NEW RAVENNA SOLD; BAYSHORE TO LAY OFF 100

By Connie Morrison

Northampton's two largest private employers are making headlines this week for very different reasons.

New Ravenna was sold to two of its executives and an Austin investment group, while Bayshore Concrete announced it was laying off 100 workers.

Bayshore spokesperson Mittie Rooney says 55 employees will be left at the Cape Charles location following the layoffs, which will happen between November and the early part of 2018.

Established to supply components for the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel, the plant recently geared up to supply bridge projects in the New York/New Jersey area, including the $1 billion Bayonne Bridge replacement project. At its peak, 350 worked on the project, according to a statement from Rooney. Before those contracts, employment at the plant was reported to have been around 50.

Skanska, Bayshore's parent company, was given about $1 million in state and local financial incentives to invest $4 million in the Cape Charles location to accommodate infrastructure needed for the recent projects.

The company is attempting to assist with placement of employees through referrals to workforce development offices and industry partners.

Exmore-based New Ravenna was sold to Chief Operating Officer Alex Potchatek and Chief Executive Officer Richard Walters, both relative newcomers — Potchatek started at New Ravenna in July 2014 and Walters in January 2016 — along with Rocky Point Ventures, a private family office with investments managed on behalf of the Loewenbaum family in Austin, Texas.

Shore native Sara Baldwin founded New Ravenna in 1991, and grew it into an international exporter of tile mosaics and one of the largest private employers in Northampton. The U.S. Small Business Administration Richmond Office named Baldwin as 2014 Exporter of the Year.

"Sara was looking for an opportunity to realize the value of the company and pursue more artistic and entrepreneurial endeavours," Walters said.

He pegged the number of employees at 90, but declined to comment on whether there would be employment changes as a result of the sale.

Details of the New Ravenna transaction were not disclosed, except to say it was an asset purchase. Walters would not reveal the purchase price.

Baldwin sold 100 percent of the company in the asset sale. "She will remain as a consultant," Walters said. "She has a great eye for picking up on what's on trend." Her role as creative director has

Townsend Guilty of Second-Degree Murder

By Linda Cicoira

He was only 17 and a rising high school junior when two witnesses said the Atlantic resident gunned down their friend, Nathaniel (Nate) Adam Ayres, over a $20 drug deal. Two others saw Zachary Isaiah Townsend, of Greta Road in Atlantic, with a firearm prior to the killing.

A jury deliberated the Aug. 12, 2016, case for nearly 35 minutes in Accomack Circuit Court Tuesday before finding Townsend guilty of second-degree murder, robbery and two firearm offenses.

Townsend, now 18, was treated as an adult. But due to his age at the time of the offense, the jury was not asked to recommend sentencing. That phase will be up to Judge W. Revell Lewis III. He ordered a presentence report and a social history. Lewis also tentatively set sentencing for the February 2018 term of court. Townsend was taken back to Accomack Jail.

The punishment for second-degree murder is between 5 and 40 years in prison. The jury could have chosen to convict Townsend of premeditated or first-degree murder, which carries a term of 20 years to life, and a possible fine of not more than $100,000. Ayres, 19, of Deer Drive in Nelsonia, was shot six times at close range with a revolver that was never recovered. Dr. Elizabeth Kinnison, an assistant medical examiner, determined Ayres died of gun shot wounds to the head, neck and torso.

One bullet entered Ayres' right temple and went through his scalp and face, lodging in his sinus, Kinnison testified. Another hit behind the right ear passing to the carotid artery and voice box. Ayres was also struck with gunfire in the back of the head and neck. An-

Governor McAuliffe Has Play Date at Wallops

Scientists are studying the impacts of major storms and sea-level rise on local barrier islands with aerial drones, ground-penetrating radar and autonomous underwater vehicles that collect data and unravel the past and present dynamics from the air, land and sea.

Students from Randolph-Macon College, William & Mary and the University of Delaware attended sessions with the Virginia Institute of Marine Science (VIMS) recently and helped explain and demonstrate their work to Gov. Terry McAuliffe and other dignitaries at the NASA Wallops Flight Facility last Friday.

The governor also got to try out the contraptions. The studies will be used to shape policies for coastal resilience.

“Virginia is leading the way to leverage new technologies to better protect key natural and economic assets like our coastline,” said McAuliffe. “We are collecting data that will provide greater insight into our coastline, demonstrating the transformative nature of these technologies, and highlighting the capabilities of this uniquely situated facility at Wallops.”

The colleges teamed up to conduct the preliminary study or pilot for a larger, more comprehensive investigation of the coastal zone of Assateague, Chincoteague and Wallops islands, formerly known as the Integrated Barrier Island Systems Project. The area is among the most dynamic on the East Coast. The study is also being conducted under the auspices of the Mid-Atlantic Coastal Resilience Institute.

“The science team is taking an unprecedented approach to informing coastal resilience by using cutting-edge manned and unmanned technologies in a way that will vastly magnify our understanding of the ever-changing coastline,” said Secretary of Technology Karen Jackson. “This study demonstrates the impact emerging technologies and collaboration can have on scientific discovery and problem solving. This is exactly the type of activity we want to see more of here on the Mid-Atlantic Regional Unmanned Aircraft Systems Airfield.”

Gov. Terry McAuliffe takes an autonomous vehicle for a spin. Riding with him is a University of Delaware professor.

New Tunnel Brings Closure of Chesapeake Grill and Gift Shop

For more than 40 years, travelers across the Chesapeake Bay had the unique opportunity to stop in the middle of their shore-to-shore crossings for an over-the-bay dining experience that will likely never be recaptured. While the fishing pier will be re-opened to the public in approximately five years, when the parallel tunnel at Thimble Shoal opens, plans to rebuild the restaurant and gift shop with additional parking and access ramps were scrapped due to prohibitive costs – roughly a quarter of a billion dollars.

It was officially announced that access to Island One, including the fishing pier, restaurant and adjoining gift shop, would close Sept. 30 to make way for construction beginning on Oct. 1, but it was not widely reported that the restaurant and gift shop would serve their last customers nearly a week early so that owners Chris and Kelsen Savvides could remove all equipment from the building by the Sept. 30 deadline.

The news of the Chesapeake Grill's permanent closing, a great "disappointment" to the Savvides, arrived about 18 months ago. Though they are reluctant to bid farewell to this "jewel on the bridge tunnel," as Chris Savvides called it, they "feel lucky that we've been able to participate here" and believe they "fulfilled district expectations" for the one-of-a-kind business they ran since 2010.

The Savvides first heard about the proposal for the unique business opportunity through their trade association in 2009. Formerly the Sea Gull Pier, the Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel District sought to renovate the restaurant and re-open it under new management. The Savvides' business concept was approved, and the Chesapeake Grill restaurant and Virginia Originals gift shop opened about a year later.

Chris Savvides is a career restaurateur, born and raised in Virginia Beach, where he worked in his father's restaurant, the Black Angus, since the age of 13. Savvides attended college in Charlottesville, where he earned a degree in management and economics, and met his future wife, Kelsen. Savvides worked in restaurant management in Charlottesville until he moved back to Virginia Beach, with wife Kelsen at his side, around 1997.

Savvides returned to work at the Black Angus, helping his father, who was thinking of retiring, although as Kelsen Savvides pointed out, "When you're great, you never retire." The elder Savvides was constantly in and out of the restaurant. Now 87 and no longer a licensed driver, he would still show up to work every day if he were able. "That was his baby, no matter how much I got involved," Chris Savvides said. The Chesapeake Grill was Chris and Kelsen Savvides' baby. When you're "intimately involved" in your business that you "start from scratch," the Savvides reflected, "It makes an indelible mark."

That indelible mark is embellished with the Savvides' memories of watching through the windows of the Chesapeake Grill, overlooking the bay, observing the beauty of both nature and man. They witnessed an array of wonders from mere "yards away," including whales and harbor seals, visitors fishing off the pier, and passing submarines and military vessels. "I don't think anyone will realize what they had until it's gone," Chris Savvides said.

The Savvides have secured a location at the CBBT's northern visitor's center for a new gift shop, and may consider operating food trucks nearby during the summer. They will continue to run the Black Angus in Virginia Beach. The Savvides are appreciative that the Chesapeake Grill "was a good opportunity ... we learned lessons we will have wherever we go. ... We were part of history."

Sanford Site Under Investigation for Illegal Dumping

By Linda Cicaira

Accomack Supervisor Paul Muhly, of District 4, was familiarizing himself with his territory soon after taking office last year. He was “riding the roads,” checking drainage and visiting constituents. Muhly drove down Shad Landing Road in Sanford, saw and smelled the fresh marsh air, and then noticed debris that was piled up in a parcel as the road made a sharp turn.

He knew there was something terribly wrong. “I thought it was a clear violation, between the dumping and the Chesapeake Bay Act” regulations, Muhly said. He could see the bay from the state road. There was metal, lumber, drywall pieces and a few tires. “Trash that belonged in the landfill, not in that location,” Muhly said.

He started asking around and learned it had been going on for a long time. That didn’t settle quite right with him. When he went back sometime later, to visit someone in Saxis, he drove down the dead end road again. This time, “the amount of trash was 10 times and tires — dozens easily — were burning and not just smoking. They were burning with flames,” he said.

Muhly called 9-1-1. Deputy Tom Willett, of Accomack’s Code Enforcement Division, was nearby and responded to the scene. He, in turn, called for firefighters and the unit from Saxis came to extinguish the blaze. It was May 4, 2017.

The next day, Willett sent photos of the site to the Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ). On May 9, 2017, Willett returned with two DEQ officers.

“He stepped up to the plate and he initiated this and I’d like to see him get the credit,” Muhly said of Willett. “He followed up with it and pulled in the state agencies. If he hadn’t done it, it would still be there, languishing for years.”

While the three officers were there, the owner, Lance Godwin Fisher, drove up in a dump truck with more debris, the supervisor said. “Stuff,” Muhly said, he had gotten from Chincoteague.

During the visit, according to a DEQ investigation report, Fisher “arrived driving a dump truck labeled ‘Fisher’s Environmental.’ Mr. Fisher spoke to Deputy Willett and the on-site representatives from the DEQ. It was explained to Mr. Fisher that the property was not permitted as a dump site for solid wastes. Mr. Fisher provided the DEQ with his contact information and expressed that he had dumped the material because it was his property.”

Last month, the DEQ sent Fisher a notice of violation. “This letter notifies you of information upon which the department ... may rely in order to institute an administrative or judicial enforcement action. Based on this information, DEQ has reason to believe that you ... may be in violation of the Virginia Waste Management Act ... and the Virginia Solid Waste Management Regulations."

"During the site visit there was a large, approximately 100 feet to 250 feet by 5 to 10 feet tall, accumulation of construction demolition debris, waste tires, estimated at over 100, and other material observed to be deposited in piles on the site. Also observed were multiple, 5 to 6 piles, of freshly and previously burned construction demolition debris and tires. Review of DEQ record indicate that Lance G. Fisher ... LLC has not been acknowledge by DEQ as operating a solid waste management facility under a permit-by-rule nor has" the corporation "obtained a full permit in accordance with Virginia Solid Waste Management Regulations or Virginia code for the storage, treatment and/or disposal of solid waste" for the parcel in question.

The letter noted four code sections that were allegedly violated. As for enforcement authority, an injunction for any violation of the Waste Management Act, regulations or permits conditions could call "for a civil penalty of up to $32,500 per day of each violation ... up to $100,000."

The agency also noted in the letter that "DEQ staff wishes to discuss all aspect of their observations ... including any actions needed to ensure compliance ... any relevant or related measures you plan to take or have taken and a schedule as needed for further activities."

A consent order to formalize a plan and schedule corrective action has not yet been issued.

"We are currently in the middle of our enforcement process," Russell Deppe, a DEQ regional enforcement specialist, said Monday. He said Fisher has "been receptive to our calls. We are drawing up our enforcement. We're probably a month out."

He was asked about debris near the bay at Fisher's old oyster house just down the road. "We haven't inspected it, down by the water," he said. "Typically what we do is inspect our permitted facilities" or "if we have evidence or some kind of a ... complaint. I am not certain we have received" that complaint. "That has not reached my level."

Deppe said he could not say more until the consent order was issued.

An email from Deppe to Willett sent Monday states, "I conducted a site visit on Sept. 6, and spoke to the Fishers immediately after. The pile of solid waste remained on-site, but there was no evidence of recent burning. The Fishers stated that they were developing a plan to remove the waste, but as of now nothing has been submitted. I am currently drafting our enforcement plan and consent order and will keep you posted as this develops."

Fisher was not at the site when a reporter visited. Phone calls to Fisher Environmental were not returned.

Fisher's Environmental, of Delmar, Md., was recently mentioned at a board of supervisors meeting as the company

Services that were listed were asbestos abatement, mold remediation, lead paint abatement, demolition services, water damage restoration, fire damage restoration, duct cleaning, air quality control, wet crawl space solutions, haz-

Theft of Property

Felony charges were brought against two men and three other cases were settled in Accomack General District Court this week.

According to court records, April Lynn Pruitt, 40, of Hallwood, was convicted of petty larceny in connection with the theft of property belonging to Bruttani-Lee Selert on July 3, 2017.

She was initially charged with grand larceny. Pruitt was sentenced to 98 days in jail with all but eight days suspended. She was also fined $150.

A charge of felony hit and run was dismissed against Arely Rivera-Velaquez, 26, of Angel Drive in Parksley, in connection with a July 25 traffic crash.

Dimas Ramirez Velaquez, of Accomack, was convicted of misdemeanor possession of false identification. He was sentenced to 96 days in jail with all but six days suspended. He initially was charged with felony forging public records on Aug.

11, 2017. Velaquez was also fined $150.

Brandan James McGee, 23, of New Church, and Kevin Wayne Johnson, 24, of Chincoteague, were each charged with possession of a Schedule I or II drug on Sept. 14, 2017. Both men were arrested the next day. Deputy K. A. Reese investigated. Preliminary hearings are set for November.

Felonies for Three

Three Eastern Shore men were convicted of felony charges in Northampton Circuit Court this week.

Lewis Andrew Daggins, 48, of Hare

Valley Trail in Exmore, pleaded guilty to credit card theft and fraud that occurred in January and February 2017.

Anthony Davis, 24, of Daugherty Road in Accomack, pleaded guilty to possession with intent to distribute cocaine on Oct. 12, 2016.

Quincy Deshawn Washington, 37, of Cheriton Cross Road in Cheriton, pleaded guilty to two counts of possession with intent to distribute oxycodone on Feb. 6, 2017 and June 20, 2016.

All three cases were continued pending completion of a presentence report.

Workshop Helps Cape Charles Prepare for Flooding

By Stefanie Jackson

Research indicates that Virginia's southern coastal region faces greater risk from sea level rise than anywhere else on the east coast. This summer, a dozen Cape Charles community leaders and residents attended a coastal resilience workshop where they learned about the RAFT (Resilience Adaptation Feasibility Tool), designed to assess and develop coastal communities' resilience to the impacts of flooding.

The workshop was conducted by Michelle Covi, of Old Dominion University, and Elizabeth Andrews, of the Virginia Institute of Marine Science, both members of the Virginia Sea Grant, a "multi-university organization that advances the ecological, economic, and social sustainability and resilience of Virginia's coastal and ocean ecosystems and the communities that depend on them." They presented a recap of the RAFT workshop to Cape Charles town council Sept. 21.

At the workshop, Covi and Andrews used a RAFT scorecard to outline the town's strengths and weaknesses regarding flooding resilience, and with the help of participants, drafted a checklist of goals the town would like to achieve within the next year to improve related legislation and policy, communication and education, community engagement and action, and emergency preparedness for flooding. The top three priorities for developing coastal resilience in Cape Charles, chosen by the 12 workshop attendees, were: educating town council on flooding and coastal resilience, developing a coastal resilience council or commission, and compiling a coastal resilience FAQ for the town's website.

Ideas for raising Cape Charles' emergency preparedness which would take longer than a year to develop included establishing an emergency medical facility in town for all residents, with particular concern for the aging population, and arranging a partnership with STAR transportation to assist residents evacuating during emergencies at no cost.

The RAFT multi-university organization will provide ongoing technical assistance to Cape Charles as it works toward its coastal resilience goals, and help the town acquire funding for the project.

Council member Dora Sullivan mentioned the town once had an "in-house emergency plan," and asked her fellow council members if anyone remembered what happened to it. She said the town owned a generator and had designated the firehouse — which had a working siren at the time — as an emergency meeting place. The plan had designated essential personnel who could help evacuate residents who are elderly, don't drive, or would otherwise be disadvantaged during an emergency.

Police chief Jim Pruitt responded that the firehouse wouldn't work as a meeting place and a siren would not be necessary.

Council member Joan Natali recommended scheduling a work session over the winter during which a town-wide emergency plan could be discussed in preparation for the following spring and summer.

Wendy Walker, president of the Garden Club of the Eastern Shore, announced that Cape Charles would be the focus of the club's annual Eastern Shore of Virginia House and Garden Tour on April 28, 2018. There will be six homes featured on the tour, three in town and three in Bay Creek. About 1,000 people attend the annual event, but interest is so high in the upcoming Cape Charles tour that attendance is anticipated to double. Walker said the club's guidebook reaches 80,000 people.

The Cape Charles Main Street Affiliate Program was formed earlier this year to preserve the town's history and restructure its downtown economy. The town qualified for the program previously but lacked the necessary paperwork. Council member Andy Bucholz recommended replacing the existing 501(c)(3) to give the program a "clean slate."

The town renewed their $500,000 line of credit with Xenith Bank, reserved for working capital. The credit line has never been used, but is available in case of an emergency.

Storm Leaves Slim Pickings for Parking at Assateague

By Linda Cicaira

The rough surf from passing hurricanes has caused parking lots at Assateague Beach to be closed.

An employee of the Chincoteague National Wildlife Refuge gave a report while watching water washing over Parking Lot 2 during the high tide Wednesday. "It's pretty rough," she said. "Right now there is a double flag warning" prohibiting swimming.

As one travels up towards the beach, the parking lot to the left, Parking Lot 1, is open for visitors. To the immediate right, Parking Lot 2, was closed.

"The surf is calming down," the worker said. "Right now they are not going to be able to work on it for several days or it will ruin clay base underneath." She assured a reporter that two parking lots would be open during the winter.

Parking Lots 3 and 4, which are to the right of Parking Lot 2, were also closed due to flooding. Limited parking is available in Parking Lot #1 and along Beach Road near the Toms Cove Visitor Center.

"Lifeguards will be on duty through Saturday," the worker said. Visitors should check with lifeguards before going in the water. After Saturday there will be no lifeguards on duty until next year.

Walters said he and Potchatek did not sign on at New Ravenna with a buyout in mind. "I wish I could say it was that strategic," he said. The pieces came together at the right time, including investment partner Rocky Point Ventures.

"We felt they had the right perspective," including a long-term, 25-year outlook. "We didn't want to partner with someone who wanted to think about selling in the next five years," said Walters.

That's important because the growth strategy he and Potchatek have set in motion continues to build on the artistic traditions established by Baldwin.

"We're one of the few companies in the U.S. that can do it all — from design to manufacturing of surface products, said Walters. "This is especially true of the hand-crafted mosaics we make. We intend to build on the unique capability that our workforce in Exmore provides."

"New Ravenna will continue to flourish, and I will remain as proud as the day I sold my first mosaic, 27 years ago," said Baldwin in a prepared release.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC OF AN APPLICATION BY AQUA
VIRGINIA, INC., FOR AN INCREASE IN RATES
CASE NO. PUR-2017-00082

Aqua Virginia, Inc., has applied for approval to increase its water and sewer rates to produce an increase in water revenues of $1,488,998 and in wastewater revenues of $399,069.

A Hearing Examiner appointed by the Commission will hear the case on April 24, 2018, at 10 a.m.

Further information about this case is available on the SCC website at: <http://www.scc.virginia.gov/case>.

On August 1, 2017, Aqua Virginia, Inc. ("Aqua Virginia" or "Company"), filed an application with the State Corporation Commission ("Commission") for an increase in water and sewer rates ("Application"). Aqua Virginia filed the Application pursuant to Chapter 10 of Title 56 of the Code of Virginia ("Code") and the Commission's Rules Governing Utility Rate Applications and Annual Informational Filings.

The Company requests authority to increase rates for water and sewer service to produce an increase in water revenues of $1,488,998 and in wastewater revenues of $399,069. According to Aqua Virginia, the proposed rate increase would constitute an 11.0% increase in the Company's water revenues and a 5.4% increase in wastewater revenues. The Company asserts that a capital structure consisting of 49.95% long-term debt and 50.05% common equity and an authorized return on equity capital of 10.60% are appropriate for rate making in this proceeding.

In addition to the revenue increases, the Company requests authorization to make changes to the Rules and Regulations of its tariff. These changes include: (1) a new section regarding controls on substances disposed of into the wastewater system; and (2) elimination of sewer volumetric allowances or portable hand-held irrigation deduction meters.

Through its Application, Aqua Virginia also seeks to combine two of the water rate groups and create one new water rate group and one new wastewater rate group for several of the recently-acquired systems, while reducing the differences between the Company's rate groups to continue the approved progress toward uniform consolidated rates for water and sewer service in accordance with the Commission's policy of gradualism in adjustment of rates.

Additionally, Aqua Virginia seeks authorization to implement a water and wastewater infrastructure service charge ("WWISC"). The Company asserts it has made substantial investments in water and wastewater infrastructure in the Commonwealth, including significant efforts to replace mains and other aging infrastructure that have reached the end of their useful lives. The Company explains that to achieve its goal of a 100-year replacement rate on aging infrastructure, it will be required to request even larger and more frequent base rate increases. The Company requests the WWISC to plan for and recover capital investments on a timely basis. Aqua Virginia asserts that the WWISC would ensure that the Commission continues to exercise the same or a greater level of review of such investments and their incorporation into rates, but through a streamlined and focused process, leading to smaller and more gradual increases in rates. The Company asks that the Commission approve the proposed WWISC to be effective February 1, 2019, following the close of the rate year used in this Application. Aqua Virginia asserts that no investments that are incorporated into the Company's proposed base rate increase in this proceeding would be included in the proposed WWISC.

Interested persons are encouraged to review the Application and supporting documents for the details of these and other proposals. While the total revenue that may be approved by the Commission is limited to the amount produced by the Company's proposed rates, TAKE NOTICE that the Commission may approve revenues and adopt rates, fees, charges, tariff revisions, and terms and conditions of service that differ from those appearing in the Application and supporting documents and may apportion revenues among customer classes and/or design rates in a manner differing from that shown in the Application and supporting documents.

The Commission has suspended Aqua Virginia's proposed rates, charges, and terms and conditions of service, pursuant to § 56-238 of the Code. The Company may, but is not obligated to, implement proposed rates, charges, and terms and conditions for service rendered on and after February 10, 2018, on an interim basis, subject to refund with interest.

The Commission entered an Order for Notice and Hearing that, among other things, scheduled a public hearing to commence at 10 a.m. on April 24, 2018, in the Commission's Second Floor Courtroom, Tyler Building, 1300 East Main Street, Richmond, Virginia 23219, for the purpose of receiving comments from members of the public and evidence related to the Application. Any person desiring to make a statement at the public hearing need only appear in the Commission's Second Floor Courtroom prior to 9:45 a.m. on the day of the hearing and identify himself or herself to the Commission's Bailiff.

Copies of the Application and the Commission's Order for Notice and Hearing may be obtained by submitting a written request to counsel for the Company, John K. Byrum, Jr., Esquire, Woods Rogers PLC, Riverfront Plaza, West Tower, 901 East Byrd Street, Suite 1550, Richmond, Virginia 23219. If acceptable to the requesting party, the Company may provide the documents by electronic means. Copies of these documents also shall be available for interested persons to review in the Commission's Document Control Center, located on the First Floor of the Tyler Building, 1300 East Main Street, Richmond, Virginia 23219, between the hours of 8:15 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, excluding holidays. Interested persons also may download unofficial copies from the Commission's website: <http://www.scc.virginia.gov/case>.

Any interested person may participate as a respondent in this proceeding by filing, on or before January 16, 2018, a notice of participation. If not filed electronically, an original and fifteen (15) copies of the notice of participation shall be submitted to Joel H. Peck, Clerk, State Corporation Commission, c/o Document Control Center, P.O. Box 2118, Richmond, Virginia 23218-2118. Anyone filing a notice of participation simultaneously shall serve a copy of the notice of participation on counsel to the Company at the address set forth above. Pursuant to Rule 5 VAC 5-20-80 B, Participation as a respondent, of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 5 VAC 5-20-10 et seq. ("Rules of Practice"), any notice of participation shall set forth: (i) a precise statement of the interest of the respondent; (ii) a statement of the specific action sought to the extent then known; and (iii) the factual and legal basis for the action. Interested persons shall refer in all of their filed papers to Case No. PUR-2017-00082.

Teacher Shows Students They Are More Than Test Scores

By Connie Morrison

For Metompkin Elementary School, Accomack County's most ethnically and linguistically diverse school — and the only school in district to not make accreditation this year — scores on state-mandated test scores resulted in the school being labeled as “underperforming.”

Yet test scores are cold measures of a school's heartbeat. They don't tell about the connections made between students, parents and teachers, or the extra lengths teachers go to help their students learn — teachers like second grade Metompkin teacher Corinne Vincent.

Last fall, Vincent asked her students what they did over the summer and heard typical replies of, “I slept” or “I played video games.”

This year Vincent was determined to make sure some students returned in the fall with meaningful experiences. There is ample evidence that students who engage in summer enrichment don't experience the “summer slide,” or a loss of the achievement gained in the previous school year.

She hatched “Wonderful Wednesdays,” an enrichment program staged in her back yard and free or low-cost destinations. Ten families signed on, with students ages 5 to 15.

Vincent attended a professional development class at the Nature Conservancy in late June, which came with a $600 stipend, and she launched the program the following week using the stipend as seed money to offset costs. Vincent and her daughter, Amy Vincent, who is a substitute teacher, with the help of some other Metompkin staff members, provided transportation, food and activities for the dozen or so students in each session.

Playing Battleship and climbing on a swing set in Vincent's back yard, along with visits to NASA, the beach, Toms Cove and the Salisbury Zoo, were among the experiences students had this summer. “I was able to use what I learned at the Nature Conservancy,” said Vincent.

Vincent also glimpsed the home settings of some of her students. She held babies, changed diapers, and sat in the living rooms of her students' families. “It's eye opening, and now I have so much more compassion for these kids,” she said, a result that has her encouraging other teachers to make home visits.

The initial Wonderful Wednesday program was expanded to Fridays because some students were in summer school. Nineteen children participated in the final outing to the zoo. Vincent spent the $600, $100 donated by a parent, and an undisclosed amount of her own money on the camp.

It was worth it to her. A student attending just one day a week for six weeks would have logged 42 hours away from the television and away from video games, with most of the time spent outdoors. Some attended both days each week.

What makes Vincent's effort even more remarkable is she did it without the approval or knowledge of her principal or the school district administration.

Principal Belinda Rippon said she was vaguely aware of what was going on, but wasn't fully informed until it was almost over. “I didn't want to ask too many questions,” she said, because she didn't want Vincent to be encumbered by bureaucratic roadblocks.

“I did this completely outside the realm of school,” Vincent told Accomack School Board members at their Sept. 19 meeting. “I was afraid to ask permission because I was afraid that somebody would say ‘no.’”

Vincent used disclaimers that made it clear she was striking out on her own and the program was not sponsored or endorsed by Accomack County Public Schools.

The school board recognized her efforts with a certificate of appreciation.

“You put a lot of time in all this, and we appreciate it. Dr. [Rhonda] Hall has been bragging on you,” said Superintendent Chris Holland as he handed Vincent her certificate on behalf of the school board.

One of Vincent's teaching strengths is making real-life connections for her students in a way “that helps to build conceptual knowledge,” said Rippon.

Another is helping students get excited about learning. “It's why we get into teaching - to see students light up and grow,” said Rippon. She is confident those strengths will translate into improved test scores next year, especially as Vincent shares strategies with other teachers.

Already looking forward to the lessons next summer will bring, students stop by Vincent's room in the morning asking, “What are we doing next summer, Mrs. Vincent?”

“This turned out to be something bigger than I had ever imagined,” said Vincent. “I hope that I can get more involvement next year and some other teachers and maybe even a bus donated.”

The school has a saying, “Metompkin strong,” a reminder to students that they are more than labels like “underperforming.” Teachers like Vincent let them know they are worth investing in.

other bullet entered the front of his left shoulder and down into the ribs and back. Kinnison said a blunt force laceration, found on the side of the victim's head, was not consistent with a fall.

Commonwealth's Attorney Spencer

Morgan called the incident a "tragic horrible situation; one driven by fear." The prosecutor said, "The motive is clear, he wanted to do a robbery."

Defense lawyer Paul Watson claimed Morgan deliberately removed black jurors from the jury pool so that his client, who is also black, would not get a fair trial. Watson also argued with all the conflicting stories and no weapon, the evidence was insufficient.

Morgan said he crossed off one juror because she had not made arrangements for her children for later in the day, which he said would have worried his wife. Another black woman was struck because she was retired and Morgan said he couldn't be sure if she spent her time watching crime dramas on television.

Lewis was satisfied with the explanation. There were two black men and one black woman on the jury. The rest were white. Seven of the 12 jurors were women. There was no alternate selected because the trial was only scheduled for one day.

The shooting started inside a pick-up truck where four teenagers were seated. Jeremiah Thompson said he was on the driver's side behind the victim when Townsend did the shooting. The vehicle belonged to the victim's grandparents.

Noah Mackey said he was behind Townsend on the back seat when the shooting started. Initially he said Thompson shot Ayres. He later hired lawyer Tucker Watson, the defense lawyer's brother. He signed a bargain with Morgan for immunity against charges of lying to police and accessory to murder in exchange for his testimony against Townsend.

Ayres, Mackey and Thompson were looking to buy marijuana at nearly midnight when Mackey suggested they pick up Townsend. They parked and waited for him at a nearby unoccupied house at the intersection of Greta and Nock's Landing roads, as Townsend instructed.

Thompson, who said Ayres was his best friend, testified that Townsend told them not to come to his house because "cops were down that way." After the defendant arrived, he "pulled out what was supposed to be marijuana. Nate said it looked like spice" (a mixture of shredded plant material and manmade chemicals with mind-altering effects) known as synthetic marijuana or fake weed and that he wasn't buying.

Townsend pulled out the gun. "He pointed it at Nate (Ayres) and said he was going to kill him and his friends if he didn't get the money," Thompson said. Ayres continued to refuse. Ayres "tried to fight the gun out of his hands." After the shooting started, the two got out of the front seats. Thompson said he and Mackey managed to get out and he fled.

"I couldn't hear anything because of the ringing in my ears," Thompson said, then adding that he heard the victim yell for help "but it was muffled." He ran to a nearby house so someone would call authorities. "I saw Zach coming down the street ... he had more hair than he has today." Thompson kept running and knocking on doors until he made it to the highway where police picked him up.

A Temperanceville man called 9-1-1 that night and said someone was at his door saying that there had been a shooting. There was also a recording of Townsend talking to a dispatcher.

Mackey testified Townsend told him he was going to try to rip Ayres off. "I had a bad feeling ... when Zach arrived, I told him not to do anything stupid." Mackey said he answered,

"Don't worry about it. Don't tell me what to do."

After Ayres said he wasn't buying, Townsend "put the gun to Nate's face and said, I'm going to need the money." After the shooting started and Mackey got out of the vehicle, he said he could see Ayres through the doors. "Nate's arm was bleeding. He was telling me to call 9-1-1. I was reaching for the phone. Zach kept yelling for the money.

I froze up ... Zach was demanding the money and he shot him one more time. He kept going for the money. Nate took out his wallet and he threw it on the driver's seat. I started to leave ... I heard more yelling and one more shot go off. Zach yelled my name ... so I stopped ... I asked if he had killed him, and he said, 'Yeah. I shot him in the head.'"

The two walked towards Townsend's house. They talked about blaming Thompson and calling 9-1-1. Townsend said he would call. Mackey started walking towards his home in Watts-ville. When questioned by police, Mackey said he lied at first. "I didn't want Zach to be in trouble because he was my friend at the time."

Police found Ayres' body lying next to the truck. The front doors were both open. No one else was around.

James Pruitt and several others went to Townsend's house the next night to retrieve Pruitt's speaker. Pruitt said Townsend told them about the death. "All he was saying was there was so much blood," said Pruitt. He said there was "blood on my clothes, the money, Nate's money, Nate's vapes and the truck. He said he changed his clothes. We were all freaking out and trying to put the pieces together. We all started to realize the truth that Zach had killed him."

Pruitt said he saw Townsend with a black 6-shooter three days before the murder and the defendant said he wanted to commit robbery. Pruitt's girlfriend, Lorelei Young, also testified she saw Townsend with the gun.

Townsend denied committing the crimes and blamed Thompson. The defendant said he got into the back seat of the truck. "We were all going to put our money together. Then Jeremiah pulled out a gun. He started waving it around. He asked for our money. Nate said he wasn't going to give it. Jeremiah shot him. The defendant also testified that earlier in the day he had been drinking beer and had taken eight Klonopin (a drug used for panic disorders and seizures in epilepsy).

Outside the courtroom, the victim's grandmother said she had learned about Townsend's use of spice and warned her grandson about associating with him. She said the truck they were in that night belonged to her and her husband. She wants the ultimate penalty for Townsend.

Before his death, Ayres was indicted on counts of possession with the intent to distribute oxycodone, possession with intent to distribute a controlled substance, distribution of a controlled substance to a minor, and two counts of possession with intent to distribute a controlled substance while on public school property. He was free on $10,000 bail when he was killed.

Eastern Shore Rural Health Passes Million Dollar Mark

Eastern Shore Rural Health CEO Nancy Stern (left) along with Eastville Capital Campaign Chair George McMath and Campaign Vice Chair Kristin Webb have spearheaded the campaign in support of the new Eastville Community Health Center, which has raised more than half of its $2 million goal.

The campaign for Eastern Shore Rural Health System Inc.'s new Eastville Community Health Center has passed the halfway mark with well over $1 million having been raised. The 24,000-plus square-foot facility in Eastville will be double the size of the existing Franktown and Bayview centers which will be combined.

Last year at the two Northampton County centers, there were a total of 33,904 visits and with the anticipated growth in demand for health services, the larger facility will be needed.

“What an amazing outpouring of Eastern Shore support this capital campaign has yielded. We are thrilled to have raised well over half of our community goal of $2 million,” remarked Eastern Shore Rural Health CEO Nancy Stern.

The Eastville center will be a state-of-the-art medical and dental facility and has been designed for maximum efficiency. It is being built for 10 medical providers, three dentists, plus dental hygienists, nurses, and support staff. One of its many attributes is that it will have digital x-ray which has the capability of providing doctors with a radiology report within 20 minutes, and this will assist in developing the appropriate plan for caring for the needs of patients.

“When the doors open in 2019, thousands upon thousands of our citizens will be the beneficiaries of the new facility,” said campaign chair George N. McMath.

Nandua Youth Gets Bid to Europe's Premier Soccer League

By Krystle Bono

When 12-year-old Odin Bolster went to soccer training camp over his summer vacation in Pittville, Md., he never imagined he would be planning a trip to England to play the sport he has been passionate about since the tender age of five.

Bolster has participated in travel leagues, and got his soccer start with local coach, Paul Nolz. A student at Nandua Middle, Bolster took the opportunity to learn and sharpen his skills with the Matrix Soccer Academy. This would be his first year with the program – and one that, according to his family, has opened doors they never imagined would be possible.

The camp, created by Charlie Jackson, of Scotland, was envisioned to be an organization for youth soccer players that would develop and enhance their skills. Jackson, along with Coach Bryan Watson, who also serves as the North American and U.S. President for the Matrix Soccer Academy, extended the invitation for Bolster to play in Manchester on his very first day.

With a two-week soccer intensive on the horizon, the Bolster's have been vigorously preparing for the trip, which will also be Bolster's first venture out of the country.

"I am really excited. It was really exciting [to get the invitation]. I didn't really know what to say or how to act," says Bolster, who also added that his dad, Andy, is his biggest supporter.

The young athlete has his eyes on attending Virginia Tech post high school, and if a career as a professional soccer player does not work out, he plans to become a doctor.

Fishing from the Shore

By Bill Hall

Although both flounder and speckled trout improved over the last week, it is the red drum fishery that generated the most interest and the most catches along the length of the Eastern Shore.

Known by many names such as channel bass, redfish, or spottail bass; red drum ranging in size from 16" puppies to 50+" bulls were landed or beached from the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel up to the Maryland/Virginia state line on both the bay and seaside.

Unfortunately, offshore fishing was still pretty much nonexistent but subsidizing seas from the remnants of Hurricane Maria could jumpstart the white marlin and yellowfin fishery that has been out of reach for most of the last month.

Chincoteague – Donna Rae, of Captain Bob's Marina, reported that the north side of Queen Side has produced more flounder during the past week than she had seen all summer! Most of the flounder were hitting plain 2/0 hooks adorned with a single bull minnow. Flounder were running 17-23 inches in length. The south side of Queen Sound produced a good catch of 12-14" kingfish (whiting). Snapper bluefish were hitting inside the Chincoteague Channel. A few keeper flounder and even a puppy drum landed from the town's public pier at the old draw bridge location. The Tom's Cove pier has also produced keeper flounder to 23 inches over the last week. Undersized rockfish (striped bass) have been hitting around the bridge pilings. Puppy drum have been biting in the surf despite the large waves. The best action has been occurring to the south and requires a long trek by foot if you don't have a four wheel drive permit.

Wachapreague – No action was reported as the offshore fleet continued to remain idle in the marinas due to the recent high seas. Puppy drum catches were being made inside a few of the local creeks by anglers fishing cut and live bait as well as casting and slowly retrieving Berkley Swimming Mullet. Double digit bycatches of undersized striped bass to 22 inches were being made on baits intended for the puppies. A few keeper flounder were also found when the water cleared. Catches of puppy drum and undersized striped bass have also been made inside of Gargathy Inlet.

Lower Shore – Chris, at Chris' Bait & Tackle, reported that the catch and release fishery for large red drum was still "real good" at the Shoals on both sides of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel where young Mate Tardi of Oakton, Va., released a 48" citation fish. Flounder catches were still being made by anglers jigging around the bridge pilings and drifting along the channel edges when the weather and sea conditions allowed. Chris described the speckled trout fishery off Hungar's Creek as "good," but the seaside speckled trout run has been "hit or miss." The Kiptopeke State Park Pier has produced a mixed bag of croakers, sea mullet (whiting), and a few flounder and bluefish. The surprise catch of the week was a late season cobia catch and release.

Upper Shore – Matt Abell, at Sea Hawk Sports Center, reported that rock (striped bass) fishing in the Maryland portion of the bay continues to improve. The Virginia Striped Bass Season does not open until Oct. 4. The speckled trout fishery around the marsh islands and creek banks of Pocomoke Sound was described as very productive last weekend. Gray trout measuring up to 16 inches, spot, and kingfish were landed over the hard bottoms of northern Pocomoke Sound, with the areas known to locals as Robinhood, Bird's Rock, and the Lumps near the VA/MD line mentioned as productive locations. Abell said that Fred Vaughn has been finding good numbers of puppy drum inside some of the seaside creeks and local angler Rob Price stopped by the shop to show some of the puppy drum catches he has been making from the Assateague Island surf. Puppy drum fishing in the surf has been productive considering the conditions. Matt reported that flounder fishing improved as the water conditions improved. Rob Sparks had a great catch of keeper flounder from the rail cars.

Bill Hall was the first Eastern Shore resident to achieve Virginia Salt Water Master Angler Status. He has been named Virginia Saltwater Angler of the Year and Virginia Saltwater Release Angler of the Year. Bill is an I.G.F.A. International Committee Representative and a longtime member of the Virginia Saltwater Fishing Tournament Committee. He is the Virginia Recreation Fishing representative on

THE SHORE'S ONLY LOCALLY OWNED NEWSPAPER

Hot Rods and Hot Chilis

Story by Connie Morrison

It's a great time to be a food lover on Chincoteague.

The 18th Annual Chili and Chowder Cook-off to benefit the Chincoteague Volunteer Fire Department will be held at the carnival grounds in conjunction with a car show on Saturday (Sept. 30).

Fire company spokesperson Denise Bowden says they have received 20 entries, and samples will be available for purchase.

If chili and chowder don't appeal to your tastes, perhaps the non-competitive offerings of hot dogs, clam fritters, pony fries or pizza will.

Crafts, live music, the crowning of Little Miss Chili Pepper and Mr. Hot Stuff, and good, clean family fun all start at 11 a.m., with food service beginning at noon, and running until 5 p.m.

Registration for the car show is from 10 a.m. until noon, with a $10 registration fee, and trophies will be awarded at 3 p.m. Bowden expects 100 entrants in the car show - with the first 50 to enter receiving a commemorative dash plaque. Trophies will be awarded to Best in Show, Fire Company's Choice, Mayor's Choice, and Top 30 People's Choice.

Proceeds from the events will benefit the Chincoteague Volunteer Fire Company.

The following Saturday is one of the most anticipated events of the year. The 45th Annual Chincoteague Oyster Festival is Oct. 7 at Tom's Cove Park, 8128 Beebe Rd. Gates open at 10 a.m., appetizers will be served at 11 a.m., with seafood served from noon until 4 p.m. Tickets are $45 and benefit the programming and activities of the Chincoteague Chamber of Commerce.

The menu consists of oysters: oysters on the half shell, steamed, single fried, and fritters. Clam chowder, clam fritters, shrimp cocktail, salad bar, boardwalk fries, hushpuppies, hot dogs, water and soft drinks are also included in the admission price. Beer may be purchased separately.

For those who have never attended, the Chincoteague Chamber of Commerce offers these helpful tips:

- There are only a limited number of tables available. You may wish to bring your own folding tables, chairs, blankets, etc. for your comfort.

- Gates open at 10 a.m. Seafood is served between noon and 4 p.m. (Please note that wristbands will be removed upon exiting the festival between noon and 4 p.m.)

- Festival goers are encouraged to ride the trolley provided by the Chamber and the Town of Chincoteague (free to festival goers from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.) but parking is also available on the festival grounds. The trolley is handicapped accessible. For trolley information, go to www.chincoteaguechamber.com/files/2017OFTrolley.pdf

- Tom's Cove Park allows pets, but for this event pets will not be allowed in the festival area.

- Eat all you want at the festival, but please do not remove food from the grounds.

- Festival food is served from various booths requiring you to go to each one to get what you want to eat. Souvenir trays will be on sale at the beer tent to assist you in carrying your food or you may bring your own. Soft drinks are provided in the ticket price. Food will be limited per trip, per person, at each booth to allow everyone to get something without having to wait a long time. You may come back later for more.

- Beer will be sold separately. You are permitted to bring in your own coolers.

- A "Best Space Award" will be given to the group who decorates their space the best. Sign up at Information Tent near the front gate.

Finally, ALL SALES ARE FINAL. The event is held rain or shine. However, it is subject to delay or rescheduling. Every attempt will be made to have the festival on the date and time advertised. It is possible that circumstances beyond the Chamber's control may require rescheduling or delay. No refunds will be issued in such case.

The Removal of Confederate Flags and Monuments

What's to be gained by it? Only more division and racial tensions. Also erasing part of our history as a nation. The removal of some of the statues was done by night in secrecy. It makes you believe they knew what they were doing was not entirely right. Since when does the majority of the people have no say in such matters of such a drastic change on our history?

I think it was Franklin D. Roosevelt who claimed Robert E. Lee as one of the greatest generals who ever lived at that time.

About two years ago, the opponents started removing all Confederate flags from government and state properties. What have they accomplished by that? It did not ease racial tensions; only made it worse. Both sides of these issues will receive no satisfaction in the end. Their souls will still remain bitter.

The removal of the flags and monuments will not satisfy this group. The more they destroy of any traditional values will only encourage them to continue with their narrative. They seem to be losing all sense of good values and what one country stood for. We must realize it's a minority, not majority, of people that strike out against our constitution and our God-given moral standards.

We ask ourselves where does all this hatred stop? I guess all books, names, etc., related to the Confederacy are to be eliminated. And finally, the vandalism and destruction of the Civil War graves.

Once again, what good would you have accomplished by your acts of indifference towards our past history? Let the past have its own history (leave it be) and think of our present and future history. You will never change what is dead and that is the past.

If you disagree with someone or something, there's no need to be violent. You must have compassion enough to debate the issues in a civil manner.

If this movement of destruction by so many forces such as the socialist progressive left, with its rich and elite counterparts, and the liberal media continue to promote divisions and violence and immoral decisions in the country. Whereas evil tries to outweigh the good of the country, the good must overcome evil or I am afraid we are doomed as a country we once cherished and knew.

In recent years we have had weak leaders and the nation reflects it now. We are beginning to reap what has been sown. It's being demonstrated in our society as a whole; not only in our streets with violent acts of evil, but our universities and colleges and even our local schools. The greatest impact on the drastic changes we are witnessing is due to our government's failing us for so many years. It had changed from being for the people, by the people to big government (by the government and for the government). Our country will only be as good as its leaders.

And today, I pray to God that we have a good and strong leader in President Trump and his administration. May God guide and bless them. I believe our president truly loves this country and its people and he only wants the best life can offer for all. But for this to happen, all people must come together for this country. We must honor and respect one another. And please honor and respect a president that is trying so hard for this country to be successful. He has sacrificed so much of his life and time to bring America back and make our country great and respected once again.

I would like to conclude by saying, "Remember, America, where you came from? Where you have been? And where you are headed? WAKE UP AMERICA BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE TO CHANGE."

Faith, love and full credit to God, and only then we will have God's protection. Ephesians 6:13,17: "Put on the whole armor of God."

If we can accomplish the above, we can add this, Luke 2:32: "Living in the favor of God."

UNITED WAY CAMPAIGN DRIVE KICKS OFF

The United Way of Virginia's Eastern Shore kicked off its 2017 campaign at the Eastern Shore Community College Workforce Development Center in Melfa as keynote speaker Blake Johnson urged the over 100 attendees to give their best effort.

Johnson, who moved to the Eastern Shore after a decorated career in the Navy with tours in Iraq and Afghanistan and now owns and operates the Island House Restaurant in Wachapreague, has helped to raise more than $300,000 for the Navy Seal Foundation with an annual oyster roast. He said he has found the Eastern Shore to be a special place to live for his family. Johnson said he has become a strong supporter of United Way after seeing how many nonprofit organizations depend on the funds it raises and distributes each year.

"If you give this campaign all you have, I believe you will have success and help the many worthwhile organizations on the Eastern Shore that need the support of United Way," said Johnson.

Adam James, the 2017 campaign chairman, said he accepted the position as his way of giving back. "As the fire chief of the Onancock Volunteer Fire Company and having served on the board of the Foodbank of the Eastern Shore, I have been among the beneficiaries of United Way. Now it is my time to give back."

James, 32, born and raised on the Eastern Shore, recently accepted a position as Vice President, Loan and Business Development Officer for Taylor Bank working out of the Onley Town Center after 10 years of banking experience with Shore Bank.

United Way President Wayne Bell told the group United Way of Virginia's Eastern Shore has raised over $6.4 million dollars since it was founded in 1991 and helps approximately 130 organizations. He also noted that only 10 percent of the money the local chapter raises goes to administrative expenses. "We pride ourselves for being very diligent with our expenses and getting the most bang for the buck," said Bell, co-owner and Director of Operations of Therapeutic Interventions.

United Way funds go to provide emergency food and shelter; family counseling, health services; youth development and recreation programs in addition to many other services needed in the community.

To contribute to United Way, send a tax-deductible donation to United Way of Virginia's Eastern Shore, P.O. Box 605, Onley, VA 23418 or go to www.es-unitedway.org For information on forming a team to support United Way, call Dawn Byrd at 787-5622 or email her at dbyrd@esunitedway.org.

E.S. Soil and Water Conservation District Awards

The Eastern Shore Soil and Water Conservation District vows to keep the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries as clean as possible. The district annually awards members of the community who have been remarkable stewards of the land and outstanding advocates of conservation. The 2017 awards ceremony, led by Robin Rich-Coates, board chair, and Carmie Savage, district manager, was held on July 28, at the Eastern Shore Community College.

The Clean Water Farm Award, a state award sponsored by the Dept. of Conservation and Recreation, was given to Lynn and Sands Gayle, of Mt. Nebo Farms, for their implementation of nutrient management plans and exemplary protection of the state's soil and water resources.

The Conservation Farmer Award was presented to Bill Shockley, of Woodside Farms Inc., for his voluntary planting of rye cover crops, use of innovative precision spraying technology, and continuous no-till methods on his 1,200-acre operation. All of Shockley's farms serve as exceptional examples for water quality protection and conservation initiatives.

This year's Wildlife Conservation Award was presented to Rob Leatherbury, of Auwanakus Farms LLC, for his outstanding efforts in wildlife conservation and management on 200 acres of partially-wooded land in Cashville.

The District awarded Kiptopeke Elementary Principal Subrina Parker the Conservation Educator Award for her outstanding commitment to educating the Kipper community to care for their environment.

The Conservation Student Award was given to Julian Dedicatoria for his participation in environmental studies and conservation outreach.

The Virginia Dept. of Forestry, Eastern Shore Office nominated Tom Mooney (not pictured) for the District's 2017 Conservation Forester Award for his management of his family timberlands near South Chesconessex.

By Linda Cicaira

Multitasking is wonderful. I used to be able to do four or five things at one time without a hitch. My mind would keep up and nothing would get dropped. That ability was especially handy when I worked as a waitress. Although, I did once spill a glass of red wine down the back of a man's white shirt without him realizing it. Pulling that off wasn't easy. A coworker would call it genius.

But, that was in the past, before I turned 50 and realized that when I watch television and surf the internet, or any of the other things I always do at the same time, I cannot do a third task. If someone talks to me, I have to put the show on pause or stop surfing or working or writing or crocheting or painting or reading or eating.

I have no problem typing the conversations of multiple people in a public meeting, so I'm listening and recording, which are two things, but please don't ask me to move so you can get down the aisle. I cannot do that. Walking and chewing gum is enough already. Don't walk, talk and chew.

This became even more evident last weekend when I was filling up my tank and my hyper insides told me to put some of the garbage that had gathered inside the vehicle into the trash can. I wanted to make use of the wait. Oh, sure, I can hop right over the fuel hose with no problem. I can do that while watching the gallons rise, clutching the trash and taking my still recuperating new knee over the threshold of filling station heaven.

Uh, no I can't. I tripped. Splat! on the concrete. Landed on the good knee that used to be the bad knee and somehow managed to jam my toe. AHH! I'm sure it's all on tape. No, I'm not telling where I was. But I'm sure I had an audience. Then I had to get up. Ugh!

No, I did not cause the hose to spray gas all over the place. There's a Yippee! But I broke my toe. It is purple. It will not go inside a shoe. It is throbbing. It is the big one.

So now, having broken two toes, possibly three, in my lifetime, I have some advice for all who venture in this direction. Do not ride the lawnmower when you have a broken toe. The machine's shuddering will not help matters. Don't worry about the trash in your car. It just proves that you don't litter. And try not to get a mosquito bite on the broken toe because it really hurts to scratch it.

When I posted on Facebook about my bad luck, I got all kinds of advice. "You need a bubble" to live in, "try less multitasking as you get older," and "be careful, we don't heal like we used to!"

There was sympathy too. Still, I was feeling a bit down in the dumps about my failing ability. I decided to do some research on multitasking to improve my skills. Psychology Today Magazine cured all that.

"Much recent neuroscience research tells us that the brain doesn't really do tasks simultaneously, as we thought (hoped) it might," the publication stated. "In fact, we just switch tasks quickly. Each time we move from hearing music to writing a text or talking to someone, there is a stop/start process that goes on in the brain. That ... process is rough on us: rather than saving time, it costs time (even very small micro seconds), it's less efficient, we make more mistakes, and over time it can be energy sapping."

Ha! I've just gotten older and wiser. It was my subconscious telling me to stop being delusional.

Forbes Magazine had more to say on the subject. "It turns out that 98 percent of the population doesn't multi-task very well. Only about 2 percent are super-taskers." The rest are "actually shifting back and forth from one task to another, such as typing an email and then listening to that conference call conversation, then back to our email and so on ... each time we do it, it takes our brain some time to refocus. So while it might seem efficient on the surface, it isn't. Studies show that multi-tasking can reduce productivity by as much as 40 percent."

So that means I am more efficient than ever. Oh, Yippee! A happy ending! Now, if I could figure out how to keep my feet warm in sandals this winter, I'd have it made.

Where Is Flag Etiquette?

Dear Editor:

The current Wachapreague Town Council doesn't seem to fly the flag in town on Memorial Day, Fourth of July or Veteran's Day, or any other national patriotic occasion, unless a town citizen complains that the flags are not up — then they rush to display the flag along Main Street. Many of the flags are tattered and worn and should be replaced, but are not. This recent Labor Day, the town council did not fly the flag on Main Street when most all other locations on the Shore did so.

I have lived in Wachapreague for more than 20 years. I have served on town council for many years and the lack of importance this current town council places on the proper flag etiquette disturbs me greatly. In a recent conversation with the vice mayor, he didn't even know who is responsible for displaying the flags.

I served our country in the U.S. Coast Guard for more than 20 years. The American flag is important to me and to my neighbors here in Wachapreague.

I fly the flag every day at my home with enormous pride as do many of my neighbors. I am proud of my country, our veterans, the men and women in all our military services and first responders serving today.

We have just experienced the sixteenth year since the attack on our country, Sept. 11, 2001, in which almost 3,000 of our fellow Americans were murdered by cowardly terrorists. The Town of Wachapreague did not fly the flag at the town marina at half-staff in observance of 9/11. How soon some forget!

Thanks to Bay Challenge Sponsors

Dear Editor:

One hundred and forty-eight anglers, 30 of whom were aged 15 and under (and fished for free), participated in the 27th Annual Onancock Bay Challenge on Saturday, Sept. 16. The weather was beautiful for the fishing tournament, an event organized by the Eastern Shore of Virginia Anglers' Club. This year the proceeds benefitted the camp scholarship program of the Chincoteague Bay Field Station.

More than $6,500 worth of prizes, along with the food and music at the weigh-in, were made possible by our many sponsors. We thank each for making the event a success.
