Event Celebrates Easter, Autism Awareness

Story and Photos by Stefanie Jackson

Accomack County Parks and Recreation (ACPR) found a way to celebrate Easter and Autism Awareness Month during the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic with a family drive-thru "eggstravaganza" and parade at Sawmill Park April 3.

Barbara Boggs, special events coordinator for ACPR, organized the drive-thru with 300 Easter bags for children and 125 gift bags for adults, filled with items donated by local organizations.

A parade was led by the family vehicle of grand marshal King Fosque, an Accomack second grader who has autism.

King won the Design a Mask for Kids Contest in October 2020, sponsored by ACPR, and 1,000 face masks

Exmore Could See Two New Housing Developments

By Stefanie Jackson

New Road Community Development Group wants to build 30 new homes in Exmore, and Executive Director Ava Wise has requested a letter of support from the town, Town Manager Robert Duer announced April 5.

The homes will be individually owned townhouses built on the west side of Route 13, between the shopping center and Holiday Inn, he said.

The Town Council consented to writing the letter of support.

Duer added that the owner of Peter Cartwright Manor, on Willis Wharf Road, is interested in building a second apartment building.

He noted that the two housing projects combined would create about 80 new sewer connections for Exmore.

A Virginia State Corporation Commission moratorium on utility shutoffs continues, Duer said, meaning services cannot be disconnected if customers don't pay their utility bills.

Exmore is receiving less revenue but spending more resources as sewer customers leave bills unpaid and damage equipment.

Duer emphasized the need for the town to reach an agreement with its landlords regarding utilities. Town officials agreed utility bills should be in the names of homeowners, not renters, to avoid situations in which renters don't pay the bills, then move out of town, essentially guaranteeing that Exmore will never be able to collect the amounts due.

That's one "gamble" Exmore made by choosing to partner with the Hampton Roads Sanitation District (HSRD) to provide future sewer service to the town, Duer said.

HSRD will expect to be paid for its services whether Exmore gets paid or not, he pointed out.

Exmore met the April 1 deadline to apply for up to $1 million in funding for its sewer project from a Virginia Department of Housing and Community Development block grant.

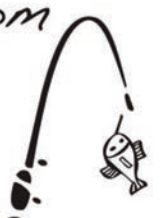

Other possible funding sources include the U.S. Department of Agriculture Rural Development, from which Exmore requested a $6 million loan. The town anticipates one-third of the loan principal, or about $2 million, may be forgiven.

Exmore also was advised to request a $10 million loan from the Virginia Department of Environmental Quality.

Police Report

Chief Angelo DiMartino said March was a busy month for the Exmore Police Department, and its recent accomplishments have included:

- An illegal gambling operation called Lucky 13 was shut down following an undercover investigation.
- Counterfeiting has been reduced; several individuals were using counterfeit $100 bills at local businesses, making small purchases of around $5 each to launder the money, DiMartino stated.
- During a routine traffic stop, Officer Brandon Parks apprehended a man who was wanted in Florida for murder and other crimes.

- A review of police body camera footage showed that officers properly assisted, on separate occasions, two individuals suffering from drug overdoses. Both were administered Narcan, a nasal spray for emergency treatment of known or suspected opioid overdose, and attended until emergency medical personnel arrived.
- A training session on gun safety was held for area Boy Scouts, with a reminder to parents that it is unlawful to leave a loaded weapon unattended around children.
- Police officers responded to three reported crashes last month, including one in which a vehicle was struck from behind after it slowed down at a yellow traffic light.

- Officer Chip Little has been working with town residents to ensure they clear their properties of trash and debris. Many large cleanup projects have been completed.
- Officer Eddie Diaz, the newest member of the Exmore Police Department, has been performing well during his field training and soon will be able to work independently, DiMartino said.

In another matter, the Town Council approved advertising Exmore's proposed budget for fiscal year 2022, totaling about $2 million, less than the current annual budget.

Duer said as the COVID-19 pandemic wears on, Exmore will continue to keep spending to a minimum.

A public hearing on the FY 2022 budget will be held Monday, May 3, at 7 p.m.

with the winning design were distributed to Accomack elementary schools.

The design – a smiley face on a blue background with the words, “I Am Smiling Under This Mask” – fits King’s personality because he “always liked to be the center of attention” and “always liked to smile,” Katina Fosque said.

King, who enjoys drawing, submitted four entries to the contest; his final submission was the winner.

His mother described what it has been like having a school-age child with autism during the COVID-19 pandemic.

King was diagnosed with autism more than two years ago, when he was in kindergarten. The most challenging symptom of King’s autism was his disruptive behavior at school.

The constant phone calls to pick up King from school due to his behavior were stressful. His family turned to prescription medication to try to control the behavior but couldn’t find the right fit.

On the fifth attempt to find an effective medication, King suffered a severe allergic reaction that put him in the hospital for two weeks. His family resolved to stop seeking medication to manage his autism.

He had a “rough” year in 2020 that appeared to be improving in the spring, but about one day after King returned to class in March, schools closed due to COVID-19.

King was a homebound student before the COVID-19 pandemic hit, so his mother was advised to put him in the virtual learning program this school year, in which he could continue to stay home.

He began the school year as a virtual student at Kegotank Elementary School but recently entered the hybrid learning program at Chincoteague Elementary School. He has been attending school in person two days a week and is doing well, his mother said.

King enjoys participating in classroom activities, answering the teacher’s questions, and being with his friends. His favorite subject is math.

Katina Fosque attributes her seven-year-old son’s success in school to his increasing maturity, the help of his special education teacher, and “a lot of breaks.”

King received a gift of $100 to spend on art supplies, presented by Althea Pittman, executive director of the Eastern Shore Center for Independent Living.

Pittman, who is blind, is an advocate for inclusive community activities. “I have a disability, but I do have the ability to interact” with others, she said.

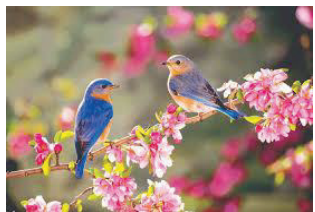

She is a firm believer that as a citizen who pays the same taxes as everyone else, she should also have the same access to public resources.

The mission of the Eastern Shore Center for Independent Living is “to empower people with disabilities to make their own life choices and to realize their greatest potential as individuals.” It offers activities for both the old and the young, and Pittman promotes showing support for the next generation “any way you can.”

Accomack Students on Hybrid Plan Return to School 4 Days a Week By April's End

By Stefanie Jackson

All Accomack hybrid students in grades pre-K to 12 will be attending school in person four days a week before the end of April, Assistant Superintendent Rhonda Hall announced Tuesday night.

The four-day, in-person school week will begin Monday, April 19, for elementary school students, and Monday, April 26, for middle and high school students.

The number of days hybrid students receive face-to-face instruction every week will double, due to new guidelines from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) that cut the amount of required social distancing in half, from six feet to three feet.

The number of students allowed to ride each school bus also will double, from about 11 to approximately 22.

Currently, one student is allowed in every other seat, but the rule will change to one student per seat, with 20 to 25 students on each bus.

It will likely be mandatory that all hybrid students participate in the four-day school week, because it would be impractical for the transportation department to bus some students to school four days a week and others only two days a week, Hall said.

Parents who do not wish to send their children to school four days a week may switch the students to the virtual learning program.

Current virtual students will not be offered the option to switch to the hybrid learning program at this time, Hall noted.

To accommodate the new influx of students, some teachers who were only teaching virtually will now hold classes in person, Hall said.

To accommodate all the students while maintaining a three-foot distance between each person, some students will be moved to different classrooms, she added.

School board member Janet Turner declined to vote on the updated Return to Learn Plan because neither she nor her peers were sent a new copy of the plan to read after a last-minute change was made.

The school board passed the updated plan, with school board member Edward Taylor voting “no” and Turner abstaining.

Accomack schools Coordinator of Student Health Services Tonya Martin reported that as of April 6, four Accomack students and no teachers or staff were positive for COVID-19.

However, Gov. Ralph Northam’s April 1 executive order, which increased the total number of people permitted at an indoor gathering to 50 and the total permitted at an outdoor gathering to 100, was not enough for Superintendent Chris Holland to recommend allowing proms to be held at Accomack schools this year.

Vice Chairman Ronnie Holden asked if there would be enough space for social distancing at proms if only seniors were invited.

Chairman Paul Bull pointed out that Nandua High School has more than 180 seniors, well above the limit for outdoor gatherings, and Holland said he did not believe students would adhere to social distancing guidelines at an event that involved dancing.

Upon Holland’s recommendation, the school board voted in favor of canceling proms for the 2020-2021 school year, with school board members Jesse Spiedel, Turner, and Taylor voting against the cancellation.

Turner then questioned why the school board had held “surprise votes” on issues that were listed on the meeting agenda only as discussion items.

There’s no rule that states the school board can’t vote on a recommendation following a discussion, but it is common practice that when members of boards or councils are expected to vote on issues, those topics are listed on the meeting agendas as action items.

No action items were listed on the school board’s April 6 agenda.

The superintendent, school board chairman, and vice chairman all asserted that the appearance of the discussion items on the agenda was adequate.

Holland said plans for graduation are in the works and he is looking forward to spring sports.

DEQ Will Not Hold Hearing on 10M Gallon-Per-Month Water Withdrawal Permit

By Stefanie Jackson

The Virginia Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) has no plans to hold a public hearing on a groundwater permit application for a 250-acre tomato farm in Wardtown, which is tentatively approved to withdraw more than 10 million gallons of water per month.

According to a March 22 memo from Joseph Grist, DEQ water withdrawal permitting and compliance manager, at least 25 requests for a public hearing on a groundwater withdrawal permit must be received before a public hearing can be granted.

The public comment period on the Kuzzens tomato farm permit application began Jan. 22 and ended Feb. 22. During the 30-day period, 16 comments were received, including only six requests for a public hearing.

A top concern of citizens was the farm's plan to withdraw water from the Upper Yorktown-Eastover Aquifer, which is farther below the ground than the Columbia Aquifer.

Because the Yorktown Aquifer is deeper, it is the preferred source of drinking water and more slowly replenished by rainfall.

Furthermore, because the Eastern Shore is surrounded by the Chesapeake Bay and Atlantic Ocean, its aquifers are in danger of saltwater intrusion, particularly when the groundwater supply is depleted too quickly.

Public comments suggested that the farm's only sources of water for irrigation should be the Columbia Aquifer and runoff collected in irrigation ponds.

However, the permit applicant stated that water from wells in both the Columbia and Yorktown aquifers would be needed to supplement the irrigation ponds during dry spells.

Citizens also raised concern that the proposed withdrawals could negatively impact the wells of nearby residents.

DEQ maps show that the area of impact would extend more than 4.5 miles, reaching the towns of Exmore and Belle Haven, other areas of Northampton County such as Wellington Neck and Concord Wharf, and parts of Accomack County such as Craddockville, stated Ken Dufty, a resident of Wardtown who has studied DEQ documents related to the groundwater withdrawal permit.

The maps indicate where groundwater withdrawals could lead to saltwater intrusion and are normally made available when public notice is given of a pending groundwater withdrawal permit application.

Dufty was unable to obtain the Area of Impact maps until more than one month after the public comment period expired.

In a March 24 letter to Scott Kudlas, DEQ office of water supply director, Dufty wrote, "Indeed, if this family had known that our farm lies directly and affirmatively in the impact zone from the Kuzzens pending groundwater withdrawal permit, we not only would have requested a public hearing in this matter, we would have demanded that one be held ..."

Even more "alarming" than the area of impact was the projected level of impact. DEQ simulated how much the concentration of chloride in the Yorktown Aquifer would increase from withdrawing nearly 110 million gallons of water per year over a period of 50 years.

Dufty asserted that the result was a concentration of chloride that "far exceeds the (Virginia Department of Health) recommended concentrations of salt in drinking water ... up to 4 times that limit," he wrote.

If that information had been more readily available during the public comment period, many more requests for a public hearing likely would have been made, Dufty stated.

He criticized DEQ's handling of the Kuzzens farm groundwater withdrawal permit application as "reminiscent of the DEQ permitting failures and indeed calamity when your department failed to require groundwater withdrawal permits for the 50+ poultry facilities in Accomack County in the 2018 timeframe."

The March 22 DEQ memo stated that DEQ will modify the permit regarding the maximum water withdrawal and provide more specifics on using the Columbia Aquifer and the applicant's responsibility to manage the potential risks of saltwater intrusion.

A public hearing will be held if the applicant wishes to contest the revisions.

FEMA to Help Pay Funeral Costs for COVID-19-Related Deaths in Virginia

Submitted Article

Beginning April 12, the Federal Emergency Management Agency will begin accepting financial assistance applications for funeral expenses incurred after Jan. 20, 2020, for deaths related to COVID-19 disease to help ease some of the financial stress and burden caused by the pandemic. The applications will be submitted through a dedicated call center.

“We appreciate the partnership with FEMA as the Commonwealth of Virginia continues to assist its residents that have been financially impacted by the pandemic,” said Virginia Department of Emergency Management State Coordinator Curtis Brown. “These Funeral Assistance funds will help ease some of the financial burden incurred from a tragic COVID-19 death.”

To be eligible for COVID-19 funeral assistance, the policy states:

- The applicant must be a U.S. citizen, noncitizen national, or qualified alien who incurred funeral expenses after Jan. 20, 2020, for a death attributed to COVID-19.
- If multiple individuals contributed toward funeral expenses, they should apply under a single application as applicant and co-applicant. FEMA will also consider documentation from other individuals not listed as the applicant and co-applicant who may have incurred funeral expenses as part of the registration for the deceased individual.
- An applicant may apply for multiple deceased individuals.
- The COVID-19-related death must have occurred in the United States, including the U.S. territories and the District of Columbia.
- This assistance is limited to a maximum financial amount of $9,000 per funeral and a maximum of $35,500 per application.
- Funeral assistance is intended to assist with expenses for funeral services and interment or cremation.

The applicant responsible for COVID-19 funeral expenses will need to provide the following information when they call FEMA to register for

Application Call Center

Hours of Operation, Beginning April 12: Monday through Friday (9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Eastern Time)
COVID-19 Funeral Assistance Line Number: 844-684-6333 | TTY: 800-462-7585

assistance:

- Social Security number for the applicant and the deceased individual.
- Date of birth for the applicant and the deceased individual.
- Current mailing address for the applicant.
- Current telephone number for the applicant.
- Location or address where the deceased individual died.
- Information about burial or funeral insurance policies.
- Information about other funeral assistance received, such as donations.
- CARES Act grants and assistance from voluntary organizations.
- Routing and account number of the applicant’s checking or savings account (for direct deposit, if requesting direct deposit as your payment preference).

Individuals with COVID-19 funeral expenses are encouraged to keep and gather documentation. Types of information should include:

- An official death certificate that attributes the death directly or indirectly to COVID-19.
- Funeral expenses documents (receipts, funeral home contract, etc.)
- Proof of funds received from other sources specifically for use toward funeral costs are not eligible for reimbursement.

Anyone with inquiries directly related to obtaining a copy of a death certificate in Virginia or questions about how to request an amendment to a death certificate can call 877-829-4682.

Chincoteague Contemplates Uses for Latest Federal COVID-19 Funding

By Carol Vaughn

Resident and former council candidate Patricia Farley spoke during the public comment period at the Chincoteague Town Council meeting Monday about potential uses for federal funds coming to Chincoteague as result of the American Rescue Plan Act, which Congress approved in March.

"I have been so impressed with the way, not just this year but especially this year, council and Mr. Tolbert have handled the budget of this town, particularly in an amazingly difficult year. To juggle things around, to prioritize — I think it has been a tribute to all of you to make it all work and to end up pretty much balanced," Farley said, adding, "That being said, this big chunk of money that's coming to us ... The uses are pretty loose within the categories that are within the law."

Allowed uses appear to include helping "households, businesses, nonprofits — any entity in the town that has suffered because of COVID," she said, adding in her opinion that includes all the town's nonprofit organizations — including Chincoteague Island Community Cats, Manna Cafe, Chincoteague Volunteer Fire Company, Chincoteague Cultural Alliance, Chincoteague Island Arts Organization, the Museum of Chincoteague Island, the library and the chamber of commerce.

"None of these groups has been able to raise money — in some cases, no money — during the shutdown," Farley said. "These groups and the chamber are why we have the revenue that we have, bringing all the people in," she said, referring to Chincoteague's largely tourism-based economy.

"I hope you will listen to the people in the town who have invested in these groups, who have invested in this town — who care about this town and often feel that nobody is listening to them," Farley said.

Under the legislation's provisions, half the funds will be distributed to localities soon and the rest within a year.

Farley said she and many people who responded to a post on her Facebook page favor using some of the federal money to study providing central sewage service on the island.

She urged the council to solicit ideas from residents about how to use the funds.

Town Manager Mike Tolbert said later in the meeting there has been little guidance from the federal government yet about the money's use.

"ARPA was passed in the middle of March and the Secretary of the Treasury has 60 days in order to produce regulations regarding use of these funds. The best guidance I've had is, don't expect anything before that 60 days is up," he said.

Broad guidelines released so far indicate the money can be used for infrastructure projects such as broadband or sewer; to help nonprofits; to help essential workers; and to replace revenue localities lost due to the pandemic, among other potential uses.

The amount the town will receive is not yet clear — Tolbert has heard figures ranging from $2.06 million to $2.3 million to $500,000 or $600,000.

The town will have to submit a certification of need to receive the funds through the state, he said.

The money must be spent by the end of 2024.

Accomack County Supervisor Billy Joe Tarr Update

Accomack County Supervisor Billy Joe Tarr, who represents Chincoteague on the Board of Supervisors, said the county included in its 2022 budget another $50,000 toward the local match required for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to conduct a $3 million study about the Chincoteague Inlet.

The amount brings the total set aside by the county for the study to $200,000, he said.

"I hope it gets done," Tarr said, noting the study has been discussed for several years and funds also have been sought from the state. Chincoteague also agreed to contribute to the local match — half the study's cost — which must be provided before the study is undertaken.

The inlet at the south end of the island has changed dramatically over time, growing deeper and wider and resulting in erosion of wetlands that formerly protected that area of Chincoteague.

The town approached the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for help in 2016 and was told $3 million was needed for a study of the inlet, with $1.5 million of that being in the form of a local match.

Additionally, Accomack County included $25,000 in the 2022 budget for the Chincoteague Chamber of Commerce, Tarr said.

Tarr said the Board of Supervisors recently approved an ordinance, effective July 1, that requires boaters to pay a fee to use most county boat ramps.

The fees are $7 per day or $40 per year.

Boat owners who pay personal property taxes to the county on their boats will receive a free tag to display on their vehicle when parking at a county facility. People who pay real estate taxes but not personal property taxes on their boat to the county may contact the county treasurer's office to receive a free tag.

Queen Sound and one other facility are exempt from the fee because of an agreement with the state highway department.

Tarr also said information about American Rescue Plan funds coming to the county and to Chincoteague and other towns is still in flux.

"Every day you open it up, it's something new. ... Chincoteague's figure has changed a couple of times," he said, adding of allowed uses, "... We only have general guidance on it."

The town's allocation will come from the state, not from the county as it did under the federal CARES Act, Tarr said.

The county plans to hold a town hall-style meeting to receive public input on how to use the $6.2 million Accomack County is slated to receive, according to Tarr.

Town Manager Update

Town Manager Mike Tolbert updated the council on the filtration plant for Chincoteague's water supply.

The plant, built by NASA Wallops Flight Facility to remove chemicals called PFAS from the town's shallow wells, was completed and has been approved by the Virginia Department of Health, but Wallops notified the town last week that the plant's use will be delayed due to an upcoming change to Wallops' operations contractors.

No date was given for the start of operations at the plant.

Tolbert said work on Brianna's Kindness Park is progressing. A contractor will begin site work next week and playground equipment is slated to arrive as early as the first week in May. The park should be completed in October.

Tolbert has begun the application process to have the former Chincoteague firehouse placed on the Virginia Landmarks Registry and the National Register of Historic Places, a process that could take two years or more to complete.

Chincoteague's building and zoning department issued 82 building permits in March, a significant increase over the three-year average of 43 permits for March, Tolbert said.

"As building goes, so does the economy," he said, adding, "...The really good thing about that is several of them are commercial permits — people don't invest in their business if they don't expect an increase in business activity, so that says to me, I'm looking for a good summer."

Police Raise Funds for Brianna Kindness Park, Host Senior Luncheon

The Chincoteague Police Department raised $1,833 for the Brianna Kindness Park from a flag football tournament held Easter weekend, with additional money coming from hat sales.

The department also sponsored its annual senior luncheon on March 24, with 250 meals served via a drive-through, pick-up system or delivered to homebound seniors.

Former Firehouse Discussion
Councilman Gene Wayne Taylor

spoke about the idea of renting out parts of the former firehouse while the town's process of applying for historic landmark status proceeds. That process could take two years or more.

The council in October 2019 voted to buy the circa 1930 firehouse on Main Street for $600,000, with a plan to seek grants to restore it and possibly renovate the second floor for apartments.

The volunteer fire company moved into a new fire station earlier in 2019.

"I don't think any of us want to turn the ownership of that building over ... before then. ... I hate to see the building sit vacant," Taylor said.

Income from renting parts of the firehouse could help offset costs to maintain the building and perhaps serve as a test market for the proposed uses after it is renovated.

"It would be a good test market for what we're talking about," Taylor said, adding, "... I'd like to see it rented this year."

Consultants with Hill Studio and an Accomack-Northampton Planning District Commission employee last fall presented the council with options for repurposing the building for retail space on the first floor and apartments on the second floor.

The overall goal is to provide a use for the historic fire station and to allow people to go inside and experience its history, according to Grayson Williams of ANPDC.

"We want to make sure it's a long-term asset," he said at the Sept. 17, 2020, presentation.

A survey conducted last year, with 433 respondents, showed 40% of respondents would like to see a restaurant in the building's first floor; 25% favored mixed use of the space; 22% favored rentable space for events; 22% wanted a visitor center and gallery; and 12% favored storefronts.

Survey takers favored either housing that would be affordable for teachers and others in the workforce and/or office space on the second floor.

Thirty-two percent wanted to see the second floor used for apartments; 24% favored office space; 10% said secondary housing should be the use; 8% favored putting a hotel there; and 2% said it should be used for retail space.

A three-bay area, a two-bay area, and office space in the building could be rented in the meantime, while work continues to obtain historic landmark status and to plan for the renovations, according to Monday's council discussion.

The consensus was the council did not need to take a vote on the matter.

Cat TNR Event Scheduled

Julie Brommer, president of Chincoteague Island Community Cats, said during the public comment period the group is planning another Trap-Neuter-Release clinic this month, with feral cats being trapped from April 29 through May 1, after which they will be taken to a Pocomoke City, Md., veterinarian to be neutered or spayed and vaccinated. The cats will be returned and released to their outdoor homes on the island on May 2.

She asked residents to keep their pet cats indoors during trapping days to avoid them being accidentally trapped.

The group's goal is to trap 50 cats, mainly in the central part of the island, during the event.

OBITUARIES

Linda Dale Bailey

Mrs. Linda Dale Bailey, 79, of Saxis, wife of the late Lodie Bailey, passed away April 5, 2021, in Onancock.

Born April 24, 1941, in Crisfield, Md., she was the daughter of the late Lincoln Ward and the late Frances Cox Ward. Linda was a homemaker and loved to take care of and cook for her family and friends. She was the ultimate hostess and always enjoyed having her family with her. She also enjoyed swimming, the water, gardening, and taking care of her flowers.

Mrs. Bailey

Linda is survived by two sons, Bill Bailey (Melanie), of Saxis, and Bruce Bailey, of Saxis; two daughters, Terri Bailey Krobot (Stephen), of Shrewsbury, Pa., and Tricia Bailey Wallace (Shawn), of Onancock; eight grandchildren, Brooke Taylor, William Bailey, Raquell Bailey, Kaileigh Krobot, Kristen Krobot, Paige Krobot, Connor Wallace, and Liam Wallace; one great-grandchild, Kinsley Palmer; sisters, Clara Mancini, Phyllis Nelson, Lillian Morgan, Gwen Chapman, and Frances Williams.

Other than her husband, Lodie, Linda was preceded in death by a daughter, Beth Bailey; and four brothers, Sonny Ward, Tommy Ward, Gus Ward, and George Ward.

A memorial service will be held Saturday, April 10, at 2 p.m., from the Saxis United Methodist Church with the Rev. Jefferson officiating.

Should friends desire, memorial contributions may be made to the Saxis Volunteer Fire Department, P.O. Box 98, Saxis, VA 23427, or Saxis United Methodist Church, P.O. Box 94, Saxis, VA 23427.

Anita Bogsted Bilicki

Mrs. Anita Bogsted Bilicki, beloved wife, mother, sister, and grandmother, passed away Sunday, March 28, 2021. Born in New York City and raised in Jackson Heights, Queens, N.Y., she was the daughter of the late Carl Edward Bogsted and the late Marta Klaesson Bogsted.

Anita shared her life with her husband, Navy Capt. Daniel R. Bilicki, USN (Ret.) for 64 years. Together they raised three sons, Robert, Stephen, and Neal. She and Dan began their life together in Pensacola, Fla., where Dan trained to become a Naval aviator and officer. Florida was the first of many military relocations. Over the next 20 years, Anita and Dan lived in Rhode Island, California, New Jersey, Naples, Italy, Washington, D.C., and Virginia.

As the wife of a Naval pilot and officer, and mother of three young boys, Anita was extremely busy. Over the years she was very involved with the Navy Wives Club where she served as president, organized events, played bridge, and taught cooking to other wives. She was a compassionate person and became the director of the Head Start Program at St. Mary's Church in Norfolk, as well as a volunteer in the church helping to place Vietnam refugees into society.

Anita was devoted to her sons as well. She volunteered as a camp counselor and was the swimming director at Camp Yawoca in North Kingston, R.I. She believed in the art of home-making and taught her sons how to sew, cook, clean, and even to iron!

As her sons got older, Anita pursued her interests in cooking, painting, and real estate. Anita became a licensed real estate agent for Coldwell Banker in Alexandria, Va., and later earned her degree in culinary arts from the Baltimore Culinary Institute. While working as a sous chef for the Omni Hotel in Baltimore, she decided to return to school and earned an additional degree in hotel management from the University of Maryland Eastern Shore in Princess Anne, Md.

In the 1980s, she and Dan purchased a small house and a commercial building in Wachapreague. There, she created Deli by the Sea and started a cooking school and catering business. As time went on, Anita pursued other passions. She loved gardening and became a member of the Eastern Shore of Virginia Master Gardeners. As a talented painter, she painted alongside many of ESVA's local artists and opened the Current Reflections Art Gallery in Wachapreague with her son, Robert, and daughter-in-law, Judy. In her spare time, Anita enjoyed swimming, fishing, the beach, and all the Eastern Shore's popular activities.

Her love for Wachapreague and the Eastern Shore has carried onto her children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren. Her talents, generosity, and compassion will be greatly missed, by not only her family, but by all of those with whom she shared her life.

The family will gather privately to celebrate Anita's life. Those who wish to honor her memory may do so by sending a donation in her name to the Wachapreague Volunteer Fire Company, P.O. Box 390, Wachapreague, VA 23480.

Memory tributes may be shared with the family at www.williamsfuneralhomes.com and the Italian Alps. R.L. was able to attend the Italian Alpini Airborne school, conducted in the Italian Alps, Alpi di Susi, Seiser Alm, earning him the right to display the Italian Jump Wings.

R.L. served on the Expert Infantryman's Badge EIB Committee providing guidance and training for those wanting to earn the EIB award. His next assignment was a battalion – one entire battalion transferred back to the states as an entire unit. He immediately conducted field training in Panama, Arkansas, and Florida. Upon his completion of full duty, he was assigned to the 80th Training Battalion located at Fort Story, Va., where he earned the Drill Instructor Certification.

R.L. was hired by the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel as an emergency crew worker and then was promoted to the rank of police officer. He attended the Chesapeake Police basic training academy class 29. Throughout his years of service, R.L. was promoted from officer, master police officer, corporal, sergeant, and lieutenant.

During his 33 years of dedicated service, he attended several courses including the Department of Criminal Justice Services "DCJS" General Instructor, Firearms Instructor, DWI Instructor, Rifle Instructor, and Gang Instructor.

R.L. was a member of the Virginia Gang Investigators Association, Troy Ashe Pistol Tournament Committee, National Tactical Officers Association, Fraternal Order of Police, and Virginia Special Olympics.

R.L. was a man of honor, integrity, and respect. He loved his family and friends with a passion like no other. He enjoyed the camaraderie with his law enforcement and military families. He will truly be missed.

R.L.'s memorial service was held Tuesday, April 6, 2021, at Parr Funeral Home & Crematory with Pastor Charlie Peterson officiating. Committal and inurnment was Thursday, April 8, 2021, at Albert G. Horton Jr. Memorial Veterans Cemetery. In lieu of flowers, please donate to the 82nd Airborne Division Association Inc. Post condolences on www.parrfuneralhome.com

Ginger Eckard-Albrecht

Mrs. Ginger Lee Eckard-Albrecht, a resident of Onancock, passed away March 29, 2021, at her home.

Ginger was born Jan. 21, 1959, in Lower Merion Township, Pa., and grew up in Cinnaminson, N.J. She later moved to Virginia with her husband and daughters in 2002.

Ginger was the daughter of Jeanette Eckard Raine, of New Jersey, and the late Richard Lee Eckard.

She was predeceased by her daughter, Kristina Jeanette "Tini" Albrecht, who passed away four years ago unexpectedly; her grandmothers she adored, Helen Morgenstern-Mathieu, who she called "Nan," and Elizabeth Eckard, who she called "Nana Eckard."

She is survived by her husband of 34 years, Rainer Albrecht; a daughter, Lora Lee Elizabeth Albrecht-Stratton, who she called "Sissy" or her "twin," of Cape Charles; a son-in-law, Dejohn Stratton, who she referred to as "Dee"; her grandsons, James Ernest Logan Jr., known as "Jamie" or as she would call him, "Man," and Hayden Eckard; a son, Donald Eckard, of Seattle, Wash.; two brothers, Dan Eckard (Traci) and Richard Eckard (Sharon); a sister, Susan Eckard; and many nieces and nephews.

Ginger enjoyed being with her family, her daughters, and her cat, Fritz, who she adored. Her fondest memories were when her daughters were little and when she was working at restaurants as a waitress/bartender, such as The Milmarian Restaurant in New Jersey, The Trawler Restaurant and The Moose Lodge in Virginia, and a few more.

Ginger enjoyed meeting new people and having fun at work with her coworkers. She was a very caring person who always had her family and friends backs and would do anything for anyone.

She loved to sing karaoke to her favorite songs, and she loved to dance. She loved all music but especially Frank Sinatra, The Rolling Stones, rock and roll, and old soul music.

Mrs. Eckard-Albrecht

Ginger was also an animal lover and loved all animals, especially cats.

Although Ginger was faced with many obstacles and challenges in life, she was a strong woman who never gave up.

Ginger Albrecht was one of a kind and will be greatly missed. She is now in heaven with her oldest daughter Kristina, "Tini," whom she dearly missed.

Jane Timberlake Helwig

Dr. Jane Timberlake Helwig, 73, of Charlotte, N.C., died Monday, March 29, 2021, of pancreatic cancer in Charlotte. She was born Aug. 27, 1947, in Charlottesville, Va., daughter of the late Margaret Mish Timberlake and the late Stephen Davis Timberlake IV, of Staunton, Va. She is survived by her cherished family: husband of 45 years, Richard A. Helwig, of Charlotte; brother, Stephen Davis Timberlake V, of Monterey, Va.; daughters, Mariana Minton Harriss (Daryl Weathersbee), of Nashville, N.C., and Caroline Helwig Dudley (Daniel), of Charlotte; sons, Mark Richard Helwig (Linda), of Raleigh, N.C., David Wilson Helwig (Andrew Odom), of Durham, N.C., Christopher Mason Helwig (Mary), of Alpharetta, Ga., and Capt. Adam Anderson Helwig, USMC, (Kate Zarzar), of Wilmington, N.C.; granddaughters, Kristine Ellen Helwig, of Apex, N.C.,

and Grayson Sophia Dudley, of Charlotte; grandsons, Jeffrey Wayne Horton, of Chapel Hill, N.C., Harrison Mark Helwig, of Apex, Robert William Harriss of Boston, Davis Benjamin Dudley, William Andrews Dudley, and Augustus John Dudley, all of Charlotte, and Luke Mason Helwig, of Alpharetta.

Jane graduated from Stuart Hall in Staunton, and received a B.S. in chemistry from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1970. She programmed mainframe computers in Richmond, then returned to Chapel Hill and worked for UNC-CH helping computer users. She was a co-founder of SAS Institute Inc., of Cary, N.C., leaving that company in 1981. With her husband she then co-founded a computer consulting firm so they could work from home while the younger children were small.

In 1988 Jane began medical school at UNC-CH, receiving her M.D. with honors in 1992. The family moved to San Francisco for Jane's residency at University of California, San Francisco, in obstetrics and gynecology.

OBITUARIES

She spent the next 19 years practicing on the Eastern Shore of Virginia and in Lancaster, S.C. Her favorite job of all was after retirement, as nanny for grandtwins Will and Gus.

Jane loved music of all kinds and sang in the choir at Christ Church in Lancaster, S.C. She was happiest outdoors in all weathers and hiked 300 miles of the Appalachian Trail solo. Reading, knitting, and eating (and thus cooking) were daily satisfactions. Her greatest pleasure was her family, especially at the beach.

A memorial celebration is planned when it will be safe. Jane's ashes will be buried in Thornrose Cemetery, Staunton.

In lieu of flowers, contributions in Jane's name may be made to Wounded Warriors Project; Loaves & Fishes of Mecklenburg County; or Doctors without Borders.

Claudia Mae Lambert

Mrs. Claudia Mae Lambert, 74, wife for 51 years to Robert C. Lambert and a resident of Quinby, passed away Saturday, April 3, 2021, peacefully at her home. Born in Johnstown, Pa., she was the daughter of the late Claude Nitch and the late Roselee Koch Nitch. A member of Smith Chapel United Methodist Church, Claudia was a retired school teacher.

Saxis Watermen Object to ‘Nitpicky’ Enforcement of Harbor Regulations

By Connie Morrison

The Saxis Town Council meeting, held in the firehouse April 5, was filled to overflowing with watermen and their family members who came to protest what they see as overzealous enforcement of the town’s harbor ordinance.

Mayor Denise Drewer had been filling the role of harbor master, but when the town hired Harbormaster Hance Martin in February, things began to get tense.

Martin is a lifetime Saxis resident, 66 years old, and a former waterman. “My father was the one who put the harbor there when he was mayor,” he said.

Enforcing rules where they haven’t been enforced can be a difficult job.

“We’ve been doing the same thing since 2015,” said Drewer, referring to the ordinance governing the use of the harbor. “What’s changed is the people violating it. That’s why I had to get out of it.”

Waterman Donnie Porter offered to be the spokesman for the watermen. His main concern was with the three-day limit for leaving gear in the parking area behind their boats. For example, crab pots are rinsed and left out in the sun a few days to “kill the foul,” but weather might interfere with their return to the water. Porter said his options are to load them onto a trailer and take them home for a day or two until the weather improves or put them on the boat, drive them around a bit, then put them back on the dock. “It’s a lot of work for nothing,” he said.

In the past, the gear has been tolerated for longer than three days. Porter said the stepped-up enforcement is “kind of nitpicky. It’s a watermen’s town.”

Drewer says the harbor use is 61% waterman.

Whereas past transgressions might have been overlooked, the new harbor master is keen to uphold the letter of the law.

Martin did not attend Monday’s meeting but was interviewed by a reporter afterward.

“The town hired me to enforce the regulations,” said Martin. “I think Denise finally wanted to get it cleaned up. I can’t do anything about the laws and regulations.”

There is a loophole in the regulations that allows the mayor or harbor master to waive the three-day limit for gear storage. “That’s the key,” said Drewer, but when Porter asked her for the waiver, she urged him to work with Martin. “We didn’t hire him for me to still do the job,” she said.

Martin said he has issued two citations, and both were after multiple conversations with the offenders to try to bring them into compliance.

At the meeting, there was general agreement that a few people were causing most of the problems.

“We’re all guilty of mistreating the harbor,” said Porter, “but there’s a handful that really mistreat it and make it look bad.”

A compromise emerged from the discussions: a trial period which would last until July 5. Watermen will be able to store gear associated with the current season. The watermen will keep an eye out for bad actors and encourage them to clean up and will work with the harbormaster.

Council member Donna Croushore reminded everyone it was the first council meeting since the new harbor master was hired. “No rules were changed. They’re being enforced,” she said. “Bringing it up gives us a chance to bring it up with him. ... Everything can be tweaked.”

Saxis resident Denise Chance found the time leading up to the meeting distressing, setting neighbor against neighbor and family members taking sides against one another.

“This is a dying breed of people,” said Chance. “I’m glad to hear everyone is going to try to make concessions.”

Martin said Drewer apprised him of the trial period, but when asked, said none of the watermen had followed up with him.

Martin said he had two goals when he was hired: “Get harbor clean and not ... cost anyone any money to do it.”

“I’m a former waterman,” he said. “I’ll bend over backwards to help them.”

Accomack County Circuit Court

Brooks Mariner Sr., of Hallwood, will spend 18 months in jail for the third or subsequent offense of assault and battery of his wife and for the violation of his probation for a conviction of the same offense along with a drug charge in February 2020.

On Sept. 4, 2020, Mariner and his wife went to Matthews Market in Mappsville about 10 a.m. He asked her to buy beer for him. She came from the store without the beer and Mariner became irate, said Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney William Fox. They left and drove to another location. Fox said Mariner continued to yell and berate his wife.

He poked a finger into her face and demanded she give him the money for the beer. He exited the vehicle, picked up a hammer, and began swinging it at her.

"He said her was going to bust her (expletive) skull," Fox said.

He also said that Mariner threatened to use the hammer to break out the windows of a nearby home. When this assault occurred, Mariner was on probation for attacking his wife and holding a metal pipe to her neck. Fox said Mariner has "previous multiple convictions" but said his wife does not want a protective order of no contact issued against him.

Defense attorney Carl Bundick said Mariner and his wife plan to reconcile when he is released from jail.

and have tested positive for cocaine and now you have a new conviction,” said Judge W. Revell Lewis III. He called it “a violent situation” and sentenced Mariner to five years and suspended four years, three months. For violation of his probation, Lewis sentenced him to two years, nine months and suspended two years. Mariner will serve 18 months of active jail time and continue on indefinite supervised probation.

Deanna Rochelle Sebastian, 36, of Exmore, will spend 20 days in jail for shoplifting, third or subsequent offense.

In June 2019 Sebastian went to Walmart. She filled her shopping cart and left the store without paying. Her crime was discovered by the store’s asset protection staff. She went into the store again in August, filled her cart with groceries, went to the toy department, and put the items in Walmart bags. This time, she was seen on the surveillance video and stopped before leaving the store.

“She brought a money order today for the restitution,” said defense attorney Sharri Mapp-Jones.

Judge Lewis sentenced her to two years and suspended all but 20 days. He ordered her to be on unsupervised probation and to be on good behavior for five years. She will be permitted to serve her time on weekends.

Mitchell Thomas Crosby, 56, of New Church, pleaded guilty to possession of cocaine. In November 2019, Crosby was spotted by police as he was weaving in and out of his lane on U.S. Route 13.

An officer who attempted to pull him over saw the defendant put his hand out of the window and throw something over the roof of his car. Crosby denied it when stopped. When the officer found the item, it was a crack pipe. A lab test revealed it had cocaine residue.

Judge Lewis ordered a presentence report and set his sentencing for Aug. 5.

Aging, Isolation and Depression

The precautions that came with the COVID-19 pandemic left many of us feeling the side effects of isolation. As our loved ones get older, they are more likely to live alone or spend more of their time alone even after COVID-19 mandates are lifted. This isolation often causes loneliness and depression.

If you have a loved one who may be feeling lonely, this presentation will share ideas on how you can help them feel connected.

Join us for this free presentation on the effects of loneliness, and solutions that can improve your loved one’s quality of life.

Fishing from the Shore

By Bill Hall

What a difference a year makes. Last year, the first fishing report of the season dealt with the uncertainty of the survival of angling-related businesses and the precautionary approach that tackle shop and charter boat operators were taking to protect their employees and customers against the escalating COVID-19 disease.

This year, there seems to be a large amount of optimism and anticipation associated with the start of the fishing season. Yes, face coverings are still the norm and vaccine recipient numbers are climbing, but there is a much more positive vibe and attitude among the business operators and anglers so far this early season. Hopefully, angling successes will boost spirits even more.

So without any more reminiscing and philosophizing, let's get to the fishing.

Upper Shore – Captain Matt Abell, at the Sea Hawk Sports Center, reports that black drum fishing has garnered the attention of many customers. Black drum catches have come from the Chesapeake Bay as far north as Deal Island, Md., according to Abell. The most consistent bite has come from the seaside on a smaller class of fish, particularly in the Assateague Island surf. Abell said that flounder fishing has improved with the warming water temperatures. Typical catches are up to four fish per trip this week, compared to just one or two fish last week. Again, the waters around Chincoteague have provided some of the most consistent flounder catches of the early season.

Freshwater catches are also starting to heat up as perch have moved up into the northern Pocomoke River, above the Shad Landing area, where rockfish have become a common bycatch. Speaking of shad, they have arrived in good numbers and anglers targeting the fish in the Porter's Crossing area have enjoyed success using shad darts. Blue catfish, measuring up to 30 inches are also being taken in the Pocomoke River.

Chincoteague – Jimmy Vasiliou, at Captain Steve's Bait & Tackle, reports that the shop has weighed black drum up to 32 pounds from the Assateague surf, with most fish weighing in the 15-30 pound range. Successful black drum baits have included peeler crab, clam, and sand fleas, tipped with orange Fish Bites. Flounder fishing in the back bay is starting to become a little more consistent, as Captain Tim had a recent trip which produced three nice keepers. Steve said that small rockfish remain inside the inlet as well as just off the beach. Captain Steve's will be hosting its annual flounder tournament April 30 to May 9, with over $2,500 in cash and prizes awarded to the top nine fish, including a grand prize of $1,000 for the largest flounder.

Donna Rae Roeske, at Captain Bob's Marina, reported that the flounder bite started out "a little slow," which was expected with the cooler weather. Flounder measuring in the 20- to 22-inch range are being landed in the shallows by anglers using Berkley Gulp and live minnow combinations. Roeske said that the surf is producing a few black drum and rockfish, but the rockfish season remains closed until May 31. The deeper water of Chincoteague Channel is also holding a few striped bass, according to Roeske.

Wachapreague – Amanda Manzella, at the Wachapreague Inn, reported that the Inn is booked with anglers for the weekend and expects the flounder season to kick off with a bang. Likewise, Debbie Shrieves, at Trident Tackle, said that she expects to open the tackle shop this weekend. The shop's annual flounder tournament is scheduled for April 23 to May 2.

Lower Shore – Jeb Brady, of Bailey's Bait and Tackle in Cape Charles, reports that wreck fishermen have had recent success on tautog. He said that commercial fishermen are catching black drum in the lower bay, but he had not heard of any recreational catches yet. He expects that to change as early as this week, both on the seaside and in the bay. A few puppy drum have been landed in the bayside creeks, some measuring in the legal slot limit. Jeb said that he believes that a portion of the small red drum population never migrated over the winter as catches have been recorded as early as January of this year!

The Northampton Yellow Jackets Run Out Season

4/2/21

Warriors 46

Yellow Jackets 41

By Brennan Waldorf

The Northampton Yellow Jackets faced off against the Northumberland Warriors in the first round of the Division I, Region A playoffs last Friday, April 2, at Hamilton Field. The Warriors entered the game with only two games under their belt. Both were close losses, and they hadn't played since March 12. A game that was expected to be close got out of hand in the first half as the Jackets committed several costly turnovers.

Northampton stayed true to its identity with a run-first attitude. The team ran the ball up the middle to move the chains while also gashing the Warriors' defense for large chunks of yardage at times in the first. The Jackets' offense was able to advance the ball deep into Warrior territory but was unable to cap off drives as ball security became an issue early in the game.

Northampton's defense recorded back-to-back punts before letting up a score at the end of the first quarter. The Warriors' Denzell Palmer dropped back in the pocket and hit speedster Levar Churchill over the middle for the first score of the game. Churchill had just one step on his defender but was able to secure the catch and burn the secondary for a 58-yard catch and run to end the half with the Warriors up 6-0.

The Jackets were marred by turnovers in the second quarter as the offensive unit dropped the ball four times and allowed one interception, which was picked off after hitting the fingertips of a Jacket receiver. The defense was able to keep the Warriors at bay for the most part, allowing Northumberland to convert only two of the turnovers for scores. The errors affected the game drastically because of where and when they occurred; more often than not the Jackets lost the ball within good scoring distance, giving the Warriors the advantage as they finished the half up big, 26-0.

The Jackets didn't sulk or put their heads down coming out of halftime. Instead they went to work. They forced a punt and were first to put points on the board in the third quarter when Liam Dustin Splawn uses a stiff arm to secure a first down in the first quarter. Photo by Brennan Waldorf.

Flynn ran a 4-yard quarterback keep into the end zone with five minutes, 10 seconds remaining. The Jackets missed the extra point and let up another touchdown on defense when Levar Churchill took his carry 37 yards for a score.

Northampton's Dustin Splawn responded with a 60-yard touchdown run of his own. After a broken tackle at the first level the junior was off to the races, scoring the Jackets' last touchdown of the game. Northampton let up two more touchdowns in the half and was out scored 20-12, falling to the Warriors 46-12 ultimately ending their season.

Temperanceville Native Competes in Two Collegiate Sports at Once

By Matthew Yoder

Randolph College senior and Temperanceville native, Meghan Chaffins, seized the opportunity she feared had vanquished this time last year, competing again for her school, and recently even completed an impressive achievement of two sports on the same day.

Chaffins, a two-sport athlete for the Wildcats, had been accustomed to a fall volleyball season, followed by track in the spring, but a remotely conducted fall semester pushed the sports into an overlap.

Never one to shy away from the spirit of competition, Chaffins jumped into her car the morning of March 27 and drove to the Dr. Jack M. Toms Alumni Invitational across town in Lynchburg, Va., to compete in both the high jump and long jump. Her determination was rewarded with impressive results. Chaffins cleared a new season best of 4'11.75" in the high jump and topped the 16-foot mark on the long jump, another season's best. Chaffins had been stuck at the 15-foot mark for her sophomore year, which was the last time an outdoor track season had been held at Randolph, so the advancement was an important benchmark to exceed.

"I'm right where I want to be," said Chaffins.

With that success chalked up, Chaf-fins got back into her car and drove on campus to join her Wildcats on the volleyball court against Washington and Lee. It was the second match of the day for the Wildcats, so Chaffins, the consummate teammate, was not going to miss the chance to make the most of her senior season. Despite dropping the match to the Generals, Chaffins still spoke encouragingly of a team adjusting to an abbreviated approach this season.

"We are playing really well. It's just not really reflecting how we want," Chaffins said.

Season practices in January were quickly halted by COVID-19-positive test results and quarantines. The stop-and-start effect can stifle cohesion, and as the team transitioned to games, they have had to adjust to protocols that space teammates from one another on the bench. In addition, spectators have been largely nonexistent at games.

So on the day Chaffins competed in dual commitments for her college, nearly no one was there to witness. Chaffins father, William, was permitted to sit in the stands for his daughter's volleyball match exclusively on senior day and livestreamed the action, but spoke about the loss of tangibly experiencing the events. "I didn't realize just exactly how much we missed it until we were able to attend the volleyball game,” said the senior Chaffins.

For Meghan that loss is felt, as volleyball is a high energy participatory experience. The players on the court are but one part of that equation. “Every volleyball match, our bench can’t stand together close like we normally would. It makes it harder to cheer for your teammates when you’re all spaced out. It makes it hard to be really loud as a unit but we work through it,” said Chaffins.

Working through things is something that just comes naturally to Chaffins. Her will to compete will not be impeded, and as her proud father pointed out, her drive has always been one of her strengths. “Whether it was school, sports, or any other activity, she always wanted to do it to the best of her ability at all times. She was so driven internally to always be her best,” her father said.

That innate ability to self-inspire has led Chaffins to pursuing a fifth year at Randolph. She was recently accepted to the masters of arts in coaching and sports leadership on campus. The program will help her use her fifth year of eligibility for the track team, and more importantly, academically will offer a different skillset to lead her in the direction of a career in coaching. “I want to be a track coach. It’s been on my mind three or four years now. I’m really excited to dive into the program and learn everything I can about coaching,” said Chaffins.

There will be classes touching on the psychology of coaching, but what excites Chaffins most are the learning practicums every seven weeks, hands-on shadowing experiences to fully engage all aspects of what it takes to be a coach. “I think this program is going to give me all the tools I need to succeed as a coach,” said Chaffins.

The intangibles of coaching play heavily to the success of a coach, and Chaffins believes her experience as an athlete at the collegiate level will assist her in her progression to the goal of competitive instruction. “I feel like I know how to cater to athletes, know when they’re tired, know what they are going through, and be able to talk to them in and out of sport,” said Chaffins.

That nurturing quality, a passion for the sport of track, and the drive for excellence in all she does is plainly evident to a father who has witnessed her growth every step of the way.

“She cares about doing things the right way, about winning, but most importantly about the team and her teammates. She has the ability to focus on the big picture, knowing that staying in the moment is critical but there is a bigger picture in the future to always strive for, to continuously keep improving,” her father said.

Chaffins will complete her undergraduate degree in May and have only a month before building on that bigger picture in pursuit of her dream.

Northampton Sheriff’s Office taking back unwanted prescription drugs

April 24, 2021

at 5211 The Hornes Eastville, Va. 23347

Eastville, Va. – On Saturday, April 24, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. the Northampton Sheriff’s Office and the Drug Enforcement Administration will give the public its 20th opportunity in 10 years to prevent pill abuse and theft by ridding their homes of potentially dangerous expired, unused, and unwanted prescription drugs. Bring your pills for disposal to Northampton Sheriff’s Office at 5211 The Hornes Eastville, Va. (The DEA cannot accept liquids or needles or sharps, only pills or patches.) The service is free and anonymous, no questions asked.

Last fall, Americans turned in nearly 883,000 pounds of prescription drugs at nearly 6,300 sites operated by the DEA and almost 5,000 of its state and local law enforcement partners. DEA, along with its law enforcement partners, has now collected nearly 6,350 tons of expired, unused, and unwanted prescription medications since the inception of the National Prescription Drug Take Back Initiative in 2010.

To keep everyone safe, collection sites will follow local COVID-19 guidelines and regulations.

This initiative addresses a vital public safety and public health issue. Medicines that languish in home cabinets are highly susceptible to diversion, misuse, and abuse. Rates of prescription drug abuse in the U.S. are alarmingly high, as are the number of accidental poisonings and overdoses due to these drugs. Studies show that a majority of abused prescription drugs are obtained from family and friends, including from the home medicine cabinet. In addition, Americans are now advised that their usual methods for disposing of unused medicines—flushing them down the toilet or throwing them in the trash—both pose potential safety and health hazards.

In addition to DEA’s National Prescription Drug Take Back Day, there are many other ways to dispose of unwanted prescription drugs every day, including the 11,000 authorized collectors that are available all year long. For more information, visit DEA’s year-round collection site locator.

For more information about the disposal of prescription drugs or about the April 24 Take Back Day event, go to the DEA Diversion website or contact Major Mike Smith with Northampton Sheriff’s Office at 757-678-0458.

Osprey-Eyed Reader Contest: A Sterling Chance to Shine

Last Week's Contest: Claim a Fake, Get No Cake

We thought — wrongly, as it turned out — that readers would be tricked by the disqualifying egg clues. You weren't. Sixty-six certified contestants found the four egg-holding bunnies on pages 15, 21, 35, and 42. Annette Brown, of Eastville, was randomly selected to win her choice of a Becca's Smith Island cake.

This Week's Contest:

Find Books, Win a Bracelet

We have placed this clue:  in six places in this issue of the Post. Readers who locate all six books will become contestants and, from that pool, one lucky osprey-eyed reader will be randomly selected to win the C.D. Marsh Jewelers Beyond Books bracelet. See sponsor box on this page.

The rules:

- To become a contestant, find the six books and tell us where you found them (page number and location on the page). Send this information to david@eastern-shorepost.com.

- You can start sending your entries now. Entries MUST have your first and last names and your town.
- Entries will be accepted until noon on Monday, April 12. Entries arriving after noon on the 12th will not be entered in the contest.
- Do not submit multiple entries.
- Include a photograph if you choose to submit one and tell us a little something about the picture.
- Anyone submitting a photograph must have taken the picture or have permission to use it.
- The winner and as many runners-up as possible will get their photographs in the paper.
- If you don't want to use your own picture, you can submit a photo of your child or a pet — or a favorite bracelet, a picturesque wavelet, or even a microscopic platelet. Just no feet.

Last Week's Winner

Annette Brown, of Eastville, was among the 66 osprey-eyed readers who were not fooled by the trick egg clues last week. She was randomly chosen to win her choice of a Becca's Smith Island cake. Standing in for Brown is her "baby," known formally as Carolina's Queen Elizabeth. When it's just family, you may refer to the queen as Lizzie.

Random Facts About ... Declining Birth Rates and Other Alarming Headlines

By David Martin

When we opened our internet tubes for cleaning this week, we did not have to be quiet worrying about waking a baby. Why? Babies are becoming scarce.

The population replacement rate is 2.1 children per woman, but in 2019 in the U.S. the number of babies each woman was expected to have in her lifetime was 1.705 — the lowest fertility rate on record. According to a report published last summer by Focus on Reproduction, most of the countries analyzed worldwide (195 of them) will not be able to maintain their populations by the end of this century because of falling fertility rates. Global population will continue to rise from the current 4.6 billion to an estimated 5.3 billion by the middle of the century — and then go into decline.

The reasons for the falling fertility rate include more efficient and more widespread birth control measures, more women becoming better educated (women with higher education levels tend to have fewer children), and the decision more women are making to delay childbirth as women pursue career and education goals. Housing also plays a role. In the U.S., as the cost of a starter home or family-size apartment stays out of reach for a young couple, that couple will tend to delay having children. The Journal of Public Economics estimated that when housing costs jump $10,000, fertility rates for nonowners drop 2.4%. The birthrate among teenagers has also dropped. In 2008, 41.5 children were born to 1,000 teen girls; ten years later, that rate dropped to 17.4 children per 1,000 teens.

You might think the pandemic would contribute to a mini-baby-boom. You're isolated at home, you're tired of watching television, what else is there to do? But current estimates show this past year's COVID-19 pandemic and the accompany shutdowns and quarantines have resulted in as many as a half a million fewer babies being born than would've been otherwise expected without the pandemic. Apparently, couples who would've met and had babies didn't do either and couples who were already together decided that having a child during a pandemic wasn't a good idea.

Although lower fertility rates and eventual population declines should have positive effects on the environment and on finite resources such as food and energy, these lower population numbers also mean fewer younger people to support an aging world population and the looming possibility of permanent recession. And, of course, if the numbers keep going down, maybe eventually there won't be any more people —there's a headline for you.

But wait: 50 years ago, the biggest headline regarding population was that the world was being overrun with people and that this overcrowding would cause world wars and the eventual destruction of entire countries. The population bomb, as it was called, would result in massive starvation of hundreds of millions of people, including those in Western countries. A leading Jeremiah of the population bomb hysteria was Paul Ehrlich, a Stanford University professor, who sold millions of books with predictions such as 65 million Americans starving to death and countries like England and India no longer existing by the year 2000. The effort to feed the world's growing population was already lost 50 years ago, according to Ehrlich.

It was accepted science: the world's population would continue growing — it was unstoppable — leading to global destruction. It was going to happen ... until it didn't happen. Another disaster predicted 50 years ago was the coming new ice age. Random House published a book about it, Newsweek had the topic on the cover, and the New York Times reported in August of 1976 that there were "many signs that Earth may be headed for another ice age."

The point is NOT that science is wrong. The point is that science changes. In the '70s, with some climate scientists seeing a cooling Earth and a new ice age, other climate scientists were already predicting global warming, which is now the consensus. And while Ehrlich and others were shouting about humans being unable to feed the burgeoning population, some of those humans were working on a Green Revolution that would come up with new types of crops sufficient to feed the multitudes.

Another point might be: Don't buy into catastrophe hype. It makes for compelling headlines and earns internet clicks but usually doesn't tell the whole story.

And a final point? Don't bet against babies. They're cute.

New Barrier Islands Center Director Ready To Expand Learning

By Connie Morrison

If home is where the heart is, then the Barrier Islands Center in Machipongo could be considered home to the entire Eastern Shore.

With a mission "to preserve and perpetuate the unique culture and history of Virginia's barrier islands," the center provides exhibits and experiences that connect residents and visitors to the area's island heritage. Some history has been lost forever when islands were devastated by storms or worn away by the unrelenting ocean; other parts are recognizable, even integral, to Eastern Shore life.

Newly appointed Executive Director Sally Dickinson has a 16-year history with the museum, joining the staff in 2005 as its director of education.

"I didn't come from a museum background," she said in a recent interview with the Post. She was a public school elementary teacher before leaving that job to be at home with her young children.

When the position at the Barrier Islands Center came along, "I was intrigued because I was still very much interested in education, but it was a slightly different path than being in a classroom setting," she said. "It was a mission and an organization and a beautiful farm that I could sort of wrap my arms around."

The Barrier Islands Center was still new and executive director Laura Vaughan encouraged the staff "to do it our way, see what we're passionate about, where our compass is, and just follow that route." Dickinson credits the organization's board of directors with being "unfailingly supportive."

Dickinson harnessed her passion for teaching elementary students to create the "My First Field Trip" program. Since its inception in 2011, it has grown to include almost 500 children who visit the center four times during the school year. Participants learn history, culture, art, and music along with reinforcement of basic manners.

The museum has paused field trips since last year when it temporarily closed because of the pandemic. "I can't wait to get our 4- and 5-year-olds coming back up that front walk. ... We miss the sound of little voices," Dickinson said.

The previous year, 2019, the museum welcomed 15,000 adults and children and countless others through its six documentary films that aired on PBS and through its four books for children. The books and documentaries provide opportunities for both outreach and in-house education.

An example Dickinson points to is the documentary completed last fall, "Gathering," a film about the significance of togetherness "from the exuberant noise of a fireman's carnival to the intimate musical camaraderie of a country jam session," according to a description on the center's website.

The film premieres on WHRO Sunday, April 18, and will air on Maryland public television April 21.

"Not only can people see it when they come to the Barrier Islands Center, but now it really opens it up to a lot more folks that can learn about this beautiful coastal history that we have here," Dickinson said.

She hopes the center is a place "where everyone is seen as welcome" because it "really is an organization for the community," with educational possibilities not only for the youngest field trip participants but also for adults through its hands-on classes, lectures, and documentaries.

Like so many people and organizations, the Barrier Islands Center had to "pivot pretty quickly. We shut the door and locked the gate on ... Friday, March 13. There was that unknown of what's going to happen going forward," Dickinson said.

Without the ability to have a full house for a Friday morning lecture, the center began looking for other ways to deliver content, and "Conversations in the Kitchen" was born.

"We outfitted it with Go-Pro cameras and learned how to record speakers in a virtual setting, or different conversations and interviews with local people, whether it be a musician, a scientist a farmer, a local chef, a cook, and get those takes," said Dickinson.

The series is moderated by Bernie Herman, a professor at the University of North Carolina who also owns a home on the Eastern Shore of Virginia.

As for former Executive Director Vaughan, she is taking on a different a different role. "She wanted to step back, but 'didn't want to get off the bus,' as she would say," said Dickinson. Vaughan will be turning her attention toward fundraising and philanthropic endeavors on behalf of the Barrier Island Center.

ACCOMACK COUNTY MINORITY-OWNED AND FEMALE-OWNED BUSINESS NOTICE

Accomack County is preparing to carry out the Makemie Park Septic Reconstruction Project through the use of Virginia Community Development Block Grant Funds.
In the implementation of this project the following kinds of contracts will be issued and procurements made:

1. Procure Engineer and AOSE to design a master plan to reduce the load on the community facility, and repair the current community system and identify the eight households that will receive alternative onsite sewer systems;
2. Procure the Septic company that would be able to deliver all required tasks;

Accomack County is soliciting the participation of minority-owned and female-owned businesses, contractors and suppliers in carrying out this project. Such businesses may be included on appropriate bid and procurement lists by submitting a written request within ten (10) days of this notice. Requests should state the name, address, product or service, and how the firm qualifies as a minority or female owned business concern.

Such requests should be addressed to:
Grayson Williams, Project Manager
Accomack-Northampton Planning District Commission
PO BOX 417, Accomack, Virginia 23301
757-787-2936 Virginia Relay: 711

All above referenced procurements will be made on a competitive basis.

MAKEMIE PARK SEPTIC IMPROVEMENT PROJECT - SECOND PUBLIC HEARING

Accomack County will hold a public hearing on April 21, 2021 at (6:30 PM) at Metompkin Elementary School 24501 Parksley Rd Parksley, Virginia 23421 to solicit public input on the proposed Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) project to be submitted to the Virginia Department of Housing and Community Development for Makemie Park Septic Improvement project.
Residents of the project area are encouraged to attend.
The Makemie Park Septic Improvement project will include the following activities:

1. Procure the Septic company that would be able to deliver all required tasks
2. Construct and install new septic systems for approximately 27 properties
3. Establish a ten-year Maintenance Assistance
Fund and develop a Management Plan
4. Obtain all User Agreement from all residents
5. Develop and Facilitate Educational Classes/
Training on Septic Maintenance

The draft CDBG applications will be presented for comment along with information on projected beneficiaries, including the number of low- and moderate-income residents to benefit from the proposed project, and plans to minimize displacement. Citizens will also be given the opportunity to comment on Accomack County's past use of CDBG funds. A fact sheet on the proposed project and the draft proposal is available at the A-NPDC, 23372 Front Street, Accomack, VA. For additional information, contact Grayson Williams at gwilliams@a-npdc.org or 757-787-2936 ext. 129.

In lieu of attending the public hearing, citizens may submit their comments and grievances in writing to the County Administrator's Office (PO Box 388 - Accomack, VA 23301 or administration@co.accomack.va.us) no later than 12:00 pm on April 20th.

Any citizen having questions or needing special assistance for the disabled may contact the County Administrator's Office by calling 787-5700 or 824-5444.
