The Roseland Returns

By Carol Vaughn

The Roseland Theatre in Onancock is open again after having been shuttered since mid-March due to the coronavirus pandemic.

"The last show was on March 15," said owner Scott Chandler of the Onancock Theatre Corporation.

The theater reopened earlier this month, with safety protocols in place.

The Roseland is an Eastern Shore institution, having hosted generations of moviegoers since it opened in 1951.

Among the earliest films shown at the Roseland was a Tarzan movie. A long-time customer gave Chandler an old photograph of the theater marquee advertising the film.

Chandler said the Roseland has not been closed this long since he purchased the theater in 1976, although it sometimes closed during hot summer weather back in the 1960s, before air conditioning was installed.

Since Chandler took the helm, until this year the theater "has run continuously for weekend shows without a break," he said.

Starting in 2015, when a new, digital sound system was installed, it sometimes shows first-run movies during the week as well.

The Roseland is the only movie theater still operating in the immediate area. The nearest one, operating on a seasonal basis, is on Chincoteague, about 35 miles away, and the closest multiplexes are an hour or more away in Hampton Roads.

A theater complex at a mall in Salisbury is closing temporarily after the national company lost more than $1.5 billion in the first half of 2020, according to an announcement Regal Cine-

Sen. Kaine Tours Eastville Clinic

By Stefanie Jackson

U.S. Sen. Tim Kaine toured the new Eastville Community Health Center Oct. 19 and sat down with local health officials to discuss how the Eastern Shore has responded to the coronavirus and what issues persist as the COVID-19 pandemic continues.

Kaine also wanted to know what types of financial assistance should be included in the next COVID-19 relief bill, which won't be ready until after Election Day, he predicted.

Nancy Stern, CEO of the Eastern Shore Rural Health System, listed the organization's biggest challenges early in the COVID-19 pandemic as acquiring PPE (personal protective equipment), paying employee salaries, and educating patients.

Eastern Shore Rural Health has 310 employees, but with the help of the federal Paycheck Protection Program, or PPP, no one has been furloughed during the pandemic, Stern said.

COVID-19 has led to a dramatic increase in telehealth appointments due to patients' inability or unwillingness to come to the doctor's office in person, she said.

This increase brought "sadness" and pushback from some doctors, who must see patients in person to treat certain conditions like high blood pressure and diabetes. At least one doctor remarked, "This is not why I went to medical school," Stern said.

John Peterman, administrator of Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital, agreed that fewer patients have been seeking care in person during the pandemic, resulting in a decrease in emergency room volume and an increase in untreated catastrophic health events like cardiac arrests and strokes.

He estimated that the hospital emergency room's volume is still down about 15% to 20% and a second wave of the coronavirus could deter more people from seeking emergency care.

CHERITON WOMAN'S DEATH INVESTIGATED AS HOMICIDE

Staff Report

The Northampton County Sheriff's Office is investigating the death of a Cheriton woman as a homicide.

Northampton County Sheriff David L. Doughty Jr. reported that on Oct. 20 at approximately 3:50 a.m., his office received a call for a gunshot victim on Bluebird Road in Cheriton.

"Upon arrival, Shavon Myrick, 39, of Cheriton, was located deceased inside a residence," Doughty said in a written statement.

The Northampton County Sheriff's Office is asking that anyone with information contact the sheriff's office at 757-678-0458 or anonymously through <https://home.tip411.com/>

Friends are organizing collections to assist Myrick's children and pay for burial costs. Details will be provided as they become available. Funeral arrangements are pending and are being handled by Cornish and Holland Funeral Home in Cheriton.

mas made earlier this month.

The Roseland staff took advantage of the extended shutdown to replace the carpet, thoroughly clean the seats and the rest of the building, and make renovations to the concession area and the front office.

Even through a mask, the theater has that fresh, new carpet smell.

“We are committed to the theater industry’s Cinema Safe program,” Chandler said of current protocol.

That includes providing socially distanced seating — every other row is blocked off for the time being — and a modified flow for concessions; offering optional online ticket purchase; and requiring masks when customers are not eating or drinking.

Under current state COVID-19 guidelines, theaters are allowed to operate at 50% capacity, but the Roseland operators have chosen to keep seating to 30% capacity — which is not a problem, since the old-school theater can seat 330.

This weekend, the Roseland is showing the classic cult film favorite, “The Rocky Horror Picture Show.”

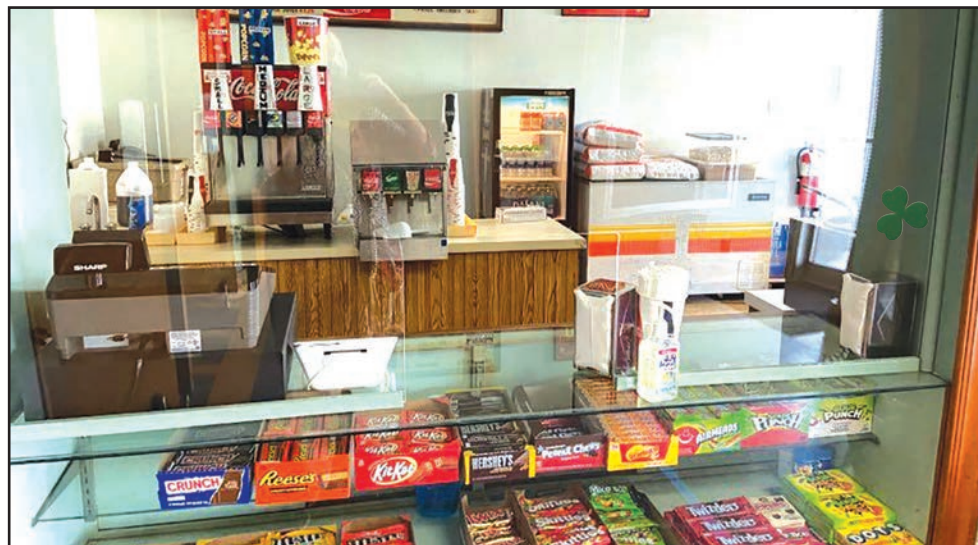

It’s the first time the film has been screened at the Roseland, according to Chandler.

For Halloween weekend, the movie will be “It Chapter Two,” a sequel to a horror film that was popular with moviegoers at the Roseland.

After that, it will be more family-friendly fare, including PG-13 rated films “The New Mutants,” “The Broken Hearts Gallery,” and “Like Harvey Like Son,” a documentary about Cincinnati high school teacher Harvey Lewis, who sets out to conquer the Appalachian Trail in record-breaking fashion.

“Right now, one of the biggest challenges that we have as a movie theater is getting new films,” Chandler said, adding, “The film studios and distributors have been pushing back their release, postponing the films” during the pandemic.

Two community groups that regularly use the Roseland Theatre — Onancock International Films and Roseland Cinema and Entertainment Center — are still in the process of deciding how to proceed in the coming months. OIF recently showed a free movie out-of-doors at the Historic Onancock School, but as winter sets in that may not be a viable option.

Chincoteague Discusses Political Campaign Signs, Halloween, CARES Act

By Carol Vaughn

Chincoteague resident Nancy Payne spoke during a public comment period at the town council's Thursday, Oct. 15, work session about regulations for posting political campaign signs.

"I was here before, in 2004," to talk about this, she said, adding, "I'm back because this has come up again."

Payne, who said she has been involved in posting campaign signs for 20 years, said it is a First Amendment right to post political signs on private property "for as long as you like."

"You can't enforce people to take them down," she said, citing state law.

Payne said when she became active in "the political scene here on Chincoteague," she got advice from someone to take the signs down immediately after the election if the candidate loses and to keep them up for another two weeks if the candidate wins.

Payne said she plans to take down signs posted on her Main Street property, near the entrance to the island, a week after the election.

She has two large campaign signs on the property, one of which has been vandalized with spray paint, Payne said.

"Through various channels, some complain they are too big, remove them," she said.

Payne asked council members to put the signs into the context of "a large number" of advertising billboards along the Chincoteague causeway, "many larger than mine."

She likened driving along the causeway to "traveling through the Yellow Pages of an old-fashioned phone book."

"These complainers, have they mentioned or thought about these signs, suggesting that they be removed? My signs are, indeed, temporary and will be removed when the election is decided," she said, asking whether the billboards along the causeway will ever be removed.

Payne said people who vandalize properly posted signs are trespassing and damaging or stealing private property.

"They are committing crimes. So that's the thing that I think we need to get across to these people who are doing these things," she said.

Payne also asked the council to consider publishing a regular newspaper column giving information about town meetings and activities.

"Get us more involved," she said.

In answer to a question from Councilman Gene Wayne Taylor, Payne said

The Town of Chincoteague Cemetery Committee will hold our annual cleanup at the Mechanics Cemetery on Church Street Extended, on November 7. Our goal will be to completely clean up all of the decorations currently in the cemetery. Respect for currently placed items will be practiced, however, any objects of family interest should be removed and replaced after the cleanup.

We invite all interested residents to join us on this Saturday, November 7, from 9 a.m. until noon, and help with this important community cleanup. Thank you.

no town official has complained to her about the campaign signs.

Louisa Flaningam also spoke at the work session, thanking the Chincoteague Police Department for their professionalism after a window was broken at the Captain Timothy Hill House, a historic house on Chincoteague.

Flaningam and Paul Brzozowski are the owners of the house.

The window “was broken in such a way that someone was able to get their hand in and steal an antique lamp,” Flaningam said.

Officers from the department and, later, from the county, responded to the scene.

“It was amazing to watch them work” as they conducted an investigation, she said.

“...There evidently has been a good bit of vandalism and things going on on the island, and there could be a possibility that certain things are connected. They (police) don’t know whether this would be, but it could be part of the agenda,” she said, citing a recent conversation with the investigating officer.

“We are just so proud of the department and how seriously they took it,” she said, adding the officers made the couple feel safe.

They have since put up security cameras at the property.

COVID-19 Update

“Halloween is a go,” emergency management coordinator Bryan Rush told the council.

The town has been working with nonprofit organizations and the Chincoteague Chamber of Commerce to plan for “some sort of normalcy,” while adhering to safe practices, in the fall season, he said.

Trick-or-treating will be Saturday, Oct. 31, from 4 to 8 p.m. for children 14 and under.

A message on the town Facebook page and website gives Halloween guidelines for safety during the pandemic, including maintaining social distance, frequent handwashing or sanitizing, using a cloth face covering, and refraining from participating if the person has symptoms.

Additional information about road closures for trick-or-treating will be published soon. Main Street from Church to Cropper streets along with Sunnywood Drive will be closed to traffic.

Chincoteague also plans to hold its traditional Christmas tree lighting and parade, Rush said.

Chincoteague has had 31 total reported COVID-19 cases, an increase of one case in the past week.

CARES Act Grants Update

Chincoteague has awarded an additional 33 grants for COVID-19 relief to small businesses and three to watermen, in a second round of grants funded by the federal government.

The second grant program “has been very successful,” said town manager Mike Tolbert.

The grants were $4,000 each.

The town has awarded a total of 86 small business grants and 10 waterman grants in two rounds.

In the first round, the town awarded grants totaling around $242,000.

“And I just signed enough checks to hand out another $144,000,” Tolbert said.

The town to date has spent $428,047 of CARES Act funds, including the business and waterman grants; hazard pay for some town employees; and equipment purchases for restrooms.

The town has around $71,900 from the CARES Act allotment left to spend on qualifying items before the end of the year.

Tolbert gave the council a prioritized list of possible items on which to spend the money, including, in order: two remote message display boards; personal protective equipment for EMS use; replacement of a server; streaming equipment already purchased for the council chambers; laptop computers, personal protective equipment and cleaning supplies for the public works department; police special duty pay; and 15 touchless flush valve retrofit kits.

The council also discussed purchasing a new dispatch console, which is needed but would cost $78,450 including remote capability.

“We don’t have that much money left in our award,” Tolbert said.

No vote was taken on the proposed expenditures at the work session.

Mimi Sedjat, executive director of the Eastern Shore Community Services Board, said telehealth has benefited CSB clients, but getting psychiatric care for mental health patients has been problematic.

She referenced Gov. Ralph Northam's executive order 70, which directs patients away from psychiatric hospitals operating at 100% capacity during the COVID-19 pandemic.

The executive order essentially exempts psychiatric hospitals from the Virginia law that says those facilities must accept patients in mental health crises, even if beds aren't available.

Sedjat said those patients wind up in regular hospitals, which is unfair to the nurses, who don't practice psychiatric care.

"After a while, they are just free to leave," she said of the patients. "Whether they're a harm to themselves or a harm to others, now they're out in the community."

Her top priority financially for CSB is reimbursement through the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services, or CMS.

Peterman's financial concerns included a "huge disruption in payment to providers and hospitals," although the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act has offset costs.

He noted that businesses received PPP loans that became grants, and he would like to see hospitals receive the same benefit.

Peterman was also interested in COVID-19-related liability protection. Kaine said that was "not out of the question" considering the public health emergency. There are precedents, such as drug companies getting protection against lawsuits relating to vaccines that were approved by the FDA (Food and Drug Administration), he said.

Other financial concerns included the suspension of disproportionate share payments, federal financial assistance for hospitals that serve a large amount of low-income patients who have Medicaid or are uninsured.

Both Peterman and Stern want funding for another federal program, 340B Drug Pricing, which reduces the cost of prescriptions for low-income patients.

Richard Williams, director of the Eastern Shore Health District, discussed why the region has responded so well to COVID-19 compared to other regions of Virginia.

Early in the pandemic, hundreds of cases of COVID-19 were detected in Eastern Shore poultry plants, but after PPE and other safety measures were implemented, the outbreaks "stopped cold," he said.

The CDC (Centers for Disease Control and Prevention) and NIOSH (National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health) helped mitigate the outbreaks and COVID-19 cases "dropped very sharply," Williams said.

Kaine observed poultry plants had an existing "safety culture" of wearing hairnets, gowns, and other food safety-related equipment, which may have helped employees adjust to the addition of COVID-19 safety measures.

Williams said the manner in which the poultry plants responded to COVID-19 in April and early May "set the tone" for the rest of the Shore.

The Eastern Shore Health District has the best COVID-19 metrics of any health district in the state. It typically has fewer than 10 new cases a week to report, when other health districts may have 150 new cases, he said.

Why has the Eastern Shore performed so much better than other health districts, including its nearest neighbor, Virginia Beach?

"People are smarter about protecting themselves" on the Shore, Williams said. He pointed out that there is more compliance with guidelines for wearing face masks and practicing social distancing.

The ability to work closely with the local health department also has been an advantage.

Sedjat said the Eastern Shore Health District has been a "big help" in obtaining PPE, and she commended all local health administrators for their "phenomenal" collaborations throughout the pandemic – an advantage missing in other Virginia regions.

Kaine said after the COVID-19 public health emergency is declared over, Virginia shouldn't return to the "status quo" but examine the laws and regulations that have been modified and determine which changes should be reversed and which should become part of the "new normal."

Part of that new normal should be continued telehealth services and broadband internet access that makes it possible.

Kaine said, "Innovations have proven themselves and we need to now support those to be permanent."

COVID-19 OUTBREAK AMONG STAFF CAUSES 2-WEEK SHUTDOWN OF NANDUA HIGH

By Carol Vaughn

Nandua High School is closed for in-person instruction for two weeks after several staff members tested positive for COVID-19, according to a letter sent to parents Wednesday.

“Due to health and safety concerns, Nandua High School will be closed from October 22, 2020 through November 4, 2020,” the letter from Superintendent W. C. “Chris” Holland stated.

Students are expected to attend classes virtually during the period the school is closed, according to the letter.

The letter said the school district is working closely with the health department to identify any individuals who had close contact with the staff members who were diagnosed with coronavirus.

The letter went on to say the health department will contact families of students determined to have been exposed to the virus.

“If you are not contacted by the health department, you do not need to stay home or exclude yourself from activities at this time,” it said.

The letter did not say how many staff members were diagnosed with the virus, but teachers reportedly were told of two.

The Virginia Department of Health COVID-19 dashboard Thursday morning showed one outbreak in K-12 schools in the Eastern Shore Health District, bringing the total number of outbreaks in the district to 15 since the pandemic began.

The CDC school metrics section of the VDH pandemic metrics dashboard, last updated Wednesday, showed Accomack County as reporting 43.19 new cases per 100,000 population in the last 14 days and a 2.2% positivity rate for tests during the last 14 days.

New Ecumenical Group Forms To Pray for Peace and Unity

By Jim Ritch

A new ecumenical group of Northampton County churches will rally Saturday to pray for peace and to combat sentiments being expressed on social media.

“... We want to come together and find a common ground of peace and unity,” said Pastor Kelvin Jones of First Baptist Church Capeville.

The event, at 4:30 p.m. on Saturday at the football field of Northampton High School, will be the debut of Churches United ESVA. The event will be named “Churches United: A Call for Prayer and Action.”

In a founding statement posted on Facebook, the group wrote, “we are troubled by the increasingly hostile expression of contempt aimed at individuals and groups of people. We recognize that this is happening all over the world and here on Virginia’s Eastern Shore, most visibly online.”

“We want to stand (or sit) together as people of goodwill. We want to bear witness to the alternatives to bigotry, bullying and inequity. We can and should claim the common ground that is the dignity of our neighbors,” the message said.

The statement was signed by the Rev. Rachel May of Franktown United Methodist Church; Pastor Felton Sessoms, First Baptist Church Cape Charles; Sally Williams, lay leader at Capeville United Methodist Church; the Rev. Barb Schweitzer, of Capeville United Methodist Church and Trinity United Methodist Church, Cape Charles; and Pastor Jones.

The outdoor and socially distanced program will begin with songs and a statement of purpose, followed by a message. It is planned to last one hour.

Gates will open at 4 p.m. Masks, social distancing, and temperature testing will be required.

RURAL PROSPERITY SUMMIT: BROADBAND IS KEY FOR EDUCATION, JOBS, HEALTHCARE

By Carol Vaughn

Broadband's role in rural prosperity was the focus of the 7th Annual Governor's Summit on Rural Prosperity, held virtually Wednesday.

The summit was presented by the Virginia Rural Center, a partnership of the Center for Rural Virginia and the Council for Rural Virginia. The two organizations work together on a joint mission of economic prosperity for rural Virginia communities.

Gov. Ralph Northam in his keynote address said among his priorities is for all Virginians, including rural Virginians, "to have access to a good job and the skills to get it."

"Working together, we can make progress, and we can do that by working together to make sure that our rural communities have what they need — access to a first-class education, quality jobs, broadband, and health care. ... Broadband connects all those other needs," he said, adding, "Universal broadband access has been a priority since I took office and the pandemic has only strengthened our commitment to ensuring that all Virginians can get online."

Around 660,000 Virginians, many in rural areas, still lack access to high-speed internet.

"We can't allow rural Virginia to be left behind in the 21st century economy," Northam said.

Agriculture, "by far our largest private industry," requires high-speed internet access to function optimally, Northam said, noting a recent USDA study found that, nationwide, "ubiquitous broadband would lead to 18% growth in agriculture."

Northam announced earlier this month the state will use $30 million in federal CARES Act funds to improve broadband access in underserved communities.

In addition to farmers, broadband access for students is critical.

In Virginia, 200,000 K-12 students and 60,000 college students, many in rural areas, lack access at home, according to the State Council on Higher Education.

Officials announced earlier this month that more than $220 million in CARES Act dollars will go to help Virginia public schools with COVID-19 response, Northam said.

Health care is another area where broadband access is vital, in particular during the COVID-19 pandemic. Northam, a pediatric neurologist, said around 75% of patient contacts at his former medical office are now through telemedicine.

Still, even during the pandemic, Virginia has seen record economic development, with over $32 billion in capital investment and 75,000 new jobs over the last 20 months, according to Northam.

While large, companies including Merck, Volvo, West Rock, and Hershey, among others, have chosen to locate in Virginia, most of the state's economic growth comes from small businesses, Northam said.

The governor's Agriculture and Forestry Industries Development Fund in the last year funded 12 projects in rural Virginia, representing more than $111 million in capital investment and 309 new jobs, as well as $229 million in Virginia-grown agriculture and forestry purchases.

One project is at Shore Breeze Farms in Northampton County, which expanded its hydroponic greenhouse facility to provide year-around produce.

Industrial hemp is another area in which Virginia agriculture is growing.

"There are over 1,200 industrial hemp farmers in Virginia; I may be 1,201 in another year," Northam said, adding one way to support those farmers "is to create new markets for industrial hemp processing and products."

Last week, Northam attended the grand opening of Golden Piedmont Labs in Halifax County, Virginia's first large-scale industrial hemp/CBD extraction facility.

"The idea for Golden Piedmont Labs began as an effort to support our agriculture community, especially our tobacco farmers. This is an exciting win

ACCOMACK-NORTHAMPTON PLANNING DISTRICT COMMISSION REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS FOR PLANNING AND SURVEYING SERVICES

PROJECT DESCRIPTION:

The Accomack-Northampton Planning District Commission (A-NPDC) is requesting proposals from professional engineers to complete the channel condition surveying, sediment sampling, disposal strategy development, and community engagement for five (5) waterways and permit preparation and submittal, and design of construction documents for one (1) of those five (5) waterways on the Eastern Shore of Virginia in Accomack and Northampton Counties. Proposals may address any combination, or all, of the five (5) projects.

Requests for the full RFP should be made to grayson.williams@a-npdc.org. The RFP can also be accessed through eVA (ID#88662) and online at www.a-npdc.org. All offerors must be registered through eVA to successfully submit proposals.

SUBMITTAL:

Respondents can submit their response electronically through eVA (ID#88662) or supply their eVA VendorID# and mail three (3) paper copies along with one (1) electronic copy of their proposal to:

Grayson Williams
Accomack-Northampton Planning District Commission
P.O. Box 417
Accomac, VA 23301

Proposals must be submitted on eVA and/or delivered to the offices of the Accomack-Northampton Planning District Commission by 5:00 p.m., Friday November 20, 2020, located at 23372 Front St., Accomac, VA 23301. Proposals received after this deadline will not be ranked and will be returned unopened.

LOCAL STAKEHOLDER ENGAGEMENT:

Local stakeholders, especially those who live in the area of the Wachapreague Channel, Folly Creek, Nassawadox Creek, Hungars Creek, and Red Bank, who would like to be included on a mailing list to be able to provide input on the projects, please contact grayson.williams@a-npdc.org.

for rural Virginia,” Northam said.

Secretary of Commerce Brian Ball said broadband expansion “is a matter of fairness and equity,” noting the administration’s goal is to have universal access in Virginia by 2028.

Around 108,000 previously unconnected households and businesses have gotten access since Northam took office, after some $44 million in state grants to help address unserved areas.

Another $85 million is budgeted for broadband expansion over the next four years, Ball said.

Evan Feinman, Northam’s chief broadband advisor, said the COVID-19 crisis “has only really deepened the impact of the digital divide.”

The Virginia Telecommunications Initiative (VATI) at present is evaluating requests for more than $105 million for broadband projects, he said..

Feinman moderated a panel discussion on rural broadband with U.S. Rep. Abigail Spanberger (D-7th) and U.S. Rep. Rob Wittman (R-1st), who he described as “incredible advocates” for rural Americans, in particular as relates to broadband connectivity.

“The fact of the matter is the federal government has not made this a priority, and should have,” he said, adding, “This is a problem we’ve known about for years and years and years.”

Wittman said 30% of rural residents have no broadband access at all and half have access to internet only at slow speeds of around 25 megabytes per second for downloads and 3 megabytes per second for uploads.

“The COVID-19 pandemic has highlighted the incredible importance to rural areas of broadband,” he said.

Wittman called for “a fair portion” of $138 billion left over in the last round of CARES Act funding to be dedicated to broadband expansion, and to do so in the form of block grants handled by the states.

The FCC on Oct. 29 will hold an auction of the 2.5 gigahertz spectrum to companies that want to go into unserved localities, which Wittman said could help with getting broadband to more rural residents through wireless technology.

“It will be almost $16 billion of auction going out the door. ...We believe we can add as many as 200,000 additional connections in Virginia. That gets a long ways to where the governor wants us to be and where all of us want to be,” Wittman said.

“I believe we’ll see more happen in the next two years than we have seen happen in the past 10 years,” he said.

Spanberger said broadband access “is fundamentally an issue of equity and opportunity,” likening lacking broadband access now to electricity lagging in coming to rural areas of the United States in the 20th century.

“COVID-19 has further shown us the urgent need to really close, and permanently close, this digital divide. The disparities have real public health and economic impacts,” she said.

Spanberger noted she, as a member of the House Rural Broadband Task Force, helped introduce the Accessible, Affordable Connectivity for All Act.

The legislation would provide for investments of over $100 billion to build high-speed broadband infrastructure in unserved and underserved communities and to ensure that the resulting internet service is affordable.

Public Gets First View of Northampton High School Rebuild Concept

By Stefanie Jackson

In less than four years, Northampton County middle and high school students will be immersed in a contemporary, state-of-the-art learning environment if the Northampton High School capital improvement project is completed on schedule, the public learned Tuesday night.

Maureen McElfresh, of Virginia Beach architectural firm Waller, Todd & Sadler, presented the plan to modernize the Northampton High School campus – also home to Northampton Middle School – through a combination of heavy renovation and some demolition and new construction.

Most of the original structure built in 1954 will be demolished, since repairing it would not be cost-effective. The area to be demolished includes the kitchen, cafeteria, and auditorium.

Another area built in 1954 but renovated in 2009, including high school classrooms, will undergo new renovations.

The addition built in 1978 will be renovated, including classrooms, the high school gym, and the weight and wrestling rooms.

Every major building system will be replaced. The roof, heating and air conditioning, water and sprinkler systems, electric switchboard, and mechanical/electrical room will be new. More infrastructure for Wi-Fi, data, and audio-visual equipment will be added, and all lighting will be replaced with LED lights.

Everything in the building will get a “fresh coat of paint” and other upgrades, for a seamless transition from one wing to another.

“When you walk into the facility, you won’t say, ‘Oh, there’s the new part, and there’s the new part,’” McElfresh said.

The school building will be more than 30% larger when the project is finished, even after demolishing about 43,000 square feet of space. The building’s total area will increase from 110,685 square feet to 145,590 square feet.

That means more space for new career and technical education courses like agriculture/aquaponics and cyber security. CTE (Career and Technical Education) courses in auto mechanics, building trades, culinary arts, business accounting, marketing, and personal finance will continue to be offered.

Noncareer programs that are currently held in the CTE building will be moved, such as Spanish, special education, and in-school suspension.

Access to the school building by students, parents, and community members will be safer and more secure.

There will be two separate entrances for students and visitors on the east side of the building by the main parking lot. A bus loop will be behind the parking lot and can provide extra parking after school for sports or other events.

Buses will drop off students at their own entrance. There will still be access to the CTE building from Courthouse Road, but the access road will stop at a small parking lot and will not continue toward the rear of the school property. Students will be able to access all areas of the campus and never cross traffic.

Visitors at their entrance will be buzzed into a secure vestibule, where they can present identification at a service window and enter the office.

The high school and middle school wings are on the west side of the building, while the auditorium, gyms, and administrative offices are on the east side. This separation creates increased security, allowing the classrooms to be “locked down” at night when the public areas of the building are in use, McElfresh said.

The plan allows the high school and middle school to share a building but maintain separate spaces and identities. High school and middle school students will rarely cross paths in the hallways, McElfresh said.

The high school wing will be on the north side of the building, while the middle school wing will be on the south side, facing Courthouse Road, with shared elective classrooms in the middle.

The high school and middle school will have separate gyms. The students will have one cafeteria, but they will be separated during meal-times by a partition that can be moved to create a larger, shared space when needed.

During the question and answer period, school board member Jo Ann Molera raised concern that in the concept art, the school's roof appears flat except over the auditorium and middle school gym.

But despite appearances, every roof will be sloped, McElfresh said.

She noted that the concept art also incorporates a lot of glass near the front of the school, allowing plenty of inviting, natural light into the lobby.

The architects want to "put a new face on it and really show the community" that Northampton High School is valued by the board of supervisors and school board and a place where kids want to be, she said.

Waller, Todd & Sadler's team of architects solicited input from school administrators, teachers, and students when putting together its plan.

The estimated project cost is $33.8 million for renovation of the high school and construction of the new middle school wing. Renovations to the CTE building would cost $3.3 million and a new water supply system would add $350,000.

The entire project will be finished in 40 to 42 months, including 10 to 12 months for design, 1.5 months to accept bids, 1.5 months to draw up the contract, and 24 months for construction.

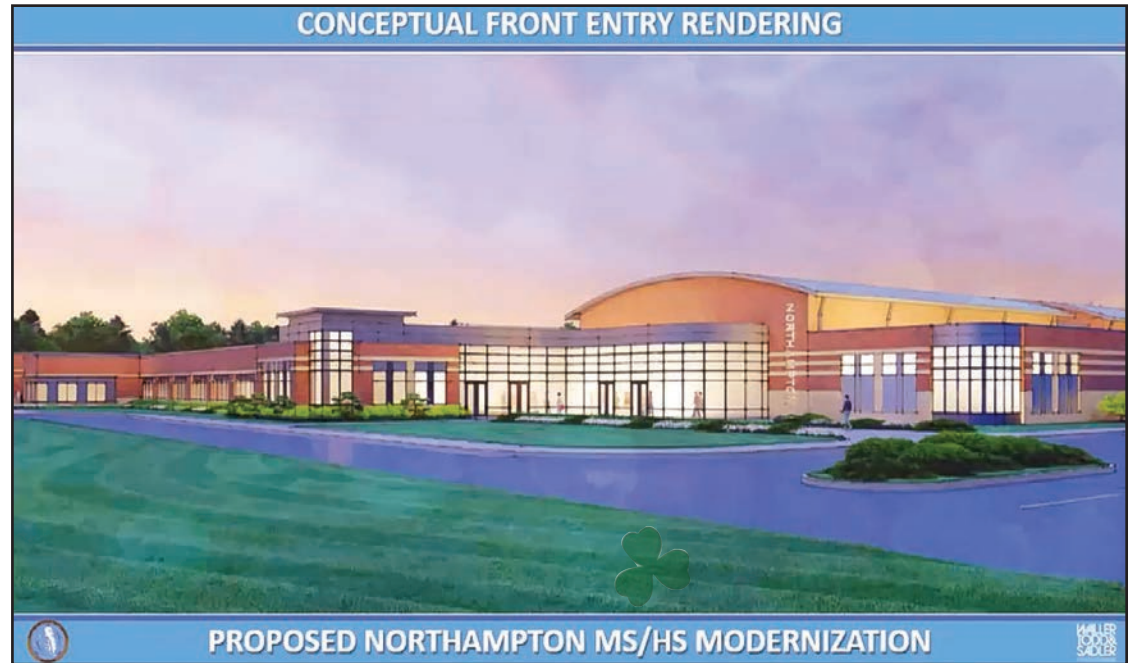

The plan takes into account that the high school will be used throughout the construction period and some parts of the building must be finished before others can be torn down.

Substantial completion is expected by spring or summer of 2024.

Waller, Todd & Sadler, which conducted a structural investigation of Northampton High School in 2019, has been in business since 1956 and has built 57 new schools and renovated 153 schools.

Its mission statement is, "create a learning environment that will enable every child to discover his or her unique gifts and talents."

Alice Formyduval

Ms. Alice Ann Formyduval, 77, died on Wednesday, Oct. 21, 2020, surrounded by loved ones at the family home located at Finney's Wharf on Onancock Creek.

Alice was born July 29, 1943, in Lawton, Okla., to Louise Dickie Formyduval and Morrison Formyduval Jr. The family lived in Whiteville, N.C., and relocated to Onancock in 1945. She had an idyllic childhood, growing up in her beloved hometown, marred only by a bout with polio at age 10, during the 1952 polio epidemic.

After graduating from Onancock High School in 1961, and the NAM Hospital School of Practical Nursing in 1963, she was married for 30 years to John Robert "Bobby" Walker (deceased), former owner and operator of T&W Block Company. Surviving are two daughters, Anne Wendell "Wendy" Walker and Genevieve Macon Walker, both of Onancock; sister, Marguerite F. Furr and her husband, Max; nephew, Macon F. Furr; and four grandchildren, John Major Morgan and Ann Marley Morgan, and Charlotte Louise Graham and Jonathan Walker

Ms. Formyduval

Graham. She is also survived by her cherished companion, Walter Jewell Stinson, with whom she enjoyed life and traveling around the world over the last three decades. Alice and Walt had many good times and dear friends in Easton, Md., and Naples, Fla., and on the Eastern Shore of Virginia.

Alice was a lifelong learner who kept busy with crafts and hobbies, including volunteer work, reading, sewing, knitting, boating, and exercise.

Per Alice's request, a private interment will be held at the Fairview Lawn Cemetery in Onancock. The family invites friends to join them at the home of Ms. Wendy Walker, 24204 Finney's Wharf Road in Onancock, on Saturday, Oct. 24, 2020, from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. to celebrate and remember the life of Alice Ann Formyduval.

Contributions in Alice's memory may be made to Friends of Historic Onancock School, P.O. Box 467, Onancock, VA 23417.

Scott D. Howard

On Oct. 17, 2020, after a hard fought battle with cancer, Mr. Scott D. Howard, 67, of Chincoteague Island went home to be with the Lord.

He was born July 28, 1953, on Chincoteague Island to Mitchell Howard Sr. and Faye (Birch) Irwin, both now deceased. He was proud of the fact that it was Pony Penning Day and it made him a real islander.

Mr. Howard

He was a member of the United States Coast Guard and American Legion Post #159. He owned and operated Scott D. Howard Construction for over 32 years before changing career paths. He then was a delivery driver for Lankford Sysco in Pocomoke City, Md.

Scott is survived by his loving spouse of 49 years, Rosemary Howard; son, H.M. Howard; daughter, Anita LeMay; four grandchildren, Stevie Ray, Melissa, River, and Rider; two sisters, Beverly Jester and Shelby Howard; two brothers, Mitchell Howard Jr. and Rocky Howard; several nieces, nephews, cousins, aunts, and uncles. He loved all his family and was always there when they needed him.

Funeral services were held Monday, Oct. 19, 2020, at 2 p.m. at the Union Baptist Church, Chincoteague Island, with the Rev. Kevin Eley, officiating.

Burial will take place in the Daisey Cemetery Ridge Road on Chincoteague Island.

Services entrusted to Salyer Funeral Home, Inc. on Chincoteague Island. Condolences may be made online at www.salyerfh.com

Carl Humphreys

Mr. Carl William Humphreys, 75, loving husband, favorite uncle, and cherished friend, passed away Sunday, Oct. 18, 2020, at his home in East Point. A Vietnam War hero, he was coincidentally born on the anniversary of our nation's independence, July 4, 1945, in South Ozone Park, Queens, N.Y., to the late Lawson William "Larry" Humphreys and Mary Durkin "Mollie" Humphreys.

Mr. Humphreys

Carl is survived by his wife of 51 years, Catherine Sonya "Cathy" Humphreys; dear friend, Joanne Boyko, who was more like a sister and whose friendship was immeasurable; brother-in-law, Fred Scalise; 10 nieces and nephews, Scott Scalise, and his children, Samantha and Tyler, James (Michelle) Kolosek and their sons, John, Jordan, and Nicholas, who affectionately called him "Pop Pop"; Barbaranne (Christopher) McDonald and their daughter, Anna Christina; John Edward Kolosek and his sons, Joshua, Jake, and John II; Lawson Humphreys and his children, Megan and Brendan; Todd Humphreys; Keith (Karen) Humphreys and their children, Jessica, Hannah, and Daniel; Mark Humphreys and his children, Mark Jr., Jonathan, and Katie; Stacy Humphreys; and Randy Scalise and his children, Rachael and Deanna; and last, but not least, his dogs, KC, Sophia, and Beau.

In addition to his parents, Carl was predeceased by his sister, Elizabeth "May" Scalise; brother, Lawson Jeremiah Humphreys and his wife, Dolores; sister-in-law, Gail Kolosek and her husband, Richard; and his best friend, Ted Boyko.

Following in the footsteps of several generations of Humphreys men, Carl graduated high school and began his career with one of our nation's largest energy companies, Consolidated Edison Company of New York. In 1965, after 15 months with Con Edison, he was drafted into the United States Army during the Vietnam War. He was assigned to the 196th Light Infantry Brigade in Tay Ninh, Vietnam, and served as infantry point man, assuming the front and most exposed position to lead his unit through hostile territory. While his unwavering vigilance and bravery saved the lives of the men in his unit, it came with great sacrifice for Sgt. Humphreys, who was awarded the Purple Heart with Oak Leaf Clusters in 1967. Following his courageous service to our country, Carl returned home, where he continued his career with Con Edison and married the love of his life.

Over the years, Carl enjoyed deer hunting in upstate New York and since retiring to the Eastern Shore, he spent many days boating and fishing the beautiful waters of the Chesapeake Bay. Carl especially looked forward to spending time with family and friends, and he never missed an opportunity to spoil his nieces and nephews and their children.

Carl's family is eternally grateful to Dr. Mark Trueth, and staff, of Salisbury, Md., and Riverside Medical Group, of Onancock, for the extraordinary care and support they provided throughout his illness.

A viewing and visitation, with military honors, was held at the Williams-Onancock Funeral Home on Thursday, Oct. 22, 2020, from 1 until 3 p.m. Private interment was held at the Fairview Lawn Cemetery.

For those who wish to honor Carl's memory, please consider giving a monetary donation or volunteering at a local veteran organization, or simply help any veteran in need.

Memory tributes may be shared with the family at www.williamsfuneralhomes.com

Helen Mapp

Mrs. Helen Drexel Young Mapp, 86, of RFD Cape Charles, passed away

Saturday, Oct. 17, 2020, at Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital in Onancock. She was the daughter of the late Nimrod Wescott Young and the late Martha Carpenter Young. She was the wife of the late Alvin Clement Mapp who passed away Saturday, Oct. 10, 2020.

There was a viewing Thursday, Oct. 22, from 6 until 8 p.m. at Gray's Funeral Home. A graveside funeral service will be held at noon on Friday, Oct. 23, 2020 at Union Baptist Church in Eastville. A complete obituary will be available in the near future.

Arrangements made by Gray's Funeral Home in Cape Charles.

Carl Nesensohn

Mr. Carl Donnelly Nesensohn III, 65, passed away Saturday, Oct. 17, 2020, at his home in Northside Chesconnessex. Born June 28, 1955, in Amityville, N.Y., he was the only child of the late Carl D. Nesensohn Jr. and Florence Atkiss Nesensohn.

A native of Amityville, Carl, and his wife, Sylke, moved to Maine soon after they were married to be closer to his parents while raising their children. In 2006, they relocated to the Eastern Shore of Virginia. Most recently, Carl worked as a mechanic for Davis Wharf Marine Service, and later, for Cape Charles Marine. As an antique car and firearm enthusiast, Carl's mechanical skills went well beyond marine repair, often working on cars and trucks, and occasionally testing his gunsmith talents. He was an avid outdoorsman and enjoyed hunting and fishing.

Carl is survived by his wife of 34 years, Sylke Nesensohn; their children, Carl D. Nesensohn IV of Longmont, CO, and Liesel Nesensohn of the home; sister-in-law, Karen Tyrie; and his best friend, Charlie Tyrie, and their families.

A memorial service will be conducted from the chapel of the Williams-Parksley Funeral Home on Sunday, October 25, 2020, at 3 p.m., with Pastor Wayne Asbury officiating.

Contributions in Carl's memory may be made to the Foodbank of the Eastern Shore, P.O. Box 518, Onley, VA 23418.

Memory tributes may be shared with the family at www.williamsfuneralhomes.com

Court Postings By Nancy Drury Duncan

Accomack County Circuit Court

Robert James Northan, 35, of Parkesley, entered pleas of not guilty to attempted first-degree murder, attempted second-degree murder, malicious maiming, and related firearm charges in the March 25 shooting of 46-year-old Donald Veney. Northan was on the run for almost a month after the shooting until captured in Pocomoke City, Md., by U.S. Marshals. The agency described Northan as a member of the local Bloods street gang. He is said to have initially wanted a jury trial but now has asked for a bench trial. A trial date has not been set.

Terrance Baines, 37, of Melfa, and Dorothy Payton, 32, of Mappsville, both charged in the unlawful burning of a camper trailer where a man lived with his dog, had their charges reduced to misdemeanors in a plea agreement. Northampton County Commonwealth's Attorney Beverly Leatherbury was special prosecutor in the case because of a conflict in the Accomack office. Problems between Baines, Payton, and Jerry Satchell went on during the day of July 4, 2019. The trailer was found to be burning at 2 a.m. the following morning. Satchell was not at home at the time, but the camper with Satchell's dog inside was burned to the ground. A witness heard the pair threatening to burn the camper and they were seen buying gas at Royal Farms before the fire. Leatherbury said she entered into the plea agreement because the evidence was circumstantial and she had no confidence witnesses would testify against the pair at trial. Payton pleaded guilty to misdemeanor threat to commit arson. Judge W. Revell Lewis III permitted her to remain on bond until her Jan. 21, 2021, sentencing. Terrance Baines pleaded guilty to misdemeanor arson. "That was someone's home," said the judge. He sentenced Baines to 12 months in jail, the maximum sentence for a misdemeanor, and remanded him to jail to begin serving that sentence.

Richard David Brown II, 35, of New Market, Md., will spend 12 months in jail for drunk driving and eluding. In September 2019, Brown was spotted by police radar driving his SUV 70 mph in a 45 mph zone on U.S. Route 175. When the officer caught up with Brown on the Chincoteague causeway, his speed was clocked at 107 mph. When finally stopped, Brown was found to be intoxicated with his 4-month-old son strapped into a car seat. Under the terms of a plea agreement in August, Brown pleaded guilty to felony eluding, DUI, and driving on a suspended license. Judge Lewis remanded him to jail to begin serving his time, ordered him to be on indefinite supervised probation when released, and to be on good behavior for five years.

Trina Nicole McLaughlin, 49, of Gar-gatha, will spend three days in jail for embezzling money from Royal Farms. Since her conviction, McLaughlin has paid $500 of the $1,792 she owes in restitution, said defense attorney Carl Bundick. He described her efforts to make money. On the witness stand, Mc-Laughlin said she is working and making extra money by selling some of her personal possessions on Eastern Shore Trash and Treasures online and making dinners to sell on Fridays. "I am sorry it happened," she said. "I was struggling. They will get their money." Bundick said she had no prior criminal history and had fully cooperated with the investigation. "She is making money in very creative ways," he said. Commonwealth's Attorney Spencer Morgan asked the judge to impose supervised probation until all restitution is paid. "I commend you for making payments thus far," said Judge Lewis. "Royal Farms trusted you. You breached that trust by voiding sales receipts and pocketing the cash. You were in a jam." He sentenced her to three years and suspended all but three days. She will be on supervised probation until restitution is made and must be on good behavior for three years.

Darren Phillip Walker, 32, of Harbor-ton, will spend one year in jail for his fourth DUI in ten years. His probation officer testified he has substance abuse issues and is on medication. She said he now owns a business and is fully committed to recovery. Judge Lewis sentenced him to three years and suspended two of those years. He will spend one year in jail, the required mandatory minimum sentence. He will be on indefinite supervised probation and must be on good behavior for ten years. He is permitted to have work release if eligible, the judge said.

Sherwood Thomas Bailey Sr., 73, of Accomack, will spend one year, six months in jail for distribution of cocaine. In a plea agreement, Bailey pleaded guilty to a January 2018 charge of distribution of cocaine. In exchange, Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney William Fox amended the language of the original charge of third or subsequent conviction. Bailey was unintentionally caught up in a controlled drug buy made by the Eastern Shore Drug Task Force, said defense attorney Tucker Watson. "The operation was not targeting Mr. Bailey. It was another person," he said. He said his client was a drug user. Noting his previous convictions, Judge Lewis said, "You knew what you were doing." He sentenced Bailey to five years and suspended all but one year, six months. He ordered him to be on indefinite supervised probation when released and to be on good behavior for five years.

Robert Lee Mason, 42, of Chincoteague, pleaded guilty to possession of cocaine. He chose to participate in the state's first offender program. Judge Lewis explained he is required to remain drug and alcohol free, including marijuana, for one year, pay all court costs, and complete 100 hours of community service. Mason agreed to the terms and will return to court on Oct. 14, 2021. If he successfully completes the program, his felony charge will be dismissed.

Charmonique Niketa Hamilton, 39, of Onley, received a suspended sentence after being convicted of welfare fraud. After breaking her ankle and losing her job, Hamilton began receiving public assistance. She also began baking cakes and selling them to friends to earn extra money. What began as a hobby turned into a small business. She did not report the money she earned as income. After someone reported her to social services, she was asked about the cake baking. On the witness stand, Hamilton said the person from social services asked if she had documentation of the money she had made from the cakes. "In 20 minutes, I brought her the information. She said I would have to repay the money." She said she continued to make cakes and reported those earnings on a regular basis. "Once a month I told her what I was making," she said. Hamilton said she is working at a local grocery store more than 30 hours per week and as a home health aide. She said her mother and teenage daughter help her with her six-year-old son with special needs. She said she continues to make cakes when she can. "I keep a ledger of everything and I have a business license," she told the court. "She broke her ankle, she needed money," said Judge Lewis. "She started baking cakes while receiving benefits from social services. She completely cooperated with the investigator and had records of what she made. This is not a situation where she intentionally tried to defraud." He sentenced her to two years on each of three counts and suspended all that time. She will be on unsupervised probation for three years.

Lawrence Oliver Matthews, age not given, of Greenbackville, was sentenced to five years with four of those years suspended for possession of cocaine with intent to distribute. The charge came from a February 2019 incident.

Onancock Lands $450K Grant

By Carol Vaughn

Onancock was awarded a $450,000 Community Development Block Grant as part of the Department of Housing and Community Development's response to COVID-19 impacts on localities.

"It's fantastic news," said town manager Matt Spuck.

The COVID-19 Small Business Recovery Assistance program targets businesses that are locally owned, employ fewer than 20 people, have been impacted by COVID-19, provide local or regional services, and for which the assistance will not duplicate benefits received from other sources, according to Spuck.

Each qualifying business may receive up to $15,000 to help it reopen and conduct business safely during the pandemic. The amount includes up to $5,000 for technology and other changes to accommodate pandemic protocol and up to $10,000 in rent or mortgage relief.

The program will be administered by the town and the Onancock Main Street Initiative, Spuck said.

In addition to this grant, Onancock to date has distributed to local businesses over $100,000 in money allotted it by Accomack County from federal CARES Act funds.

Boat Ramp Fee Goes to Hearing

By Carol Vaughn

Accomack County Board of Supervisors voted to hold a public hearing next month on an ordinance that, if approved, will impose parking fees at some county boat ramps.

The board Wednesday reviewed the draft ordinance, after members at a previous meeting directed staff to craft a policy to institute a boat facility parking fee, with exemptions for people who pay real estate and personal property taxes in Accomack County.

"It's a good, solid ordinance," said Supervisor Robert Crockett.

Section 102 of the county code governs use of public boating facilities.

Changes proposed to the section include the addition of parking fees at 18 public boat ramps, according to the draft version: Annis Cove, Folly Creek, Gargatha Landing, Greenbackville Harbor, Hack's Neck, Hammock, Harborton, Johnson's Landing, Kegotank Landing, Gladding Landing, the Old NASA Ferry Dock, Parkers Creek Landing, Pitts Landing, Queen Sound, Quinby Harbor, Schooner Bay, Southside Chesconessex, and Young Creek.

"This is not going to apply to every facility out there. There are certain facilities that have certain restrictions with them that will not allow you to impose a permit on users of that facility," Accomack County Administrator Mike Mason told the board.

Queen Sound is likely one of those, Mason said, noting staff are still researching the matter.

Town boating facilities are not included in the county ordinance.

A daily permit would cost $7 per vehicle and/or boat trailer. An annual permit, for 12 months starting July 1, would cost $40 per vehicle and/or boat trailer.

Owners with a valid Virginia saltwater recreational fishing license would pay a reduced fee of $5 per day or $30 per year per vehicle and/or trailer.

Supervisor Harris Phillips recommended adding a discounted rate for people age 65 and over, similar to a discount offered for fishing licenses in the state.

Supervisor Paul Muhly was the only board member to vote against the ordinance as written. He said during discussion that the fees are too low.

The permits would be for purchase online or at the Accomack County treasurer's office, according to the draft document.

Vehicles and boat trailers owned by a person who pays county real estate or personal property taxes, or owned by the United States, the Commonwealth of Virginia, or Accomack County, would be exempt from the fees, as would vehicles and trailers owned by a person who leases a slip or mooring location from Accomack County.

In the likely scenario, permits would be mailed for free to the owners of around 5,200 boats on the county personal property tax rolls, at the same time they get their tax bill.

People who pay only real estate taxes in Accomack County also could obtain a free permit but would have to go to the treasurer's office or perhaps online to get it.

The ordinance allows for reciprocity with Northampton County, should Northampton decide to charge a similar fee for its boating facilities.

Fishing from the Shore

By Bill Hall

Rockfish to 28 inches have been taken over the last week, though most of the fish have been running closer to 18 inches. Look for schools of surface-feeding rockfish in the central part of the Chesapeake Bay under flocks of diving gulls, terns, and gannets, or try your luck along the shoreline by soaking crab, bloodworm, or fresh cut bait or by casting twister tails or paddle tails around the creek mouths and marsh points.

The possession limit for rockfish (striped bass) is only one fish per person per day. Fish kept on the Chesapeake Bay side must measure between 18 and 36 inches. On the seaside, legal keepers are fish measuring at least 28 inches and no longer than 36 inches.

Upper Shore – School-sized striped bass, speckled trout, and puppy drum continue to be caught in the shallows between Crisfield and Tangier Island. Most anglers are casting curly-tailed jigs or suspending jigs under popping corks. White perch and catfish are available around the southern Maryland river mouths as well as in the deeper holes inside the rivers.

Chincoteague – Donna Rae Roeske, at Captain Bob's Marina, reported both black drum and puppy (red) drum have been caught recently in the Chincoteague Channel. Kendra Stine landed a 24-inch citation sheepshead in the channel, just north of the marina while using a bait combination of minnow, squid, and bloodworm! The fish weighed in at exactly 10 pounds. Over in the Assateague Channel, from the area off Tom's Cove down to Memorial Park, keeper-sized flounder have been taken on live minnow and squid or Gulp combinations. In the surf, catches of red drum and a few black drum have been reported. Roeske added that a few striped bass have been taken that have met the 28-inch minimum size limit. She said that the striper fishing will only get better as the migration has just started. Roeske said that there has been little action occurring on the subway cars/Blackfish Banks Reef, but the commercial trawlers have been enjoying success with large flounder. She had no reports from the offshore fleet.

Pete Vasiliou, at Captain Steve's Bait and Tackle, told me that there were "plenty" of trout and smaller-sized puppy drum in the back bay. He said that flounder were still available in the channels. He added that trophy-sized red drum as well as some slot-sized puppy drum have been caught in the surf by anglers soaking fresh cut bait. A nice run of snapper blues developed over the weekend. He had not received any reports regarding the offshore fishery.

Wachapreague – Captain Lindsay Paul, at Trident Tackle, reported that anglers are still catching a "few" flounder, as well as some speckled trout and puppy drum. Most of the trout and drum have been on the small side. Overall, he said that there "hasn't been a lot of activity going on." Amanda Manzella, at the Wachapreague Inn, told me that her most recent guests had shifted their attention from fishing to deer hunting.

Lower Shore – Jeb Brady, at Bailey's Bait & Tackle in Cape Charles, described the speckled trout fishery on both the bayside and seaside as "decent" when the winds and rain have not muddied up the water. Trout anglers have also caught schoolie-sized stripers in the bayside creeks. He said that schools of puppy drum are still being found along the lower bayside shorelines, some of which were large enough to make the slot limit. The structure around Plantation Light and the pilings of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel have produced some tautog and sheepshead catches, with some small black sea bass mixed in. Offshore wreck fishing has been productive when conditions allow, with catches of flounder, black sea bass, and triggerfish reported. The Kiptopeke State Park and the Cape Charles piers have produced catches of puppy drum, trout, and small spot in recent days.

Carla Savage-Wells Named to Nandua Athletic Hall of Fame

By Connie Morrison

Longtime Nandua High School forensics coach Carla Savage-Wells was this year's Nandua 2020 Athletic/Academic Hall of Fame inductee.

Forensics — public speaking and debate — in its competitive form is organized under the Virginia High School Athletic League.

Savage-Wells coached Nandua's team from 2000 until 2010, winning the state championship in 2008.

"Mrs. Savage-Wells led the Forensics team to unprecedented heights," reads the press release from the Nandua High School Athletic Boosters Club announcing her induction. "Under her leadership, Nandua became a Forensics dynasty in the Commonwealth of Virginia and was widely recognized as a perennial powerhouse, as the team won 10 consecutive regional championships."

Her students were also competitive individually, faring well in regional and state tournaments, with Savage-Wells celebrating their successes with cheers and ensuring they received all the accolades an athlete would have received for a similar accomplishment.

"During her tenure, the Forensics team became a staple in the Tidewater Forensic League (TFL)—a series of invitational tournaments at which Nandua routinely placed in the Top 3 against AAA and AA schools," according to the release. "When any of her students received an award, she would start off the widely recognized, trademark 'Nan du aah, Oooh ha ha' chant."

Evidence of her coaching excellence hangs in the school auditorium: banners recording one state and nine regional forensic championships.

Savage-Wells returned to coaching in 2016 when her daughter, a NHS student, entered the forensics arena. The team soon found its groove under her tutelage, taking a regional runner-up trophy during the 2016-2017 season.

Upon learning of Savage-Wells' induction into the hall of fame, former students she had coached — "forensicators" or "love bunnies," as she was known to call them — compiled a heartwarming video celebrating the news and testifying to the contribution the forensics coach had made in their lives.

Savage-Wells now resides in Virginia Beach with her husband, Norm Wells, and her daughter Sheridan.

Vikings Sweep Home Meet

Broadwater was the first team off the line in the staggered start that saw teams run in different legs due to the virus.

Story and Photos by Brennan Waldorf

Broadwater Academy hosted four teams last Saturday, Oct. 17: Atlantic Shores Christian, Denbigh Baptist, Hampton Christian, and StoneBridge School all had runners registered in the 5,000-meter race. Runners began the Viking course at 10:30 a.m. with a staggered start.

Broadwater has a popular course among other schools because of the flat terrain that runs through grass, woods, over bridges, and has areas that are great for a sprinting pass. The only thing that coach Eric Hack thinks keeps the course from being a premier course is the unwillingness of teams to travel to the Shore. This year, teams will gather two more times in Exmore, once for a regular season meet and the other for the Metro Conference Championship.

The Vikings have about 25 runners this season with some runners transferring over from the football field. Those runners are finding success and learning the pains of the sport as coach Hack laughingly admitted regarding his boys team first meet. "Our whole top group ran the wrong way." Despite the mishap, the boys still took the top crown, scoring 15 points compared to second place StoneBridge's 22.

The Lady Vikings also finished the meet victorious despite the absence of senior captain Mahika Patel. With the help of transfer Emma Philpot, they finished first overall with 15 points more than second place Hampton Christian at 32 points and third place StoneBridge with 35. It's the first time in recent history that Broadwater has started the season undefeated as both boys and girls teams move to 2-0 on the season.

With only three more meets, the Vikings have a chance to go undefeated despite the notion that StoneBridge was expected to take top honors. "They work hard at practice but also have fun. We balance competitiveness with enjoyment," said Hack of his teams. He admits last year's team was really positive and wasn't sure if it could be topped but he has been pleasantly surprised by his teams' outlook toward the COVID-era season. "They're a welcoming group of kids. They're fun, smart, and competitive," said Hack of this year's teams. The Vikings will travel for the last time of the season Oct. 22, where they'll compete against the same teams on the Denbigh Baptist course.

Boys Individual Results

1. Jimmy Buyrn (StoneBridge) 19:26. 2. Gabe Nunziata (StoneBridge) 20:55. 3. Byron Polewczak (Hampton Christian) 22:12. 4. Zach Howell (Atlantic Shores) 22:14. 5. Jackson Howell (Atlantic Shores) 22:27. 6. Erik Hostetter (Denbigh Baptist) 22:34. 7. Ture Gustafson (Broadwater) 22:35. 8. Will Petka (Broadwater) 23:08. 9. Logan Hickman (Broadwater) 23:19. 10. Braden Carlsen (Broadwater) 23:42.

Girls Individual Results

1. Piper Dayton (Denbigh) 24:13. 2. Hannah Compton (Hampton Christian) 24:31. 3. Lindsey Smith (Broadwater) 25:55. 4. Emma Philpot (Broadwater) 26:00. 5. Delaney Petka (Broadwater) 26:33. 6. Amiya Polite (Hampton Christian) 26:46. 7. Meredith Hill (Broadwater) 26:48. 8. Mya Newsome (Denbigh) 27:05. 9. Isabel Odewald (StoneBridge) 27:29. 10. Talia Dyke (StoneBridge) 27:59.

ESSHL 25th Season, Back Into Play

The Bruins displayed an all-around team effort in defeating Team Harambe.

Bruins goalie, Mark Stapleton, left opponents frustrated all day with stellar work in the net, notching a pair of shutouts on the day.

Story and Photos by Matthew Yoder

The Eastern Shore Street Hockey League kicked off its 25th season last Saturday in Parksley with six teams embarking on a month-long journey for a championship. The scene outside Stapleton Rink looked like a family reunion, as players collected fresh jerseys, shared stories, and took to the court to work out any rust prior to the start of games.

The Bruins opened the season against Team Harambe and quickly scored two goals, making a statement to all in attendance. Goaltender for the Bruins and league founder Mark Stapleton made a couple of impressive pad saves in the first period, displaying tremendous agility for 62 years old. The Bruins, who played the first two periods with a limited lineup, made the most of both the beginning and end of those periods to build and extend their lead headed into the third. As their roster expanded, so did their lead, and they supplied the scoring onslaught with continued stellar goaltending, winning 6-0.

Game two pitted the Knights against the Blues. The Blues were plagued early by the nonexistence of a goaltender and attempted to manage their goal by a committee of defensemen. The Knights pressed the issue and notched two goals before the Blues could get their goalie on the rink. When things settled a bit, the Blues cut the deficit in half headed into the second period with a goal late in the first. In the second period, the Blues made some adjustments and rotated players with great regularity. Both teams got great efforts from their goalies, but the Knights again extended their lead to two after a rebound score. The Blues inched closer on a midcourt slap shot in the final minute of the period, setting the stage for a heavily contested third period. Neither team managed to make a budge against solid goaltending in the third, and the Knights walked away victorious, 3-2.

The Ducks took the court against the Red Wings in game three. The teams fought hard with furious pressure, but the theme of the early games was the goaltending. Neither team was able to cross their opponent's goal line in the first period, despite power play chances and great scoring opportunities. The Red Wings had a goal called back on a high stick penalty but didn't allow the Ducks to leverage the man advantage into a lead. The second period was a carbon copy of the first, until the final minute when Anthony Taylor muscled home a goal for the Ducks. Taylor's goal proved to be the difference maker as both teams held their end of the rink in the final period.

Action continues November 1 and throughout the winter, culminating with the playoffs in April.

First Shore Pickleball Tournament Was a Success

The Eastern Shore's first pickleball tournament was held Sunday, Oct. 18, at the Cape Charles tennis courts. Twelve teams competed and first place winners were Kristin Webb and Tabi Molera.

Pickleball is a cross between tennis and ping pong and one of the fastest growing sports in America. About two years ago, the town of Cape Charles added blended lines for pickleball onto the existing tennis courts. Since then, the local pickleball community has grown to about 60 players in the last year.

The event was organized by Pickleball By The Bay and Cape Charles small business owners Jo Bawiec and Lori Smith of The Dink Shop, and with support from the town of Cape Charles, the tournament raised $575 for the Northampton County Toys for Tots program.

Broadwater Wins One, Drops One at Home

Suzanna Long has to get low to dig up one of Hampton Christian's low flying serves.

Story and Photos by Brennan Waldorf

The Broadwater Viking volleyball team completed its three-game home stretch and moved to 3-2 after winning the Thursday bout against Hampton Christian. The Vikings beat the Warriors in three straight sets (25-18, 25-15, 25-14) on Oct. 15 before moving on to Portsmouth Christian on Oct. 20. The senior-led Patriots presented a monumental task as their height advantage was on clear display against the younger Vikings. The resilient Vikings showed flares of determination and gut against the powerful hitting of the Patriots but lost in 3 sets (21-25, 15-25, 12-25).

Broadwater continued the trend of great serving in the bout against Hampton Christian with Emily Nordwall and Chloe Hall leading the way. The duo had an even split contributing 10 aces for their team. Hall added three kills and a block while Nordwall tagged on two kills of her own. Senior Hannah Davis has been adjusting well to her new role, recording two blocks, three kills, and two aces in the victory.

The lack of time to prepare for the season has shown its effects on the younger Broadwater squad, as communication breakdowns showed in favor of the Patriots in Exmore. The Vikings were forced to send double blockers in preparation of the hard hitting provided by senior duo Grace Bickley and Victoria Tucker. The two outsider hitters were the difference maker in the game, often imposing their powerful hits that either found open floor or the fingertips of blockers. The deflected blocks led to easy points as the Vikings back row stumbled and watched the ball hit the floor as communication collapsed.

The Vikings could have benefited from a home crowd as they had to rally from behind often, after allowing long streaks when the Patriots' hitters were in the front row. The loss still provided a win in the way that younger players found rhythm and showed impacts beyond the stat sheet. The Vikings were led in aces by Suzanna Long and Chloe Hall with four apiece. Emily Nordwall and Hannah Davis led attacking with Nordwall recording five aces while Davis added three in the home loss.

The Vikings will hit the road Oct. 23 to face off against Gateway Christian before returning home for their match against Denbigh Christian Oct. 27.

Rising sophomore Taylor Leland was a staple in the Viking offense; here she records her lone kill of the night.

Shore Natives Prosper

Submitted Article

The Eastern Shore folks always have a way of finding their own. It's a sense of pride to talk about where you are from.

In early October, Lamont Watson of Noble Visions Photography took his talents to shoot a football game in Dover, Del., where he was met by three other Shore natives: Jermaine Scarborough, Helena Blake, and RJ Parker. Scarborough and Parker coached the Eastern Shore Kings, a semi-pro football team, from 2015 until 2018. Since then, Scarborough took the team from a 1-7 record to an undefeated, nationally ranked, semi-pro team. Parker is now the commissioner of the Xtreme East Football League (XEFL) and Blake, once a Kings fan, is running special teams and is the general manager for the team. The Kings have a roster of players from North Carolina to New Jersey, yet it still has hometown names like Tyreim Blake, Miquel France, Breonte Davis Sr, Tay "Animal" Brown, and The Major brothers. The talent on this squad is undeniable. The Kings will be back in action this Sunday in Delaware to continue its dominance in the XEFL. Due to COVID-19, fan attendance is limited.

Boating Safety Tips from U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary

This week's topic is being prepared to go into cold water – that is, water below 70 F. While these tips may not prevent getting wet, many of them will help extend that 1-10-1 time we wrote about last week (1 minute to control breathing, 10 minutes of useful activity, 1 hour of consciousness).

First, before you leave the dock, put some candy, sealed honey sticks, or anything sugary in waterproof bags in one or more of the pockets of all your life jackets. Don't be stingy; make sure you have plenty. Slowly eating this sugar will help your metabolism produce heat longer and extend that last 1 in 1-10-1. Second, put your cell phone in a waterproof envelope and tie it to the life jacket to call for help. Be certain it is on and you have the ability to make an emergency call without having to dial. People facing hypothermia have a lot of trouble dialing a phone correctly. Next, write your boat name and a phone number on all jackets in case wearers are unconscious when found. When you go out in cold water, absolutely file a float plan, and if you deviate, call home to let them know. Finally, if you have actual cold-water survival suits, put them on (with a life jacket) and jump into the water to float around for 15 minutes, making sure there are no leaks and that you stay warm.

Remember salt water does not mix well with alcoholic beverages so leave them at the dock when you go boating.

Osprey-Eyed Reader Contest: Do You Feel Lucky?

Last Week's Contest:

Let's Go Find Some Shells!

Some of these shells were really hard to find, but our readers are nothing if they're not osprey-eyed and they found the 10 shells on pages 18, 20, 23, 27, 31 (two), 32, 36, 39, 45. Among the readers who found those shells, Patricia Willey, of Quinby, was randomly chosen to win the $25 gift card from Shore Creations in Onley.

This Week's Contest:

Lookin' Over a Four-Leaf Clover

This week to honor our sponsor, the Blarney Stone Pub in Onancock, we are asking you to find the four-leaf clovers hidden in this week's edition. From among the osprey-eyed readers who find the four-leaf clovers in this week's newspaper, we will randomly select one reader to win a $25 gift certificate to the Blarney Stone — see sponsor box on this page.

The rules:

- Tell us the page numbers and the locations on the pages where you found the four-leaf clovers. Send this information to david@easternshorepost.com.

- You can start sending your entries now. Entries must have your first and last name and your town. Include a photograph if you choose to submit one and tell us a little something about the picture.

- Entries will be accepted until noon on Monday, Oct. 26. Entries arriving at david@easternshorepost after noon on Monday the 26th will not be entered in the contest.

- Anyone submitting a photograph must have taken the picture or have permission to use it.

- Multiple entries, corrected entries, and entries with explanations will not be counted.

The winner and as many runners-up as possible will get their photographs in the paper. If you don't want to use your own picture, you can submit a photo of your child or a pet — or a horse's curple, lavender that's purple, or even Roger Miller's bottle of maple surple. Just no feet.

Last Week's Winner

Patricia Willey, of Quinby, is a regular osprey-eyed clue-searcher and finding all 10 shells last week put her in the running to be randomly chosen for the $25 gift card to Shore Creations. In celebration of winning and of Halloween, she offers this terrifying entourage.

Business owners, charities, fundraisers: if you want to raise awareness, advertise, and get on the good side of puzzle lovers up and down the Shore, consider sponsoring a weekly prize in the osprey-eyed reader contest. The prize value must be a minimum of $25 but can be in any form you decide: merchandise, tickets, services. Readers of the Eastern Shore Post love the osprey-eyed reader contest — get in on the fun and contact Troy Justis at ads@easternshorepost.com.

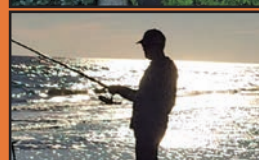

Runners-Up

Jamie Gentry, of Painter, is a runner-up but, as always, family is a winner. Jamie titles this photograph, "With family on the Shore."

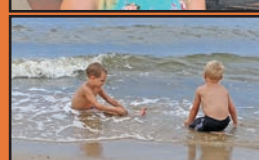

Brittney Parks, of Pocomoke City, Md., got into the spirit of the game this week with a picture she is calling, "Ghost adventures!"

You get three guesses to figure out what Tom Mears, of Longs, S.C., is up to. That's right: fishing, retirement, and enjoying the beach.

Patricia Voss decided to let her daughter, Alanna, stand as her runner-up representative in this week's osprey-eyed reader contest.

To represent her as runner-up, Amanda Mariner, of Pocomoke City, Md., sent in this picture of her boys, Christian and Gabriel, at the beach.

Runner-up Annette Brown calls her little girl Lizzie, but in royal circles the precious canine is known as Carolina's Queen Elizabeth.

Fiona is standing in for runner-up Sarah Morgan, of Oyster, but it looks like Fiona is on the bow of the Titanic, shouting, "I'm king of the world!"

Random Facts About ... the History and Uses of Duck Duct Tape

By David Martin

Last week one of our internet tubes split open and we were losing random facts about the 1964 Ford Fairlane, hair pieces for women, and sexual differentiation in mollusks before we were able to repair the split with duck tape.

Before your know-it-all uncle and the Associated Press "Stylebook" jump in to correct duck tape to duct tape, let us point out that this all-purpose fastening material was called duck tape by its inventor and by its very first users.

Vesta Stoudt was working in a World War II ordnance plant in Illinois when she noticed the vulnerability in the boxes of ammo she was packing. The boxes were sealed with paper tape before being dipped entirely in wax to make them waterproof. A length of the paper tape was left free for the soldiers to pull the wax off and open the box. The vulnerability was that the paper tab often tore off before it could pull the wax free, especially in the heat of battle, leaving soldiers to scramble for ways to open the ammo boxes. This was a special concern for Stoudt who had two sons serving in the Armed Forces. Her idea: replace the paper tape and boxes dipped in wax with a cloth-backed, waterproof tape. The cloth backing would be a strong, durable material called... wait for it...duck cloth.

Stoudt couldn't convince her bosses at the ordnance plant to change the way they were packing ammo boxes so she did what any concerned citizen does, she wrote a letter to the president. That Feb. 10, 1943, letter, with diagrams, was the birth of duck tape. The product went into production by a subsidiary of Johnson & Johnson. Soldiers loved it. Not only were ammo boxes easier to open but the new green tape could be used for everything from repairing boots and bumpers to closing wounds in an emergency. Soldiers sometimes called it duck tape because water rolled off it like water off a duck's back. They also called it 100-mile-per-hour tape because of its durability.

Returning home after the war, people who had used duck tape in the service found thousands of uses for it in peacetime. The tape was well-suited for joining ductwork in heating and cooling systems in all the new housing that was being built in postwar America. This new use for duck tape led to two changes: the color went from Army green to a silver gray that matched the color of ductwork, and the name became duct tape instead of duck tape, although a leading manufacturer, to stand out from the crowd, branded its version of the product as Duck Brand duct tape.

Duct tape now comes in a wild variety of colors and designs and is put to uses that would shock and maybe delight Vesta Stoudt: artwork, wallets, purses, prom dresses, shoes, backpacks. On the darker side, duct tape seems to have won out over rope as the kidnappers' favorite means of keeping victims tied up or maybe now that should be taped up. Modern society being as whacky as it is, duct tape challenges are now a thing, with YouTube videos showing people duct taped to couches and chairs and beds.

ES Laboratory of the VIMS Develops New Construction Project

Richard Snyder is director of the Eastern Shore Laboratory of the Virginia Institute of Marine Sciences, Wachapreague, where a $17 million construction program could start as early as this winter.

Story and Photos by Jim Ritch

A $17 million, six-building construction project could begin this winter at the Eastern Shore Laboratory of the Virginia Institute of Marine Sciences, in Wachapreague.

Richard Snyder, professor of marine science and director of the Wachapreague site, said negotiations among the institute, architect, state agencies, and contractor “are reaching a point that construction can be expected to start.”

The project will replace four existing buildings, add two new ones, and make the campus more resilient against the next 50 years of rising tides and climate change.

The project is expected to take two years to complete.

Although the phasing of the construction will be up to the general contractor, it appears possible that the first buildings to go up will be three that are moving to other locations.

These are the research hatchery, residence hall, and maintenance building.

The current buildings would be demolished, allowing room for construction of other buildings.

Scientific operations and residence programs for visiting scientists and students will continue during construction, Snyder said.

The new $17 million construction project in Wachapreague replaces four existing buildings, adds two new ones, and makes the campus more resilient for the next 50 years.

To protect the buildings from rising seas, some buildings will be relocated toward a roughly three-foot ridge that runs through most of Wachapreague.

Because of the ridge, the institute's campus is about three feet higher in the rear and slopes toward the marshes and ocean.

Other buildings will be raised on pilings and sit above the tides.

The plans assume about 5 millimeters of rise in tides each year, totaling about 25 centimeters or about 10 inches by the year 2070.

The assumed rise includes both subsidence of land as the ground under Wachapreague slowly settles, plus the expected rise in tide levels.

Two buildings will be added to the campus: a combination laboratory and classroom building, plus a storage building to consolidate several existing storage sites.

The new laboratory building will include three laboratories currently confined to the same room.

“We have incompatible processes in a cramped space,” said Snyder.

When construction ends, the Wachapreague site will increase its ranks of scientists and staff by two to four positions.

In large part, the laboratories will allow expansion of existing lines of research. Snyder also looks forward to adding two new areas.

These include genetic testing of aquaculture species, plus diagnostics for diseases and ecological processes.

The new laboratories will be:

- Molecular Biology Lab allowing DNA work,
- Microbiology and Algae Culture Lab, from which algae will be supplied as larvae food for aquaculture firms,
- Marine Ecology Lab.

A fourth room will be used for elemental analysis and sample preparation.

Four existing buildings will be demolished and rebuilt. They are the:

- Castagna Research Hatchery, which will also be moved closer to the water;
- Maintenance and Fabrication Facility, which will be a “modern Drive thru shop,” he said.
- Administration building, which will include a public display lobby.
- Residence hall.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Northampton County Planning Commission will meet on Wednesday, November 4, 2020 at 6:00 p.m. in the Board Chambers located at 16404 Courthouse Road in Eastville, Virginia. The purpose is to conduct regular business and review applications to forward recommendations to the Board of Supervisors.

Minor SUP 2020-07: Mark Marshall is applying for a minor special use permit to construct an accessory dwelling on his property located on Nottingham Ridge Lane. The property is zoned as A/RB (Agriculture/Rural Business) and is further described as Tax Map 104-06-3A.

SubdTA 2020-01: The Northampton County Board of Supervisors have applied to make amendments to the Northampton County Subdivision Ordinance. These amendments include adding references and requirements from Virginia State Code Section 15.2-2241 to Northampton County Subdivision Ordinance Sections 156.008, 156.022, 156.023, and 156.082. The amendment also includes adding references and requirements from VA Code Section 15.2-2241.1 to Subdivision Ordinance Section 156.121 and creating Subdivision Ordinance Sections 156.124, 156.125, and 156.126 as authorized by VA Code Section 15.2-2242. Finally, the amendment also includes creating Subdivision Ordinance Section 156.127 as authorized by VA State Code Sections 15.2-2251, 15.2-2252, and 15.2-2253.

The Northampton County Subdivision Ordinance section titles are as follows:

1. 156.008 Flood Control, Floodplain, and Subdivision Suitability
2. 156.022 Fees
3. 156.023 Enforcement and Penalties
4. 156.082 Easements for Cable Television and Public Service Corporations
5. 156.121 Surety in lieu of Completion of On-site Improvements
6. 156.124 Exception to Strict Adherence
7. 156.125 Reasonable Provisions for the Voluntary Funding of Off-site Road Improvements and Reimbursements of Advances by the Governing Body
8. 156.126 Disclosure and Remediation of Contamination and Other Adverse Environmental Conditions of the Property Prior to Approval of Subdivision and Development Plans
9. 156.127 Preparation and Filing of Subdivision Ordinances; Amendments Thereto

If the Planning Commission makes a recommendation on this matter and the application is not tabled, the Board of Supervisors shall also conduct public hearings on Tuesday, November 10, 2020 at 6:00 p.m. in the Board Chambers. The application will be on file and open to public inspection in the office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors and in the Office of Planning, Permitting, and Enforcement located at 16404 Courthouse Road, Eastville, VA.

Anyone wishing to comment on the above item is invited to attend the meetings and make their comments known. Written comments can be submitted to the Office of Planning, Permitting, and Enforcement//P.O. Box 538//Eastville, VA 23347.

Handicapped assistance available: Please telephone (757) 678-0440 at least 48 hours in advance.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING

THE ACCOMACK COUNTY BOARD OF ZONING APPEALS WILL HOLD A PUBLIC HEARING ON WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 2020 AT 10 A.M. IN THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS CHAMBERS, ROOM 104, 23296 COURTHOUSE AVENUE, ACCOMACK, VIRGINIA TO AFFORD INTERESTED PERSONS THE OPPORTUNITY TO BE HEARD OR TO PRESENT WRITTEN COMMENTS CONCERNING THE FOLLOWING:

A. VAR-000069-2020: Horace Kelley – Tax Map #'s 12-A-20, 12-A-20B, 12-A-20C, 12-A-20D, 12-A-21

A hearing initiated by Horace Kelley to request numerous variances from the requirements outlined in Section 106-232 of the Accomack County Municipal Code (Poultry), to allow for modification of property lines, of the sale confined poultry operation. The confined poultry operation was constructed prior to the currently adopted ordinance. The property is located at 3459 Kelly Road, New Church, VA and is zoned Agricultural. The variances requested are as follows:

- Section 106-232(f)(2) states the overall density per parcel of poultry houses shall be one (1) house per five (5) acres. There are 14 houses on this farm, requiring a total of seventy (70) acres.

1. A variance is of forty one (41) acres is being requested as the farm is twenty nine (29) acres total.

- Section 106-232(f)(3) states the maximum number of poultry houses is 12 per parcel.

2. A variance of two (2) houses is being requested as there are a total of 14 houses on this poultry farm.

- Section 106-232(f)(5)(a) states the minimum setback from any existing dwelling on an adjacent property shall be five hundred (500) feet.

3. There are 2 dwellings within the five hundred (500) feet setback requirement, 3371 Kelly Road which is four hundred and seventy three (473) feet away and 3456 Kelly Road which is two hundred and fifty six (256) feet away. A variance of two hundred and forty four (244) feet is requested from the Southwestern property line that is adjacent to 3456 Kelly Road.

- Section 106-232 (f)(5)(c) states the minimum setback for any portion of a confined poultry operation shall be two hundred (200) feet from any property line.

4. A variance of one hundred and fifty (150) feet is requested from the Northern property line that borders parcel #12-A-20.

5. A variance of one hundred and ninety (190) feet is requested from the Eastern property line that borders parcel #12-A-121

6. A variance of one hundred and ninety (190) feet is requested from the Northwestern property line that borders parcel #12-A-20

7. A variance of one hundred and sixty (160) feet is requested from the Southern property line that borders parcel #12-A-59

8. A variance of one hundred and ten (110) feet is requested from the Southeastern property line that borders parcel #12-A-20

9. A variance of one hundred and fifty (150) feet is requested from the Southern property line that borders parcel #12-A-50

- Section 106-232(g) describes the requirement for a vegetative buffer to be installed for the visual screening of confined poultry operations

10. A variance eliminating this requirement is being sought due to the lack of planting space surrounding this confined poultry operation.

This Board of Zoning Appeals meeting will be held as a Hybrid – Electronic (Conference Call) and In-Person Meeting due to the restrictions put in place due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Public hearing related materials are available for review at the Office of the County Zoning Administrator at 23296 Courthouse Avenue – Room 105 – Accomack, Virginia or <http://www.boarddocs.com/va/coa/Board.nsf/Public> on the Friday prior to each meeting date.

The Way I See It by Dan Hillman

Post Office Mail

Thank You, Vasily

Dear Editor:

This letter is in response to "Random Facts About ... the Man Who Saved Your Life," by David Martin, published October 16, 2020

Shortly and sweetly, thank you, Vasily!

My dad, Orville L. Harmon, who lives in Mappsville, was aboard one of those U. S. Navy ships. In 1962 when the Cuban Missile Crisis became evident, Dad was assigned to temporary duty aboard the USS Charles P. Cecil. For his service, he received the Armed Forces Expeditionary Medal.

*Armajeanne Harmon

Thank You to Shore Nonprofit Employees

Dear Editor:

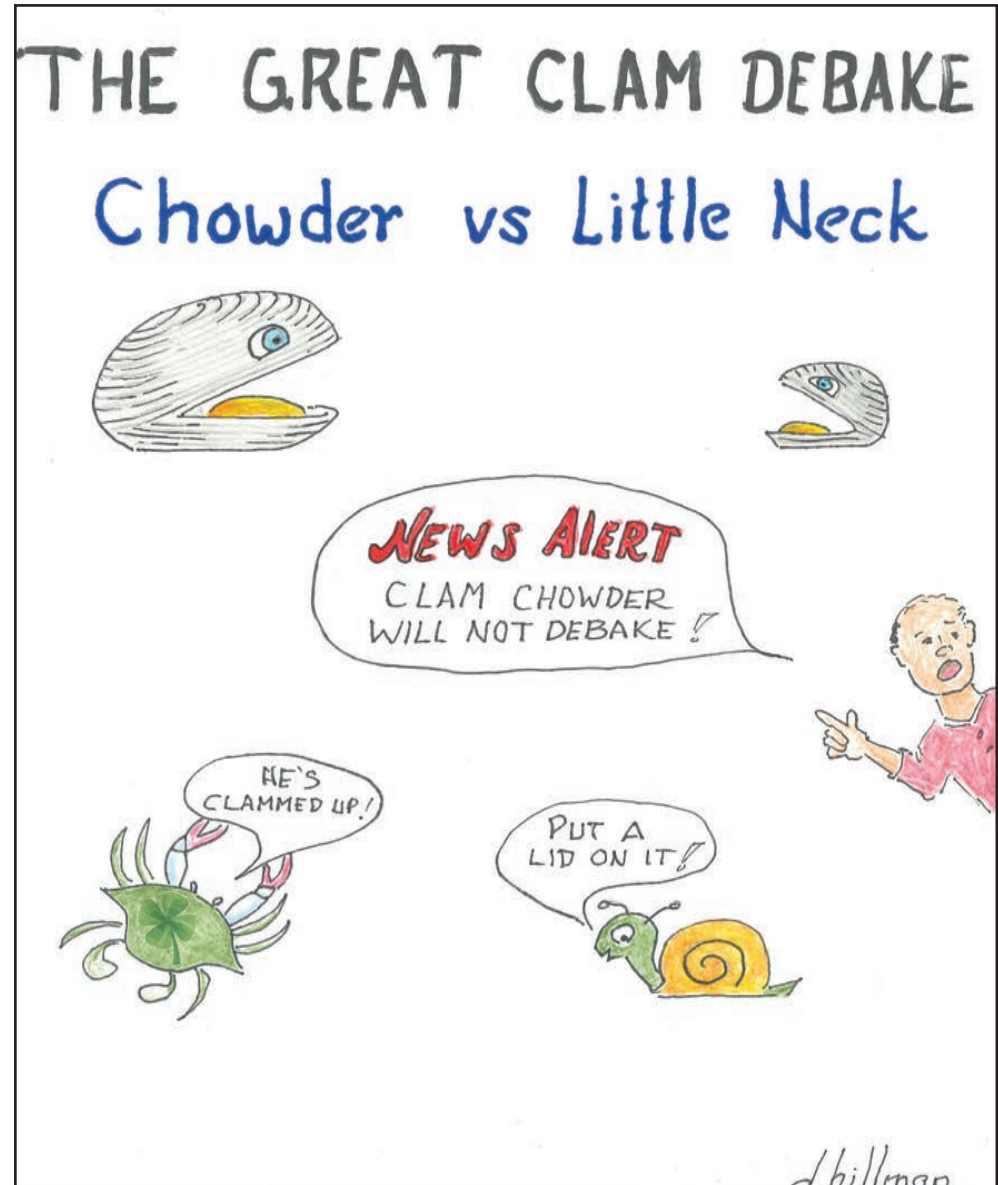

COVID-19 has stopped much of the world as we know it. It has been heart-breaking to witness the effects of this virus on the residents of the Eastern Shore but so heartwarming to see people continue to work to make a positive impact on people's lives.

There are many heroes on the Shore and we are all so thankful for their service. I would like to bring attention to those who have worked in nonprofits and local agencies on the Eastern Shore. They can be overwhelmed with the needs of others in the best of times. Imagine what their work load is like now. Trying to make sure no one goes hungry. Trying to find safe shelter for those who have nowhere to go. Trying to make sure people have heat and electricity. Trying to make sure everyone has access to the services that will help improve their quality of life. The list goes on.

I am still watching the directors, their staffs, and the volunteers of organizations on the Eastern Shore who continue to go above and beyond to take care of our neighbors. They have worked long hours from home, delivered meals themselves, and provided food to children who were missing meals because of school closing.

I want to recognize their dedication to the community we know as the Eastern Shore.

I thank them for their service.
*Dawn Taylor Byrd, Executive Director
United Way of Virginia's Eastern Shore*
