Mappsville Seafood Plant Sold to Maryland Development Company

By Carol Vaughn

A former seafood facility in Mappsville that has been for sale for years was purchased in December by a Maryland development company.

Stonewall Capital LLC, a Sparks, Md., company, purchased the property at 13249 Lankford Highway for $1 million from Integrated Fisheries International, according to a deed recorded Dec. 15 in the Accomack County Clerk's Office.

Ray Jackson, owner of Stonewall Capital, said the company plans to bring in an industrial or logistics tenant/operator at the property.

The approximately 120,000 square foot facility includes equipment for canning as well as refrigeration, Jackson said in a Jan. 7 email.

Asked what led Stonewall Capital to purchase the property, Jackson said, "Opportunity, as I am a land developer and also have been successful on the industrial side."

The building was constructed in the 1980s with an addition in 2004, according to a listing on www.globalfood-properties.com

The facility includes about 89,500 square feet of manufacturing space; 40,000 square feet of dry warehouse space; 15,000 square feet of freezer space; 5,000 square feet of cooler space; and 5,500 square feet of office space, according to the listing.

The 27-acre plant site, along with an additional 425 acres, was included in the listing.

The property had been listed for $4.25 million, according to the website.

The deed recorded in Accomack includes property with 14 different tax map numbers.

Arthur Richard Myers Jr., the former president of the Mappsville company that once operated the facility, Eastern Shore Seafood Products, died in December 2014 in Florida at age 85.

Stonewall Capital has been in the news recently for its involvement in a mixed-use waterfront development project at Westport, in south Baltimore, and in The Southfields of Elkton, a 650-acre mixed-use development project in Cecil County, Md.

The company also is lead developer in a joint venture to deliver finished building lots for 300 single-family homes to Gemcraft Homes at Captains Cove in Greenbackville, among other projects.

Future Delivery Plans for COVID-19 Vaccine Uncertain

By Carol Vaughn

A Virginia Health Department official in a rare Saturday press briefing addressed mixed messaging coming from the federal government about COVID-19 vaccine distribution.

Earlier in the week, federal officials "gave pretty clear direction" to states to extend vaccination to people ages 65-74 and younger adults with underlying medical conditions, said Dr. Danny Avula, VDH vaccine coordinator.

"While they encouraged that movement in the states, they also intimated that there would be a large release of second-dose reserves," he said.

Gov. Ralph Northam last Thursday announced that the new guidelines from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention means that half of Virginians would now be eligible to receive the COVID-19 vaccine, after Virginia decided to add those 65-74 and people with underlying conditions to Phase 1b, based on the federal message that more vaccine doses would be coming.

"Then, over the last couple of days, we have heard very different messaging; we are not exactly sure what to do with that," Avula said Saturday, adding officials now are getting the sense that the state's weekly vaccine allocation may not increase after all.

"It's certainly disconcerting and disheartening, given that we made the step forward to expand our 1b under the assumption that we'd be receiving more vaccine," he said.

Virginia currently receives around 110,000 doses a week.

"All of that supply is being doled out as quickly as possible," Avula said, noting last week the state had requests for more than 300,000 doses, but received only 106,000 to distribute to health care providers.

"That's the challenge of where we are," he said.

Gen. Gustavo Perna, chief operating officer of Operation Warp Speed, the federal COVID-19 vaccine initiative, called Virginia Health Commissioner Dr. Norman Oliver Thursday to clarify that there are not "warehouses of vaccines" to distribute to states, Dr. Daniel Carey, Virginia secretary of health and human resources, said during the briefing.

Federal officials indicated that "without new vaccines, that's what we should expect until the end of February and early March," Carey said of Virginia's current allocation.

The figure is for first doses, Avula said, adding, "The federal government is allocating second doses through a separate pathway. ...So anybody who has received first doses is automatically getting assigned a second dose allocation above and beyond our 100,000 or so doses a week."

Eastville Mayor Jim Sturgis Wants To See Town Flourish Once More

By Stefanie Jackson

Eastville Mayor Jim Sturgis is an all-around Eastern Shore original. His family history on the Shore dates back to the 1600s on both his father's and mother's side, and he was born in the Nassawadox hospital and raised in Eastville, where he still lives today.

Sturgis' residence—a historic, two-story brick home on Courthouse Road—marks his personal history as well. He has lived there approximately a decade, about the same amount of time he has been a survivor of stage 4 lung cancer.

He fondly remembers growing up in Eastville with his sister, the late Eleanor Sturgis.

"It was a fun place—we had the best time," said Jim Sturgis, who remembers going bike riding and watching the fish swim in the pond at his childhood home.

He didn't plan to follow in the footsteps of his father, the late Edgar Sturgis III, who was an insurance agent and the mayor of Eastville, Northampton's county seat.

Jim Sturgis, who graduated from Northampton High School and went on to study finance at Virginia Tech, was entering his third year of college and hadn't chosen a major.

He put his foot down and told himself, "you're going to have to do something," and chose a career in the insurance industry, which he enjoyed.

Today Sturgis works at Northampton Insurance Agency, the business that was owned and operated by his father and grandfather.

Edgar Sturgis III was the mayor of Eastville for about 40 years until he retired in 2010, when his son, Jim Sturgis, ran unopposed for the position and won. Jim Sturgis has won re-election unopposed every two years since, including in November 2020. He served on Eastville's town council before running for mayor.

By getting involved in the local fire and rescue squad, Jim Sturgis also followed the example of his father, who was the chief of the Eastville Volunteer Fire Company for 25 years.

The Sturgis family and the town of Eastville are both steeped in history. "History is like our background," he said.

The Northampton County Courthouse in Eastville is home to the oldest continuous court records in America, starting from 1632. At least one record dates back as far as 1628.

Historic buildings on Eastville's courthouse green include the 1731 courthouse, the 1800 clerk's office, the 1814 debtor's prison, the 1899 courthouse (which currently serves as the Northampton County administration building), and the 1907 jail.

Also on the courthouse green stands a monument of a Confederate soldier, who appears to be European American. The monument was built in 1914 to commemorate the Civil War dead.

Sturgis approved of Dr. Arthur Carter's idea to recontextualize the controversial piece of history by pairing it with a monument of an African American Union soldier. However, Northampton supervisors voted Jan. 12 to remove the Confederate monument.

During the Civil War, in 1863, when the Confederate Navy looted and destroyed the lighthouse on Smith Island, it was from the Eastville telegraph office that lighthouse keeper William Stakes sent the news to the U.S. Secretary of the Navy.

Sturgis aims to maintain a balance between Eastville's history and its present and future economic growth.

He wants new businesses that will be "compatible" with the town and extend its "walkable community."

The mayor notes that Eastville's "downtown strip" on Courthouse Road is ideal for small, family-owned businesses or "cottage industries," but Route 13 in Eastville is a prime location for franchises like the new Dollar General being built near the Eastville Community Health Center.

Eastville boasts business-friendly attributes such as low taxes, a "highly coveted" water system, good downtown foot traffic, and easy highway access, he said.

The town is always looking for new revenue streams to support its infrastructure such as the water tower, firehouse, and sidewalks that were built by the Works Progress Association in the 1940s, Sturgis said.

Eastville already collects taxes on items such as real estate, property, food and beverages, and cigarettes, which are used to keep the lights on, the water running, the grass cut, and the streets clean.

Sturgis would like to see the town prosper again. He noted Eastville once had the highest per capita income in the nation due to the early presence of the railroad, which boosted both the agriculture and aquaculture industries.

In the upcoming fiscal year, Sturgis will work to shore up Eastville's budget and address unfunded mandates passed down from the state.

He also will continue to listen to the town's citizens and work toward solutions to their issues. For example, the highway splits Eastville's downtown from Eastville Station, where residents feel "cut off" and "disenfranchised," Sturgis acknowledged.

He welcomes citizen input about how Eastville should be run. "We want to know what everybody wants," he said.

Sturgis called Eastville a "great town" full of people who are always asking, "How can I help out?"

"And they constantly do."

Gov. Northam Announces Expanded COVID-19 Vaccine Eligibility

By Stefanie Jackson

Gov. Ralph Northam announced Jan. 14 that new COVID-19 vaccination guidelines from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, or CDC, mean half of Virginia is now eligible to receive the COVID-19 vaccine.

"This morning, I spoke with all of our local health directors and the leaders of Virginia's hospitals," Northam said. "My message to them was simple: Thank you, and Virginia needs everyone to move faster."

People age 65 and over and people under age 65 with underlying health conditions have been moved up in line for the vaccine, from Phase 1c to Phase 1b.

Already in Phase 1b were first responders such as police and firefighters, essential workers such as grocery store and transportation workers, and childcare workers and K-12 teachers.

That group is second in priority after Phase 1a – healthcare workers and residents of nursing homes and assisted living facilities.

Some Virginia health districts already have begun vaccinating people in Phase 1b, and all districts are expected to reach Phase 1b by the end of January.

Virginia's goal is to vaccinate 25,000 people per day and eventually 50,000 people per day; the commonwealth currently has been receiving about 110,000 doses of the vaccine per week.

The Virginia Department of Health has reached out to pharmacies, high schools, and universities to serve as vaccination clinics to get the COVID-19 vaccine to everyone as soon as possible.

Virginia Medical Reserve Corps volunteers and the Virginia National Guard will help administer the vaccine at "mass vaccination clinics," and more VMRC volunteers are needed, Northam said.

The governor reminded medical facilities to "use it or lose it," meaning if they use all doses of the COVID-19 vaccine in a timely manner, they will avoid the risk of having future shipments of the vaccine reduced.

In the previous week, 100% of vaccines received were distributed at 160 vaccination sites, Northam said.

Wayne Turnage, deputy mayor of the District of Columbia Health and Human Services, emphasized the importance of the COVID-19 vaccine.

There are about 230,000 new cases of COVID-19 and 4,400 related deaths every day, nationwide.

COVID-19-related deaths are increasing by about 50% every two weeks, "further indication that we are in the worst pandemic that this country has seen in more than 100 years," Turnage said.

About 60% to 70% of Americans must receive the COVID-19 vaccine to achieve "herd immunity" and stop the rampant spread of the disease.

The COVID-19 vaccine is safe and effective, Turnage asserted.

The COVID-19 vaccine cannot cause illness because it's based on a single molecule, not a weakened, live virus like vaccines for measles, chicken pox, and the flu.

During a clinical trial, 95% of participants who got COVID-19 had received not the COVID-19 vaccine but a placebo. Participants who received the vaccine but still got COVID-19 only had minor symptoms.

The COVID-19 vaccine causes only mild, short-term side effects such as fatigue, headaches, and muscle aches.

"The risks are clearly outweighed by the vaccine's benefits," Turnage said.

The Virginia Department of Education updated its COVID-19 guidelines for schools Jan. 14, creating a path to reopening for all schools in the state.

The new guidelines address the implementation of COVID-19 mitigation strategies in schools, such as mask wearing, social distancing, and sanitation.

The guidelines also provide prioritization levels for in-person instruction; for example, students with disabilities and English learners return to school in person before other student groups.

The Virginia Education Association recommended that all instruction should be virtual until all teachers are vaccinated.

Virginia had 5,294 new cases of COVID-19 as of Jan. 14, bringing the total cases to 417,839. A total of 5,626 deaths in Virginia have been attributed to COVID-19.

Editor's note: Since Northam's press event, it was discovered that national vaccine reserves were depleted, casting uncertainty over future doses. See Carol Vaughn's related article on page 1 and the board of supervisors article on page 7.

61,000 second doses, which went directly from the federal government to providers to administer to patients who had received a first dose three to four weeks before.

As of Saturday, Virginia providers had administered 295,202 vaccine doses, out of 943,400 the state distributed.

“We have been steadily increasing the number of doses a day,” Avula said, noting Virginia now is averaging more than 14,000 doses per day administered and had three consecutive days with more than 20,000 doses administered.

A separate program for long-term care facilities, handled through a federal agreement with CVS and Walgreens pharmacies, accounts for around 226,000 of the 943,400 doses distributed in Virginia.

Of the remaining doses, around 145,000 went to hospitals, which “did a fantastic job” vaccinating health care workers under Phase 1a, Avula said.

Acknowledging not everyone vaccinated will return for the required second dose, Avula had this message for health care providers: “What we are saying is, use the vaccine that you have. Work through all the doses; if your second doses don’t show up or don’t schedule appointments, go ahead and use that for first doses and then we’ll figure out how to ensure we can get the second doses after that; but right now, the imperative is really to use all of the doses you have, and we’ll keep allocating accordingly as it comes in.”

The gap between doses the state has distributed and the number providers report having administered is due in part to a lag in providers entering data into the Virginia Immunization Information System, according to Avula.

He estimated between 100,000 and 200,000 “of the doses on our docket” have been given, but not accounted for.

The VDH recently hired 10 people to work with providers to make sure the data is correct, which Avula said is critical because it could determine future allocations.

As demand exceeds supply and the state has expanded those eligible for vaccination, Avula urged Virginians to let the most vulnerable be vaccinated first — “to recognize that there are people who need it more than us.”

In light of uncertainty about how much vaccine the federal government will send, Avula said, “All we can do is continue to build the infrastructure, the vehicle for vaccine delivery. To get to some degree of herd immunity in our commonwealth, we need to get to 70% to 80% of our population vaccinated. When we originally set targets...we scoped out about 50,000 doses per day; that’s what it’s going to take to get to that number; and so we are building the vehicles to get to that number,” by expanding the number of health systems, pharmacies, and providers giving vaccinations, and by having local health departments do mass vaccinations.

There also will be a need for “a fixed-site, large-scale mass vaccination effort...a 6-, 7-day-a-week operation where we’re doing somewhere between 1,000 and 2,000 doses a day,” Avula said, adding that would be a situation where the National Guard would be deployed.

The Virginia Department of Emergency Management is planning where those sites will be and how they will be staffed, Avula said, adding, “It will be built; it will be ready...as we move toward March and April, where we expect more production” of the Pfizer and Moderna vaccines, as well as federal approval of additional vaccines being developed by other companies.

Melfa, Cheriton Surprise Residents With Care Packages

By Carol Vaughn

Melfa residents are expressing their gratitude after receiving a care package from the small town last week.

The packages included disposable face masks for adults and children, hand sanitizer, and a $100 Food Lion gift card.

Residents thanked the town in numerous social media posts.

Melfa resident Brianna Parkes in a letter to the editor said, “With this pandemic everyone is struggling and with your donation, I feel so heart warmed that the donation that every single one of you did for our town.”

“We are glad to help out. Please stay safe and healthy,” a Jan. 10 post on the Town of Melfa Facebook page said.

The town received $66,863 in all in two allocations of federal CARES Act money from Accomack County, according to Accomack County Administrator Mike Mason.

Each town in the county was allocated funds based on its population.

Some of the money allocated to Melfa went to pay for the care packages.

The federal government originally set a Dec. 31, 2020, deadline to spend the funds, but the deadline recently was extended by a year.

The care package went to around 200 households in town, according to Mayor Charles Wilbur.

“The stipulations were...that it had to be things that were above and beyond what was already planned into the budget for the year,” he said.

“The Melfa town council and I appreciate the trust that the citizens placed in us and are pleased to hear that people were happy with the items they received to help deal with the fallout from Covid-19. We worked to ensure that the CARES Act funds allocated to the town were spent compliantly and efficiently,” Wilbur said, adding, “I would like to give particular thanks to Melfa town secretary Teresa Rudiger for her work in purchasing all of the supplies and assembling the packages, and council members Gregory Spady and Jimmy Wilson for helping Teresa to distribute them. Thanks as well go to Accomack County for providing us guidance in compliantly spending the funds.”

The town also is discussing how to potentially help businesses under the federal guidelines.

Cheriton Mayor Jackie Davis in a letter to Cheriton residents announced a similar care package distribution to all households within the town limits would take place Jan. 16.

Accomack Votes to Reopen Schools Jan. 25, Northampton Delays Until Feb. 1

By Stefanie Jackson

The Accomack school board voted 6-3 Tuesday night in favor of reopening schools to students two days a week starting Monday, Jan. 25, following a two-week period in which all students were required to learn remotely due to an increase of COVID-19 cases in the schools and community.

School board member Edward Taylor called the vote “jumping the gun” because the latest data from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, published by the Virginia Department of Health, indicates Accomack schools are still at the highest risk of COVID-19 transmission.

The data is color-coded according to the level of risk of COVID-19 transmission it represents: dark green, lowest risk; light green, lower risk; yellow, moderate risk; orange, higher risk; and red, highest risk.

Accomack schools remain at highest risk for transmission of COVID-19 as of Jan. 20, according to two core indicators: 1,120 new cases of COVID-19 in Accomack within the last 14 days, and a COVID-19 test positivity rate of nearly 20% within the last 14 days.

New cases of COVID-19 would have to drop to 200 or fewer, and the COVID-19 test positivity rate would have to drop to at least 10% for the risk of transmission to drop from the red level to the orange level.

Accomack is in the green for a 43.5% drop in new cases per 100,000 people over a seven-day period and for having only 77% of regional hospital beds occupied. Accomack is in the orange for having 16% of regional hospital beds occupied by COVID-19 patients.

Accomack schools Coordinator of Student Health Services Tonya Martin offered two reasons for reopening schools on Monday: More than 14 days have passed since the end of the winter break, when COVID-19 cases were likely to rise due to potential exposure to the virus during holiday travel and large family gatherings, and even though data still indicates a high risk of COVID-19 transmission, the numbers are “trending downward.”

Northampton schools Superintendent Eddie Lawrence had a different opinion. He believes that not enough time has passed to qualify the falling COVID-19 numbers as a trend, he told the Eastern Shore Post on Wednesday.

Northampton students likely will not return to school in person until Feb. 1, he said.

Northampton’s COVID-19 data placed the school district at the same level of risk of transmission of the disease as the Accomack school district.

The motion to reopen Accomack schools Jan. 25 passed with three school board members voting “no”: Edward Taylor, District 2; Camesha Handy, District 5; and Janet Turner, District 7.

In another matter, Finance Director Beth Onley announced that Accomack and Northampton may be making progress in their quest for the Cost of Competing Adjustment or COCA – state funding that helps schools offer competitive salaries for teachers.

COCA was created for Northern Virginia counties that compete with nearby Washington, D.C., for teachers.

Del. Karrie Delaney is a Virginia delegate from Fairfax County, which receives COCA. She sponsored a bill that would “restore the COCA funding from its current 10.6% to what it used to be – the historic rate of 24.61%,” Onley said.

The bill continues: “The amount provided includes expanding COCA to Accomack and Northampton counties, as proposed in the introduced budget.”

Onley was “excited” that a delegate from a Northern Virginia county that receives COCA proposed expanding the program and mentioned Accomack and Northampton by name.

State Sen. Lynwood Lewis introduced Senate Bill 327 to the Virginia General Assembly last year to make Accomack and Northampton schools eligible for COCA. The bill passed the Finance and Appropriations Committee in a 15-0 vote but was continued to 2021.

Distribution System Ready but Vaccine Supply Dwindling

By Carol Vaughn

The Eastern Shore Health District and its health care partners in the community have the infrastructure and plans in place to give out more COVID-19 vaccinations.

The problem is, “each week we keep getting less and less” of the vaccine, according to Jon Richardson, ESHD chief operating officer.

“The more infrastructure we build in, the less vaccine we seem to get each week,” he said.

It’s a problem that is happening statewide, he told the Accomack County Board of Supervisors Wednesday.

The board meeting was held virtually because of rising COVID-19 case numbers in the county.

The situation is unlikely to change for at least the next four weeks, according to information the health district received.

The district received 1,000 doses this week and next week expects to receive only 500 doses, according to information the health district received Wednesday afternoon.

“Sometimes that changes day to day, so we are just doing the best we can working with our partners to try to figure out what’s the best way to get doses to people,” Richardson said, adding the limited number of doses coming to the district “makes a lot of tough decisions on our end.”

Richardson said priority groups to be vaccinated are “the elderly and those who are most susceptible to a bad health outcome,” saying all efforts for now will be focused on those.

People ages 65 and over or younger adults with underlying health conditions should contact their primary care provider about getting vaccinated. Eastern Shore Rural Health has agreed to vaccinate people who do not have a primary care provider.

Additionally, the health district is encouraging employers in Phase 1b groups to contact the ESHD about vaccination clinics.

“I say all that with the caveat that, with only 500 vaccines (next week) for the entire Shore, the plan may change,” Richardson said, adding, “If we are not getting enough vaccine to cover everybody, we want to really concentrate on covering the people who are most susceptible to a bad health outcome. That means some tough decisions and we are trying to work through all that.”

Both poultry processing plants in the county will vaccinate their own employees, totaling around 2,500 people, once enough vaccine is available, according to Richardson.

The district completed its Phase 1a vaccinations “quicker than most,” Richardson said. That phase includes front-line health care workers. Additionally, in a separate federal partnership with two pharmacies, long-term care facilities are included in that phase.

Supervisor Robert Crockett noted the district received only around 25% of doses it requested.

This week, 4,250 doses were requested and 1,000 were received, including by ESHD, Riverside, and Eastern Shore Rural Health, Richardson said.

“It’s not a matter of the number of people to administer; it’s a matter of the number of doses that you have,” Crockett said.

Richardson said the district has capacity to vaccinate 1,800 to 2,000 people weekly if more doses are available.

Plans include partnering with the Accomack County Department of Public Safety, the Virginia Medical Reserve Corps, and Walmart, among others, to get people vaccinated once more doses are available.

Richardson said no severe reactions to the vaccine have been reported so far in the district.

‘Buyer Beware’ of Tidal Flooding, Water Level Rise Risks; County Issues Advisory Document

The Accomack County Board of Supervisors approved an advisory document that gives people buying or looking to buy real estate in the county information about risks associated with water level rise and tidal flooding.

“This is pretty much a ‘buyer beware’ kind of statement,” said Chairman Ron Wolff.

The vote, on a motion made by Supervisor Robert Crockett and seconded by Supervisor Paul Muhly, was unanimous.

The 2018 update to the county comprehensive plan recommended reviewing data and identifying the number of structures and properties affected by tidal flooding and water level rise, likely to be followed by actions including issuing an advisory statement.

The planning commission in June 2019 began reviewing models projecting sea level rise and the number of buildings likely to be impacted.

The commissioners did not reach consensus on the models and “several commissioners were not comfortable with model projections of sea level rise,” according to a Jan. 11 memorandum from Rich Morrison, Accomack County deputy administrator for building, planning, and economic development.

Still, the commission did vote to use NOAA high tide flood maps to show vulnerable areas in the county, and later decided to divide its work into three categories: advisory information for potential or new property owners; advisory information for existing development; and advisory information for torrential rain events.

After work on the matter was suspended for a time as result of COVID-19 and staffing resources, the commission in December recommended the board approve the advisory statement for new or potential property owners, addressing the first of the three areas.

The information will be placed on the county website and handouts will be printed for distribution.

The document uses the term “water level rise,” rather than “sea level rise.”

“(P)eople who are not familiar with living in Coastal areas are frequently unaware of the basic impacts of water level rise, road flooding, and other challenges of living in a coastal environment (nor’easters, wave action, seasonally high water table, etc.),” the memorandum says, adding, “People have been and continue to purchase property without being properly informed. This document is intended to help inform prospective purchasers and new owners of property, and to set proper expectations.”

The three-page advisory document includes this statement: “Purchasers of property and individuals looking to construct/install a home in Accomack County are strongly encouraged to become knowledgeable about water level rise and high tide flooding in Accomack County.”

It also mentions that Tidewater Virginia “is nationally recognized as one of the coastal areas of the United States that is most vulnerable to water level rise” and notes recurrent tidal flooding, not associated with storms, happens “in several parts of the County.”

The document says trends show water level rise and tidal flooding are becoming more prevalent and affecting property and roads more frequently.

“If the property is close to tidal waters, wetland, or low lying areas, you need to be prepared that property may flood or that access to/from the property will be restricted by flooded roadways currently or in the future,” it says.

The document includes information about the impact of flooding and water level rise on septic systems; personal property, including vehicles; shoreline erosion; and ambulance response time or even the ability to provide emergency service.

“As a general rule of thumb, first responders will not enter an area where the road surface or ground surface cannot be seen through flood waters,” the document says, noting purchasers of property in or near vulnerable areas “need to be aware of the limitations of the County government and set expectations accordingly.”

The document is advisory, not regulatory, in nature.

The board’s action included approval of the Accomack County Vulnerable Areas Maps based on the NOAA High Tide Flooding Maps.

Jokira Shadi Knight, 20, of Portsmouth, was indicted Jan. 11 on a felony charge of possessing with intent to distribute cocaine on May 31, 2020.

She also faces a misdemeanor charge of obstruction of justice.

Knight was arrested May 31, 2020, by Officer D. Carpenter, of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel Police Department.

During a vehicular chase, Knight threw items from the vehicle, including a baggie containing about 30 grams of a white substance, which a lab later confirmed to be cocaine.

Knight was released on secured bail of $2,000.

Rob Terry Ryles Robinson, 35, of Philadelphia, was indicted Jan. 11 on three felony charges: possession of a Schedule I or II drug, eluding police and endangerment, and hit-and-run on July 25, 2020.

He also faces three misdemeanor charges: possession with intent to distribute marijuana, reckless driving and endangerment, and obstruction of justice.

Robinson was arrested July 26, 2020, by Officer R.M. Steele, CBBT PD, and held without bail.

Steele had been informed that a vehicle on the CBBT had failed to stop after being involved in an accident. Steele observed a speeding vehicle with front-end damage traveling northbound and pursued the vehicle for two miles.

The vehicle swerved, almost hitting the guardrail, and the driver threw out a bag.

When the vehicle stopped, Steele saw Robinson had red, bloodshot eyes and asked him to step out of the vehicle. Steele smelled a strong odor of alcohol. Robinson refused a breath test.

He admitted his involvement in the accident and said no one stopped.

Witnesses, including an occupant of the other vehicle in the accident, said Robinson was speeding and driving recklessly and struck the other vehicle in the rear.

The bag thrown from Robinson's vehicle was found to contain marijuana, and a hard, blue-purple powder in the vehicle was found to be a methamphetamine.

In the back of the vehicle were scales and baggies, one of which contained green, leafy residue.

Robinson was released on secured bail of $10,000 Aug. 11, 2020.

Leon Bud Smith, 30, of Virginia Beach, was indicted on a felony charge of grand larceny, stealing a motor vehicle worth $1,000 or more on Oct. 5, 2020.

He also faces a misdemeanor charge of driving with a suspended or revoked license.

Smith was arrested the same day by Officer S.M. Beasley, CBBT PD, and held without bail.

Beasley reported that at about 7 a.m. a stolen vehicle entered the CBBT, as detected by a tag reader. The driver was already detained when Beasley arrived on the scene.

Smith claimed the car belonged to a friend who had lost the keys and said whoever found the keys should return the car to him. Smith claimed he couldn't say his friend's name. He also claimed the car was loaned to him by a homeless person.

The passenger, Keith Boone, said he was accompanying Smith to New Jersey to buy a car.

Marvin Snead, 30, of Exmore, was indicted Jan. 11 on four felony charges: DUI, his third offense in 10 years; driving with a license suspended or revoked after receiving a DUI; receiving another DUI after his license was revoked for receiving a DUI; and eluding police and endangerment, all on July 3, 2020.

He also faces misdemeanor charges of reckless driving by speeds of more than 85 mph and possession of marijuana.

Snead was arrested Oct. 7, 2020, by Cpt. Adam Zieger, EPD.

Zieger reported that on July 3, 2020, approximately 11:05 p.m., he recognized Snead driving a Jeep and knew that Snead's license had been revoked. Zieger followed Snead as he drove around Exmore. After confirming it was Snead, Zieger turned on his lights and siren, but Snead didn't pull over.

Neither did Snead cooperate when Zieger spoke to him over a speaker. When Snead stopped at a red light, Zieger attempted to get out of his vehicle and approach Snead, who then ran the red light.

Snead sped through another red light, traveling west on Occohannock Neck Road at 92 mph.

Zieger continued to pursue Snead but slowed down on Cemetery Road due to its poor condition. Zieger lost sight of Snead for a few seconds, then saw that the Jeep's four-way flashers were on and it had been in an accident.

Zieger approached the passenger side and opened the door. Snead was laying with his feet on the driver's side and his head on the passenger side, bleeding and unconscious.

Officer B. Parks helped Zieger move Snead and sit him upright so he could breathe better.

When Snead began talking Zieger smelled alcohol. Snead wanted to leave the scene because he didn't want to go to jail but Zieger told him that he had to wait for the ambulance.

The ambulance stopped at the Painter firehouse to pick up another EMS person to assist. Snead kept passing out and was administered Narcan. He received more Narcan at the hospital, where his blood was tested. His blood alcohol level was 0.172 and he had THC in his system.

Snead was held without bail Oct. 7, 2020, and released on $2,000 secured bail Oct. 15, 2020.

Louis Andrew Talbott, 31, of Cape Charles, was indicted Jan. 11 on a felony charge of committing perjury on Sept. 8, 2020.

He was arrested by Dep. D. Cobb, NCSO, and held without bail Sept. 25, 2020, following a complaint filed by Investigator Tara Leckel, Northampton County Sheriff's Office.

Michael Lee Taylor, 37, of Coveseville, Va., was indicted Jan. 11 on three felony charges: possession of heroin, possession of fentanyl, and possession of methamphetamine on July 27, 2020.

He was arrested the same day by Officer D. Carpenter, CBBT PD, and held without bail.

Carpenter reported he stopped Taylor for driving 77 mph in a 55-mph zone. A search of the vehicle found 0.18 grams of a tan powder later identified in a lab as heroin and fentanyl. Also found in the vehicle was 0.042 grams of crystalline material later identified as methamphetamine.

Richard Vizcarrondo, 34, of Chesapeake, was indicted Jan. 11 on two felony charges: possession with intent to distribute five kilograms or more of a cocaine base, and transporting one ounce or less of cocaine on July 31, 2020.

He was arrested Aug. 1, 2020, by Troop-er S.D. Covil, VSP, and held without bail.

The substance was later identified by a lab as 5,985 grams of cocaine hydrochloride.

Jonathan Wesley Wright, 30, of Portsmouth, was indicted Jan. 11 on two felony charges: possession with intent to distribute a Schedule I or II drug, and eluding police and endangerment on May 31, 2020.

He also faces three misdemeanor charges: driving with a suspended license, attempting to flee from a law enforcement officer, and reckless driving by speeds of more than 20 mph over the limit.

Wright was arrested the same day by Officer D. Carpenter, CBBT PD, and held without bail.

Carpenter reported he attempted to pull over Wright for driving 78 mph in a 55-mph zone, but Wright didn't stop and a chase ensued at speeds of over 100 mph.

Wright threw out a baggie containing about 30 grams of a white rock substance later identified as cocaine.

He was released on $5,000 secured bail June 4, 2020.

Accomack County Circuit Court

By Nancy Drury Duncan

Lance Carl Jester, 36, of Hallwood, pleaded no contest to assault in a plea agreement with the commonwealth.

Jester was originally charged with attempted malicious maiming after a June 3, 2020, road rage incident, said Commonwealth's Attorney Spencer Morgan. He said the defendant got a machete from the bed of his pickup truck during a heated confrontation with a man who was driving with his wife and children.

Defense attorney Andre Wiggins denied the item was a machete.

After hearing the evidence, Judge W. Revell Lewis III accepted the plea agreement and sentenced Jester, who has been incarcerated since the incident, to 12 months will all but time served suspended. He ordered Jester to be on good behavior for three years and to have no contact with the victim or his family. The two men did not know each other before the road rage incident, Morgan said.

Tiara Shardea Miller, 29, of Salisbury, Md., was sentenced to 90 days in jail with all time suspended.

Miller pleaded guilty to trespassing, a misdemeanor, in a plea agreement with the commonwealth. She was originally charged with breaking and entering.

Miller was angry when her daughter came home from a visit with her father with a hairstyle she did not like, Commonwealth's Attorney Morgan told the court. The man's girlfriend had braided the 6-year-old's hair.

Defense attorney Tucker Watson said his client attempted to contact the woman by text to express her displeasure with the hairstyle, but was unable to get a response. She drove to the woman's house.

The woman was in the shower when Miller banged on her door, Commonwealth's Attorney Morgan told the court. When out of the shower, she found Miller in her house. An argument ensued. Morgan said the victim concurred with this resolution of the case.

Judge Lewis accepted the agreement, then admonished Miller for her behavior. "Being upset with how your child's hair was done did not justify what you did," he said. "You have to be able to deal with emotions." He wished her success in her studies to become a registered nurse.

Miller said she knew what she did was wrong and said she would have apologized to the victim had the case gone to trial.

The case of Cody L. Hutton, 29, address unknown, charged with probation violation, was continued to November.

Hutton violated the conditions of his probation by failing to pay restitution of $6,485 for a 2010 conviction of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, said Commonwealth's Attorney Morgan.

He is now making payments of approximately $100 monthly said attorney Tucker Watson. He said Hutton works as a mechanic and for a lawn care service and his employer was now withholding money from his paycheck.

"He is a dependable, valued employee who is trying to make changes in his life," Watson said.

He said Hutton took a car belonging to a person with whom he lived without permission and went to Shore Stop. He wrecked the car on his way back home. The money is owed to the insurance company who covered the loss.

United We Stand, Only With God's Help

The greatest answer to finding unity in this country is with God. We must reach out for His help or we will never have civility or peace.

God was removed from our educational system whereas there's very little teaching of what's right or wrong anymore, especially the truth. God has been removed from our government and public places. This causes some to govern by sin nature, not for the good of the people or for God's will.

The big government and the elite class have become greedy and selfish and want to control this country, giving the rest of us little recourse or voice.

Remember, we are only as good as our leaders. And God is one government and He controls this country and the world.

We can become one America with God on our side.

New Podcast Highlights Black Businessman From 1800s

By Carol Vaughn

Lexi Hubb's goal in making a new podcast series called "The Bivalve Trail" is "to dig deep into history and uncover one of the greatest stories most people have never heard of" — the story of Thomas Downing.

Downing, born in 1791, was a free Black man from Chincoteague, the son of former slaves. His parents reportedly were freed after the slaveholder, whose surname was Downing, converted to Methodism.

After making his way north as an adult, Downing rose to wealth and influence as owner of a renowned oyster house in the financial district of New York City in the 1800s.

He made his fortune serving an elite White clientele at his establishment in an era of segregation.

He was affected by segregation himself, including a Rosa Parks-type episode in which he was challenged for boarding a trolley. Additionally, his establishment reportedly was a stop on the Underground Railroad, helping enslaved people escape to freedom.

Still, Downing became so well respected among the city's power brokers that the New York City Chamber of Commerce shut down on the day of his funeral in April 1866.

"American history doesn't involve a lot of African Americans. For decades, a lot of stories were just not being shared," Hubb said, adding, "When I discovered Thomas Downing, I (said), 'I need to share this guy's story. People need to know about him; people need to celebrate him.'"

Hubb hopes the podcast will spark interest in Downing's place in history — perhaps through a museum display or other ways to share his story more widely.

"Maybe, just maybe, he becomes as familiar to Chincoteague tourists as Marguerite Henry," she said.

The four episodes of the podcast series tell Downing's story and also celebrate the oyster.

The first three episodes have been published, with a fourth in the works.

The podcast may be accessed from the Chincoteague Cultural Alliance website at <https://www.chincoteagueca.org/bivalvetrail.html> or at <https://www.buzzsprout.com/1545259>

It also may be heard via Pandora, Spotify, and Apple Podcasts.

Hubb is artistic director of the Chincoteague Island Theatre Company, which is producing the podcast in an entirely volunteer effort. The series, which Hubb researched, wrote, and narrates, is a collaboration with Longtaylor Studios, the Chincoteague Cultural Alliance, and the Museum of Chincoteague Island.

Hubb credited Chincoteague musician Bill Troxler for the superior sound quality of the podcast. "The music and the recording is all done by Bill Troxler," Hubb said.

It's a project that came to fruition during a period when traditional theater productions were not able to proceed due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

"Everything just came to a complete, abrupt halt," Hubb said, adding, "I had all this time on my hands that I never had before."

It seemed like a good time to pursue making a podcast about Thomas, a person Hubb found fascinating.

Podcast listenership has increased significantly during the pandemic, according to www.insideradio.com

A survey in July found 41% of weekly podcast listeners reported spending more time listening to on-demand audio content since the pandemic began and there also were more new listeners tuning in.

Hubb became interested in Downing's story nearly four years ago, after Dale Holston, a Chincoteague resident who often tested her knowledge about little-known tidbits of Chincoteague history, mentioned the man.

"Eventually, it got to the point where he ran out of things he knew the answers to," Hubb said. She would then do research to try to find answers to Holston's questions.

One day, Holston told her about a photograph he had seen on the internet of a 19th century oyster crock with the name T. Downing and a New York City address imprinted on it.

The description mentioned Chincoteague. "He had no idea who T. Downing was," Hubb said.

Hubb did an online search and starting finding information about Downing, including his Eastern Shore origins.

She found he shipped pickled oysters to Queen Victoria and once catered a lavish welcome party for visiting Brit-

EPA, NASA SIGN WALLOPS AGREEMENT

By Carol Vaughn

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency announced the agency and NASA entered a consent order agreement to clean up areas of Wallops Flight Facility formerly used by the Department of Defense.

“This agreement shows that cleaning contaminated, formerly used defense sites is a top priority for both EPA and NASA,” said EPA Regional Administrator Cosmo Servidion in a Jan. 15 press release.

“The attention and focus that EPA has placed on the Superfund program is making a real difference in the lives of people living in communities near Superfund sites across the country,” he said.

NASA, with EPA oversight, will take certain actions to address contamination at the sites, according to the order.

Wallops Flight Facility is the first federal facility to be addressed under the Superfund alternative approach, in which the facility will not be listed on the National Priorities List, potentially saving time and resources, according to the release.

The same standards and processes are used under the alternative approach as for sites on the list, according to the EPA.

“If a party enters into a Superfund alternative approach agreement with EPA, there is no need for EPA to list the site on the NPL,” according to the release.

Virginia has 30 sites on the EPA’s National Priorities List, including military sites, landfills, and others. The list can be viewed at www.epa.gov/superfund/national-priorities-list-npl-sites-state#VA

Actions to be taken at Wallops include doing a feasibility study to determine the nature and extent of contamination and exploring remedy options; proposing remedial action plans to give the public a chance to comment on options; deciding on one or more remedies; designing and implementing the remedies; and taking any removal or emergency actions needed to address “any imminent and substantial threat to human health or the environment should such a threat be identified during any part of the process,” according to the release.

A public comment period for the consent order closed Dec. 28.

NASA has owned Wallops Flight Facility since 1961. Before then, the Navy owned much of the property and conducted defense-related operations— including pilot training, aviation and ordnance testing — there from 1942 until the station was closed in 1959.

The Formerly Used Defense Site (FUDS) program addresses environmental contamination resulting from those activities.

“Since 1998, NASA has worked closely with the Department of Defense and the Environmental Protection Agency on environmental investigations and remediation work at multiple Wallops sites associated with U.S. Navy activities conducted prior to NASA taking ownership of the facility. In February 2015, NASA and the Department of the Army signed a Memorandum of Agreement in which the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers (USACE) agreed to fund the Wallops Formerly Used Defense Site (FUDS) Program, with NASA taking responsibility for implementing the program and conducting remedial environmental actions at its sites,” said Jeremy Eggers, associate chief of the WFF office of communications.

The consent order “affirms the effectiveness of Wallops’ decades-long work to conduct environmental remediation at its FUDS sites and formalizes a process of continued collaboration with the EPA,” Eggers said.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers began investigating and conducting remediation at the facility in 2000 under the FUDS program, continuing the process through 2016, according to the release.

The investigation identified areas of concern — including sites contaminated with hazardous chemicals, “including the volatile organic compounds perchloroethene, trichloroethene, 1,2-dichloroethene, benzene, and toluene; semi-volatile organic compounds naphthalene, benzo(a)pyrene, and dioxins; polychlorinated biphenyls; metals; total petroleum hydrocarbons; munitions and explosives and munition constituents (chemicals used in formulations as propellants, pyrotechnics and explosives in weapon systems, munitions and blasting agents),” the release said.

NASA and the EPA previously, in 2004, entered into a consent agreement about other areas of concern on the property resulting from NASA activities.

Elizabeth Ames

Mrs. Elizabeth Holiday Thomas Ames, 87, departed this life from her Hare Valley home on Sunday, Dec. 27, 2020. Born Friday, Dec. 8, 1933, in Northampton County. A daughter to the late Blanche Parker Thomas and Exter Thomas, she was the oldest daughter of five children and grew up in Weirwood.

At a young age, she confessed her love for Jesus Christ by attending church, Bible study, and reading scripture—always wanting more knowledge of His undying love.

In 1950, she married Milton Edward Ames, and from this union five children were born. Elizabeth devoted her entire life to encouraging her children to excel. She considered education to be a critical foundation for them. Elizabeth and Milton became very successful entrepreneurs in spite of their own limited formal education. While working as an agriculture laborer in the 1960s, she sold sodas and honey buns out of the trunk of her car to local and migrant farmworkers. This evolved into one of their most successful business ventures—the Let's Eat food trucks where they sold hamburgers, hot dogs, and snow cones. Later, Milton started Let's Talk Tires, selling new and used automobile tires from their backyard. She and Milton also sold firewood, coal, and Avon products. Working together, they were able to achieve success for the family. Milton and Elizabeth were known for their hard work ethic and strong determination to support their family, friends, and community.

With the help of her son, Larry, she became a master gardener – growing watermelons, squash, strawberries, tomatoes, and cucumbers. She loved gardening and would often speak of the garden her father maintained. For many years, she maintained her own yard by cutting grass on her riding lawn mower. She so strongly believed cleanliness was next to godliness that she washed clothes three times a week with two washing machines. She enjoyed watching TV shows. Some of her favorites were “The Beverly Hillbillies,” “I Love Lucy,” “Sanford and Son,” and World Wrestling Federation (WWF). Listening to gospel music was her favorite pastime. Some of her favorite singers were Albertina Walker, Mahalia Jackson, James Cleveland, Shirley Caesar, The Mighty Clouds Of Joy, the Rev. F.C. Barnes, and The Dixie Hummingbirds.

Elizabeth touched the lives of her grandchildren by providing daily care and wisdom. She had stern rules for them because she realized there were important life lessons each would need to master if they were to become good citizens. As a child of the 1930s, she knew how it felt to go without food, so she emphasized thankfulness for what you have and to not waste food or money. Elizabeth was a very loving wife, mother, grandmother, and friend.

She was predeceased by her husband, Milton; parents; two brothers, Lawrence and Exter Jr.; and one sister Jannie Thomas. To cherish her loving memory, there are five children: Milton Jr. (Linda), of Tucson, Ariz.; Larry Sr. (Geraldine), of Chesapeake; Brenda Holden (Ronnie), of Onancock; Diane Ames, of Temperanceville; and Gloria Bailey, of Salisbury, Md.; one sister, Glory Carrie Dean Byrd; 11 grandchildren, Hope Chestnut, Larry Esau Ames Jr., Ronnita Holden, Gerald Patrick Ames, Alexandra Ames, Alison Ames, Aaron Ames, Travis Bailey, Gabriel Bailey, and Kristen Bailey; 12 great-grandchildren, Jazmine Wiggins, Talia Ames, Aliyah Ames, Naayah Ames, Jabriel Ames, Brandon Littleton, Angel Chestnut, Trinity Bailey, Brian Pierce-Bailey, King Ames, Alyssa Tucker, Heather Tucker, and Noah Tucker; two nephews, Reynold “Boney” Byrd and Robert Ames Jr.; four nieces, Mary Akers, Phyllis Baker, Ydetta Rogers, and Yetta Howard; and a host of cousins and friends.

Funeral Service for Mrs. Elizabeth

Holiday Ames was conducted from the John O. Morris Funeral Home, Nassawadox, Saturday, Jan. 9, 2021, at 11 a.m., with Bishop David Sabatino officiating.

Mrs. Ames will be remembered as the wife of the late Milton E. Ames and the mother of Milton Ames Jr., Larry Ames, Brenda Holden, Diane Ames, and Gloria Bailey. The family plans to host a gathering celebrating her life on the Eastern Shore once it is safe to gather.

Online condolences are still available as well as the online Guest Book provided at the website www.morrisfuneralhome.org

Beverly Lynn Barnes

Ms. Beverly Lynn Barnes, 62, of Washington, D.C., died on Jan. 16, 2021, at her sister's house in Maryland of complications from ovarian cancer.

Beverly was the daughter of Elaine D. Barnes and the late S. Blumfield Barnes.

Beverly first came to the Shore in 2011, visiting with her friend David Martin who was considering moving permanently to the Shore. David and Beverly explored Cape Charles and then moved up the peninsula where they found and admired Onancock. David bought a house in Onancock and Beverly continued to visit over the years, sometimes accompanied by her mother, her sister, Karla Barnes, and her brother-in-law Kevin Moore, Karla's husband.

Beverly came from a family of strivers whose distinguished accomplishments are all the more remarkable when considered in the contexts of time and race. The men in Beverly's family became doctors, lawyers, ministers, real estate holders, and federal judges. The women, facing not only racial discrimination but also the limited expectations for women in those times, became librarians, real estate brokers, and educators who earned advanced college degrees.

After being graduated from Yale, Beverly began working as a reporter for the Atlanta Journal-Constitution and went on to a career in communications and marketing. Beverly served

From the Shore, Beverly and her family visited Tangier Island, shopped at antique stores in various towns, and came to admire the Shore's people, especially its artists. Beverly became a fan of the Charlotte Restaurant in Onancock and a close friend of Gary and Charlotte Cochran. She is missed by them, by her friend David, by her family, and by the dozens of friends she made while traveling the world. Mr. Harry K. Rush, 78, of Willow Valley, Lancaster, Pa., passed away Jan. 17, 2021, from a short battle with cancer.

Born in Easton, Pa., on July 26, 1942, he was the eldest son of the late Kenneth P. Rush and the late Dorothy M. (Anderson) Rush. Raised in Bloomsbury, N.J., and later moving to Blairstown, N.J., he was a 1960 graduate of Blairstown High School. His senior project on Cuba resulted in a correspondence and invitation from Fidel Castro to see Cuba for himself much to Harry's shocked amazement. Harry did not accept the invite. He later graduated from Trenton Junior College (1963) with a degree in biology and Rutgers University (1973) with a degree in vocational education, with honors.

In 1964, Harry joined the U.S. Army, deployed to Vietnam, and worked as a cryptographer. He met his lifetime quota for camping while in the Army much to the dismay of his family – there were no family camping trips. He spent his days writing codes in the company of Gen. Westmoreland. After leaving the Army, Harry married the love of his life, Carol A. Mays, and they were happily married for 53 years. Many letters sent from Vietnam ended with HOLLAND – Hope Our Love Lasts And Never Dies.

Harry's career always revolved around education including teaching at Warren County Technical School in Washington, N.J. He changed to corporate training and engineering around 1980, working for numerous tech and telecommunications companies in New Jersey. After retirement, he and Carol moved to Onancock, where he continued to serve his community by working on the local broadband board and the board of directors for Eastern Shore Coalition Against Domestic Violence (ESCADV).

Church was always central to Harry's life and he served as an elder and clerk at 2nd English Presbyterian Church of Amwell in Lambertville, N.J., as well as Naomi Makemi Presbyterian in Onancock. He was also involved in Joe's Boys men's group.

Civically minded, he served on the West Amwell School Board and the West Amwell Zoning Board of Adjustment.

As a former resident of Lambertville, Harry had easy access to flea markets, antiques, and most importantly old postcards. An avid collector from childhood, Harry amassed tens of thousands of cards over the years much to his delight. Known for his sense of humor and wit, he relished comedic films with his favorite being "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World." Harry enjoyed farm markets, specialty food shops, thrift stores, and spending time with his wife and family.

He's survived by his loving wife, Carol A. Rush; daughters, Nicole Carter (Tony) and Lauren Rush (Khalid Sheikh). He loved the company of his four grandchildren, Harrison Carter, Mitchell Carter, Dean Carter, and Merriam Sheikh. He leaves behind a brother, Alan Rush (Christine), and their children and grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held at a later date at Naomi Makemi Presbyterian Church, Onancock, with services streamed online.

Memorials may be made to ESCADV or Naomi Makemi Presbyterian Church.

Community Unity Day: ‘Together We Can Make a Difference for All’

By Stefanie Jackson

The Eastern Shore has celebrated Community Unity Day on Martin Luther King Jr. Day every year for more than three decades, and even though COVID-19 prevented participants from gathering in the Northampton High School cafeteria Monday morning for breakfast and fellowship, people still connected online and over the airwaves to honor the legacy of Martin Luther King Jr.

“Together, We Can Make a Difference for All” was the theme of Community Unity Day 2021.

The virtual celebration was divided in two parts: Northampton County Public Schools students participated online via Zoom on Friday evening, Jan. 15, and community members spoke during a WESR radio broadcast on Monday morning, Jan. 18.

It was the students’ time to shine Friday night, whether they recited the words of Martin Luther King Jr. or sang, danced, or played musical selections inspired by his life.

Participating students included:

- Keira Allen, daughter of an ACCESS College advisor
- James Thomas Applegate, Northampton High School
- Destiny Carrington, Northampton High School
- Avani Bell-Savage, Kiptopeke Elementary School
- Paris Brown, Kiptopeke Elementary School
- Cassidy Johnson, Occohannock Elementary School
- Samrit Kaur, Kiptopeke Elementary School
- Dajerilyz Ortiz, Northampton Middle School
- Nixie Ortiz, Kiptopeke Elementary School
- Billy Pike, Kiptopeke Elementary School

During the radio broadcast, Joan Wilson, of Painter, thanked King for his support of freedom of choice for schools. Wilson embraced the opportunity to attend integrated schools and graduated from the Norfolk General Hospital School of Nursing. She was the only Black student in her graduating class.

Wilson also was the first Black registered nurse at the Northampton-Accomack Memorial Hospital in Nassawadox, where she managed a 31-bed medical surgical unit and was a relief supervisor.

“I thank Dr. King for opening the doors for me and many,” she said. “I want to encourage all young people that their dream is possible.”

Karen Downing, of the Accomack NAACP, said that “this time of so much unrest in our country” reminded her of King’s words, “The time is always right to do what is right.”

“Here we are in 2021, and this is still a very relevant message for all of us today,” she said.

The Rev. Rick Willis, of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church in Onancock, shared another Martin Luther King Jr. quote: “I refuse to accept the view that mankind is so tragically bound onto the starless midnight of racism and war that the bright daybreak of peace and brotherhood can never become a reality. I believe that unarmed truth and unconditional love will have the final word.”

Camesha Handy, of the Accomack NAACP and Living Word Church of Deliverance, Parksley, shared “five amazing facts” about Martin Luther King Jr.:

- He was born Michael King Jr. on Jan. 15, 1929. His father, a pastor, changed both his and son’s name in 1934 to Martin Luther after the leader of the Protestant Reformation.

- Martin Luther King Jr. skipped two years of high school and entered college at age 15.
- He was jailed nearly 30 times in his life. Reasons for the arrests included civil disobedience and driving 30 mph in a 25 mph zone.
- Martin Luther King Jr. was the only non-U.S.-President to have a national holiday named after him and a memorial on the National Mall in Washington, D.C.
- His “I Have a Dream” speech was originally titled “Normalcy: Never Again.” The speech that was made famous at the March on Washington in 1963 was prompted when singer Mahalia Jackson shouted to King, “Tell them about the dream!”

Both speech titles are still relevant today, because “America cannot go back,” Handy said. “It cannot go back to normal.”

“We should use 2020 as a guide. ... Let’s forget those things that are behind and reach forth towards those things which are ahead,” she said.

“Let us work together today in unity, let us work in kindness, let us work in transparency, let us work in humility, and the greatest of these – let us work in love for a better day and an even better tomorrow.”

Osprey-Eyed Reader Contest: What in Carnation?

Last Week's Contest: Triple Tower Prizes

Last week the osprey-eyed contest bounced back big time with a near record-breaking number of 36 readers who were sufficiently osprey-eyed to find the six Leaning Towers of Pizza on pages 6, 16, 19, 22, 29, and 31. To make up for the previous week's, uhm, oversight, we gave out three $25 gift certificates instead of the usual one. The three winners of those gift certificates to Panzotti's Pizza & Waffles in Onley were Charles Koski, of Chincoteague, Jimmy Nickerson, of Parksley, and Virginia Manzione, of Exmore.

This Week's Contest: Gather Ye the Flower

This week, six of these flowers are lurking alluringly in this edition of the Eastern Shore Post:

Readers who find all six will become contestants and, from among that pool of contestants, one lucky osprey-eyed reader will be randomly selected to win a $25 gift certificate to C.D. Marsh Jewelers in Onancock. See sponsor box on this page.

The rules:

- To become a contestant, find the six flowers and tell us where you found them (page number and location on the page). Send this information to david@easternshorepost.com.
- You can start sending your entries now. Entries MUST have your first and last names and your town.
- Include a photograph if you choose to submit one and tell us a little something about the picture.
- Entries will be accepted until noon on Monday, Jan. 25. Entries arriving after noon on the 25th will not be entered in the contest.
- Anyone submitting a photograph must have taken the picture or have permission to use it.
- Do not submit multiple entries.

The winner and as many runners-up as possible will get their photographs in the paper. If you don't want to use your own picture, you can submit a photo of your child or a pet — or a bouquet you love to sniff, baseballs you always whiff, or even your interpretation of an ancient hieroglyph. Just no feet.

Last Week's Winners

Last week, three readers were chosen at random to win $25 gift certificates from Panzotti's Pizza & Waffles in Onley:

Virginia Manzione, of Exmore, said it took her awhile, but she finally found all the leaning towers. “Thank you again for the fun puzzle.”

Charlie Koski, of Chincoteague, has played every single osprey-eyed contest and enjoys them because they take “my mind off the pandemic and politics for a few hours. And Panzotti's has a pizza truck on the island now!” Pictured is Koski's 1971 Dodge Demon, a six-cylinder he says could outrun a few V-8s.

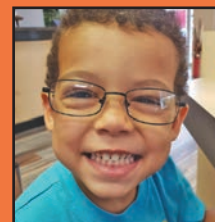

Runners-Up

In the Santa hat is runner-up Jeannette Bell, of Onley, and in the cool glasses and facial hair is her husband of 29 years.

Regina Bucci, of Exmore, is giving us a too-cute attack: Nathan and Toby napping together — and we don't even care which is Nathan and which is Toby.

You know who is really, really happy about his eyeglasses? De'Vante, nephew of runner-up Kimberly Rice, of Bloxom.

Jessica and Levi Thornes, of Guilford, are the runners-up and here is a picture of Levi “working hard” (quotes in the original) at his Pop's auto shop in Onancock.

Random Facts About ... the Shape of a Broken Heart

By David Martin

When we opened our internet tubes this week, a single Japanese word came out: takotsubo.

It means octopus pot, but it is also applied to a medical condition, takotsubo cardiomyopathy, in which the heart muscle becomes stunned and the left ventricle can balloon until the heart resembles the ceramic pots that Japanese fishermen use to catch octopus.

People presenting with takotsubo cardiomyopathy show all the classic signs of a heart attack: chest pain, shortness of breath, irregular heart-beat, loss of consciousness. But when tests are done, the classic causes of a heart attack aren't found. Arteries are clear and the heart, except for its temporary misshape, seems to work fine. After a period of rest, more than 90% of takotsubo syndrome sufferers survive.

But here's the strange thing. Doctors know what causes the syndrome. Grief. Terrible, heartfelt, debilitating grief from the death of a loved one or from the stress of living through a natural catastrophe or some other terrible heartbreak. That's why takotsubo cardiomyopathy is also known as the broken heart syndrome. It occurs more frequently among women and is thought to be rare although the British Heart Foundation estimates that up to 7% of all heart attack cases admitted to cardiology departments are, in fact, the result of the broken heart syndrome. So now we know what a broken heart looks like: a Japanese octopus pot.

It's your guess whether grief or joy has the upper hand in life. Over the past year, at least, grief seems to be on the ascendant.

The legend (and we emphasize legend) that Ernest Hemingway bet his luncheon companions that he could write a novel in six words concludes that Hemingway won the bet by writing this six-word novel of grief: "For sale, baby shoes, never worn."

In C.S. Lewis' "A Grief Observed," written about the death of his wife, he wrote, "No one ever told me that grief felt so like fear. I am not afraid, but the sensation is like being afraid. The same fluttering in the stomach, the same restlessness, the yawning. I keep on swallowing."

You'd have to be hardhearted not to suffer a tear when W.H. Auden's poem, "Stop All the Clocks" is recited in the movie, "Four Weddings and a Funeral." The last stanza of that poem:

"The stars are not wanted now; put out every one.

Pack up the moon and dismantle the sun.

Pour away the ocean and sweep up the wood.

For nothing now can ever come to any good."

The grief-stricken, even if not suffering takotsubo cardiomyopathy, can have empathy for the octopus in that ceramic pot on the ocean floor. The takotsubo has no snares or hooks or one-way entrances to keep the octopus entrapped. The pot is simply a comfortable place to stay, to hole up, to hide from the world. The octopus stays in the trap as it is hauled up into the arms of its captor. Grief can be a takotsubo trap, entered to escape the world and find comfort in memories and then, for a time, inescapable.

The Lady Vikings Win Big At Home

Taylor Leland keeps her eyes on the basket as she gets away on a fast break. She led the Vikings over the Seahawks finishing with 19 points.

Sophomore Faith Johnson causes a turnover and the Vikings are off to the races.

The Broadwater Lady Vikings improve to 4-2 after a home win against conference rival Atlantic Shores. The Vikings continue to improve since the start of the season and are still feeding off their scrappy guards who can cause havoc on offenses. The young Vikings pushed the Seahawks to the edge, recording 23 steals against nine turnovers.

They might lack height and varsity experience, but the Vikings don't lack effort as steals converted to outlet passes and easy fast break layups. Points converted from turnovers were hard to keep track of because they happened so frequently. It seemed every play a Viking was picking the pockets of their opponents, leading to either a pass in transition or a player going coast-to-coast. With so many interchangeable guards, the Vikings never slowed pace throughout the game as substitutions came, allowing all players to get adequate playing time.

Broadwater cruised to a 52-16 victory with an even attack and almost all players on the game roster scoring. Taylor Leland led the way with 19 points going 9 for 12 from the field and adding four steals against zero turnovers. Suzanna Long posted 6 points, five rebounds, and four steals. Haley Nalls finished with 7 points and three rebounds, while Hannah Davis added 6 points and three steals.

The Vikings' efforts currently have them ranked third in the metro conference as they enter a stretch of road games including tonight's Friday 5 p.m. tipoff against Gateway Christian in Virginia Beach.

Eastern Shore Street Hockey Super Juniors

Story and Photos By Matthew Yoder

The Eastern Shore Street Hockey League is now two weeks into its super-juniors league season. Comprising of divisions of 4 to 12-year-old children, the teams compete under the same rules as their adult counterparts. The fundamentals are a good building block to sustaining the future success of the sport on the Shore. Early on, the action has been played at a furious pace with great instruction from parents and players who are active in the adult division. Games are played Saturday mornings at Stapleton Rink in Parksley.

Vikings Take Over Metro Conference and Crack Top Ten in State

Big man Levin Smith goes up in the first quarter against Holy Grove. He scored 18 points in the Vikings' 90-30 victory.

The Vikings then hit the road Jan. 15 to defeat Portsmouth Christian on the Patriots' home court. Broadwater hasn't played from behind since December but the Vikings found themselves down at the half, 31-29. After the half the Vikings went into lock down mode limiting their opponent to only four points in the third quarter as Broadwater cruised to a double-digit victory 66-51. Willie Holden was the Vikings' leading scorer knocking down eight of his 11 attempts from the field, ending the game with 19 points. Clay Wardius finished with 15 points and seven rebounds. Bradyn Washington had 14 points and six rebounds, while Levin Smith ended the game with 9 points and eight rebounds.

The boys then traveled to Chesapeake Jan. 19 to face-off against Atlantic Shores Christian. A pivotal win against the Seahawks thrust the Vikings into the top spot of the Metro Conference. The 11-point victory is the closest game Broadwater has had since December. Defeating their conference foe gave the Vikings the best start of the season the school has seen since the turn of the century. This 6-0 start currently has Broadwater ranked eighth in the state among VISAA Division III schools.

The Vikings were led by big man Clay Wardius in their victory over the Seahawks, posting a double-double with 21 points and 15 rebounds in the contest. Brant Bloxom added 13 points, five rebounds, and four assists. Bradyn Washington also scored in double digits finishing with 11 points and four rebounds. The Vikings will hope to improve on their terrific start with a three-game stretch of home games at the Hall Center, including tonight's Friday night game at 5 p.m. against Gateway Christian.

The Broadwater Vikings are off to a hot start for their shortened 2020-21 season. Looking at a 6-0 start, the boys have defeated their last four opponents by an average of 31 points. Using their aggressive defense, the Vikings toppled Holy Grove Christian Academy last week, Jan. 14, at home to the tune of 90-30. They generated 28 steals against 11 turnovers while shooting 65% from the field. Coming off the bench, Bradyn Washington led all scorers with 21 points and 4 steals. The 6-foot-8-inch Viking towers were next as Levin Smith finished with 18 points and Clay Wardius finished with 15 points. Willie Holden excelled on both sides of the floor leading the defense with nine steals while chipping in 12 points. Marvin Johnson was the game's facilitator, dishing out nine assists and recording four steals against one turnover.

Buck Doughty Created 33-Pound Sculpture for Northampton Historic Preservation Society Drawing

Northampton Historic Preservation Society commissioned local artist Albert K. "Buck" Doughty to sculpt a metal rendition of "Pear Valley," a colonial-era yeoman's cottage near Machipongo.

"This sculpture exceeds my expectations," Mike Ash, NHPS's president, said. "Buck is known for his metal artistry, but I've never seen one quite like this. We are very pleased to offer this opportunity for someone to own it."

Buck was nicknamed "Man of Steel" in a 2019 Chesapeake Bay Magazine article written by Bill Sterling. Well known for his exquisite metal sculptures of wildlife, sea life, and marshland vegetation, Buck embraces a challenge. He visited Pear Valley before beginning this project and, with a craftsman's eye for detail, decided that the final form had to include the exposed attic joists that are a unique feature of this 1740 cottage.

"It is an incredible house," Doughty said.

His appreciation of Pear Valley, a National Registered Landmark, shows in this unique sculpture.

Tickets are $10 each and will be drawn in the spring. Tickets are on sale at Book Bin, Rayfield's Pharmacies, Lemon Tree Gallery, and through NHPS's website: www.northamptonhistoricpreservationsociety.com

Check the website for news of when and where the drawing will be held. Ticket holders don't have to be present to win. Proceeds go toward the preservation of the Court Green's 1907 Jail in Eastville. The sculpture's dimensions are 10x13x13 inches and 33 pounds. It can be seen at Lemon Tree Gallery in Cape Charles. Don't miss this opportunity to own a one-of-a-kind, Buck Doughty sculpture of a national, yet local, historic treasure.

MRS. EVORIA VERNETTA HANSHAW WATSON
March 12, 1932 – January 9, 2016

Ms. Evoria, as many called her, was a resident of Atlantic, VA, for more than 60 years. All the neighbors knew exactly where her house was because they knew she would always welcome them there. Ms. Evoria and Mr. David Watson were married for more than 64 years and enjoyed the friendliness of all their neighbors. What a blessed union!!

Mom, we miss you so very much!! It has been 5 years since you left us, but we will never forget you!!!

You taught us so many things, especially to love each other and treat others as we want to be treated.

You were always our voice of reasoning and you always had a listening ear. You were the best Mom, wife, sister, aunt, cousin, neighbor, church member and woman of God.

Well, you know you left some big footsteps to follow, so therefore we won't mess that up, but we will remember all that you gave us to help us continue to enjoy life and go forward.

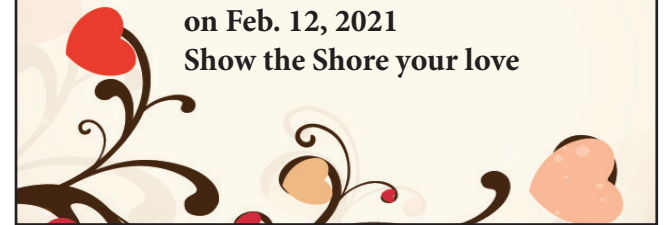

It seems that you never met an enemy and as far as you knew, everyone was part of the family. People are still talking about how you always made them feel important. We all miss your delicious meals and great conversations. Just so you know, some of us picked up that gathering spirit that you had. Your children called it "hoarding," but you called it supplying a need for others.

We are all very thankful for the time you spent with us here on earth. We always find an occasion to reminisce about how loving you were and all the funny things you did and made us do. You will always remain in our hearts forever!!

Public Notice – Environmental Permit
PURPOSE OF NOTICE: To seek public comment on a draft permit from the Department of Environmental Quality for the withdrawal of groundwater in Northampton County, Virginia. PUBLIC COMMENT PERIOD: January 22, 2021 to February 22, 2021

PERMIT NAME: Groundwater Withdrawal Permit issued by DEQ, under the authority of the State Water Control Board
APPLICANT NAME, ADDRESS AND PERMIT NUMBER: Kuzzens, Inc.; 3769 Grapeland Circle, Exmore, VA 23350; #GW0070100

NAME AND LOCATION OF WATER WITHDRAWAL: Marshall-Johnson-Grapeland Complex; Occohannock Rd. and Grapeland Circle, Wardtown, VA 23350

PROJECT DESCRIPTION: Kuzzens, Inc. has applied for a groundwater withdrawal permit for the Marshall-Johnson-Grapeland Complex in Northampton County, Virginia. The permit would allow the applicant to withdraw a maximum of 129,500,000 gallons per year, and no greater than a total withdrawal of 1,649,500,000 gallons during the permit term of 15 years. The groundwater withdrawal will be used to supplement water withdrawn from two farm ponds to supply irrigation water to support the operation of a tomato-growing facility. The proposed withdrawal will utilize the surficial (Columbia) aquifer at a depth between 14 feet and 68 feet below the land surface, and the Upper Yorktown-Eastover aquifer at a depth between 80 feet and 152 feet below land surface at the withdrawal site. An aquifer is a body of rock or layer of sediment in the ground in which groundwater is stored and transported. DEQ has made a tentative decision to issue the permit.

AFFECTED AREA: The areal extent within each aquifer where more than one foot of drawdown is predicted to occur due to the proposed withdrawal is illustrated on maps that can be viewed at <https://www.deq.virginia.gov/permits-regulations/public-notices/water/water-withdrawal>.

HOW TO COMMENT AND OR REQUEST A PUBLIC HEARING: DEQ accepts comments and requests for public hearing by e-mail, fax or postal mail. All comments and requests must be in writing and be received by DEQ during the comment period. Submittals must include the names, mailing addresses and telephone numbers of the commenter/requester and of all persons represented by the commenter/requester. A request for public hearing must also include: 1) The reason why a public hearing is requested. 2) A brief, informal statement regarding the nature and extent of the interest of the requester or of those represented by the requestor, including how and to what extent such interest would be directly and adversely affected by the permit. 3) Specific references, where possible, to terms and conditions of the permit with suggested revisions. DEQ may hold a public hearing, including another comment period, if public response is significant and there are substantial, disputed issues relevant to the proposed permit.

CONTACT FOR PUBLIC COMMENTS, DOCUMENT REQUESTS AND ADDITIONAL INFORMATION: Brian McGurk; Central Office, P.O. Box 1105, Richmond, VA, 23218; Phone: 804-698-4180; Email: brian.mcgurk@deq.virginia.gov.

Capitol Break-In Orchestrated by a Few 'Bad Apples'

Dear Editor:

The break-in (orchestrated by only a small percentage of bad apples) was criminal and outrageous.

Despite media sensationalism depicting it as a major riot, here is what I did see:

- No wholesale violence
- No obscene graffiti
- No arson
- No government vehicles nor police cars nor emergency vehicles with windows smashed out or overturned or set on fire
- No wholesale murders
- No massive looting
- No police stations burned down
- No prolonged occupation by protesters
- No criminals shooting at police or firemen or emergency workers
- No police were ordered to turn away while the businesses of innocent, hard-working Americans were destroyed
- No one was raped
- No blocked highways
- No attacks on law enforcement other than by the criminals in the Capitol building
- No politicians declaring, "Let them destroy and burn the city, they need to release frustrations."
- No absurd calls to defund the police
- When the curfew was announced there was an orderly departure from the area

The Air Force veteran Ashli Babbitt should never have been shot to death by police. I do not believe she did anything for which to be killed. She simply should have been arrested like the rest of them. Why are there no calls for justice for her?

Post Office Mail

A handful of instigators (Antifa, brain-dead rednecks, neo-Nazis, etc.) who were hellbent on overthrowing the government and instilling anarchy seized the moment to cause trouble. The vast majority of demonstrators did not follow them; did not agree with them; did not participate unlawfully.

Here's a link to the FBI reports on who's been arrested as of Jan. 8: <https://www.justice.gov/usao-dc/pr/thirteen-charged-federal-court-following-riot-united-states-capitol>

The President should have gone to the Capitol Building and personally thrown out the troublemakers. He would have gained a lot of respect. Then again, the criminals in the building were not really supporters of the President. That was just an excuse. They had a whole other agenda. That was why they killed Capitol Police Officer, Brian Sicknick. No supporter of the President would endorse the murder of a law enforcement officer.

William W. Stilwagen, Onancock

Republicans Must Repudiate Trumpism

Dear Editor:

Josef Goebbels would be proud of certain segments of the Republican Party that have adopted a fundamental [practice] of propaganda. Relentlessly repeat a lie and it becomes the truth (to a segment of those ignorant and gullible enough to believe it).

If Republicans ever want to win another national election, they need to repudiate and disown the cult of Trumpism.

Demographics are changing in Georgia and Arizona. Teens who are attaining voting age are not going to vote for or support a party that resembles 1930s Italy, Germany, and Spain.

John Weirich, Belle Haven

Jan. 6 Should Not Come as a Surprise

Dear Editor:

There will no doubt be much commentary about the Jan. 6 events in D.C.

These events should not come as a total surprise. This country has a long vein of bigotry that bubbles up to the surface periodically going back at least to the Know-Nothing movement of the 1850's.

In more recent times you can trace it from Father Coughlin (of the 1930s) to Joe McCarthy to George Wallace to Pat Buchanan to Donald Trump and Ted Cruz. All featured attacks on people of color. All were anti Semites. All were misogynists.

Intersecting this is the fact that no longer are all the places at the table reserved for white heterosexual males. This removed the white privilege for many mediocre white males and the trend of a diverse table is only getting bigger and creating insecurity in some elements of the white male population.

At the same time there has been massive dis-investment in many parts of the country, mostly rural and medium-sized locales. This has created an understandable anger and insecurity. Nobody wants to be thought of as living in "fly over" country.

These 3 trends must be recognized when both trying to explain Trump and trying to heal the country. As far as the terrorists of Jan. 6 are concerned, they must be prosecuted as much as possible and, with new emphasis on domestic terrorism from the DOJ, be driven back under the rocks from whence they crawled out.
