Shore Native Wins Gov's Seat, Dems Sweep Statewide Offices

By Linda Cicaira

Lt. Gov. Ralph S. Northam, an Eastern Shore native, will be the next governor of Virginia.

Election results from Tuesday showed the majority of voters across the state cast their ballots for the Democrat, who grew up in Onancock. He is the first to be elected from the Shore since Henry Wise, a Drummondtown native, won the post in 1855.

Northam, a pediatric neurologist, got nearly 54 percent of the vote statewide compared to about 45 percent for Edward W. "Ed" Gillespie, a Republican lobbyist, and nearly 2 percent for Clifford D. Hyra, a Libertarian intellectual proterty lawyer.

The Onancock High School graduate lost on his home turf, Accomack County, with Gillespie leading 54 percent to Northam's 46 percent. Gillespie took the Chincoteague, Atlantic, Greenbackville,

New Church, Bloxom, Parksley, Saxis, Accomac, Tangier, Bobtown and Wachapreague. Northam won Mappsville, Rue, Nandua (which includes his hometown, Onancock), Melfa and Painter and the majority of the absentee ballots.

Nearly 57 percent of voters in Northampton voted for Northam compared to more than 42 percent for Gillespie and .64 percent for Hyra. Northam took Districts 1, 2, 3, and 4. Gillespie won

Voters OK Elected School Board

By Linda Cicaira

The referendum that asked if voters want an elected school board in Accomack County passed with a landslide of nearly 72 percent of the vote Tuesday.

"I would like to thank every person who was a part of this effort," said Connie Burford of Bloxom, a school activist and one the forces behind the push for the democratic process. "Whether they put out signs, collected signatures, worked the polls or prayed for good results, everything we have done has been for the children, our employees and this community as a whole," she said Wednesday. "I look forward to seeing this through to the end."

Burford plans to run for the seat on the board as soon as an election can be held. The school board selection commission, which is appointed by the

HALLWOOD TRIES TO RECONSTRUCT YEARS OF BURNED FINANCIAL RECORDS

By Linda Cicaira

Accusations, betrayal, thousands of dollars in missing money, death threats, family spats and using the honor system to figure out who owes back taxes and fees, are among the things going on in Hallwood.

Some of it started in early October when a fire in a car belonging to former town clerk, Angela Taylor, destroyed all the town's records just days before a long-overdue audit was to be made. Taylor lives about 350 yards from the town office and mostly did the town work at her home.

She quit the job immediately after the blaze leaving a note about her departure and details about the fire in the town office for officials to find. Taylor said she put the records in the car to take to the auditor in Atlantic. The fire occurred about five miles from Hallwood on the opposite side of town.

Since the fire, Mayor Jackie Poulson and Danny Shrieves, pastor of Hallwood Baptist Church, have been trying to make sense of bank statements and residents' receipts. They got three years of records from the bank. Council members looked over the documents at a meeting Monday night. Those papers were released to the Eastern Shore Post just after the session. Poulson explained that more than $32,000 was either paid from town coffers to Taylor (for more than her usual salary) or used to pay the electric bill for her home and at her husband's auto business. Poulson reported the town's checking account

Corrections/Clarifications

After the publication of last week's article on Northampton County salaries, the Post was alerted that the list of budgeted salaries provided by the county does not reflect current salaries. The county has since provided an updated list. A table on Page 7 compares the budgeted salaries with current salaries.

Also, all earnings should have been described in the present tense.

Man Convicted in 2005 Killing of Estranged Wife Asks for New DNA Test

By Linda Cicoira

Newer ways to evaluate DNA evidence collected in 2005 after an Exmore murder could be used to clear a man serving 35 years in prison for the strangling death of his estranged wife.

Judge W. Revell Lewis, of Northampton Circuit Court, said Monday he would take the request for another evaluation under advisement and review the transcript of the trial.

Umah Joaquin Owens, now 39, of Augusta Correctional Center, was watching television at the prison earlier this year and learned about the newer test. He spoke from the center via TV and said he immediately got the process going.

"They started using it in 2014," said Owens. "It exonerated a lot of people. I acquired some help on figuring about the procedures to file a motion and that's what I did. It was almost immediate. It took a few weeks because I had to keep signing up for the law library."

His lawyer, Tucker Watson of Eastville, argued the case was made on circumstantial evidence.

There are two types of new tests that could be used, a forensic scientist testified. One is a software program.

"If he's innocent, he should be out," said Commonwealth's Attorney Bruce Jones, who said he is convinced Owens killed his wife. "There's a lot at stake here." Owens confessed it to another prisoner. Jones asked that the motion be denied.

In 2008, Owens was convicted of the first-degree murder of Tara Mitchell Owens, 21. He was later sentenced to 35 years in prison in accordance with the jury's recommendation. Owens also got three years for use of a firearm in the crime. According to a state website, his release date is Dec. 27, 2038.

During the trial, testimony disclosed there were fresh abrasions and bruises on her neck, a gunshot wound in her thigh, and at least six blunt force injuries to her head. A medical examiner testified she died by strangulation, with the wound and injuries being contributing causes. She was found in a cornfield behind her home.

The DNA evidence presented at trial was debris under the victim's fingernail and determined it was from a male. It did not determine it was from Umah Owens. The argument was it could have been another man who killed her. The evidence is still being held by the Northampton County Sheriff's Office and is available to be retested.

Lewis said he would write a brief in about a month stating his decision. If he agrees to the retesting and the results are favorable for Owens, the Supreme Court could free him.

In Aug. 23, 2005, when the couple were separated for four months, she complained he had assaulted her by spitting in her face and pushing her. An emergency protective order was issued that prohibited him from having contact with her for a week.

A friend, Emily Thomas, posted bail for Owens and he was released the next day. When Thomas picked him up, Owens complained about his wife and declared the "bitch was going to get hers." A day or two later, Owens made a similar threat to another friend, Steven Gale. "I'm going to f... her ass up," Owens declared.

After dark on Aug. 26, Gale drove Owens to Tara Owens' apartment. He carried "some kind of bag" with him. "Gale stayed in the vehicle with the radio on. Owens was gone about 15 minutes. Gale dropped Owens off at ... Cape Charles Beach. Owens got to Thomas' home and spent the night there."

On Aug. 27, Tara Owens' mother went to her daughter's house. The door was locked. She entered through a window and found her two young grandchildren unattended. Blood was splattered on the floor and walls.

Owens was charged with murder and at some point confessed to a cell mate. William Reid said Owens went to her home and "got into some type of struggle" which ended when "he killed her." The cell mate recalled him saying he was "choking her and a gunshot." Owens also said she had been unfaithful, the prisoner said.

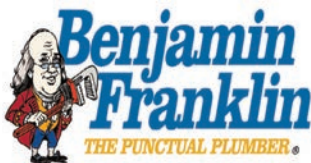

To police, Owens denied any knowledge of the murder. He did not testify at the trial.

Winston Burton, who killed his former girlfriend by stabbing her 46 times outside the hospital where she worked in Nassawadox a year ago, was in the Eastern Shore Regional Jail for another violent crime in 2005. At Owens' trial he testified while he and the defendant had shared a jail cell, Owens had never mentioned having taken part in the crime.

Still Time To Comment on Regional Economic Development Plan

By Stefanie Jackson

The Accomack-Northampton Planning District Commission's economic development committee has a new "road map for future economic development and growth" — the Eastern Shore of Virginia Regional Economic Development Plan. ANPDC Director of Planning Curtis Smith said the merger opens up new opportunities to fund future economic development.

Regional stakeholders developed the plan during six public work sessions held between October 2015 and May 2016.

It combines the existing "Comprehensive Economic Development Strategy" and "Stronger Economies Together" economic development plans, satisfying requirements of the U.S. Economic Development Administration and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The plan acknowledges the "dynamic economic history" of both counties with their "abundant natural resources" and "proximity to urban centers" like Richmond, Baltimore, Washington, D.C., Philadelphia, and New York City. Early development of the steamboat, railroad, and trucking industries benefited the Shore's agriculture and aquaculture, and by 1921 Accomack and Northampton were considered "the most affluent agricultural counties in the United States." Their geographic isolation from the rest of the state created a "unique camaraderie and regional spirit."

A downturn in population growth is the evidence basis for the new economic plan. Population growth fell from 13.2 percent in 2000-2010 to 4.1 percent in 2010-2014, and is projected at 5.9 percent for 2014-2020. Though the proportion of older residents is increasing, the workforce has remained relatively stable.

Stakeholders targeted four "cluster" areas for economic development: aerospace and defense; agribusiness and food processing; arts, entertainment, recreation, and visitor industries; and foundational and entrepreneurship development.

Aerospace and defense is an "emerging industry" defined as weak, but advancing. Goals for economic growth in this field include developing the Wallops complex as the spaceport of choice for launching microsats and small satellites, and returning up to medium class space vehicles from orbital missions in science, technology, national defense, and commerce. Unmanned aerial, underwater, and ground-based systems should be developed, manufactured, and operated. Increasing coastal resilience measures is included in this category.

Agribusiness and food processing is a "mature industry" which is strong, but declining. A fresh food marketing cooperative would support small scale farmers selling produce, as well as aquaculture and viticulture. Attracting potato chip production to the Shore would benefit larger-scale farmers. Establishing a pine sawmill is anticipated by December 2018.

Arts, entertainment, recreation, and visitor industries belong to the "star industry" cluster, which are strong and advancing. The overall goal is developing the whole Shore into a "well-managed tourism destination." The plan recommends developing a regional recreational facility for water-based activities and a regional network of "pedestrian facilities." Local governments are encouraged to enhance tourism support.

General goals for foundational and entrepreneurship development include building an entrepreneurship culture, increasing access to funding that supports small business, creating more market and value-added business opportunities, and providing affordable and reliable business infrastructure. New businesses should be planned around existing water and sewage services and powered by "smart" traditional and renewable energy sources. Reliable transportation infrastructure must be developed for the workforce. Broadband internet access should be available to all businesses (and 95 percent of homes) by 2020.

Smith supports the plan for using the Shore's "existing assets" as the foundation of its future economic development. "We're using what we've got and building it out ... not the 'build it and they will come' approach," he stated.

The plan will be treated as a "living document," and regular public meetings on each of the four primary industry sectors will allow "anybody on the Eastern Shore (to) have a say in its economic development," Smith said.

Public comments on the ESVA Regional Economic Development Plan may be sent to csmith@anpdc.org or 23372 Front Street, Accomac, VA, 23301, by 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 15. A link to the plan can be found at www.a-npdc.org/edplan/

Riverside Finalizes Sale of Parksley Rehab, Arcadia Warns of Future

By Linda Cicaira

Riverside Health System announced Wednesday that it finalized the sale of its rehabilitation center, also known as the Parksley nursing home, to Smith Packett, a limited liability company that has developed or acquired more than 150 senior health and housing facilities with a total value of more than $1.5 billion.

Meanwhile, Arcadia Nursing Home and Quail Run Assisted Living, in Gargatha, sent a letter to residents and their families notifying them that they asked U. S. District Court in Norfolk to rule on authorizing the receivership to shut down the facility on 60 days notice because they are running in the red.

“A public meeting about the sale (of the Parksley home) and how this facility will continue to provide important services to the residents of the Eastern Shore will be forthcoming,” said Peter Glagola, senior director of brand management and public relations at Riverside. “As part of the sale process, Riverside filed information with the” state attorney general “to initiate the review of the sale.”

Glagola said Smith Packett will own the facility; Saber Healthcare Group, LLC will operate and manage the facility. “Saber is a premier operator of skilled nursing and assisted living and operates 105 facilities in six states, including twenty facilities in Virginia,” he said.

Riverside is hoping the transition will occur on Jan. 1. “Riverside will continue to work closely with our team members to ensure a smooth transition of facility operations,” Glagola said.

“Some of our residents have returned ... to the facility and we are actively adding new residents.”

The buyer for the Gargatha centers withdrew its offer in October. “Since that time, we have continued to market the facility to other potential buyers,” the letter to residents stated. “While we remain hopeful a buyer will step forward, we must be ready for any outcome. We believe that the facility has enough cash to continue operations and provide residents and staff with 60 days notice of any decision to close. We also will make sure that there is enough cash available to pay all staff their salaries and to provide for residents for the period of time that the facility remains open. ... The care of our residents and employees are our top priority and we will update you with additional information when available.”

All Systems “Go” for Saturday’s Antares Launch

By Linda Cicaira

Orbital’s ATK Antares rocket is scheduled to lift off at 7:37 a.m., Saturday, from NASA Wallops Flight Facility and the Mid-Atlantic Regional Spaceport, with about 7,400 pounds of food, clothing and experiments for astronauts aboard the International Space Station.

There is a five-minute launch window for the rocket, which is the sixth Antares launch vehicle to blast off from Wallops. Live broadcasting of the event is scheduled to begin at 7 a.m., on NASA TV. Visit <http://www.nasa.gov/nasatv>

Live coverage of the mission is also scheduled to begin at 1:15 a.m., on the Wallops Upstream site at <http://www.ustream.tv/channel/nasa-tv-wallops> Launch updates will be available via www.facebook.com/NASAWFF and www.twitter.com/NASA_Wallops

Smartphone users can download the “What’s Up at Wallops” app, which contains information on the launch as well as a compass showing the precise direction for launch viewing. The app is available for download to both Android and iOS users.

Public viewing of the launch will be available at the NASA Visitor Center, which will open at 3:30 a.m. Alcohol and pets are not permitted on the center grounds.

The launch may be visible, weather permitting, across the East Coast.

Sentencing Continued for Man Accused of Killing Cousin, Attempting to Shoot Father

Alexander Hunter Picott-Cleveland, the young man who wounded three people in Exmore, and then shot his cousin to death and attempted to wound his father in Cheapside in 2016, stood ready to be sentenced for his crimes Monday.

But the case was continued in Northampton Circuit Court when the presentence report and sentencing guidelines had errors. The 23-year-old, who wore a black shirt and black pants instead of jail garb, had been brought over from Virginia Beach City Jail and was bound with chains on his wrists and ankles.

His father, Alexander Cleveland, greeting him with, "Hello son. Bless you man" when he was brought into the courtroom. The older man moaned and then called out, "Junior, love you son," when he was taken away. Others in the spectators area could also be heard saying, "Love you, love you."

On the other side of the room was victim Ronald Grave's immediate family. They collected email addresses from reporters saying there had been errors written about their relative and they wanted to make a statement before stories were written. But no messages were received by the Eastern Shore Post's reporter by press time Thursday.

Defense lawyer Tucker Watson initially complained that a victim's statement provided to the judge for his consideration was given to him a couple of hours before the proceeding, instead of five days prior. Picott-Cleveland had not yet reviewed the document.

Commonwealth's Attorney Bruce Jones and Judge W. Revell Lewis III agreed that only parts of the letter allowed by law would be considered and the defense waived the five-day mandate. Then, Watson found issues with the presentence report and guidelines, and Lewis continued the case until Nov. 15. "This sentencing is a very serious matter," the judge said. "All 'I's need to be dotted and 'T's need to be crossed."

It was Father's Day weekend when Picott-Cleveland fatally shot Graves, 30, of Portsmouth, and attempted to maliciously wound his dad, on June 18, 2016. Both incidents occurred outside the Arlington Road home where the defendant lived with his parents and sister.

The 23-year-old hung his head for most of his murder trial. His father testified after he learned of the shooting in Exmore, he wanted his son to turn himself in to avoid being gunned down by police.

Picott-Cleveland pleaded guilty to three counts of malicious wounding. At a party in the New Road section of Exmore that day the defendant got upset because he couldn't find his "fronts," also known as grills or grillz, decorative covers for teeth.

He told police that he felt threatened by one man he shot because he was from Cape Charles. He also wounded a woman who had gone to the party with his group and another man, a passenger in a car who had to be pulled up to join the party.

Picott-Cleveland told police he meant to shoot Ranquise Coston of Exmore, "They (Coston and others) were going to do something to me. I wasn't going to let that happen ... I unloaded my whole clip." Coston testified he was shot four times in the back and spent 2 1/2 weeks in the hospital because of his injuries.

Just after the shooting, Picott-Cleveland, his sister, Mona Jones (who got hit in the neck), and Graves left the party. The defendant also fired the gun inside the vehicle during the ride back to Arlington Road and before falling asleep.

According to testimony, when they arrived at the house, the father already knew about the Exmore incident because Graves had called him. He went out to the vehicle to talk to his son.

"His eyes didn't look right," the father said. He said his son didn't recognize him and thought he was someone from Exmore. "I bear hugged him" and got him out of the vehicle. The two tussled and Graves pulled the older man away allowing the defendant to go into the house. Testimony also disclosed Picott-Cleveland got a shotgun while inside and jumped out a back window with it.

The father said he was calling police and trying to stay back from his son.

Picott-Cleveland's sister said after Graves was shot, her brother continued to ask about his "fronts." At her instruction, he then walked down the road. He hid in the woods until about 6 a.m. He was taking a shower when police arrived to arrest him.

Punishment for second-degree murder is five to 40 years in prison. The maximum punishment for malicious wounding is 20 years in prison and a $100,000 fine.

In another case, Danny Lashawn Campbell Jr., 32, of Wilson Court in Cape Charles, pleaded guilty to distribution of cocaine and third offense of assault and battery of a family member. The pleas were part of a bargaining agreement with the prosecutor. Campbell was initially charged with two drug offenses that occurred in September 2016 and strangulation of his 14-year-old daughter in June 2017.

Campbell promised to take the girl out to a restaurant to celebrate her graduation from middle school. Instead, he took her to his house and got mad when the girl wanted to leave.

"He started choking (me) and pulled my hair," the daughter told authorities. When another family member tried "to get him off of me, he hit her." Then he "got a belt and just kept hitting me and throwing me around the house."

The plea bargain was struck so the girl would not have to testify in court. His lawyer said he pleaded guilty because he is ashamed now that he hit her with the belt, but denies picking her up by the throat or choking her.

Calvin Bailey Jr., 29, of Lowery Road in Norfolk, pleaded guilty to possession with intent to distribute cocaine. He was initially charged with two counts but one was dropped in a plea bargain. The incident occurred in October 2016. He could be sentenced to up to 40 years in prison and fined $500,000. Sentencing was not included in the bargaining agreement.

Dennikson Mathurin, 21, of Salisbury, Md., pleaded guilty to felony eluding and related driving offenses in connection with a chase with speeds of up to 125 mph that occurred between Exmore and Virginia Beach, crossing the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel on Sept. 7, 2016. Testimony revealed he did not have a driver's license and panicked when police attempted to stop him. Mathurin was sentenced to a total of a year, a month and 40 days in jail. He was also fined $170.

"When I was behind the wheel, I panicked and made a bad decision, probably one of the worst decisions in my life," he told the judge. "If the court would let me, I want to go back to school."

"His behavior was outrageous and extreme and he endangered many, many people and police," Jones said.

"I agree that it didn't make sense," said defense lawyer Paul Watson. "He does suffer from anxiety disorder which I think had something to do with this."

Tyquan Felix Jackson, 22, of Keller, pleaded guilty to recklessly handling a firearm on Nov. 18, 2016, in Exmore. He was initially charged with possession of a firearm by a felon. He was fined $250, ordered to do 40 hours of community service and given a 10-day suspended sentence. He was reminded by the court that he is not allowed to possess a firearm or ammunition due to a juvenile conviction. Jackson could have been sentenced to 12 months in jail and fined $2,500.

Man With 100 Marijuana Plants Won't Be Prosecuted

Two counts of possession with intent to distribute marijuana will not be prosecuted against a Hallwood man who was caught in 2016 with 100 plants valued at $300,000.

The case against Donald Wyenne Rice, 60, of Marshall Street, could be brought back up in Accomack Circuit Court if an affidavit required before issuing a search warrant is found within 30 days, Commonwealth's Attorney Spencer Morgan said Wednesday.

"The officers did what they were supposed to do," he continued. "Not sure whose fault it is. I do not know what happened with the affidavit, but there was some sort of breakdown ... There is no statute of limitations ... I'm disappointed."

In addition to the plants, which were in various stages of growth, hydroponic tubs, lights, ventilation systems and electric converters were found at Rice's home last July. The value was based on a high-quality plant having the potential to yield a pound of high-quality marijuana valued at an average of $3,500.

In another case, Benito Thomas Flores, 32, of Wayne Drive, in Bloxom, pleaded guilty to two counts of distributing cocaine on Dec. 20, 2016, and Jan. 13, 2017. The case was continued until February.

Harvey Lee Pettit Jr., 40, of Accomack Manor in Parksley, pleaded guilty to three counts of distributing cocaine. A short form presentence report was ordered. The offenses occurred on April 20, 25 and 27, 2017.

Philip Darren Walker, 29, of Walker Lane in Harborton, was given a three-year suspended sentence for felony eluding on June 15, 2016.

OBITUARIES

Frank William Blake II

Sgt. Frank William Blake II, also known as Frankie Bill, 75, resident of Parksley, walked graciously into the arms of his Lord and Savior on Wednesday, Nov. 1, 2017.

Sgt. Blake

Born May 4, 1942, in Philippi, W.V., he was the son of the late Rev. Frank William Blake and Beryl "Maxine" Lawhorn Blake.

Sgt. Blake proudly served his country in the U.S. Marine Corps, owned and operated Blake Water & Sewage, and became notorious for his talents as a private investigator.

With a mind that was always moving, there were few times you'd ever see Sgt. Blake idle and never without a funny joke or an entertaining story to share. He enjoyed spending his days working in his garden; walking the fields of Sterling Farm searching for shards, arrowheads, and old bottles; deer hunting; watching sunsets and wildlife from his kitchen window, especially the otters, herons, and bald eagles; saving turtles along the back roads; browsing Pinterest; working on his beloved Nicorette sculpture; visiting his dear friends, Walt and Linda Wessells, Kenny Roberts, Ben and Suzanne Justis, and Sam and Linda Brown; and last but not least, the day was complete with his nightly ritual of dinner (which often included fresh sliced tomatoes, corn on the cob, and vanilla ice cream) during his favorite shows, Jeopardy and Wheel of Fortune. Sgt. Blake's green thumb yielded a bountiful garden, and he always looked forward to sharing his vegetables, homemade pepper jelly, strawberry fig jam, yeast rolls, and fresh eggs.

Sgt. Blake's greatest loves were his children; his Lord; his church, Calvary United Methodist; the U.S. Marine Corps; visits from his daughter, Ann, and her children, Olivia and Andrew. Sgt. Blake was, without a doubt, one of a kind, and to know him, was to love him. He will be greatly missed by family and friends, as well as his chickens, his Muscovy duck, who he sweetly named "Ugly," and the many stray cats that found their way to his back porch. Sgt. Blake was proud of the fact that he died a God-fearing man, sober, and no longer using foul language.

"A friend gives hope when life is low, a friend is a place when you have nowhere to go, a friend is honest, a friend is true. A friend is precious, a friend is you."

Sgt. Blake is survived by five children, Frank W. Blake III and Michele, J. Warren Blake and wife, Tracy, Ann Blake (Holmes), Hunter B. Blake, and Heather Wood Blake; sister, Betsye B. Russell and husband, John; and five grandchildren, Sara and Savannah Blake, Amanda Denton, and Olivia and Andrew Holmes. In addition to his parents, he was predeceased by his son, Andrew "Brian" Blake.

Funeral services, with military honors, were held at the Calvary United Methodist Church on Sunday, Nov. 5, 2017, with the Revs. Elizabeth Freund and Barbara Justis officiating. Private interment was at the Edgehill Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to Calvary UMC, P.O. Box 1254, Parksley, VA 23421.

Memory tributes may be shared with the family at www.williamsfuneralhomes.com

Theodore Charles Defosse Jr.

Mr. Theodore Charles Defosse Jr., 77, husband of Patricia A. (Barbara) Defosse and a resident of Melfa, passed away on Saturday, Nov. 4, 2017, at Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital in Onancock.

Born April 20, 1940, in Philadelphia, he was a son of the late Theodore C. Defosse and Eleanor V. (Navickas) Defosse. A senior textile research scientist and manager of development, he had worked with International Paper, Avtex Fibers, FMC, and American Viscose. He was a member of St. Peter the Apostle Catholic Church in Onley, and the Eastern Shore Yacht & Country Club.

In addition to his wife of 51 years, survivors include three children, Matthew Defosse and his partner, Martina Clermont, of Germany, Theresa Defosse, of New Providence, N.J., and Theodore Mark Defosse and his wife, Jing Cao, of Annapolis, Md.; six grandchildren, Joyce Vincent, Conner, Brian and Aubrey Defosse, all of Germany, and Jiles and Jeanie Defosse, of Annapolis; a sister, Barbara Hatch, of Philadelphia; a brother, Robert Defosse and his wife, Gay, of Satellite Beach, Fla.; and 29 nieces and nephews. In addition to his parents, he was predeceased by a sister, Adele McDermott.

Mr. Defosse passed away peacefully in his sleep. He loved his family, and enjoyed rooting for Philadelphia sports teams (usually to his chagrin). He liked fishing, golfing, watching Encore Westerns, playing the stock market, and anything to do with the ocean including Atlantic City. In recent years, he had finally been winning at a football pool, and this year was given the nickname "The Assassin."

A Memorial Mass to celebrate his life will be held at St. Peter the Apostle Catholic Church in Onley, Saturday, Dec. 2, 2017, at 10 a.m.

Memorial donations may be made in his name to St. Peter Church Construction Fund, P.O. Box 860, Onley, VA 23418, or to The Salvation Army, P.O. Box 1959, Atlanta, GA 30301.

Thomas Ray Parks Sr.

Mr. Thomas Ray Parks Sr., devoted husband of the late Maureen Flynn "Penny" Parks and patriarch of the Parks family, passed away peacefully on Wednesday, Nov. 1, 2017, at his home.

A resident and native of Wachapreague, and a former longtime resident of Onancock, Mr. Parks was born May 3, 1933, to the late Wilson A. Parks and Annie Landon Parks.

Mr. Parks retired from the Accomack County Public School System where he was a teacher and devoted football and basketball coach. He enthusiastically inspired both his students and players over many years. Following his school career, he was an inspector with the Virginia Department of Agriculture, Weights and Measures Division. Mr. Parks accepted a retirement incentive from the Commonwealth of Virginia that he couldn't refuse which enabled him to spend many quality years enjoying what he adored most: being with his children and their families. He greatly cherished these times, and they were the favorite and most comforting of his life.

Mr. Parks graduated from Lynchburg College, served his country in the U.S. Coast Guard, was an avid golfer and hunter, loved gardening — and especially looked forward to sharing the fruits of his labor — and enjoyed attending local high school football games.

Survivors include his nine loving children, Thomas Ray Parks Jr. and wife, Mary Jane, of Exmore, Patrick M. Parks and wife, Kim, of Chesterfield, Kathryn P. "Kathy" Bundick, of Accomac, Christopher A. Parks and wife, Jill, of Charlottesville, David A. Parks, of Wachapreague, Carol Ann Parks and Ray, of Wallops Island, Paul J. Parks, of Wachapreague, Sean F. Parks and Holli, of Stuart's Draft, and Matthew W. Parks and wife, Leslie, of Wilmington, Del.; 25 grandchildren; 20 great-grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

In addition to his parents and his beloved wife, Penny, Mr. Parks was predeceased by a sister, Frances P. Bowser; a brother, Russell A. Parks; and a grandson, William Walter Bundick.

Funeral services will be conducted from the chapel of the Williams-Onancock Funeral Home on Saturday, Nov. 11, 2017, at 1 p.m., with Rev. James William Moore officiating. Interment will follow in the Fairview Lawn Cemetery. There will be a visitation at the funeral home on Friday, Nov. 10, 2017, from 6 until 8 p.m.

Flowers will be accepted, or memorial contributions may be made to Powelton Presbyterian Church, P.O. Box 98, Wachapreague, VA 23480, Riverside Shore Hospice, P.O. Box 616, Onley, VA 23418, or to Riverside Shore Cancer Center, P.O. Box 430, Onancock, VA 23417.

in District 5, in the Exmore area.

In the race for attorney general, the winner was also a Democrat. Justin E. Fairfax garnered nearly 53 percent of the voters statewide, while Republican Jill H. Vogel got more than 47 percent. Locally, Vogel took Accomack County with nearly 58 percent and Fairfax took Northampton with about 52 percent.

For attorney general, Democrat incumbent Mark R. Herring was the winner with more than 53 percent of the vote statewide over Republican John D. Adams with nearly 47 percent. Adams took Accomack with 57 percent of the vote. Herring took Northampton with more than 53 percent.

Bloxom Wins 100th District

Del. Robert S. Bloxom, a Republican from Mappsville, beat his opponent for the third time. Willie C. Randall, a Democrat who lives in Cape Charles, again challenged him in the race for the 100th District seat in the House of Representatives.

Bloxom got more than 52 percent of the votes overall. He took Accomack easily with nearly 62 percent of the ballots, but faced a tighter margin in Northampton where Randall lives, with 50.75 percent. Randall took Norfolk City with 60.50 percent.

Bloxom, owner of Bloxom Auto Supply in Mappsville, and Shore Tire & Auto in Onley, took Districts 1, 4 and 5 and the majority of absentee ballots in Northampton. Randall garnered the most votes in Districts 2 and 3.

In Accomack, Bloxom got the most votes in Chincoteague, Atlantic, Greenbackville, New Church, Bloxom, Parkley, Saxis, Accomac, Tangier, Nandua, Bobtown, Melfa and Wachapreague. His challenger got more absentee ballots and won in Mappsville, Rue and Painter.

Randall, an Army veteran and owner of Edward Jones investment firm in Exmore, took all the districts in Norfolk City - Grandby, Ocean View School, Northside, Suburban Park, Wesley, Ocean View Center, Pretlow and Crossroads. He also won the majority of absentee ballots there.

Two years ago, Bloxom won with about 57 percent of the votes for delegate. His website touts his "first-hand knowledge of our diverse challenges inspires me to create a better future for my children and for the citizens of the 100th District."

Northampton Results

By Stefanie Jackson

John Coker, of Cape Charles, will represent District 1 on the Northampton County Board of Supervisors. He replaces Granville Hogg, who did not pursue another term. Coker won 62.65 percent of the votes to beat opponent Jacqueline Chatmon, who received 36.45 percent of votes. There were 692 votes for Coker and 402 for Chatmon.

Northampton's new District 2 supervisor is David Fauber, who ran unopposed. He replaces Larry Lemond, who opted out of running for re-election. Fauber received 92.1 percent of votes, a total of 514. Forty-four voters wrote in candidates.

Oliver Bennett remains Northampton's District 3 supervisor. He ran unopposed and received 95.46 percent of votes, totaling 548. There were 26 write-in votes cast.

Randall Parks retains his place as at-large representative to the Northampton County School Board. He won 69.75 percent of votes, a total of 2,535. He was the only candidate on the ballot for at-large school board member; opponent Kevin Schwenk campaigned as a write-in candidate. There were 1,098 write-in votes cast, totaling 30.25 percent.

Maxine Rasmussen and Paul Bibbins Jr. retained their seats on the school board, representing District 1 and 2, respectively. Rasmussen received 769 votes, or 93.2 percent. There were 56 write-in votes for the position. Bibbins received 462 votes, or 67.55 percent. A total of 221 write-in votes were cast for his position, or 32.45 percent.

There were no candidates on the ballot for the District 3 school board seat nor the Nassawadox mayor. There were 351 votes written-in for the former and 54 for the latter. The results are pending.

number was changed, the lock on the post office box was changed, two signatures are now required on checks, a computer was installed in the town office (the one there was about 15 years old), QuickBooks was installed in the computer, three years of checks written by the town were studied and real estate and personal property tax bills were mailed.

Former Mayor Tim Raynor said he thought two signatures were already required. But he wasn't sure as he signed and left the rest to Taylor. "I always trusted her," he said. Poulson and Shrieves are now set up to sign the checks.

In the near future, the lock on the town office's door will be changed, three years of checks received by the town will be studied, four more years of checks will be obtained, all town debits and credits will be put in the program, QuickBooks will be backed up and saved in two locations, a sign will be completed and erected at the town office stating hours of operation and Poulson will further review town charges from the electric company.

Poulson and Shrieves obtained the 2017 town budget from an old edition of the Post, where it had been advertised. The budget shows the clerk's salary at $4,200. Checks show she was paid $8,585.42 in 2015, $10,367.69 in 2016 and $7,470 in 2017. Poulson noted that occasionally she was paid extra for being at the office to sell vehicle decals.

The budget showed income at $45,227 and expenses at $42,616. Poulson said.

Hallwood gets a $10,000 grant to be given to the Bloxom Volunteer Fire Company. That money hasn't been turned over yet because some of it will be needed for overdue bills including more than $7,000 for trash collection. Davis Disposal had not been paid for five months.

Hallwood has about $13,400 in the bank, which includes the grant money. Virginia Municipal League insurance was canceled in 2015, officials also learned. "Everyone was under the impression we still had it," Poulson said.

Poulson said the refuse company will allow them to pay off the debt. The fire company was also willing to wait. "Bloxom will take our money when its available," the mayor said. "Once we pay back Bloxom and get the trash bill straight," Poulson added, "I think we can have free trash pick up again."

Shrieves was given the job of clerk for $350 a month, the same salary Taylor was supposed to be paid. There was no discussion at the session about the laptop computer Poulson previously said belonged to the town, but was still in the possession of Taylor.

State police are investigating the incidents. Taylor has declined commenting while the investigation is ongoing.

The meeting Monday started with Rebecca Like calling Poulson a "two-faced liar." Like said Poulson knew she had not resigned from the panel six months ago when she left a meeting saying she was quitting. While she called him names, the mayor opened the door to the small one-room town hall and asked her to leave. She and a man, who was not identified, walked out while she continued to scold Poulson. Shrieves then offered a prayer.

Like was elected to the position and never formally gave her resignation. The council also did not vote to accept it. Councilman Richard Selinsky was appointed to fill Like's term. He pushed for the audit and has been the only official to stop holding out hope that Taylor hadn't betrayed them. Minutes for the meetings were also destroyed in the fire.

"I think a lot of Angel and Greg both," Shrieves said during the meeting. "I'm not in the law enforcement area. I'm just adding up the numbers." The officers "will do what needs to be done."

"I think that she (Taylor) served us for many years in a job that nobody else would have done," Raynor said after the meeting. "Why would anybody want revenge?" he asked.

"That's not revenge that's justice," Selinsky said. "Let's follow the law and sentence accordingly."

"We don't know she's guilty of anything," Raynor replied.

"I want the restitution," Selinsky said. "Seven years she stole from everyone."

Selinsky's wife, Jaime, filed a petition for a protective order to keep Taylor's husband, Greg, away from her family. She stated in court records that it would take at least six months for the state investigation to be completed. "I live a half-mile from Greg and he always seems to know where we are." She and Selinsky were shooting at targets on private property just outside of town on Oct. 25, when Greg Taylor stopped his car along the road and yelled out the window.

"You better take aim ... you're going to need every gun you got," Richard Selinsky recounted Greg Taylor shouting. "I'm going get you both," he said pulling away and then stopping again to add, "and, I'm going to kill your daughter too." The official said his daughter is 13 years old.

Judge Gordon Vincent granted a one-year protection order to the Selinskys during a hearing in Accomack General District Court Wednesday. Mrs. Selinsky said she had got an emergency order 17 days earlier immediately after the threat was made.

"He seems to take enjoyment in the death of children," Smith testified. Smith played a tape for the judge from 17 years ago in which Taylor told him he was glad Smith's daughter died. Smith said Taylor repeated that statement several times just before the incident with the Selinskys occurred. Vincent did not allow the recent recording to be played. But Smith said it would include, "I'm glad your daughter is dead, you ain't getting her back either. She's burning in hell" like the car.

Both the Taylors said Greg Taylor yelled out the window to ask Richard Selinsky to stop talking about his wife and not to bother his daughter. "You need to leave the guns out of this. You better leave my wife alone and my daughter too," they testified he said.

"I understand the justice system has to do an investigation" regarding town property, Greg Taylor added. "My daughter is in high school. ... She's being bullied ... Facebook is not allowed in my house. ... We don't talk about people. ... I don't even know his daughter. Don't even know what she looks like."

Greg Taylor said the mayor warned him that Selinsky carries a gun. Poulson was not at the preceding. Selinsky said he got a carry permit about five years so he could easily transport his gun to target practice, not to intimidate anyone.

Angela Taylor said Smith played the old tape of her husband at a town council meeting in an attempt to discredit her. He wanted her to apologize for something her husband did a long time ago.

"I don't know why they act like they are scared," Greg Taylor said. "Nothing was said about his daughter. The word 'kill' was never used. Nothing was said to threaten anybody ... I go by his house ... I live on a dead end street. I have to go by his house. ... I'm not trying to hurt him or anything like that."

Councilwoman Barbara Ferriell, Poulson's sister, also has missed some monthly meetings. Poulson suggested she was no longer interested in serving and Like could come back on the council in her place. Resident John Smith said he would take the council seat. No decisions were made. A formal resignation was going to be sought.

Residents said Ferriell has not been coming to meetings because she and Poulson have a dispute regarding adjoining properties.

Shrieves urged town residents to bring in any receipts they have so they can be recorded. The office will be open from 1 to 3 p.m. on the second Saturday and Monday of each month. Meetings are held at 6:30 p.m. on the first Monday of each month. Copies of receipts can also be emailed to townofhallwoodva@gmail.com.

Poulson said the good news was if every one pays their real estate taxes, they will have $400 more than what the budget reflects. About $200 more would be collected in personal property taxes. In addition, they will get $1,800 more than anticipated in sales tax.

Selinsky wanted to know if the money was coming in and was just not shown in the budget.

"Yes," Poulson answered.

It was also reported that when residents paid cash for taxes, trash collection or decals, money was not deposited in the town bank account. And they pay $987 to get the grass cut when the total should have been $500.

circuit court judge, turned down Burford the last time the incumbent, Margaret Miles, a retired teacher and principal, asked to be reappointed. Burford says she wants to represent her district and special needs students who desperately need the support.

"The voters have spoken," said Janet Martin-Turner, a parent and organizer of the Elect Our School Board Committee. "The parents, teachers and community members have felt left out of the process. An elected board will be more transparent and inclusive."

The unofficial tally showed 7,485 voters favored the change and 2,940 opposed. The referendum passed in every district in the county and in the absentee voting pool.

Barricade Incident Ends Peacefully

By Linda Cicaira

After nine hours of negotiation, a New Church man, who barricaded himself inside his home Tuesday, surrendered to police without incident.

Danny Charles Outten, 48, of Sign Post Road, was taken to Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital by Accomack deputies for evaluation, according to Sheriff Todd Godwin. Outten was charged with two counts of obstruction of justice.

The incident began at about 8:30 a.m. Police were seen rushing to the scene throughout the day and the road was closed to the public. The state police and marine police assisted.

Charges had not been filed in the courts at press time.

Yellow Jackets Extinguish Firebirds to Earn District Championship

By Krystle Bono

The Arcadia Firebirds hosted the Northampton Yellow Jackets for the last game of the season in Oak Hall Friday night, with the Northampton squad clipping the Firebirds, 38-35, fighting back in the last half to earn the district championship – the team's first championship title and victory over the tough Arcadia club since 2009.

C.J. Smith lit the board first with 3:30 left in the first quarter for the Yellow Jackets with a four-yard rushing touchdown and a two-point conversation to put Northampton up, 8-0.

Arcadia responded to make it 8-6 with a 59-yard rush from William Scarborough.

Smith struck again for the Yellow Jackets to up the count by six more after scoring on a 22-yard rush. Trip Wescoat's extra point would put Northampton up 15-6, but seconds later, the Firebirds would close the gap when Briden Bibbins scored on a 53-yard pass from Lethan Williams. Shykeem Jacobs scored the extra two, and the Firebirds would trail by just one with 11:29 left in the second.

Another six from Smith on an 11-yard rush would give the Yellow Jackets a 21-14 count, but Firebird Cam Downing edged Arcadia up with a 64-yard pass from Williams. Bibbins' extra two were good, pushing the Firebirds to a 22-21 lead.

Arcadia struck one last time before the halftime buzzer with a five-yard rush from Downing and with the extra point good, the board would read in favor of the Firebirds, 29-21.

Downing would score on a 30-yard pass from Williams to extend the Firebirds lead to 35-21.

with a 50-yard touchdown rush and an extra point from Wescoat.

Corey Smith kept the momentum going with a safety with just 42 seconds left in the third, and then again in the fourth when he scored on a 12-yard rush to tip Northampton to a 36-35 lead over Arcadia. C.J. Smith scored an extra two to give the Yellow Jackets the 38-35 edge over the Firebirds, and with a late fourth quarter interception by Cody Goller, Northampton would hold on to the lead and claim the historic win.

The Yellow Jackets (5-5) will make their first playoff appearance since 2008 tonight (Friday) against the Essex Trojans.

The Chincoteague Ponies fell to Greenbrier Christian Gators in a close 38-33 home gridiron battle to close out their season.

Chincoteague maintained the lead through the first half, striking first and making it a 27-12 count by halftime. Dustin Holloway pushed the Ponies up to 33 on a 75-yard touchdown return, but Greenbrier would dominate the rest of the game and take the lead in the last 38 seconds to make the final count 38-33.

The Broadwater Vikings fell to the Fuqua Falcons in their last game of the season on Bynum Field, 44-13, last Saturday in Exmore.

Jashawn Wharton would score for the Vikings in the second quarter on a fumble recovery, and teammate Sawyer Coulbourne put the Vikings on the board again in the fourth on a pass from Andrew Hart.

The Nandua Warriors defeated the Arcadia Firebirds last Thursday night in three straight sets to earn a spot in the regional quarterfinals held last Saturday in Onley, against Poquoson. The girls fell 3-0, (13-25, 16-25, 12-25) to conclude their regional run.

Leading the Warriors against Poquoson were Whitney Coulbourne with 13 kills, nine digs and four aces; Baylee Justis with two kills, three digs, six aces and 28 assists; Sheridan Wells with four kills, two digs and one assist; Leah Truitt with seven kills; Maggie Bono with two kills, three digs and one ace; Parker Murphy with four kills, three aces and one dig; Necole Stravino with three digs and one ace and Paige Smullin with four digs.

The Broadwater Vikings earned a 3-0 win over Richmond Christian Tuesday night in Exmore to advance to the state quarterfinals, but fell to North Cross in three straight sets Wednesday night in Roanoke.

EASTERN SHORE STREET HOCKEY LEAGUE GAME SUMMARIES

By Michael Garbacz

Game 1: Blues 1, Charles E. Morgan Termite and Pest Control Penguins 2

Looking for their first win of the season and suffering from a very short bench, the Blues were certainly feeling their namesake squaring off against the Pens. Nonetheless, they put forth a Herculean defensive effort, staying within one goal all game despite being outshot 22-6.

Ethan Ayer of the Pens and Michael Pryor of the Blues exchanged unassisted goals in the second frame, so General Mills' first period marker proved to be the difference. Cliff Windsor had the assist on the play.

Game 2: Grounds Keepers Lawn Care Capitals 3, Delmarva Soil and Concrete Red Wings 2

In another game featuring another one-goal difference, the Caps managed to edge the Wings despite missing Ol' Plugalong in net. Back-up Jennie Hagler was up to the gig, though, and stopped exactly as many as her team needed. This one was like a chess match, folks, with outstanding positioning and ball movement on each side.

Preston Shover and The Huntsman scored for the Wings, with Joseph Cornwell, Autumn Shover and Jesse West all chipping in a helper. For the Caps, The Pat Trick put up a goal and two assists, while Zach Webb and Keith Hagler also tickled the twine.

Game 3: Charles E. Morgan Termite and Pest Control Penguins 4, EZ Loan Bruins 5

In yet a third tilt decided by a single marker, this one took a bit of a wilder turn, with nine total goals being scored. Although outshot 10-17, the Pens gave the Bs a fright indeed in the third period as they scored three goals on the four shots they registered in the frame. But the youthful combo of Tayler Parks and Brandon Morgan were also able to add all the insurance the Bruins needed in the third, giving them the edge.

The Smooth Criminal produced a goal and three assists; CJ Jones potted a pair of goals; Dustin Aigner adding two assists; Parks also had one.

Game 4: Delmarva Soil and Concrete Red Wings 9, Blues 4

After narrowly being edged out of a win in their first game, the Wings were out to send a message in their second. The Parksley Original did his best to ward off the 41 shots the Wings pounded at him, but with little reinforcements, the defense couldn't withstand the onslaught. Preston Shover recorded an astronomical 19 of the Red Wings' total shots counted. He was rewarded with five goals for his effort, and also added an assist. The Huntsman picked up two goals and two assists; Joseph Cornwell and Autumn Shover each earned a marker; Guy Shover had two helpers; Michael Vargas had one.

For the Blues, Scott Millikin scored twice and added a helper; Michael Pryor and Trae Merritt each earned a goal and an assist.

Game 5: EZ Loan Bruins 6, Grounds

Keepers Lawn Care Capitals 4

The Killer Bs mounted a punishing third period offensive to outlast the Caps and bookend the day. Following an extremely tense, studied first and second periods, the pace exploded in the third. The contestants combined for 22 total shots in the final frame, and the Bruins managed to find the back of the net four times, solidifying the win. Tayler Parks scored a goal and an assist; CJ Jones scored twice and added a helper; the Smooth Criminal scored and threw in a pair of helpers; Dustin Aigner had a goal and an assist; Kevin Cornwell had an assist.

For the Caps in the loss, Keith Hagler continues his monster of a season with a pair of markers; local hero Dean Dedicatoria and Zach Webb each put the biscuit in the basket once; James Haley and The Pat Trick each chipped in a helper.

ESSHL action continues Sunday, Nov. 12, at 1 p.m., at Stapleton Rink in Parksley.

Fishing from the Shore

By Bill Hall

This week's drop in air temperatures will have a mixed effect on the gamefish population along our peninsula. Cooling water temperatures are already starting to usher in a larger class of rockfish, with fish up to 30 pounds starting to show up along the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel. These same cooling temperatures will most likely end the late-season run of large sheepshead and spadefish around the third and fourth islands of the bridge-tunnel, which was still going on as of last Monday. It is an unusual year when sheepshead fishing lasts into November in Virginia waters, but extended season high water temperatures seem to be becoming the pattern, instead of the exception.

Lower Shore—Mark Snook, at Chris' Bait & Tackle, reported there has been a "decent" run of speckled trout and puppy drum along the pound nets outside of Kiptopeke State Park. A pair of 20 inch flounder was caught off the park pier on Saturday, but flounder action has slowed since then. The pier was still producing some swelling toads (southern puffers) and a few speckled trout and puppy drum, according to Snook. One pair of kayak fishermen out of Cherrystone Campground caught and released an estimated 30-40 rockfish (striped bass) while casting artificials in the mouth of Cherrystone Creek. The stripers ranged in size from 12 to 36 inches.

Nighttime fishermen are starting to find large stripers along the bridge's shadow line. The third island tube was covered up with boats over the weekend, with anglers taking advantage of the unseasonal temperatures and the run of tautog and the late season population of large sheepshead. Exmore's Steven Perkins Jr. landed a nice 26-inch sheepshead which tipped the scales at 13-2 while fishing along the concrete ships outside of Kiptopeke State Park.

Wachapreague — Captain Lindsay

Paul, of Trident Tackle, reported that anglers fishing inshore have caught a mixture of puppy drum, kingfish (sand mullet), gray trout and speckled trout. Few late season flounder have been landed recently and those that have been caught have been undersized. There was no report from the offshore waters.

Chincoteague — Jimmy Vasilou, of Captain Steve's Bait & Tackle, reported his dedicated flounder fishing customers have been returning to port with two to six keepers per boat. Small snapper bluefish are still around and are hitting pieces of cut bait. Puppy drum are being caught in the back bays with anglers scoring on both cut bait and by casting artificials. Four inch Gulp Swimming Mullet and Ripple Shads fished on bucktails have produced a majority of the recent puppy drum catches. Another option consists of 5- and 7-inch Berkley Gulp Jerk Shads on weighted hooks, suspended by an approximately 18-inch mono leader under a popping cork.

The Pepper Neon patterned Jerk Shad has been a popular choice. Puppy drum, both under and over the slot size, are still hitting in the surf of Assateague and Wallops Islands on baits of cut bunker and mullet. Striped bass are showing up in larger numbers and the sizes should also increase as the waters continue to cool. Anglers targeting stripers have been doing well on 4- to 5-inch swim baits such as Bass Assassins and Trout Killers in both the curly tail and paddle tail varieties. Tautog have been taken around the bridge pilings on peeler and sand flea baits.

Upper Shore — Captain Matt Abell, at the SeaHawk Sports Center, reported that a larger class of rockfish have started to show up in the northern part of Pocomoke Sound, while Tangier Sound is holding lots of fish, but few keepers. The mouths of the Pocomoke, Manokin, and Wicomico Rivers have been holding larger fish than the deeper waters with stripers to 26 inches being landed. Anglers have also found success off Crisfield by jigging over bottom structure. Matt commented that striped bass catches were being made in water depths from 2 to 60 feet! Abell also said that surf action continues to be good over on the seaside and offshore wreck fishermen have caught a variety of species, including black sea bass, triggerfish, tautog and flounder. One customer stopped by over the weekend to weigh in a 9-8 tautog which was caught over the railcars off Chincoteague.

Bill Hall was the first Eastern Shore resident to achieve Virginia Salt Water Master Angler Status. He has been named Virginia Saltwater Angler of the Year and Virginia Saltwater Release Angler of the Year. Bill is an I.G.F.A. International Committee Representative and a longtime member of the Virginia Saltwater Fishing Tournament Committee. He is the Virginia Recreation Fishing representative on the ASMFC Striped Bass Management Panel and is a past recipient of the CCA-VA Virginia Outdoor Writer Conservation Leadership Award.

Students Learn Local Lessons With Global Implications

Submitted Article

Nandua Middle School(NMS) seventh graders immersed themselves in local seashore ecology, thanks to the Chincoteague Bay Field Station (CBFS) and the planning of their science teachers, Nancy Biegel and Jessica Stauffer.

On Oct. 23, science students were briefed on issues of climate change and marine debris by CBFS staff. Throughout the rest of the week, all NMS seventh grade science classes took turns traveling to CBFS for a day of hands-on field experience to learn more about the issues. Following the trip, CBFS returned to summarize what the students learned and challenge them to develop a community action plan to address one of the problems caused by climate change and marine debris.

Students spent half of the day at the beach, on either Assateague Island or Wallops Island, picking up marine debris and learning about seashore ecology. The other half of the day, they traveled to the CBFS living shoreline in Greenbackville.

At the outdoor classroom site, the students performed water quality tests for temperature, salinity and acidity, removed phragmites, an invasive marsh grass from southeast Asia, and learned about the use of oyster castles for habitat restoration and shoreline protection.

This CBFS field experience was important for students because they learned how global issues like climate change and marine debris affect the Eastern Shore, especially how sea level rise may affect their own coastal community and ways they may help to protect shoreline from severe storm damage. To learn more about the students' experiences with CBFS, visit their website at <http://www.cbfieldstation.org/>

Exmore Parent Thinks Punishment Too Stiff for Son Banned From Town Park

By Stefanie Jackson

The story of an Exmore youth who was “banned for life” from the town park caught the attention of town council at its Nov. 6 meeting. About a dozen and a half citizens attended, more than Councilman Chase Sturgis said he had ever seen at a town meeting; three spoke publicly.

Traci Turner objected to the lifetime ban her son received for his involvement in an incident in May. He and two other boys were playing in the park, and one of them brought a watermelon he said he found in the woods nearby. Park video surveillance caught them on camera as one of the boys smashed the melon on the sidewalk.

Turner said the two town police officers who visited her son at home afterward were very kind. Though they assured her the offense would not appear on her son's permanent record, Turner felt the trespassing notice he signed, prohibiting him from any future use of the park, was overkill. She suggested a restriction of three months or community service picking up trash around town.

Police Chief Angelo DiMartino reminded Turner he had explained the punishment would be removed if Turner's son apologized to the town manager, Robert Duer, in person, at the town hall. Duer added that only a judge has the authority to order community service, and the town did not want to prosecute the boy.

After further debate between Turner and the town council, Mayor Douglas Greer put an end to the discussion, guaranteeing the matter would be resolved by the end of the week.

Ken Dufty commended town council for how they handled the situation. “This is what I love about this town.” He said at meetings elsewhere, after the three-minute time limit, “the gavel comes down” and the speaker is not allowed to respond further. Dufty appreciated council engaging in real conversation with citizens and talking through the issues.

Linda Spence spoke to council about drainage problems at her residence and water leaking into her “sunroom ... carport ... everywhere.” She said it took 52 days to receive her copy of the letter the town sent to the Virginia Department of Transportation and various politicians requesting assistance on her behalf. She asked Duer, who wrote the letter, why he referred to the problem as a “personal property issue.” Duer said that was the truth, and he was trying to “open a dialogue” about possibly obtaining an easement, because VDOT won't dig a drainage ditch on personal property.

Council will hold a closed session Nov. 20 to discuss the effect of rising health insurance costs on the lowest-paid town employees. Duer said that with a two percent raise, these employees are “still falling behind.” Council agreed this is not acceptable.

DiMartino introduced the newest addition to the town's police force, Jonathan Gonzalez, a former Marine who owns a local business with his wife.

Councilman John Metz requested a Christmas tree for the town park; a citizen suggested planting a live tree to reuse each year. Exmore's Annual Christmas Parade will be held Dec. 9.

FAMILIAR FACE FILLS ROLE IN Northampton

By Stefanie Jackson

Northampton County's new finance director is Eastern Shore native John Chandler. He starts Dec. 4.

Chandler is currently the vice president of finance at Bayshore Concrete and was previously the assistant finance director for the Chesapeake Bay Bridge and Tunnel District.

Chandler received a bachelor's degree in business administration, with a concentration in finance, from Longwood University. He completed a professional accounting studies program at Salisbury University.

Born and raised in Onancock, Chan-dlar attended Accomack public schools and graduated from Onancock High School. He is married to Clara Chandler, who is Accomack schools' human resources director. They have two sons, Tyler and Taylor, who are students at the University of Virginia.

In his free time, Chandler enjoys visiting friends and family, traveling, boating, and biking.

County Administrator Charles Kolakowski said, “We welcome John to the Northampton County team. His skills and management experience will be valuable as we move Northampton forward.”

VETERANS' CORNER

Online Military Exchanges Now Open to Veterans

By Alexander Hightower

Attention all veterans: If you are looking to do Christmas shopping next month, you are in luck. Starting Nov. 11, all honorably discharged veterans interested in shopping at the military exchanges can do so online. Until now, the military exchanges were only for active-duty, reserve and National Guard members, retirees, 100 percent disabled veterans and their dependent family members, and certain others. However, veterans will be able to shop online this November. Those who wish to take advantage of this offer need to register at VetVerify.org as soon as possible.

VetVerify.org obtains your veteran's status and information from the Defense Department's Manpower Data Center. Veterans receive notification of their acceptance as online shoppers or, if notification if records are incomplete, along with guidance on how to update.

The exchange websites offer tax-free shopping and discounted pricing. Actual online pricing can be seen only by those who are authorized to shop at the websites: shopmyexchange.com shopcgx.com mymcx.com and mynavyexchange.com

For further details visit <https://www.shopmyexchange.com/veterans>

Melfa Man Dies Wednesday In Early Morning House Fire

By Linda Cicoira

A Melfa man, identified as Shorn Eugene Nock, 47, was found dead inside his home early Wednesday morning after about 30 firefighters responded to the Lankford Highway residence to battle a blaze there.

Fire at the home between the community college and the traffic light in Keller was reported at about 1 a.m., according to Chief Sam Baines of Melfa Volunteer Fire & Rescue Company. Firefighters from his unit, Wachapreague, Painter, Onancock, Tasley and Exmore responded.

"Light smoke" was coming from the single-wide mobile home when they arrived, Baines said. "We made entry in the front and back and started extinguishing the fire. A neighbor came over and told us the guy ... was home," he said. Then, "A search crew ... discovered the body," the chief added.

Baines would not identify the man but described him as being in his early to mid 40s. He said next of kin had been notified but it was up to the state police investigators to disclose his name and other information. Foul play was not suspected. Police were called to determine the cause of the fire, which started in the kitchen.

Baines said the kitchen and living room had smoke and fire damage. The rest of the home had smoke damage. Windows in the trailer were either blown or knocked out.

Sgt. Michelle Anaya of the state police said the body was taken to the Norfolk for autopsy.

No firefighters or rescuers were injured, Baines said.

The case is still ongoing and still under criminal investigation.

Veteran Park Rangers Partner to Provide Hunting for Other Vets

By Max Lonzanida

At a February meeting of environmental educators convened by the Nature Conservancy, Park Ranger Max Lonzanida, from the Eastern Shore of Virginia National Wildlife Refuge, and Park Ranger Bill Dyas, from Kiptopeke State Park, met, but not for the first time.

Lonzanida and Dyas served as military police specialists with the Virginia Army National Guard's 229th Military Police Company in Virginia Beach. It was 2002, and Lonzanida was in-processing as a new private, fresh out of the military police school. Dyas was the company's first sergeant, and assigned Lonzanida to the second platoon. Dyas had a wealth of knowledge to offer, having served in Desert Storm and as a prior service infantryman; while Lonzanida, the young private, had much to absorb. Dyas eventually rotated onto another guard unit out west, and Lonzanida completed his enlistment with the unit with one deployment to Iraq in 2003 under his belt.

Fast-forward 15 years to the Big Share meeting, where the two would be reacquainted, continuing their service to their communities as park rangers and in different uniforms, Lonzanida with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and Dyas with the Virginia Department of Conservation and Recreation.

This past summer, the two collaborated in joint activities that leveraged the resources at the refuge and at Kiptopeke State Park. They put together a bicycle poker ride, brought international migratory bird day, hosted guided hikes and bird watching events, and collaborated on the Family Exploration Day as part of the birding and wildlife festival. Their shared military heritage and organizational goals led to an increase in visitation of more than 20 percent this past summer at their respective public lands. Collectively, they brought in visitors, made memories, and continued their service to the community.

The two collaborated once again last weekend for an event that was especially meaningful nearing Veteran's Day. The refuge, along with American Legion Post 56 in Cheriton, hosted the Freedom Hunters, a veteran non-profit military outreach group that organizes hunting and fishing events across the country. Ranger Chase Sands, who is also an Army veteran, coordinated a successful deer hunt which allowed veteran hunters from all branches of the armed services the opportunity to hunt on the refuge.

"The veterans and Wounded Warriors harvested deer that need to be thinned and will provide many wonderful meals to their families," said Wilson Leggett, who serves as Chaplain for American Legion Post.

The post fed the Freedom Hunters dinner each day they were here, and Leggett made a stellar Brunswick stew.

The group of 20 archery hunters successfully harvested a number of white tail deer from the refuge. As if a successful hunt wasn't enough, they also took advantage of the opportunity to do some night pier fishing at Kiptopeke State Park. Ranger Dyas provided the fishing poles, tackle, bait, and expertise on how to land flounder and bluefish from the pier. This successful collaboration led to veterans enjoying several days of outdoor wildlife-dependent recreation.

Assawoman History on the Menu of church cookbook

Story and Photos by Connie Morrison

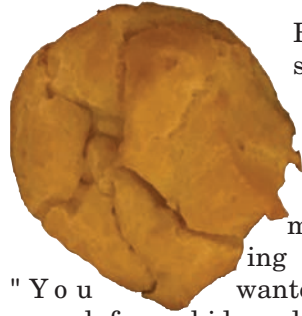

Church and food go hand-in-hand. Dinner on the grounds, covered-dish suppers, and funeral luncheons — some of our most treasured church memories revolve around food.

So when Assawoman United Methodist Church needed a fundraiser, it seemed natural to compile church members' favorite recipes into a cookbook to sell. But this cookbook has a twist.

"I didn't want it to be just a cookbook," said Sue Boggs, one of the coordinators. "I wanted it to be history, too." As it turns out, it was not the church's first cookbook.

"As best as we could figure (the first was) sometime in the 60s," said Grayson Chesser, county supervisor and member of the cookbook committee.

Recipes from the original book were folded in as "heirloom recipes," providing a culinary church history.

Recipes that serve up to 250 are included, reflecting a time when communal cooking was common.

"You wanted to have enough for kids and visitors," said Boggs, adding for the larger recipes, "All you need is a bigger pot."

Historic photos of the community and church members are also included. "I wanted it to be a memorial to the church, the place, and the people," Boggs said.

The cookbook can be found at T's Corner, Hickory Hill Outpost, in Painter, and Jaxon's in Parksley, and after church (service starts at 9:30 a.m.). The church is holding an indoor rummage sale Saturday, Nov. 11, at 8 a.m., and will have cookbooks at the sale.

CREAM PUFFS

HEIRLOOM RECIPE BY MRS. LOUISE POWELL

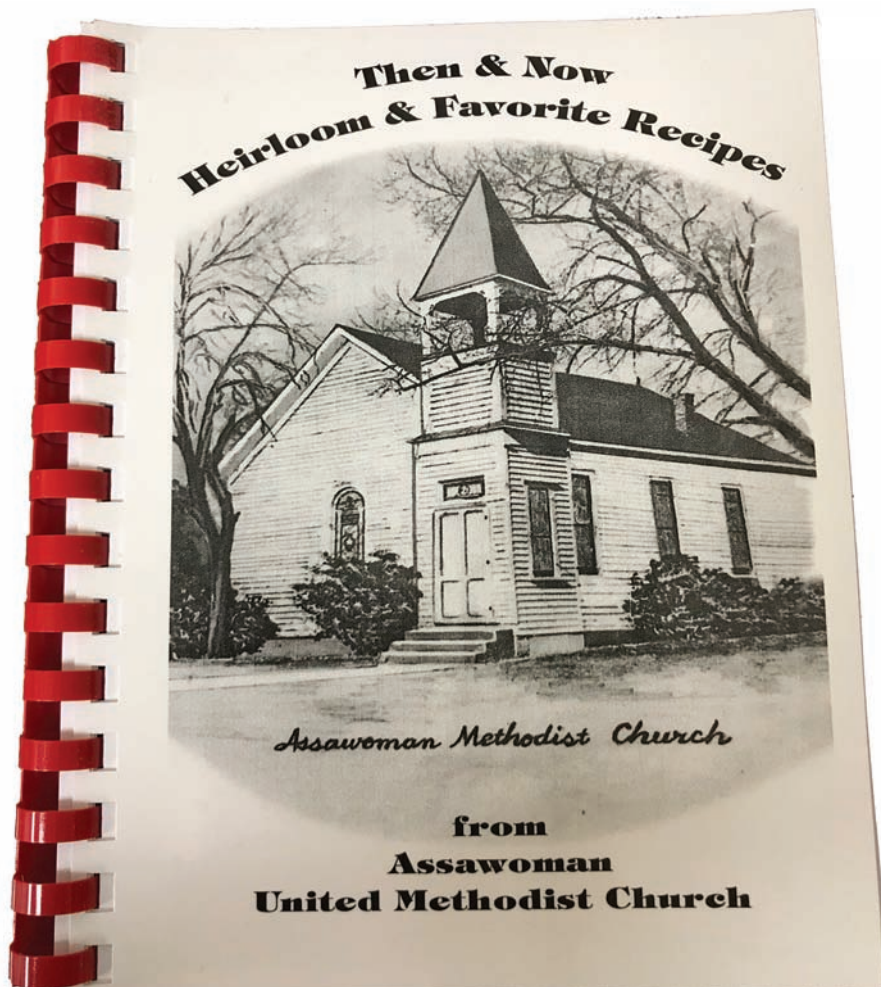

INGREDIENTS:

- 1 CUP BOILING WATER
- 1/2 CUP SHORTENING
- 1 CUP FLOUR
- 4 EGGS

DIRECTIONS:

- AT STOVE, ADD SHORTENING TO BOILING WATER AND BRING TO A BOIL. ADD THE FLOUR AND STIR THOROUGHLY.
- REMOVE FROM HEAT AND LET MIXTURE COOL SLIGHTLY.
- ADD EGGS ONE AT A TIME, BEATING IN EACH EGG FOR SOME TIME BEFORE ADDING THE NEXT.
- DROP BY TABLESPOON ONTO A GREASED COOKIE SHEET ABOUT TWO INCHES APART, SHAPING INTO A CIRCLE AND MOUNTING A LITTLE IN THE MIDDLE.
- BAKE 15 MINUTES AT 400 DEGREES, REDUCE HEAT TO 350 DEGREES AND BAKE FOR FIVE MINUTES CHECKING PERIODICALLY FOR DONENESS. WHEN THE CREAM PUFF IS TAPPED, IT WILL SOUND HOLLOW.
- COOL, CUT A SLIT ON SIDE OF THE PUFFS AND FILL WITH CREAM FILLING OR WHIPPED CREAM. TOP WITH CONFECTIONERS' SUGAR OR MELTED CHOCOLATE.

NOTE: THE PUFFS PICTURED ABOVE WERE MADE WITH 1/4 CUP OF BATTER EACH. ADJUST COOKING TIMES ACCORDINGLY. THERE WAS NO RECIPE INCLUDED FOR FILLING. JUST USE AN EASY CREAM FILLING (INSTANT VANILLA PUDDING MADE WITH HALF MILK AND HALF SOUR CREAM WORKS WELL AND IS VERY QUICK), OR FILL WITH SWEETENED WHIPPED CREAM IF SERVING IMMEDIATELY. SINCE THE CREAM PUFFS HAVE A NEUTRAL FLAVOR, THEY CAN ALSO BE FILLED WITH CHICKEN SALAD AND SERVED AS FINGER SANDWICHES (SKIP DUSTING WITH SUGAR, OF COURSE.)

KES Red Cross Donation

Kiptotepeke Elementary's Student Council Association recently conducted a fundraiser called "Hats, Heroes, and Hugs for Hurricane Relief." On Oct. 31, students were able to wear their favorite hat or hero costume for the day in return for a small donation to help relief efforts. Students also wrote letters of encouragement to Hilliard Elementary School in Houston, Texas, which experienced extensive damage during Hurricane Harvey. Students were forced to relocate to another building.

Together, Kippers raised $265.60 to donate to the American Red Cross.

TRUSTEE SALE
709 Prestwick Turn, Cape Charles, VA 23310
Northampton County

In execution of a Deed of Trust in the original principal amount of $328,213.00, dated November 29, 2005, recorded in the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of the Northampton County, Virginia, in Document No. 050004358, default having occurred in the payment of the Note thereby secured and at the request of the holder of said Note, the undersigned Substitute Trustee will offer for sale at public auction at the front entrance of the Northampton County Courthouse, 5229 The Hornes, Eastville, on December 11, 2017, at 11:45 AM the property described in said deed, located at the above address and briefly described as:

Unit 22-709, Building 22, Fairways I Condominium, Phase 1, together with an undivided interest in the common elements.

Subject to any and all covenants, conditions, restrictions, easements, and all other matters of record taking priority over the Deed of Trust, if any, affecting the aforesaid property.

TERMS OF SALE: CASH: A deposit of $20,000.00 or 10% of the sales price, whichever is lower, cash or certified check will be required at the time of sale, but no more than $10,000.00 of cash will be accepted, with settlement within fifteen (15) days from the date of sale. Sale is subject to post sale confirmation that the borrower did not file for protection under the U.S. Bankruptcy Code prior to the sale which affects the validity of the sale, as well as to post-sale confirmation of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, the sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of his deposit without interest. Additional terms may be announced at the time of sale. Pursuant to the Federal Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, we advise you that this firm is a debt collector attempting to collect the indebtedness referred to herein and any information we obtain will be used for that purpose.

What has happened to common courtesy?

As I watched the aftermath of the Tuesday's elections, I despaired. I read comments on Facebook and my stomach turned, as neighbors turned on neighbors with name-calling and venom. Those whose candidates lost, lashed out. Those whose candidates won, gloated. We have made politics so personal that when our candidate loses, it feels like a personal affront. It stings.

There was a time when I despaired the outcome of an election. I despaired for our country. I wondered how we would survive, much less, move forward. I talked to my grandmother. (She will celebrate 101 years on Nov. 15.)

She said she had felt that way before, too: during the McCarthy years, during unrest of the 60s, during Watergate, to name a few.

She reminded me that we are not our president, nor our governor, nor whoever occupies any elected office at any given time. What makes us great is our care for one another and the community that is built from caring about and responding to the needs of others. That bond is stronger than anything that can be destroyed by anyone temporarily in office.

Her advice could be summarized as: love your neighbor, go to church, and "vote those rascals out" in the next election.

So for those who are still feeling the sting from Tuesday, I prescribe my grandmother's advice.

And to those for whom the election turned out just as they wanted, please be gracious. You may not understand it, but some of your friends and neighbors are hurting. Give them time to heal. I can already hear people asking, "Why should we, when they rubbed it in our faces when their candidate won?"

That's what being gracious is, and if we are ever to restore common courtesy, someone has to make the first move.

My grandmother said so.

Fourth Graders Show Us The Way

Dear Editor:

Those precious Metompkin fourth graders and teachers really impressed me (Oct. 27 edition). There is hope for our young people when they are so kind and loving as these kids are. They show that kindness and love are the way we all should live.

May God bless them in all their future endeavors in the years to come.

Barbara B. Watson, Stockton, Md.

Social/Emotional Development as Important as Instructional Strategies

Dear Editor:

It is important to have a program that evaluates social-emotional development as it gives insight to students' mental health. As a young child, ranging from pre-K to kindergarten, children identify interactions and these interactions will later shape them as they mature. They watch their role models and learn their daily scenarios. It is also very important for parents to become aware of the students' social/emotional health at a such a young age, as this is where the brain is developing and changing.

While the student is maturing and progressing into middle school. It is reasonable for the teacher to stay away from "spoon-feeding," as this will allow students to be able to think on their own, and will later prepare them for success in a career. In other terms, students who are "babied," will always seek this attention from elders and won't learn problem solving techniques to achieve goals.

Lastly, as not one student was expelled from Northampton schools, this is a positive aspect in both teachers and students. It can only help students to appoint a student success coach. This will allow students and the success coach to identify and correct solutions to problems they're having in school.

Noah Zember, Onley

Thanks for Voting "Yes"

Dear Editor:

Thank you to everyone who worked on the "Elect Our School Board" campaign.

It was a grass roots effort that grew from parents, educators and community members who felt their voices were not heard and the school board members were not accountable to anyone.

Thanks to everyone who collected signatures last November, and thank you to all who posted "VOTE YES" flyers and put signs up around the Shore and especially the folks who worked the polls on election day.

What a great and diverse group of people who worked together to help make our school system and ultimately our community a better place!

*Janet Martin-Turner, Accomac
