Local Leaders Tell Kaine Offshore Drilling Is Too Risky

With offshore drilling comes the possibility of an oil spill. And no one on the Eastern Shore wants threats to aquaculture, commercial and recreational fishing, tourism, NASA rocket launches, wildlife, beaches, marshes and the way of life here.

That's what local officials and residents told Senator Tim Kaine when he visited Wachapreague on Monday.

"We take the standpoint there is a risk," said Robert Crockett, a native of Tangier Island and chairman of the Accomack Board of Supervisors. "What would be the rewards?" he asked rhetorically. "I don't see locally an economic benefit at all. I don't believe it would create jobs for the Eastern Shore of Virginia. They (the workers) wouldn't leave from here. You can see the potential damage to our local economy. Assateague Beach would probably be the first one to be hit."

Chincoteague represents 25 percent of the county's taxable real estate, said Crockett. "If you look at tourism up and down the Eastern Shore ... a huge part of it is Chincoteague ... damage to aquaculture ... the risk would be huge," he added. "I have to look at what's best for Accomack County and the Eastern Shore of Virginia ... the rewards would just not be there."

"There's a natural and understandable skepticism to it," said Spencer Murray, chairman of the Northampton Board of Supervisors. "People really want to know, if we did this, would it work? Can we really trust those people who are supposed to be watching the store?" he asked.

"My constituents are telling me that they don't see a benefit. New technology will not work," said Murray. "I can say there is not a lot of openness" towards drilling. "The Chesapeake Bay would be the victim. A spill of that sort would not be a thing they could get over ... it would be decades."

Kaine explained the process that included a public hearing and comment period between each phase for five years. He let it be known that his former thoughts of openness on the subject are gone. He went on record in 2016 as being opposed to drilling off the Virginia coast.

So far, public comment from 190 localities along the Atlantic are in opposition to oil drilling off the coast, said Kaine. Add to that 1,200 elected officials, 500,000 in the fishing industry and aquaculture and tens of thousands of businesses.

Heather Lusk is vice president of H.M. Terry Company of Willis Wharf, a fourth-generation aquaculture business. She is a former securities lawyer and a member of the Virginia Marine Resources Commission, the Virginia Aquaculture Advisory Board and the Shellfish Growers of Virginia. And she is against offshore drilling.

"We are very concerned about any kind of risk to that water quality," she told Kaine. She said aquaculture is a $56.6 million business. The Shore is on top in hard clam production in the United States and first in oyster production on the East Coast. "That's coming from Northampton County ... Our hatcheries are on the seaside." But she said there are also significant ones on the bayside.

"They are touted as being the best of

Borrow Pit Owner Seeks Expansion but Not for Bridge-Tunnel Spoils

By Stefanie Jackson

Gary Wagner, a Northampton landscaping contractor seeking to expand his business, is out of the running to receive spoils from digging the new section of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel but is running into opposition from the county planning commission.

Last year, Wagner applied for a special use permit to expand the existing borrow pit on his property from 10 to 18 acres, for disposal of up to 700,000 cubic yards of dredge spoils that would be produced during construction of the CBBT parallel tunnel at Thimble Shoals.

In April 2017, supervisors approved the special use permit 4 to 1, with several conditions regarding safety and operations.

But the petroleum-based lubricants applied to the cutter head of the boring machine that will dig the new tunnel would contaminate the spoils beyond what is allowed at a disposal site where the ground is unprotected, as is the case with the Wagner borrow pit.

Up to 50 milligrams of contaminants per kilogram of soil are allowable. The petroleum-based contaminants are referred to as total petroleum hydrocarbons, or TPH. Sample spoils from the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel site were tested and found to contain 75 milligrams of TPH per kilogram.

Spoils from the CBBT work site must be transferred to a landfill with a liner to prevent petroleum hydrocarbons from leaching into the soil and contaminating groundwater.

On March 6, 2018, Wagner reapplied for the special use permit to expand the borrow pit, not to fill it with outside materials but to further extract soil for use in his landscaping business, as he has done for the past 20 years.

The site has been permitted through the Department of Mines, Minerals and Energy since 2004 as an open pit sand mine. Wagner renews the permit annually and DMME inspects the site biannually. The most recent inspection shows no violations.

Director of Planning and Zoning Susan McGhee reported to supervisors

April 10 that the planning commission reviewed Wagner's application April 3, but a motion to approve it failed. A second motion made to table the petition until "the commissioner receives information on the location of existing wells, septic tanks and drain fields for all adjacent commercial and residential properties," passed unanimously.

McGhee said the planning commission's concern was that the expanded borrow pit may negatively impact nearby wells, septic tanks, and drain fields, not the other way around.

Chairman Spencer Murray requested evidence from the planning commission how a "perfectly functioning septic system" and an adjacent property could affect one another.

Supervisor David Fauber wanted empirical evidence that reducing the buffer around the Wagner site from 200 feet wide to 100 feet wide, as the owner requested, would make a negative impact on adjacent properties.

The planning commission had suggested reducing the buffer to 175 feet, not 100 feet, as Wagner requested.

Fauber noted a drain field is allowed to be 50 feet from a well, and he did not understand why a borrow pit and a well would require more separation.

Murray agreed. "Everybody knows how I feel about property rights. I think people ought to be able to use their property as long as they're not hurting somebody else," he said.

Supervisor John Coker was concerned that Wagner had a stockpile of concrete onsite, which was inconsistent with the guidelines set by Northampton's zoning ordinance stating a borrow pit is used for "extraction of material and not for stockpiling or bringing material onsite."

Wagner said his DMME permit allowed him to bring inert materials onsite, including concrete and asphalt.

Supervisors presumed the state's authority would overrule the county ordinance, but they agreed to seek confirmation from McGhee.

Supervisors will not make a decision on Wagner's request until they hear back from the planning commission.

the best,” Kaine agreed.

The Eastern Shore is “one of the most special ecologically sensitive areas on the planet,” said Curt Smith, manager of the Accomack-Northampton Planning District Commission (ANPDC). He said there are also other federal investments on the Shore including money spent on eel grass replenishment aimed at bringing back the bay scallop fishery.

Lusk said there are also plans for other new products. “We are a sustainable industry. We put back more than we take out.”

“If things are put in the wrong spot, they (oil riggers) could potentially close us down,” said William Wrobel, director of NASA’s Wallops Flight Facility.

NASA is the fifth largest employer in Accomack, said Crockett. “When they are concerned, we are concerned,” he added. Crockett said it all has a rippling effect. “The person who goes out there and retrieves those rockets is a local fisherman.”

“Cape Charles in Northampton is the Chincoteague of Accomack,” said Elizabeth Dodd Russell, executive director of the Northampton County Chamber of Commerce. “We’re busy 12 months out of the year now. That would be taken away in two seconds,” she said.

“We are the last 70 miles on the whole East Coast that is not developed,” said Carol Evans of the Eastern Shore of Virginia Tourism Commission. “We don’t have to invent any reason for people to visit us like a Disney World. We are authentic.” She boasted the Shore is the smallest and fastest growing tourism attraction in Virginia for the past four years. “We’ve seen 60 new businesses in the past five years,” Evans said. “We’re holding on to the ethics and the vitality that is here.”

“I remember an oil spill here on the Eastern Shore when I was a child,” said Cara Burton, director of the Eastern Shore Public Library. “I can’t remember details ... it was on the bay-side ... we are stewards of this beautiful coastline.”

Others agreed the spill must have been from a transport vehicle. “We already bear the risk of transport,” said Burton.

“This is a major flyway as well,” said Greg Sutter, an Alaska resident visiting Wachapreague, where he used to live. “We leave plenty of room for the ducks and the geese. This is one of the last places where birds can actually rest ... If you look at the coastline in New Jersey, there’s no place for those birds.”

Paul Berge, who retired a decade ago as director of A-NPDC, said he camps on the barrier islands every year and from Texas to Florida. “Whether they spill or don’t spill, they also generate a lot of trash,” Berge said of the drillers. He once picked up a hard hat while camping. “The amount of trash can be pretty devastating to the shoreline.”

Robie Marsh, executive director of the Eastern Shore Chamber of Commerce, said all 420 members of his group took a stand against oil drilling off the coast.

“Just protecting Virginia is not enough,” said Richard Snyder of the Virginia Institute of Marine Science. He contended that oil drilling off nearby states could be devastating here too.

Rod Hennessey, a local conservation worker and teacher, said two decisions that were made locally have kept the area from ruin. One was not allowing in Brown & Root, a Texas industrial services contractor, and the other was keeping the barrier islands from being connected by a series of bridges. “We wouldn’t have migratory birds, aquaculture ... we’d have Ocean City ... don’t want to make a decision like that now.”

“It’s rare to get a number of people like this together — a group of people in this number to agree on one thing,” said Crockett.

“That was striking me as we’ve gone around the table,” said Kaine. “I sort of thought I might have different points of view. But when you’ve got the governing board, tourism, chambers ... that sends a pretty clear message to me. I’m not going to leave confused.”

“If there were royalties would you change your minds?” Kaine asked.

“It’s a bell that you can’t unring ... you could give us all the royalties ... what would we have to spend it on?” asked Murray. “We’d have no quality of life here ... Money could not replace what we’ve been given here on the Shore.”

Wachapreague Flood Insurance Premiums To Drop Average of $94

By Linda Cicaira

Wachapreague real estate owners will receive a 10 percent reduction in their flood insurance premiums through an increase of various floodplain management measures encouraged by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), according to an announcement made this week.

The rating system change for Wachapreague shows the town's commitment to protecting itself from the dangers of flooding, said MaryAnn Tierney, FEMA's Region III administrator. "We would like to thank Wachapreague for taking actions to protect lives and property."

Under the rating system, local officials are asked to reduce flood losses, facilitate accurate insurance rating and promote awareness of flood insurance. Communities can earn a Community Rating System rating by submitting an application explaining the projects they have in place or are developing.

Wachapreague is among 25 communities in Virginia that have received this recognition, the announcement stated. "With the steps taken by Wachapreague to protect its citizens and increase its resiliency, it has entered the CRS program as a Class 8 participant." Communities can earn up to 45 percent off their premiums.

Wachapreague policyholders saved an average of $94 in annual premiums.

For information about flood insurance, property owners may visit www.FEMA.gov/national-flood-insurance-program or call 800-427-4661.

MAPPSVILLE DOLLAR GENERAL HAS BUILDING PERMIT

By Linda Cicaira

The Dollar General Store proposed for 14093 Lankford Hwy. in Mappsville three years ago has been revived, Deputy County Administrator Rich Morrison told the Planning Commission Wednesday.

The three-acre parcel was rezoned from residential to business in 2015 by Acomack supervisors. They voted 6-3 to allow Dollar General to build despite opposition from nearby Matthews Market, other neighbors, customers and friends.

But the store never came. Recently, the property was sold. VDOT approved access, during the first process.

That action will allow the new owner,

Par 5 Development Group LLC of North Carolina, to construct a 130-foot by 70-foot structure. It will be 18 feet high and have an area of 9,100 square feet. The estimated cost of construction is $365,000. The building permit fee was $4,236. Rhetson Companies Inc., also of North Carolina, is the contractor, according to the permit.

Car Theft Charge Won't Be Prosecuted; Malicious Maiming Trial Set for May 8

By Linda Cicoira

A felony charge against a Parksley man, whose tooth was once connected to a murder case, will not be prosecuted, according to papers filed in Accomack Circuit Court.

Brian Marquis Northan, 30, of Leslie Trent Road, was indicted last year on counts of maliciously maiming John Anthony Foster Jr., of Wattsville, and unauthorized use of Foster's vehicle on Oct. 23, 2016.

Foster testified at a preliminary hearing that Northan and another man beat him up. The victim said he ran and hid in the woods. His car was later found in a different location.

According to the court document, the charge of unauthorized use of the car will not be prosecuted against Northan. A May 8 jury trial is scheduled for the maiming charge. Northan is being held in Accomack Jail.

Foster said he was giving Lamonte Demetris Johnson, of New Church, a ride home from playing cards. They stopped at Northan's house. Foster said he met Northan for the first time that night. The three ended up at Johnson's house, where Johnson started hitting Foster.

"I was trying to block it," Foster said. "I didn't expect him to start punching."

Then both men "rushed me," Foster said. "Brian had a wrench ... he broke my arm with it. After I was getting beat and couldn't defend myself, I ran to hide in the woods. I just laid there until I could hear no one moving

... once I got up ... I was just hobbling along beating on peoples' doors."

Johnson was sentenced to five years in prison for each charge. All but 10 months of the terms were suspended.

Northan was accused of capital murder in the 2010 death of Anthony Wayne Wilson, 46, of Felton, Del. Wilson was found dead at the scene of a traffic accident near Greenbush. But he didn't die from the crash. A medical examiner ruled Wilson's life ended from a gunshot wound to the head and neck.

Found in the vehicle was Northan's tooth, according to DNA evidence. After spending three years in jail awaiting trial, Northan pleaded no contest to voluntary manslaughter in a plea bargain and was sentenced to 10 years with all but two years suspended. He got another two years for possession of a firearm by a felon to run consecutively with the first term. In addition, he was given two years for shooting at an occupied dwelling in connection with an incident that occurred a month after Wilson died. The latter sentence was set to run concurrently for a total of four years to serve.

In the murder case, a witness changed his mind three times about what he saw. The doctor, who would have testified about the tooth, moved to Canada and the murder weapon, which was found in the Pocomoke River, was bought and sold several times among felons, allowing Northan to say it wasn't his.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC OF A & N ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE'S APPLICATION FOR A GENERAL INCREASE IN RATES CASE NO. PUR-2018-00031

On February 20, 2018, A & N Electric Cooperative ("ANEC" or "Cooperative") filed with the State Corporation Commission ("Commission") an application ("Application") pursuant to §§ 56-231.33, 56-231.34, 56-236, 56-238, and 56-585.3 of the Code of Virginia requesting approval of a proposed increase in rates and charges for bills issued on or after October 1, 2018.

ANEC represents that a rate increase is needed because the Cooperative's capital and operating costs have continued to increase over the past several years while load growth is lacking. Specifically, the proposed rates and charges are designed to increase the Cooperative's jurisdictional revenues by $2.9 million per year based on the Cooperative's filed rate year levels for an overall net jurisdictional rate increase of 4.49%. ANEC represents that the proposed rates will result in a jurisdictional rate of return on rate base of 5.57% and produce a rate year jurisdictional Times Interest Earned Ratio ("TIER") of 2.25x.

ANEC states that, in developing the proposed rates, it sought to develop rates that more closely reflect the cost of providing service, as well as to introduce greater consistency in the rates of return of various rate classes. ANEC states that revenue and rate neutral changes to base rates are applied as necessary to rebalance all rates between supply and distribution costs so that the rate year level of electric supply service ("ESS") revenue matched the rate year purchased power expense. The Cooperative further asserts that it would like to bring the unit charges more in line with the unit costs derived from the cost of service study, and to increase rates to a level that would generate an appropriate TIER for the Cooperative.

The Cooperative seeks to rename the "Customer Delivery Charge" as an "Access Charge," and proposes an increase to Access Charges in each rate class to better reflect the cost of service classified as customer-related.

Of the proposed $2.9 million revenue increase, $2.6 million is allocated to the Schedule A-1/A-2, resulting in a 6.48% increase to the class, compared to the overall jurisdictional increase of 4.49%. The Cooperative indicates that the largest percentage increase, 9.81%, has been applied to Schedule I.

ANEC also proposes a number of changes to its rate schedules including: renaming certain rate schedules; the introduction of seasonal price differentials to certain schedules; ESS pricing and rate design changes to certain schedules; and the introduction of new schedules.

The Cooperative represents that it is not making any substantive changes to its Terms and Conditions at this time. Notwithstanding, ANEC will need to make several non-substantive revisions to its Terms and Conditions to reflect the changes being made to its rate schedules. Innovative Program Doubles Number of Students Eating School Breakfasts

By Stefanie Jackson

With a public hearing on Northampton County's budget not scheduled until May 29, school officials in attendance at this week's supervisors meeting were given a reprieve from debating 4 percent raises for teachers or the cost of providing custodians and cafeteria workers a living wage.

Instead, they were invited to comment on the success of a new program that encourages more students to start their school day by eating breakfast and fueling their brains for learning. Supervisor Oliver Bennett, a Northampton public school teacher, asked Superintendent Eddie Lawrence to talk about the Grab 'N' Go program, which gives students a more convenient alternative to traditional school breakfast.

Northampton schools received a grant for the kiosks in the hallways where students can get breakfast as soon as they arrive at school in the morning, bypassing the cafeteria and taking their food to their classrooms to eat.

Lawrence said Grab 'N' Go has doubled the number of students at the middle and high school who eat school breakfast, with participation increasing from 19 percent to 38 percent.

He admitted he was initially skeptical of Grab 'N' Go but was pleasantly surprised by the outcome. As an added bonus, the program gives students the opportunity to socialize with different people and make new friends, Lawrence said.

Finance Director John Chandler presented school budget amendments in the following amounts: $4,550 for a Virginia Department of Education grant for the teacher mentoring program that will support 22 first-year teachers; $1,500 for Northampton County Education Foundation funds for tutoring student athletes; a $10,000 appropriation from the school food service fund balance to replace kitchen equipment; and an approximately $4,500 appropriation representing the balance of funds from the eLearning Backpack Supplemental grant.

County budget amendments included an insurance reimbursement of about $11,000 for a damaged sheriff's vehicle, a $10,000 transfer from the regional jail fund (payroll vacancy savings) to the sheriff's general fund for vehicles and equipment, and a $7,600 insurance reimbursement for ice damage to the dock at Oyster.

It is a property reassessment year in Northampton. Supervisors approved an ordinance establishing Aug. 31, 2018, as the deadline for the Board of Equalization to complete its deliberations. July 2, 2018, is the deadline for property owners to apply to the Board of Equalization to review their real estate assessments.

A boundary adjustment in Eastville resulted in the town gaining 17 new residents. In accordance with Virginia law, those residents must be transferred from Cheriton's voting district, District 2, to Eastville's voting district, District 4.

These citizens will no longer be represented by District 2 Supervisor David Fauber and will become constituents of District 4 Supervisor, Chairman Spencer Murray.

General Registrar Terrence Flynn refreshed supervisors on the matter which was tabled in October 2017 when supervisors requested confirmation of their authority to move voters to a different voting district.

Samantha Buckley, a policy analyst with the Virginia Department of Elections, confirmed that "precinct and district lines are a local issue and are not under the authority of the Department."

Supervisors must hold a public hearing, likely in May, before amending the ordinance and allowing the 17 affected voters to be moved to the proper and lawful voting district.

Another issue supervisors could not act on immediately involves a subsidiary of the Eastern Shore Community Services Board, Mendisadd Inc. They submitted two applications for special use permits for group homes for individuals with developmental disabilities in Exmore and Franktown.

The county zoning ordinance requiring special use permits for group homes is unlawful under Virginia code. State law requires facilities where no more than eight disabled persons reside to be treated as a single-family residence. A zoning ordinance amendment should be ready for supervisor review next month.

Felony Wounding Charge Reduced

Charges were reduced from felony malicious wounding to misdemeanor assault and battery last week in Accomack Circuit Court in the case of an Onancock man who threw a bottle at a vehicle and broke the driver's door window last year.

Christopher Michael Strand, 21, of Pine Street in Onancock, was convicted of assault and battery of Anjinai Blake and Kentara Tazewell and of throwing a missile at an occupied vehicle. The incidents occurred Sept. 10, 2017. Strand was remanded to Accomack Jail to await the completion of a presentence report.

Tazewell told authorities she went to the home of Blake and Strand because the two had been arguing. Strand threw the bottle after Blake got in Tazewell's vehicle. Trooper A.D. Montross wrote in the file, "Both had lacerations on their arms. ... I observed the window being broken out ... and the bottle inside the van. Ms. Blake advised she was in the passenger seat when Mr. Strand threw the bottle."

Strand told the officer he "did not want to hurt anyone but she (Tazewell) was swinging the bottle at me." There were two small children in the van, who were not injured, Montross reported.

In another case, Elisha Azel Corbin, 25, of James Allen Drive in Machipongo, was sentenced to three years in prison for felony eluding and six months for assault and battery in connection with June 9, 2017, crimes. All but 10 days were suspended. Corbin will be permitted to serve those on weekends. He was ordered to be on good behavior for five years, supervised probation for two years and complete 50 hours of community service with a church or youth program.

Thomas Christopher Toner, 52, of High Seas Drive in Greenbackville, was given five years each for burglary of a house and theft of a vehicle belonging to Kimberly Zelemy. The terms were set to run consecutively with all but six months each suspended. Toner was put on probation for three years and ordered to be on good behavior for 10 years. The incidents occurred in 2016.

Michael Warren Custis, 60, of Cashville Road in Onancock, pleaded guilty to misdemeanor giving a false report. He was initially charged with felony making a false claim regarding a boat in August 2017. He was sentenced to 60 days in jail with all but four days suspended.

Gary Joseph Fleig, 42, and Amanda Jean Kelley, 28, both of Marsh Market Road in Hallwood, pleaded guilty to petty larceny. The charge was originally felony theft that occurred Jan. 6, 2014. He was sentenced to 13 months in jail. She got 12 months in jail. Both terms were suspended. Fleig and Kelley were each ordered to pay $900 in restitution to Wayne Norton.

Ebony Rena Baines, 27, of Washington Street in Exmore, was given a three-year suspended sentence for possessing cocaine on Aug. 8, 2016. It was her second offense. Baines was also ordered to be on good behavior for five years and supervised probation for three years. Her driver's license was suspended for six months.

Jordan Lewis Sterling, 34, of Decormis Street in Accomack, pleaded guilty to assault and battery of Deputy Brian Misener in connection with a July 30, 2017, incident. A presentence report was ordered. The case was continued until August. He is being held in the Eastern Shore Regional Jail.

Aimee Beth Long, 41, of Wallops Mill Drive in Horntown, was sentenced to five years with all but time served suspended for unauthorized use of a vehicle on Sept. 25, 2017. Long was put on supervised probation for three years. Her driver's license was suspended for a year and she was ordered to make restitution of $1,500 to David Long, also of Horntown.

A $12,500 secured bond was granted for Lachelle Vaneette Collick, 39, of Worcester Highway in Pocomoke, Md. She is being held in Accomack Jail in connection with charges of stealing property belonging to Mike Smolinski, burglary and receiving stolen property in November 2017.

Man Sentenced for Fraudulent Payroll Checks

Brian Terrell Walker, who was convicted of manslaughter in the 2010 death of a baby, will serve 18 months in the Eastern Shore Regional Jail for changing his payroll checks so he could fraudulently obtain $300.

Judge W. Revell Lewis III sentenced Walker, 32, of Lee Street in Belle Haven, Monday in Northampton Circuit Court. Walker got three years in prison for each of the three counts of forgery with all but six months each suspended. The terms were set to run consecutively. Walker could have gotten up to 15 years in prison and an unspecified fine for the offenses. He initially told authorities, "His boss wrote the checks wrong."

In exchange for the guilty pleas, Commonwealth's Attorney Beverly Leatherbury previously agreed not to prosecute him for two more counts of forgery and for uttering a check.

Walker worked for Simpson Tree and Bobcat Service. Leatherbury said the defendant attempted to cash an altered check at Tru Blu in Exmore in March 2017 and was caught.

Walker was convicted in Accomack Circuit Court of involuntary manslaughter in the death of his then-fiancée's 11-month-old son. At that time, he lived in Parksley with the family of the victim. He was sentenced in accordance with a jury's recommendation of five years in prison.

In another case, Antwine Tazewell, 36, of Cheriton, was convicted of possession with intent to distribute cocaine in October 2016. The case was continued pending completion of a presentence report. Tazewell was not prosecuted for a misdemeanor charge of possession of marijuana.

Larry Goffney III, 30, of Chester, Pa., was sentenced to five years in prison with all but eight months suspended for distribution of Vicodin in September 2015. He was given a month in jail for failure to appear, which was set to run consecutively with the other term. Goffney was ordered five years of good behavior and two years of supervised probation.

Todd Countain, 36, of Brooklyn, N.Y., was given suspended sentences for credit card crimes that occurred June 28, 2015. He got three years with all but two months suspended for five counts of credit card larceny and three years with all but three months suspended for possession of forgery equipment. The terms were set to run consecutively. He was ordered to be on supervised probation for three years.

Assault Charge For Wachapreague Man

A Wachapreague man was charged Sunday with assault and battery of a police officer, according to records filed in Accomack General District Court.

Brandon Q. Harmon, age unavailable, was arrested the same day and is being held in Accomack Jail.

Deputy K.M. McGregor, of the Accomack County Sheriff's Office, was the complainant in the case. A May 21 preliminary hearing was scheduled.

Northampton Chairman Reacts to Offshore Drilling Forum

By Stefanie Jackson

At Tuesday's meeting of the Northampton Board of Supervisors, Chairman Spencer Murray offered his reaction to the forum on offshore drilling attended by Sen. Tim Kaine at the Virginia Institute of Marine Science Eastern Shore Laboratory in Wachapreague on Monday.

Murray asserted there is "unanimous opposition" to offshore drilling from representatives across the Eastern Shore.

He and the chairman of the Accomack Board of Supervisors, Robert Crockett, represented their respective counties at the forum. Representatives of the Shore's tourism and aquaculture industries, as well as NASA and Wallops Island, were also present, Murray said.

The environmental risk presented by offshore drilling would not be balanced by any economic benefit, because it would not create local jobs, Murray said. Kaine suggested the county could receive "royalties" from offshore drilling profits.

"If we had an oil spill ... what difference would royalties make? ... What would we spend it (the money) on?" Murray asked, suggesting an oil spill would effectively eliminate the Shore's tourism and aquaculture industries.

The risk to the shoreline is "overwhelming," he added. Murray is skeptical of the safety of current offshore drilling practices.

"They told us also that when (Hurricane) Katrina hit ... they said the levees would hold, but they didn't. When the Deepwater Horizon (oil well drilling platform) had an explosion and fire, they said that the blowout valve checkpoints would work, and they didn't. And billions and billions of dollars of ecological and commercial damage followed."

In January, Gov. Ralph Northam wrote a letter to Secretary of the Interior Ryan Zinke, asking that Virginia be exempt from the Trump administration's plan to expand offshore drilling. To date, Florida is the only state to be exempt from the plan.

Northam attended an offshore drilling forum at Old Dominion University in Norfolk in March. Monday's Virginia Institute of Marine Science event in Wachapreague was the first of its kind on the eastern side of the Chesapeake Bay.

Northampton has finished one project supporting aquaculture and tourism. County Administrator Charles Kolakowski announced repairs at Morley's Wharf are complete, "proving to be a popular improvement with both the commercial and recreational boaters," he said. Among the repairs, two battered docks were replaced with new, floating docks, enabling boaters to launch their vessels and perform their work more quickly and efficiently.

The next step is dredging Willis Wharf. The county has applied for new grants to help fund that project, Kolakowski said. It was delayed when previously awarded Virginia Port Authority grant funds were transferred to the Morley's Wharf project.

Cleaning up county property is a foremost concern for citizens and supervisors. Kolakowski mentioned a complaint by at least one citizen about the drainage pond at Bayview convenience center in Cape Charles, which is full of both water and trash. Supervisor John Coker said the problem is made more apparent following rainfall and "It just looks disgusting."

Supervisor Oliver Bennett agreed Northampton has a trash problem and said he has seen "dump truck loads of trash ... on both sides of the road." He suggested strategically placing security cameras in areas known for littering and holding offenders accountable to set an example and deter the problem in the future.

Bennett, a Northampton public school teacher, read statements by some of his seventh-grade students who are concerned about the cleanliness and well-being of their county.

"On my back road ... there is a sign that says, 'No Littering,' and people still litter on the road. ... I want to change that because it's wrong to be dumping trash anywhere there's a dumpster that they can go to and dump their trash. Thank you and have a nice day," one statement read.

Murray indicated Sheriff David Doughty has plans to address the county's litter problem later this spring.

Northampton Explores Means of Social and Emotional Support for Students

By Stefanie Jackson

Northampton public school students represent diverse cultural backgrounds and not all come to school socially or emotionally prepared to learn and follow behavior expectations, school psychologists Heather Welch and Julia Doherty discussed with school board members March 22.

The duo have been searching for an evidence-based program teachers can implement in the classroom to address students' ongoing social and emotional learning needs.

Northampton schools already participate in the Positive Behavioral Interventions and Supports program, funded by the U.S. Department of Education. PBIS is used by schools all over the country to positively reinforce good student behavior through rewards systems. For example, many schools issue students good behavior "tickets" that students can save and redeem for participation in special school functions like pizza parties.

However, as stated on its own website, PBIS is not intended as a stand-alone or magic wand solution to disruptive classroom behavior. "The climate of each learning community is different; therefore, a one size fits all approach is less effective than interventions based on the needs of each school," it says.

Northampton schools are ready to take the next step by providing children with direct instruction in social and emotional well-being, supplemented by the positive behavioral reinforcements already in place.

After reviewing over a dozen different programs, Welch and Doherty recommended Second Step, which they believe will fulfill the goals of equipping students with competence in five main areas: self-awareness, self-management, social awareness, relationship skills and responsible decision-making.

Second Step can be used for grades pre-K through eight, although Northampton schools' initial focus of the program will be at the elementary level.

Second Step is designed to be easy to use. While some social-emotional lessons are designed to take up a whole class period, each of Second Step's 22 to 28 topics can be incorporated into the teacher's scheduled activities across a five-day period and require minimal planning, according to Welch and Doherty's report.

The lessons are written out step-by-step and include activities, games, songs, and other interactive media. They also include materials to be shared with parents at home to reinforce the lessons.

The lessons and activities can be re-taught and reused as alternatives to suspensions, Welch and Doherty's presentation stated.

For grades pre-K through 3, the Second Step curriculum is broken into four units: skills for learning, empathy, emotion management and problem solving. For higher grades, the material is condensed into three units:

- Unit 1 of Second Step guides teachers as they equip students with basic skills like listening, paying attention, following directions, and staying on task.
- Unit 2 teaches empathy by helping students learn how to identify their feelings and to show others they care.
- Unit 3 focuses on managing emotions like anger and frustration, teaching children how to calm down in stressful school situations, whether they get an answer wrong or feel wronged by one of their peers.

- Unit 4 expands on the topic of peer relations by teaching students problem solving through playing fair, inviting others to join, and handling playground issues like peer pressure or name-calling.

According to the organization, Committee for Children, featured on the Second Step website, schools that teach social-emotional learning experience a 50 percent reduction in discipline problems, and students score 10 percent better on achievement tests.

Welch and Doherty estimate Second Step would cost just under $7,000 for two kits, one for each of the county's two elementary schools, Occohannock and Kiptopeke. There would be no recurring charges for materials, and the program includes free online training for teachers.

They recommend implementing the program either with teachers presenting the lessons independently or in cooperation with school counselors.

NOAA ANNOUNCES VOLUNTARY SPEED RESTRICTIONS TO PROTECT WHALES

By Linda Cicoira

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) announced voluntary speed restrictions for vessels traveling in a zone that includes the coast of Northampton County.

The goal is to protect five North Atlantic right whales sighted 69 nautical miles northeast of Virginia Beach. Mariners are requested to go around this area or travel at 10 knots or less.

Seventeen of the whales died in 2017 and another was lost this year. This is "an alarming number for such a critically endangered species with a population currently estimated at about 450."

Brenner Accepts Job in Appomattox

By Linda Cicaira

Former Accomack Commonwealth's Attorney Matthew Brenner accepted a job recently with the Appomattox County prosecutor's office.

"We feel very blessed in landing someone with Matt's vast experience and known integrity," said Les Fleet, deputy commonwealth's attorney in Appomattox. "He graduated from Regent University School of Law in the same class as the elected commonwealth's attorney, Darrel Puckett, so when he submitted his resume he had an instant ally in my boss."

"All told, our office received 18 resumes when I posted the position with the Commonwealth's Attorneys' Services Council and our local Lynchburg News and Advance newspaper," Fleet continued.

Most had two to six years of experience on average. Brenner worked for Accomack Commonwealth's Attorney Gary Agar for about 15 years. He was promoted to second in command about seven years in.

"Matt was head and shoulders above the rest during the interview process," Fleet said.

Brenner and his wife, Mary Beth, are having a home built here in the county and plan to move here after their youngest son, Zachery, graduates from high school in May, he said.

Brenner will generally prosecute cases in Appomattox General District Court but he will also be in both circuit and juvenile and domestic relations courts on occasion.

Brenner was the commonwealth's attorney in Accomack for almost three months after Agar retired and he was defeated by Spencer Morgan in a three-man run for the seat that also included Carl Bundick.

TSC TO OPEN STORE IN ONLEY

Tractor Supply Company plans to open its Chesapeake Square store in Onley this summer with a four-day celebration.

"We're not just building a store, we're building a team that understands the needs of the Onley community," said District Manager Maurice Angel. "At Tractor Supply, we carry products that support the lifestyle our customers lead, the land they own and the animals in their care. So whether you are someone who raises horses and pets, runs a hobby farm or just enjoys the rural lifestyle, we'll be there to make sure you have all the tools you need."

The store plans to hire 12 to 15 employees. Buffalo Construction of Kentucky will build the 28,568-square-foot spot where the Sears store used to be. Products will include work clothes and boots, tractor and trailer parts and accessories, lawn and garden supplies, sprinkler and irrigation parts, power tools, fencing, welding and pump supplies, riding mowers and more.

Tractor Supply has been around for 80 years. It employs 28,000 people and has 1,700 stores in 49 states. It is associated with Petsense, a small-box pet speciality supply retailer that has 168 stores in 26 states.

'Fully Committed' at North Street Playhouse

North Street Playhouse presents "Fully Committed," a one-man show directed by Sara Stuart and starring Peej Mele.

This devastatingly funny one-act play follows a day in the life of Sam Peliczowski, an out-of-work actor who mans the red-hot reservation line at Manhattan's number one restaurant. A cast of desperate callers will stop at nothing to land a prime reservation or the right table. Amid the barrage, Sam's got his own needs to contend with. While juggling scheming socialites, name-dropping wannabes, fickle celebrities and egomaniacal bosses, can he manage to look out for himself?

Shows are April 19-21 and April 26-28 at 8 p.m., and April 22 and 29 at 2:30 p.m.

EASTERN SHORE SPORTS

FIREBIRDS SOARING ON TO NEW COLLEGIATE HEIGHTS

By Krystle Bono

Three Arcadia High School athletes have formally committed to spread their wings and play sports at the collegiate level.

Aronte Dickerson formally committed to extend his basketball career to play college ball, signing his official intent over to the Mid-Atlantic Christian University team, March 24.

Dickerson was selected to the Eastern Shore All-District first team during his senior season. Arcadia boys hoops coach Rodney Armstrong commented that he relied a great deal on the small-statured senior to help lead the Firebirds – and he came through tenfold.

“He’s small, but he’s got a lot of heart,” said Armstrong.

The future Mustang expressed his thanks to Coach Armstrong, as well as Deitrick Downing, in his journey to ultimately sign with MACU. Downing is a former Arcadia coach who has helped oversee and facilitate many athlete signings in order to help get the many talented, but sometimes overlooked, Eastern Shore youth up to the next level.

“Deitrick Downing and my coach, Rodney Armstrong, helped me get into college to play ball. They helped get me scouted. Now, I have a chance to play ball in college,” said Dickerson.

Driven by the love of the sport from a young age, Dickerson knew he wanted to continue to play basketball beyond high school, so going through the scouting and signing process was a no-brainer.

“I really love the game. I grew up watching it. My coaches started enforcing it [as I got older] so I grew to love it even more.”

Although Dickerson has not settled on a major just yet, he does know that he would eventually like to own his own business. He says he looks up to Kyrie Irving of the Boston Celtics but also admires the support and guidance from his parents, coaches and mentors.

Quazion Davis and Jhakori Dickerson signed their letters of intent to play football at Virginia University of Lynchburg earlier last month, in Lynchburg. VUL competes as part of the National Christian College Athletic Association (NCCAA).

“I talked to Coach Rome at the showcase. He was impressed with my one-on-ones. I took my opponent and pushed him to the ground, then he personally asked for me to go again because he liked my aggression,” Quazion reported to recruit757.com

“Overall, it wasn’t the college that persuaded me to commit – it was the love and appreciation from the coaches and fellow team members. They welcomed me as their own and I hadn’t committed yet. It was just something about the environment that influenced my signature to touch that paper.”

During his senior season with the Firebirds, Davis picked up an All-District nod, selected as a first team offensive lineman. The future Dragon said he is ready for new experiences, but a big reason he wants to continue his athletic career goes a little deeper.

“I really just want to make my brother proud. He died in a bike accident in 2015, so I just play to make him proud,” says Davis.

The senior Firebird also has a lot of family support, and finds inspiration from his favorite team’s linebacker, Ray Lewis, of the Baltimore Ravens.

“My dad pushes me to be better. Professionally, I look up to Ray Lewis because he never backs down from a challenge.”

Davis is planning to study accounting, and he hopes to one day own his own business.

Coach Rome also recruited Dickerson to his VUL roster. Dickerson was chosen to the Eastern Shore All-District second team as both a defensive lineman and tight end/wide receiver.

Dickerson explained the sole reason for signing with VUL was the welcoming environment, which came from both players and coaching staff before he had even committed to the team.

He also said he always knew he wanted to further his athletic career beyond high school from a young age.

“When I was little, that’s [sports] all I would want [to do]. I’ve been playing since I was in sixth grade.”

A Seattle Seahawks fan, Dickerson has plans to study sports management.

Broadwater Academy Adds Table Tennis Sports and Education Program

Submitted Article

Broadwater Academy is thrilled to introduce and add the Table Tennis Sports and Education Program as a part of the school's 2018/2019 mission to encourage creative mindsets and continually provide excellence in educational experience.

The program, in partnership with the PingPong.GIVES Charity Foundation, is designed not only to offer schools an extension to extracurricular activities and mainstream sports provided to students, but to also promote the social, physical and mental benefits that playing ping pong offers.

"I never realized that just a few minutes of playing ping pong has such favorable impact," shares Broadwater Academy Headmaster Joe Spagnolo. "We're delighted to bring this program to our students, parents and faculty."

The Foundation's Board chairman, Dr. Scott Sautter, presented the science and shared the benefits of playing table tennis, as well as demonstrations from local table tennis professionals, including the donation of a table tennis table by PingPong.GIVES and KETTLER, during the launch of the BA Ping Pong Club held March 20, which was made available to all Broadwater students who were interested in participating.

As validated by Scott Sautter, Ph.D., ABN, "The neuroscience of playing ping pong has been described as a game of aerobic chess. It's great for eye-hand coordination, reflexes, balance, planning, strategy and a stress reliever exercising the mind and body in a safe activity for everyone. The cool factor, is that research has demonstrated the positive benefits to brain fitness, such as the report of a Japanese study that found just ten minutes of playing ping pong increased neuronal activity in the prefrontal cortex and cerebellum."

"Broadwater Academy, unique to any school on the Eastern Shore of Virginia that I am aware of, will enable its students the opportunity to engage in a meaningful activity, create a Ping Pong Club that will help teach leadership skills and qualify for potential scholarship opportunities, while participating with peers and other schools who have adopted the Table Tennis Sports and Education Program," shares Ken Lees, founder and volunteer president of the PingPong.GIVES Charity Foundation, and Broadwater class of 81.

Varsity Soccer Action

By Krystle Bono

The Broadwater Vikings coed varsity soccer club stepped out on the field at Isle of Wight Academy Tuesday, for the first time as a team in their inaugural season. Broadwater ultimately fell to the Chargers, 5-2, with efforts on the scoreboard contributed by Finn Kelly and Gunnar Gustafson. Gustafson's netter went in with assistance from a perfect corner kick by way of Daniel Rohde.

Nandua's girls and boys teams grabbed 3-1 wins over the Arcadia Firebirds last week in Onley.

The Vikings will be back in action at Southampton Academy tonight (Friday) and the Lady Warriors will travel to Windsor for a 6:30 p.m. battle. Northampton's boys are also set to play tonight on the road against New Kent at 7 p.m., and the Nandua boys will host Lakeland at 5:45 p.m.

DGIF ADVISES CAUTION ON WEBSITES SELLING FISHING LICENSES

The Department of Game and Inland Fisheries (DGIF) is putting out an advisory to the public about websites claiming to sell Virginia fishing licenses.

GoOutdoorsVA.com and dgif.virginia.gov are the only official websites to purchase fishing and hunting licenses and permits. If you have a smart phone, you can access the Go Outdoors Virginia mobile app for license purchases.

Some of the sites the DGIF are aware of are fishinglicense.org; fishandgamelicense.org; recreationallicenses.org; licenses.org; and hunting-license.org.

DGIF has no affiliation with these sites. Customers have reported completing transactions on these sites believing they were buying a license or permit, when, in fact, they purchased an informational guide.

Hunting and fishing digests are available to view online, or pick up a copy where ever licenses are sold.

To view a list of all license vendors, please check our website at <https://www.dgif.virginia.gov/licenses/>

Anglers Club to Host 2nd Annual Bolding/Mariner Surf Fishing Event

The J.T. Bolding/Bill Mariner Youth Surf Fishing Event will take place on Sunday, May 6, from 1 to 5 p.m., on Assateague Beach. Ages 10 to 15 may participate. Members of the E.S. Only 20 students can participate, so there will be plenty of hands-on instruction and lots of time for fishing. Everyone will receive souvenirs and a picnic will follow. Equipment will be provided, but participants may bring their own.

Registration will be limited to club members only until a date closer to the event when, if needed, the opportunity will be open to all 10-15-year-olds. Register by sending an email to Nancy Page, pagefarm@verizon.net, or call 757-665-5525. It is necessary that youth and adults who wish to attend the event give Page their names in order to be admitted to the refuge free of charge on the afternoon of the event.

Last year, most of the cost of the event was covered by a donation from a club member, who wished to honor J.T. Bolding. To help sponsor this event honor the memories of Bolding and Mariner, and you may do so by contacting Page.

Self-taught artist Grover Cantwell Jr. was awarded the Curtis Merritt Award of Excellence.

Chincoteague Chamber of Commerce Easter Decoy and Art Festival Awards

Submitted Article and Photos

The Chincoteague Chamber of Commerce Easter Decoy & Art Festival is one of the largest on the East Coast with a loyal following of attendees and exhibitors. It is one of the first festivals on the Eastern Shore of Virginia and is considered a rite of spring on the islands. Fine art, carvings, jewelry, sculpture and other artisan crafts were showcased by 80 exhibitors at the two-day festival.

People's Choice Award for Best Carver was awarded to Chincoteague native Cork McGee. An island native for 87 years, McGee began carving hunting rigs - he guided hunting trips for ducks and geese for 58 years. He mentored under Cigar Daisey as he "hung out in his shop." His family lived on Assateague Island for many years and his father was a waterman. Now his decoys are collectors' items.

People's Choice Award for Best Artist was awarded to island local Nancy Richards West. West has been a professional artist on Chincoteague Island since 1974. Her primary focus is the creation of oil paintings of landscapes, birds and animals, still life and nudes. She works in pastel and the ancient art of sumi-e painting (Chinese brush stroke painting). Many of West's landscape paintings are done en plein air (outdoors), where she is "drawn to the challenge of painting the fleeting light."

Best Photograph of Chincoteague or Assateague was presented to Captain Debbie Ritter for her outstanding photo of the early morning Pony Swim in 2017. Ritter has studied and captured images of wildlife on the Eastern Shore for over 30 years and has a large body of work featuring wild Chincoteague ponies. She captains her own cruise boat under the name Chincoteague Nature Encounters.

The Curtis Merritt Award of Excellence is awarded to an exhibitor demonstrating exemplary qualities as an artist or carver as chosen by a jury of their peers. The 2018 recipient is Grover Cantwell Jr. Cantwell is a self-taught artist whose goal is to capture the mood of the marshes, beaches and wildlife through the changing seasons of his native Eastern Shore of Maryland. Watercolor is his most frequently used medium, but he enjoys oils, pen and ink, and pastels as well.

The Chincoteague Combined School Band was the recipient of the Pre-Loved Treasures silent auction proceeds. A wide variety of pre-owned

BEN ELLIS

Candidate for Chincoteague Town Council

It has been my privilege and pleasure to serve on the Chincoteague Town Council for the past four years and I am pleased to announce my candidacy for a second four-year term. Professionally I have had 45 years experience in the public sector as a school principal and administrator, college instructor, regional Head Start Director, and owner of a small real estate appraisal business. I have earned a PhD in educational administration and supervision but feel the most valuable lesson I have learned over my years in public service is the importance of seeking and listening to the ideas and opinions of others. During my term on the Town Council I have served as Chairman of the Budget and Personnel Committee and as a member of the Harbor Committee, the Planning Commission, and the Chincoteague Center Board of Directors. I have also made it a personal priority to attend each meeting of all other council committees in order to be as well informed as possible about all matters that may come before the council. If reelected, I would continue to bring Christian values, an open mind, a desire and willingness to listen to and respect varying opinions, and a common-sense approach to decision making and government to the council. My primary goal as a council member would be to maintain and promote the values, character, heritage, traditions and way of life that makes Chincoteague Island a special place, a place my wife and I have chosen to live.

I thank you for your consideration of my candidacy. If anyone should have any questions or specific matters they might wish to discuss with me, my phone number is 336-5384.

Spring Roundup of Chincoteague Ponies Is This Weekend on Assateague

The Spring Roundup of the famous wild ponies will be held on the Chincoteague National Wildlife Refuge this weekend so the two herds can be checked by a veterinarian.

Buybacks from the previous auction will also be taken from the carnival grounds on Chincoteague and released on Assateague, where they will live permanently.

Cowboys will begin the roundup of the southern herd around 4:30 p.m. Friday. The ponies will be taken to the pen on Beach Road. The roundup usually takes a couple of hours. Parking access will be along Beach Road or in the Woodland Trail lot. Those parking in the lot will not be able to leave until the ponies are in the corral and the gates are closed.

Saturday, around 7 a.m., the cowboys will head up Service Road to get the northern herd into the northern pen. It takes between five and six hours to do this roundup because of the number of ponies and the area covered.

While the cowboys are busy with the second roundup on Saturday, the vet will be checking the ponies that were herded on Friday. The ponies will be inoculated against West Nile and equine encephalitis. They will also be dewormed and given an overall check. After the vet is done there, those ponies will be released back into the wild and the vet will head up to the northern corral to perform the same services on those ponies. Once he is done there, they are released into the wild to roam and await the next roundup.

United Way of the Eastern Shore Exceeds Fundraising Goal

Submitted Article

The United Way of Virginia's Eastern Shore has announced it has raised $312,000 this year in its annual campaign, 13 percent over the $275,000 goal. The total pushed the funds raised by United Way to almost $6.5 million since the chapter was formed in 1991 to support non profit organizations who provide a variety of services to Eastern Shore residents, including food, shelter, health needs and recreation.

Wayne Bell Jr., president of the local United Way chapter, thanked the Board and the campaign committee for their efforts and praised campaign chairman Adam James for "his superb leadership and masterful organization" in directing the campaign.

James thanked the people for helping this year's campaign and gave special recognition to Tyson Foods and Perdue Farms. Tyson Foods more than doubled last year's total with $45,000 raised. Perdue had a 35 percent increase and raised over $35,062.

"We owe these two companies a special thank-you for all they do to help the Eastern Shore," said James.

Tyson and Perdue Farms also sponsor the two breakfasts held each year.

James and the board give many thanks to SunTrust Bank in Onancock as it donates an office to the United Way of Virginia's Eastern Shore. This is a great contribution as it allows more money to be allocated.

The Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel increased its pledges by almost 25 percent and raised $16,547.

Accomack County and Accomack County Public Schools both contributed more than $12,500 in pledges. Orbital ATK was one of the top contributors with over $13,753 in pledges. Taylor Bank donated $10,000 to the campaign.

Companies having 100 percent participation were ANEC, BB&T, Eastern Shore of Virginia Chamber of Commerce, Foodbank, Eastern Shore Habitat, SunTrust and YMCA Camp Silver Beach. Other organizations cited for increases of at least 44 percent this year were Eastern Shore Rural Health, Hermitage on the Eastern Shore, New Ravenna, McCaleb-Metzler Insurance and Accomack County employees.

The mission of the United Way is to help improve the quality of life for all residents of the Eastern Shore. Volunteers are at the heart of United Way. The funds that are raised are utilized by over 175 entities on Virginia's Eastern Shore. They are utilized to house the homeless, feed the hungry, and provide positive outlets for the youth of the two counties on the Shore.

If you are interested in being part of United Way of Virginia's Eastern Shore's impact on the Shore or Campaign Committee, or helping in any other way, contact Dawn Taylor Byrd at 757-787-5622.

NORTHAMPTON SHERIFF'S OFFICE TAKING BACK UNWANTED PRESCRIPTION DRUGS APRIL 28, 2018, AT 5211 THE HORNES, EASTVILLE, VA 23347 (NORTHAMPTON SHERIFF'S OFFICE)

On Saturday, April 28, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. the Northampton Sheriff's Office and the Drug Enforcement Administration will give the public its 15th opportunity in 8 years to prevent pill abuse and theft by ridding their homes of potentially dangerous expired, unused, and unwanted prescription drugs. Bring your pills for disposal to Northampton Sheriff's Office at 5211 The Hornes, Eastville, Va. (The DEA cannot accept liquids or needles or sharps, only pills or patches.) The service is free and anonymous, no questions asked.

Last April, Americans turned in 450 tons (900,000 pounds) of prescription drugs at almost 5,500 sites operated by the DEA and more than 4,200 of its state and local law enforcement partners. Overall, in its previous Take Back events, DEA and its partners have taken in over 8.1 million pounds—more than 4,050 tons—of pills.

This initiative addresses a vital public safety and public health issue. Medicines that languish in home cabinets are highly susceptible to diversion, misuse, and abuse. Rates of prescription drug abuse in the U.S. are alarmingly high, as are the number of accidental poisonings and overdoses due to these drugs. Studies show that a majority of abused prescription drugs are obtained from family and friends, including from the home medicine cabinet. In addition, Americans are now advised that their usual methods for disposing of unused medicines—flushing them down the toilet or throwing them in the trash—both pose potential safety and health hazards.

For more information about the disposal of prescription drugs or about the April 28 Take Back Day event, go to the DEA Diversion website or contact Major Mike Smith with Northampton Sheriff's Office at 757-678-0458.

VETERANS' CORNER

Spotlight Veteran: Sandra Lotz

By Alexander Hightower
Special to the Eastern Shore Post

This month our Spotlight Veteran is Sandra Lotz from Chincoteague. Lotz is a Navy veteran of seven years. Over her career she served as a Navy electrician in Sigonella, Italy, Saudi Arabia, London, El Centro, Calif., and Brunswick, Maine. Lotz serviced and repaired two legendary Navy aircraft, the A6 Intruder and the P3 Orion. Lotz is also a proud military spouse of another Navy veteran. The two fell in love with the Eastern Shore and relocated from Utah to embrace Shore life. Lotz is a working human resources professional who recently accepted a position as an HR specialist with Tyson Foods. She enjoys walks along the beach in search of shells, swimming, cycling and boating. If you see Lotz in passing, congratulate her on getting her new job and thank her for her service.

provide assistance with claims and appeals, Experience Action Center assistance with legal and tax matters, health benefit information, and enrollment assistance. The VA will also have information regarding benefit-related programs such as vocational rehabilitation and employment; education, home loans, insurance and burial benefits; bereavement and military sexual trauma counseling; substance abuse and mental health screening. The biggest reason for a veteran from the Eastern Shore to attend this event is the opportunity to go in front of a VA rater to have your claim examined and possibly upgraded. It is also important to note a claim could be downgraded as well.

Growing up in a superstitious environment is probably why I am leery about everything. It is no secret that I like to stay home on Friday the 13th. That's right, today is the day. If you see me, I either forgot or I am ignoring the date. Please don't remind me.

As if I didn't already have enough bad luck things to think about, I decided to look up some more to share in honor of this day.

I learned we should all chuck the umbrellas. Not just because it is superstition hell day either. No matter which way you turn, those things are going to bring evil. It's hard enough to open one when you are getting out of the car. So just take a run for it when it's raining or just walk and get a little wet. You are not sugar, honey. You are not going to melt. And your hair will survive.

You've undoubtedly heard that it is bad luck to open an umbrella inside. Well, guess what? Dropping an umbrella on the floor means there will be a murder in the house. Really? Just go ahead and shoot me then because I've done that almost as many times as I've dropped my cell phone and my reading glasses.

My mother always said it was only bad luck to open an umbrella inside if you put it over your head. She was the expert on such things. There are some things you just don't mess with.

She also said it was good luck to step in dog doo. The Irish woman got that old wives' tale from someone in her family. Or so I thought. But I read that in Russia people believe it is good luck if a bird drops his or her business on you. "The more birds involved, the richer you'll be!" And there is no umbrella on earth that can save you.

Did you know if you catch a falling leaf on the first day of autumn you will not catch a cold all winter? I'm sure you didn't. Otherwise, on Friday, Sept. 22, 2017, everyone would have been outside staring at his or her old oak tree. I didn't notice that. But, it would have made a great photograph. I guess you know having your picture made is a way the devil will take your soul. I read that too. Or was that about looking in a mirror?

Some people put a penny in a pocketbook when they give it as a gift so bad luck will not befall the recipient. Others knock on wood when admitting something positive so that the opposite will not occur. Just another reason to love trees. Yippee!

The reason the groom does not carry the wedding rings is simple. If he drops the bands during the ceremony, the marriage will be doomed. I'm going to have to go back and rewatch that video. While we're on the subject, I just learned that if a single woman wants to find a husband, she should find a four-leaf clover. Then she should either eat it or put it in her shoe. I don't know which shoe. But the tale says the first person she comes in contact with after doing so will be her future husband. That is truly scary. And enough reason to stay home.

I'll just bet that all of you who are looking down on me right now because I am superstitious have participated in some kind of lucky ritual. When you got married did you carry or wear something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue? All right then. Okay, so maybe there is luck and there is tradition.

It started in the Victorian era. Something old represents the marriage bond. The new item is for hope and the future. The bride will have happiness if she borrows something from another woman who has a joyful marriage. The blue is to help guarantee fertility and prosperity.

There is also one about brooms that I never heard before. I think they are like umbrellas. Mom used to say it is bad luck to sweep dirt out the door. I read if the house is new, you aren't supposed to bring an old broom with you.

Well, how do you get there?

Local Term Limits Needed

Dear Editor:

We need to have a conversation about term limits for our local elected officials. In a country where the president is limited to two terms, one can argue there is no reason for anyone holding public office to do so for more than eight years. The Founding Fathers never intended for elected officials to have a career as a professional politician.

Here in our small town, many who have served and are serving are senior citizens. Our town council members seek such government service to offer their time, energy and experience to the community. An eight-year limit for town council members is adequate for the kind of governmental participation needed in our community. If we can provide an open seat every eight years, interested citizens will not be discouraged from challenging a seemingly invincible incumbent.

One viewpoint is if citizens wished to make a change, they would simply vote a candidate out of office during an election. On the other hand, one could argue that it is very difficult to be elected to replace an incumbent, as they have the distinct advantage of name recognition.

To broaden opportunities for public service and to assure that elected officials are responsive, no elected town council member should serve unlimited, consecutive terms in office. After sitting out one term, a previous council member should again have the opportunity to seek election.

Perhaps the discussion will take place just after the May election. Make your feelings on term limits known to the town council members.

Over the last few years, we have all watched with horror as school shootings across the United States have taken place. We have been fortunate here in Virginia to avoid such an incident in recent years. Following the tragic events that took place at Virginia Tech in 2007, the General Assembly made significant, meaningful reforms aimed at not only keeping colleges and universities safe, but also our schools. After the Sandy Hook shooting in 2012, the General Assembly established a grant program for schools to purchase and install security equipment. We cannot simply take actions once and assume all is well. We must continue to look at ways we can keep students safe in school. Additionally, we must evaluate what we have done, how well it is working, and what else needs to be done.

Last month, Speaker Cox announced the formation of the House Select Committee on School Safety to take a new, in-depth look at how we keep children safe at school and ways we as a commonwealth can improve. This is the first select committee established in more than 150 years in Virginia. This underscores the importance of this matter. Select committees are reserved for matters of considerable significance that fall beyond the jurisdiction of conventional and established standing committees. The select committee's work will be focused on strengthening emergency preparedness, hardening school security infrastructure, implementing security best practices, deploying additional security personnel, providing additional behavioral health resources for students, and developing prevention protocols at primary and secondary institutions across the commonwealth.

We must ensure students are able to learn in safe environments without the fear of violence. I am proud of the steps we have taken in recent years to protect our schools, but there may be more we can do. The select committee is tasked with developing the next steps on this important issue, with recommendations made by the committee up for consideration by the General Assembly during the 2019 session.

I will monitor the proceedings of the House Select Committee on School Security, and I am very eager to stay fully engaged on behalf of our community and families of the Eastern Shore, Norfolk, and across Virginia. I invite you to send your comments via email to delrbloxom@house.virginia.gov
