Spencer Morgan is Accomack's New Commonwealth's Attorney

By Linda Cicaira

"Now the real work begins," Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney J. Spencer Morgan III said Tuesday night just after winning the three-man race for the Accomack prosecutor's job.

"I am honored by the efforts of all my supporters who made this electoral win possible," he said. "Thank you to the voters of Accomack County for trusting in me."

The Onancock resident had the backing of Sheriff Todd Godwin and former Commonwealth's Attorney Jon

Poulson. Morgan received 41.35 percent or 6,193 votes and upstaged his fellow worker, Acting Commonwealth's Attorney Matthew C. Brenner of the Painter area, by 1,480 ballots.

Brenner took 31.47 percent or 4,713 votes. Defense lawyer Carl H. Bundick, a Painter native, came in third with 4,047 or slightly more than 27 percent. Results showed there were also 25 write-in votes.

CHINCOTEAGUE CITY MANAGER REMOVED ESCORTED FROM BUILDING AFTER CLOSED SESSION OUSTER

By Linda Cicaira

Chincoteague Town Manager Rob Ritter was terminated from the job he held for about 10 years Monday night following a two-hour closed session of the mayor and town council. He was then escorted from the premises.

"There were a host of factors that led to this decision," Vice Mayor Denise Bowden said Tuesday. "It was not made lightly." She added, "It was in the best interest of citizens, employees and the town itself."

Bowden, Councilwoman Ellen Richardson and Councilmen Ben Ellis and Jim Frese voted to oust Ritter. Councilman Gene Wayne Taylor said he voted for Ritter to keep his job. Councilman Eddie Lewis, who was the police chief for years and worked with Ritter for a decade, abstained. Mayor Arthur Leonard only votes to break a tie.

Meeting minutes show Ritter was given 90 days severance pay, which equals about $25,000 of his annual salary of $101,000.

"We have all the confidence in the world in our staff right now," said Bowden. "The employees know the job inside and out." She said the hiring process will start around the "first of the year."

GROUP SEEKING ELECTED SCHOOL BOARD BELIEVES IT HAS SIGNATURES FOR REFERENDUM

By Linda Cicoira

Petitions circulated outside polling places during Tuesday's general election may have brought Accomack a step closer to a referendum that would ask voters if they want county school board members elected.

The group called Accomack County School Board Election Committee was trying to collect 3,000 signatures to ensure the required approximately 2,500 signatures or 10 percent of registered voters was obtained. When the process began several months ago, there were about 25,000 registered voters, the amount by which the percentage would be calculated.

At press time Thursday, an organizer, former School Board Member Janet Turner of Accomack, was unable to say for sure if that target had been met but reports from several others indicated it was.

"As workers have time they will have them (the petitions) notarized," Turner said. "I'm very hopeful. I think it went smoothly," she added. "We gave it our best shot, the numbers aren't all in yet." The petitions "are still with the volunteers."

Others taking the signatures disclosed that 800 people signed at the new Nandua precinct. About 600 signatures were obtained at Atlantic. Approximately 100 put their names on the documents on Saxis. There were 350 signatures at New Church, 400 at Painter and 300 at Bloxom.

County Supervisor Paul Muhly helped get the 500 signatures at the polling place in Parksley where School Board Member Margaret Miles was an election official. "My raw count is over 4,000" total signatures collected, he said.

Muhly said that 300 signatures were gotten in Greenbackville. Former supervisor Wanda Thornton reported that 275 were obtained on Chincoteague.

That totals roughly 3,600 signatures.

"We're going to go over them with a fine tooth comb and make sure they are all correct before we submit them to the registrar," Muhly said. "Out of every 100 people we asked, we have maybe four or five rejections. It was a highly successful effort."

"There was a tremendous response at my assigned spot ... at the Bloxom Fire House," said another organizer, school activist Connie Burford of Bloxom. She thanked Bloxom Volunteer Fire Department for providing a table, chairs, a coffee pot and electricity and she Kenneth Midgett for supplying an extension cord.

"I had two wonderful partners, Stacey Gardner and Jenny Kreisl," Burford said. "Together we collected three out of every five voters' signatures that came through our precinct."

"Those that we didn't get signatures from, for the most part, we just plain couldn't get to because we were so backed up collecting other signatures," Burford said. "Five clipboards were flying all day long and the pens never sat still for a minute. Our effort was a huge success. But we could never have done it without the voters. Thank you to everyone who took the time to sign our petitions."

Earlier this month, Burford explained, the cause "it isn't about trying to have anyone removed. It's about having a voice about who is being put on the board. It is a group of people who are appointed by one person and ... there is no accountability for their actions. We need transparency. We need accountability. The citizens should have a voice."

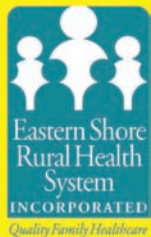

"We're one of the last places (in Virginia) that has an appointed school board," Burford continued. "It's about the people in Accomack ... having a say. Maybe what we have worked, for a while, but it's not working now."

Turner said about 40 volunteers signed up circulate the documents. "This is a public school system and the citizens who oversee it should be elected by the public," she said. "Having an elected school board is just a more democratic way of governing our school system."

The local circuit court judge appoints a nine-member school board selection commission in Accomack. In turn, the commission selects school board members.

The change was made in Northampton several years ago after parents and other concerned citizens there circulated petitions to take the issue to a referendum. In that case, nearly 80 percent of voters favored election over the board of supervisors appointing members.

If an Accomack referendum is successful, an election date would have to be designated and candidates would have to come forward to run for the seats.

Court Postings

U.S. District Court

A New York man who supplied the Eastern Shore of Virginia with cocaine since 2009 was sentenced to five years in prison last week in U.S. District Court in Norfolk.

When the defendant was arrested earlier this year, about $107,000 worth of the drug was confiscated.

Michael Mattos, also known as Michael McNeil and Michael Williams, 47, of the Bronx, was ordered to participate in a substance abuse treatment and counseling program. He was remanded to the custody of the U.S. Marshal. A special assessment of $100 was also made. No fines were imposed.

According to court records, Mattos and "his associates" distributed multiple kilos of cocaine to the region. In 2013, an unidentified person was arrested and 12 ounces of cocaine, $18,000 and two firearms were seized.

That person was later convicted of conspiracy, agreed to cooperate with authorities and admitted to selling large quantities of cocaine on the Shore since late 2008/early 2009. The amounts were 9 to 12 ounces weekly in 2009, 18 ounces weekly in 2010, 2011 and up to May 2012, three kilos weekly for a month and 18 ounces weekly for about five months until arrest in September 2013.

This witness said he/she traveled to New York on a regular basis to purchase the drugs from Mattos, to sell for a profit in Virginia.

A second witness, who's name was also not disclosed, negotiated to purchase of 1.5 kilos of cocaine and 9 ounces of crack from Mattos. About 80 phone calls between the two were recorded, court record stated. "In a number of those conversations," Mattos "instructed ... on rules of drug trafficking and how to avoid law enforcement detection."

The defendant also agreed to transport the cocaine, said he would hire a driver for $1,200 to transport the drugs and he would travel to Virginia in a separate vehicle.

The witness told Mattos in a recorded conversation that money for the purchase had been obtained. Mattos asked the buyer to get a room at an Exmore hotel, call him and then wait. At about 8 p.m., two vehicles were spotted near the Maryland/Virginia line going 40 mph in a 55 mph zone. The vehicles later stopped at Corner Mart in Painter where they were detained by police. In one vehicle was Mattos, in the other was his girlfriend Maribel Ortiz and their four-year-old daughter.

Eventually the drugs were discovered and the two were taken to the Eastern Shore Drug Task Force office for interviews. At first, the record states, Ortiz stated "she knew nothing about the cocaine." She said they were headed to a funeral in Virginia Beach, that started at 8 p.m. but she couldn't name the deceased and had no luggage.

Mattos, in a separate interview, also spoke of a funeral and could not name the deceased. He claimed another male named "Jay" took the van and must have stashed the cocaine inside. Mattos told authorities he and Jay arranged the cocaine deal and that he was only making "chump change."

Accomack General District

A Virginia Beach animal activist was sentenced to 90 days in jail with all but 10 days suspended for stealing a dog from its owner's Hopeton yard in January 2015.

Charlene (Shocky) A. Boyajian, 47, of Sandoval Drive was also fined $1,000 and put on good behavior for three years. Chico, the Pit bull, belonged to Daniel Melendez and has never been recovered.

Boyajian was initially charged with felony theft but pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor. A neighbor saw Boyajian and two others with the dog. Bettina Cuce Rodriguez, 40, of Inlet Road in Virginia Beach, and Gordon A. Shell, 46, a former Mixed Martial Arts (MMA) fighter, have previously made plea bargains. They were given the same sentence. But Rodriguez was also ordered to do 50 hours of community service by cleaning local roads.

A charge of distributing between a half-ounce and five pounds of marijuana on May 28, 2013, will not be prosecuted against Kendrick Deshawn Northan, 35, of Bayside Road in Onancock. According to court records, a witness was uncooperative and unavailable to testify.

Torian Javon Upshur, 30, of Old Towne Neck Road in Eastville, was sentenced to five years with all but three months suspended for possessing a firearm by a felon on April 21, 2015. Good behavior was ordered for five years and supervised probation was ordered for two years.

James Winston Scott, 46, of Guard

Shore Road in Bloxom, was sentenced to five years in prison with all a year and two months suspended for counts of distribution of buprenorphine, a drug used by physicians to treat opioid addiction. The crimes occurred in 2015. Scott's driver's license was suspended for six months and he was put on probation for three years. Restitution of $220 was ordered.

Northampton Gen. District

Warrants for felony suspects were filed or updated in Northampton General District Court this week.

He was initially charged with felony hit and run. Valentin was sentenced to a year in jail with all but four months suspended. He was fined $150.

Kevin Kentral Wilson of Onancock was charged with possession of a Schedule I or II drug on Nov. 4. A preliminary hearing will be held in January.

Darrell Jones of Virginia Beach is accused of possessing marijuana with intent to distribute on Nov. 4. He was arrested the next day and will have a preliminary hearing in January.

Shawn R. Thomas Jr. of Cheriton was charged with possession with intent to distribute marijuana on Oct. 7. He was arrested on Oct. 11 and will have a preliminary hearing Dec. 1.

A charge of malicious wounding was amended to misdemeanor assault and battery against William Howard Lemley of Norfolk. He was accused of the Aug. 16, 2015, crime and was arrested July 8, 2016. A preliminary hearing will be held later this month.

Mr. Colona served his county in the U.S. Army and later retired after many years in management at Royster Fertilizer. He enjoyed hunting and fishing, however, his life's work and greatest passion was sharing his love of baseball with the youth of the Eastern Shore. His dedication led him to build, along with his son, Joe, Parksley's Little League field, which was the hub of the Shore's Little League for decades. Mr. Colona served as the Shore's Little League district representative for several years, and was an umpire for the Little League World Series. His lifelong commitment and love for the game greatly contributed to the continued success of Central Accomack Little League (CALL). Mr. Colona's legacy will live on in the meticulously groomed diamonds, the cheers of parents in the stands, and most importantly, in the smiles and laughter of the countless children who will continue to learn the game of baseball for generations to come.

Survivors include his five children, Joe Colona of Onancock, Berl Colona of Horsey, Debbie Holt and Donna Spain, both of Georgia, and Billy Colona; two sisters, Virginia Hopkins and Jeanie Ball; five brothers, Tommy, George, Roland, Junior, and Robert Colona; and six grandchildren, Andrew, Bradley, and Toby Colona, David Spain, Michael Beach Sr., and Albert Beach Jr.; and several great-grandchildren, nieces, and nephews.

Funeral services will be conducted from the graveside at the Parksley Cemetery on Saturday, Nov. 12, 2016, at 11 a.m., with Pastor Paul Nolz officiating. There will be a visitation at the Williams-Parksley Funeral Home this evening, Friday, Nov. 11, 2016, from 6-8 p.m. In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to Central Accomack Little League (CALL), P.O. Box 486, Onancock, VA 23417.

2016 All-District Volleyball Teams Announced

Story and Photos by Krystle Bono

As the volleyball season came to a close, athletes from each school across the Eastern Shore were selected for the Shore's All-District first and second teams.

First team All-District was led off with senior Kimberly Wert of Nandua. Wert was also named Offensive Player of the Year. Northampton's Evelyn Dunton was chosen as Defensive Player of the Year and also made the first team.

The title of Libero of the Year was earned by Courtney Barker of Nandua, also making first team. Rounding out the five remaining first team spots were Leah Truitt and Whitney Coulbourne of Nandua; Makayla Wilson of Northampton; Chincoteague's Sarah Turner and Arcadia's Amanda Stalgaitis.

Second team All-District consisted of Emma Whitley, Baylee Justis and Parker Murphy of Nandua; Sara Weber, Kanijah Brickhouse and Michaela Lewis of Northampton; and Chincoteague's Ronny Malone and Tylar Libertino.

Eight additional athletes were chosen for honorable mention: Makenzie Lucy (Arcadia), Stephanie Kellam (Northampton), Krista Reed (Chincoteague), Madison Greer (Nandua), Katlyn Holloway (Arcadia), Paige DiMartino (Nandua), Sierra Bass (Arcadia) and Nyderia Samuel (Arcadia).

The Warriors finished their season at the top of the ES District, with the Yellow Jackets settling into second place. Both teams, as well as Chincoteague, went on to compete in their respective Conference playoffs beginning last week.

Nandua faced Bruton for the first Conference 33 matchup. The Warriors lost in three straight sets, eliminating them from advancing. Chincoteague battled Windsor of Conference 41, where they, too, fell 3-0 to the host team.

Northampton faced their first Conference 41 team in Eastville Nov. 1, where they defeated Franklin, 3-2, freeing them to move on to the conference finals. The Yellow Jackets traveled to Windsor last Thursday night for the championship match, where they dropped a 3-0 deficit to the Dukes.

The Yellow Jackets went on to compete in the Region 1A East Quarterfinals at Rappahannock County High School last Monday night. Northampton finished with a hard-fought loss to the Panthers in three straight sets, 25-11, 25-7, 25-6.

Bayview Farm Youth Win VAHA High-Point Awards

The Virginia Arabian Horse Association (VAHA) held its 2016 year-end awards banquet at the Berkeley Hotel in Richmond last Saturday evening. In attendance were two of Bayview Farm's youth members, Elizabeth Graves and Kinsey Rayfield.

Graves was awarded High-Point Youth for ages 11-13. Her horse, SSS Euro Sunrise "Sunny," was named champion in Half-Arabian Sport Horse Under Saddle and her other horse, Glamorouz VTC "Izzy," earned champion in Arabian Working Hunter Over Fences.

Rayfield was named High-Point Youth for ages 10 and under and his mount, NT Legacys Aiyana "Daisy," was awarded champion in Half-Arabian Sport Horse In Hand. Daisy was also champion in Half Arabian Working Hunter Over Fences.

Both Graves and Rayfield have competed in numerous shows across the East Coast during their tenures with Bayview. This past July, they traveled to Oklahoma City for the Arabian Horse Association (AHA) Youth Nationals, where the young riders fared well among the hundreds of youth that gathered from across the United States to earn top honors in their respective discipline and age groups.

As a first time attendee, Rayfield grabbed four national top tens. Graves earned national top tens during her time in Oklahoma as well.

Graves also competes in local Interscholastic Equestrian Association (IEA) shows across the state.

Bayview Farm will head to VAHA finals in Lexington, Va., this weekend to conclude the 2016 show season.

SHORE SOCCER LEAGUE

Last Saturday, the Shore Soccer League held a series of games in Nasawadox at the Randy Custis Memorial Park.

The league allows kids ages 5 through 15 of all skill levels to play competitively in a positive environment. Shore Soccer's mission is to promote the personal development of each player and help them reach their full potential both on and off the field, with a focus on discipline, determination, dedication and teamwork. They also strive to develop a love of the game that will last longer than the years they play with the league.

A scholarship program is available to help with registration fees; you can also "sponser a player," which is a way for a child to play who would otherwise not have the opportunity.

Each child who participates is grouped by their respective age group; U7 co-ed ages 5 and 6, U9 co-ed ages seven and eight, U11 co-ed ages 9 and 10, U18 girls ages 11 to 18, U14 boys ages 11 to 13 and U19 boys ages 14 to 18.

The league's next set of games will be held Saturday, Nov. 12, beginning at 9 a.m for the U9 and U14 boys, 10 a.m. for U7 and U18 girls and 11 a.m. for U11 and U19 boys. This will also be the last series of the season. Following the conclusion of the games, the teams will celebrate with an end of season party.

Ponies Earn Fifth Straight Win, Firebirds Top Yellow Jackets

The Northampton Yellow Jackets hosted the Arcadia Firebirds in Eastville for the final time this season last Friday night. The Firebirds, entering the game with a 3-6 record, topped the Yellow Jackets 54-40, after a tough fight on Hamilton Field.

The Firebirds took the lead first, but the Yellow Jackets responded with 6:20 left in the first quarter with a touchdown by Tamaze Brisco (88). Northampton added another two when they completed a two-point conversion, making it an 8-7 game. However, with just 44 seconds left in the opening quarter, Arcadia's Trey Ballard posted a touchdown, putting the Firebirds in front, 13-8 after the initial 12 minutes.

The second quarter was an eventful one for Arcadia, as they tallied three additional touchdowns before the horn sounded, signaling the half-way point. Northampton was unable to respond with any points of their own and would enter the second half down, 34-8.

After Northampton's senior football players and cheerleaders were honored during halftime for their annual senior night, the teams took the field again; some for the final time of their high-school careers.

The last two quarters posed an uphill battle for the Yellow Jackets, but they stepped on the grass hungry and ready to score. Northampton managed to claw their way back up to narrow the gap, 54-40, by the game's conclusion.

With the final game of the season under wraps, the Yellow Jackets finished with a 4-6 overall record. Arcadia's win over Northampton gave them a 4-6 season record as well.

Northampton's offensive stat leaders for the year were Frederick Williams, who accrued 1,694 rushing yards and 24 touchdowns; Devin Hill with 1,284 passing yards and 18 touchdowns; Tamaze Brisco totaled 32 catches for 563 yards and 11 touchdowns on the receiving end and Javon Thomas, who rushed 10.3 yards per carry.

The Yellow Jackets' defensive stat leaders for the season were Jaquan Johnson with 70 total tackles, 49 assisted tackles and two forced fumbles; Javon Thomas with 24 solo tackles; Corey Smith with three sacks; Kasai Clark with four interceptions and Chad Simon with two fumble recoveries.

In Chesapeake, the Chincoteague Ponies earned their fifth straight win over the Greenbrier Christian Academy Gators when they defeated the Gators, 47-24, last Friday night. This brings the Ponies overall record to 8-2 for the year. Three of Chincoteague's eight victories were shutouts; six of the eight were wins by a margin of at least 23 points.

The Nandua Warriors (7-3) will compete in the Conference 41 playoffs Nov. 11, at Madison County High School in Madison, where they will face the Mountaineers (5-5).

Arcadia's Logan Godwin and Clem Jones prepare to kick for the extra point during last Friday night's game against Northampton in Eastville.

Senior League Game Results

Article Submitted by Michael Garbacz

Game 1: Capitals 3, Avalanche 4

The Avs managed to edge out mighty Pat Trick and the Caps in a wild opening tilt. Despite being outshot 25-11, the Avalanche benefitted from heroic efforts from forward Matt Teasley and goalie Chris Garcia. "Mr. Tease" put up a hat trick, depositing one goal per period and adding an assist on the other for a huge four-point effort. Captain Nate Metzger scored the remaining goal for the Avs; Le'Andra Sabatino, Seth Dize and Garret Baylis picked up helpers. Captain Pat Luckenbach scored a goal and an assist in the loss for the Caps. Preston Shover and Ray Schreffler also picked up markers; James Haley added an assist.

Game 2: Predators 3, Blues 2

Game two was another one-goal affair, with the Preds managing to squeak by in a well-played, back-and-forth game. The Predators overcame a one-goal deficit heading into the third, scoring two in the final frame and sealing the win. Jesse West, Dalton McDaniel and Guy Shover found the back of the net; El Presidente scarfed up all the assists. For the Blues, Jennie Rice added a goal; Julian Dedicataria potted the other one. Joseph Cornwell, Cory Chance and Danny Miller got the assists in the losing effort.

Game 3: Bruins 2, Capitals 1

The top teams in the league went head-to-head and did not disappoint. It was as close to a game of chess as street hockey can get, with the Bruins walking away with the shootout victory. It was just about an evenly matched game as you're likely to see, with Pat Trick scoring for the Caps and TR Hoyt answering for the Bruins.

The game stayed tied through regulation, and the hot hand stayed with Hoyt, who scored the only shootout goal to carry the Bruins to victory. Zach Webb picked up an assist for the Bruins; Aaron Hudson and Matt Yetter added helpers for the Caps.

Game 4: Red Wings 5, Avalanche 3

The youth movement came through for the Wings as they managed to hold off the Avs. Despite being outshot 21-17, the Red Wings found contributions from up and down the lineup, proving to be too much for the opposition this time around. Captain Brandon "The Huntsman" Stapleton turned in a solid four-point effort with two goals and two assists. Robby Parker netted the hat trick, finding the promised land once in each period. Trey Lodge and Tayler Parks picked up an assist, each, for the Wings; Danny Tweedy found himself with three helpers for the game. Bryan Applegate blasted home a couple of long-range shots for the Avs; Nate Metzger scored the other goal. Mr. Tease also picked up an assist.

Game 5: Penguins 1, Blues 2

Not to be outdone by the Caps and Bruins, the Pens and Blues put on a real nail-biter. The Blues jumped out to an early 2-0 lead, but the Pens found their rhythm and pushed back hard. It was a great back-and-forth game between the hard-nosed forecheck of the blueshirts and the always entertaining efforts of Josh LoFaso and Derek Hail for the Pens. The defining moment came when Big Ben struck "1" as Michael Garbacz rang a shot off of the post in tight for the Pens and the Blues managed to hang on. Danny Miller and Julian Dedicataria scored for the Blues, with Joseph Cornwell adding an assist. Josh LoFaso picked up the lone point for the Pens.

Game 6: Predators 3, Red Wings 2

The Preds and Wings turned in yet another great game, this time with the Preds squeaking by for the win. When the shot differential is one, you know the teams are evenly matched. In a solidly defensive game, neither team got many chances, but the Predators made one more count on a controversial deflection goal. El Presidente dangled his way to the tune of a goal and two assists for the game; Guy Shover picked up a goal and an assist. Jesse West rounded out the scoring for the Preds with a goal. Trey Lodge and The Huntsman scored the Wings' markers; Steve Sharo and Danny Tweedy picked up assists.

Game 7: Penguins 2, Bruins 9

The flightless birds were struck by a smooth criminal, and then some. Donnie Williams, TR Hoyt and Jason Johnson each netted a hat trick; that's got to be some kind of record. The trio also picked up assists, along with Scott Millikin, Matt Ayres and Zach Webb. Josh LoFaso and Michael Garbacz managed to spoil Dave Sepelak's shutout bid. LoFaso also added an assist, as did Derek Hail and Dean Dedicataria.

Game 8: Avalanche 4, Predators 3

The day's games ended with a make-up tilt between the Avs and Preds and it was a good one, with the Avs scooting by with the victory, despite being outshot 16-13. Three games on a Sunday is darn good workout! The Avalanche sealed their win on the strength of goals from Mr. Tease (1), Garret Baylis (1) and Nate Metzger (2). Metzger also added an assist for a three-point game. Bryan Applegate and Dustin Palo also earned a helper. For the Preds, El Presidente dippy-doodled his way to a hat trick. Dalton McDaniel added an assist.

Suicide, Post Traumatic Stress Disorder Follow Some Veterans Home

By Joe Vacarro
Submitted Article

There are more than 830,000 veterans residing in Virginia, including approximately 700,000 men and more than 130,000 women. Within those numbers are 669,000 war-time veterans who have served their country in time of need, and more than 5,000 of those men and women live amongst us. Living amongst them is the dark potential of suicide.

According to a 2016 Department of Veteran's Affairs (VA) press release, 20 veterans take their own lives every day. This may understate the problem, as some of this data is from 1999 through 2011, and only contains information from 21 states, with no data from larger states like California, Texas and Illinois. Throughout the years combat veterans have been returning home without visible scars from the battles they have fought, yet the suicide rate for our recently returning veterans continues to climb.

The troops, especially the career-minded, view any cry for help as a career blemish that could tarnish a record of valor and hard work and halt an upward climb through the ranks. The attempt to gather facts to combat this national tragedy is too skewed to be of any solid value.

Part of the problem is there is no uniform reporting system regarding these deaths. It is up to a coroner or funeral director to enter a veteran status or note a suicide on a death certificate. This makes it extremely difficult to determine a veteran's status unless the person is known to them, which begs the next question: How do they collect that data on homeless veterans?

A recent news article explained this very succinctly when an official stated, "Birth and death certificates are only as good as the information that is entered." However, there are also families out there who might pressure officials not to list "suicide" as the cause of death for fear of the stigma associated with such an event. The VA itself has acknowledged "significant limitations" in its data collection and specifically noted that "the ability of death certificates to fully capture female veterans was particularly low" and "younger or unmarried veterans and those with lower levels of education were also more likely to be missed on the death certificate."

Veterans make up approximately 10 percent of the U.S. population yet they are nearly one in every five suicides taking place in America. According to current VA studies, more than 69 percent of all veteran suicides were among those veterans who were 50 years and older. While there are a number of theories and speculative arguments as to why these deaths occur, no one yet has come up with an accepted answer; least of all the family members of these veterans. One recent study by the American Medical Association (AMA) surprisingly revealed that the military members most prone to suicide were in fact those troops with fewer cumulative deployment days and in the combat specialist occupation.

The AMA suggested that "the rise in suicides amongst the active duty troops is the result of indirect cumulative occupational stresses over years of war." The AMA further noted that "despite universal access to health care services, mandatory suicide prevention training, and other preventative efforts, suicide has still become one of the leading causes of death in the U.S. military in recent years."

The American Legion has several programs in place to help the active duty, reserve and retired veterans, including the Legion Riders, Homeless Veterans Program, Honoring Veterans Program, National Emergency Fund and Operation Comfort Warrior. All of these programs seek to raise awareness and money to support our troops and retired veterans.

However, programs alone are not the answer and identifying some of the possible signs might be a more helpful way to help these veterans. The signs include but are not limited to:

- A previous suicide attempt or self-destructive behavior;
- A significant relationship, financial, medical or work-related problem,
- A current or pending disciplinary or legal action,
- Substance abuse,
- Problems with a major life transition (e.g., retirement, discharge, divorce, etc.),
- Loss of a close friend or family member;
- Setbacks in military career or personal life,
- Severe, prolonged stress that seems unmanageable,
- Sense of powerlessness, helplessness or hopelessness,
- Behavior that isolates a person from friends and family members,
- Changes in sleep or appetite, and
- Decrease in personal hygiene.

Throughout the years Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) has been known by many names. During the American Civil War it was known as "soldier's heart" and "shell shock" during World War I, but the common denominator is the physical and psychological effects it has on the veteran. PTSD can take years to surface and when it does the people around their family member or friend should be aware of the preceding signs.

When the band stops playing and the marching, military duties and formalities of service are done; that's the time when that service member needs family and friends the most. As warrior poet Siegfried Sassoon wrote, "I walk the secret way with anger in my brain, O music through my clay, When will you sound again?" Help us to protect our veterans as they have helped to protect our country. Please support Post 56 in honoring all of our Veterans past and present this year on Friday, Nov. 11, 11 a.m., at the Cape Charles War Memorial.

Ritter was evaluated during the past month as were all town workers. Bowden said the police chief and town manager are evaluated by council, department heads evaluate their staff, the town manager evaluated town workers and the workers evaluate the manager and their department heads. The process is done to get all perspectives.

Ritter's home phone rang and rang when a reporter tried to reach him for comment. His cell phone was answered by a man whose voice sounded like Ritter, but the man said he was not Ritter. That phone was assigned to Ritter by the town and he still has it.

"He was not a people person," said Frese. "We tried to get across to him that you have to interact with the citizens - find out what they want and what they don't want so you know what to do. And he wouldn't do it," the councilman said.

"We tried to work with him," Frese continued. "It was very difficult. He didn't interact well with people. People would bring a problem to him and it was like it never happened."

Frese said Ritter was "given the opportunity to resign ... and he chose not to take it ... we had made him an offer if he resigned. They gave him the same thing anyway," Frese said.

Ritter's contract included severance if there was "no cause" for his termination.

Taylor said he voted for Ritter to stay until June, which is when the fiscal year ends. "On the Eastern Shore, these town managers just don't seem to last," Taylor said. "You have people who just can't be made happy."

"He outlasted all of them," Taylor said when comparing Ritter to other local town managers. "You've got seven bosses. By design they just don't last. Everybody has their own little pet peeves. We have a strong town. We're in the black. The next person who gets the job will have to go through the same things ... he did not damage or put shame to our town. Some people want a social butterfly" but being on Facebook all the time can mean trouble, he added.

"The Lord willing he'll find another job," Taylor said.

Addie Taylor, 97, a resident of The Hermitage in Onancock, made her way to the polls on Nov. 8 to vote.

"I'm not doing an absentee ballot because I'm not absent! I'm going to the poll to vote!" she told The Hermitage's Activities Director Hope Wallace.

Wallace snagged a photo of Taylor after she exercised her patriotic prerogative and sent it to the Post.

Northampton Supervisors Make Zoning Changes

By Ron West

Northampton supervisors adjusted the county's zoning ordinance Tuesday to assign the Town Edge District to land that was previously considered Planned Unit Development. It also made smaller setbacks in the Chesapeake Atlantic Preservation Areas.

The latter change modified the front yard setback by eliminating or reducing the need for an administrative waiver if certain criteria were met. The lot was required to be undeveloped and eligible, the front setback would only apply to the principal building on the lot and the maximum reduction of the front setback would be no more than ten feet, except in no case would the total front setback be reduced to less than 50 feet.

Forester Robbie Lewis gave an update for forest operations on the Eastern Shore and noted that his agency responded to one woods fire in Northampton this year. He said 40 educational sessions were offered to various groups in both counties and property owners were given answers to their forestry questions.

Chairman Spencer Murray announced he would continue to work with VDOT about lowering the speed limit on Bayside Road in Hare Valley where farm equipment enters and exits properties. The agency made a speed study and rec-

EXMORE CONSIDERS OUTDOOR THEATER PRODUCTION, SPLASH PAD

By Ron West

A theatrical production, a park sprinkler splash pad and praise for town workers were among the items discussed Monday at Exmore's town meeting.

The council, Manager Robert Duer and staff were complimented for their favorable attitude by business leader Ken Dufty. "There is a positive energy evident in the town today," he said, adding, the stance helped to breathe life back into the community. Business owners are pleased the police department is efficient and keeping a vigilant watch. Dufty also urged council to consider giving Duer a raise so he stays on board.

Councilman G.W. Adkins inquired what Exmore could do to help improve commerce. Dufty replied, businesses need more exposure but that is not the role of council.

Supervisor Granville Hogg complained about Murray's comments regarding 30 jobs at the Royal Farms store under construction in Kiptopeke. He said the chairman did not give a true picture of the project since some of the jobs might be part-time and provide no benefits. In October, Murray reminded the panel that the project met permit requirements and could proceed.

Duer reported the new park building was nearly complete and that a stage was in the works. He announced an offer by The Brown Box Theatre Project to present Shakespeare's play "Hamlet" on Sept. 22, 2017. Duer said the group would charge Exmore $3,000. Council authorized Duer to sign off on the offer and look for financial backing from outside groups, businesses or agencies.

Upon Duer's advice, council agreed to close the park's public restrooms to prevent damage from frozen pipes from just after Thanksgiving until warmer weather returns in spring.

Zoning Director Taylor Dukes brought a splash pad sprinkler plan back to council. Earlier this year, the board said there was not money for the $40,000 project. This time members agreed to review the project as it could draw families to town and would boost the economy.

Dukes conducted a survey of inoperable vehicles in town and found 59 that need to be addressed. An ordinance was recently adopted that requires the vehicles to have valid inspection stickers and tags or be removed from public display. After owners are notified, the vehicles could be impounded or disposed of at the owners' expense.

The December council meeting will be held at 7 p.m., Dec. 5. A public hearing on the zoning ordinance is set for 6:30 p.m., Jan. 9. Town offices will be closed Dec. 22, 23, 26 and 30.

The Four R's of the 21st Century

By Carla Savage-Wells

Special to the Eastern Shore Post

Why, Yes! Early and deliberate teaching of the four R's: "Reading, 'Riting, 'Rithmetic and ... Rhetoric" may provide an avenue for teaching young people and lifelong learners the skills employers are currently seeking and which many of our students are sadly lacking. The fourth "R," Rhetoric, is the art of discourse; an art that aims to improve the capability of speakers to inform, persuade, or motivate particular audiences in specific situations.

In a survey released by the Association of American Colleges and Universities, 93 percent of employers agreed that "a candidate's demonstrated capacity to think critically, communicate clearly and solve complex problems is more important than their undergraduate major." Before one thinks this doesn't apply to Post readers, consider that recent conversation with a spouse, friend or colleague. Or perhaps we choose to recall the latest debate witnessed on mainstream media. What characteristics of conversation or debate were missing? Which qualities would we all like to see in the next communiqué we witness?

- The ability to think and use common sense (not so common these days).
- The use of civil(ized) words and rules of

Post-Op Ed Page

- The ability to listen and weigh evidence to reach a logical decision or solve a pressing problem.

Why, Yes! Literacy (reading and writing), numeracy (the ability to understand and work with numbers), and oracy (speaking, listening, discussion and collaboration) are fancy terms for the three, no, four R's. My attention was recently arrested by an article featuring School 21, a charter school located in Stratford, England. The school's website declares, "We put speaking at the heart of everything we do," in a successful effort to prepare its graduates for the 21st century. The school teaches students to use spoken language effectively, in the same way it teaches them to use numbers and written language. By collaborating with Cambridge University, School 21 has established the Voice 21 Oracy Framework and Curriculum.

According to a recent edition of The Washington Post, public speaking still ranks as the number one phobia. I believe we can reduce speech anxiety and improve communication by speaking, in private, to our children, colleagues, and friends using open-ended questions. Let's challenge each other to speak in complete sentences, for, say, an entire hour. In that hour, check the use of fillers such as, "like," "um," "know what I'm saying," and "she goes," rather than, "she said." Resist the urge to interrupt or think about what you're going to say before hearing the other speaker's full message. Debate both sides of a mildly controversial issue to sharpen your evidence-based responses vs. "because-I-said-so" justifications.

Why, Yes! I'm happy to refer you to school21.org.uk for more tips like, Effective Talk Strategies, Oracy Ignites, and Sentence Stems that may be used to incorporate literacy and communication skills into a curriculum, workplace, or everyday life. What I've seen on television lately is far removed from the days of elocution classes and civil discourse. Let's incorporate the form and formality of the fourth "R" to elevate our communication from raucous, rude, and racy, to rational, refined, and respectful. Why, Yes! Those are three R's, I can heartily recommend.

How I Long For Mayberry

Dear Editor:

For those of my generation, you'll know what I'm talking about. But all people should know what life was like in this fictitious town based on Andy Griffith's real life in Mt. Airey, N.C. In fact, a friend said it should be taught in civics classes in school.

"The Andy Griffith Show" was about small town life with a slower pace when family, faith and friendship were what was important. The main character was the widower sheriff raising his young son, Opie (played by now director/producer Ron Howard), with help from his Aunt Bea and the whole town. His one deputy, Barney Fife, was always messing up, but everyone knew him and loved him anyway.

In the Mayberry setting, you not only knew your neighbor, you knew their mama and daddy and the children. If a neighbor needed help, everybody pitched in. On Sunday mornings, the town was empty because everyone was in church. The only problem in school was when a student didn't do their homework. If a teacher had to talk to a parent, that child was in trouble at home. A child wouldn't think of being disrespectful to a teacher or any adult.

Children rode their bikes, played ball, went fishin' and were gone all day just enjoying being carefree kids and their mommas and daddies didn't have to worry about what they were up to or for their safety.

People relaxed on their front porches, greeting their neighbors as they walked by and maybe were invited in for some supper or homemade ice cream. Nobody locked their homes or cars because you respected each other and treated people like you wanted to be treated. That was what is called "The Golden Rule."

I know we can't go back in time but we sure could use a lesson from this show by showing respect and kindness to all people.

I am grateful to have grown up on the Shore and still see some "Mayberry" ways here. So when you've had a hectic, stressful day, instead of reaching for a drink or a big bowl of ice cream to unwind, check out an episode or two of "The Andy Griffith Show." Besides being entertaining, there is a good message — and your kids can watch, too.
