As Trump Takes Office, Eastern Shore Reflects Nation's Hopes, Fears

By Connie Morrison

As Donald Trump was inaugurated as the nation's 45th president, the Eastern Shore in some ways mirrored the rest of the nation.

A group of about 75 stalwart supporters dressed in everything from blue jeans to tuxedos gathered in Nassawadox for what was billed as the Shore's

"first ever" inaugural ball; followed by a band of approximately 60 protesters lining U.S. Route 13 in front of Four Corner Plaza to protest Trump's presidency on Saturday morning (see related story and photos on page 13).

"My son is a big Trump supporter," said Carolyn Verteramo, who brought her son, Ralph, from Easton, Md., for the event. "When he heard about it, he had to come." She added that her father is Franco Nocera, owner of Little Italy.

Nocera, who conceived the idea for an Eastern Shore inaugural ball, and provided the venue at his restaurant.

Nocera said he had already booked entertainer Pamala Stanley for the third Friday of every month, so when he realized it coincided with the inauguration, "I thought, 'Why not?'"

Under a criss-cross of red, white, and blue streamers, David and Carolyn Bright, of Wachapreague, were enjoying Stanley's vocal selections while they waited for their meal. Both

CRASH CLAIMS LIFE OF ONLEY WOMAN WEDNESDAY MORNING

By Linda Cicaira

An Onley woman died at the hospital Wednesday morning after being injured in a head-on collision.

Kristina J. Albrecht, 29, of Logan Road, was pronounced dead at Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital, according to 1st Sgt. Ben E. Jeffrey Jones of the state police.

The crash occurred at nearly 7:30 a.m. on the 26000 block of Locust-ville Road north of the intersection of Stone House Road in Accomack County. The incident involved a 2005 Chrysler Town and Country van and a 2012 Nissan Altima.

Courtney L. Emanuelli, 34, of Onley, was driving the van. She was also taken to the hospital for treatment of injuries. Her condition was not disclosed.

Jones and Sr. Trooper Tony Montross responded for the Crash Reconstruction Team. Trooper John Feryus and the others are continuing to investigate the incident. Jones said speed and alcohol were not a factor in the crash.

"There were two juvenile passengers in the vehicle with Ms. Emanuelli and one juvenile passenger with Ms. Albrecht," said Jones. "All were transported to Riverside Hospital. Only the children were properly restrained."

Runniger's to Leave Parksley

By Connie Morrison

Like many small businesses, Runniger's Pharmacy, which has been a business staple in downtown Parksley since 2003, has endured many ups and downs in its 13 years. But in the end it was red tape that ran Runniger's out of town.

Government, drug company, and insurance rules and regulations was too much, said owners Kathyanne Parker Runniger and Peter Runniger in a statement posted to Facebook. "We don't get paid enough by insurance companies to cover the costs to replace drugs," Kathyanne Runniger later told the Post.

The store will close its doors at the end of the day March 1, and merge with CVS Pharmacy in Onley, effective March 2, she said. She hopes there will be a place for Runniger's employees at CVS.

"We are sad to go," she said. "We love it here; we love our customers. Sometimes you just have to do it."

The landmark building at 18465 Dunne Ave. in Parksley is for sale. "I hope somebody decides to do something nice with it," she said.

Although all of the details of the merger have not been finalized, Runniger said the Virginia Board of Pharmacies requires a 30-day notice so that customers can choose another pharmacy, or learn what will happen to their prescriptions should they decline to take action.

In this case, said Runniger, prescriptions will be confidentially transferred to CVS Pharmacy.

Once Runniger's closes, H&H pharmacies in Oak Hall and Chincoteague, Rayfield's pharmacies in Nasawadox and Cape Charles, and Shore Pharmacy in Exmore will be the Eastern Shore of Virginia's independent pharmacies remaining in operation.

Competency Evaluation Set for Man Suspected in Hospital Stabbing

By Linda Cicaira

Psychiatric and competency evaluations are set for February for suspected killer Winston (PeeWee) Leroy Burton to determine if he was insane when he allegedly attacked a woman with a knife just outside the walls of Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital last November.

The 58-year-old Cheriton man showed up at the Eastern Shore Regional Jail in Eastville a short time after the incident occurred. He had an injured and bleeding hand and admitted to officers at the jail that he had stabbed Shelli Lou Crockett, 42, of Keller. He said he had been hearing voices.

Defense lawyer Carl Bundick might use the evaluations "to assist in the development of an insanity defense," according to court documents. The evaluations would include whether Burton "had a significant mental disease or defect, which rendered him insane at the time of the offense."

Crockett worked at the hospital for about 10 years. A member of the environmental services team, she arrived at the facility on Nov. 28, 2016, like she did most mornings. Before she could get inside, she was apparently stopped by a man she didn't want to see anymore. Crockett was in the parking lot behind the hospital when she was stabbed multiple times. She tried to fend off the blows. The assailant fled. Crockett died a short time later.

Burton was brought back to the hospital for treatment of his injuries after showing up at the jail, where he is now being held without bond for first-degree murder. A preliminary hearing is set for March in Northampton General District Court. Initially, the case was filed in juvenile and domestic relations court. However, it was moved once authorities realized Burton and Crockett's relationship did not include children or the sharing of a home.

Bundick wants a judge to suppress evidence taken from Burton when he showed up at the jail. He says all evidence and items seized were "in violation of his fourth, fifth and sixth amendment rights." There was "no probable cause ... no voluntary consent ... any alleged consent would have been during the course and product of an illegal detention and seizure of the defendant's person. No probable cause existed for the defendant's arrest."

Four officers who had contact with Burton immediately after the incident, say he talked about what happened. Their statements were filed in court records.

Deputy Kyle Martin said Burton came into the main lobby of the jail. He said he "had just stabbed somebody, that he was hurt and that he came to turn himself in." Martin called for assistance, other deputies and EMS arrived and he was "evaluated and transported off location in an ambulance."

Deputy C.M. Taylor was notified the suspect was at the jail so he went to the lobby. "I ... was talking to Winston Burton about what happened and he stated that he had stabbed his ex-girlfriend. I ... asked him who she was and he stated that her name was Shelli Crockett and she was an employee there. He told me that he had been hearing voices all night and that he had blacked out."

When Deputy Carl G. Allums arrived at the jail for roll call, he learned that the suspect was there. "I went to the front lobby and saw a black male sitting in a chair holding his severely lacerated and bleeding right hand. I asked him if he was involved in the incident that occurred at the hospital this morning and he said, 'Yeah, that's me.' I then asked him his name and he stated his name was Winston Burton."

Deputy C.L. Forbes went with Burton to the hospital. "When I walked by the red Toyota (Burton's vehicle) parked outside the front door of the jail, I noticed through the windows what appeared to be blood all around the driver area of the car ... while en-route to the hospital Mr. Burton appeared to be asleep on the stretcher. When he finally moved, he turned to me and asked where he was going and stated he didn't know what had happened to his hand."

A checklist for bail identified Burton as a life-long area resident who most recently was employed as a conch house and construction worker. Burton has a history of violence, beginning in 1976 when he was a juvenile. He once jumped out of a second story window in Accomack Circuit Court after a jury recommended a lengthy sentence.

MORE ZONING CHANGES IN NORTHAMPTON

By Ron West

Northampton supervisors reviewed changes to the county's 2016 Zoning Ordinance Tuesday night including three options for event venues based on property size and sent them to the Planning Commission for review.

Zoning Administrator Melissa Kellam explained that venues on lots at least 25 acres would be allowed on property zoned Agricultural/Residential. The activities would be allowed on 10-acre lots in Village and Waterfront Village zones and on 5-acre lots in Town Edge Commercial General Business zones.

The supervisors also discussed definitions regarding Conference and Retreat Centers. In general, Conference Centers would be designed to house meetings or conferences and offer on-site food and guest rooms. They would not be for general public use. A Retreat Center would be designed to handle small groups for short-term meetings or training sessions but not for overnight stays.

It was agreed that Home Occupations would include businesses that were generally owned and/or operated in a private residence with one full-time employee. The board briefly reviewed the Rt. 13 Corridor District but made no decision regarding modifying it, retaining or removing it. It was also referred to the commission.

A feasibility study on treatment needs for the well that provides water to the county complex in Eastville was discussed. Director of Public Works Chris Thomas reported the water tested positive for manganese, high levels of iron and lead. He said manganese is present in many wells in the county, as is iron, but do not generally pose a health hazard. The board agreed to the study, which will cost $8,950.

Thomas said the former middle school in Machipongo is leaking and needs roof repairs. Repair to the gymnasium roof is estimated at about $28,000. Additional estimates for other areas will be made.

Additional bids will be required for the emergency medical services building in Machipongo and portions of the project could be handled separately. Although five companies attended a pre-bid meeting, only one bid was offered at $544,150. The board agreed that was too high. Chairman Spencer Murray said the board wanted to pay half as much.

A proposed amendment to the supervisors' manual would allow the chairman to summarize written documents that attendees wanted read into the public record. Murray said some documents were extensive and took much longer to read than the three minutes speakers are allotted. Supervisor Robert Duer said reading the documents was unfair to the others limited by the three-minute rule. Murray said he was not attempting to restrict speakers and that their documents would still be placed into the record. He would just not read those that are excessively long or as he noted, "verbally abusive."

Historic District on Cape Charles Agenda

By Ron West

The Cape Charles Town Council voted 4-1 on Jan. 22 to allow a vinyl covering on a chimney in the historical district.

Resident Spencer Custis' request to construct a house at 204 Washington Ave. included the chimney plan. The Historic District Review Board opposed the concept advising the chimney needed to be finished with brick or brick veneer as vinyl-clad was not appropriate for the district.

Councilmen Chris Bannon and Andy Buchholz both noted that other structures in the area, including nearby condos, were constructed with similar materials thereby setting a precedent.

It was also noted construction requirements dictate the use of chimney liners, which would prevent the outside covering of a chimney from being a safety issue.

Councilwoman Dora Sullivan was opposed to the request. Councilman Steve Bennett was absent.

The panel unanimously approved a request for a conditional use permit for 1 Fig St., which was a new car dealership. Owners Chad and Bev Petras got permission to put living space there.

Council voted unanimously to invest in the Virginia Investment Pool Trust Fund. Wachapreague and the cities of Chesapeake and Roanoke are among those that have already done so. Robert Lauterberg of the Virginia Association of Counties/Virginia Municipal League advised the panel to join the others.

CAPITAL LETTERS

By Sen. Lynwood Lewis

The 2017 Virginia Senate was gavelled into session at noon, Wednesday, Jan. 11, by Lt. Gov. Ralph Northam. This is a six-week or “short” session, that ends Feb. 25, so things go into high gear quickly! After an organizational session Wednesday, and a spirited State of the Commonwealth address by Gov. Terry McAuliffe that evening, committees began meeting early Thursday with a full docket of bills to consider. On Friday morning, 1,810 bills were filed in both the House and Senate with the possibility of more legislation to be filed before the deadline.

The most important task before this assembly, as with all assemblies, is the budget. This year we are adjusting the budget, having written a two-year $100 billion spending plan in 2016. Revenues are less than anticipated, so the governor submitted suggested changes, which include belt-tightening. Both the House and the Senate will produce versions of an adjusted budget. These will likely differ in varied degrees from the governor’s, and with each other, and will have to be reconciled by a committee of conference later in the process. While there will still be belt-tightening required, improving revenues over the last few months leads us to believe that shortfall, at one point expected to be $1.5 billion, will be considerably less. The state’s Rainy Day Fund could temper this as it is intended for revenue shortfall emergencies. Virginia is constitutionally prohibited from operating on a running budget deficit, and this means revenue shortfalls must be dealt with head-on.

In addition to taking advantage of being in Richmond for an extended period to work with various state agencies on local issues, I will be carrying over a dozen proposed pieces of legislation as well as a few suggested amendments to the commonwealth’s budget. Given our revenue stress, anything that requires new spending will be given strict scrutiny and faces a very uncertain future.

My bill – SB1349 – establishes a cabinet-level secretary’s position for coastal flooding and was reported unanimously from the Senate Agriculture and Conservation Committee, on which I serve. Because of its fiscal implications, it was referred to Finance for review within the context of our budget. An identical measure is being advanced by Del. Chris Stolle on the House side, and his bill also passed through subcommittee and was sent to House Appropriations. The enormity of the coastal flooding issue is becoming apparent to members of the General Assembly no matter their political party or the area they represent.

I also put in legislation a bill to encourage and promote economic activity on working waterfronts in Virginia. My hope is that this legislation, which is a result of a recent report on working waterfronts and their importance to Virginia’s economy, will have some significant positive impact locally. I am asking for a Joint Legislative and Audit Revenue Committee study of working waterfronts and how we can best promote their economic viability and productivity. I think these pieces of legislation may offer some real benefit for the Shore and other areas with working waterfront communities.

This session I will again be working with the Farm Bureau and Chesapeake Bay Foundation to get appropriate funding for our cost-share best-management agricultural practices program. This program has been tremendously successful and has resulted in Virginia meeting its mid-term Bay Cleanup goals. We still have a lot to do. Our Bay Cleanup obligations and significant reliable funding on cost-share and BMP program were a large part of our mid-term success and will be vital in meeting our final goals by 2025.

Many groups from the Shore have visited already, and I am looking forward to many more over the next month. Please visit the capital and stop by and see me while you’re here! We will be in General Assembly Session until Saturday, Feb. 25. You can monitor the activities of the legislature on the General Assembly website www.virginiageneralassembly.gov I can be reached at our legislative e-mail, district06@senate.virginia.gov, and, while in Richmond, by telephone at 804-698-7506. Please do not hesitate to contact me.

Accomack Circuit Court

A 20-year-old Modest Town man was accused in records filed in Accomack Circuit Court of a sex crime with a child.

Probable cause was found in the county's juvenile and domestic relations court to certify a charge of sexual battery of a child younger than 13 against Marcos Perez-Morales of Hopeland Road. The crime allegedly occurred between Sept. 1, 2015, and June 30, 2016.

Sgt. Anthony Bright investigated. Perez-Morales is being held without bond. He waived a preliminary hearing in December.

Accomack General District

Three men were arrested in the past week and charged with felonies, according to records filed in Accomack General District Court.

Daniel Allen Newman, 50, of El Rancho Lane on Chincoteague, was charged with six counts of grand larceny and a count of burglary in connection with incidents that occurred on the island last year.

Newman is accused of breaking into Carlah Hatt's home and two counts of stealing property belonging to her between Nov. 1 and 30, 2016. He is also charged with four counts of grand theft of property belonging to Marie Wilpan between May 1 and Nov. 1, 2016.

Records state he made a "full confession." Unsecured bond was set at $10,000. A preliminary hearing was set for March 20. Pfc. T.J. Adams of the Chincoteague Police Department investigated.

Luis Alberto Cardona, 31, of Lankford Highway in Hallwood, was charged with assault and battery of Deputy Julian Sharp of the Accomack County Sheriff's Office (ACSO) on Jan. 21, 2017. Secured bond was set at $5,000.

Lawrence Walter Nalls III, 26, of Nancock Gardens Road in Onancock, was arrested in connection with a Nov. 29, 2016, petty theft. Because it is a third misdemeanor offense for Nalls, the charge is considered a felony. Cpl. E.J. Nottingham of the ACSO investigated. Nalls is being held without bond. A preliminary hearing is set for March 27.

Northampton Grand Jury Indictments

Frederick Wayne Baker, the 17-year-old who is awaiting sentencing for rape, sodomy, abduction, theft and related gun crimes that occurred in Cape Charles in 2015, was accused Monday of felony misconduct at the Eastern Shore Regional Jail.

The Plantation Drive resident was indicted by a Northampton Grand Jury on five counts of assault and battery of law enforcement officers and two counts of threatening to kill them between July and August 2016.

On July 30, he is accused of assault and battery of Valerie Thomas, an employee "responsible for the care and treatment of inmates." On Aug. 3, indictments say he assaulted officers Jacob Foisey and Jeffery Smith. On Aug. 15, he is accused of assault and battery of Clark Lovelady, another officer at the facility. He was indicted on a count of assault and battery of officer Montego Johnson. On Aug. 15 and 16 respectively, he threatened to kill officers Johnson and Willie Stevens.

Information about the cases was given to the grand jury by Capt. Roger Kennedy, who runs the jail. Baker is also awaiting sentencing for escape and property damage at the jail in February 2016. He pleaded guilty to those and the Cape Charles incidents.

In the latter offenses, he pointed a gun at a bicyclist and forced her to go to a bathroom at the southeast area of the Cape Charles Central Park where he sexually attacked her.

In another case, Brandon Tankard, 30, of Church Road in Nassawadox, was indicted on 26 counts of forging more than $2,700 worth of checks, and a count of burglarizing a home on Bayside Road in Machipongo that occurred between August and November 2016. Information about the cases was given to grand jury by Investigator Tara Leckel of the Northampton County Sheriff's Office (NCSO).

Frederick J. James, 40, of Vanessa Drive in Dover, Del., was indicted on counts of malicious wounding and abduction in connection with incidents that occurred Dec. 24, 2015. The victim was Nehshawae Nicole James, 39, of Willis Wharf Road in Exmore. She was severely injured and was caused to suffer permanent and significant physical impairment, the court record stated.

Officer J.K. Brady of the Exmore Police Department investigated. James was arrested on Dec. 28, 2016. Records from Delaware show James has been convicted of conspiracy, burglary, robbery, delivery of illegal drugs, unlawful sexual contact and failure to register as a sex offender since 1992.

Nicholas Ralph Tremaglio, 20, of Red Setter Lane in Moseley, Va., was indicted on four counts of possessing drugs illegally on July 28, 2016. The drugs included Psilocin, or psychedelic mushrooms, a Schedule I drug; the amphetamine lisdezzamfetamine, a Schedule II drug; hydrocodone, a Schedule II drug; and methylphenidate, a Schedule I drug. Officer Keith Brady of the NCSO investigated.

Daquan Julius Hardwick, 27, of Hollies Church Road in Melfa, was indicted on a count of knowingly failing to register as a sex offender on Sept. 2, 2016. Trooper T.M. Albright investigated.

Cassandra Rose Mosher, 35, of Sherman Avenue, in Glen Falls, N.Y., was charged with possessing cocaine on Sept. 17, 2016. Officer Shelly Beasley of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel Police Department investigated. A car in which Mosher was riding was stopped for going 83 miles per hour in a 55 zone, according to court records. Mosher told the officer the cocaine belonged to her.

Northampton Circuit Court

A Willis Wharf man, who robbed a nine-year-old girl at gunpoint in 2015, was sentenced Monday in Northampton Circuit Court to 15 years via a youthful offender program.

Jabias (Nika) Keandre Kellam, 19, of Willis Wharf was given 15 years each for robbery and burglary with a deadly weapon at El Ranchito store in Cheriton on Aug. 7, 2015. Supervised probation was ordered for five years with good behavior for a decade. The terms were set to run concurrently. The defendant used a semi-automatic pistol to commit the crimes.

Kellam also got four years each for two counts of possession with intent to distribute cocaine on Jan. 4 and 26, 2016, with all but time served suspended.

In another case, Earl Leon Pryor, also known as Buddy Prior, 67, of Main Street in Exmore, pleaded guilty to two counts of aggravated sexual battery involving a girl between the ages of 13 and 17. The offenses occurred June 1 and Aug. 1, 2016. The case was continued pending completion of a pre-sentence report.

Standing Up at Home for Women's Rights

By Linda Cicoira

Make a woman feel threatened and her anger is sure to be up. Multiply that over and over and you get last Saturday, a march and demonstration of tens of thousands of women united to spread the word that “women’s rights are human rights.”

Men stepped up, too. They were among the protestors.

Across the country, the marches were said to be the largest ever. About 60 people from Accomack and Northampton counties, who couldn’t travel hours to voice their dismay in Washington, gathered at Four Corner Plaza in Onley where they stood on the side of Lankford Highway, waved to passersby and held up their hand-made signs.

They said they wanted to spread awareness for the environment, equal rights, local economics and poverty and they wanted the assurance of healthcare for the future.

For some it was like taking a trip back to the 1960s when protests seemed commonplace. But the tradition goes back a lot further. Try 1913 when women were looking for the right to vote and 5,000 took to the streets of D.C.

“I think it’s fabulous,” Malaika Mitchell said Saturday as she stood with the others. The unintentional organizer initially planned to show her solidarity alone with a sign locally because her health wouldn’t allow her to do the city march.

Later, she said, “Several people went out to eat in groups after the demonstration; some of them I believe having met for the first time ... I just thought that was an interesting tidbit. Also people seemed interested in doing something to follow up. It was a good day.”

“I’m here in support of women’s rights, minority’s rights ... and not so much hate,” said Robin Patterson.

“I think the economy is in for trouble with this president,” said Tom Wilkins, who stood in the protest line. “I think we need to be reminded there are a whole lot of other people out there than the people he represents. It’s going to be a hard time for them. Let’s not lose sight of all America.”

“Trump makes it sound like this country is in such a bad state,” said Laura Marsh of Greenbackville. “Like a third world country, and it really isn’t.”

Warriors Cruise to Five-Game Streak; Vikings Notch Back-to-Back Wins

By Krystle Bono

The Nandua Warriors girls' varsity team extended their streak to four last Friday night as they fueled past the Northampton Yellow Jackets in Eastville, 71-35.

Warrior Kyteia Smaw led the hoops squad with 22 points and a game-high of six steals. Her teammates Angelique Taylor and Shacoria Baines also helped lead the team with 15 and 14 points, respectively. Taylor also tallied nine assists and five steals. Jada Locklear grabbed the most rebounds with five and Shabria Nock blocked the most for the club with two.

Nandua stretched its winning record to five with a victory over the Laurel Bulldogs Wednesday night in Onley. The girls will head to Norfolk Christian on Monday for their next meeting.

The Broadwater Vikings defeated the Denbigh Baptist Minutemen on Monday, 54-31, in Newport News.

Dominating the first, the Vikings netted 20 points to the Minutemen's mere four. Broadwater fell behind in the second, posting only six points as Denbigh threw eight to make the score, 26-12, by halftime.

The second half of the game went in favor of the Vikings all the way to the final buzzer, as the girls split 28 points evenly over the last two periods and the Minutemen were only able to post 11 and eight to bring the scoreboard to rest, 54-31.

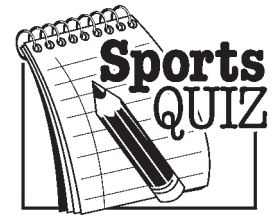

Broadwater earned their second win in-a-row Tuesday night when they hosted Portsmouth Christian in Exmore. The Vikings will play again on Tuesday, Jan. 31, at Stonebridge School.

STAN SMITH'S TENNIS CLASS

HITTING WITH AN OPEN STANCE

In recent years players now use an "open stance" when hitting a forehand. They hit the ball with their weight on their back foot, without stepping into the shot and transferring their weight to the front foot. They spin their torso to generate power.

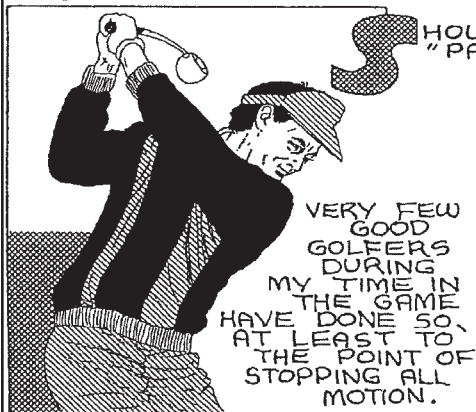

A big advantage of the open stance is that it is easier to recover after the shot. Since they have not stepped forward, players can simply sidestep back to the center without having to turn and run.

SHOULD YOU "PAUSE AT THE TOP"?

IN MOST FINE GOLF SWINGS, THE LOWER BODY INITIATES THE DOWNSWING JUST BEFORE THE UPPER BODY COMPLETES THE BACKSWING. THIS PRODUCES MAXIMUM LEVERAGE AND A SMOOTH CHANGE OF DIRECTION — BOTH VITAL TO SOLID BALL-STRIKING.

CAPITAL LETTERS

By Del. Rob Bloxom

The second week of the fast-paced 2017 short session is finished. Many topics are being discussed, but the most popular email topic to date is the salt water fishing license fund. It is being moved away from its intended purpose of the citation program and improvement of public access and fishing habitat to cover the shortfall within the VMRC. The emails are being sent to me because I serve on the finance committee. The fund was moved by the governor in his budget so the decision really rests with the appropriations committee. There are amendments to move the money back, as well as a few amendments to put in new money. As was reported last week, money (and the lack of it), is the central theme this year. Also of concern to us on the Eastern Shore is that money was moved from the surveying department in the VMRC. There is a move to privatize this department but caution watched the inauguration: she, at home, on Fox News, and he, at work. Their reason for turning out for the event was simple. "It sounded like fun - the first inaugural ball on the Eastern Shore," said David Bright.

~ Inauguration ~

Peggy Keating, of Chincoteague, found the evening to be "uplifting, patriotic, and just a feel-good time." She, too, watched the inauguration. "I was very excited to see a president coming in that truly loves America." She believes he is different from previous presidents. "He is not a career politician," she said, and is "a change that will be good for America."

needs to be taken, as our leasing program is the envy of the East Coast and one of the reasons for the success aquaculture industry's success.

The next topic that I received the most emails are what I refer to as the "cat and dog bills," and where the difference between urban and rural Virginia is so clearly seen. Animal groups are well organized on both sides of an issue and my inbox will receive more than 100 messages within an hour. They are usually the same letter with addresses from all over the state and even some from outside the state. As always, I look at the bill doing what I think is best for the 100th district.

I welcome your comments and concerns. Please do not hesitate to contact my Richmond office at (804) 698-1000 or email me at delrbloxom@house.virginia.gov. You can also call my district office in Mappsville at (757) 824-3456.

Healthy Communities Scholars Sought

Eastern Shore Healthy Communities and Eastern Shore Community College (ESCC) are searching for applicants or nominees for their 2017 Leadership Academy.

The goal of the academy is to contribute to a healthier, more robust Eastern Shore community by providing motivated youth with confidence and experiences that strengthen their ability to model leadership behaviors, inspire shared vision, challenge processes, enable others to act, and encourage progress in his or her community with heart and conviction.

Classes will be held at ESCC on Saturdays from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Feb. 4, 18, March 4, 18, and 25, and April 1. This program is funded in part by the Virginia Foundation for Healthy Youth and Eastern Shore Community College. Each Leadership Scholar accepted into the 2017 program receives a full scholarship for tuition, fees and materials. Lunch is provided each class day for participants.

Deadline for applications is Feb. 1. For more information or to submit applications, contact Rochelle Brown, administrative assistant to the president, Eastern Shore Community College, 29300 Lankford Hwy., Melfa, VA 23410, or email to rbrown@es.vccs.edu and ask for a return receipt.

Contact Joani Donohoe at 301-807-9360 or email joanidonohoe@gmail.com for more information.

Arts Enter Board Considers Proposals for Future of Historic Palace Theatre

Submitted Article

Over the past year, the board of directors of Arts Enter Cape Charles has been approached by several individuals interested in either purchasing or leasing the Historic Palace Theatre to expand its use as an entertainment and community arts venue.

One proposal being considered would install new digital projection and sound equipment in the Palace Theatre to offer first-run movies. If such a plan were to move forward, Arts Enter would continue to use the facility for its dance and theatre arts classes, summer theatre camps, music lessons, plays, and various other performing and visual arts events.

“We are committed to maintaining the Palace Theater as a cultural hub for our community,” said Arts Enter Board Chairman Henry “Hank” Mayer. “To strengthen our mission as a catalyst for those programs, we’re exploring various proposals that would more fully utilize the Palace complex.”

Mayer said that running the 75-year-old facility is expensive. Although the building is in good condition overall, the Palace complex will need some expensive structural upgrades in the near future.

“Ideally, we would like to find partners to share in the increasing costs of operating and maintaining this beautiful facility,” Mayer said.

The Arts Enter is a non-profit organization that owns and operates the Palace Theatre complex, which includes the theater, stage, dressing rooms, storage buildings, a dance studio and a small storefront used for arts classes. Arts Enter has an executive director, Sue Anglim, who runs day-to-day operations and reports to Mayer and the board. Arts Enter’s mission is to offer arts-oriented classes for all age groups, stage-quality performances at affordable prices, and strengthen its outreach into the community.

“We believe that to enhance our mission and to preserve the Palace as an arts venue, requires an infusion of new capital and income streams,” Mayer said.

The Arts Enter board will spend the next three to six months studying proposals from potential partners or investors and considering other income-producing possibilities, Mayer said.

“We’re not rushing into anything,” Mayer said. “We’re being very methodical and will carefully analyze all proposals that seem fair, feasible and make sense for our mission, the Palace and the community. Meanwhile, we will be running existing programs as scheduled and adding new ones. We have a lot of exciting events already scheduled for 2017.”

Fried Oreos, Waffle Sandwiches & Chocolate Crepes

Story and Photos by Linda Cicoira

Seventh Graders at Nandua Middle School took tape, cardboard and paint and designed food truck props and then cooked up the fuel for a competition this week that wowed three judges including two local chefs.

The stripes symbolize bacon, 13-year-old Joseph Prendergast (right) of Harborton explained when asked about his team's design. "We're chefs, not artists," he told the judges.

He was speaking of the black and red stripes on the Waffle Wheels. The group took "Best Truck Food" with their bacon-infused waffle shell stuffed with sausage and scrambled eggs.

"Best Food Truck" was team Oreolicious (middle photo) with fried Oreos. The vehicle was built on two desks and had a movie screen on one side.

"They don't sell those (fried Oreos) all the time," said Kara Chapman, 12, of Painter. "We used cardboard and (three rolls of) duct tape" to build the truck, said Daniel Lang, 12, of Onley.

"Brunch in Paris" participants made chocolate mousse-filled crepes with homemade chocolate sauce (see photo on right). They won "Best Overall."

The judges were Gwame Mizzelle (the school's special-ed teacher and boys' basketball coach), Chef Gary Sokaitis of Blarney Stone Pub and Chef Kendall Dennis of Kendall's Kountry Kitchen.

FORTUNE COOKIE RECIPE:

- 3 egg whites
- 3/4 cup white sugar
- 1/2 cup butter, melted and cooled
- 1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 2 tablespoons water

Preheat the oven to 375 degrees. Grease cookie sheets, or line with parchment paper. Have fortunes ready to go on small strips of paper.

In a large glass or metal bowl, whip egg whites and sugar on high speed of an electric mixer until frothy, about 2 minutes. Reduce speed to low, and stir in melted butter, vanilla, water and flour one at a time, mixing well after each. Consistency should resemble pancake batter. Spoon the batter into 3 inch circles on the prepared baking sheets. Leave room between for spreading.

Bake for 5 to 7 minutes in the preheated oven, or until the edges begin to brown slightly. Quickly remove one at a time, place a message in the center, and fold in half. Then fold the smooth edge of the half-moon shape over a wooden spoon to make the final shape. (Recipe adapted from allrecipes.com)

CHINESE NEW YEAR IS JAN. 28. PERHAPS THIS IS THE YEAR YOU TRY YOUR HAND AT MAKING YOUR OWN FORTUNE COOKIES.

CONSISTING OF ONLY A FEW INGREDIENTS – EGG WHITES, SUGAR, BUTTER, FLOUR, AND VANILLA EXTRACT – THE REAL CHALLENGE IS IN THE TECHNIQUE. BUT ONCE YOU HAVE IT MASTERED, A RHYTHM DEVELOPS AND YOU’LL HAVE A BOWL FULL, WITH PLENTY TO SHARE, IN NO TIME.

THE SLIPS YOU INSERT INTO THE COOKIES CAN BEAR GOOD OR GAG FORTUNES – THE FATE OF MANY RESTS IN YOUR HANDS AND YOUR IMAGINATION. HAVE FUN!

WARNING

As it says in the fourth Commandment Saturday is the Sabbath. The Ten Commandments (Exodus 20:2... KJV) Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy. Six days you shall labor and do all your work, but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord your God. In it you shall do no work: you, nor your son, nor your daughter, nor your male servant, nor your female servant, nor your cattle, nor your stranger who is within your gates... Working on Saturday the 7th day is a dead sin; not asking for forgiveness means loss of your salvation. Sunday is the first day of the week. Look at your calendar. In 260 languages Saturday is the Sabbath. In Rome it is Sunday.

Thank You, Post Angel

By Linda Cicaira

I just got a date and my anxiety level is way up.

This is not about my social calendar, what to wear, where to meet, if I'm going to mind my manners or show the real me. This is beyond all that. This is about surgery. The main event. The replacement of my left knee.

For those of you who have not had this operation and are ready to dismiss it as something simple that is done everyday, keep dreaming. This is big stuff. My doctor is going to cut my knee open, from way above the knee to way below it. He is going to pull out bones and install titanium. Just think about that for a moment. I have. It makes my stomach hurt.

I consider myself pretty tough. But the last time, when I had half the right knee replaced, the pain was really bad. Worse than anything I've ever felt. So much so that I asked my now ex-husband to shoot me. (I didn't realize at the time how tempting that must have been for him.)

So what I have chosen to do for the next three weeks or so is IGNORE.

For example, lets talk about Chocolate Cake Day. It is today. Yes, the event where "a white or yellow cake will not do. Nor, will part chocolate, part white suffice. It must be chocolate, all chocolate," according to a website that announces such holidays. "What a day to bake a cake and eat it, too." If you decorate the cake with sprinkles, they must be chocolate. Now that is a topic changer.

It is also Punch the Clock Day and no one seems to know why. There is the typical reason for partying just for the sake of partying. I believe the best place to do this one is at work since our boss at the Eastern Shore Post is a great baker. Oh yeah. Bring on the chocolate cake. We love you, Connie.

A Compliment Day is also on some calendars. The game goes like this: gather in a circle, look at the person to your left, think of a compliment for that person and write it down. Then post all the notes and see how many players can match the compliments to the correct person. The winner gets an extra slice of chocolate cake. Oh, let it be me!

Sunday is the Chinese New Year. It's the year of the Rooster. Do I foresee more celebrating? I do! And this one lasts for 15 days beginning on the first day of the new moon, and ending on the full moon. It is celebrated with festivities, fireworks, brightly colored lights, special meals and gift giving. Yes, you can give me a present. Yippee!

Sunday is also Data Privacy Day. Change your passwords, empty your spam folder and push for more security.

Okay, so I couldn't celebrate long enough to ignore my upcoming surgery. You get busy and then you're right back to stressing.

The date is set for late February. I don't know the time yet. Thankfully, my friends are going to take care of me. I hope to hardly miss any work. But I'm going to need extra news tips to get me through until I can drive. So don't forget to send them to shoredog@verizon.net and say a little prayer for me. Time is ticking.

And try doing everything in reverse for Backward Day on Jan. 31. The website says to "try writing backwards or reading backwards. Wear your shirt with the back in the front. Eat your meal, starting with dessert." Oh yeah! The chocolate cake instead of a salad. "Walk backwards, or talk backwards. Play a board game backwards." Or make a Pineapple Upside Down Cake. Yippee.

Don't Worry About It: Five Ways to Reduce Stress and Enjoy 2017

By Carla Savage-Wells

Special to the Eastern Shore Post

Why, Yes! I'll bet some Post readers remember the phrase, "What, me worry?" Alfred E. Neuman, Mad Magazine's iconic cover model, has the right idea. If there was one resolution to be made for 2017, it would be, "Don't worry about it." Reducing anxiety will improve our mental and physical well being, and make us healthier and happier human beings.

WebMD warns that worry doesn't just affect our mental health; it also can wreak havoc on our physical well-being. Worrying doesn't take away tomorrow's troubles; it takes away today's peace. This column will likely do very little to assist anyone suffering from generalized anxiety disorder, but here are a few techniques that can reduce our anxious feelings.

Breathe: Shallow breathing limits oxygen intake and can make us feel more anxious. By contrast, deep breathing decreases stress, lowers blood pressure and slows the heart rate. Dr. Andrew Weil suggests the 4-7-8 breathing technique. First, exhale completely through your mouth. Then, inhale through your nose for a count of four. Hold your breath for seven seconds, then exhale through your mouth for a count of eight. It's not possible to breathe deeply and be anxious at the same time. Weil recommends using the 4-7-8 breath technique at least twice a day or whenever you feel stressed.

Choose: If there is someone who drags you down and seems to leave you feeling stressed, cut back on the time spent with that person or establish boundaries. Consider setting certain topics off-limits if talking about them with that person makes you anxious. Some people will help you gain perspective, while others will feed into your worries, doubts, and fears.

Write (or text): Jot your worries on a note pad at night. The period just before we doze off is often wrought with anxiety about all the things we have to do tomorrow. If we keep the pads by our bedsides, we can write down our to-do's and forget about them until the morning. We may even consider reading our completed list then, tearing up and throwing away the paper on which thoughts are written as a symbolic way of being rid of them.

Walk: Reduce worries and relieve stress with a Far Eastern (Shore) technique called shinrin-yoku, a Japanese phrase which translates to "forest bath" in English. The practice lowers stress hormone levels compared with walking in an urban area. Walking in the woods or on the beach and listening to the sounds of nature can reduce stress.

Pray: Stop worrying about everything. God's grace and power can make things happen that we can't bring about no matter how much we struggle. Don't try to take on God's responsibility. When we do what we can and should do, God steps in and does what we can't.

Worrying about all the things that could go wrong doesn't make life any more predictable. If you're depressed, you're living in the past. If you're anxious, you're living in the future. If you're at peace, you're living in the present. Focusing on worst-case scenarios won't keep bad things from happening. It will only keep us from enjoying the good things we have in the present. So, don't worry about it.
