Labor Day Swim?

One Sept. 1 the Virginia Department of Health lifted advisories on Guard Shore and Kiptopeke beaches where bacteria exceeded established water quality standards in samples that were taken Aug. 30. New tests conducted within 24 hours of the original samples found bacteria levels were again within state water quality standards.

Safety of Saxis Road Questioned

By Linda Cicaira

How safe is the road? That's what two officials want to know.

A rusty metal culvert collapsed under Saxis Road near its intersection with Belinda Road last week making a large hole that stopped traffic. It was fixed that day by the Virginia Department of Transportation. But Accomack Supervisor Paul Muhly and Saxis Mayor Denise Drewer are now left wondering if vehicles, including school buses, are in jeopardy.

"We drive it everyday," said Drew-er of herself and her constituents. "My concern is the school buses going over it. Unfortunately it takes a disaster to get something done. They wait for it to collapse. We had the same problems on the causeway too ... it caved in a couple of areas."

Drewer said there are between 20 and 25 children on Saxis Island who will be using the road to get to school. "You can see where the road is starting to erode on the sides You can tell it. You can see erosion in some of the areas."

SURVEY: TEACHERS INSPIRE, MOTIVATE

Editor's note: So many responses were received, we decided to break the story into two parts.

By Linda Cicaira

Teachers in Accomack and Northampton Counties are preparing to roll up their sleeves to educate, inspire and motivate students. Some of them even found time to participate in an email survey conducted by the Eastern Shore Post.

Laura Hastings, a teacher at Pungoteague Elementary School, remembers the encouragement she received as a young student.

"You are enlightened," was the most memorable thing a teacher ever told her. What a boost to her self-esteem to be recognized for her rational, modern, well-informed outlook.

The comment "came from my teacher during our reading of 'Siddhartha,'" a 1922 novel by Hermann Hesse that told of a spiritual journey during the time of the Gautama Buddha. Hastings' favorite teacher was Priscilla Depew, an advanced literature instructor at Kempsville High School. She said

Muhly said the incident was a warning from "Mother Fate." The culvert was replaced with a rubberized tube. However, the county supervisor said more sags could occur. "The causeway that runs out to Saxis has about four of these culverts underneath it," he explained. There is a deep canal below.

"Talk to people on Saxis," Muhly added. "They hold their breath every time" they ride the road. "Why don't we fix it before a tragedy happens?"

"Safety is VDOT's top priority," said agency spokesperson Tiffany Whitfield. "A pipe separated at the joint. VDOT has made repairs to the pipe and we will patch the road surface soon. Also, VDOT is evaluating and monitoring the road conditions in that area."

"Just came back from checking it; everything was fixed," said Accomack Schools Superintendent Chris Holland Thursday morning. "It's safe for buses. I'm comfortable."

Northampton Schools Ready for September 6 Student Arrivals

By Ron West

Preparations for Sept. 6 student arrivals are almost complete, Northampton Superintendent of Schools Eddie Lawrence told the school board at its Aug. 25 session.

Operations Director Chris Truckner said his staff and school custodians have worked diligently to ready facilities for students. Truckner noted some projects, such as replacement floor covering for the Occohannock Elementary gym and floor repair in the Kiptopeke Elementary media center, will require additional work. Truckner noted he still needs two bus drivers, but substitute drivers would be available to cover routes in the interim.

Special Programs Director Karen Plowden reported that pre-kindergarten registration has reached 68 students. She added 35 families participated in a summer pre-kindergarten camp designed to better prepare students and families for school success.

School Finance Director Brook Thomas updated the School Board on a voluntary insurance plan proposed by the commonwealth. The plan is open statewide to school districts, local governments and other public agencies such as the Chesapeake Bridge and Tunnel District. Enactment of the plan will require a minimum of 5,000 employees and a total of 10,000 employees or employees and their dependents statewide. Thomas said that even if thresholds are met, it would be 2018 before it could be put into effect. No action was taken on the insurance plan at the board session.

Lawrence advised the school board that the Northampton Board of Supervisors is seeking input regarding the vacant property adjacent to Occohannock Elementary School that was once the site of Exmore Willis Wharf School. The board did not foresee a need for the property and asked Lawrence to advise the board of supervisors that they were free to dispose of it.

EASTVILLE GRAIN FIRE CONTAINED; NOT THE FIRST

By Linda Cicaira

Five volunteer fire companies with about 35 firefighters battled a blaze Friday in a grain dryer in the center of several large silos on Newman Lane in Eastville.

"When we arrived on the scene there were 20-foot high flames," said Chief David Eder of the Eastville company. The call came in at about 8:30 a.m. with units from Eastville, Cheriton, Cape Charles, Nassawadox and Painter responding.

Employees of Lansing Trade Group LLC "were able to immediately drain the corn that was in there," Eder said. "I was told Saturday they would be able to put it back in service this week. We were able to move quickly to get it contained and then get it out."

Eder said the fire was controlled in about 20 minutes. It took about two hours to extinguish.

The cause is unknown and could have occurred from moisture or mechanical issues. He guessed that 500 to 600 bushels of corn were lost.

The silos that can be seen from Lankford Highway near the OBS store. The fire was not disbursed to the silos. "They learned a lot" about what to do since the last fire "there three to four years ago," said Eder.

“prayer in the morning” was traditionally offered back then.

Hastings said her current school is the best “because of the administration. (Principal) Brian Patterson and (Assistant Principal) Belinda Rippon are great listeners, they care about the students and teachers, they try their best and are always looking for the best practices to improve the school,” she wrote.

“Taught summer school, moved into a new home and went fishing at least five days a week,” was how Hastings spent her summer vacation.

Artima Taylor-Thornton of Accomack was told, “I could be anything that I wanted no matter what.” Now as a parent, she chose Accawmacke Elementary as the best school in the two-county area. “They strive to make sure all students are helped and educated well.”

Her favorite teachers were Kendra Powell who taught band at Nandua High and Cynthia White, a second grade teacher at South Accomack School, now known as Pungoteague Elementary. “These two women showed me what it was like when you worked hard for what you wanted. They worked hard as teachers and did not mind going out of their way to help someone.”

“Many of my teachers told me that I should teach,” Kathy Cullen Henley, a teacher at Accawmacke Elementary replied. “I believe that all schools on the Shore are great. Every teacher is out there trying to make a difference in the lives of their students. All teachers and schools need the support of parents and the community to make each child a success.”

“I grew up here and went to Broadwater Academy,” she said adding, her favorite teacher there was Stephen Senye, who taught science. “He was the most inspiring teacher that I had ... He made me work hard and encouraged me the whole way. He constantly had me help other students,” Henley wrote.

This year during summer vacation, “I prepared my daughter for her freshman year in college and began another college class, myself.”

“I was the type to follow rules, so I did not perform pranks as a student,” she continued. “I was a cheerleader ... so I followed many traditions for pep rallies, games, etc.”

Jane Silveria of Florida said, “Mr. Bill Chrisman (of Chincoteague High) taught me that I could do anything I tried and that gender does not matter. He was the ‘shop’ teacher. He allowed me, a girl, into his boys’ world. He taught me all about tools, engines, ceramics and basic drafting. I have used those skills many times throughout my life; from fixing things around the house, to changing my oil (and for) basic safety,” wrote Silveria, who is now state supervisor for Special Populations, Non-Traditional and Assessment for the Florida Department of Education. She said that her high school was the best “because it is small and people know each other.”

Connie Burford of Bloxom was a member of Mrs. Rozelma Savage's chorus at what is now Kegotank Elementary School. “We were asked to sing at her church for their Sunday service. I enjoyed their singing so much that I told her they didn't sing ‘Amazing Grace’ like they did at my grandmother's church. I liked hers better.” Burford was told she “always had a seat right beside her should I ever want to come back.” Those words have stuck with Burford.

“Brenda Reid taught me English and mythology,” Burford said naming a favorite teacher. “I looked forward to that class more than any other English class I ever took. When I see her today she is still as gorgeous as she was when I was in her class at Arcadia High School.”

“Marlene Harmon is truthfully an icon. She taught me and my daughter,” said Burford. “She always knew what to say and when to say it. She and (the late) Cathy Thomas coached volleyball ... Marlene was an awesome role model for many students even to this day. I still go to the school to visit her and give her grief.”

Barbara Mullins was our sponsor for the school paper, ‘The Arcadian Flame.’ Because of her I found a true love for writing and journalism. She made sure that all of her student editors were inducted into Quill and Scroll, an honor society ... if they maintained their respective grade point average in her class. I still have my pin.”

“Amy Lines was my Earth Science teacher,” said Burford. “I adored her. She let me build a volcano and bring it to class plus she taught me about the weather and barometric pressure. After her class, I was positive I wanted to work at NOAA (the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration) and predict the weather.”

“When I was in school, summer vacation was spent arguing with my brother and sister,” Burford continued.

“That’s what sibs do in the summer. I’d give anything to have her (Burford’s sister) back with us to argue with one more time. Love ya Tessie!!!”

That volcano she mentioned earlier was transported to school by her grandmother. “Somehow the chemicals got stirred up a little more than they should have and when I went to detonate it, instead of the lava oozing out like it was supposed to, it blew out two of the ceiling tiles in the science lab,” said Burford. “After that Mr. (Jack) Gray (the principal) said no more volcanoes in the building.”

The big tradition back then was pep rallies. “It seemed like we had many more ways to be connected with our classmates. ... We actually saw each other and talked on the phone or face to face. Pep rallies were a good way for each of the classes ... to get together and bond. It was also a way for the cheerleaders and football players to get out there and act like crazy kids. Once the guys dressed up in the cheer uniforms and the girls were in the players’ jerseys and the guys had to cheer for them. The way things are now, the kids are connected in a less personal way. Sure they know each other but they are not nearly as close as our classes used to be.”

She chose Kegotank and Arcadia High as the best schools. “Both of those schools have superb administration and top-of-the-line teachers. Also I would like to include Susan Wilder’s SPED (special education) class at Nandua High School.”

NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY OF A DRAFT ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT FOR THE EAST COAST HOME BASING OF THE MQ-4C TRITON UNMANNED AIRCRAFT SYSTEM

The U.S. Department of the Navy (Navy) and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) give notice, per the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) of 1969, Council on Environmental Quality Regulations (40 Code of Federal Regulations [CFR] sections 1500-1508), Navy NEPA regulations (32 CFR section 775), and NASA NEPA Regulations (14 CFR section 1216), that a Draft Environmental Assessment (EA) has been prepared. The EA evaluates potential effects from home basing and maintaining the MQ-4C Triton Unmanned Aircraft System (Triton UAS) at one of three alternative locations on the East Coast: Naval Air Station Key West in Florida; Naval Station Mayport in Florida; and National Aeronautics and Space Administration Wallops Flight Facility in Virginia. The Draft EA is available for public comment and review for 30 days from September 1 to October 1, 2016. The comment period closes on October 1, 2016.

The Proposed Action would provide facilities and functions to operate and maintain the Triton UAS on the East Coast. The Triton UAS is an unmanned, unarmed, remotely controlled aircraft employed to enhance maritime intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance capabilities as part of the Navy’s Maritime Patrol and Reconnaissance Force in the Atlantic Fleet’s area of operations. Under the Proposed Action, the Navy plans to establish a launch and recovery site for four home based Triton UAS aircraft and support a consolidated maintenance hub for up to four additional aircraft undergoing maintenance actions (up to eight aircraft). The East Coast home base location would be a permanent duty station for up to 400 personnel, and about 500 family members, and support rotational deployments of personnel and aircraft outside the continental United States (CONUS). Military construction projects in support of the home basing would begin in fiscal year 2017.

The Draft EA is available for public review at the following website: <http://www.public.navy.mil/usff/environmental/Pages/NEPAprojects.aspx>. Paper copies of the Draft EA are available for review at the following libraries in the Wallops Island area:

- Wallops Flight Facility Visitors Center, Building J20, VA-175, Wallops Island, VA 23337
- Chincoteague Island Library, 4077 Main Street, Chincoteague Island, VA 23336
- Pocomoke Public Library, 301 Market Street, Pocomoke City, MD 21851

Northampton Staff “Opening Day”

By Ron West

Monday was “opening day” for Northampton County school administrators, teachers, instructional assistants, maintenance staff, bus drivers, custodians, food service workers and volunteers. Northampton School Superintendent Eddie Lawrence addressed assembled employees to welcome them for the new school year. Schools open for students on Sept. 6.

School Board Chairman Skip Oakley, a former teacher and principal at Northampton High, reminded employees to treat the district’s 1,600 student as they would want to see their own children treated. That thought was echoed by Lawrence, adding that employees’ faces might be the friendliest the children will have seen all summer, and the meals they are served at school could be among the best that they will have tasted since school ended in June.

“We want to see that every child in Northampton County Schools has a quality education this year,” Lawrence said, adding that Kiptopeke Elementary was successful in obtaining full accreditation this year, and he looks forward to seeing the other district schools reach that goal. “Northampton County schools came within a stone’s throw of doing that in 2016, having fallen short of that goal by only eight students district-wide,” he said.

Guest speaker Charles Landis reminded those present of the valuable role that early county residents have played in the history of the commonwealth and the nation, and presented each school with copies of his most recent book, “Virginia’s Eastern Shore,” at the close of the day’s events.

Accomack Circuit Court

A young Pungoteague man pleaded no contest last week in Accomack Circuit Court to involuntary manslaughter and maiming in connection to a single-vehicle alcoholic-related traffic crash.

Brandon O'Neil West, 23, of Pungoteague Road also pleaded guilty to a general charge of DUI. No contest means the defendant admitted guilt because the evidence against him was overwhelming. He told police he was drinking and driving when he crashed. A breathalyzer showed he had an alcohol level of .087 percent. The legal limit is .08 percent.

West was driving a 2002 Mitsubishi Lancer just north of Perdue when the incident occurred on Dec. 10, 2015. Devante Deshawn Harris, 23, of Parksley died in the accident. Another passenger, Ray Thomas Fitchett Jr., was severely injured.

West was remanded to Accomack Jail to await sentencing. The maximum sentence for the crimes is 16 years in prison and a fine of $7,500.

Christopher William Floyd, 56, of Bobtown Road in Pungoteague pleaded no contest to unlawful wounding in a bargaining agreement with the commonwealth. In exchange, the prosecution did not proceed on firearm charges in connection with the incident. Judge W. Revell Lewis III accepted the plea agreement.

Floyd was initially charged with maliciously maiming Louis Earl Lilliston Jr. on April 20, 2015, use of a firearm in the maiming and recklessly handling a firearm. Floyd shot Lilliston as he was leaving Floyd's property.

The defendant could be sentenced to a maximum of five years in prison and a fine of $2,500. Sentencing was deferred until December. Floyd was ordered to pay for repairs to Lilliston's truck and to send money to the Criminal Injuries Compensation Board to pay for the care of the man's injuries. The gun will be destroyed after sentencing, records showed.

Chanelle Coston, 39, of Stumpy Lane in Melfa pleaded guilty to possession of cocaine, a felony, in a Feb. 11, 2016 incident. The case was continued until the December term of court. A presentence report was ordered. Coston is free on an unspecified existing bond.

Javelle Scarborough, 40, of Chandler Lane in Parksley was convicted of felony eluding in connection with a July 5, 2015, incident. He pleaded not guilty to the charge. Sentencing was set for Sept. 13 when a presentence report is expected to be completed and guidelines can be updated, according to court records. Scarborough was remanded to jail.

Douglas L. Edwards, 59, of Lepley Lane in Onancock pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident on Nov. 21, 2015. A short-form presentence report was ordered. The case was continued until Dec. 5. Edwards was released on existing bond.

Accomack District Court

Four people were arrested recently and charged with felonies, according to records filed in Accomack General District Court.

Steven Kindle Morton, 33, of DeWald Circle and David Wayne Primm, 38, of Turlington Road, both of Newport News, were charged with stealing property belonging to Walmart on Aug. 26.

Both were arrested the same day. Deputy David Gladding of the Accomack County Sheriff's Office (ACSO) investigated. They are being held in Accomack Jail without bond.

Edith Lou Boles, 18, of Wayne Drive in Bloxom was accused of breaking into a dwelling belonging to Nancy Lux on Aug. 24 and stealing a TV valued at more than $200. Deputy Julian Sharp of ACSO investigated. Bail was set at $2,500. Boles was arrested the same day.

Latoya Shanay Drummond, 29, of Dogwood Road in Melfa was charged with grand larceny and embezzling from Walmart on Aug. 6, 2016. She was arrested Aug. 18. A checklist for bond filed with the court stated that

Health Matters

NUMBER OF ZIKA CASES GROWS TO 69 ACROSS COMMONWEALTH

Zika is a disease caused by the Zika virus which is spread mostly through the bite of an infected mosquito. The illness itself is fairly mild, but an infection during pregnancy can cause severe brain and birth defects.

As of Thursday, Aug. 25, 2016, the Virginia Department of Health has reported 69 cases of Zika virus disease in Virginia residents to the Center for Disease Control (CDC).

All Virginia cases are associated with travel to a Zika-affected areas. The CDC has issued a Level 2 travel alert for people traveling to regions and countries where Zika virus transmission is ongoing.

During a Level 2 alert, travelers are asked to practice enhanced precautions, such as protecting oneself from mosquito bites and from sexual transmission of the disease.

In Virginia, Medicaid may cover the cost of EPA-registered insect repellent for pregnant women and men and women ages 14 to 44 who are trying to conceive. A prescription is required.

The Zika virus has been found to cause birth defects in infants whose mothers are infected while pregnant. Because there is no preventive vaccine or medicine to treat

Tips for Zika prevention:

- Use EPA-registered insect repellent
- Wear protective clothing
- Tip standing water containers regularly
- Use condoms during intercourse
- Seek immediate medical attention if you exhibit Zika symptoms

Zika, it is important that pregnant women use repellent to prevent mosquito bites, in order that they may protect themselves and their fetuses.

About 80 percent of those infected with Zika will not show any symptoms. For those who do become sick, symptoms can include fever, rash, joint pain, and conjunctivitis. Symptoms generally occur within three to 14 days after infection, and can last from a few days to more than a week.

If you have symptoms of Zika virus infection and have been to an affected area in the past two weeks, contact your healthcare provider. Your provider may test your blood for Zika virus and other similar mosquito-borne illnesses.

September is a time of transformation. Yes, I know the month doesn't have the magic of Christmas or the grand awakening of spring. But it has the first day of school and that even overpowers the sometimes dreaded anticipation of Valentine's Day.

It is so life-changing for all of us that long after our formal education has been completed, we can feel that shift in our system when Labor Day Weekend is over.

Everything is different. It's more serious. It's a time to get down to business, wear those new shoes and hope for cooler days and sweaters.

And most importantly, it is when life-long friends are found. Every relationship can be connected with events in this month. I met two of my dearest friends on the first day of school; seven years apart. Another two have birthdays this month. And yet another two will celebrate a huge wedding anniversary. Well, I think every year after the 40th is big. Don't you?

Go anywhere but to a school house on this Sept. 6, and there is sure to be a certain hush. The aisles of stores will be quieter. The lines will be shorter. (At least until that last bell sounds.) And the roads will be clearer. That crowded Lankford Highway will be slowing down at last. Yippee!

I think the cell phone and internet service connections will even get stronger when all those kids aren't using them for socializing. They will be able to look at each other on something other than a screen. Sometimes on the Eastern Shore, friends who live in another town can be sorely missed during the summer.

When I was in high school, the first day as a freshman was scary. Older neighbor kids warned us about the initiations that would occur. There were stories of putting our pants up a flagpole or making us count the bricks on the building with our noses. Neither happened. And I lived through the anxiety.

My very first day in a Virginia school was in the 5th grade at Belle Haven Primary. Those vivid memories are mostly school bus and food-related. They had the best creamy warm rice pudding and yeast rolls that were ever made. It seems like the higher the grade in school, the worse the lunch was. I had never ridden a bus to school until then. Walking down the aisle to find a seat was probably the most horrifying part of that first day.

Of course lots of other stuff changed things for all of us in September. The events on Sept. 11, 2001 are also vivid and always make educational conversation abound with remorse.

Did you know the original "Star Trek" TV series debuted on Sept. 8, 1966? Or that the United States and Russia agreed to a joint venture to build a space station in September of 1992? Japan surrendered and thereby ended World War II in the same month.

The Mayflower departed Plymouth, England with 102 Pilgrims and a crew of 30 for the New World in September 1620. The first lighthouse in North America was built in Boston in September 1716. The Battle of Antietam, the bloodiest day to occur in the War Between the States, was in September 1862. It is recorded that 23,110 people died in Sharpsburg, Md. in that battle.

And here's the Christmas link to the month. In September of 1957, Elvis Presley recorded "White Christmas," "Silent Night," and "Here Comes Santa Claus."

Sept. 21 was a particularly interesting day. The first daily newspaper in America was printed on Sept. 21, 1784. It was the Pennsylvania Packet & General Advertiser. "My Weekly Reader" magazine made its debut on the same date in 1928. "Perry Mason" with Raymond Burr premiered on television that day in 1957. Jimmy Hendrix changed the spelling of his name to Jimi on Sept., 21 1966. Charles Tiffany founded his jewelry and china stores on the date in 1837. I think that last one was significant.

AND I will officially begin celebrating my birthday month on Sept. 21, 2016. That's right it is coming up soon. Mark your calendars. It is my link to the first day of school. Oh, in case you didn't get that, it is Oct. 21. Yippee!

What About Rights of Rural Residents?

Dear Editor:

As new industrial poultry farm regulations were being drawn up by the Accomack County government last fall, citizens were reassured that there was a "ceiling limit" to the number of large poultry houses being placed under contract with Perdue and Tyson Foods. At that time the number was about 100.

However, from looking at local real estate transactions, it appears that additional land is being sold to poultry interests as recently as two weeks ago. Some of these transactions appear to involve doubling up of poultry farms on adjoining parcels, creating a high density situation. Density does matter, and 24 massive poultry houses located in a condensed setting will make for unpleasant and unhealthy living conditions for nearby rural residents. We are hearing the concerns of citizens near Pungoteague right now due to 24 poultry houses being situated together on adjoining parcels.

It has been argued that if county residents don't want to accept industrial poultry farms then they should not live in the agricultural zone. Those same poultry interests want to crowd the borders of our towns and villages. Accomack County regulations allow poultry house complexes as close as 500 feet from existing towns and villages, and even closer to public roadways. The huge poultry buildings will absolutely limit the expansion of any town or village they border upon. A soybean field can just be mown down and built upon right away. How about a poultry farm at the edge of town? Do county planners really think that new subdivisions and businesses will voluntarily locate next to 12 or 24 industrial poultry houses? What about the cost of removal of the structures when an operator goes broke? How long does it take to recover the land and make it safe for human dwelling after a poultry farm has shut down? What if there was an avian flu outbreak, and the soil was contaminated with disease?

We've been told that farming is our rural heritage, and the industrial poultry has a right to occupy the space. How many poultry farm owners actually live on the farms with their chickens? Our rural heritage is about county residents living on and near the farms that feed them; it has been that way for hundreds of years. The people came first, the farms followed. In Accomack County we have the right to live safely and in good health in the agricultural zone.

Our Eastern Shore of Virginia landscape is particularly fragile because of its size and numerous creeks carrying runoff. We should not blindly accept the industry-suggested standards set for other areas. We really are almost an island, and our fresh water supply is critically important. Our region should set its sights toward traditional farms where edible foods of a wide variety are produced within the local landscape. Why is Accomack County so intent upon feeding the world with its industrial chicken production while running residents out of their rural homes?
