Northampton Unity Day Focus: Youth

Story and Photos by Ron West

The cafeteria at Northampton High School was overflowing as the county came together Jan. 16 to celebrate the 26th Annual Community Unity Breakfast.

Following the event at the high school, roughly 40 attendees braved the cold weather to take part in the 27th Annual Unity March from the school to the Courthouse Green in Eastville. (The breakfast began a year after the first Unity March.) Others rode to the Green in order to attend the portion of the ceremony conducted there.

The featured speaker, Rev. Jeffrey Smith Sr., pastor of New Mount Calvary Baptist Church in Exmore, reminded listeners that Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. preached the importance of tolerance and that all people are important and deserve to be treated as valued human beings. The people of the nation have come with regards to this, he added, we collectively have a long way to go. He addressed youth in attendance directly, urging them to get a good education and to treat everyone with kindness rather than moving toward violence.

Northampton County NAACP President Jane Cabarrus recognized several individuals who have worked to help

GUILTY PLEA IN DEATH OF 13-YEAR-OLD

By Linda Cicaira

It started with an argument between the now 24-year-old defendant and his then 16-year-old girlfriend. She was jealous over a text message. Her 13-year-old brother intervened, guns came out and Breon'ya Collins, a seventh grade Nandua Middle School student, was blasted in the head with a shotgun at his Keller

Pond Road home. The boy died on the way to the hospital.

Nicholas Martinez White, who was living with the family when the tragic incident happened on Oct. 16, 2015, pleaded guilty Thursday in Accomack Circuit Court to voluntary manslaughter and possession of a sawed-off shotgun in the crime.

Woman Has Seen a Century of Change

Few individuals reach 100 years, much less surpass it. For many of those who do reach that age, they more often as not find it difficult to navigate under their own steam or remember many of the important events that have taken place in their lives, much less in the nation.

One centenarian has not only continued to navigate well, she can remember much of what has occurred in the nation over the past 100 years. That individual is Ida Hatton of Parksley, who continues to live in her own apartment. Born in Pastoria (near Accomack for those not be totally familiar with some of Accomack County's small communities), she attended public school in Daugherty and Accomack during the first quarter of the 20th century.

Hatton's parents earned their living as share croppers (farming land for others as well as for themselves). The eldest of eight

NO MORE CHANCES FOR MAN CONVICTED OF MURDER AS TEEN: 22 YEARS TO SERVE

By Linda Cicaira

Convicted murderer Randall Lorenzo Ames ran out of chances last week. The final straw was likely that he tested positive for marijuana use.

Judge Glen A. Tyler of Accomack Circuit Court revoked probation for the former Parksley resident and ordered him to serve his remaining term, or 22 years in prison. He'll be an inmate with the Virginia Department of Corrections until he is more than 50 years old for crimes committed when he was 16. In 2005, he was found guilty of murder, attempted robbery and use of a firearm and sentenced to a total of 25 years.

The previous year, he and several others decided to "go get some Mexicans" at Dreamland Trailer Park in Parksley. The first person they saw, 24-year-old Francisco Perez-Ortiz, was knocked to the ground, beaten up and shot in the head, the latter of which killed him.

Ames got a break because of his age. He was incarcerated for a couple of years, spent time in a half-way house and was freed in 2008.

He was soon convicted of more crimes: marijuana possession in 2009 in Norfolk; burglary, grand larceny and possession of burglary tools in 2010 in Norfolk; and grand larceny in 2011 in Virginia Beach. Probation officers in the two Hampton Roads cities gave him good reports.

When his case came back up in Accomack earlier this month, Tyler wanted a week to hear directly from Ames' probation officer. Accomack's Chief of Probation and Parole Ann Wessells realized there had been no recent drug testing. Just before his fate was to be determined last Thursday, a urine test showed marijuana use.

"He is not on the right path," Commonwealth's Attorney Spencer Morgan told Tyler. "He is smoking marijuana. This was a murder ... co-conspirators are probably still in jail ... burglaries and larcenies ... It doesn't really show that Mr. Ames is serious. I would go with guides, 23 to 34 years," Morgan suggested.

Defense lawyer Carl Bundick argued for more leniency. "Consider that he is employed, in a good home" has good supervision reports. There was no way to gauge if the marijuana use "was 30 days ago or 5 days ago," Bundick said.

"I've gotten a lot older," said Ames while in the witness box the previous week. "I'm starting to think. I'm almost 30 years old. I have to make choices for my life. I'm starting to think different." Ames was living in Virginia Beach with his sister. He got a job moving furniture in November and was working 40 to 50 hours a week, he said.

The murder victim "was on his back, then he turned on his stomach, and that is when he got shot in the head," Ames told police, according to court records. The culprits got back in their vehicle and left. "They pulled out of the area and lost control and went into a ditch." Ames reported that he and the killer ran through a field. "When we got to some bushes, he gave it (the gun) to me and he told me to throw it."

Morgan was correct that some of his co-defendants were still in prison.

Antwine De Quine Downing, who was 18 at the time of the offense, was sentenced to 75 years in prison for the murder. He got three years for use of a firearm and 10 for attempted robbery, all to run consecutively for a total of 88 years. Inmate records indicate he is being held in Red Onion State Prison and will not be released until 2081, at which time he would be about 95 years old.

Elisha Ali Reid was 19 in 2004 and on probation when the crimes occurred. He was also convicted of the murder and isn't scheduled for release from Sussex II State Prison until August 2044.

Reggie Marque Reid, also of Parksley and 19, will be in Lawrenceville Correctional Center until April 2027 for the offenses.

Cortez Ames, was 18, and was arrested with his brother, Randall, two days after the offenses happened. He was given five years with three suspended for murder and attempted robbery and three years for the firearm offense for a total of six years. His name does not show up in the prison system.

Holland Proposes $50 Million Budget to School Board

By Linda Cicaira

Superintendent Chris Holland's proposed $50 million school operating budget for fiscal 2017-18 was presented to the Accomack School Board Tuesday night and is about $1.5 million more than was approved last year. The plan has a shortfall of $468,253.

Instruction is up by about $1 million. That category includes instructional supplies, expenses for workbooks and consumables; a step raise for teachers totaling $256,840; 1.34 percent salary increase for classified employees totaling $86,584; a 1 percent administrative raise totaling $28,182 and a 1.5 percent bonus for all employees of $459,472. Also included is an increase in the employer contribution towards health insurance of $300 per participating employee totaling $150,000. The Virginia Retirement System has increased the mandatory rate for retirement by 1.66 percent and for the Retiree Health Care Credit by .12 percent for a total increase of 1.78 percent.

The plan also includes $50,000 for a human resources/accounting system; $50,000 for an entry level accountant; $62,500 for a facilities position; and $38,160 for a school resource officer. Finance Director Beth Onley explained the officer cost would be about $22,000 in future years. The higher figure is a start up amount that includes equipment. The cost is being split with the sheriff's office.

Two mobile units for Metompkin Elementary, needed for additional classrooms, was included at $157,532.

Holland introduced new hires in the school system. Those included Javan Thompson, principal of Accawmacke Elementary; Diane King, assistant principal at Accawmacke; Ruth Tarkard, assistant principal at Pungoteague Elementary; SuCora Owens, assistant principal at Metompkin Elementary; Belinda Rippon, principal at Metompkin; Clara Chandler, director of human resources and staffing; and Chester Hall, coordinator of student services and human resources.

Administrators at Metompkin are working to get the school accredited, Rippon told the school board. There are 46 teachers for 645 students at Metompkin. Eighty-one percent of the teachers have less than five years experience, so Rippon said an additional assistant principal, tutors, and retired teacher mentors are helping to make strides.

The school did not meet benchmark or criteria for narrow margin or improvement for English, math or science and did not meet benchmark in history, but is with the narrow margin.

"The vision at Metompkin Elementary is to enable and inspire our diverse student body to become respectful, responsible lifelong learners who make positive contributions to the world," said Rippon. "It is our responsibility to set high expectations for all students and to provide the environment, instruction and support to ensure that all students are learning and achieving as measured by rigorous standards."

Lesson plans are being reviewed by administrators on Sunday nights for the following week. A principal's book of the month program was started. There is also a math problem of the month and

SOMETHING OLD, SOMETHING NEW: HOG ISLAND SHEEP AND SOLAR PANELS A PERFECT PAIR

By Linda Cicaira

Accomack supervisors unanimously embraced a solar project Wednesday for the Tasley area by approving two conditional use permits that will allow Hog Island sheep to graze among 180 acres of solar panels.

The project will be done by two long-time Eastern Shore families, the Nordstroms and the Van Kesterens.

“Bravo! Bravo!” said Supervisor Reneta Major of a young couple that is part of the families behind the project. “It touches my heart when young people want to come back to the Eastern Shore ... after college ... and want to start a business. I just applaud you.”

Because of issues with a larger solar project in northern Accomack, the supervisors also voted 7-2 to remove utility-scale renewable energy production (solar and wind) from the Agricultural zone as a conditional use.

The move was recommended by the planning commission and was supported by Chairman Robert Crockett, Vice Chairwoman Laura Belle Gordy and Supervisors Paul Muhly, Grayson Chesser, Ron Wolff, Billy Joe Tarr and Harris Phillips. Supervisors Donald Hart and Reneta Major were opposed.

According to a staff memo, utility scale solar is more industrial in nature than the commission originally believed; agricultural land in Accomack is highly valued;

there is a contradiction between farmland and energy production; and reduced revenue generated due to the change in the tax policy is not worth the loss of farmland.

Director of Planning and Community Development Rich Morrison said the commission would work to come up with a better option. But Major and Hart were so impressed with the Tasley project they couldn't go along with a temporary fix.

Chesser said it would give the county more control. “In my opinion, you are still trading food production for energy production ... there's a lot of land in this world that is fit for grazing but not a lot of land that is fit for cropland ... if our legislature believes in solar they should do it out of their pocket ... it's those mandates that we're always complaining about. If it's a really good project and we believe in it, a rezoning is possible,” Chesser said.

Wolff said the idea was to “tweak” the ordinance for the best outcome for the county.

In other business, Shawn Coyte, of Parksley, a member of Shore Paws for a Better Life, again pleaded with the supervisors to adopt a tethering law that would prohibit residents from leaving their dogs out from dusk until dawn or in unfavorable weather conditions.

“Can you imagine being chained up 24/7 for the rest of your life?” she asked. “You all know what the right thing to do is. Please help us.” Coyte referred to a local dog that recently froze to death. “He was lying in his own vomit. He suffered terribly. Those images will never leave my mind.”

No action was taken.

Crockett appointed a committee to study the need for paid fire medics at Greenbackville and Saxis fire departments. Crockett, Tarr, Wolff and Muhly agreed to serve on the panel.

A move regarding poultry houses was quietly included and approved in the supervisors' consent agenda. “Given the recent pressure on residentially zoned property for new poultry operations, and given the size and nature of the new operations, staff is recommending that the planning commission and board revisit the Confined Poultry Ordinance to consider removing the consideration of special use permits in residential and business zones.”

The board also:

- Introduced the county's new environmental program director, Chris Guvernator, of Onancock, a Virginia and North Carolina registered engineer.

- Authorized application for a $230,000 grant for Greenbackville Harbor improvements. The local match would be $100,000 in plus funds previously allocated.

- Authorized an application for a $150,000 grant for Quinby Harbor Improvements. The local match would be $50,000. The committee has $10,000 that could be used.

- Awarded a $63,445 contract for dredging and dewatering landfill leachate lagoon to CSI Environmental LLC.

- Awarded a $7,949 printing contract to Eastern Shore Printers.

- Accepted a proposal from East Coast Recycling, which will pay $40 per ton for electronic materials.

- Approved a 2 percent raise for County Attorney Celia Burge, who has been with the county a year. The increase was effective Jan. 1. She was previously paid $117,500 annually.

His lawyer, Garrett Dunham, said White had no prior criminal record. A presentence report was ordered and the defendant was sent back to Accomack Jail until April when he is tentatively scheduled to be sentenced.

The maximum term for the crimes is life plus 10 years in prison and fines of more than $100,000. White has been in jail since the incident happened that Friday, when both teenagers should have been in school. It was the defendant's 23rd birthday.

Commonwealth's Attorney Spencer Morgan submitted the autopsy report to Judge Glen A. Tyler. That report states Breon'ya was shot in the right side of head with a wound that, "travels essentially (from) front to back." There was also a video tape made from a cell phone that had some of the arguing but not the shooting itself.

Both males had guns when the shot was fired. Included in the items that were confiscated from the Keller home was a Maverick by Mossberg Model 88 12-gauge shotgun, an Ithaca model field-grade 12-gauge shotgun and a Winchester 12-gauge shot-shell case.

"This was truly a terrible accident," said Dunham. "He is very upset about this situation and obviously did not want this young man to be killed."

"I understand the tragedy of this case ... for both families," Tyler said. "Well tried," he told both lawyers.

White was initially charged with second-degree murder.

Shooter Threat Not Credible

By Linda Cicaira

A threat to "shoot up" Parksley High School, which was demolished more than a decade ago, was made to authorities Thursday morning, compelling extra precautions to be taken at all Accomack County Public School, reported Sheriff Todd Godwin.

The call was originated in Virginia Beach and was made to a West Virginia FBI office at about 9:30 a.m., Godwin said. A search warrant was then obtained by the sheriff's office to investigate the threat.

The school division went back to using normal precautions, like buzzing people in at main entryways, at about 12:45 p.m. Superintendent Chris Holland sent a phone message to parents around that time informing them of the threat and its resolution.

"We didn't think it was credible, but we had to tell them," said Godwin. That is the way it works, he added.

Accomack Circuit Court

A former firefighter could be sentenced to up to 10 years in prison and fined $100,000 for deliberately setting a fire last year, according to records filed in Accomack Circuit Court.

Brandon Travis Haynes, 21, a former resident and member of Onley Volunteer Fire & Rescue, pleaded guilty to the offense last week. He told a police officer he was "bored at the station" when he set fire to a tractor trailer truck in 2016.

Haynes, who now lives Virginia Beach, gave the address of the firehouse on Maple Street as his residence when he was arrested. He admitted guilt in a plea bargain that allowed him to remain free on an existing bond until a presentence report could be completed. There were no promises of leniency included in the agreement.

Haynes admitted to police that he set fire to the truck to get an adrenaline rush on Feb. 4, 2016. The incident involved a 1993 Freightliner that was parked on the corner of Stonehouse and Locustville roads near Onley. He used a cigarette lighter to ignite the truck's seat.

Truck owner Antonio Logan said at a preliminary hearing that he paid between $15,000 and $16,000 for the vehicle about 12 years ago and it would cost $20,000 to replace it. Logan moves houses and other structures for a living. "The truck is beyond repair," he said. "It was burned to a crisp."

Eric Moore, 41, of Shore Lodge in Onley, was sentenced to five years in prison with a year suspended for a fourth offense of DUI in a decade. He got 12 months for driving on a suspended license. No probation was ordered. The incidents occurred on Nov. 15, 2015.

John William Jardine Jr., 37, of Bayford Road in Franktown, was given a two-year suspended sentence for embezzling from A+ Gold Buyers between Oct. 1, 2012 and March 31, 2013. Good behavior and unsupervised probation were scheduled for two years. Jardine was also ordered to make restitution of $5,152 to Ryan Rantz.

James E. Haley Jr., 53, of Holly Ridge Drive on Chincoteague, pleaded guilty to assault and battery of Sgt. T. B. Hickman of the Chincoteague Police Department. Another count of assault and battery of an officer, a felony, was not prosecuted. Haley also pleaded guilty to a second offense of DUI in five years. The incidents occurred in April 2016. A presentence report was ordered. He is free on existing bond.

Taylor Robert Lamphier, 21, of Wishart's Point in Atlantic, pleaded guilty to unauthorized use of a vehicle, a felony, and DUI, a misdemeanor. The incident occurred on May 29, 2016, and involved a vehicle belonging to Jenna Parks of Pungoteague. Lamphier is free on bond awaiting completion of a presentence report. He was driving the car when it ran into a parked pickup truck on Atlantic Road.

Accomack General District Court

Two county men were charged with felonies in separate incidents this week, according to files recorded in Accomack General District Court.

Andrew Raphael Rodriguez, 27, of Hallwood, was accused of possessing a firearm by a non-violent felon on Jan. 14. He was arrested that day. A preliminary hearing is set for March. Deputy Meghann Patterson of the Accomack County Sheriff's Office investigated.

Patrick Steven Sharbor, 35, of Keller was charged with hit and run in connection with an incident that occurred Jan. 15. He was arrested Tuesday, two days later. Trooper J.K. Feryus investigated. A March preliminary hearing was scheduled.

Northampton District Court

Four off-the-Shore Virginia residents pleaded guilty to drug offenses in Northampton Circuit Court Thursday.

James Elliott Murphy, 25, of Lynchburg, pleaded guilty to two counts of illegal possession of a Schedule I or II drug, which are felonies, and driving on suspended license and possession of marijuana, which are misdemeanors.

Cordero Antonio Trent, 27, of Roanoke, pleaded guilty to two counts of illegal possession of a Schedule I or II drug, possession of a firearm by a felon, possession of a firearm while in possession of controlled substance, possession of marijuana and possession of a concealed weapon. Adalberto Willie Bonds, 40, of Appomattox, pleaded guilty to two counts of possession of a Schedule I or II drug and possession of marijuana.

Kerry Martin, 25, of Lynchburg, pleaded guilty to two counts of possession of Schedule I or II drug, possession of a firearm by a felon, possession of a firearm while in possession of Schedule I or II drug, possession of marijuana and possession of a concealed weapon.

The cases were all continued pending completion of presentence reports.

Broadwater Alum Breaks Conference

Indoor Long Jump Record

By Krystle Bono

Christopher Newport University (CNU) junior, Wesley Shrieves, who is a 2014 graduate of Broadwater Academy, broke the Indoor Long Jump Capital Athletic Conference (CAC) record during the CNU Quadrangular at the Freeman Center last Friday.

Shrieves led his team during its season opener with his record-shattering long jump by a distance of 7.08 meters, marking the third-longest performance in the university's history. The Painter native's chart-breaking effort also set a new standard in the CAC.

Also placing second in the 60 with a time of 7.10, Shrieves cleared the high jump by 1.95 meters, a new personal record for the Eastern Shore athlete and putting him in seventh overall in the history of the program.

The talented jumper earned a season best in the indoor long jump during his freshmen conference championship at 6.92 meters. He also finished fourth after clearing 1.87 meters in the high jump.

His second year marked a conference championship in the outdoor high jump after clearing 1.93 meters during the league meet. Shrieves also recorded a season-best distance of 7.12 meters during the Wolfpack Last Chance meet and he also received All-Conference honors in the high jump and long jump.

His teammate, Brendon Burrows, also a graduate of Broadwater Academy, won the men's shot put by a 14.02 meter distance, earning the seventh best performance in CNU's history.

Burrows

Burrows, now a junior, won the discus with a 46.11 meter toss during the CAC Outdoor Championships his freshmen year. He also earned a seventh place finish with a 13.54-meter throw in the league indoor title meet. During the New Captains Classic, Burrows posted a career high with a 36.71-meter throw.

During his sophomore season, Burrows was awarded All-Region honors in the discus and earned a season-best of 47.30 meters during the Salisbury Elite Final Qualifier. When the CAC Championships came around, he earned a third-place spot and threw 12.72 meters to a seventh placing in the shot put.

The 6-foot-3, Painter resident also won the discus at both the Salisbury meet and the Commonwealth Duals last season and earned five top-five finishes.

The Men's CNU Indoor Track and Field will host the Captian's Invitational and Combined Events tonight (Friday) and Saturday, Jan. 21, at the Freeman Center in Newport News.

Senior League Game Results

Submitted by Michael Garbacz

Game 1: K&E Marine Capitals 3, Delmarva Soil and Concrete Red Wings 3

This Sunday's slate of games started off with a rare tie, as the Wings held tough through the offensive onslaught of the Capitals. Despite being out-shot nearly two-to-one, Wings goalie Brad Ford stood on his head and kept his team afloat. Justin Wheeler and the Pat Trick scored the regulation goals for the Caps, with helpers from Preston Shover, Cliff Windsor and James Haley. For the Wings, it was Robby Parker who netted both regular time goals on assists from the Huntsman and CJ Jones. P. Shover scored the shootout goal for the Caps; Jones tickled the twine in extra time for the Wings.

Game 2: Branscome Predators 1, Eastern Speed Shop Avalanche 5

Next up, the Predators found themselves on the wrong end of a shooting gallery and fell to the speed and skill of the Avs. El Presidente was held from working his magic with the stick, although he did pick up the assist on Jesse West's goal. For the Avs, who else but

Mr. Tease led the scoring parade, racking up four points with a hat trick and an assist. Garrett Baylis and Dustin Palo had the other markers for the Avs; Zach Mills picked up two helpers, while Nate Metzger and Bryan Applegate had one apiece.

Game 3: Jim Wert Builder Inc. Penguins 1, Delmarva Soil and Concrete Red Wings 4

Once again, the Pens found themselves shorthanded and unable to keep pace with the Wings for the full 24 minutes. Although keeping pace in terms of shots, the Pens couldn't make them count. Kim Mills scored the lone unassisted goal. For the Wings, Parker and The Huntsman split scoring duties, picking up two each. Stapleton also earned an assist, as did Jones and Danny Tweedy. Adrian Clark picked up a pair of helpers.

Game 4: K&E Marine Capitals 1, EZ Loan Bruins 2

The game of the day was the surprisingly low-scoring clash between the Smooth Criminal and the Pat Trick. This time around, it was Donnie Williams' Bruins who hammered the Caps with shots and took the win. Though the Bruins controlled play for the majority of the time, the Capitals fought back all game to turn the tide. TR Hoyt and Jason Johnson potted the Bs' goals, with assists from Dustin Aigner, Zach Webb and none other than the Smooth Criminal. P. Shover scored in the Caps' valiant effort, with the Pat Trick on the assist.

Game 5: Branscome Predators 3, Mark Stapleton's Blues 1

Much like the Penguins, the Blues found themselves with four bodies to put in front of goalie Ray Johnson, which is quite a handicap. Though nearly getting doubled up on shots, they kept the score close and made it a game for 24 minutes. El Presidente deposited two goals into the net for the Preds; Guy Shover scored the other. Jenny Hagler and Willie Crockett had the assists. For the Blues, Paul Thornes was able to pop one in and prevent the shutout on an assist from Corey Chance.

Game 6: Jim Wert Builder Inc. Penguins 1, Eastern Speed Shop Avalanche 6

The shorthanded Pens were able to keep it interesting for two periods, but collapsed in the third under the weight of the Avs offensive assault. Derek Hail netted the lone goal for the Pens. For the Avs, Z. Mills was smilin' like a butcher's dog after scoring a hat trick, adding an assist for a four-point game. Mr. Tease, Nate Metzger and Dustin Palo each had a goal and an assist. Le'Andra Sabatino and Garrett Baylis also picked up a helper.

Game 7: Mark Stapleton's Blues 2, Bruins 4

Standing tall through another short-handed game, the Blues managed to keep it interesting. Despite being out-shot 30-18, the Blues hung in there against a strong Bruins squad. Miller scored both Blues goals in the loss, on assists from Paul Thornes and Jennie Rice. The Smooth Criminal scored two goals for the Bruins; J. Johnson and Aigner picked up the other two. J. Johnson also added an assist, as did Mike McCready and Hoyt.

The Senior ESSHL's next round of games will be held on Sunday, Jan. 22, beginning at 1 p.m. at Stapleton Rink in Parksley.

SPORTFISHING REPORT

By Dr. Julie Ball, IGFA Representative

As Old Man Winter continues to tighten his hold along the Mid Atlantic coast, the grumbling among anglers continues to rise. It seems the winter fishery is not showing much promise due to closed fisheries, and the slow or non-existent action.

A few hopeful anglers continue to search the oceanfront for striped bass. But again, coastal striped bass are missing in action. One local charter captain suggested that perhaps the migration pattern of these fish has changed over the past few years, completely circumventing the inshore Virginia coastline. Regardless of the reason, rockfish are not within reach for legal fishing right now for coastal anglers. Although some catch and release rockfish opportunities with some sizable fish may still be available inside the Chesapeake Bay, not many are interested.

As for bluefin tuna, they are also anyone's guess, with rumors of some sightings and another report of an undersized release. When targeting these highly-protected species, be sure to review the regulations carefully and use appropriately sized tackle and equipment.

Speckled trout action was decent within local inlets until recently. Before the latest freeze, some days were better than others, with some keepers pushing to around 21-inches, with the best luck occurring with Mirrolures or Gulp Shrimp. Puppy drum are also a possibility in these same locations.

Mostly due to limited opportunities with other species, tautog are becoming more intriguing to anglers, but the bite is hit and miss. Good catches are coming from within Bay waters along the Bay Bridge Tunnel as well as various Bay structures, with some fish ranging around six pounds. The tog bite on both inshore wrecks and deeper structures has been good this week, with recent reports of tog pushing to around seven pounds responding to green crabs. Keep in mind that you can keep up to three tautog per person at a minimum of 16-inches. Big bluefish and seabass are still a possibility in some of these same locations, but the seabass season is now closed. Dog fish are also becoming an issue in these locations as they settle into the area.

With the non-existent inshore rockfish bite, anglers may turn to deep dropping when the weather allows. The Norfolk Canyon and its edges are a good place to look for deepwater bottom dwellers such as blueline and golden tilefish, grouper, and blackbellied rosefish. Dog fish are also becoming a nuisance in these deep water areas, which is making these catches more challenging. For more information, go to www.drjball.com

Orbital Wins Contract to Launch Satellite from Wallops

By Linda Cicora

A National Reconnaissance Office (NRO) satellite mission will be launched from Wallops Island on an Orbital ATK Minotaur 1 rocket sometime before the end of 2018, according several reports.

The $29.2 million award was made by the Air Force and is part of its Rocket Systems Launch Program.

A launch date for NROL-111 will be determined by Orbital's schedule in the time frame that was allotted.

"Continued reliability of space vehicle delivery methods and affordable access to space for the NRO is an essential forefront for space superiority," said Lt. Gen. Samuel Greaves, program executive officer for Space and SC commander.

The mission's purpose has not been discussed publicly and is considered classified.

The type of orbit targeted on the NROL-111 mission has also not been released.

The mission will be the 12th launch of a Minotaur 1 rocket since it debuted in 2000, and the sixth Minotaur 1 flight from Wallops.

The launchpad is about a quarter-mile south of the base for Antares rocket launches to resupply the International Space Station.

The four-stage Minotaur 1 rocket consists of the lower two rocket motors from decommissioned Minuteman nuclear missiles.

Two solid-fueled Orion-class motors from Orbital ATK's Pegasus XL rocket make up Minotaur 1's third and fourth stages.

The first week of the 2017 General Assembly session has come and gone. Delegates and senators hurried to meet the deadlines to introduce new bills and amendments.

A lot of pomp and ceremony to open the process of governing the commonwealth occurred, as it has for hundreds of years. A joint assembly listened to the governor's address. The rules and procedures are now in place, the committee assignments have been made and the real work begins. Bills will be assigned to the committees of the speaker's choosing.

My assigned committees are the agriculture committee with two subcommittees, one being Chesapeake along with the agriculture subcommittee, finance committee and a subcommittee that handles sales tax, property tax and state agencies, and the technology committee. I am pleased with my assignments as they directly impact us on the Eastern Shore.

Money, or lack thereof, is the central theme of this year's session. In this "short" (meaning 45 days) session, we make adjustments to last year's budget. Bills or budget amendments that negatively affect tax revenues or increase spending will not fare well in this environment. Even if the bill passes through its first committee and it affects revenues, it will be referred to the ninth floor, the appropriations committee, and will die a quick but painless death.

In the upcoming weeks I will try to keep you informed on bills that affect the Eastern Shore. The pace is fast and furious. The bills that you are interested in come quickly and can be discarded even more quickly. You may keep track and up-to-date on what is going on with moving legislation at <http://lis.virginia.gov>

I always strive to represent the issues that are important to you. To that end, please email delrbloxom@house.virginia.gov or call the office in Richmond 804-698-1000 or my district office 757-824-3456 with any questions, comments or concerns. Make sure to include your phone number and email address as I receive over 400 emails a day and do not want to ignore any of my 100th district constituents. Thank you for the opportunity to represent you in the House of Delegates.

~ School Board ~

they are “building a culture of mathematical thinking.”

School strengths include classroom environments conducive to learning; technology accessibility for instructional presentations; and establishing relations between and among students and with teachers.

Students are growing by questioning “which fosters higher order thinking and student inquiry,” Rippon said. “Instruction is student-centered and feedback is provided. Behavior expectations are posted for student reference and there is evidence of a school-wide or classroom behavior management plan.”

In other school board actions, the board scurried to update its policies, as a local activist who wants the members to be elected, criticized the panel for not upholding the rules.

“A board that approves policies but makes provisions for some to not follow them, loses their effectiveness,” said Connie Burford, of Bloxom, who hopes to get a seat on the education group in the future.

In late 2016, the board was criticized worldwide because 40 volumes each of “To Kill a Mockingbird” and “The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn” were removed from libraries and classrooms at the county’s 11 schools due to a formal complaint made by a parent. Rules approved in May said the books did not need to be removed while under review.

She told the school leaders Tuesday if parents want their children to go to a school out of district, they can claim the students are homeless. Then, she said, the system tolerates the child not meeting the criteria of being homeless as stated by federal guidelines. She referred to a parent, but not by name.

Chairman Ronnie Holden later answered that the appropriate school for the child was reviewed, so the issue had been resolved. He did not respond to Burford’s allegation that the liaison for the federal homeless program has not been updated since Leander Roberts, who has been retired for years, was with the division.

Holland was reached at his office

Wednesday but said Rhonda Hall, director of federal programs, would call a reporter regarding the homeless student issue.

Hall said she is the liaison for the federal homeless program. She took over two years ago when she became director of federal programs. Before that it was Marianne Elebash’s job. Elebash has since retired. Hall said the program, Project Hope, states families that live with another families but are not the household heads are considered homeless. Parents must now show three forms of residency when the student first starts schools and in Grades 3, 6 and 9. The person they are living with has to validate. “That the board’s way of trying to cut down on” district jumping.

Without discussion, the board updated policies on the agenda Tuesday regarding closed meetings, small purchasing, threat assessment teams, safety drills, support staff grievances, suspension of staff members and the support staff employment process.

It had what it calls a “first reading” of changes in policies regarding a crisis team organization chart, professional staff, essential personnel, support staff probationary period, instructional goals and objectives, learning objectives, notifications of learning, family life education, character education, homebound correspondence and alternative means of instruction and class size. But none of the policies were read aloud or discussed.

Parents continue to voice dismay at overcrowding at Nandua High because of district crossing. At the end of September, school board member George Waldenmaier said the school was up by 50 students compared to the previous year. While those who are crossing district lines “are often good students or athletes or both” the influx is causing overcrowding so that English classes “are out of compliance,” Waldenmaier said. Without studying the issue, Accountability and Curriculum Coordinator Sandy Drummond found a kid whose address was the vet’s office, another whose address was a beauty salon and yet another whose address was in an abandoned building, Waldenmaier reported to the board.

Since then, the officials have not addressed the issue publicly.

make the annual Unity Day event a success for more than a quarter of a century. She noted that one special individual, Dr. Paul Schellhammer, who was unable to attend due to medical issues, was being honored for his efforts in improving men’s health by urging them to get early screening for cancer. She added that Schellhammer has donated thousands of dollars to help men in this regard.

At the Courthouse Green, Rev. Antonio Brown of Cape Charles Baptist Church, echoed the words heard earlier in the day with regards to helping today’s youth avoid turning to violence. He noted that 14 million children live in a single-parent home with that parent being the one who must be the breadwinner while trying to raise their children alone.

A large number of those children often find themselves without a moral compass, thus leading many to end up in trouble or worse, find themselves a victim of violence in one form or another. Smith urged parents to remember that their guidance and actions directly affect how their children turn out as adults. He closed by noting that racial equality has come a long way in the past half century but continues to be an issue in many parts of the nation.

William Denny closed the ceremony by urging the young people present to treat everyone with love and to avoid going out in the streets and ending up as a statistic.

Cape Charles Coast Guard Station provided a color guard for the event.

children, Hatton found that she needed to work to help provide for her brothers and sisters. During World War II, when some of her siblings headed to the military, she contributed to the war effort by working in a defense plant in New York. After the war, she resumed her education, training to be a beautician and eventually opening her own beauty shop in New York. Married to Levi Hatton, she continued to live in New York until his passing after 52 years of marriage. She moved in 1994 to an apartment in Parkside and has remained there since.

Hatton, whose mind is still as sharp as someone half her age, spoke of the changes, some for the better, that she has seen take place in the nation in the past century. With the approach of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Day, she spoke of how equality has taken steps forward since his death. She noted with pride, the efforts of President Barack Obama to improve the lives of all Americans, regardless of their sex, race, religion, or ethnic background.

With the coming of a new president this week, she hoped that the gains made over the past eight years would not be eroded. Regardless of the changes that may or may not come, she looks forward to getting to blow out the candles on her next birthday cake in October.

Cinnamon Buns: Make 'em Now, Eat 'em Later

Story and Photos by Connie Morrison

NOTHING GETS THE TROOPS MOVING IN THE MORNING LIKE THE SMELL OF FRESH-BAKED CINNAMON ROLLS. BUT SOMETIMES IT'S HARD TO MOTIVATE THE BAKER WHO MOTIVATES THE TROOPS. WOULDN'T IT BE GREAT TO HAVE SOME IN THE FREEZER TO PULL OUT ON THOSE SNOWY MORNINGS THAT BECKON YOU TO STAY JUST A LITTLE LONGER UNDER THE WARM COVERS? OUR FAMILY HAS A TRADITION OF SPECIAL BREAKFASTS ON SOL TESTING DAYS, BUT THERE'S PRECIOUS LITTLE TIME TO BAKE ON SCHOOL-DAY MORNINGS, BUT JUST ENOUGH TIME TO HEAT A PAN OF PRE-BAKED ROLLS FROM THE FREEZER.

THIS RECIPE IS MY GO-TO FOR COMPANY, SPECIAL DAYS, AND ANYTIME COMFORT FOOD IS CALLED FOR. WHEN I'M GOING TO THE TROUBLE TO MAKE THEM, I ALWAYS MAKE A TRIPLE BATCH AND PUT THE EXTRAS IN THE FREEZER. PULL THEM OUT THE NIGHT BEFORE, OR PLACE THEM STRAIGHT INTO THE OVEN TO THAW AND WARM.

WHILE THEY ARE STILL WARM, SLATHER WITH SILKY BUTTER/CREAM CHEESE FROSTING AND BE COMFORTED BY A HUG FROM WITHIN.

CINNAMON BUN RECIPE:

Dough

- 3 C. all-purpose flour
- 1/3 C. granulated sugar
- 1/3 C. butter, softened
- 1 C. milk
- 1 egg
- 2 pkgs. rapid rise yeast

Mix 1.5 C. flour, sugar, and yeast in a large bowl. Heat milk to between 120 and 130 degrees (use a meat or candy thermometer to check the temperature, because the temperature of the liquids is key to activating the yeast. Too cool and they won't activate; too hot and it will kill the yeast.) If overheated, wait for it to cool to the right temperature. Once the liquids are at the correct temperature, add to the flour and sugar and stir until well incorporated. Allow the mixture to rest for about five minutes.

Add softened butter and egg and stir until incorporated into the dough. add the remainder of the flour, a little at a time, until it begins to pull away from the sides of the bowl and is no longer sticky. Lightly dust a clean countertop with flour and work in some of the remaining flour until the dough is smooth and elastic (it might not take all of the flour). Butter the bottom and side of a large bowl. Place the dough in the bowl, and turn it so that the top and sides of the dough are all slightly buttered. Cover and place in a warm, draft-free location to rise until double in bulk. Punch dough down and divide into two spheres.

Filling

- 1/2 C. granulated sugar
- 2 Tbsp. ground cinnamon
- 1 C. butter (2 sticks), softened

Mix sugar and cinnamon together. Roll the first dough ball into an approximate 10 x 12 rectangle. Spread with half of the softened butter, then sprinkle with about half of the cinnamon/sugar mixture.

Roll the dough tightly along the long side until it is completely rolled up jelly-roll style. Slice into 1.5" pieces, and place the pieces on their sides on a well-buttered baking pan with high sides. Repeat with other half of dough and filling. Cover and allow to double in size again. Bake at 350 degrees for about 20 minutes, until golden brown.

Frosting

- 8 oz. cream cheese
- 1 stick butter, softened
- 1 lb. powdered sugar
- 1 tsp. vanilla extract
- 1 Tbsp. whipping cream

Beat together all ingredients until smooth and silky. If needed gradually add slightly more cream until silky consistency is achieved.

Volunteering Runs in the Family at Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital

Monday is generally regarded as the least popular day of the week. But for two Eastern Shore couples, Mondays are volunteer days and their favorite day of the week.

Cathey and Vernon Bell, of Wachapreague, and Ruth Gaskins, of Melfa, volunteer at Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital and Riverside Shore Cancer Center on Mondays. Ruth Gaskins' husband, Woody Gaskins, volunteers at the cancer center on Tuesdays. Collectively, they've been volunteering for more than 60 years.

Cathey Bell began volunteering in 1997 when the cancer center first opened. "I love helping people and helping patients, and I love my volunteer family at the hospital," she said.

Thirteen years ago Vernon Bell underwent treatment at the cancer center. Following his recovery he started volunteering. "I look forward to Mondays and my volunteer shift ... I truly enjoy helping patients and can speak from first-hand experience," he said.

Ruth Gaskins began volunteering in 1988. "I know how important giving that first reassuring smile is to those coming to the hospital, whether as a patient or just to visit a loved one," she said.

Woody Gaskins began volunteering in 2015. He, too, was a patient at the cancer center. "When I talk to patients at the cancer center, I can tell them what I've been through, and I know from experience how important all the little extra personal touches are to them," he said.

All four look forward to volunteering when the new facility opens in February.

In the world of messaging, there's lots of room for misunderstanding.

Oh, it's handy to send a note when shopping, running errands or working. But for those on the receiving end, getting a quick message can sometimes be unsettling.

Is there some avoidance going on in this ever-shrinking planet? Socializing seems to be lessening.

One thinks of something they need to tell you and manages to get it out of the way - without really telling you anything. Sometimes those short sentences can be taken harshly. Not very chatty is it? And sometimes it's hard to tell if those little yellow faces that accompany the messages are smiling or smirking. :) or :(or :^`) That last one has a dimple.

I can't get a cell phone big enough to see the little mouths on those things.

I prefer to hear one's tone of voice. It can be everything. The appearance of some words just bring on an attitude, whether intended or not. And punctuation or lack thereof can also be quite daunting. Are three exclamation points necessary? Does that have a stronger meaning or is someone just trying to be flowery?

Everyone hasn't learned that sending a note in all capital letters is like screaming.

"What?" is one of those words that seems to bring sarcasm. And when someone writes, "Really?" do they mean, "I just learned something" or "You've got to be kidding me?"

Those abbreviations drive me crazy. Although, I did learn a new one the other day and the writer took full credit for the coinage when he wrote, STM, which means "Smile to Myself." Thanks Joe Finney. That is a friend from back in the days of Central High School.

Yes, I'm old enough that I went to school at an abandoned building, and I'm still learning. But some of you are just 2FFM (too fast for me). I think it is really rude when someone says EOD (end of discussion) or NNTR (no need to reply.) I like to answer.

When I don't know what the letters mean, I usually look them up on www.google.com or just assume they are friendly. I guess that can get one into trouble.

With some people, if you are wondering where the love is you don't have to look too far because they know how to send five or six icons thingies at the same time. I had Christmas trees growing out of the phone last month.

In December, I also learned to send messages that I scribed with my finger. But I've forgotten how I did that. I'll get my expert friend Jules to show me that next time I see her. She knows everything about messaging.

I'm not too fond of being in a joint correspondence. There's really nothing special about that. However, being included isn't all bad either.

On Facebook, messaging is good because the whole world doesn't always have to know everything. Have you ever looked back to see how many messages you have sent back and forth to one person? It's pretty amazing and tricky how all that stuff get compiled.

Isn't the World Wide Web full yet?

OMG IDK HF TGIF.

Think I'll stick with my old standby.

"Yippee!"

Salvation Army Thanks Shore

Dear Editor:

It is that time of year to say "thanks," and express how appreciative we are to the community for the support of your local Accomack County Salvation Army Service Unit. We also want to thank our bell ringers for having worked long and tirelessly to collect funds for our program year. Volunteers from elementary schools, high schools, civic groups, churches, assisted living, husband and wife teams and many others willing to brave the rain and cold, rang bells to support our drive.

The money collected is used on the Shore for Shore residents only. We provide assistances to those in need of help with fuel, electric, food, travel across the Bay for doctor appointments, emergency housing and many other unforeseen needs.

We provided back to school clothing for at least 35 families and supplied Christmas toys, clothing and food for over 230 families.

The Salvation Army has partnered with Interfaith Council of Churches, and together, we have served many other needs of county residents.

Please continue to support the local service unit and together we can help keep our community needs met. Won't you consider joining us as a member or as a bell ringer this year? Local meetings are held every third Friday, at 11 a.m., at Mary N. Smith Cultural Enrichment Center, Room 100, in Accomac. Our mailing address is P.O. Box 342, Onley, VA 23418.

Prayers of thanksgiving and praise to all of you, for all you do.

Earline P. Washington, Chair
