Libertino Lanes Is a Leisure Gem

By Amanda Mehall

Among the small back-road neighborhoods of Chincoteague sits a modestly sized bowling alley on Willow Street. Its plain beige exterior hides a true gem filled with bright, glow-in-the-dark carpet, a claw machine, eight bowling lanes and countless memories.

Passing by, you can't miss the big sign, "Bowling Center, Libertino Lanes, Open 7 days a week."

Owners Richard and Lynn Libertino opened the place for business 11 years ago and built their bowling alley in a building that once housed a shirt factory, a bicycle repair shop and indoor flea market.

"I found the lanes and equipment on eBay for $102.50," Richard Libertino boasted.

Richard and Lynn Libertino mapped out the layout of the bowling alley and hired contractors to install the lanes purchased from Eastern Kentucky University in November of 2006, and they have hosted parties, bowling leagues and even Special Olympics bowling games ever since.

The couple said they've both been bowling their whole lives, and Richard Libertino said one of his first jobs was setting up duckpins in a three lane, nameless bowling alley in Fairchance, Pa.

"Back then we got 10 cents a game and had to split it three ways," he said.

While he was setting up the pins, the owners let him bowl for free. He practiced routinely and started getting the hang of it. When he was 13, he joined his first league here and stayed with it for five years.

Similarly, Lynn Libertino said she remembers spending her childhood in a bowling alley in her hometown of New Castle, Del.

"My family [bowled]. I grew up in a bowling center. I met a lot of great people there," she said, and added her first job was in her local bowling alley's snack bar.

Having many fond memories of the sport, Richard Libertino said he debated the idea of opening up his own alley for about 10 years after his time in the military.

"I joined the Coast Guard when I was 19 years old and came down here. This was my first duty station," he said.

Libertino served for four and a half years, started a family here and decided to stay on the island. The couple then became small business owners. Richard Libertino then opened his shop, Libertino Auto Repair on Chicken City Rd., where he spends most of his days while Lynn Libertino works the front desk, snack bar and cleans at the bowling center.

From owning the repair shop, Richard met the former owner of the bike shop and flea market because he was one of his customers, and Richard said he would always pester the owner to give him the space someday.

"This was the only building big enough at the time on the island for eight lanes," Richard said.

While the building may be quaint, the Libertinos pack it with their own unique flare to cater to their customers. Businesses have hosted extravagant parties here, "rock and bowl" turns the music up and illuminates all the colored lights and Libertino Lanes even has its own game of chance with its one special bowling pin.

"There's one red pin and if it comes up as the head pin and they get a strike, they get a free game," Lynn Libertino said.

Libertino Lanes also hosts a league on Wednesday nights. They invite anyone to come bowl for 16 weeks, and if a bowler likes it, memberships can be renewed for another 16 weeks. Normally, bowling leagues are 32 weeks, but the Libertinos felt like this was too much of a commitment and they wanted a shorter league to welcome all bowlers.

Bowlers of any age and skill level are welcome at Libertino Lanes, as the Libertinos said they particularly enjoy hosting children's parties.

"These little kids come in here for their birthday parties and it's like they've never picked up a bowling ball before," Richard Libertino said. "I've seen some of them run all the way down to the pins."

Lynn Libertino added she would love to start a youth league if enough interest was generated.

Libertino Lanes may be a small, cozy bowling alley, but their lanes meet the Professional Bowlers Association's standards and Lynn Libertino encour-

Fishing from the Shore By Bill Hall

If you want to know how poor the offshore fishing has been off DelMarVa this summer, all you have to do is look at the results of last week's White Marlin Open out of Ocean City, Md. Although the top three white marlin weighed in were impressive in size, especially the 95-8 winner, which will be worth $1,654,800.00, assuming the winner passes all of the polygraph tests, etc., the number and size of the other species were somewhat of a disappointment.

When you consider that the tournament drew 353 participating vessels, each fishing three days, that equates to over 1,000 fishing trips, each seeking a share of the largest fishing tournament purse on the planet. Yet even with many of the top tournament captains in the world at the helms, the fleet failed to catch a single qualifying blue marlin, only one qualifying dolphin (mahi mahi), only one qualifying shark, three qualifying wahoo and the largest tuna weighed only 68-8 pounds. There was a lot more fishing for trophy catches than catching in this year's event.

Here is what's happening a little closer to home.

Lower Shore - Chris Snook, of Chris' Bait & Tackle, reported that flounder fishing improved this week with fish nearing the 6-pound mark coming from the highrise portion of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel. The fourth island of the span still holds good numbers of gray trigger fish and spadefish. Large red drum are being released over the shoals and along the channel edges up to buoy 36. Croaker catches are coming from the deeper water off the third and fourth islands, while spot numbers are improving along the concrete ships. Due to the cloudy conditions over most of the weekend and into the week, bottom fishing was more productive than sightcasting for cobia. The bayside creeks are starting to see an improvement in the speckled trout catches. The croaker action off Oyster is still spotty at best, with catches coming inside the inlet. The fish are smaller than the croaker that are coming from the bayside.

Wachapreague – Captain Lindsay Paul, at Trident Tackle reported that yellowfin tuna weighing up to 50 pounds and king mackerel were being caught from offshore of 21 Mile Hill to Sam's Hill, while the waters over 21 Mile Hill held mostly false albacore and a few king mackerel. There were reports of a couple of white marlin released further offshore. Captain Paul had not heard of anything being pulled from the wrecks. Inside the inlet, it is the same old story, small founder with few, if any, meeting the 17-inch minimum size limit.

Chincoteague – The wreck at the Parking Lot is still producing limits of black sea bass, according to Jimmy, at Captain Steve's Bait and Tackle, while chunking in the same area has produced yellowfin tuna up to 55 pounds. Whole squid has been a productive chunking bait for the tuna. Inshore, sharks are still everywhere to be had, including an 8-foot-long lemon shark which was landed after a three hour battle from the beach at Assateague. After a few pictures, the fish was dragged back into the surf and released. Croakers in decent numbers have finally showed up, just in time since the shop is hosting its annual youth croaker tournament this week, the early leader weighed 13.3 ounces and was caught by Ethan Willett. Croaker catches were being in the inlet, the canal and in Chincoteague Channel. Spot remain the most consistent catch in the surf during daylight hours, especially during high tide. Croakers and a few puppy drum are starting to show up in the back creeks with peeler crab being the most productive baits.

Photo courtesy of Captain Steve's Bait and Tackle Ethan Willett jumped out to an early lead with this pair of croakers in the Captain Steve's Bait & Tackle Youth Croaker Tournament.

Donna Rae, at Captain Bob's Marina, reported that determined anglers could still land that elusive keeper flounder if they were willing to wade through all of the undersized flatties. She recommended using a top and bottom rig with a 4-inch Berkley Gulp Swimming Mullet on the bottom and a bull minnow/squid strip on the top hook. For a better shot at putting something in the cooler, she said kingfish (whiting) were still hitting in the area between the canal and buoy #11.

Upper Shore – Captain Matt Abell, of Sea Hawk Sports Center, reported that offshore fishing remained slow but flounder fishing over the rail cars has improved. Spanish mackerel catches this week were made off Pungoteague Creek and up in Tangier Sound. Captain Abell had two charters during the week, releasing both cobia and trophy red drum. Two of the cobia were caught sightcasting for fish that were following rays. The late summer/autumn run of speckled trout appears to have started inside the bayside creeks, with one party caching nine fish measuring up to 22 inches. Bill Hall was the first Eastern Shore resident to achieve Virginia Salt Water Master Angler Status. He has been named Virginia Saltwater Angler of the Year and Virginia Saltwater Release Angler of the Year. Bill is an I.G.F.A. International Committee Representative and a longtime member of the Virginia Saltwater Fishing Tournament Committee. He is the Virginia Recreation Fishing representative on the ASMFC Striped Bass Management Panel and is a past recipient of the CCA-VA Virginia Outdoor Writer Conservation Leadership Award.

Coffeehouse to Feature Music of Artists' Southern Roots

The Island Coffeehouse will be host to an evening of old time traditional music as it welcomes back Wayne and Margaret Martin and Bill Schmidt and Ann Porcella on Aug. 19.

Wayne and Margaret Martin's musical mentors belonged to a generation that played for tobacco farm frolics and rural square dances, for medicine shows and live country radio. "We try to honor these rich musical traditions in our playing," Wayne Martin said. "We strive for the energy of breakdowns and hornpipes, salted with a good dose of the blues." His Georgia roots include shapenote singers, country songwriters and fiddlers. A North Carolina native, Margaret Martin played for years with "Hash House" Harvey Ellington and "Starvin" Sam Pridgen, original members of the 1930s-era Tobacco Tags and the Swingbillies.

The Martins are featured on the recording "Birdie" with their dear friend Craig Johnson and have performed at festivals, house concerts and music events across North Carolina and beyond including the Swannanoa Gathering, MerleFest and the Festival of American Fiddle Tunes in Port Townsend, Washington.

Opening for Martins will be Ann Porcella Bill and Schmidt. each whom has extensive history in the realm of traditional music. Porcella's music is highly informed by the gospel music she learned at home and in church. She is a member of The Blue Moon Cowgirls. Schmidt was a founding member of the Double Decker Stringband. He is also a member of the Hoover Uprights, twotime winners at the Appalachian String Band Festival in Clifftop, W.Va. Their set will include a wide range of roots music: gospel, fiddle tunes, and heart songs accompanied by guitar, banjo, and fiddle. Look for Chincoteague's John Beam to sit in on some tunes.

The Featured Artist this month is Lucy Roehm. She is a local artist who resides in Chincoteague and the Philadelphia area. She enjoys painting around Chincoteague and Assateague islands throughout the year and participates in the Chincoteague Cultural Alliance Plein Air event held every September on the island.

Doors open at 6:30 p.m.; performances begin at 7 p.m. Admission is $5 for adults; $3 for students 22 and under. Everyone is welcome.

The Island Coffeehouse is held on the third Saturday at 6309 Church St. and is sponsored by the CCA. Each month, the Coffeehouse presents a variety of arts in a listening room environment. Enjoy performances by acoustic musicians and spoken word artists, view some visual art, and savor light snacks and drinks in a convivial atmosphere. More information is available at http://www.chincoteagueculturalalliance.org/

The "Big 90"

I would like to thank everyone who had a part in my recent 90th birthday party.

Words cannot express how I felt and I can't thank everyone enough for all the calls, cards, gifts, kindness and love shown to me.

I would like to express my sincere thanks to Denise Bowden and Debbie (Betts) Bender who worked so hard to make my special day memorable. My love to both of you as two great friends who are like family to me.

It was such a happy occasion to see so many friends, family and loved ones to share my special day. I can never repay the love shown to me.

I thank God every day for my health and strength and for so many great friends.

With lots of love,

Helen P. Merritt

Tennis Anyone? Tennis Everyone!

On Thursday, Aug. 10 the Chincoteague Community Tennis Association (CCTA) held the second of two free tennis clinics at the Veterans Memorial Park tennis courts.

Lessons were offered for adults and children and both were well attended as several residents and visitors to Chincoteague took advantage of the opportunity to improve their game.

Anyone interested in playing tennis and or joining the CCTA please contact Peter Lukacs at communitytennisas-soc.2013@gmail.com or by calling 301-370-8439.

August 21 Celestial Show Will Eclipse All Others

By Linda Cicoira

The first coast-to-coast total solar eclipse in nearly a century will darken the skies Monday, Aug. 21, on the Eastern Shore where a partial view of the spectacle or 81.5 percent will be visible. The maximum eclipse will occur when the moon covers part of the sun at about 2:45 p.m.

The NASA Wallops Flight Facility Visitor Center, on Route 175, also known as Chincoteague Road, will conduct free activities from noon to 4:30 p.m. that day, including providing free glasses for safe viewing of the eclipse and a NASA TV live broadcast from 1 to 4 p.m. The show will feature NASA experts along the path of totality. Live feeds from NASA aircraft, balloons and the International Space Station are planned. There will also be solar-themed movies. Food and beverages will be sold.

In addition to the visitor center event, satellite locations will be offered at Assateague Island National Seashore/Toms Cove Visitor Center and at the Assateague Visitor Center, in Maryland. The events are funded in part through the 2015 Competitive Program for Science Museums, Planetariums, and NASA. For a full list of NASA coverage, programming and activities, go to https://eclipse2017.nasa.gov/

The total eclipse will cross the country in a 70-mile-wide stretch from Oregon to South Carolina. In the rest of North American and parts of South America, Africa, Europe and Asia, a partial eclipse will be visible.

About 12 million people live in the band of totality. Estimates are calling for that to double on Aug. 21. About 25 million people live within a day's drive. So make sure you make room reservations as many hotels have been booked for months or even years.

The moon orbits an average of 239,000 miles from Earth, the perfect distance to seem about the same size as the much-larger sun. They line up about once every 18 months.

At most, the moon will completely cover sun in the main stretch of the U.S. for 2 minutes and 40 seconds. The length of view at the edge of the path will decrease to as little as a few seconds.

The moon's rough terrain influences what Earthlings will be able to see. As the moon covers the sun, light will shine through the lunar valleys forming what is known as Baily's beads or bright points of light that signal the beginning and the end of totality. The moon's surface also shapes the shadow, called the umbra. These edges warp even more as they pass over Earth's mountain ranges.

"Visualizers used data from NASA's Lunar Reconnaissance Orbiter coupled with NASA topographical data of Earth, to precisely map the upcoming eclipse in unprecedented detail," according to an agency report.

PHOTO TIPS

Safety should be your first priority. You'll need the eclipse glasses to protect yourself and a solar filter to shield the camera. Keep your glasses on for all portions of the eclipse. (If you travel to the total eclipse zone, remove the camera screen when the moon totally blocks the sun so you can catch the sun's outer atmosphere, or corona.) Solar filters must be attached to the front of any telescope, binoculars, camera lens, or other optical device. Do not look at the uneclipsed or partially-eclipsed sun through an unfiltered camera, telescope, binoculars, or other optical device. Similarly, do not look at the sun through a camera, a telescope, binoculars, or any other optical device while using your eclipse glasses or handheld solar viewer — the concentrated solar rays will damage the filter and enter your eye(s), causing serious injury.

REMEMBER

Skywatchers should NEVER look at a partial solar eclipse without proper eye protection. Looking directly at the sun, even when it is partially covered by the moon, can cause serious eye damage or blindness. In the path of totality (where the sun will be totally blocked by the moon), it is safe to view the sun with the naked eye during the approximately three minutes when the sun is completely obscured. None of the Eastern Shore of Virginia is within the path of totality, so local viewers should plan to wear appropriate eye protection at all times.

BEWARE

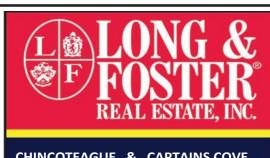

Reports have been made of sales of unsafe or counterfeit solar-viewing glasses. Be sure to purchase ones approved by the American Astronomical Society, that meet ISO 12312-2 safety standards (International Organization for Standardization). To be safe, the glasses should not allow more than 0.00032 percent of the sun's light through the filters. And the filters must be free of defects like scratches, bubbles and dents. Handheld viewers must be large enough to cover both eyes.

Eclipse glasses and sunglasses may look similar, but they are made of very different materials. You should never look directly at the sun while wearing sunglasses, no matter how tinted your lenses. According to NASA, they let in "thousands of times too much sunlight."

Solar filters are polyester film coated in aluminum, or black polymer, a flexible resin infused with carbon particles. Both types of filters will reduce visible light down to safe levels.

Some welding filters will provide protection, but make sure you have the correct kind before trying it. The only ones that are safe for direct viewing of the Sun are those of Shade 12 or higher. These are much darker than the filters used for most kinds of welding. Make sure you know the filter's shade number. If it's less than 12 (and it probably is), don't even think about using it to look at the sun.
