10 Local Ways to Tell Dad He's Tops on Father's Day

By Amanda Mehall
Contributing Writer

Father's Day can be the perfect opportunity to show the father figure in your life how important he is to you. Chincoteague Island and its surrounding areas has options to fit every dad's taste from art gallery events, outdoor recreation, delicious food and educational events that will surely make this Father's Day unforgettable. Here's a list of 10 ideas to make the dad in your life feel like the day is all about him.

1. Art, coffee and music

If you're having a hard time telling your dad how much he means to you, maybe you can let art do the talking. Chincoteague Cultural Alliance will be hosting Island Coffeehouse on Saturday, June 17. For just a $5 fee, or $3 for students, you can listen to live folk and country music, check out some local artists' work and indulge in homemade treats over coffee, beer, wine and soft drinks.

2. Island boat tours

Let your dad be on his high horse for the day and book an island tour. Board a flat-bottom boat and cruise around Chincoteague and Assateague islands as you look for wild ponies, bald eagles and dolphins while learning about life on the Shore. The Chincoteague Chamber of Commerce online directory has several options for booking an island tour that matches just about any father's interest. <http://www.chincoteaguechamber.com/category/21-boat-cruises-%26-eco-tours>

3. Rent a set of hot wheels

The family can ride in style this Father's Day and your dad can feel like the king of the road while driving a scooter, electric bike or a low-he's on top of the world by visiting the Assateague lighthouse on the Chincoteague National Wildlife Refuge. Visitors can climb up to the top of the 142-foot lighthouse and get a birds-eye view of the wetlands, Assateague National Seashore, and Chincoteague Island. You can walk or bike the quarter mile trail to get to the lighthouse, just make sure to put on bug spray! Hours for the lighthouse are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on the weekend, but is closed 12 to 12:30 for lunch, and admission is free once inside the refuge, but donations are appreciated to help keep the lighthouse open for future visitors.

5. NASA Visitors Center

Show your dad he's out of this world with a trip to NASA Wallops Visitors Center. On Saturday, June 17, the center will host two public programs open to all ages. At noon, an engineering challenge will give a team of family and/or friends an hour to discuss how to approach a common flight obstacle that Wallops' engineers regularly solve. A second event at 2 p.m. will teach attendees how to use the GLOBE Observer app which will help you learn all about the night sky. Participants are encouraged to download the GLOBE Observer app prior to the event.

6. Rent a kayak or go on a kayak eco-tour

Get off land and spend some quality time paddling with Dad on a kayak eco-tour and get close to all the wildlife, like the ponies and birds, while exploring Chincoteague and Assateague Islands. Eco-tours are available for all ages and skill levels. For more information on tours and rates for renting a kayak or stand-up paddle board, check out the list of vendors at <http://www.chincoteaguechamber.com/category/22-boat%2C-canoe-%26-kayak-rentals>

7. Walk the walk

Remember all those times Dad made you go for hikes or bike rides on vacation? Show him those lessons sank in by taking him on an urban hike or bike ride around Chincoteague. From Tick Town to Snotty Ridge, a downloadable online brochure (<http://www.chincoteague-va.gov/pdf/Chinco-biking-Brochure.pdf>) covers neighborhoods and points of interest to help you and Dad discover Chincoteague's hidden gems.

8. Visit a local shooting range

Kick off your Father's Day weekend with a bang and take dad to the NOAAWIVA shooting range in Oak Hall. The range isn't on Chincoteague Island, but it's right by the NASA visitors center on Wallops and is just a short drive from Chincoteague. On Saturday, June 17, the range will have a Fun Shoot with warm up starting at 8:15 a.m. Kids 15 and under shoot for free.

9. Sweet and simple day at the park

If your dad is a minimalist, celebrate Father's Day in a traditional way and check out Veteran's Memorial Park. There are basketball courts, tennis courts, playground equipment, a pier for fishing and crabbing, a boat ramp and picnic tables so you can celebrate Father's Day in a classic way. Bonus points for a picnic lunch packed with all of Dad's favorites.

10. Learn about the island and enjoy the sea

Show your dad he means the world to you by experiencing the best of land and sea together! Get to know the island by checking out the Museum of Chincoteague or taking a historical trolley tour. Tours take place every Tuesday and Thursday at 2 p.m. and 3:15 p.m. and adults are just $4. Buy tickets the day of the tour, beginning at 1:30 p.m., at the Community Center, 6155 Community Dr. Once you're done, be sure to stop by the Assateague shore to let dad cool off with a dive in the ocean. Top off the day with a surf and turf dinner at one of the Chincoteague's many noteworthy restaurants.

NASA Sets Time Frame for Next Space Station Mission

By Jasmine Foeman

The next launch to the International Space Station from a NASA Wallops launch pad is scheduled for mid-September, according to Kurt Eberly, Orbital ATK Antares vice president. Eberly made the announcement during a media briefing on Monday.

“The support from the commonwealth of Virginia is an advantage to our facility,” said Eberly.

Eberly said Orbital builds two rockets at a time so that at least one is ready in advance in case NASA needs to move up the launch date. The rocket they’re working on now, 0A8, should be complete by the beginning of July and is scheduled to launch in September. Their next focus will be 0A9 and it will be completed this fall. Both are being held in the Horizontal Integration Facility, where the rockets are built.

Dale Nash, executive director of Virginia Space, said that the “Mid-Atlantic Regional Spaceport, MARS, is ready to support the 0A8 mission.” The spaceport will have the launch pad ready by July in case NASA would like to launch before September. He also said that after each launch, his team goes through a thorough analysis to see what damages have been done to the launch pad and if there is anything that needs to be changed.

Frank Culbertson, Orbital ATK Space Systems Group president, said that he was proud of his employees and that he and his team are committed to completing the commercial resupply service contracts. The first of those is contracted for four more flights. Orbital plans to expand the capabilities for the next flights so that they will be able to carry more to the International Space Station.

The second resupply contract has already been slated for six missions and the first one has been given a go-ahead. The hope is that it will launch in 2019 and will leave from the Wallops Flight Facility.

Fishing from the Shore

By Bill Hall

The hot temperatures of last week did not necessarily translate to hot fishing. Cobia fishing remained steady and maybe even improved in the southern part of the Chesapeake Bay but cobia action fell off in the upper bay. Only time will tell if this is a temporary lull or a long term trend. Flounder fishing on the seaside has been consistently inconsistent (like my golf game!), with great fishing for a couple of days, then poor fishing the next few, I guess that is why they call it fishing and not catching!

Chincoteague — Captain Bob's Bait & Tackle reported that Assateague Channel is still producing keeper sized flounder, with some of the best action occurring near the bridge that connects Chincoteague and Assateague Island. If you have a shallow-draft boat, you may want to try the waters of Oyster Bay. In Chincoteague Channel, near Daisey's Dockside, there are plenty of flounder, however anglers are averaging only one keeper for every 10-12 flounder landed. In Queen Sound, the shallow water on the north side into the Fingers has produced a few keeper flounder. Sea mullet (whiting, kingfish) are being caught in the inlet. Sharks are being landed in the holes inside the canal around Markers 17, 19, and 21. Larger toothy critters are being caught just outside the inlet on the shop's "Shark Snack" rigs. The bluefish population that has been abundant all spring is dwindling as the water temperature rises. Captain Steve's Bait & Tackle weighed in a 5-2 citation black sea bass for Greg Thomas. Flounder charters were finding keepers in the main channel and off

Robert Reed Park. Captain Matt on Marshland Charters had a nice catch of sea mullet.

The Maryland Saltwater Sportfishing Association (MSSA) will be conducting a tuna tournament this weekend off Chincoteague with both large and small boat divisions. Little tuna action has been reported thus far in the season.

Wachapreague — Captain Lindsay Paul, at Trident Tackle, reported that some of the best flounder fishing of the year occurred just prior to last weekend, but action fell off over the weekend into the early week. I recommend anglers shift their efforts closer to the mouth of the inlet on a rising tide to take advantage of the clean, cooler water. Chartrouse Gulp Swimming Mullet, combined with silversides or live minnows have been some of the best bait offerings. Offshore action is still being hampered by cold water, with anglers trying the Lumpy Bottom coming home empty-handed for their efforts. On the flip side, deep droppers are still scoring with tilefish. Don's Tackle Shop reported that some of the shop's customers have been chumming offshore for sharks and were having success on a variety of species, though no makos were landed. Inshore, Don echoed that flounder fishing has been quiet for the most part, with limited catches coming from Green and Drawing Channels, as well as Folly Creek.

Lower Shore — Chris Snook, from Chris' Bait & Tackle, reported that a lot of the angling effort is being concentrated on the cobia run. Best cobia action has been near buoys 13 and 16 and just outside of the high-rise section of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel. Sight casters, fishing from boats equipped with towers, are finding cobia along the pilings of the bridge tunnel. The shop is stocked with fresh bunker and live eels for the cobia fishermen. Red drum still remain available just behind the breakers on the ocean side of Fisherman's Island. Fishing pressure has eased as a lot of drum fishermen have turned their attention to cobia. Flounder are being caught off the Kiptopeke State Park pier, inside the ditch, and out of Oyster. Spadefish catches are coming from the pilings of the bridge tunnel and along the fourth island.

Upper Bay — Cobia catches are still being made, but the numbers have dropped from the previous week. In the shallows, speckled trout to 25 inches were caught by anglers casting Bass Assassins, however undersized rockfish far outnumber the speckled trout. Fresh peeler and soft crab baits are still producing the bulk of the bigger specks. A school of bluefish has taken residence around the Tangier Island target ships. Dave Bambino and Junior Willey enjoyed a nice catch of large black perch, speckled trout, flounder and small rockfish on a recent trip out of Guilford Creek. Sea mullet, bluefish, and an occasional gray trout and black drum have been taken over the deep water rocks.

Bill Hall was the first Eastern Shore resident to achieve Virginia Salt Water Master Angler Status. He has been named Virginia Saltwater Angler of the Year and Virginia Saltwater Release Angler of the Year. Bill is an I.G.F.A. International Committee Representative and a longtime member of the Virginia Saltwater Fishing Tournament Committee. He is the Virginia Recreation Fishing representative on the ASMFC Striped Bass Management Panel and is a past recipient of the CCA-VA Virginia Outdoor Writer Conservation Leadership Award.
