs Northam, who waited until the high-school season was over to have his story told because he didn't want to take any attention from them.

"Those guys work hard and deserve a lot of credit," says Northam. "Two years ago I trained with Tah're Pettit of Arcadia, and now he is one of the top runners in the state."

Northam qualified for National Olympics in five events: the 50-, 100- and 200-meter runs, the long jump and the discus.

The National Olympics will be held at the University of Alabama in July of 2017.

Newman says the sponsorship of Cooper and Humbles Funeral Home in Accomac, which helps him with training and travel expenses, has been a huge support to his athletic endeavors.

"I would like to see more Eastern Shore athletes competing in the Senior Olympics," said Northam. "The competition is so friendly, and everyone feels good about themselves. Most athletes are just happy to improve their personal bests. Winning is a bonus."

Northam, who says there are athletes in their 90s competing in the Senior Olympics, plans on competing as long as he can. In fact, having just turned 60, Northam will move into a new age group, 60-64, where he will be among the youngest athletes, not the oldest, as he was competing in the 55-59 age group in May.

Northam and his wife, Andrea, who he calls his "biggest supporter and number one cheerleader," have three children.

Asked if he could outrun his children, Northam laughed and reluctantly said, "Sometimes we will have a race, and I am still able to beat them."

Andrea and Neuman Northam

The medals the senior athletes receive bear the inscription, "Where athletes are forever young."

It seems Northam is racing age and coming up a winner.

For those interested in competing in the Senior Olympics, Northam says the Accomack Parks and Recreation Department has been helpful in keeping him informed of upcoming events.

The number for the department is 787-3900.

Kimberly Wert Named 2A All-State Softball

Kimberly Wert of Nandua was named to the first team 2A All-State team recently by coaches from around Virginia. Wert, who has caught, pitched and played shortstop in her three-year varsity career, was named as a utility player.

A junior, Wert committed to Division 1 Hofstra following her freshman season. She is the first Eastern Shore softball player to be named All-State in at least 30 years and likely the first ever.

"She is the perfect example of what hard work and dedication can become," said Nandua coach Lynn Williams. "I am most impressed with her ability to be a top student and a top athlete at Nandua. She is an excellent role model to younger players, and I am looking forward to her senior year as captain of the team," added Williams.

Wert was named Player of the Year by Eastern Shore District coaches for the third consecutive year this past season. She anchored the Nandua infield at shortstop, making spectacular plays with her range and powerful arm, and also led the Warriors in every major offensive category with 14 homers, 40 RBIs, 41 runs, four triples and a .583 average.

With Wert leading the Warriors since her freshman year, Nandua has not lost a district game, continuing a streak of eight straight Shore District titles. Nandua also won the Conference 33 championship this season before bowing out in the 2A East Regional semi-final.

Nandua completed its season with an 18-3 record, defeating two top Delaware teams and twice beating Essex, which reached the state's final four in 1A play.

Kim Wert connects for a long home run at Chincoteague. The Nandua junior was named to the first team 2A All-State softball team.

Angling Action Heating Up with the Weather

Dr. Julie Ball says the biggest in-shore draw is still cobia, and with the decent weather recently, the action has been hot. Sight casters are having the best success, with many boats scoring with double-digit hook-ups while cruising the lower bay and Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel areas. Many of these fish are pushing to well over 50 inches.

Red drum are still on a roll, according to Ball, with the Nine Foot Shoal and Latimer Shoal areas still consistently producing excellent catches of big drum. The bite could really heat up with the approaching full moon this week. Most catches are occurring via bottom fishing with crabs, but casters also are finding some good top-water action while throwing lures to big schools of reds meandering around the mouth of the bay and along the oceanfront.

Ball says some speckled trout are providing improving action along with some puppy drum within most lower bay inlets and shallows. Surf and pier anglers continue to find a widely mixed bag along the lower bay and ocean front, including nice sea mullet, bluefish, puppy drum, small flounder, spot, and small croaker. Bloodworms are always one of the top baits for these pan fish.

Spadefish are schooling in the usual spots around the Chesapeake Light Tower, nearshore wrecks, and around the islands and pilings of the CBBT. Anglers are having good luck with big sheepshead, with a few fish already pushing to over 10 pounds coming from lower bay structures and bridge pilings.

The Virginia offshore scene has been good when boats can get out. Nice yellowfin tuna, tackle-busting bigeye tuna, along with very good numbers of nice gaffer mahi are the main catches recently. Mako sharks and wahoo are also around, while arriving billfish are also adding some variety lately, says Ball.

On Chincoteague at Steve's Bait and Tackle, reports are that offshore fishing continues to be good, weather permitting. The yellowfin tuna and gaffer dolphin are being caught on the 100 line between the Washington and the Norfolk in the warm water.

The inshore bite just keeps getting better and better, reports Steve's Bait and Tackle. Shark fishing on the beach has picked up along with the kingfish.

Ron Greaser at Don's Bait and Tackle says flounder fishing has slowed the last 10 days. Most keeper flounder in Wachapreague have been caught on the incoming tide bringing in cleaner, cooler water from the ocean. Top spots have been in the area of the old Coast Guard Station and the deeper water of Green Channel and Drawing Channel. Jigging bucktails tipped with Zman and Gulp and drifting have been productive. Strong winds have hampered fishing and, combined with heavy rains, have stained a lot of the water. There are good reports for flounder out of Quinby, but with no channels marked, local knowledge is a must to navigate this area.

Greaser says offshore fishing has seen a good tuna and mahi bite. Wayne Gwaltney and crew brought in the season's first wahoo.

Capt. Meriwether Payne had a trip Wednesday to the Parramore Reef in the ocean where her one fisherman on board got his limit of flounder.

Bayside fishing has rockfish season closed, with some fish still hanging around creek mouths and just a small scattering of speckled trout found. The size of cobia off Parker's Island has shown smaller fish moving in. Bigger fish are lower in the bay, says Greaser.

Bay Summer Slam Fishing Tourney

A derby-style fishing tournament, the Chesapeake Summer Slam, will run from July 1 until Sept. 17. The target species are striped bass, bluefish, Spanish mackerel, speckled trout and redfish. It will be a photo-based tournament, with all submissions posted at www.technicalfisherman.com

The person with the longest combined length of the target species will win. There will be various categories for different types of anglers. The $40 cost will include a tournament shirt. There will be prizes awarded to winners of each category. There also will be an awards ceremony and party on Sept. 17.

The tournament boundaries are the Chesapeake Bay in Maryland and Virginia and its tributaries.

Details are available online at www.technicalfisherman.com

Capt. Bob's Fishing Camp photo Karen Hoffmeirer of Paradise, Pa., won the Floozie Flounder Tournament at Capt. Bob's Fishing Camp, with this 5-pound, 7-ounce flounder. Funds go to the fight against breast cancer.

From the OutPost

By Candy Farlow

Wow! I just read that an estimated 18 million Americans suffer from sleep apnea. That's a lot of gasping people. Guess I'm not so special after all.

Sleep apnea is defined by blockages in the airway that cause a patient to stop breathing several times during the night. It is diagnosed by a sleep study which has to be ordered by a physician.

In my case, the study was done at Shore Memorial and consisted of being hooked to numerous wires and sensors and monitored via video by a nice young MAN who was getting paid to WATCH ME SLEEP all night. Talk about feeling awkward! I was scared to death that I would do something embarrassing while being monitored, and I'm not just talking about normal bodily functions. The thing is, I talk out loud when I'm asleep (I believe because I spend so much time biting my tongue when I'm awake).

Anyway, I made it through the night without my video going viral and soon found myself with a CPAP machine to ensure my continued breathing. It immediately stopped my sleep apnea problem mainly because, for a long time, I couldn't sleep with the thing on. Alas, I finally adapted and started sleeping better. That's good, because as Ernest Hemingway put it, "I love sleep. My life has a tendency to fall apart when I'm awake, you know?" Papa makes a good point. It's only when I'm awake that I tend to make a mess of things.

I've been making a lot less messes lately, probably because I've been sleeping so much more. I'm blaming my drowsiness on my medications, but I now go to sleep at the drop of a hat and, I'm afraid, I'm still talking when I do.

Growing up, my kids often took advantage of my ability to carry on a conversation while dead to the world. Once they videotaped me giving them permission to go out with their friends late at night. Thankfully, they had enough sense not to carry through with the plan. At least I think they did, but I was asleep so I couldn't swear to it.

Nowadays, my sister and niece with whom I share a home are the ones offering commentary on the ramblings emanating from my mouth as I doze in my recliner. It's very disconcerting to one minute be listening to Lester Holt deliver the news and the next minute wake to those two in a fit of laughter over something I've said. But the last laugh will be mine.

According to 19th century philosopher Arthur Schopenhauer, "Sleep is the interest we have to pay on the capital which is called in at death; and the higher the rate of interest and the more regularly it is paid, the further the date of redemption is postponed."

If Schopenhauer is right and I keep sleeping at this rate, I'll outlive them both.

Why I'm a Member of the Eastern Shore Chamber of Commerce

By David McCaleb

McCaleb Metzler, A Bankers Insurance Company

Often I hear contented residents express appreciation for the unique grassroots community this Eastern Shore cultivates. We enjoy its rural benefits, such as the field's produce, a fish caught and cooked within an afternoon's time, or a smile from a supermarket check-out clerk who remembers our name. We are a community indeed. And businesses are no different. After all, what are companies, if not extensions of people?

As businesses on this peninsula, we are all connected. We are a part of the same grassroots community. Yes, some relationships are more direct than others. When an auto repair garage does well, the parts supplier benefits. But even the most diverse companies influence one another. I challenge other business owners to combat the misconception that the success (or failure) of a storefront in the next town doesn't affect you. Even if all your clients are off the Eastern Shore, your corporation is not an island. To cast it in local terms, "A rising tide raises all boats in the harbor."

An invisible line runs from my business' front door and connects to the one down the street, then moves on from there, pausing to tie itself to the gas station on the corner, and the restaurant down the road, and the waterman's helm in the slip. If we could see each connection as a white thread, it would draw an inexplicably complex net, a visual display of how the movement of one business tugs another, Pocomoke to Townsend.

So, where does one connect to this web? Where do you discover what is going on in the local business community? How do you put down your roots, declare yourself a part of the whole, and tap into the energy of this network? It's been going on for generations at the Eastern Shore Chamber of Commerce.

That is why my business is a member of the chamber. We look out for each other. Even if only once in 20 years I need the help of other businesses — maybe to stand in front of a government body to present a united front on an issue, or whatever the case — in that instant, my membership has been paid in full. No, we aren't a perfect organization. But we are the business community on this Eastern Shore.

Be a part with us.

ESO Says 'Thanks'

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the ESO staff and our Board of Directors, I want to thank the ESO School of Dance for its two special and memorable productions this class year: the 25th "Nutcracker" in December and the 25th original spring production, "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland," in May.

Our choreographer/director, Dana Floyd-Sutter, continues to amaze everyone with her abilities to transform the Nutcracker story — in this case, the "Nutcracker Swings" version — as well as with her ambitious undertaking of setting the Alice in Wonderland tale to a ballet. As challenging as these shows are, volunteer production manager, Jo Ann Molera, has done a wonderful job of trying to keep the sanity. From the bottom of my heart, I thank our legions of volunteers in costuming, crew, prop design and construction, staging, lighting, sound, video/photography, front-of-house sales, transportation, publicity — and on and on!

I'd also like to thank the business and individual donors who help lower our expenses, which is vital to helping our non-profit arts center thrive. I am grateful to Nandua High School administration for providing an accommodating venue for our ballet productions, and to the businesses who serve as our ticket outlets.

Last but not least, a huge thanks and congratulations to the amazing students of the ESO School of Dance, as well as the other young gentlemen from the community, who have been in these productions. They put so much hard work and dedication into each rehearsal and performance! The citizens of our Eastern Shore should be very proud of these youth who are committed to putting on outstanding performances for the community.
