“Muddin’ at The Moose” Marred by Photographer Fatality

By Linda Cicaira

“Muddin’ at the Moose” in Belle Haven turned fatal last Saturday when a participating truck accidentally struck and killed a photographer at the annual event.

“The day was over with right then ... just out of respect for him,” Patrick Long, an event coordinator and Exmore Moose Lodge member said Monday. “I called for a mandatory drivers’ meeting” and offered to give entry fees back to the drivers but the consensus was to donate the money to the victim’s family, Long said. Other donations were also accepted.

Rick Ulerick, 48, of the 6300 block of Knob Hill Drive in Virginia Beach, was identified as the victim by Sgt. Michelle Anaya of the state police. “Mr. Ulerick was actively photographing the truck race through the pit when he was accidentally struck,” she said.

It is “still an ongoing investigation that is being handled as an accidental death ... the driver of the mud bog (truck) was Blake Cole Messer, 20, of Four Oaks, N.C.” He “will not be charged in the incident.”

“There was no fault by anybody,” Long said. “He was in the shutdown area where he takes pictures. It wasn’t like he was right up in harm’s way. Just a freak accident like everybody else has been saying. He took photography all up and down the East Coast ... at least Virginia and North Carolina - and was very, very good at everything he did.”

Ulerick “was close with all of us in the mud racing community. All of us thought of him as family. He was a special man. He never knew a stranger,” Long continued.

“He touched so many people with what he did and his photography skills. This was his hobby. He never charged for the photos,” Long said. “He helped promote all motor sports of any kind. He enjoyed watching horsepower ... dirt bikes ... he really enjoyed it.”

“Everything is just so fresh on everybody’s mind,” Long continued. Another mud event is scheduled for Sept. 23, at the Moose, but it could be canceled. Moose International and the local lodge members will have to decide.

“Everybody’s feeling is we’d like to do more - take even more safety measures,” said Long. “At this time it is unknown if the events will be able to continue ... you can put in every safety measure, you can’t prevent everything unfortunately,” the coordinator said. “The safety measures that we have in place did the job” so the truck didn’t go “out to the crowd. It was a very safe layout. Everybody is way away from the track.”

Ulerick’s Facebook page had photos of trucks on April 14 that were going to race and people were sharing their condolences there. Dennis Anderson’s Muddy Motorsports Park in North Carolina is dedicating the mudding event on April 29 to Ulerick.

Long said the local mud bog was started in September 2014 and was held twice annually ever since. Back in the 1980s and early 1990s, the races were held at the Tasley Fairgrounds. “All who race do it for our own enjoyment and thrill of little kids cheering and clapping,” Long said. He hoped the cloud of dirt kept the children from seeing the accident.

“We had people from Pennsylvania, Richmond to North Carolina. We travel across the Bay and race too. Not like monster trucks on TV but similar,” he said.

LOCAL DECOY CARVING LEGEND DELBERT “CIGAR” DAISEY DIES

Native Chincoteague Delbert “Cigar” Lee Daisey, 89, died Wednesday leaving a decoy carving legacy across North America.

“Accomack County probably lost its best known resident,” carver and Supervisor Grayson Chesser told the board of supervisors at a meeting later that day. He cited Daisey as being among his mentors. “People will be upset from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the provinces of Canada to Louisiana” to hear of his passing. “We lost a good friend,” Chesser added.

A funeral is being planned for next weekend around the schedule of the 47th Annual Ward World Championship Wildfowl Carving Competition and Art Festival in Ocean City.

According to the Ward Museum of Waterfowl Art website, “His nickname was given to him by a game warden when he lost some cigars while stealing ducks from the warden’s traps,” the website stated. “Some say he left the cigars to taunt the warden, but we may never know. One of the last surviving people who made a living as a market hunter, Daisey became an avid conservationist later in his life, serving

It's Official: Accomack Makes Mike Mason County Administrator

Accomack supervisors chose long-time Finance Director Mike Mason to be their new county administrator Wednesday. He's been serving as acting administrator since Steve Miner left the post in January.

The search will begin immediately for a new finance director, Mason said later. He will continue to do both jobs until a replacement is found. His annual salary was set at $132,000. That's up from $95,900 and makes him the second highest paid employee in the county. The top salary of $140,000 belongs to Superintendent Chris Holland. Miner, who held the job for about a dozen years, was paid $137,862.

"Mike brings with him a depth of local government experience and personal knowledge of Accomack County having worked in our county government for over 20 years," said Chairman Robert Crockett. "Also important, Mike has deep roots in our county. He was born and raised here, he is a product of our local school system ... Mike knows the pulse of the community. Accomack County is in good hands. Mike has the full board's confidence in moving this county forward through implementing the policies and direction of the board of supervisors."

The board also welcomed its new deputy director of planning and zoning, Gary Pusey, who came to Accomack from Somerset County, Md., where he was director of planning and zoning.

In other business, officials discussed NASA's testing of wells for per and polyfluorinated substances known as PFAS. A fire-fighting foam that contains the compounds was frequently used for training on the north-central side of the main base at Wallops. Recent samples of shallow groundwater monitoring wells near the site were found to have levels above EPA lifetime health advisory levels. Testing of Wallops drinking water supply, which comes from deep groundwater wells, did not find PFAS.

On April 12 and 13, NASA tested the Town of Chincoteague's drinking water, which comes from wells on Wallops. "An independent lab is analyzing the samples." An email released shortly before press time said "all stakeholders confirmed the levels are below the health advisory and the Town of Chincoteague water is safe for drinking."

Supervisor Billy Joe Tarr, who represents Chincoteague, said the island "has switched to the deeper wells until everything comes back clear."

"People shouldn't be drinking from the shallow wells anyway," said Supervisor Donald Hart. "I am concerned very much, as emergency services director. Chincoteague's wells are deep. They ought to really consider doing away with those shallow wells ... It's not a substance that they've banned," he added regarding federal regulations.

Supervisor Robert Crockett said Jarrod Goodman, Complex Manager for Tyson Foods, told him the company has invested $6.5 million in new equipment resulting in 30 new jobs on the Shore.

as the resident carver at Chincoteague Island's Refuge Waterfowl Museum."

Daisey's carvings are recognized for both artist value and as working decoys. His works include black ducks, mallards, redheads, red-breasted mergansers and his most well-known decoy, the ruddy duck, often crafted in pairs.

The only fully decorative decoy he ever made was a 1973 pintail, created as a present for his wife. The piece was featured in National Geographic in June 1980. Its value was once estimated at $150,000. In addition to the Ward museum, his work appears in the Smithsonian Institution and the Chincoteague Refuge Waterfowl Museum.

Daisey was also known for his keen sense of humor.

Two Rescued by Sheriff's Office Boat

By Linda Cicaira

Two Bloxom men stood on the bow of a sinking fishing boat with four-foot seas splashing and winds blowing in excess of 30 mph. It was after dark on Easter Sunday between Saxis and Guard Shore in the Chesapeake Bay. They had run into a fishing net that wound itself around their motor.

"It was pretty nasty out there," said Captain Todd Wessells, who is in charge of the marine unit of the Accomack County Sheriff's Office. "They were very happy to see us. They'd been fishing. It was blowing all day but later on in the evening it got worse."

"We got to them pretty quick," Wessells continued, speaking of Joshua Yunker and Justin Taylor.

The water "was over their heads when they first ran into it," said Wessells. Yunker "got in the water and attempted to cut the line out of his wheel and the boat slung around into the waves and took two waves over the stern. It swamped," the officer said. The water temperature was 59 degrees.

Just before Wessells and Deputies David Smullin and Bobby Taylor arrived in the sheriff's boat, the Maryland State Police Trooper 4 helicopter found the sinking vessel with its infrared imaging system and provided lighting for rescue operations.

"We pulled the boat up beside them and grabbed their hands and pulled them on board," Wessells said.

Sheriff Todd Godwin and Wessells were very thankful for Maryland assistance.

"Just them lighting up the area, we were able to maneuver around the fish net to get to them." Wessells said. "They were probably 3/4 of the way sunk" when the helicopter found the sinking vessel; a 1970, 19-foot Mako with center console.

Godwin also mentioned that the Virginia Marine Resources Commission, the U. S. Coast Guard and the Eastern Shore of Virginia 9-1-1 Communications Center assisted in the operation. The latter got coordinates from a cell phone to help locate the victims, both of whom were fine and refused medical treatment when they got to land, the nearest of which was about a half-mile away. The boat was brought ashore Monday.

CANONIE, CASSATT, BAY COAST RAILROAD: UNTANGLING THE RAILROAD WITH MANY NAMES

By Linda Cicaira

Officials from both Eastern Shore counties threw money at the Bay Coast Railroad's car float eight years ago to get it back in operation, but despite the $1 million worth of repairs, the barge hasn't moved since 2012, officials are uncertain about the railroad's future, about $65,000 is still owed, local leaders continue to question if the rail should be considered a public or private entity and there is a bit of squabbling going on behind the scenes regarding what should be kept secret.

The Joint Industrial Development Board of Northampton County and its Towns (JIDA) and the Accomack County Economic Development Authority (EDA) met Tuesday and discussed the issues. There was a pep talk about getting Tyson Foods and Perdue onboard to use the rail. An Accomack-Northampton Planning District Commission employee offered his assistance with grants and development. But nothing was decided except that the panels would come back in September to chat some more.

"How can both counties help the railroad be a more valuable usable asset?" Chairman Bill Parr of the JIDA asked. He was concerned about the Cape Charles Harbor and the railroad being "a more viable entity as a part of the puzzle of economic development. That is the reason it is on the agenda today," he said, explaining why he gathered and distributed railroad information to the group. "Is there a way we can get that barge back in service? Are their (potential) users on the Eastern Shore that are not using it now? They might be using the trucking industry instead. The more information we have the better."

The uncertainty officials feel about the railroad is nothing new. As EDA Member Stella Rohde said Tuesday, "It's confusing."

When the barge needed repair, Accomack and Northampton counties each voted to put up $100,000. But not all the supervisors were in agreement.

"I don't think we know enough about their business," Supervisor Laura Belle Gordy had said. "We need to see the books ... let them borrow from a bank ... they tell us they aren't making any money."

"I'm still not sure who owns what," Supervisor Grayson Chesser of railroad properties. "Who owns rolling stock? ... Who serves on the board of directors? How much are they paid? It seems to me we have more companies than we have engines."

There is a lease between Canonie Atlantic and tenant, Cassatt Management LLC, (a private for profit company owned by Dickie Foster of Virginia Beach who developed Bay Creek near Cape Charles) which does business as Bay Coast. Canonie is considered a private corporation but 100 percent of its stock is owned by the Accomack-Northampton Transportation District Commission (A-NTDC), a government entity. Some of the commissioners are also railroad board members.

Foster pays $7,000 a year for the lease and has 20 more years in the contract. Officials said he is obligated to build an office and service building but never has.

The railroad property, (with the exception of a parcel leased to T&W Block and valued at $132,200) is not taxed in Accomack or Northampton.

An email dated Monday was sent to Parr from Larry LeMond, a Northampton supervisor, retired Bay Coast employee, chairman of Canonie and chairman of the Eastern Shore Tourism Commission. In the message he writes about the lease management agreement between Canonie and Cassatt which was sent to those going to the joint meeting.

"As chairman of Canonie I must say that you have crossed the line," Lemond wrote. "I don't know where you got this agreement but it is a CONFIDENTIAL agreement between two PRIVATE entities -- Canonie & Cassatt and to distribute to others was ethically and legally wrong. You mention in your email that the RR is a tax-payer owned. I don't know where this comes from because the RR DOES

~Railroad~

NOT RECEIVE ANY FUNDS FROM NORTHAMPTON OR ACCOMACK TAXPAYERS. I will be at the meeting tomorrow and I will make this perfectly clear to the rest of the attendees.”

Parr’s response was more lengthy. “My intention is to open a discussion of all economic development entities and assets of the two counties, from the railroad to the tourism commission, and all of the entities that impact our local economy. Our community is suffering economically, and I believe that we need to take immediate affirmative action to change that. We must find new sources of revenue for the Northampton County budget. It is an urgent matter ... the agreement does not have any provisions ... in the terms that indicate that it is a confidential document. It is a lease for publicly owned property, and I can think of no legitimate reason why there is anything confidential about it, other than an anonymously handwritten word on the front page that is not a part of the terms of the agreement.

LeMond said in a commission meeting in February 2014, when he was still with Bay Coast, “we handled 106 carloads which brings our 11-month total to 1,621 cars, which is a 384 carload increase ... we handled 26 carloads of LP Gas, 21 carloads of paper and 39 carloads of grit.

But Tuesday LeMond said it is an obsolete business. It costs $6,000 for a round trip from Norfolk to Cape Charles and maintenance is high because salt water and the metal float “don’t mix. The railroad is handling fewer cars this year ... and making no money. It’s just too darn expensive,” LeMond said. “They try to get a full load before casting off but some customers don’t want to wait. “Every hour those cars are sitting there is a cost. We are lucky to break even.”

LeMond said there was a fertilizer company that was willing to wait and was a good customer for two years until “Norfolk Southern marketed against us ... It’s just too expensive. It’s a dinosaur, to be honest.”

Still others say business in the Little Creek area of the railroad is prosperous.

Chairman Spencer Murray of the Northampton Supervisors wanted “full disclosure.”

“You can’t be half pregnant. You are either a private or a public company.” he said. “I just never have understood this. Not that they have done anything wrong. They have a court document that says they are totally legit.” Murray said if he were on the transportation commission, he would want to know what his “responsibilities were to the county ... I’m confused,” he added.

J.T. Holland, a local insurance agent, is also with Bay Coast. He is a former chairman of the board of supervisors who was well known for his work on the railroad in the 1970s and 1980s. In 1976, when the transportation commission was formed, Holland was the chairman. The group hired Conrail to operate the line but that got too expensive. So the commission bought the railroad and eventually sold to Canonie. It bought it back in 1987 when the company threatened abandonment.

The following year, Holland said, “The Delmarva Advisory Council did a study ... they determined that if this line were to close ... it would possibly effect [sic] as far north as Wilmington (Del.). This would mean about 5,000 jobs on the ... Peninsula.” Holland was on the council by appointment of the governor at that time.

Holland attends Canonie meetings although he is not on the board.

The Eastern Shore Railroad Inc. began operating the line in 1981. It was taken over in February 2006 by Cassatt.

Rohde, a realtor, had an answer. “I have heard from a lot of guys that the most important thing they want is the railroad up and running - to get it worked out. Someone needs to be a liaison between the railroad and Perdue and Tyson’s ... so it can produce a lot of money. Perdue is the third largest shipper on the East Coast.” Rohde said Tyson’s needs a new feed mill.

LeMond met with Tyson’s officials four or five years ago but the deal fell through when the company suddenly said they couldn’t afford to build the mill. “We were talking to the higher ups ... we need to address that again. I heard yesterday they may be looking again.”

Rohde said she doesn’t “care who does what with the railroad. I want to get the issue ironed out.”

Probable Cause in Crimes Against Children

Probable cause was found in crimes involving children and the cases were certified to an Accomack Grand Jury recently in the county juvenile and domestic relations court.

A felony and two misdemeanor charges were certified against Kiana Drummond, 24, of Coal Kiln Road in Painter. She is accused of felony abuse of a child younger than 18 "so gross and wanton as to show a reckless disregard for human life." The misdemeanor counts were reckless handling of a firearm and assault and battery.

The incident occurred Jan. 10, 2017. Deputy M. Patterson of the Accomack County Sheriff's Office (ACSO) investigated. Secured bond was set at $3,000.

Two charges were certified to the grand jury involving Shawana N. Johnson, 32, of Church Road in Tasley. Johnson was charged with strangulation by "applying pressure to the neck of such person resulting in wounding or bodily injury." The victim was 14 years old. Johnson was also charged with assault and battery of a family member. The incidents occurred March 9, 2017. Officer J. Rose of the Onley Police Department investigated. Unsecured bail was set at $5,000.

Carjacker Sentenced

A 15-year-old was given a total of 32 years in prison last week in Accomack Circuit Court for his part in the carjacking of Supervisor Reneta Major and the theft of a Broadwater Academy bus last August. All but 10 years of the terms were suspended.

Dabreon Lamont Tankard, of Woodland Avenue in Melfa, was given three years each for property destruction, use of a firearm, grand larceny and two counts of grand larceny auto. He was given two years for maliciously shooting at an occupied vehicle and 15 years for carjacking with a gun.

After serving his time, Tankard was ordered on good behavior for 10 years and supervised probation for five years. Though not yet eligible for a driver's license, he will not be permitted to get one for a year after release.

Tankard was also ordered to pay restitution of $192.50 to Major for her purse and the glass replacement in her vehicle, $125 to Broadwater Academy, $1,236.07 to Selective Insurance Cox and $50 to Accomack County.

His accomplice, Dontrail Atqwan Johnson, 18, of Main Street in Melfa, pleaded guilty to the charges but is not scheduled for sentencing until August.

"I went to the door at the left back," Tankard told police about Major's car. "Dontrail went to the back right side. Dontrail told her to get out. She got out and ran. I got in on the passenger's side. Dontrail drove from Melfa to Painter. I never drove. We picked up (two juveniles) in Exmore," he continued. "I don't know where we were going. We were just going. When the officer (deputy) got behind us we did what he said."

Major was carjacked Aug. 8. The interview between Tankard and authorities occurred the next day. Investigator Patrick Coulter of the ACSO investigated the incidents.

Townsend told the officer that he and Johnson were walking by the railroad tracks on Lankford Highway. Townsend "walked up to a vehicle with a woman in it and asked for a cigarette." Townsend said both he and Johnson had BB guns.

"She just jumped out of the car and said, 'y'all can have the car. Just leave me alone,'" the file continued. When asked if he saw her fall down Townsend said, "I thought she jumped down."

He also admitted that the two stole the school bus on Aug. 4. "I shot the windows out of it with a handgun. It was a BB." The shooting happened somewhere around Wachapreague. They drove to Big Pine Road and left the bus and went to Johnson's house. When they went back, the bus was gone.

Prison Sentence for DUI

A Mappsville man was given a prison term last week in Accomack Circuit Court for driving under the influence.

Faustino Morales Santizo, also known as Frederico Recendis, 39, of Williams Street in Mappsville, was sentenced to five years in prison with four years suspended for felony DUI, on May 21, 2016. The term is set to run consecutively with the sentence for driving after having his license revoked. He got 12 months with all but a month suspended for that.

Santizo was ordered to be on good behavior for 10 years after he is released with supervised probation for three years. He was fined $1,000 and his driver's license was suspended indefinitely.

In another case, Shelly Fox, 31, of Chicken City Road on Chincoteague, was sentenced to three years each for three counts of felony uttering on Aug. 3, 5, and 7, 2015. All was suspended but a month each to run concurrently on the condition that Fox complete a diversion center program. She was also sentenced to three years each for credit card larceny, credit card fraud and two counts of credit card forgery in October 2015 for a total of 12 years with all but two months suspended. Good behavior was ordered for five years with supervised probation being ordered for three. Restitution of $760 to B&G Market and $340.45 to Walmart was also part of the sentence.

Travis Harris, 37, of Dreamland Avenue in Accomack, pleaded guilty to two counts of grand larceny of property belonging to Walmart on May 25, 2016. A presentence report was ordered.

An Onancock man was charged with felony distribution of marijuana Monday, according to records filed in Accomack General District Court.

Christopher Michael Strand, 20, of Pine Street in Onancock, is accused of selling more than a half-ounce, but less than five pounds, of marijuana and obstruction of justice, a misdemeanor.

Special Agent C. S. Wade of state police, who is head of the Eastern Shore Drug Task Force, investigated. Secured bail was set at $2,000.

In another case, Donald Edgar Godwin, 53, of Holland Road in New Church, was arrested Monday and charged with making a false statement on a voter registration form on Oct. 13, 2016. Unsecured bond was set at $2,500. Investigator C.A. McPherson of the ACSO handled the case.

Lamonty Demetris Johnson, 23, of Pearl Drive in New Church, was arrested on April 14, and charged with stealing a vehicle belonging to John Foster Jr. and malicious wounding on Oct. 23, 2016. He is being held without bond in Accomack Jail. Sgt. Anthony Bright of ACSO investigated.

Randolff Millien, a homeless 44-year-old, was charged with making a bomb threat on April 15. He was arrested the same day and is being held without bond. Deputy C. Hodgson of ACSO investigated. A May preliminary hearing was scheduled.

Davell A. Holden, 24, of Glen Avenue in Salisbury, Md., was arrested April 14, and charged with embezzling from Eastern Quality Vending. Unsecured bond was set at $2,500. Investigator Pat Coulter of ACSO handled the case. The incident occurred between Sept. 15, and Oct. 24, 2016.

Eastville Man Sentenced for Distributing Cocaine

An Eastville man was sentenced Monday in Northampton Circuit Court to a total of 12 years in prison for two counts of distributing cocaine.

All but time served was suspended for Anquian Deonte Ellis, 23. Commonwealth's Attorney Bruce Jones said Ellis spent about a year in jail. The offenses occurred in March 2015. The terms were set to run concurrently, which would have made six years with five suspended.

His driver's license was suspended for six months and he was placed on probation for three years.

Accomack Administrator Will Head Franklin Schools, Starting in June

By Linda Cicoira

Accomack County Public Schools (ACPS) will lose another administrator after the school year ends in June.

Tamara Sterling, the division's director of secondary education, was chosen late last week by the Franklin City School Board to be its next superintendent. The system is southwest of Hampton Roads and includes three schools. Sterling will leave ACPS on June 16 and start the new gig three days later.

"I will be forever grateful to the beautiful people of the Eastern Shore," she said Tuesday. "I've had a wonderful experience working with the Accomack County School Board, central office, staff, school-based personnel, students and parents. As I begin the next chapter in my professional career, I'm comforted by the lasting memories of the Shore that will always be with me."

Sterling told the Franklin board she was "extremely honored to be selected. My vision is to work collaboratively with the school board while leading teams of educators, students, parents and community members to move Franklin City Schools to the next level of success" She said further, "Franklin is a family-oriented, close-knit community and I'm looking forward to making it my home."

Sterling has been with ACPS since 2014. She was chosen by Franklin from among 29 applicants. Sterling has been in education for two decades; starting as a teacher and then being a principal in Rhode Island and Texas. She is enrolled in the doctoral program studying educational leadership at the University of New England and expects to graduate next month from the AADA Urban Superintendents' Leadership Academy held in partnership with Howard University.

Supervisors Hear Budget Requests

By Ron West

Norhampton School Superintendent Eddie Lawrence presented supervisors with a list of budget needs in a special budget session that included additional staffing from an uptick in enrollment and maintenance.

Lawrence indicated a need for two additional teachers at Ocohanock and one at Kiptopeke for the lower elementary grades. Two more positions are needed at the high school/middle school complex in Eastville.

Supervisor Granville Hogg questioned the superintendent regarding maintenance needs, especially at the 60-year old high school. Lawrence said safety items were being attended to, but with the possible replacement of the aging building on the horizon, it was difficult to justify a large capital outlay for a building that is nearing the end of its projected lifespan.

The floor covering in the multipurpose room at one school had been replaced and was being evaluated to see if it was cost effective as a replacement for the second school. The same was true of the floor coverings in the two schools' media centers.

Chairman Spencer Murray said the board would like to have a hearing at its May 22 meeting, with a final vote in June.

Stepdad Admits to April 1 Shooting

By Linda Cicotra

The New Church man charged with the second-degree murder of his stepson on April 1, admitted to the shooting death, according to a search warrant filed in Accomack Circuit Court.

Lonnie Medlin, 67, of Silverthorne Road, "was wearing a white T-shirt that contained a red stain shortly after the shooting," the search warrant stated. "Medlin confessed that he shot and killed the victim, Patrick Wescott," 44, also of New Church. "The T-shirt was collected from Medlin as evidence and will be sent to lab."

Wescott died of a gunshot wound to the torso, a spokesperson for the Norfolk Medical Examiner's office said Wednesday. The manner of death was homicide.

Groundbreaking for Chincoteague Fire Station
Chincoteague Volunteer Fire Company's Public Relations Officer and Chincoteague Island Vice Mayor Denise Bowden said the new fire station has been in the works for six years, and the new building should be complete in about 13 months, depending on the weather. When the new $4.3 million structure is completed it will be state of the art, with dedicated office space, bunk rooms and a new dining hall that can be rented for special events. Pictured are members of the company's building committee: Denise Bowden, Billy Joe Tarr, Ronnie Malone, J. Wesley Jeffries, Harry Thornton, Willis Dize, Nathan Clark, Eddie Thornton, Ollie Reed and Roe Terry.

Medlin was released from the county jail on a $5,000 secured bond about six days after the incident occurred. The bond agreement orders Medlin to refrain from using a firearm, destructive device, dangerous weapon, excessive alcohol or illegal drugs or controlled substances not prescribed by a health care provider, to maintain or seek employment and to not leave the Delmarva Peninsula.

An earlier story incorrectly identified Wescott's wife as Mary Wescott instead of Amy Wescott.

Whitley Formally Commits to Converse College's Division II Volleyball Team

By Krystle Bono

Nandua High School senior Emma Whitley signed her letter of intent to play volleyball at Converse College on Wednesday, April 12, in Onley.

Surrounded by her family, friends, coaches and teammates, Whitley formally committed to the Division II Converse team, which is located in Spartanburg, S.C., and is a private liberal arts university with an undergraduate women's college and co-ed graduate, online and summer programs.

Whitley chose Converse because among other choices, it gave her the most sense of home.

"I had visited other colleges, but when I got to Converse, it just felt like home. The coach immediately offered me a spot when I got there and they just treated me like family. It was like home away from home," said Whitley.

The future Valkyrie made the Eastern Shore All-District second team during her 2016 senior season and honorable mention during her junior year in 2015 under the direction of Head Coach Le'Andra Sabatino. During her last time on the court as a Warrior, she helped aid her team to an Eastern Shore All-District Championsip.

The intensity of the game is what draws Whitley to the sport, as well as the amount of teamwork that is involved in order to be successful on the court.

"It's the fast pace and teamwork [why I love volleyball]. I'm kind of like a leader on the team. I like to get everyone going. I don't like to see anybody down. It's just the determination in the game to never give up; to never let the ball touch the ground," reflects Whitley.

During Whitley's signing, she addressed all those in attendance with a heart-felt speech, thanking all those who have supported and encouraged her throughout her journey. One particular mention was her late uncle, Steven Kulick, who passed away this past November after a battle with cancer.

"My uncle passed away from cancer. He motivates me to do everything. I do everything for him."

Whitley also finds inspiration from professional and collegiate athletes, most notably, University of Southern California's (USC) senior outside hitter, Niki Withers.

"I look up to Niki Withers; she plays volleyball for USC, that's my top player," admits Whitley.

Whitley plans to pursue the Pre-P.A. Program during her undergraduate career at Converse.

The Eastern Shore Street Hockey League's (ESSHL) Super Junior Championship went to team Harambe after a tough round of championship games April 1 – 2 in Parksley.

Team Harambe Claims ESSHL Super Jr. Championship

Submitted Article

The word “Harambe” is Swahili for working and pulling together, and that is exactly what this amazing group of 8-12 year olds did to take the Super Junior ESSHL Championship over a tough Capitals team.

Harambe had a total of seven wins all season – four of those wins came after going to shootouts. They sat in fourth place heading into the playoff games April 1. Their coach, Zach Webb, made a few strategic team position adjustments and they took everyone by surprise in the playoff series.

They battled their way through six games of hockey, including three sudden death rounds to make it to the championship games April 2. In a best two-out-of-three game championship series, Harambe lost the first game, but came back to win the next two, to win it all.

Team players were Cabe Morgan, J.C. Morrison, Nathan Click, Logan Woermer, Lucas Woermer, Tommy Hart, Russ Parks, Colby Allen, Daniel Macca, and Jacob Morrison in goal.

Coach Webb and Assistant Coach Preston Shover, both first time coaches, were excited and so proud of how their team dug deep and pulled together to win the cup. Also helping out with coaching was C. J. Jones. All three have been playing in the league since they were 5 or 6 years old. Their love of the game was evident in their coaching style.

As a team, Harambe worked and pulled together to not only win the championship, but to give everyone watching an inspiring and exciting weekend of street hockey. Together you can accomplish anything!

The Nandua Warriors fell to Mardella last Friday, 7-6, after a crucial play teetered the scoreboard up in Mardella's favor in the eighth inning.

The teams were all tied up at six at the bottom of the eighth, as Mardella stepped up to the plate and hit a single, which would drive in the game-winning run for the Warriors' opponent.

Nandua collected eight hits, led by Emily Justis and Whitney Coulbourne who each went 2-for-4 and hit one RBI each. Kimberly Wert, Leah Truitt, Tyra BJORLO and Parker Murphy each notched a hit each. Truitt smashed a triple and BJORLO hit a double during a five-run fourth inning for the Warriors.

HITTING TOUGH OVERHEADS

The rule of thumb is to hit lobs in the air if possible, particularly if they would bounce in front of the service line. But if a lob is hit very high, or if you're in an awkward position to hit the overhead, it might be better to let the ball bounce before hitting it.

Also, it's generally a good idea to let the ball bounce if it lands deep in the court, if there are gusting winds, or if the sun is in your eyes.

By Linda Cicaira

In my world, keeping things simple is the best way to go. So when people start accepting what I consider “made up words,” it drives me crazy. My two prime examples are “signage” and “roadway.”

Hello out there, it is a “sign” and a “road.” And Webster pretty much agrees with me. The definition of signage is “signs or a system of such signs.” Why do we do this to ourselves? Just go ahead and call things what they are.

Some people actually submit their “made-up words” to the dictionary people. I’ve written about this before but since it always amazes me, I have to do it again. Check it out at nws.merriam-webster.com

Several of the words that were actually added recently, are among the silliest. “Listicle is an article consisting of a series of items presented as a list.” I hope you readers are getting my point.

“Truther: one who believes that the truth about an important subject or event is being concealed from the public by a powerful conspiracy.” A truther? Oh my, I must be one of those. Oh and there is one more. “Weak sauce: something inferior, ineffective, or unimpressive: something weak.” Oh whatever!

One of the suggestions that some crazy person submitted recently was “farmily” meaning a farming family. Really? It wasn’t accepted. Someone from Canada asked for “thungry” or being thirsty and hungry at the same time to be added to the dictionary. The sentence example was “I am thungry after playing a long game of soccer.” Please Krystle Bono, (the Eastern Shore Post’s sports writer), please don’t use it.

Another goofy submission for the dictionary was “sewist: a person who sews.” What happened to seamstress or tailor? Are they not suitable words? And instead of just saying a person was “tipsy,” the word, “intipsicated” could be used. Need I say more?

“Hyperportable: very portable: easy to transport,” was another submission. An example sentence was, “Today the truck man was able to end his shift early because he was hyperportable.”

The funniest one was “chibblings.” The word means “the children of one’s siblings: a person’s nieces and nephews.” And the crazies keep getting crazier. “Karmatic” is a result of karma. I would rather say, “It was a long time coming”

or “what goes around, comes around.”

How about “beardtastic?” Would you use this for a man who has the perfect facial hair? Or “chestical” for the front part of the body between the neck and the waist? I wouldn’t.

“Bancarized” is a person who has a bank account and “flipster” is a hipster who flips houses.

Another submission was “adultolence,” or an adult who acts like an adolescent. Come on, that person just wouldn’t be an adult.

I did find a favorite submission. “Pseudoword: a fake word; a string of letters that resembles a word but does not actually exist in the language.” That reminds me of what we used to call “plastic hippies” when I was a kid. That definition is a person who wanted to be a hippie but his or her mother wouldn’t allow it.

My favorite word is still “ort,” a scrap or remainder of food from a meal. Yippee!

Library Worth Investment

This letter was read aloud at Tuesday’s Northampton Board of Supervisors meeting.

Dear Editor:

Greetings from a veteran of our bookmobile era. Twenty years ago I addressed the Board concerning the fate of our aging unit which together with staff had been a godsend during very difficult times.

Occasionally my husband and I hungrily visited the Main & Eastern Shore Room. Two elderly patron friends, one a retired librarian, encouraged me to campaign for a replacement. Here, by the way, is an Aug. 29, 1957, Peninsula Enterprise photo of the new larger “Literary Truck” parked in Exmore. It was emblazoned with “FREE BOOKS FOR ALL.” The larger facility was made necessary by an unexpectedly large demand for books throughout the Shore.

Fast forward to 1997: Our campaign was a fun challenge, although ultimately technology won and Northampton now has two vibrant branch libraries.

Last year, Franktown native Cara Burton eagerly returned to the Shore as our library director to spearhead alongside the Library Foundation Board our long delayed next step forward. We could not be more fortunate.

Most of us recognize the need for a respectable bi-county library system. Witness the momentum well under way: During a short capital campaign last fall Northampton citizens’ generosity flourished — to the tune now of $40,000. Clearly your constituents have signaled strong support for our regional library.

Technology continues to rule, doesn’t it? Yet libraries are an evolving cornerstone of communities. They’re much more than books. They harbor life-long learning and training facilities, for free. Sadly — usually due to budget constraints — we shortchange them.

Our dedicated branch libraries and their many Friends who raised $6,000 (of the 40 above) await your commitment in order to continue serving us, especially those of all ages who are struggling. Technology will offer them increasingly more opportunities.

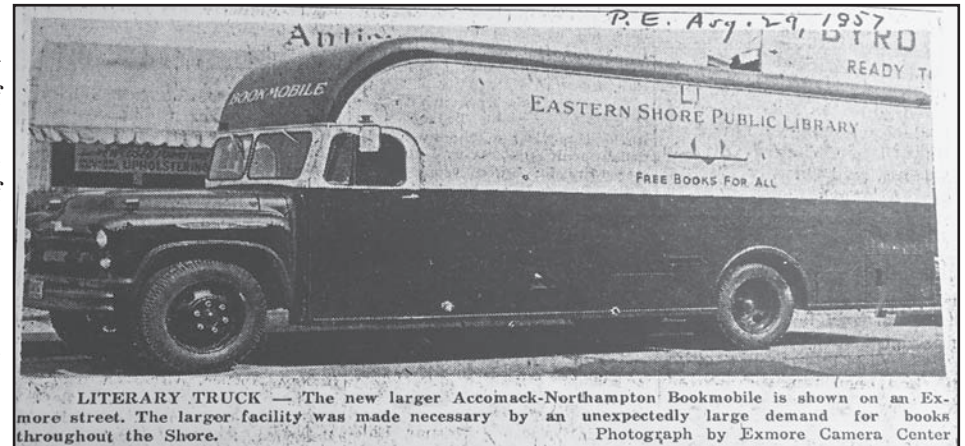

How does Northampton County benefit from the dollars budgeted annually? Roughly $4 per capita?

Please see the director’s analysis below. Usually one gets what one pays for, luckily we get more. But there’s a hitch. Conservative local funding hurts the state-aid formula (last item on her list). Therefore I strongly urge you to support our library. It will be 60 years young next year when we break ground.

Wendy Martin

- Benefits of technical services staff
- Costs of materials loaned to NFL and Cape Charles that are stored at Accomac and Chincoteague libraries
- Bookkeeping costs and payroll services
- Liability insurance
- Website administration
- Costs covered by state aid, of which the amount is based on a formula that includes local government support. As I mentioned earlier this year, the more local government funding we receive, the more state aid we receive, i.e. Virginia public libraries get “rewarded” when their local municipalities support them.
