It was “out with the old” in Wachapreague Tuesday as memories, mortar, and walls were cast aside. The front end of the former century-old A.G. James General Merchandise Store was knocked off its foundation by a pick-up truck in August 2013 and is finally being torn down. Pat Hart, who owns the building, hopes to restore the back end of the structure and reopen Seaside Antiques (pictured at right before the crash). Most of the inventory was broken in the crash.

LOCAL STATE POLICE FORCE IS UNDER NEW LEADERSHIP

“I want to make a difference because I feel like I was meant to be here,” said 1st Sgt. Lawrence W. Brown (at right), who recently took over as commander of the State Police on the Shore. “I feel like it’s going to be a perfect fit. I’m committed. I’m dedicated. I’m ready to go.”

He is also the first black man to get the job. The 54-year-old is living in Onancock and wants to “pick up where 1st Sgt. (J.P.) Koushel “left off. I want to make Route 13 corridor a safe place.”

“The folks here ... everyone that I’ve met so far I’ve been welcomed with open arms,” he continued. “Everybody speaks and presents a smile when they see you.”

When he tells people he is the new State Police commander, “They say, ‘Great! Welcome to the area.’

That’s a good feeling. ... I’ve been working in the city basically ... this is the first time I’ve worked in a rural county. But I pretty much have done everything in the department.”

“The Eastern Shore — this place is huge for the amount of troopers that we have here,” said Brown. From Seaside Road just north of the Chesapeake Bay-Bridge Tunnel to the Maryland line, 20 troopers patrol. Seasonally, as many as 19,000 vehicles a day travel Route 13, also known as Lankford Highway.

“We have a lot of traffic coming

Planning Commission Leans Toward Approval of New Solar System

By Linda Cicaira

Accomack's Planning Commission informally gave its nod last month for a conditional-use permit that would allow Eastern Shore Solar, LLC (ESS) to erect 80-megawatt solar panels when it directed staff to work up a recommendation of approval.

The commission will review the Withams/Oak Hall proposal and staff input on Jan. 14. If favorable, Accomack supervisors will then hold a public hearing on Jan. 21 and entertain the request.

The Planning Commission held a hearing last month that was attended by about 100 people. Only two spoke and both favored the panels, which will generate enough electricity for 20,000 homes, according to information that was presented. The system will not compete with A-N Electric Cooperative.

ESS is a private company that has been in the renewable energy business for 15 years.

The supervisors approved a similar project near Oak Grove Church outside of Melfa in 2011 but the project was never started.

Solar panels such as these may be built in Accomack County.

through here," he said. "We have to be vigilant at all times."

Brown wants to get 24 troopers — the maximum number the state allows — assigned to the Shore. He's looking for higher visibility. "We have additional resources like our Motor Squad Program to combat speed," he continued.

"They were here in early November. I would like to try to get them here at least once a month. Twice a month would be perfect." Brown wants to do the same with the state's Motor Carrier Team, which enforces weight and safety regulations for trucks.

"I'm open to opinions and suggestions from the citizens," he said, adding that he would "go up the chain" to get the answers.

In conjunction with Virginia Department of Transportation (VDOT), Brown wants to erect speed-limit indicators to slow people down. "Anything that we can do within reason to curb this fatality rate with DUI and speeding," he continued, adding he's in favor of using billboards or "a wrecked mangled vehicle. ... Life is precious. Whatever we could do to try to curb this thing would be in the best interest of everyone ... the majority of speeders or violators are not folks from the Eastern Shore."

"We want the general public to know we're here for them," Brown said. We "could also have more checkpoints. Have a joint checkpoint with the local police department-ments. I'm inclined to make it known to see if that would be a deterrent" to drinking and driving.

Brown also wants to stop drug traffickers from traveling through the area with their wares by bringing in experts in recognizing them.

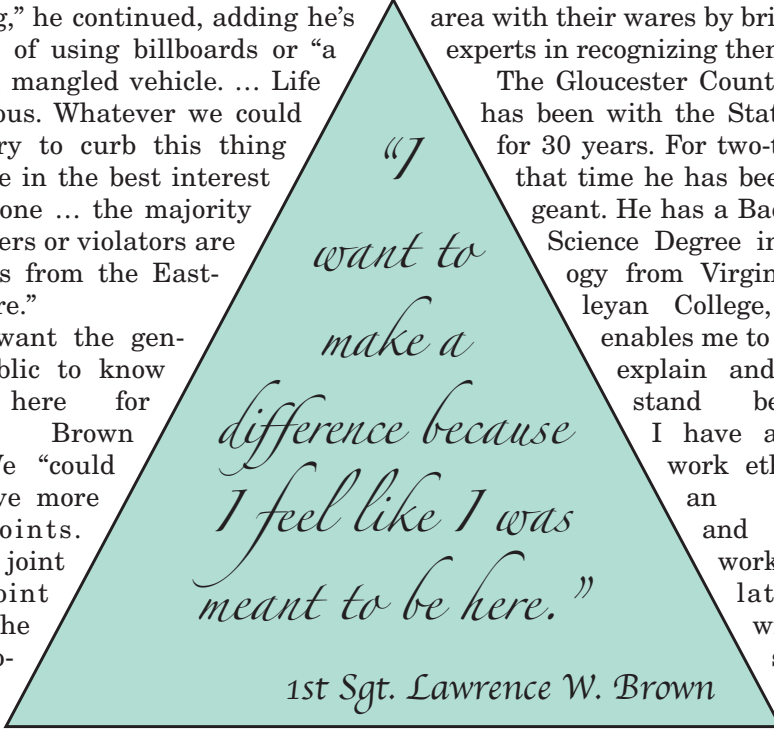

The Gloucester County native has been with the State Police for 30 years. For two-thirds of that time he has been a sergeant. He has a Bachelor of Science Degree in Sociology from Virginia Wesleyan College, "which enables me to analyze, explain and understand behaviors. I have a strong work ethic with an effective and positive working relationship with my supervisor, co-workers and subordinates."

"I have served my entire career within Division 5. I am extremely familiar with the division and all nine (of the) area offices with a good working relationship with the division command staff and area supervisors. ... I feel I am an effective leader and a mentor for those I supervise."

Among Brown's many assignments was working covertly in the Bureau of Criminal Investigations (BCI) in the Firearms Investigation Unit and in internal affairs, where he "completed approximately 125 report investigations."

Brown said his wife works as a secretary senior at the State Police office in Chesapeake. He has three grown sons, all of whom are either serving their country or training to do so. The oldest graduated from West Point and is stationed in Turkey. The middle son is also in the Army, stationed at Fort Bragg. The youngest is a student at the Coast Guard Academy in Connecticut.

Fire Destroys Atlantic Family's Home

By Linda Cicaira

An Atlantic area family was left homeless early Friday, Dec. 26, when fire swept through the home they lived in for more than 40 years.

Sharon and Alvin Thomas raised five children, six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren in the large, white, two-story house. The frame of the structure is still standing at 31261 Nock's Landing Rd., but everything inside was destroyed.

The couple is staying at a Chincoteague motel until they can find housing. They hope insurance money will be enough to rebuild on the site.

"I don't know" what happened, Sharon Thomas said Tuesday. "All I know is the computer went down. The Christmas tree started rocking (and) I heard a pop." She said her husband went to investigate and found a first-story bedroom in flames.

"We lost everything," Mrs. Thomas said. "Nothing but the phone that I was talking on and the pocketbook."

The couple, two of their grandchilddren — a 6-year-old boy and a 5-year-old girl, and an adopted 13-year-old girl escaped without injury.

Atlantic Volunteer Fire & Rescue Chief David Grant said a call came in at around 12:15 a.m. Units from Atlantic, New Church, Chincoteague, Bloxom and Oak Hall responded. Grant said the cause is "undetermined at this time."

The Red Cross was called to help the family.

The Thomas' oldest granddaughter, Sheena Christopher, said community outpouring has been terrific. They have been "very supportive to help us through this ordeal." She said that while a final determination has not been made, the fire is suspected to have been electrical.

The family is still in need of clothing. The sizes are girl's 10-12, boy's 8, girl's medium shirt and size 13 jeans, woman's 3x shirt and 2x pants, and men's 3x shirt and 44/32 pants.

Call Linda Christopher, the Thomas' daughter, at 757-894-8351 to make a donation.

Rick Hall Selected for State Award

Rick Hall of Loblolly Farms was presented the 2014 Coastal River Basin Grand Award by Gov. Terry McAuliffe on Dec. 8 at the Virginia Association of Soil & Water Conservation Districts' (VASWCD) annual meeting in Roanoke.

Virginia Secretary of Natural Resources Molly Ward and VASWCD President Lou Ann Wallace were also present for the awards ceremony.

Hall was given a metal sign to display on his farm in recognition of his accomplishments in soil and water conservation efforts. He was awarded the 2014 Clean Water Farm Award by the Eastern Shore Soil & Water Conservation District (ESSWCD) in September, which allowed him to compete at a regional level for the Coastal River Basin Grand Award. This is one of 10 River

Basin Grand Awards that are selected annually from all recipients of Virginia's Clean Water Farm Award and is administered by the Virginia Department of Conservation and Recreation (DCR) in partnership with Virginia's 47 soil and water conservation districts.

Through this program, DCR recognizes the many farms that demonstrate outstanding management of their soil and water resources. The bulk of Loblolly Farms includes corn, wheat and soybeans. Hall follows a nutrient management plan for his diverse conservation efforts and has participated in many cost share incentive programs offered through the Virginia Natural Resources Conservation Service and ESSWCD.

Hall demonstrates the implementation of best management practices that reduce nutrients, sediments and pathogens from runoff pollution that impacts the quality of state waters.

Onancock Resident Dies at Home

Virginia Ann "Ginny" Purcell, 79, of Onancock, formerly of Manasquan, N.J., died peacefully at home Friday, Dec. 19, 2014.

Born in Brooklyn, N.Y., to her loving parents, Ralph and Ann Fletcher, she moved with her family to the Jersey Shore where they settled in Spring Lake Heights. She attended St. Rose High School, where she met her future husband, Richard "Richie" Purcell, and developed friendships that lasted a lifetime. She was a proud graduate of St. Vincent's School of Nursing in New York City. In Manasquan, she raised two sons. They hope to have made her proud. Through the '70s and '80s, she was the head nurse at Monmouth County Tuberculosis Clinic, providing care for underserved residents in the area. There she met Dot, who became her friend, lifelong companion, member of the family, and eventually her caregiver.

Ginny and Dot left the TB Clinic and ventured to the Eastern Shore, where they took over E.L. Willis General Store, and turned it into a restaurant. After eight years, they called it quits, retired to Onancock, and hit the road.

Ginny loved to travel and camp. She started her camping adventures as a single Mom with her two young sons and a tent. In retirement, she and Dot drove throughout North America, seeing the natural beauty, meeting people, and finding casinos whenever they could.

Virginia Purcell was a special lady. She overcame hardship through toughness, determination, and devotion to others. She is survived by her sons and daughters-in-law, Richard and Maryellen of Fair Haven, N.J., and Michael and Lois of New Berlin, Pa.; her lifelong friend, Dot; and six grandchildren, Samantha, Helene, Caitlin, Erin, Richie, and Jimmy Purcell.

A memorial gathering was held at Neary Quinn Funeral Home in Manasquan Friday, Dec. 26. A memorial Mass was held the following day at St. Catharine's Roman Catholic Church in Spring Lake, N.J., followed by a burial service at St. Catharine's Cemetery.

Memory tributes may be shared at www.williamsfuneralhomes.com

Local arrangements were made by Williams-Onancock Funeral Home.

Retired Army Colonel Dies at Hermitage

Herbert William Fuller, Lt. Col. (retired), U.S. Army, passed away at the Hermitage on the Eastern Shore in Onancock Monday, Dec. 29, 2014, at the age of 97.

Born in Kittery, Maine, Col. Fuller attended high school in York, Maine, where he met his future wife, Muriel Fuller. At the time of their marriage on Sept. 27, 1941, he was a corporal in the Army, later to graduate from Officer Candidate School as a second lieutenant in 1942. During World War II, he served in New Jersey, California, New Guinea, and the Philippines, where he and his communication unit prepared for the anticipated invasion of mainland Japan. His unit was to broadcast reports of the invasion for Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and was to go ashore 72 hours or 300 yards after the initial landings, whichever came first. The invasion never came and Lt. Fuller served on MacArthur's communications staff in Tokyo during the post-war occupation. Demobilized from the Army in 1945, he worked for the Prudential Insurance Company in Portsmouth, N.H., and rejoined the Army in 1951 during the Korean War. He served in California, the Philippines, Kentucky, Vietnam, Texas, Germany, and Arizona, remaining in the Army until his retirement in 1966. After the Army, Col. Fuller worked as a communications engineer for Philco-Ford (and then Computer Science Corporation) in Alabama, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Oslo, Norway, on an MIT Lincoln Lab seismograph project, and NASA Wallops Flight Facility. In 1973, the Fullers settled down in a home they helped build by a country pond, near Greenbush. Col. Fuller got his private pilot's license (which he held until he was 80) and loved to fly his Beech Musketeer single-engine aircraft out of the Accomack County airport in Melfa. One of his favorite trips was to fly his wife up the East Coast and past New York City to visit relatives in Maine.

Col. Fuller was predeceased by his wife of 71 years, Muriel Welch Fuller.

He is survived by his son and daughter-in-law, Randall and Jane Fuller of Dallas, Texas; niece, Gabrielle Cote of York; nephew, James Husson-Cote of Provincetown, Mass.; Wendy Cote of Cape Neddick, Maine; the family of Wendy Cote and Col. Fuller's deceased nephew, Matthew Cote; Teresita Askman of Milton Mills, N.H.; and the family of Teresita Askman and Col. Fuller's deceased nephew, Christopher Cote.

There will be a memorial gathering of Col. Fuller's friends and relatives to celebrate his life on Saturday, Jan. 10, at 2 p.m., at the Hermitage on the Eastern Shore in Onancock. Interment of the ashes of Col. and Mrs. Fuller will be where they grew up and were married, in York.

Memorial contributions may be made to SPCA of the Eastern Shore, P.O. Box 164, Onley, VA 23418. Family and friends lost count of the number of lucky cats that adopted Col. and Mrs. Fuller over the years. Memory tributes may be shared with the family at www.williamsfuneralhomes.com

Arrangements were made by Williams-Parksley Funeral Home.

Health Officials Kick Off '100 Congregations for Million Hearts'

The Virginia Department of Health Office of Minority Health and Health Equity (VDH-OMHHE) has kicked off its "100 Congregations for Million Hearts" faith-based campaign. This initiative is designed to help guide more Virginians toward a heart-healthy lifestyle by enlisting the support of faith-based organizations to help raise awareness and prevent cardiovascular disease by focusing on hypertension control.

In joining the program, each congregation agrees to work toward reducing two of the leading causes of death in the U.S. — heart disease and stroke. VDH's goal is to recruit 100 faith-based organizations into the national "Million Hearts" initiative, which is a public-private partnership created to prevent 1 million heart attacks and strokes by 2017.

"Heart disease and stroke are the second and third leading causes of death in Virginia, and heart disease is responsible for one of every four deaths in the country," said State Health Commissioner Marissa J. Levine, MD, MPH, FFAFP. "Change begins one person at a time, so equipping individuals in faith communities to reach out and be an example and trusted resource to their neighbors has the potential to save lives and plant the seeds of lasting change."

"The Office of Minority Health and Health Equity is proud to support this initiative," said OMHHE Director

Adrienne McFadden, MD, JD, FACEP, FAAEM, FCLM. "This prevention-based, community-focused approach aligns with our mission of identifying root causes of health inequities and promoting equitable opportunities to be healthy. It has the potential to form community relationships and health communication strategies that go beyond cardiovascular disease prevention."

Getting started is easy. First, a congregation member is selected as the "Million Hearts" advocate. This individual will serve as the congregation's key resource for heart-health information and provide direction and motivation to members reaching out to their communities. Also, congregations are asked to do at least two of the four activities below:

- Establish and/or strengthen relationships with local experts and resources (community pharmacists, health centers, community health workers).

- Disseminate messages about the importance of and action steps to hypertension control.

- Promote Heart Health Mobile (an app that helps to determine and reduce heart attack and stroke risk).

- Distribute blood pressure tracking wallet cards.

Congregations interested in participating should complete the sign-up form available on line at <http://www.vdh.virginia.gov/OMHHE> and then e-mail it to Augustine Doe, OMHHE health equity specialist, at augustine.doe@vdh.virginia.gov or fax it to Augustine's attention at 804-864-7440.

Al Michaels Book a Page Turner

It's always nice to get a book for Christmas to read over the holidays when presumably you have time to relax and curl up with said book.

My golfing buddy Charlie Cameron usually gives me a book for Christmas. Last year it was Frank DeFord's "Over Time, My Life as a Sportswriter."

This year it was "You Can't Make This Up, Miracles, Memories and the Perfect Marriage of Sports and Television" by broadcaster Al Michaels.

As I did last year, I enjoyed this book from the first page.

But this year, more than most, time to read was an issue. The house, at one time or another, and sometimes all at once, had three granddaughters age 6 or younger, three dogs — one a 10-week-old Lab puppy — two cats and frequent visitors bringing holiday cheer.

At times, it was chaos of the highest order, as the puppy chased the dogs, irritated the cats and bowled over the toddlers. The tree also began to list badly as it took one hit after another.

But, somehow, between the board games, the rides on the toy pony and the long walks with the puppy for my sanity and that of the house guests, I found time to finish this book in four days.

I really don't think you have to be a hard-core sports fan to enjoy this book. Michaels is now 70, and his first memory in life is going to Ebbets Field, home of the Brooklyn Dodgers, in the summer of 1950. Believe it or not, one of the broadcasters at that game was 23-year-old Vin Scully, who is still calling Dodger games today.

Michaels said that at a very young age, he dreamed not of playing Major League Baseball, but of announcing Major League Baseball, "where you'd get to meet the players, travel with the team, and, I assumed, get paid."

Today, Michaels has logged more hours on live prime-time network television than anyone in history, including 20 years as the play-by-play voice of "Monday Night Football." He has covered all four major sports championships — the Super Bowl, the World Series, the NBA finals, and the Stanley Cup finals — as well as the Olympic Games, the Triple Crown and many more.

His first job after graduating from Arizona State in 1966 was to procure potential contestants for the TV show "The Dating Game." His pay was $95 a week.

His first big break into sports broadcasting was as the color man for the Los Angeles Lakers basketball games. It lasted all of four games. Hall of Fame announcer Chick Hearn made it clear he didn't want to share the mike with a 22-year-old greenhorn.

From there, Michaels got a job as the play-by-play announcer for a minor league baseball team, the Hawaii Islanders. For an entire season of games, he was paid $15,000. Today, for doing one game a week during the 16-game season and some selected NBA games, he is paid $5 million. Michaels has found you do get paid for this job.

In 1971, he became the play-by-play man of the Cincinnati Reds when they were becoming the Big Red Machine. He became fast friends with Pete Rose because they both enjoyed going to the racetrack and laying bets on the horses, never thinking gambling would be Rose's downfall.

Michaels' one thought as a baseball announcer was to "just sound like Scully," the broadcaster he hoped to replace as the Dodger announcer when Scully retired. Now, he jokes he will likely retire before Scully.

Because the San Francisco Giants offered him a generous increase over the $30,000 he was making with the Reds, he found himself in the broadcast booth at Candlestick Park, "freezing my butt off, announcing a game with a crowd that would often number less than five thousand. Meanwhile, the Reds were in contention, playing to packed houses, and on their way to consecutive World Series titles in 1975 and 1976."

He points out that Marty Brennaman, who replaced him in Cincinnati and once called games in Norfolk, stayed for over 40 years and is in the Baseball Hall of Fame.

In 1976, while still broadcasting for the Giants, Michaels was hired by ABC to announce the secondary game for "Monday Night Baseball." He says he became the King of the Redeye, crisscrossing the country while his wife Linda was holding down the fort at home with their two young children. Still married to her with two successful children, Michaels gives much of the credit for his success to his wife.

When he joined ABC full-time the next year, he called college football games and events for "Wide World of Sports," where "my first ever assignment was — drum roll, please — the World Barrel Jumping Championships in the Chicago suburb of Northbrook, Ill."

Back in 1972, between baseball seasons, NBC asked him to be an announcer for the 1972 Olympic Winter Games in Japan. Unlike today, when there are thousands of staffers and hundreds of announcers, NBC had only nine on-air announcers for those games.

Michaels covered speed skating, biathlon, ski jumping and other events, and when it came to the gold-medal game for hockey, he was asked to call it despite never having announced a hockey game. He explains the assignment was by default because no one else was available.

Of course, most sports fans know that assignment led to one of the most famous calls in sports, when in 1980, Michaels delivered the line, "Do you believe in miracles? Yes!" at the conclusion of the USA win over the Soviet Union in the 1980 Olympics, a game that almost no one gave the Americans a chance of winning.

Without going into much detail about the remainder of the book and the big games that Michaels called, including eight Super Bowls — soon to be nine — and several World Series, including the 1989 opening of Game 3 as an earthquake hit, just know that he talks about his friendships with O.J. Simpson and Howard Cosell. He often played tennis with Simpson at Simpson's house only a few blocks from his own, and shared a booth on "Monday Night Football" with Cosell, whom he found to be a "charming, brilliant, bitter, confounding, complex and maddening figure — sometimes, it seemed, all at once."

Of Simpson, whom he often visited in jail after Simpson was accused of murdering his wife and her friend, Michaels says, "O.J. was on the other side of the Plexiglas, and, rather than denying it all, he was still saying, 'I can't believe anybody thinks I could have done this,' or 'How can they think I did this?' That was more and more disconcerting for me. He never said, 'I didn't do it!'"

There's plenty more about interactions with Michael Jordan, Rush Limbaugh, John Madden, Cris Collinsworth, Bill Parcells, Bob Costas, Boone Arledge, Curt Gowdy, Dennis Miller, Frank Gifford, John Wooden, Earl Weaver and many more.

Michaels also reveals the power of television and talks about the changes the cable networks, the Internet and social media have brought to sports.

A seven-time Emmy winner who has been inducted into multiple Halls of Fame, including Pro Football and Television, Michaels does all this in a modest, often amusing and insightful manner that will make you turn the page regardless of the distractions around you.

Hunters for Hungry Need Deer Donations

The Eastern Shore Chapter of the Hunters for the Hungry needs deer donations during this final month of the hunting season.

The program has received 75 deer to date, with a goal of 200 deer. Now that the doe harvest restriction has been removed for the remainder of the season, the local chapter is encouraging hunters to donate deer to the program. The deer hunting season closes on Jan. 3.

Deer must be properly registered and field-dressed. The deer may be taken to the refrigerated trailers at The Foodbank in Tasley, B&B Convenience on Lankford Highway in Machipongo, or Chris' Bait and Tackle in Capeville. The deer also may be taken directly to the processors: Brent Powell, in Wachapreague, Matt Killmon at Buck Trails in Onancock, or Scott Hines at Eastern Shore Outfitters in Exmore. Matthews Market in Mappsville will take only skinned deer during business hours. There is no cost to the hunter to donate deer to the program.

Hunters for the Hungry is a non-profit organization and contributions are deductible as allowed by law. With 2014 closing, the chapter also encourages any end-of-year donations to pay for the processing costs for the deer. Donations, made out to "Hunters for the Hungry" may be sent to Worth Saunders, chapter director, at P.O. Box 1702, Parksley, VA 23421.

Nandua's Anthony Smith scores in a recent contest. The Warriors split a pair of holiday contests last weekend.

Nandua Boys' Hoop Team Splits Pair in Holiday Tournament in Salisbury

Nandua won the opener of the Governor's Challenge basketball tournament at Wicomico High School in Salisbury, Md., with a 73-66 win over Crisfield last Friday night.

The Warriors built a 22-point lead over the Crabbers in the second quarter, but had to hold off a late Crisfield charge that cut the lead to 3.

Nandua was only 16 of 34 from the free-throw line, but two key throws by Tyreim Blake with 22 seconds left gave the Warriors some breathing room.

Blake, a senior captain, finished the game with 17 points, 12 rebounds and 12 assists, compiling a triple double. He also finished with five steals and a blocked shot.

Nandua is now 4-2 and plays again when it hosts Arcadia on Thursday, Jan. 8. Other games this week include Chincoteague hosting Salisbury School Tuesday and Broadwater Wednesday, with both games tipping off at 5:30 p.m. On Tuesday, the Chincoteague girls play Salisbury School at 4 p.m.

Crisfield was led by Jawyne Taylor with 27 points. He also contributed five rebounds, three assists, five steals and two blocks.

Nandua fell behind early and could not catch Seaford in falling 55-40. After getting off to a fast start and hitting a high percentage of shots in the tourney opener, the Warriors had only seven field goals in the first half and just six after intermission. Nandua also was out-rebounded 24-19.

Troy Planter led Nandua with 14 points.

For Seaford, Rahiem Smith had 19 points and eight rebounds.

Arcadia Girls Win Consolation

The Arcadia Lady Firebirds won the consolation game of the Crisfield Christmas Tournament Tuesday by defeating Washington 27-18.

Washington started the game with only four players, and when a Jaguar player fouled out in the second quarter, leaving Washington only three payers, the game was called.

Deshell Johnson had 10 points to lead Arcadia. JaQuagia Tull added 8 points, and Sarah Jones chipped in with 6.

On Monday, the Arcadia girls lost the opener of the Crisfield Christmas Tournament to Crisfield 38-20.

Jones led the Firebirds with 7 points; Tull and Johnson added 4 points each. Normaya Harris had 3 points.

Crystal Merritt led the Crabbers with 16 points and Kelli Bradshaw contributed with 10 points, 20 rebounds and 10 blocks. Stephanie Pinchback added 10 points and 21 rebounds for Crisfield.

Doughty Lands Striper

Bill Doughty of Eastville caught this nice rock last weekend in the lower Chesapeake Bay. Stripers pushing to 40 and 50-pounds were boated this past week, but the Chesapeake Bay season closed on Dec. 31.

Looking at Final Virginia Salt Water Fishing Tournament Report

The final Virginia Salt Water Fishing Tournament report shows no local anglers leading any categories, although the leading striped bass, a 58-pound, 5-ounce striper, was caught by E.B. Padgett of Roanoke at the Cell off Cape Charles, and the top tuna, a 111-pounder by Glen Tsaparas of Falls Church, was caught off Wachapreague. Two other leaders — a 10-pound, 3-ounce flounder caught by Dave Oswald of Virginia Beach, and a 17-pound, 14-ounce sheepshead caught by Ronald Casupanan of Norfolk — were taken at the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel, a popular fishing site accessible to anglers from the Eastern Shore and Virginia Beach.

For the second consecutive year, no citations were given for gray trout, but a lone angler earned a citation for a 1-pound spot after no citations were given for that category in 2013. The greatest number of citations was awarded for red drum releases — 922, compared to 993 last year.

In all, there were 4,499 citations issued this year, compared to 5,264 last year and 5,555 in 2012. No new state records were set this year.

Of those 4,499 citations, 1,423 were for fish weighed at certified scales, and 3,256 were for releases.

The Chesapeake Bay season for striped bass ended Dec. 31, but hardy anglers will turn now to trolling in ocean waters to find keeper fish. However, targeting striped bass outside the three-mile demarcation is illegal.

According to Dr. Julie Ball, tautog are still hitting on most lower bay wrecks and along the structure of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel, where anglers are catching fish ranging to around 3 to 6 pounds. Nice tog are also beginning to respond on more coastal and offshore wrecks when boats can venture out to reach them.

There is a lot of promise for the New Year in the beginning of January. The slate is clean. We have our resolutions. We start out with a holiday. We eat special foods. We consider the treats good luck. We even greet each other with warm wishes. Oh yippee!

And then there is Jan. 5, the official back to work day. It will be here before you know it. Three days from now. It is also "National Bird Day."

So what will happen on New Year's Day while you celebrate, put away your Christmas decorations or nurse your hangover? Well for one thing laws for keeping a driver's license will change in Virginia.

Instead of waiting until you are 80 to be required to renew your license in person, you will have to do it at 75. No longer will you be able to perform this task electronically or by mail. And instead of waiting eight years to do it again, you'll be mandated to renew every five years. And you'll have to pass the eye test every time.

If you didn't realize that Jan. 2 was "Run it Up the Flagpole and See if Anyone Salutes Day," then you may really have missed out on a stellar idea or your opportunity to set a new trend. (We are all counting our blessings right about now.)

Maybe you missed that chance because you started a little early in your observance of "Festival of Sleep Day," which is always on Jan. 3. According to a holiday website, "No, you are not dreaming. But, perhaps you should be."

"Festival of Sleep Day is ... an opportunity to sleep in, snooze, doze, nap and catch 40 winks ... Why not re-charge the batteries as a new year of school and work begins? ... Whether it's all day, a full eight hours or just a power nap, enjoy ... cozy up in bed, on the couch or any other comfortable place."

I'm sad to report that Jan. 3 is also "Fruitcake Toss Day." What kind of disrespectful observance is this? If you don't like the delicacy, I suggest you bring the cakes to me at the Eastern Shore Post's office at Four Corner Plaza in Onley. I love fruitcake and didn't have a bite over the holidays. I'm hinting as hard as I can. I promise to share with my fellow workers.

One of my favorite holidays is "Trivia Day," which is Jan. 4. I've got loads of interesting information for all you readers. Spring is less than 80 days away. More than $50 million a year is spent to promote "Cheerios." Approximately 177 average-size grapes or 2.5 lbs are used to make a bottle of wine.

And here's some Christmas song trivia. "The Little Drummer Boy," was originally known as "The Carol of the Drums." In 1906, "Oh Holy Night" became the second song to ever be broadcast on radio. And the song, "Do You Hear What I Hear," was written about the Cuban Missile Crisis.

Did you know that 120 years ago Ellis Island opened its doors to its first immigrant? My grandfather Pasquale Cicaira came through there. He would be 122 years old if he were still around.

The country's first ice cream parlor opened in 1776 in New York City. The most popular flavor of ice cream is vanilla. And the first known ice cream recipe was from a book that belonged to Lady Anne Fanshawe in 1665. It was flavored with orange flower water, mace or "ambergris - an intestinal slurry puked up by sperm whales."

Oh, Happy New Year.

Why Should Taxpayers Pay for Rocket Damage?

Dear Editor:

I noted with interest that U.S. Sen. Tim Kaine formally announced $20 million in federal funds "earmarked to cover repairs and to give continued support to the (Mid-Atlantic Regional Spaceport) program," as noted in your lead Dec. 19 story, "Senator Visits Disaster Site."

Unfortunately, questions that should have been asked regarding the rocket explosion's aftermath were not. How much of the $20 million is to cover repairs to the Wallops launch pad? Why isn't Orbital Science Corporation, instead of the taxpayers, being required to cover repair costs since its rocket's malfunction was the direct cause of the damage? Are launch companies required to carry insurance to cover such events before being allowed to launch at Wallops? If not, why not? Why do politicians believe that if they show up with a big bag of taxpayer funds, everything will be OK and no one will ask any hard questions? Why can't politicians think to ask these questions?

Couple in Israel Enjoy ES Post

Dear Editor:

I just want to thank you for making the Eastern Shore Post available online. My wife and I have been living in Jerusalem for the last 17 months, and your newspaper helps keep us connected to the Eastern Shore. We lived in Cape Charles before coming to Israel to study. We are moving back in February to Belle Haven, and the ESP really helps us stay connected to the communities that we love and miss.

Thank you, and may you be greatly blessed in 2015!

Bert & Dorie Demicell
