Hundreds of spectators stood at the edge of the old ferry dock near Mappsville to witness Orbital ATK's Cygnus launch from the nearby Wallops Flight Facility Monday. The company's upgraded Antares 230 rocket is carrying more than 5,100 pounds of cargo and is scheduled to arrive at the International Space Station Sunday. It was the first flight for the upgraded vessel after the Antares mishap two years ago. The cargo will support dozens of new and existing experiments. The newer ones include fire in space, the effect of lighting on sleep and daily rhythms, collection of health-related data and a new way to measure neutrons.

Dunham: License Suspended, Restitution of $100,000

By Linda Cicoira

Eastville lawyer Shannon Jones Dunham, who is also an elected Northampton School Board member, lost her right to practice law for five years Thursday and was ordered to pay $100,000 in restitution by Nov. 1, 2017.

The action was taken by three Virginia circuit court judges who were designated by a state justice to hear her case. The terms were recommended by Virginia State Bar lawyer M. Brent Saunders based on Dunham's admissions that she violated rules of diligence, fees, conflict of interest, safekeeping property, specific duties, required trust accounting procedures and misconduct. If Dunham fails to pay by the due date, her license will be revoked.

"I'm sorry to be standing here," Dunham told the judges while crying and wiping her eyes with a tissue. "I've never stood in this chair," she said of the defendant's seat. "It is a very unusual feeling ... I did not steal anything ... I loved him," she said of the late George Doughty, her great uncle, whose estate she was said to have mismanaged. "I worked a lot of hours with him. I sat beside him at a lot of doctors' appointments ... it was an agreement with him ... I certainly did a lot of things wrong... and have to take responsibility for that."

Dunham added, "I worry about this community. The juvenile court is probably where I am the most ... it breaks my heart. I think we got too big too fast.... I've never been really good at saying no to people ... even in my great uncle's case, in hindsight I should have said no. ... I should have been a stronger person in that aspect."

Dunham explained that she is a criminal lawyer and not an expert in handling estates.

She asked that she be allowed to continue to represent 23-year-old Nicholas Martinez White, who is charged with voluntary manslaughter in the death of a seventh grade middle school student who was killed last October.

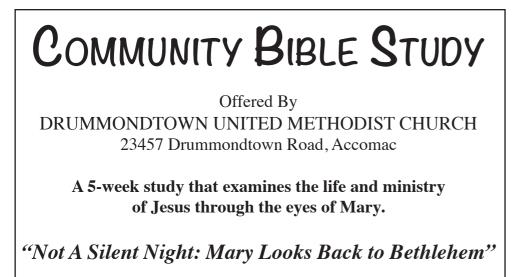

White's trial is scheduled for January. Dunham wanted to be permitted to practice until Feb. 1. She was denied permission to stay with the case.

"The man is terribly scared of what is going to happen to me," she said. "I love being an attorney. I love helping people."

The Virginia State Bar states Dunham began accessing her then-90year-old uncle's accounts in 2014 and for about 15 months while "acting under the auspices of attorney-in-fact ... took in excess of $100,000... for her personal use ... via cash withdrawals, transfers, checks and debit card purchases."

The money was spent at DMV, a tire shop, for concert tickets, a hardware store, the cleaners, an ABC store, for a health insurance premium, an electric bill, a spa treatment, a pool company, a vet's office, a vineyard, a pro shop, a restaurant, a toy store and more.

A recent court filing said she is "attempting to resolve or transfer her heavy caseload ... in anticipation of the potential period of suspension or revocation ... She is not taking on any new cases and voluntarily removed herself from all court appointed attorney lists." Dunham has "no client funds in trust ... and does not anticipate any funds being received that would require using a trust account." She is attempting to reassign one guardianship and finalizing another.

Dunham has "many concerned clients as a result of the ... Bar publishing its allegations and the local papers regurgitation of the same," the file continued. "This has created a sense of panic to many clients" who want their cases resolved. Dunham, who was denied a continuance, says the rush made it difficult for her to prepare for her own hearing.

In another case she was appointed by Accomack Circuit Court to be the guardian of a minor and improperly used the child's bank account. It was also mentioned that she failed to make payroll taxes owed by her law firm for 2009-14 for which liens have been filed in the court for more than $300,000.

Dunham listed about 70 witnesses of which more than 20 were subpoenaed to the court Thursday. None testified because of the agreement that was struck. She also made allegations about Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Beverly Leatherbury. Dunham said she has a personal interest in the outcome of Dunham's case because her husband is a beneficiary of Doughty's estate. "It is likely that she has actively participated in the prosecution of this matter in assisting her sister-in-law, Catherine McCarthy, in preparing the bar complaint and answers." Dunham said Leatherbury's concern also deals with future elections for commonwealth's attorney, a position sought by Dunham's husband in the last election.

Garrett Dunham defended his wife in papers filed prior to Thursday's proceedings. "She unfortunately spent her time on the people side of practicing law and not the paperwork," he wrote. "She is too busy helping people to get to the billing aspect. The Eastern Shore is a very underserved community when it comes to legal representation. By disbarring her, you will be taking excellent legal representations from those who need it most."

"She adamantly denies any theft or misappropriation of funds," he continued. "At no time did she spend more money than what was owed to her ... a fair settlement could be a two-year license suspension. This would allow sufficient time for proper training and organizing of her practice, mandatory trust audits at intervals the VSB sees fit, that she take on court-appointed cases and not hold any money in trust for a period of time (and) repayment of a loan which was authorized under expedited terms. Mrs. Dunham feels she earned that money. There could be some negotiations regarding this issue. However, many, many hours were spent on Uncle George's behalf."

Saunders suggested Dunham settle the case rather than risk revocation of her license to practice law. "Give serious consideration to a license surrender or alternatively a lengthy ... 5-year suspension with significant restitution, which I told you I would potentially consider ... a suspension, even a lengthy one, would be beneficial to her in that she would not have to go through reinstatement process. The opportunity for that though is quickly evaporating." Saunders later wrote, "Instead of playing these procedural games, she had come forward, fully cooperated, demonstrated remorse and negotiated in good faith, we would be in a different position."

The Bar also alleges in April 2015, Dunham issued a $75,000 check to her mother, Linda Jones, for an advance on her inheritance. While Jones was a beneficiary of the estate, charges state, Dunham did not have the authority to make the advance.

Dunham is also accused of transferring $25,000 for personal use from an account Doughty had with his step-brother and sister-in-law. Dunham also failed to timely pay several of her uncle's bills including invoices from the retirement home "resulting in the imposition of late fees and interest, cancellation of insurance policies and embarrassment to him."

Waters Surrounding Shore Cleaner, More Productive Than in Recent Past

By Linda Cicoira

The waters that surround the Eastern Shore of Virginia are cleaner, there is a resurgence of grasses, and less runoff from nearby lands is being reported. Crabs, oysters and clams are flourishing and state officials say harvests are way up.

"Crab stocks rebounded by 86 percent to 550 million" after 17 years of low abundance, John Bull of the Virginia Marine Resources Commission announced Tuesday at the "State of the Waters 2016" meeting sponsored by Virginia Eastern Shorekeeper. "Juvenile and male crabs doubled while females tripled causing an excellent harvest this year. There are lots of big fat crabs, enjoy them," he said.

For "the first time in 30 years back to back to back improvements" have been shown, he continued. "There are great successes there." In 2007, Bull said, there were about 30,000 bushels of oysters compared to 660,000 in 2015. "With luck in the next couple of years to 700,000."

"We're pleased with the way things are going," said Bull. And oysters clean the waters so they have twice the benefit. "We doubled the blue catfish harvest in recent years," he also reported. For Cobia fishing, the southern species come up from Florida to spawn in the bay. "Very good but we're going to have to take more management moves. Striped bass has been decent but only one in nine years of good reproduction and one in six years of good flounder reproduction," he reported.

Due to the "ever-changing ecosystem, there are things happening out there that no one could foresee. Flounder stocks used to be right off the coast of Virginia, now off the coast of New Jersey. This is of great concern. Black sea bass now being caught off the coast of Maine, that had not been recorded before ... Some species are going to be winners some are going to be losers. The Bay isn't the same that it was 30 years ago. Those are challenges. We will surmount them."

"We've done a lot to decrease runoff," Del. Robert Bloxom told about 60 spectators. Cover crops are being used and wastewater is being closely monitored. "Celebrate," he said. "We are one of the few states that are meeting our quotas. Some other states aren't even close. We need to be proud of that. We are leading at least Mid-Atlantic in all of those issues," he noted.

State Sen. Linwood Lewis said both he and Bloxom are on the state panel for "current flooding." Included is "exciting technology" about treating wastewater to make it drinkable and replenishing aquifers. Lewis just started serving on the State Water Commission. "Aquaculture is hugely important part of Virginia's economy ... protection of that and promoting clean water and water standards" is necessary. Estimates showed 185 million hard clams in hatcheries in 2015. Of those. $32.3 million worth were market sized. Also in 2015, there were 35.4 million individual oysters with a $14.5 million dockside value. About 2.6 million eyed larvae were sold for spat-on-shell production. Hundreds of workers are employed in the industry.

But there are challenges, according to several of the speakers. The concerns include water quality, coastal growth, access, changing demographics and climate, regulations, harmful algal blooms and disease.

Pamela Mason, who is a member of a long list of state improvement panels, noted the Chesapeake Bay got a "C" on its report card this year instead of a "D" or "D+" of the past. She also reported estimates for 2100 when sea levels are expected to rise by three to seven feet due to melting ice caps, warming and expanding ocean water and land water storage that is caused, in part, by land sinking.

Supervisors Light a Fire Under Parksley VFD over Audit

Bv Linda Cicoira

Parksley Volunteer Fire Department (PVFD) could lose $364,432 in the next 30 days if it doesn't submit annual audited financial statements for the last three years to Accomack County. Officials said the 34 other agencies, including 15 other fire companies, required to submit the paperwork have done so. PVFD is the only one that is "more than 12 months delinguent" and has not offered reasons for not complying.

Company President Freddie Matthews attended a meeting Wednesday where seven of the nine county supervisors agreed to give the month-long ultimatum. Matthews made himself available for questions but did not provide any excuses. He quietly left the board chambers just after the vote was taken.

Chairman Ron Wolff. Vice Chairman Robert Crockett and Supervisors Donald Hart, Reneta Major, Laura Belle Gordy, Billy Jo Tarr and Grayson

Chesser voted in favor of the move. Supervisors Harris Phillips and Paul Muhly wanted to give the company more time.

Finance Director Mike Mason recommended the money be moved to the county's 2017 budget contingency.

"They are trying to comply," said Muhly. "Obviously they have not been successful at this point. We should give them additional time." He agreed with the initial requirement. "They have a lot of loose ends and are having a hard time getting together," he said of the company.

Phillips wanted to know what would happen when the company doesn't have the funds to provide services.

"They have provided service in the three years," said Wolff. "I pay taxes. You pay taxes. We don't like it ... others probably don't like audit either." He contended that there has been no statement or reason for the delay.

Muhly asked for Matthews to speak. "Not while the motion is on the floor," said Crockett.

Tarr serves as president of Chincoteague's company. He submitted his paperwork for audit in May. "It ain't done yet but three years?" he questioned. "Thirty days is fair."

The supervisors informally commended Emergency Director Donald Hart and County Administrator Steve Miner for arranging for Nandua Middle School to serve as a shelter for Northampton County residents during Hurricane Matthew. In the end, the facility was not needed but Northampton officials notified Accomack that they needed help since the high school in Eastville was not suitable. Nandua and Arcadia high schools would have served Accomack residents.

The board also:

- Voted to waive landfill tipping fees until Nov. 1 for storm debris.
- Agreed to conduct a public hearing in November regarding five expired farm leases for county land and later accept proposals as suggested by County Attorney Celia Berge.

- Officially recognized the recent successful launch of the Antares rocket by allocating $600 for ads in two local newspapers. Gordy was the only supervisor to oppose the spending saying she "didn't want to get into anything like that."
- Appointed an interim zoning administrator as Gracie Milbourne resigned effective Oct. 14.
- Discussed the lack DMV services in northern Accomack. The county received a letter from an agency official who announced hours from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Oct. 28 at 6491 Lankford Highway in New Church and six more visits there in 2017. "We have begun issuing overload permits at our weigh station in New Church, a service we have provided 43 times since Feb. 1."

Fair Day for Ag Fair as Crowd Pours In for Old-Time Fun

Saturday's crisp morning air welcomed nearly 700 people to the grassy fields behind the former middle school in Machipongo for the Northampton County Agricultural Fair.

County fairs are not new to the Eastern Shore. Dating back more than a century, fair grounds such as Keller, Tasley, and Weirwood were commonplace. One of the last fair grounds on the Eastern Shore to close was that found in Keller, which closed for good in the 1950s. A visit to one of the Eastern Shore's fairgrounds would have seen local crafts on exhibit along with pies and baked good brought by those competing for a coveted blue ribbon. A highlight of the fairs were the harness horses, and in come cases, cars that raced around the dirt tracks to the enjoyment of those filing the grandstands. Many counties throughout the country continue with the tradition of the county fair.

The 2016 Northampton County Ag Fair was the result of a joint effort by the Virginia Cooperative Extension Service, Virginia Farm Bureau's Young Farmers, and the Northampton County Chamber of Commerce. Regardless of one's age, the fair had something for everyone. Youngsters were afforded the opportunity to "dig potatoes" from a small makeshift "tater patch" at the extension agency's tent. Adventurous kids were face down in cherry pies in a contest that seemed to end with more pie on their faces than in their mouths. Both

The winning toss was made by Jarrett Sturgis with a whooping 66 feet 5 inches. Michelle Truslow took first place in the women's event with a toss of more than 37 feet.

Handcrafted items were on display and the pie and biscuit judging table stayed busy all day. After judging, baked goods were sold to those who had an appetite for sweet potato biscuits or a slice of pecan or sweet potato pie.

Farmers of all ages were afforded an opportunity to exhibit their tractor,-driving skills in a course laid out on the field.

For many, the day's highlight was sitting in the bleachers as antique tractors paraded around the former school track. Most of the tractors were older than the operators behind the wheels, and for some it brought to mind days of tilling the soil long ago.

It was not a stretch for those over a certain age to recall a visit to any of the County fairs on the Eastern Shore half a century ago. All that seemed to be missing was the dust kicked up by trotters and pacers as they raced around the track. Perhaps this is the beginning of a new tradition one that children who were chin deep in cherry pie in 2016 will attend in the future with their children.

Court Postings By Linda Cicoira

Accomack Circuit Court

More details were disclosed in papers filed in Accomack Circuit Court this week in the case of three Norfolk men accused of attempting to kill an Accomack deputy.

Two of the men were identified by witnesses in a Maryland bank robbery a short time before shots were taken at Deputy Eric Nottingham, the records stated.

Police were notified that an alarm was set from the PNC Bank at 600 Linden Ave. at nearly 2 p.m., Sept. 26. Officers went to the scene and were told "the bank was robbed by three subjects who threatened to blow it up with an explosive device. No weapon or explosive was displayed to the bank tellers. The three ... left the bank, ran towards the 6th Street Car Wash and exited the area in a silver Chevy Malibu with a Virginia tag believed to be JYU-4323," the court papers stated.

A Maryland detective said the vehicle headed towards Virginia and Accomack authorities were notified to be on the look out for it.

Deputy Eric Nottingham got the alert. He "was traveling north on Route 13 in the Mappsville area and passed a vehicle fitting the description that was going south near Hallwood Road at about 3:10 p.m., the file disclosed.

Nottingham "attempted to make a traffic stop of the vehicle when it disregarded a stop sign. The vehicle appeared to be stopping at first and then took off at a high rate of speed before coming to an abrupt stop," according to the papers. "The deputy observed a black male's arm come out of the vehicle's window holding a handgun and fired several shots" at the squad car. It then "took off at a high rate of speed."

Nottingham was not injured but his vehicle, which was shot right in the engine, was disabled.

The Malibu was recovered later that day "in the general area where the incident took place," the papers stated. Lt. Gerald Goga of the Accomack County Sheriff's Office (ACSO) processed the vehicle and recovered items that linked the vehicle to the bank robbery. The court record did not list the items. Goga also collected DNA samples from the Malibu and obtained a search warrant to allow him to collect samples from two of the suspects.

Deandre Breshon Ayers, also known as De'Andre Breshon Ayres and Deondre Brashaun Ayers, 28, of Hanson Avenue in Norfolk, previously from Painter, and Lamond Perry, 23, and Demetrius Perry, 21, both of Marshall Avenue in Norfolk were charged with trying to kill Nottingham "for the purpose of interfering with the performance of the officer's official duties," use a firearm in the attempted murder, discharging a firearm "in or on" a vehicle causing a risk of injury or death and maliciously shooting at an "occupied conspicuously marked law-enforcement vehicle" and putting the occupant in peril.

Ayers and Demetrius Perry were also charged with possession or transportation of a firearm by a person convicted of a felony in the last decade. All three are being held in Accomack Jail.

The recently filed papers stated, "Worcester County Sheriff's Office presented a lineup of suspects to the bank tellers and one of those workers "positively identified Lamond Perry as the person who robbed her (and) who was wearing the red batman hat in the bank." His DNA was requested to compare with evidence taken from the Malibu.

Cpl. Mance McCall III of the Maryland State Department of Natural Resources was also presented with a photo lineup. He "positively identified ... Ayers as the person who drove the car with the three men who came out of the bank." Ayers' DNA was also requested for comparison.

In another case, a Cape Charles man pleaded guilty last week to four counts of illegal drug distribution.

Christopher William-West Walker, 21, of Randolph Avenue admitted to the Dec. 14, 2015, and Feb. 8, 2016, offenses of distribution of the designer psychedelic drug, 251-NBOMe. A presentence report was ordered. The case is schedule to come back up in court in February.

Walker was remanded to jail.

Accomack General District

Two people were charged recently with possessing illegal drugs, according to records filed in Accomack General District Court.

Lydia Esther Sierra, 53, of 31st Street in Woodside NY is accused of possessing cocaine, a Schedule I or II drug, on Oct. 13. She was arrested the same day. Deputy Julian Sharp of the Accomack County Sheriff's Office (ACSO) investigated. Bond was set at $1,000.

Shavon Alex Drummond, 33, of Nocks Landing Road in Atlantic was charged on Oct. 16 with the same offense. Deputy D. Gladding of ACSO investigated. Secured bond was set at $2,500.

Northampton Circuit

The brother of a murder victim was sentenced to five months in jail Monday in Northampton Circuit Court for his part in the 2015 Sage Diner brawl in Exmore that involved the man suspected of killing his sibling.

Antwine Lavoris Mason, 29, of Exmore was sentenced to three years with all but three months suspended for unlawful wounding and two months for assault and battery by a mob. The terms were set to run consecutively for a total of five months. Mason was ordered to be on supervised probation and good behavior for three years.

His brother, Terrell (Juice) Devone Mason, was 26 when he was gunned down in 2015 through the window of a shed where neighborhood family and friends gathered to play cards. The shooting occurred just down the street from the victim's Frederick Douglas Boulevard home. He left behind eight children.

Aaron Bowens, 20, of A. S. West Road in Painter, was "widely" suspected in the murder, Commonwealth's Attorney Bruce Jones once told the court. Bowens was acquitted of felonies in connection with the Sage incident. No one has been arrested for the homicide. Bowens was shot in the leg outside the restaurant.

James Henry Tankard, 33, of Exmore was sentenced to a total of 3.5 years in prison for his part in the Sage incident. He was ordered to be on supervised probation for five years and good behavior for 20.

In another case, Pierce Scanlan, 35, of Birdsnest pleaded guilty to assault and battery of a police officer on April 2, 2016. A presentence report was ordered.

Cheyenne Khiji Addison, 22, of Exmore pleaded guilty to stealing a credit card and credit card fraud. The case was continued pending completion of a presentencing report.

Northampton General District

Several people were recently charged with felonies in Northampton County.

Daquan Julius Hardwick, 27, of Hollies Church Road in Melfa was arrested Sunday and charged with failing to re-register as a violent sex offender on Sept. 2 and Oct. 16. Documents filed in Northampton General District Court stated the weight of evidence "good"

The defendant told authorities the charges were related "to a matter that occurred when he was 14 or 15 years old and hasn't been in trouble since." Bond was set at $500. Trooper T. M. Albright investigated.

Tamera Ann Collier, 42, with addresses of Sunnybrook Street in Richmond, Va., and Bowerhead Court in Spring, Tex., was charged with possessing Schedule I or II substance recently. The charge is a felony. She is being held without bond as she was out on bond for felony DUI with a child under age 15 in Texas. David Patrick Gunnells of Virginia State Parks investigated.

"She was being held in jail for drunk in public," Gunnells wrote in the file. "She asked me to bring her the black bag from her car. I brought the bag to the jail where the jail staff found a white powdery substance. I tested the substance with a field test kit and there was a positive result for methamphetamine."

Her lawyer responded, "After being arrested and taken to jail the defendant stated to Officer Gunnells that she needed a black bag that was at her campsite because her medications were in the bag and she did not want to be without them for the night. She

Music Lover Dies of Cancer

Mr. Joseph Thomas Mapp III, known as J.T. or Joe, 68, of Virginia Beach, passed away Oct. 10, 2016, following a brief battle with cancer. Born in Nassawadox and raised in Machipongo, he graduated from Northampton High School in 1966. Mr. Mapp was a master electrician and a member of the International Association of Electrical Inspectors. He spent his career working in Virginia Beach as a project estimator.

Mr. Mapp

Mr. Mapp was predeceased by his father, Joseph Thomas Mapp Jr., his mother, Virginia Gibb Mapp, and his sister, Janet Mapp Kellam. He is survived by his daughter, Nicole Mapp Hardee (Michael) and their children, Addison Grace Hardee and William Henry Hardee, of Mountain Brook, Ala.; his niece, Linda Kellam Paschall (Robert) of Exmore; his nephew, Benjamin Franklin Kellam III of Williamsburg. Va.; his nephew, John Mapp Kellam (Tina) of Hiwassee, Va.; his nephew, Joseph Lee Kellam (Lourdes) of Calgary, Canada; three great nieces, Sydney Hope Parks, Maria Isabel Gutierrez-Kellam and Ashley Reese; two great nephews, Matthew Joseph Gutierrez-Kellam and Benjamin Ryan Kellam; and dear friends, Lynne Pine, Jack Flanagan, George "Sonny" Kellam and Will Zinn.

He will be remembered best as a lifelong music lover who sang vocals, played the trombone, keyboards and the bass guitar in many bands over the years such as the Malibus, Spectrum and the local legend, The Sands of Time.

Mr. Mapp spent his final days at the home and under the care of his niece, Linda Kellam Paschall. J.T.'s friends and family, and especially his daughter, Nicole, would like to express their most sincere thanks for the love and care Linda provided to him, and for allowing him to enjoy daily sunsets from their home on the Eastern Shore of Virginia, referred to by J.T. as "God's Country." It is there that J.T. passed away peacefully under a glorious sunset.

"We're doing ok," she said. "We're getting a handle. Water quality is improving; doing a better job of taking care of the nitrogen ... some of what's happening is because of temperature shifts and changes in populations of fish and what they eat." She complained "a lot of sewage is still being put in. The bay can be improved but not put back. We've made progress but challenges remain."

Mike Oestarling, executive director of the Shellfish Growers of Virginia, said 185 million Little Neck clams were sold in 2015. He touted the Shore as being the largest producer of hard clams in the United States bringing $65 million to the Virginia economy. And since most of the clams are sold outside the state, Oestarling said, it is new money.

Also in 2015 more than 500 million seed clams were planted locally improving production this year and promising 2017 to be even better. "It takes a couple of years to reach market size," he said, later adding, more than 250 people are employed fulltime in the clam industry.

He noted the "not in my backyard" attitude of some residents. "More and more user conflicts will continue to occupy our time as more and more people move into the coastal areas ... we are one of the most heavily regulated industries there is ... one reason is food is consumed raw."

Those who grow oysters in cages 12 inches or lower off the bottom are doing so to protect their crops from predators. Seeds and cages are expensive but that latter is needed to keep crabs from devouring the spats. Some don't appreciate the view of cages from their decks.

The issue of poultry houses also came up in discussions. Deputy Secretary of Natural Resources for the Chesapeake Bay Russ Baxter said ammonia "is being looked at right now by the EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) and he expects the issue to get "greater attention" in the future. When asked about North Carolina's problem with heavy rain and livestock he said the issue there was with the hog industry and its waste lagoons not with poultry.

Dr. Richard Snyder, director of the Virginia Institute of Marine Science in Wachapreague said, "One or two storms changes everything." His agency is growing scallops. "Numbers were increasing until this past year. Skates came through and had a smorgasbord ... it is a challenge trying to replenish." The agency has also been working on 6,000 acres of grasses "and they are spreading."

Ponies Shatter Yellow Jackets' Win Streak

The Chincoteague Ponies defeated the Northampton Yellow Jackets, 49-45, breaking their three-game win streak last Friday night in Chincoteague during their homecoming celebration.

An early lead was obtained by the Ponies when they scored on a Yellow Jacket fumble. Northampton responded with a touchdown of their own and added another two, making it 8-6 in the first quarter. There was alot of back-and-forth action, with each team alternating touchdowns-but with the Ponies failing to convert the extra points-to end the first quarter with Northampton on top, 15-12.

By the half-way mark, Chincoteague managed to push in front of the Yellow Jackets, 36-21, with three additional touchdowns. The touchdowns continued to propel the scores higher well into the third quarter, where both teams entered the fourth hungry for a win. The Yellow Jackets started off the last quarter of the game down 29-43, but fought back to close the gap. However, the Ponies last touchdown, with the addition of a successful twopoint conversion, moved them just out of reach to a end-game of 49-45, shattering Northampton's win streak and giving the Ponies an overall 6-2 record for the season.

Chincoteague, now upgrading to a three-game win streak of their own, will take a trip to Gloucester to extend their streak against the Hampton Roads Generals.

Northampton, now 4-3 for the season, will host the undefeated Quantico Warriors tonight in Eastville.

Nandua Falls to Colonel Richardson

The Nandua Warriors suffered a 34-27 deficit to the Colonel Richardson Colonels last Friday night in Onley.

The score rested 13-14 in favor of the visitors, until Nandua struck back and pushed ahead to finish the third quarter leading, 21-14.

The fourth quarter is when things really heated up, as the Colonels came back with a vengence-but not without a fight from the Warriors. The Colonels almost leveled the board. 21-20. but Nandua's offense was strong enough to fire back with a touchdown by Kelly Reagan to make it 27-20. After failing to capitalize on the conversion, it was onward and upwards for the Colonels. Once they got their hands on the ball, they managed to score another touchdown and successfully completed their two-point attempt to take back the lead, 28-27, with less than two minutes left in the game. An interception by the Colonels sealed Nandua's loss when they rushed the ball to score the last touchdown of the night and rest the final score, 34-27. The last time the Warriors faced the Colonels was October of last year, where they dropped a 20-9 loss to Colonel Richardson.

The Warriors now sport a 5-3 record for the season and will face the Arcadia Firebirds (3-4) for the second time this year in Oak Hall tonight for a 7:00 p.m. kickoff.

Yellow Jackets Celebrate Senior Night with Victory over Southampton

The Northampton Yellow Jackets' field hockey team celebrated its senior night Tuesday on Hamilton Field, where the Yellow Jackets sent the Southampton Indians packing after a 3-0 victory. Northampton held their own; as a small team, they sport just enough players to take the field, according to regulation rule.

The 11 girls did not have any relief as they sprinted from one end of the grass to the other, but their drive and determination led them to shutout the Indians in a much needed boost-of-confidence win. Their previous meeting with the Indians, who they visited back in September, resulted in another shut-out of 6-0 over Southampton. All five of the Yellow Jackets' victories this season have ended with the opposing team unable to score.

Last week, the girls traveled to Washington High School in Princess Anne, Md., despite only having 10 players dressing for the game. Washington welcomed Northampton to play a man-down, and the girls battled a hard-fought 0-12 loss to the home team. Although knowing it would be a huge undertaking for the Yellow Jackets, they still stepped out and gave it their all, taking away a humbling loss back to Eastville. Northampton now holds a 5-6 record for the year.

Eastern Shore Street Hockey League (ESSHL) Senior League Game Results

Article Submitted by Michael Garbacz

Game 1: Penguins 3, Predators 8

The Predators jumped to an early lead and stunned the Penguins in the day's opener. Led by "El Presidente" Randy Stapleton, who potted a video game-like five goals, the Predators thwarted the Penguins' attempted comeback and cruised to victory. Guv Shover earned two goals and an assist in the win; Dalton McDaniel had a goal and an assist; Keith Hagler also picked up one helper. Josh LoFaso led the Pens' push with a hat trick, all the goals the team put on the board. Dean Dedicatoria and Michael Garbacz picked up assists in the loss.

Game 2: Capitals 1, Red Wings 2

The follow-up game was a real nailbiter, featuring spectacular two-way play and goaltending on both ends. Captain Pat Luckenbach scored the Capitals' lone goal, despite otherwise being a force of nature on the court.

Brandon Stapleton's Red Wings were up to the task this time around though, and the captain led the way, scoring both goals. Robby Parker, Adrien Clark and Danny Tweedy picked up assists in the Wings' win.

Game 3: Blues 2, Bruins 5

Captain Donnie Williams has a knack for raising the level of the players around him, and it showed in this game. The Bruins moved the ball like a well-oiled machine and were calm in the face of a hard-charging Blues attack. Led by Josh Hail, who had a goal and an assist, along with Danny Miller, who had the other goal, the Blues were hungry the whole game and played well in defeat.

Game 4: Penguins 8, Avalanche 7

The Pens managed to squeak out a victory in a scoring bonanza. It was an exciting game of back-and-forth, right up until the very end, with some spectacular goals. Captain Derek Hail led the Penguins with a hat trick, along with a pair of assists. Ben Bundick and Michael Garbacz each earned a pair of goals; Randall Stapleton also scored. Dean Dedicatoria and Pat Christman picked up assists in the win for the Pens. Matt Teasley, Dustin Palo and Nate Metzger were a veritable avalanche in this one in spite of the loss, scoring all the team's goals. Teasley potted a hat trick; Metzger and Palo had two apiece with Metzger tallying two helpers. Palo, Le'Andra Sabatino, Bryan Applegate and Garret Baylis each earned an assist.

Game 5: Predators 1, Capitals 2

Immediately after the barn-stormer, there was another tightly contested thriller between the Caps and Preds. Despite a late comeback and third-period goal from the Preds by El Presidente, the Capitals were able to hold on to their lead from the first period to the final buzzer. Luckenbach scored for the Caps; Preston Shover one-upped his old man, Guy, in this family affair, also finding the back of the net. Cliff Windsor picked up a helper in the winning effort.

Game 6: Red Wings 1, Blues 3

The Blues decided to make their own bounces in this tilt and rode an aggressive forecheck to a victory against a skilled Wings squad. Paul Thornes, Josh Hail and Danny Miller found the scoring touch for the Blues, each coming up with a goal and an assist. Dedicatoria also picked up a helper, which means that Dad wins this time around, since Dean netted two assists total for the day's games. Stapleton scored the Wings' goal; Robby Parker got the helper in the well-played loss.

Game 7: Bruins 4, Avalanche 0

Despite not having any subs, every Bruin on the court proved dangerous, as Scott Millikin (one goal, one assist), Jason Johnson (two goals), Don-

Arcadia Firebirds Cheerleading Finishes 2nd in Conference Competition

The Arcadia Firebirds cheerleading squad brought home a second place finish in Wednesday night's Conference level competition at King William High School. The host school, the Cavaliers, claimed the number one spot, with the Nandua Warriors nabbing a fourth place finish.

Last week, Arcadia and Nandua both competed at Nandua High School for their annual Eastern Shore District Competition. The two teams finished only one-and-a-half points apart, with the Firebirds claiming the top honor and the Warriors finishing behind them.

The team's next stop will be in East Rockingham for the All-District Competition.

SPORTS SHORTS

Little Shooters Hockey

Little Shooters Hockey will begin at the Eastern Shore Family YMCA on Monday, Oct. 24. Practices are in the youth gymnasium from 5:15 - 6 p.m. The cost is $35 for members and $45 for prospective members. Call the YMCA for more information at 757-787-5601.

Chamber to Host Oktoberfest Golf Tournament

The Eastern Shore Chamber of Commerce will host the final golf tournament of the year on Friday, Oct. 28, at Bay Creek Golf Club in Cape Charles. The event will cost $110 per person. This will include greens fees, cart, box lunch, oncourse beverages, and the awards reception.

Come out on the greens to compete for bragging rights and great prizes for first, second, and third places, longest drive, closest to the pin, and hole-in-one; there will also be a Betting Hole for those who are feeling lucky. A limited number of team registrations are available.

To register, visit www.esvacham-ber.org/octoberfest-golf and print out the appropriate form. Complete and mail with check payable to the ESVA Chamber of Commerce, or stop by the Chamber of Commerce in Melfa. For more information, call 757-787-2460 or email info@esvachamber.org.

Sportfishing Report

Hurricane Matthew's Effects on Fall Fishing Patterns

By Dr. Julie Ball, IGFA Representative

The extreme winds and historic flooding that hit our area from Hurricane Matthew caused fishing patterns to change considerably, so watch for fall patterns to return slowly.

Until the waters settle out, much of the best action will continue to come from the shallows and protected inlets. Although the speckled trout action is lagging, the bite will rekindle along the shorelines and lower Bay inlets over the next several days. Folks trying their luck are finding some takers ranging from 16- to 21-inches, but some bigger specks are also lurking in the same areas. School-sized striped bass ranging to around 18- to 22-inches are also providing some action in these same protected areas around bulkheads and lighted docks at night. Remember, in Bay waters you can keep two fish per person measuring between 20- and 28-inches, with one of the two fish allowed to measure above 28-inches.

Puppy drum tend to thrive in turbulent water. Masses of pups are thrilling anglers in most backwater locations, inlets, lower Bay surflines and piers. Big red drum action is also taking off all over the lower Bay and along the ocean shorelines. Anglers continue to revel in red drum releases near the islands of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel on a variety of cut and live bait, where some of these brutes are pushing to 48-inches. Surf and pier anglers are also still pulling big bulls from the Little Island fishing pier and from the surf lines off Sandbridge and along the Eastern Shore barrier islands.

Spot were active during the storm, with anglers reporting good action all along the Southern Bay shorelines, inlets, and piers. Folks are still finding some decent spot activity this week, with bloodworms the bait of choice.

In the Bay, the best catches are still coming from channel edges and shoals. Those venturing to deeper water wrecks will find good luck with the flatfish once they can get out. Nice trigger fish and decent sized tautog and sea bass are also available on these wrecks, but seabass are off limits until the 22nd of this month. Big chopper bluefish will also show soon around many of these same structures, with the Triangle Wreck area a favorite.

Before the storm, tautog action was heating up in Bay waters, with scattered fish pushing to over 4-pounds preferring fiddlers and quartered crab around the islands, pilings, and tubes of the CBBT. Sheepshead are still taking bait intended for tog in these same areas, with some big fish caught recently.

Amberjack are still available at a few offshore wrecks and at the South Tower through the end of the month. Deep droppers can look forward to decent tilefish, black bellied rosefish, and grouper selections once they can reach them.

Not many boats have ventured offshore due to the storm winds, but once the seas calm, the action could be good. Look for some yellowfin tuna and a mixture of longfin tuna, big eye tuna, and wahoo to be the main event. Some mahi, stray marlin and swordfish are also a possibility. For information, go to www.drjball.com.

Arcadia Graduate Takes Entrepreneurial Approach to Fund Dream

By Connie Morrison

At a time when students are weighing every option to fund their college educations, Alyese Justis has taken a more entrepreneurial approach. The 2009 Arcadia High School graduate drew on her 2013 degree in hotel and restaurant management from the University of Maryland Eastern Shore to write "Life is But a Dream," a cook book she self-published and is using the proceeds from to help offset her graduate degree expenses.

"I've always been a dreamer," said Justis. The title, she said, "is a play off my life. You can do anything: If you can dream it, you can do it."

One of her biggest dreams is going to graduate school, and with help from the proceeds of her book, she is enrolled in an online MBA program at

Justis

Johnson and Wales University with a concentration in hospitality.

It's a costly program, but Justis is an ambitious person. Another cookbook, "Family, Faith and Food," is scheduled for a Dec. 5 release. "My goal is to feed people two different ways: physically, with food, and inspirationally, to motivate them," Justis said.

Among her favorite recipes from the new book is "Gigi's Country Style Loaded Grits," a recipe tested mostly by her father and grandfather. "For two people who don't like grits, they really liked Loaded Grits," she said. Her sister Gigi provided the inspiration for the recipe based on her unique way of eating grits. "She will take a bit of her eggs and stir them into the grits, along with a few crumbles of bacon," said Justis. "So I took her method and just jazzed it up a bit with the sage sausage and cheese, making it into a casserole."

The Oak Hall resident said her dream job is to become a bonded and licensed caterer and to start her own catering business.

"If you want something badly enough, you will get it," she said.

Justis is the daughter of Alvin and Carmel Justis, of Oak Hall.

"Life is But a Dream" can be purchased at Sundial Books in Chincoteague, The Book Bin in Onley, and at www.amazon.com

Gigi's Country-Style Loaded Grits

Ingredients:

1 lb. pork sage sausage
½ tsp. black pepper
1 C. quick cooking grits
2 4.3 oz pouches real bacon bits
3 C. sharp cheddar cheese
1 small onion, chopped (finely shredded)
4 C. water
3 C. Monterey Jack cheese
½ tsp. salt
2 Tsp. butter
½ tsp. No Salt seasoning
2 large eggs, lightly beaten

Instructions:

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Over medium heat, in a large skillet, brown sausage and onion until sausage is no longer pink. Drain. In a large saucepan bring water and salt to a boil. Stir in grits slowly and reduce heat to low. Cook uncovered for about 5 minutes or until thickened to your liking. Remove from heat.

Stir in 2 cups of the sharp cheddar, 2 cups of the Monterey Jack cheese, butter, and eggs. Add in sausage mixture and one pouch of bacon. Transfer to a greased baking dish of choice, spreading grits evenly, top them with the other pouch of bacon and the remainder of the cheeses. Bake covered 20-30 minutes or until it is golden brown. Let it stand and 10 minutes before serving.

Note: Great for breakfast, or you can opt out of using the pork sausage and it makes a great side dish with any meal.

Touring Slave Exhibit Continues Until Nov. 12 at Eastern Shore Public Library

"To Be Sold: Virginia and the American Slave Trade," a traveling exhibition from the Library of Virginia, will be on view at the Eastern Shore Public Library in Accomac through Nov. 12. Through images of paintings, insurance policies, bills of sale, broadsides, and other items from the Library of Virginia's collections, "To Be Sold" reveals the slave trade as slaves were "sold South."

The exhibit includes interactive media kiosks with slave narratives recorded in the 1930s. "To Be Sold" will examine the impact of the domestic slave trade on African American families. This information is invaluable for African American family historians, since such personal data on enslaved people is difficult to locate.

Corresponding to the traveling exhibition, the library will have two series of programs collectively called "Sawubona" which means "I see you" in the African Zulu language. The series provide a more in-depth look into the exhibition and currently how we look at each other today and recognize our individual and shared pasts. Sawubona sessions are offered to the public at no cost.

Sawubona Interplay uses movement, music, storytelling and stillness to help explore thoughts and feelings about the "To Be Sold" exhibit. This program is especially beneficial for children and youth. Interplay will be led by Karen Hatch and Malaika Nanette Mitchell. One last session will be held Oct. 27, 6-7:30 p.m.

Sawubona InterShare is a series of slide presentations by Dr. Arthur Carter followed by facilitated audience discussions. The last in this series is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 29, 1-3 p.m.

Families, church and community groups are invited to tour and attend the programs. OCTOBER 21, 2016 - EASTERN SHORE POST - 27 EASY APPLE TURNOVERS, COMPLIMENTS OF FALL

Story & photo by Connie Morrison pples, to me, are right there with with leaves dappled rust and gold as harbingers of fall. Forget pumpkin spice mania. me crisp apples, equally balanced between sweet and tart, with juice dribbling down my chin.

The Eastern Shore might not be prime apple country, but there are sources besides your local grocery store to sate your apple appetite. Although the local Mason Beach Fruit Farm is closed for the season, some roadside stands carry apples, or pick your own apples at M&C Vessey Farm near Pocomoke while supplies last.

"We still have Stayman—or Winesap, some call them," said Cindy Vessey. "We also have other varieties in the market" that are already picked she said, listing Enterprise, Golden Delicious and Red Delicious, Gala, and Rome varieties. And to sweeten the deal, there is fresh-pressed apple cider for sale. If you haven't had unpasteurized cider, that alone is worth the trip.

The number of things you can do with apples seems In fact, I can produce a endless. In fact, I can produce a Bubba-like list of favorite ways to prepare apples: apple cake, apple turnovers, apple pie, baked apples, apple butter, apple cider, apple buckle, apple pandowdy, dried apples, apple jelly, apple cobbler...and so it goes. I'm sure you have a favorites list too.

The recipe for Easy Apple Turnovers, below, is from my grandmother Montine Williams Smith, who will celebrate her 100th birthday next month. She always made turnovers from summer apples she dried on big screened racks in her back yard under the blazing Georgia sun. I have adapted her recipe to use fresh fall apples.

What makes this recipe easy is that it uses canned biscuits for the dough. The late Southern humorist and Atlanta Constitution columnist Lewis Grizzard wrote that any woman who serves her family canned biscuits is a brazen hussy. While that doesn't much hurt my feelings, I take exception on my grandmother's behalf, as she is as genteel a Southern woman as you will encounter. And she still makes the best burnt caramel cake that will ever cross your lips. Woe to anyone who tries to stash a leftover piece to take home to a friend or co-worker—I will arm wrestle you for it and I will win.

In celebration Montine Smith's 100th birthday and apple season, I hope you enjoy the recipe for Easy Apple Turnovers. And welcome to the world of brazen hussies (and their male equivalents).

If you go... M&C Vessey Farm, 31783 Vessey Orchard Rd. Westover, MD 21871 410-957-1644 Open M - Sat, 8 a.m.–6 p.m.; Sun, 8 a.m.–4 p.m.

Recipe for Easy Apple Turnovers 7-8 large apples, peeled, cored, and chopped (a mix of sweet and tart is good) Juice of 1/2 lemon (optional, use if none of your apples are of a tart variety) 1/2 cup light brown sugar, packed pinch of salt 6 tablespoons of butter 2 teaspoons of cinnamon 4 packages of canned biscuits (40 total; the 4-pack is perfect) flour to dust the rolling pin and board Stew the apples with brown sugar, lemon juice (if used), cinnamon, salt, and two tablespoons of the butter, in a pan with a lid over medium low heat until soft. Mash with a potato masher or fork, remove the lid, and keep cooking until most of the moisture is absorbed (keep a close eye on the apples at this point because the liquid will cook off quickly). Remove from heat and let cool. Melt remaining butter in a glass dish. Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Lightly dust a clean surface and rolling pin with flour. Open one package of canned biscuits. Roll out one biscuit into a circle that measures about three inches across. Place about one tablespoon of filling in the center. Fold one side over the other, creating a half-moon shape, and seal by pressing the tines of a fork into the dough edges. Transfer to a baking pan that has been lightly greased or covered with parchment paper. Repeat with remaining biscuits. Brush turnovers with butter before placing in the oven. Bake for 15 minutes or until golden brown. Remove to cooling racks.

GROUP SEEKS TO CONFRONT AND DISMANTLE RACISM

Submitted Article

On Saturday, 37 Eastern Shore residents attended a workshop entitled "Dismantling Racism" at Mary N. Smith Cultural Center near Accomac. The workshop, sponsored and facilitated by Virginia Organizing, gave residents an opportunity to reflect on personal experiences, discuss issues, and focus on how to make changes within their organizations and communities. According to Berron Rogers, a participant, "The workshop was very worthwhile. The people present seemed to be on the same page in terms of dismantling racism. It begins with each of us to step up to the plate and not allow racial comments to go without confronting them. There is good and bad in all of us. We must focus on the positive in each other if we are going to live in harmony. If we want to dismantle racism, we must be proactive in all we do."

William Allen, another workshop participant, commented "the workshop was terrific. The only problem is people who needed to be there were not. We need more of these kinds of workshops on the Eastern Shore."

Billye Guy, a lifelong resident of Melfa, stated, "The workshop allowed us to come togeth-

- er and form a community on common ground. We were able to comfortably discuss issues with each other. I found it very hopeful."

Virginia Organizing is a statewide grassroots organization dedicated to challenging injustice by empowering people in local communities to address issues that affect the quality of their lives. The Eastern Shore Chapter meets monthly to continue this dialogue and develop action plans to improve race relations on the Eastern Shore. For more information, or to obtain meeting dates and locations, contact Meghan McNamara 847-922-1213 or meghan@ virginia-organizing.org

Thirty-seven area residents gave up a Saturday of beautiful weather to attend a workshop geared toward confronting and ending racism.

Eastern Shore Orchestra Launches 18th Season

To launch its eighteenth season, the Orchestra of the Eastern Shore, directed by Dr. Paul Kim, will perform works by three British and three French composers, including Vaughan Williams's Charterhouse Suite, Ravel's Pavane pour une infant defunte, and Bizet's Carmen Suite. This concert, entitled "From Britain to France" will also include works by Holst, Grainger, and Lully. Performances will be at Historic Cokesbury Church, Onancock at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 4, and Hungars Episcopal Church, Bayside Rd., Bridgetown at 4 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 6. All OES concerts are free and open to everyone; donations are accepted.

The remainder of the season is a full one, including a performance with chorus and vocal soloists of selections from Handel's Messiah at the Onancock Christmas Concert at Cokesbury Church on Dec. 10 and a Messiah sing-along with organ, soloists, and orchestra at Hungars Episcopal Church on Dec. 11. more information is available at orchestraes.org n October 22, 2016, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., the Northampton Sheriff's Office and the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) will give the public its 12th opportunity in six years to prevent pill abuse and theft by ridding their homes of potentially dangerous expired, unused, and unwanted prescription drugs. Bring your pills for disposal to Northampton Sheriff's Office at 5211 The Hornes, Eastville, Virginia. (The DEA cannot accept liquids or needles or sharps, only pills or patches.) The service is free and anonymous, no questions asked.

Last September, Americans turned in 350 tons (over 702,000 pounds) of prescription drugs at more than 5,000 sites operated by the DEA and more than 3,800 of its state and local law-enforcement partners. When those results are combined with what was collected in its 10 previous Take Back events, DEA and its partners have taken in over 5.5 million pounds — more than 2,750 tons — of pills.

This initiative addresses a vital public safety and public health issue. Medicines that languish in home cabinets are highly susceptible to diversion, misuse, and abuse. Rates of prescription drug abuse in the U.S. are alarmingly high, as are the number of accidental poisonings and overdoses due to these drugs. Studies show that a majority of abused prescription drugs are obtained from family and friends, including from the home medicine cabinet. In addition, Americans are now advised that their usual methods for disposing of unused medicines — flushing them down the toilet or throwing them in the trash — both pose potential safety and health hazards.

For more information about the disposal of prescription drugs or about the October 22, 2016, Take Back Day event, go to the DEA Diversion website or contact Major Smith with Northampton Sheriff's Office at (757) 678-0458.

Fourth Annual Camp Fragile Hearts Held

Submitted Article

A morning of heavy rain did not dampen the spirits of the Camp Fragile Hearts campers, counselors or volunteers. Melanie Mason, Riverside Shore Hospice Bereavement Counselor said, "We were fortunate that the weather improved throughout the day, and we ended with a spectacular sunset and a moving ceremony that made for a day of healing and new beginnings."

Camp Fragile Hearts was the annual culmination of a series of outreach events that support families coping with loss, whether from grave illnesses, death, divorce, foster placement, incarceration or deployment. The free camp was a one-day event that brought local kids together in a fun, safe environment where they could share their feelings of loss with others but also have a day filled with fun activities such as art, a petting zoo, games and zip lining.

The camp, which involved nearly 30 volunteers and trained counselors, was held on Saturday, Oct. 1, in Jamesville, at the YMCA Camp Silver Beach. This was the fourth annual camp which was started by Hospice and Palliative Care of the Eastern Shore and is being continued by Riverside Shore Hospice. The camp was funded in part by corporate donations, including generous donations from Buchanan Subaru in Pocomoke, Md., the Northampton Sheriff's department and local Rotary Clubs.

"The day allowed kids to leave the hurt behind as well as help them understand they are not alone and others share feelings of loss and sadness too. It's such an important community outreach effort and our volunteers and staff benefit from the day nearly as much as do the children," commented Mason. "All of the time, effort, energy and love that goes into this day pays big dividends in making a difference in the life of a child. Our volunteers' generous hearts helping fragile hearts heal was really what it's all about."

Camp's first activity was a smallgroup discussion led by trained counselors. These sessions allowed the kids to talk about their grief in a safe environment, free from judgment and to build trust in their assigned "Big Buddies" two adults assigned to each group.

The day progressed to age-appropriate arts and crafts, then to interacting with animals in a petting zoo, zip lining and climbing the Alpine Tower. Dinner included a presentation of photos from the day and then campers were recognized and received awards in the following categories:

•Showed Care and Kindness for Others,

- •Looked out for Fellow Campers,
- •Willing to Stop and Try Again,
- •Not Afraid to Ask for Help,

•Demonstrated Great Teamwork,

•Willing to Push Through Your Fears, and •Showed Great Listening and Observation Skills.

A final ceremony on the Bay allowed the children to literally and figuratively release their feelings of sadness and grief using bio-degradable paper lanterns that floated away into the setting sun.

A parent of a child who recently lost a close grandparent and attended the camp commented, "My son was uncertain what to expect but truly enjoyed the day. He needed the opportunity to meet other children experiencing similar feelings and emotions. The counseling sessions allowed him to open up, and he loved the physical challenges of the day. I'm so appreciative of Hospice, and I hope others in similar situations take advantage of future camps. Our children really benefit from a day like this."

"This day of community outreach gives meaning to the Riverside Care Difference which is putting our patients at the heart of all we do," said Mason. "Hospice services and palliative care are so much more than simply the final chapter in a life. We focus on pain and symptom control, communication and coordination, emotional support and caregiver support. We provide patients with the best care possible in order to keep them safe, help heal them, treat them kindly and respect their wishes," continued Mason.

2017 camp applications can be obtained by calling Mason at 757-789-5000.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Northampton County Planning Commission will meet on Tuesday, November 1, 2016 at 7:00 p.m. in the Board Chambers located in the County Administration Building at 16404 Courthouse Road in Eastville, VA. The purpose of the meeting is to conduct a public hearing on the following matter.

Zoning Text Amendment 2016-10 NHCO: The Northampton County Board of Supervisors intends to amend the Northampton County Code, Chapter 154.2 Zoning Code, Section 142 Front Setback/Yard Regulations, by adding (J) Chesapeake/Atlantic Preservation Areas resource area 100-foot vegetated buffer area and front setback. The front setback may be reduced to eliminate or reduce the need for an administrative wavier from the required Chesapeake/Atlantic Preservation Areas resource protection area buffer when all of the following criteria have been met. (1) The lot shall be undeveloped and eligible for a Chesapeake Bay/Atlantic Preservation Area administrative buffer waiver; (2) The Front setback reduction shall only apply to the principle building; and (3) The maximum reduction shall be ten feet, except that in no case shall the total front setback be reduced to less than fifty feet.

The Board of Supervisors will conduct a public hearing on the above matter on Tuesday, November 8, 2016 at 7:00 p.m. in the Board Chambers.

The application will be on file and open to public inspection in the office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors and in the Development Department located at 16404 Courthouse Road, Eastville, VA.

Anyone wishing to comment on the above item is invited to attend the meetings and make their comments known. Written comments can be submitted to the Development Department, P.O. Box 538, Eastville, VA 23347.

By Linda Cicoira

I wrote this column last Friday night right after enjoying a monumental birthday lunch with my two brothers. No, it wasn't my celebration. The oldest of us was going into a new decade, the younger brother and I just helped him with the milestone.

All my life Eddie's birthday has meant that mine was a week away. It kicked off my birthday week, though I never called it that until years later. We were born two years and a week apart. Because the Eastern Shore Post is a weekly, that equals TODAY!

And if the weather is nice, that means I have been good all year. That determination was a tradition we grew up with. I do not remember why we always said it but we did and it was a perfect day this year for Eddie. The ruling on my annual behavior will be made while you read. But the forecast is excellent.

When we were kids, Mom let us pick what we wanted for dinner on the actual date of our birthdays. But we usually shared a cake during the joint celebration with family on the weekend in between the two dates.

Our mother was the "Queen Of All Birthdays." She worked hard all her life and died soon after retiring but she always managed to get a reprieve on her birthday. In more than 50 years of laboring, she never went to any job on that beautiful day in August. She was already in heaven when we had an earthquake that shook my house on her birthday five years ago. She will be gone 16 years next month. Mom, if you are reading, we did not think the quake was about your forecast. Ok, yes, we did, and we have some fun with it.

On my first day of college, I made a friend who introduced me to the whole notion of celebrating a birthday month, a birthday week and a birthday eve. Mom thought it was a little overboard, but she didn't mind when Aug. 1 came around and I initiated her into the program.

My mother must have thought out everything carefully to keep us in line. Until recently I still thought that one should not drink milk from a beer glass because it would ruin it. She also said that it was okay to wear curlers in your hair to the grocery store on Saturday and that any woman who didn't probably also didn't have a date that night. Those were the days when a kerchief was thought to cover everything. And lipstick dressed it up.

I also still remember being the youngest. My "little" brother, Jack, came along when I was 14. So, I had a lot of years to bask in the glory of being the baby. I was the youngest in my classes because I started in another state where kids were allowed to enroll if their birthdays were before Dec. 1.

Now, I am the oldest person in my ever-growing office. And five years older than my grandmother was when she wore her muumuu to Silver Beach with us, waded in the water and was made (by Mom) to sit on the back seat of the car (on a towel) between Eddie and his little sister.

I thought Nana was ancient that day and had lost her mind but it was great fun. Years later, when I lived in the Shenandoah Valley and was surrounded by cows. I would pull the car over and take photos of them and call them Moomoos. And yes, I would picture that beach day and ponder how the cows would look across the field wearing the loose-fitting dresses. I think it would make a great painting.

Mom always was lost when we were driving on a day trip. Or so I thought. I learned many, many years later, after telling her no one could not trust her directions, that she only told us she was lost so we would be quiet in the car. I'm not sure I believe that. But I ponder it often.

The people at The LemonTree Gallery and Studio in Cape Charles probably didn't know it is my birthday today or that last year because I had to work on that day, I wore my tiara to the Accomack Board of Supervisors' meeting. It was a little embarrassing when the chairwoman pointed at me so all would notice that I had something going on.

But I managed to live through it with a red face. I do after all, live for the day.

Anyway, the gallery is having an event tonight and encouraging tiara and other royal garb wearing! Yippee! Maybe I will see you there. Enjoy the weather.

Thanks to First Responders

To The Editor:

Thanks to the police officers, fire department and emergency personnel, who responded to an emergency call at my residence on Monday, Oct. 17. Even though it was a false alarm, this response was greatly appreciated. Exmore is lucky to have such outstanding personnel serving our town.

Vote No on Right to Work Question To The Editor:

On Nov. 8. Shore residents will have to make tough decisions. One is whether to vote Yes or No on the Right to Work issue. The Ballot Question is:

Should Article I of the Constitution of Virginia be amended to prohibit any agreement or combination between an employer and a labor union or labor organization whereby (i) nonmembers of the union or organization are denied the right to work for the employer, (ii) membership to the union or organization is made a condition of employment or condition of employment by such employer, or (iii) the union or organization acquires an employment monopoly in any such enterprise?

Voting "yes" means adding an amendment to the Virginia Constitution making it illegal for employers to make union membership a mandatory requirement of employment. But what would be the point? Virginia already has a state law banning employers from requiring union membership. This law has been in existence since 1947.

Right to Work is already a Virginia law - Vote NO. Arlene Joynes

Brenner Has the Experience To the Editor:

Matt Brenner will make an excellent commonwealth's attorney. I've known Mr. Brenner for more than 10 years and remember how impressed I was the very first time I met him. His passion for upholding the law is paramount and his experience as assistant commonwealth's attorney in Accomack for 15 years is crucial for this position.

No other candidate has Mr. Brenner's experience. None. It is very important to note that no other candidate has prosecuted criminals for murder, rape or violent crimes. He is the only candidate that knows how to run the commonwealth's attorney's office which will make for a seamless transition. This is crucial for the citizens of Accomack County.

I've witnessed firsthand his steadfast resolve to prosecute criminals and his compassion towards victims of crime. He has my vote and I encourage all to cast your vote for Matt Brenner for commonwealth's attorney.
