90-YEAR-OLD ASSATEAGUE NUDIST LEADER DIES

By Linda Cicaira

Nearly 35 years ago, groups of up to 600 people sometimes gathered on Assateague Beach to sunbathe and swim in the nude. They would put down their blankets and raise their umbrellas miles from the lifeguard section of the Chincoteague National Wildlife Refuge.

They celebrated National Nude Weekend in July just a couple of weeks before Pony Penning, were written about in Playboy magazine, brought gawkers to the island, and were eventually covered up by the Accomack Board of Supervisors when it voted to enact an anti-nudity ban in the county as requested by church groups and Chincoteague town officials.

The leader of the nudist movement, Turner V. Stokes, 90, an engineer from Leesburg, Va., and president of the National Capital Naturists, died of prostate cancer late last month. He never did succeed in the quest to "Bare Assateague," despite the bright green T-shirts with those words that were sold to raise money for a legal battle.

"We want to be better people in a better society," Stokes told this reporter in 1987. "If we can't respect our bodies, we can't be better people."

Stokes reportedly told another writer that his favorite outfit was when he was wearing "nothing but a smile."

He began going to Assateague Beach in 1979. He and his group helped transplant dune grass, erect a sand dune fence, clean up litter, and install portable toilets, all with the permission of refuge officials.

A public hearing on the ordinance attracted about 500 people. Most of the speakers and petition signers favored the restriction.

The late Chincoteague Mayor Tony Stasio told the supervisors, "Nudity leads to lewdity, it always has and it always will." Others complained if "this is allowed on the public beach, how long will it be until it's allowed on a public street?"

Stokes contended the nudists, some of whom have been accompanied by their children on the beach, do not condone sexual misconduct and would help to fight such behavior.

The ordinance was fashioned after one in Virginia Beach that also withstood court inquiries. In Accomack, it is unlawful for anyone to voluntarily or intentionally appear in public "in the state of nudity" or to encourage others to do so. Nudity is defined as "a state of undress so as to expose the human male or female genitals, pubic area or buttocks with less than a fully opaque covering or the showing of the female breast with less than a fully opaque covering of any portion thereof below the top of the nipple." Violation of the ordinance could result in conviction of a Class I misdemeanor, which is punishable by a maximum of both a $1,000 fine and 12 months in jail.

Turner V. Stokes

"What the plaintiffs are really asking for is that Accomack County set aside a certain area of Assateague Beach for the plaintiffs to practice social nudism," Judge N. Wescott Jacob wrote in an appeal to the county circuit court in 1987. "Certainly Accomack County cannot be required to set aside a portion of the beach for an individual or group regardless of their purposes."

Whether for Fitness or Fun, Island Walking Opportunities Abound

By Connie Morrison

Regardless of motivation, Chincoteague and Assateague have walking trails and guides with something for everyone.

History

If history is your interest, try the Historic Chincoteague Downtown Walking Tour. The map can be downloaded at https://www.chincoteaguechamber.com/wp-content/uploads/New_Historic_Chincoteague_Brochure_Reduced_File.pdf The route leads past well-known landmarks such as the Island Theatre, the Chincoteague Island Library, and downtown churches. It also covers lesser-known buildings, such as the Brasure building, at 4028 Main St., which includes part of John A.M. Whealton's home dating from 1861. Whealton "led the effort to keep Chincoteague with the Union during the Civil War and erected a flag pole over 100-feet high with a Union flag that could be seen from the mainland," according to the map.

If a longer hike is of interest, the same brochure includes a bike tour with farther-flung destinations and introductions to some of Chincoteague's colorful historical figures. Talk like a 'Teaguer after visiting the tump's neighborhoods depicted on a third brochure map. Up the Neck, Tick Town, and Snotty Ridge are just a few of the vivid names of Chincoteague's residential areas.

Nature

The Island Nature Trail is located along Hallie Whealton Smith Drive. The south side rail is 0.7 miles, paved, with benches and interpretive signage. Pets are permitted on leashes. The north side is a 0.45-mile segment of natural surface. Pets are not permitted on this section of trail. There is no fee to use the Island Nature Trail and it is open to walkers and bicyclists.

Chincoteague National Wildlife Refuge maintains several miles of walking and bicycle trails. The longest of these is the Wildlife Loop at 3.25 miles. It is open to walkers and bicyclists. At 3 p.m. it opens to motor vehicles, so exercise caution. Other trails include the Woodland, Marsh, Black Duck, Swan Cove, and Lighthouse trails. Information about these routes can be found at <https://www.fws.gov/refuge/Chincoteague/visit/trails.html> The refuge fee is $20 per vehicle for a weekly pass or $40 for an annual pass. Pedestrians and bicyclists enter free.

If Misty of Chincoteague were alive today and could communicate with all of us, I am convinced she would sing “Misty Blue,” across the marsh with the prettiest voice ever. Wouldn’t that be a treat? Mr. Ed has nothing on you, dear Chincoteague pony.

Why do I think this? Well, because, there are 1,975 lyrics, six artists, and 71 albums matching “Misty” in a Google search. Is there a better reason? Perhaps, because she started as a model and had to belt out a tune sooner or later as most stars do?

Sam Sellard, who sells ads on the island seashore of Chincoteague (try saying that three times fast) for the Post, seems to think Misty would be telling us, “I wanna go to the Water

Did you picture her sliding down a twisty plastic tunnel? I did.

And just when I thought I had heard all the details about Misty that I could possibly keep in my head, there was more to learn. I didn’t realize her birthday is July 20. So why don’t those birthday trivia websites include her with Carlos Santana, Omar Epps, Alexander the Great, Natalie Wood, Julia Chicago, and Logan Guleff? She is worthy! Get with the program!

I also read recently that island children were allowed to miss school when the carnival scene was filmed for the movie, “Misty of Chincoteague.” They were told they could play all they liked and eat as many hot dogs as their hearts desired. And they were each “given a dollar at the end of the day.”

How cool is that? I don’t think that movie was made in July when the real Pony Penning is held or school would have been out for summer anyway. I wish I had been there.

Misty died in 1972 when she was

Pony Swim. I could also see her belting out “Summer Breeze” by Seals & Croft, a popular song of the day.

Coincidentally, Misty would have been 72 years old on her next birthday. Last year, the Chincoteague

Fishing from the Shore

By Bill Hall

Few fish in our waters combine the sheer beauty, fighting ability, and table value as the dolphin fish, now more popularly recognized by the name of mahi or mahi mahi to avoid being confused with the mammal of the same name. Dolphin fishing has been red hot off our coast in water depths of 30 fathoms and deeper. Dolphin are often attracted to almost any type of floating objects from seaweed to buoys, even pieces of floating trash. The recent formation of floating Sargassum weed lines in our offshore waters has created ideal conditions for attracting this fast swimming predator. These fish put on an acrobatic display when hooked and played on light tackle and can be prepared a number of different ways on the grill and in the frying pan.

Chincoteague — Jimmy Vasilou, of Captain Steve's Bait & Tackle, reports a few croakers have shown up in the waters of Queen Sound. In the Assateague surf, kingfish, and even a few early season spot, have been hitting live bloodworm baits early in the morning and late in the evenings. The inshore wrecks have been producing limit catches of flounder to 22 inches on jigs with 6-inch Berkley Gulp baits. Spadefish and gray triggerfish are hanging out over the same wrecks and several cobia have been sighted, but he had not heard of any cobia boated. Further offshore, two blue marlin and a white marlin were released and anglers retuned with nice catches of dolphin for the table.

Donna Rae, of Captain Bob's Marina, reported the inshore flounder fishing has been very good recently, specifically at the south end of Chincoteague Channel from buoy 17 north to buoy 27. Anglers fishing here have enjoyed up to an average of one legal keeper for every four fish caught, and boats have caught their whole limit in five- to six-hour spans. Jumbo live minnows with 4- to 5-inch Gulp Swimming Mullet baits in pearl white, pink, or nuclear chicken color patterns have produced most of the larger fish. Croaker and kingfish have been caught in the canal towards the inlet. Fish Bites and bloodworm-scented squid strips have been the best baits. Small snapper bluefish have been hitting near the pilings of the Queen Sound bridge. Sharks up to 5 and 6 feet in length have been landed from buoy 11 out to buoy 10. Black-fish Banks has produced catches of large flounder, spadefish, trout, and sea bass. Farther offshore, anglers trolling ballyhoo have produced yellowfin tuna, dolphin, and an occasional white marlin.

Wachapreague — Captain Lindsay Paul, of Trident Tackle, reported offshore anglers were finding "bunches" of dolphin along the scattered weed lines in 30 fathoms. One boat recently had the rare opportunity to release four mako sharks on the troll over a two-day period. All of the sharks were under the 83-inch minimum size limit, according to Paul. Several blue and white marlin releases have been registered for fish caught in the Washington and Bob's canyons. Offshore bottom fishermen were successful with catches of blue-line tilefish. A little closer inshore, keeper flounder were being caught over the wrecks. Inside the inlet, small flounder and croakers have been the primary catch.

Lower Shore — Chris Snook, of Chris' Bait & Tackle, reports the spadefish bite has turned on around the fourth island of the bridge-tunnel, as well as a smaller bite around the Plantation Light. Small croakers were being caught just outside the concrete ships as well as on the seaside out of Oyster. Sea mullet were being caught on Latimer's Shoal. Cobia catches were coming from buoys 13, 16, and 36 during the day, while these same areas were producing large red drum releases late in the afternoon. Snook recommends that anglers carry plenty of bait and hooks, as shark bite offs have become an increasing problem. The shop recently sold 3,600 pounds of bait over a two-day period!

Jeb Brady, of Bailey's Bait and Tackle, reported that the cobia bite is still good between the bridge-tunnel and buoy 36. Sight fishermen were starting to see an increase in the number of surface swimming fish. Brady said the spadefishing was "awesome" at the fourth island and Plantation Light over the weekend. Flounder fishing was described as slow, with a few catches coming from around the bridge and offshore wrecks.

Upper Shore — Captain Matt Abell, at the Sea Hawk Sports Center, reported that the cobia and red drum bite down near the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel was still going strong. Offshore, a handful of tuna and some dolphin catches had been reported. The railcars were producing large flounder for anglers drifting and jigging Gulp baits. On the Chesapeake Bay side, the deep water bottom fishing has been a disappointment so far, with a few sand mullet making up the bulk of the catches. Abell recently fished surface lures for rockfish at the mouth of the Little Annemessex River near Crisfield, Md., with limited success on fish up to 25 inches. The early summer water temperature was already up to 89 degrees in the shallows!

Bill Hall was the first Eastern Shore resident to achieve Virginia Salt Water Master Angler Status. He has been named Virginia Saltwater Angler of the Year and Virginia Saltwater Release Angler of the Year. Bill is an I.G.F.A. International Committee Representative and a longtime member of the Virginia Saltwater Fishing Tournament Committee. He is the Virginia Recreation Fishing representative on the ASMFC Striped Bass Management Panel and is a past recipient of the CCA-VA Virginia Outdoor Writer Conservation Leadership Award.

New Firehouse Construction Making Steady Progress

Progress continues on the new Chincoteague firehouse begun last spring. Volunteer fire company spokeswoman Denise Bowden says the company anticipates completion around late October to early November with the move happening soon after. The new station will offer a larger training room, more bunk space, dedicated office space, a new dining hall with an updated kitchen, and will house all the company's equipment in one building. Bowden says there are mixed emotions because the company will be "leaving the only station our members have ever known." Fundraising is ongoing with the "Heroes Walkway" campaign. Bricks are being sold for $100 for the walkways around the station, and they can be personalized to remember a loved one or with a message of up to three lines. Forms can be downloaded at cvfc3.com or picked up at the information stand at the carnival.

Wallops Marks 73 Years

On June 27, 1945, Wallops launched its first test rocket (above). A total of eight test rockets launched that day. The first research rocket, the Tiamat, launched from Wallops just one week later on July 4.

In the subsequent 73 years, Wallops Flight Facility launched tens of thousands of orbital and suborbital rockets, including resupply missions for the International Space Station. At right, an Antares rocket with Cygnus cargo spacecraft on the launchpad in May 2018 awaits launch on a space station resupply mission.

HIDDEN IN THE ABOVE FRAME is a famous proverb. Find it by reading every other letter as you go around it clockwise. The trick is finding the right first letter.

Answer: Starting with the "P" in the upper right-hand corner of the frame: "Put your best foot foremost."

ODD MAN OUT! To the right is a list of five words. Can you figure out which word doesn't belong on the list?

Answer: Letter. The other words all contain the name of a color. (1. Red, 2. Tan, 4. Umber, 5. Teal.)

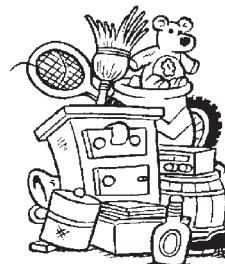

LITTLE 'PITCHERS' HAVE BIG EARS! In this puzzle, all of the words get progressively longer, and they all begin with EAR. The following hints should help.

1. Ear (in place).
2. British nobleman.
3. Everybody lives here.
4. Brings home the bacon.
5. A winter warmer.
6. Identifying characteristics.

Answers: 1. Ear, 2. Earl, 3. Earth, 4. Earner, 5. Earflap, 6. Earmarks.
