Restoring a Historic Cemetery Is a Mission of Recognition

Story and Photos by Stefanie Jackson

The wife of a U.S. Navy veteran made it her life's mission to restore a historic cemetery near Cheriton when she learned that the nearly abandoned, overgrown site was the final resting place of five African American Civil War soldiers who had served in the Union.

The men deserve "to be recognized as veterans of the United States" and to have their graves restored with respect and dignity, said Carla Purvis, who has been working on the project with her husband, Glenn Purvis.

Carla and Glenn Purvis, who live in Eastville, were out for a drive one day in early February, near Cheriton, when they passed the old cemetery near the corner of Sunnyside Road and Seaside Road, where the town's original African Baptist Church began gathering under an oak tree in 1868.

When Glenn Purvis told his wife that Union soldiers were buried in the cemetery, and she saw how it was overgrown and filled with trash that had been carelessly dumped there, Carla Purvis was moved to tears. She resolved then and there to do something about it.

Purvis contacted leadership at the African Baptist Church and received

Biden Joins Northam To Announce End of Pandemic Restrictions in Virginia

By Carol Vaughn

President Joe Biden and Gov. Ralph Northam spoke Friday, May 28, at Sportrock Climbing Center, a rock climbing gym in Alexandria, Va., to celebrate the lifting of coronavirus pandemic restrictions in Virginia.

"Today we mark a tremendous milestone in our fight against COVID-19. As of 12:01 this morning, for the first time since March 2020, there are no limits on capacity or distancing in Virginia's restaurants, businesses, offices, or other venues. That's something we can all be proud of," Northam said, adding, "We are closer to a more normal life than we have been in the past 14 months, and ... that feels really good ... As governor, I can tell you that having a partner in the White House makes a huge, huge difference — set ting clear goals, as he has done, and supporting us with the resources we need to meet those goals. And as a doctor, I know it also makes a big difference when leadership respects science, and follows its lead.”

Northam previously had said restrictions in Virginia would end June 15 if case numbers kept their downward trend. He later moved up the date to Friday, citing strong vaccination numbers and dramatically lowered case counts.

Additionally, Northam last month said fully vaccinated people could stop wearing face coverings indoors in most situations, following new guidance from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention — not to include places like health care facilities, public transportation, and schools.

The state of emergency in Virginia remains in place through June 30, allowing Northam to impose restrictions if warranted.

Biden thanked Northam for his efforts during the pandemic, saying, “You’re one of the best governors in the country in taking this on, and you did it from the beginning.”

Biden noted the United States went from 184,000 cases per day when he took office to fewer than 22,000 per day now. Additionally, deaths from COVID-19 have dropped by more than 85%, he said.

In Virginia, the numbers went from 43,000 cases per week when Biden took office to fewer than 2,800 in the past week, a 93% decline, Biden said, attributing the progress to planning and execution of “a vaccination effort at a scale and speed never before seen here or anywhere in the world.”

In Virginia, that included $247 million in federal funding for community vaccination sites; more than 360 federally funded National Guard members supporting the state’s response; getting doses to community health care centers and 1,000 pharmacies; and opening a mass vaccination site in Norfolk, initially run by the Federal Emergency Management Agency and the U.S. Navy in partnership with Virginia.

Biden said more than 165 million Americans, 51% of the adult population, have gotten at least one shot of COVID-19 vaccine.

In Virginia, 54% of adults are fully vaccinated, putting Virginia 14th among the states for vaccination rate, according to Northam.

Six weeks ago, Virginia on average had more than 1,600 new cases per day of COVID-19. Now the average is fewer than 400, Northam said, noting, “This is a direct result of people getting vaccinated.”

“As more Americans get vaccinated, the days grow brighter and brighter. But let me be clear: We’re not done yet. We have to reach those who are not vaccinated and make it as easy as possible for them to get protected,” Biden said, noting he set a goal of having 70% of adult Americans vaccinated with at least one shot by July 4.

“Today, just over a month to go, we’re at 62%. Ten states have already reached the 70% milestone. Virginia is at 66; it’s moving closer every day,” he said.

Biden urged anyone who still needs to be vaccinated to visit the website, www.vaccines.gov, or text the ZIP code to 438829 to find the nearest vaccination sites.

“To hit 70% and keep sprinting through the finish line is what we’re all about. If we succeed, we can celebrate our independence from the virus together on the Fourth of July as we celebrate our independence as a nation,” Biden said.

“We can see in real time that the more people get vaccinated, the fewer people get COVID; it is very simple math,” Northam said.

IS IT REALLY YOUR COMPREHENSIVE PLAN??

On Tuesday, June 8th, the Northampton County Board of Supervisors is slated to adopt a new Comprehensive Plan for Northampton County. They call it “YOUR 2040” blueprint for the future of this beautiful rural and sensitive peninsula. The Plan must belong to us as the word “YOUR” is used 328 times in 198 pages. After all, it touts the fact that hundreds of citizens participated in workshops, focus groups, comment periods, surveys and meetings and was written to reflect YOUR vision for this county for the next 20 years. On December 9, 2020 the county rolled out the first draft, proudly calling it in woodpecker fashion “YOUR PLAN” in an attempt to convince us that it was. The problem was, as it remains today even after the final draft of May 4, 2021, that the “Y” should not be in that moniker.

Here are a few of the things they tell us “WE” want for our future:

- 1) the elimination of the Village designation for Oyster and Willis Wharf, allowing them to become “Working Waterfront Development Areas” under state law and to become Enterprise & Technology Zones, Community Development Authorities, and be exempt from zoning ordinances;
- 2) elimination of Cottage Communities (Silver and Smith Beach etc.) as a zoning designation*; and,
- 3) elimination of affordable housing incentives now included in our 2009 Plan, as well as striking out the mention of mobile homes and manufactured housing.
- 4) They also claim WE asked for: the hiring of another economic Development Director (a complete failure when THEY tried that in 2013-15*);
- 5) treating our wastewater so we can pump it into our aquifer (toilet to tap)...HRSD influence?;
- 6) apartment houses on farm fields where they are not permitted now;
- 7) doubling density by allowing accessory dwellings “by right”;
- 8) promoting “livable communities” (Condo’s etc.) as an option for affordable housing;
- 9) giving the Economic Development Authority the right to buy property on behalf of the county (watch out waterfront communities!);
- 10) unrestricted industrial development (unlike our current plan); “by right” uses on the waterfront, which means no notice or input from neighbors*, among many other changes to our sacred 2009 Comp Plan which protects our rural character and quality with a vengeance.

So we all have two choices: turn the page and let THEM have THEIR way with the rural future of this county (which is the very reason people want to live here), or contact your county supervisors by sending an email to jwilliams@co.northampton.va.us and get on our mailing list for more information @ northamptonissues@aol.com *proposed to be changed. The rest are still on the table.

Time to reset the breaker perhaps?

Accomack Schools Signs Resource Officer MOU, Grants Condensed Summer Work Week

By Stefanie Jackson

Accomack school board Chairman Paul Bull broke protocol Tuesday night to sign a memorandum of understanding (MOU) between Accomack County Public Schools and the Chincoteague Police Department (CPD) before a vote could be taken to approve the MOU, allowing the department to meet an application deadline for state funding to hire a school resource officer.

"I feel that there is nothing more important than a child's safety in today's climate, period, point blank," said Capt. Tyler Greenley, of the CPD.

He spoke as the new father of a daughter who may attend and graduate from Chincoteague High School as he did.

Greenley submitted the application in March for a Virginia Department of Criminal Justice Services grant that would cover the salary of a Chincoteague Combined School resource officer for four years.

After the four-year period, the CPD would be responsible to maintain the position.

Greenley had reached the point in the application process in which he was required to submit an MOU signed by the chairman of the school board, with a fast approaching deadline of June 4.

With time extremely limited, Bull opted to sign the MOU ahead of the public hearing that must be held before the school board can vote to approve the MOU.

The public hearing will be held during the school board's next meeting June 15; Bull reminded Greenley that the signed MOU will not be valid until the school board votes to approve it.

Summer Hours for 12-Month Employees

Another in a handful of recent motions made by school board member Edward Taylor and seconded by school board member Janet Turner failed Tuesday night, when the two attempted to change one detail in Superintendent Chris Holland's proposed summer schedule for 12-month school employees.

Holland proposed following the example of the last several years and having 12-month employees work approximately 10 hours a day, four days a week this summer, with Fridays off, instead of a typical work schedule of about 8 hours a day, five days a week.

The proposed schedule included three weekdays off for the July 4 and Juneteenth holidays.

Last year, Gov. Ralph Northam made an official state holiday of Juneteenth, traditionally observed on June 19 to celebrate the day when news of the Emancipation Proclamation reached Black slaves in Texas.

Since June 19 falls on a Saturday this year, most state agencies will observe Juneteenth on Friday, June 18.

But Holland proposed that Accomack County Public Schools observe Juneteenth on Thursday, June 17, since the holiday would fall on the first four-day work week for ACPS this summer.

Taylor proposed delaying the start date of the four-day work week from Monday, June 14, to Monday, June 21, to allow ACPS to follow suit with other state employers and observe Juneteenth on Friday, June 18.

School board member Lisa Johnson objected to Taylor's proposal.

Juneteenth is an "ethnically historical day" and "to combine that in a sentence with a start date for a summer schedule ... I don't follow that," she said.

Johnson also offered a correction to Holland's proposal, which referred to the holiday as "June Nineteenth" instead of Juneteenth.

Taylor's proposal was rejected in a 2-7 vote; a motion to accept Holland's proposal as written passed in a 7-2 vote.

ACPS 12-month employees will be off Thursday, June 17, for Juneteenth, and Thursday, July 1, and Monday, July 5, for the July 4 holiday.

Health Update

Coordinator of Student Health Services Tonya Martin reported that no Accomack teachers, school staff, or students are currently diagnosed with COVID-19.

According to the Virginia Department of Health June 1, Accomack County had two new cases of COVID-19 and a seven-day average of one new case of COVID-19 per day.

permission to restore the grounds and the 19 graves located there, five of which were known at the time to belong to Union soldiers.

The first thing Carla and Glenn Purvis did was to clear out the 1/4-acre parcel, removing trash and debris.

Carla Purvis estimated about 50 or 60 years worth of overgrowth was removed, as well as trash including hundreds of empty wine and liquor bottles and large broken pieces of concrete (which did not belong to any of the graves). The couple had six dump truck loads of trash and debris hauled away.

They are now seeking to borrow a stump grinder or find a volunteer to grind down the remains of large tree roots that had grown out of the ground and were cut down.

Carla Purvis has turned to identifying the graves of civilians and soldiers, researching their genealogies, and repairing the headstones that were damaged by overgrowth.

Roots had grown around some of the headstones, causing them to chip, crack, or break. One headstone was defaced after it broke and fell facedown on the ground, where it stayed for a prolonged period.

One headstone near the corner of the property was almost completely buried under dirt and overgrowth and was labeled “unidentified” on an www.esva.net page on Eastern Shore cemeteries.

Purvis removed the debris concealing the headstone and found a “prize”: it was the headstone of Abraham Costen, of the 10th regiment of the U.S. Colored Infantry (USCI).

His surname is misspelled “Coston” on his headstone, but Purvis determined the correct spelling of “Costen” from military records.

The headstone of another soldier also contains an error – William Custis, also of the 10th USCI, whose surname is misspelled “Custus” on his headstone.

Another discovery Purvis made was that the cemetery contains the graves of not five but six men who served in the military.

The sixth veteran is Severn Goffigon, who has a civilian headstone but joined the military at age 14. Due to his age, his duties were limited and he did not serve in combat. Goffigon’s records show that he was mustered in and out of the military on repeated occasions, and he died at age 18.

The six veterans laid to rest in the old African Baptist Church cemetery in Cheriton are:

- Abraham Costen, Company A, 10th regiment of the USCI
- William Custis, Company A, 10th regiment of the USCI
- Severn Goffigon, born June 1, 1855; died Aug. 9, 1873
- P. Nottingham, U.S. Navy
- Henry West, Company B, 10th regiment of the USCI
- William Weeks Sr., Company D, 10th regiment of the USCI

Many of the other 13 graves in the cemetery belong to the soldiers’ relatives or wives, who are usually buried next to their husbands.

Some of the civilians buried in the cemetery remain a mystery, which Purvis hopes to uncover with further research, such as Ruth Knight, a mixed-race woman who died in 1897 at age 81 and was married four times – but not to any of the men buried in the cemetery. Purvis has yet to make a family connection between Knight and any of the other individuals buried in the cemetery.

Another mystery is Pearl Goffigon, who died July 4, 1899, age 23, and who might be the wife of Arthur Goffigon, who is buried next to veteran Severn Goffigon. Purvis has yet to find a connection between Pearl and Arthur Goffigon, but she has found information about another Pearl Goffigon, a man.

Purvis, a 67-year-old retiree, spends about 30 hours a week researching at home and working in the cemetery.

She is meticulously restoring every detail of every grave, from headstone to footstone, following the directions of a professional in the monument business who Purvis knew when she and her husband lived in Texas, before they retired on the Eastern Shore in 2014.

The location and position of each headstone must be exact. Many of the headstones have been moved away from the bodies whose graves the headstones mark, because the headstones may have broken or fallen down and were set back up in the wrong place.

Purvis also makes sure each headstone faces east. She learned that all headstones in Christian cemeteries must face east for the Second Coming of Christ, according to Christian belief.

It becomes apparent that restoring the cemetery is a labor of love for Purvis when she calls each headstone “him” or “her,” referencing the person to whom the marker belongs.

Having a husband and a father who were veterans also adds meaning to the experience. Purvis’ father, who died last year, was a World War II veteran.

She is rebuilding the brick bases of several headstones, taking care to put each brick back in exact order. She pours in dry concrete mix, allowing it to combine with rainfall and harden naturally.

Purvis has spent hundreds of dollars finding the right products to restore the headstones without causing further damage. The first broken headstone she repaired was glued together with a masonry epoxy that dried gray, but she has since found a clear-drying epoxy.

She cleans the headstones with a natural moss, mold, mildew, and algae stain remover that can be sprayed on and left to dry. Bleach or acid should never be used to clean headstones, Purvis noted. If she brushes the headstones, she uses only a soft nylon brush, as metal bristles would deface the fragile sandstone.

The headstone of a woman named Violet Weeks already was defaced when Purvis found it because it had broken and fallen over and had been facedown on the ground for a prolonged period.

The restoration of the defaced headstone will include the use of acrylic paint to make small dots in the crevices, making the lettering appear clearer and more legible.

Purvis enjoys the peace and solitude of working alone but also welcomes help. Another local veteran and a member of the African Baptist Church, Charles Johnson, stopped by before Memorial Day to place an American flag on each soldier’s grave.

She envisions the finished project as a lush, green meadow dotted with white headstones, and perhaps a replica Civil War split-rail fence out front.

What she considers a “great humanitarian and community service project” still has a long way to go, but it appears Purvis’ passion for the project supplies her with endless energy.

The work started when she and her husband visited the cemetery Feb. 4 and “we haven’t stopped since.”

Former Air Force Pilot Recalls Fulfilling Career on the Wing

Story and Photos by Carol Vaughn

Al Walker, who recently turned 90, loves airplanes.

That is evident by looking around his room at Commonwealth Senior Living in Onancock, where books about flying sit on a table and the walls are decorated with several photographs and a painting of different aircraft Walker piloted during two decades in the United States Air Force and, later, as an executive pilot.

There are also on display more than a dozen medals Walker was awarded during his military service, which included a year's tour of duty in Vietnam.

Walker's duties as chief pilot in Vietnam included giving check rides to pilots flying twin-engine turboprop aircraft.

Still, Walker's thoughts during an interview Friday turned back to a time years before all that — to the serendipitous experience that started him on his career.

Walker was born in Montana. The family later moved to Canada and then to Michigan. It was in Scottville, Mich., that he took his first airplane ride.

"I was about 16, living in Michigan. A couple miles down the highway from where I lived, there was a friend of mine," Walker said.

One day, Walker went to visit his friend, but the friend wasn't home.

"He lived across the road from the airport. So I went over to the airport and watched. There was a little yellow airplane out there, parked. Pretty soon, a guy walked out to it and put a couple of bags in the airplane and ...he got in it and he opened up the door and said, 'Hey, kid! Do you want to go for a ride?' And that was the first time I'd been in an airplane," Walker said.

As they were flying in the two-seat aircraft, looking down at the ground below, "I said to myself, this is what I want to do for the rest of my life," he said.

He never even learned the man's name, but the experience stuck with Walker.

Left: Retired Air Force officer Al Walker, using his hand to represent the state's shape, explains the location in Michigan where he took his first flight at age 16. Right: A display outside Al Walker's room at Commonwealth Senior Living in Onancock includes a dozen military medals he was awarded during two decades in the U.S. Air Force.

"He sure spiked my career," he said.

There wasn't money for flying lessons, but Walker after high school decided to enlist in the Air Force in 1951, figuring the likely alternative was to be drafted into the Army and sent to Korea.

"I said if I'm going to go fight a damn war, I'm going to do it in an airplane. So I took my chances and enlisted in the Air Force," Walker said.

At the time, the requirement to become an Air Force pilot was to have two years of college and pass a series of tests.

Walker had not gone to college, but he was able to pass the academic equivalency tests and a physical and was accepted into the pilot training program.

"I got my wings and commission through the Air Force pilot training program," Walker said.

His ensuing military career took him around the world.

"I've been in every one of our states, every Canadian province, every South American state, every European country. The only Asian countries I missed were China and Russia — and that didn't bother me at all," he said.

It was while he was stationed at Dover Air Force Base that Walker moved his wife and children to a farmhouse on Occohannock Creek, near Exmore.

Walker has three children, a son and two daughters, along with several grandchildren.

"There was no base housing available for me at Dover, and any housing that was available was high priced. ... So I came south. I got down to the tip of the Delmarva Peninsula, which is Virginia, and I found a farmhouse I could rent at a reasonable price," Walker said.

His son now owns the same house.

After retiring from the Air Force, Walker kept flying for another two decades, this time as a pilot flying executives from two poultry companies, Showell Farms and Perdue Farms, out of Salisbury, Md.

"I joined the civilian pilots' association and I even flew for a while with Frank Perdue," he said.

He retired again after his 65th birthday.

"I said, well I'm 65; I haven't hurt anybody, I haven't busted anything, I'm going to quit while I'm ahead," he said, adding, "I do kind of miss it, yes, but on the other hand, I know what can happen, so I got out of it before anything like that happened."

Kids Count: Prenatal Care Essential, New High-Risk Care Available

By Stefanie Jackson

Smart Beginnings Eastern Shore, an organization that advocates for the health and well-being of all children to age 18, hosted the third online session of the 2021 Kids Count forum May 26, emphasizing that when mothers take care of their own health, it makes a positive impact on their children's health.

It begins with a woman establishing a relationship with a personal care provider before getting pregnant, said Dr. Sandra Balmoria, of Eastern Shore Rural Health.

It's important for a woman to control health issues like high blood pressure or smoking before she becomes pregnant to ensure her baby is as healthy as possible, Balmoria said.

Prenatal care is essential. Balmoria said she has seen women during the COVID-19 pandemic who were well into their second trimesters before telling any medical professionals that they were pregnant, and several women were medevaced to Norfolk due to dangerous conditions that had developed during their pregnancies.

Tanya Owens, of the Virginia Department of Health, is a nurse midwife with 21 years experience who has delivered more than 2,000 babies. She recommended early access to prenatal care (within the first trimester), which can help prevent pregnancy complications.

Early ultrasounds help date a pregnancy, and an expectant mother can receive prenatal vitamins and nutrition information during early prenatal care. Moms who start healthy eating habits during pregnancy often keep those habits, which is good for the mom, the baby, the family, and "basically the population of the Eastern Shore in general," Owens said.

Getting prenatal care also helps a mother feel strong and confident in her ability to grow, birth, and raise a healthy child.

"It's my philosophy that strong mothers beget strong babies, beget strong families, and that's what we all want," Owens said.

Ann Pruitt is a nurse at Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital, which has a Level 1 nursery and can handle high-risk births.

The hospital's Go and Grow diaper bag program, provided in partnership with Smart Beginnings, is a "tremendous asset" to patients, Pruitt said.

One of the most helpful items in every Go and Grow bag, which is free to each new mother who delivers her baby at the hospital, is called a "halo sleep sack." The sleep sack allows the baby to be swaddled without using a blanket and is a useful tool in preventing SIDS (sudden infant death syndrome), Pruitt said.

Dr. Eliza Berkley, who specializes in high-risk pregnancies, participated in the forum through a prerecorded video. She called Kids Count "near and dear to my heart" because her "goal is to help pregnant moms on the Eastern Shore" to decrease maternal and neonatal morbidity and mortality.

Pregnancy can be high-risk when the mother has a pre-existing condition such as diabetes, hypertension, heart disease, lupus, sickle cell anemia, or HIV.

Berkley acknowledged that it was difficult for Shore moms to access medical care for high-risk pregnancies because the closest facility that offered those services was in Norfolk, which meant multiple long-distance trips over the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel.

That's why Berkley is now part of the Longleaf Wellness and Maternal-Fetal Medicine Center, which has an office in Nassawadox that's open every Tuesday.

The wellness center aims to decrease stress for pregnant mothers and the OB-GYNs tasked with coordinating care for patients with multiple medical conditions.

Women who develop diabetes or high blood pressure during pregnancy are more likely to develop diabetes or heart disease later in life, Berkley said.

The goal of Longleaf Wellness is to prevent these conditions "not only in pregnancy but looking at the longterm health and to improve longevity ... by getting early care for these conditions."

Local health care providers with questions about Longleaf Wellness may call 757-741-6033.

Eastern Shore Awarded $1.234M in Waterways Projects

By John Joeckel
Chairman Eastern Shore Regional Navigable Waterways Committee

The Eastern Shore has been awarded $1.234 million for five 2021 waterway projects in Accomack and Northampton counties. These funds are annual grants from the Waterway Maintenance Fund (WMF) which are designed to support Virginia waterway projects for the entire commonwealth.

The WMF is managed by the Virginia Port Authority with funding provided by the commonwealth of Virginia. Legislation creating the WMF was passed during the 2018 General Assembly due to the combined efforts of Sen. Lynwood Lewis and Del. Rob Bloxom.

The Eastern Shore Regional Navigable Waterways Committee, which represents Accomack and Northampton counties for waterways issues, in partnership with the Accomack-Northampton County Planning District Commission, annually applies for and administers WMF grant funds with eventual management of the various waterway projects that are funded by the WMF grants.

The 2021 grant awards will be used as follows:

Accomack County

- Folly Creek: For the continuation of currently underway preplanning activities to address dredging needs. This is the second phase of this project that will complete preplanning activities currently being performed prior to dredging.

Northampton County

- Kings Creek: To conduct dredging operations on the entrance to the creek and beneficially use approximately 25,000 cubic yards of the dredge sediment for replenishment of the Cape Charles public beach. Dredging will commence either late 2021 or early 2022.
- Nassawadox Creek, Hungers Creek, and Red Bank Creek: For the continuation of preplanning activities to address dredging needs. This is the second phase of these projects that will complete preplanning activities currently being performed prior to dredging.

With these 2021 WMF grant awards, the Eastern Shore has received a total of almost $2.25 million since the commencement of grant awards in 2019.

Accomack County's Wachapreague and Quinby waterways received previous WMF grant awards for preplanning activities for eventual dredging and those projects are underway.

The Eastern Shore has benefited from WMF grants over the past two years with planning for the dredging of waterways to ensure safe navigation for commercial and recreational waterway users.

Safe navigable waterways are vital to the Eastern Shore economy. Waterways sustain the viability of bayside and seaside working waterfronts, which could not exist without deep water. There are 222 identified working waterfronts in the Eastern Shore of Virginia region. This number represents the greatest number of working waterfronts within any region in the commonwealth.

Working waterfronts provide marinas, boat launching ramps, bait and tackle shops, lodging, restaurants, recreational boaters, tourism/eco-tourism and commercial watermen (aquaculture, crabbers, finfish, and shellfish) with deep-water access for the users of waterways which are an important economic driver for local communities and the entire two-county region.

Many of the waterways of the Eastern Shore have shoaled to the point where safe navigation either is no longer feasible or is restricting recreational and commercial marine traffic. The inability to maintain waterways results in economic losses, negatively impacts the Eastern Shore lifestyles, and leads to the removal by the U.S. Coast Guard of the Aids to Navigation, impacting safe navigation, especially for visiting boaters who do not know the shallow waterways.

Waterways of the Eastern Shore were evaluated in 2016 in a "Regional Dredging Needs Assessment." A total of 59 waterways, including 32 federal project areas and 27 nonfederal/state waterways, were included. Of those waterways, about 37% (22) were determined to have sections with no more than three feet of water depth at mean low water.

An added benefit of dredging is that the sediment removed by dredging can be used beneficially to mitigate coastal erosion and flooding, remediate deteriorating coastal habitat, and provide materials to assist in storm surge protection.

At Accomack Hearing, Broadband Tops Public's Recovery Priorities

By Carol Vaughn

A crowd turned out for a meeting the Accomack County Board of Supervisors held June 2 to receive comment about using federal pandemic recovery funds.

The board will continue discussion about how to spend nearly $6.3 million in American Rescue Plan Act funds at its June 16 meeting.

The county will get the money in two payments — half was sent in May and half will be sent in 12 months.

It is intended to support COVID-19 response efforts; replace lost public sector revenue; support economic stabilization for households and businesses; and address systemic public health and economic challenges that contributed to the pandemic's unequal impact on certain populations.

Funds must be obligated by Dec. 31, 2024, and spent by Dec. 31, 2026.

Accomack lost nearly $2.4 million due to the pandemic, according to a federal calculation. Replacing that revenue is among allowable uses for the funds.

Another allowable use is for infrastructure — including water, sewer, and broadband.

Speakers Plead for Broadband Funding

Of 24 speakers, 10, including from Virginia Organizing, Captains Cove, and Citizens for a Better Eastern Shore, requested money be used to improve broadband access.

Colby Phillips, Captains Cove senior general manager, said the community has 120 school-age children and also residents who telework who need better internet service.

"I hope we can show you we are shovel-ready and deserving of a substantial share of the American Rescue Plan funding," resident David Phelp said.

Shannon Wright said a survey to which 588 households responded found 265 individuals are learning remotely and 524 work from home.

The Eastern Shore of Virginia Broadband Authority is working on engineering plans for Captains Cove, Wright said, adding the scope is not yet known.

"We have 17 1/2 miles of roadway that tomorrow could serve nearly 1,000 homes if that were covered with broadband internet access," she said.

Karen Downing, of Virginia Organizing, spoke about disparities exposed by the pandemic, including in broadband access.

The access rate in Accomack is 68.5%, well below the 83.9% statewide rate, she said.

"We are asking the county to allocate 50% or more" of the funds to increase broadband access, she said.

"Considering broadband as a public utility should be given serious thought," the Rev. Rick Willis, of Virginia Organizing, said, adding, "The fact that so many people are here this evening to address this issue is encouraging and hopeful."

Sue Mastyl, CBES internet access committee chairperson, requested funds be used to expand broadband into critical areas and offset cost of installation and monthly service "to those in most need."

"It's basically taken us 13 years to get to 50% (coverage on the Shore). Really the question in front of all now is how much longer until we get full coverage. We can't wait another 13 years; we really shouldn't wait another three. For the Shore to be competitive in every field we need good, reliable, and affordable internet coverage as soon as possible," said CBES President Arthur Upshur.

More Requests

Others advocated spending for childcare, the foodbank, library construction, Mary N. Smith Cultural Enrichment Center, groundwater research, volunteer fire companies, and shelter for domestic violence victims.

Paul Muhly, public library construction steering committee member, asked the board for $230,000, saying COVID-19 resulted in delays and additional costs.

Wayne Bell and Ann Williams requested $500,000 for a childcare center.

Nonprofit Children's Harbor of Hampton Roads has a contract to open a center at the former Fairgrounds restaurant near Onancock, with plans to hire 25 to 30 employees. They hope to open the center this year.

Grayson Chesser, of the Eastern Shore Groundwater Committee, asked for funds for projects including more observation wells.

Sean Fate and David Fluhart, of Wachapreague Volunteer Fire Company, asked for financial help, noting the company had to cancel its main fundraiser, the carnival, two consecutive years.

Charmin Horton, Foodbank director, asked for $300,000 to address food insecurity.

Colby West, Mary N. Smith Cultural Enrichment Center director, asked for $30,000 for improvements to better accommodate after-school programs.

Kelvin Pettit, Mary N. Smith Alumni Association president, said one of the main revenue sources, building rentals, dried up during the pandemic and impacted ability to continue renovations.

He estimated the association lost $65,000 and asked the county to make up the loss.

The Rev. Willie Justis, of In Touch Academy, asked for $50,000 over three years. The academy provides after-school and summer programs to children at no cost.

Shelley Strain, Eastern Shore Coalition Against Domestic Violence executive director, asked for $250,000 to help seed a $1 million-plus project to expand emergency shelter from the existing capacity of 12 to 16 up to 40.

Evelyn Shotwell, Chincoteague Chamber of Commerce executive director, asked for money for staffing.

Chamber Asks Officials To Take Long View

Robert Sabbatini, Eastern Shore of Virginia Chamber of Commerce executive director, urged officials to take a long-term perspective.

"The U.S. government wisely provided a great degree of flexibility in not only what these funds can be spent on, but when they need to be spent. We have until the end of 2024 to obligate them and 2026 to spend them. They did that for good reason, giving us lots of time to invest this funding thoughtfully," he said.

The chamber proposed Shore counties cooperate to invest in areas that will bring a future return to residents, including affordable housing, childcare, transportation, broadband, workforce training, reducing energy costs, and economic development.

Ace Seybolt, first vice-chairman, asked money be used to offer incentives to residents re-entering the workforce after receiving unemployment.

The chamber asked the board to set aside at least 20% of the funds for strategic, long-term investments and offered to convene leaders from various sectors to create a strategic plan to present to the board of supervisors, Sabbatini said.

Justin Killeen-Bizzotto

Mr. Justin Killeen-Bizzotto — ever exuberant, always smiling, giver of the best hugs — became forever young on Monday, May 24, 2021.

His story began Sept. 21, 1982, in Salisbury, Md., a day he never let anyone forget, as he often announced on the first day of his birth month he would be accepting gifts throughout September. Justin grew up just outside of Onancock, in Crystal Beach, a place where beautiful childhoods are created, neighbors are like family, and days spent with mud between your toes are a must.

From a young age, Justin's unfailing work ethic was evident as he often worked alongside his dad in the leather studio and restaurant. Over the years, he worked various jobs until finding his calling as a firefighter. His respect for the trade, along with his passion and dedication to serve, was evident to those who worked with him. For years Justin volunteered at several stations but hung his helmet at the Onancock Volunteer Fire Department, where he served as a firefighter, medic, and past assistant chief. He began his career in emergency response as a medic for Northampton County EMS, and over the last decade, as a firefighter for Wallops Flight Facility Fire Department. Recently, he began working for Lewis Construction when off shift, which only added to his endless list of talents. No matter where he was, the infectious "J Bizzy" energy brought fun and laughter to everyone's workday.

Having grown up on the water where so many of his greatest childhood memories were made, Justin lived for boating and beach days on the bayside. He lived each day to the fullest, always finding joy in the little things. It wasn't until he met Jackie that he realized what he had been missing, having shared upon asking her parents for her hand in marriage — "She completes me." The two were inseparable from the start and loved one another fiercely and unconditionally as they built a beautiful life together, making their home with pets, Vader, Solo, and Chilli.

In his 38 years, Justin Killeen-Bizzotto made a lasting impact on the lives of all who knew him. With a personality that exploded with effortless charisma, genuine compassion, and absolute joy, Justin was the kind of guy everyone instantly adored. To say he was a friend to all would be an understatement. He loved with his whole heart and whether you've known him since the good ol' days of pond swimming at Crystal Beach, Friday night parties at the Mac's, walking into fires and saving lives, or enjoying a few Natties together from time to time, he would always greet you with his signature bear hug and a sweet smile.

His memory will be cherished and kept alive by his wife, Jacquelyn Cashwell Bizzotto; parents, Michele "Miguel" Bizzotto and Colleen Killeen; sister, Kelly Killeen-Bizzotto Moore, her husband, Chris, and their children, Balin and Rory; parents-in-law, Rudy and Judy Cashwell; sister-in-law, Sarah Cashwell; brother-in-law, Ryan Cashwell; aunts, Maureen Killeen, Teresa Bizzotto, and Angela Ortiz; numerous cousins; and the myriad of people who had the great pleasure of calling him friend.

Justin would not want to bring sadness to your hearts, only happiness as you remember the good times shared. He would want you to remember ... "Your body cannot heal without play. Your mind cannot heal without laughter. Your soul cannot heal without joy." ~ Catherine Rippenger Fenwick

Funeral services were conducted from the graveside at the Fairview Lawn Cemetery, in Onancock, Wednesday, June 2, 2021, at 3 p.m., with Onancock VFD's Chaplain, J. Barton Weakley officiating.

For those who wish to make a charitable contribution in Justin's memory, please consider donating to your local fire department in honor of his life's work.

Memory tributes may be shared with the family at www.williamsfuneralhomes.com

Arrangements were by the Williams-Onancock Funeral Home.

Sheila Cardano

Mrs. Sheila Patricia Mullin Cardano, 99, passed away in the early moonlit morning of May 27, 2021, at her daughter's residence in Cape Charles, surrounded by the love of family. Cherished wife, mother, Nonna (grandmother), and great-grandmother, Sheila was an inspired actress, writer, playwright, director, teacher, and artist. Her journey led her from England to Italy to the Eastern Shore of Virginia, where she planted her final roots and shared her passion for theatre and the arts.

Mrs. Cardano

Sheila was born July 8, 1921, in London, England, daughter of the late Patrick Daniel, an administrator of the London County Council, and Anne Fanning Mullin, both of Irish descent.

She was preceded in death by her beloved husband of 60 years, Renato Cardano; her devoted son, Patrick Daniel Cardano; and her brother, Terrance Mullin.

From an early age, Sheila began writing and illustrating stories and poems and writing songs. She attended St. Aloysius Convent, a Catholic school for girls in London and studied piano, violin, dancing, and elocution. Every summer she and her parents would journey across the Irish Sea by steamboat to Ireland, her parents' homeland. Sheila especially enjoyed visiting her uncle, Michael Mullin, a poet known as the "Bard of Foremass," who encouraged her imagination.

Amidst the London air raids of World War II, Sheila studied acting at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art (RADA). When the war ended in 1945, she joined a theatre company near London, and for several years was a promising and successful actress, receiving accolades for the many roles she played, including Rosalind in "As You Like It," Tatiana in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and Charlotte Bronte in "Jane Eyre." She often had two full parts memorized at once, one in rehearsal and one in performance.

In 1948, while playing Viola in "Twelfth Night" at the Sheffield Playhouse, Sheila met Renato Cardano, an Italian metallurgist and chemist who was studying steelmaking in England. He proposed to her on a train; they married on April 20, 1949, in a quiet wedding with family and a few friends, and honeymooned in Ireland.

Sheila retired from the stage to move with her husband to Italy, where they resided for 40 years, first in Terni, then in Rome, and finally in Terracina on the Tyrrhenian Sea. Renato worked as the general manager of a steel and metallurgical research center, and Sheila continued to write, draw, and create art with different media. Together they raised their three children, Patrick, Clelia, and Luisa. Sheila's parents joined them in Italy and spent their final years there. The tragic death of their son, Patrick, in 1979, ruptured their lives; Sheila coped through writing and her Catholic faith.

Both of Sheila's daughters, Clelia and Luisa, met and married American Navy officers in 1980 and moved to the United States, making memorable trips back to Italy every summer with their children. In 1989, Sheila and Renato followed their daughters to America. They found peace and tranquility on the Eastern Shore of Virginia, where they lived together for 20 years in their home on the Chesapeake Bay near Cape Charles. Renato created beautiful Mediterranean gardens for Sheila and their children and grandchildren to enjoy. Sheila and Renato, known as Nonna and Nonno, developed sweet routines in their daily life. Every morning, Renato would start Sheila's day with a tray of tea. Every afternoon, Sheila would retire to her room where she would rest, write, and reflect, until Renato joined her for their afternoon tea and conversation about the world's events and their latest projects. Every evening, they watched the sunset together. They radiated love and friendship. They were proud to become American citizens on Sept. 12, 2001, among the first group of citizens to be sworn in after the events of 9/11.

Sheila's creativity blossomed during their retirement years on the Shore. Her daughter, Clelia, ignited a non-profit, Arts Enter Cape Charles, renovating the Historic Palace Theatre and bringing together theatre lovers to produce many of Sheila's plays, beginning with a full house for the very first Arts Enter production, "Magia." Sheila wrote and produced over a dozen original plays, most notably "Piece of Eden," a retelling of the history of the Eastern Shore in collaboration with Jean Collins and Gwen Skeens. Sheila also directed numerous plays by other playwrights, particularly British dramas and comedies. Clelia created the scenic design for Sheila's plays and often performed and eventually directed plays herself; her daughter, Luisa, and her grandchildren also played numerous parts. Sheila's spirit lives on in the vibrant arts community in Cape Charles. Many remember her emphatic directing, particularly her insistence on better diction. She was not afraid to ask a complete stranger to be in one of her plays, and dearly loved those who became a part of her troupe for many productions over the years.

Sheila's poetry was published in numerous magazines and anthologies. She published several books: "Patrick," a compilation of stories, poems, and illustrations about grieving the loss of her son; "Tail of the Squirrel and Other Tales: Stories for Children"; and "Plays for All Seasons," a collection of her original plays. She also wrote children's songs. Her writing revealed her pure heart and true soul, and often opened a precious doorway into a child's world of fantasy and innocence.

Sheila was a devout Catholic and active member of St. Charles Catholic Church. She taught her grandchildren and several of their friends catechism and enjoyed serving as a lector; her diamond-clear voice resonating with conviction. Sheila was dedicated to arranging flowers for the altar and for many years compiled the church bulletin. A family meal was not complete without a prayer from Nonna. She was deeply passionate about the importance of staying connected to the spiritual world through her faith. She often had words of wisdom to share, reminding us to give ourselves time to think and be and not always do, to "have a good cry" if we needed to, and to be aware that once words are spoken, they can never be reversed.

Sheila's elegance, grace, and beauty emanated naturally from her with every step. She was known for her sharp wit, vibrant style, and depth of soul. She was not shy to tell you what she thought, and gave the most beautiful, heartfelt gifts of art and poems. She was shaped by her early experiences of living through the Great Depression and World War II, and saved every piece of aluminum foil. She understood the art of conversation, and had close relationships with each of her family members and many friends. She had a spark in her blue eyes that was impossible to ignore.

In her later years after her husband passed away, Sheila was cared for lovingly by her two daughters, in Luisa and Victor's home, and by very special people, including Andrea Price, Cynthia Dempster, Cindy Vera Rodriguez, Dr. Mark Clarke, Dr. John Sheppard, Victor Gazzolo, Father Michael Breslin, and many other angels, to whom the family will be forever grateful.

Sheila is survived by two daughters and sons-in-law, Clelia Cardano Sheppard (John), of Cape Charles, and Luisa Gazzolo (Victor), of Cape Charles; seven grandchildren, Veronica Malone (Patrick), Renata Sheppard, Patrick Gazzolo (Melanie), Sheila Sheppard, John (Sean) Sheppard (Magda), Michael Gazzolo (Kyleigh), and Clelia Jane Sheppard; and five great-grandchildren, Charlotte and Kevin Malone, Aven Lovelady, Dylan and Luca Gazzolo.

Dorothy Lynch Smith

Mrs. Dorothy Lynch Smith, 74, wife of the late Roger Reynold Smith and a resident of New Church, passed away Friday, May 7, 2021, after a brief illness while vacationing at her home in Florida. Born Aug. 5, 1946, in Machipongo, she was the youngest of seven children born to the late Bennie and Christenie Lynch.

Dorothy was a computer programmer and worked as a longtime subcontractor for NASA. Following retirement, her focus became family and traveling — her greatest loves. Over the years Dorothy traveled extensively with both friends and family. She often visited her vacation home in Florida, as well as many other states including Missouri and Alaska, and was planning her fourth cross-country trip this summer. She loved the Lord and remained devoted to her faith, having attended Mears Memorial United Methodist Church and Zion Baptist Church. Fresh flowers, especially orchids, always brought a smile to Dorothy's face, though nothing brought her more joy than spending time with her grandchildren.

She is survived by her loving daughter, Sherry W. Sharpe, and her husband, Mick, of Melfa; stepchildren, Dana M. Penney and her husband, Donald, of Hallwood, and Mark E. Smith, of Merritt Island, Fla.; sister, Beatrice Bohmeir, and her husband, Ron, of Dade City, Fla.; brother, John Lynch, and his wife, Judy, of Virginia Beach; grandchildren, Scott Snead, Brandon Guy, Allison Miller (Brandon), Erica Penney (Riley), and Shawn Penney; great-grandchildren, Reagan Evelyn Penney and Wyatt

Court Postings By Nancy Drury Duncan

Jury Finds Logan Guilty, 33-Year Sentence Recommended

In a jury trial lasting two full days, an Accomack county jury found James Ernest Logan, of Accomac, guilty of robbery, malicious maiming, and use of a firearm. The jury recommended a sentence of 33 years for the combined charges. Logan, 37, was found not guilty of attempted first-degree murder.

The attack on 28-year-old Quanta Mapp took place on March 18, 2018. Mapp testified he came out the back door of his Painter-area home to go to Walmart with his son, who was already in the car. He said three men came around the corner of the house wearing black masks and carrying weapons. "Give it up," they told him. He said they thought he had drugs. Mapp said one of the men went into his (Mapp's) pocket and took his phone. Mapp said he recognized Logan and Warner Byrd by their voices but not the third man. He told the men he knew who they were.

"Warner Byrd told the other guy to shoot me. I was shot in the arm and shot in the back of the head." Mapp said he had $200 in a pocket but they took only his phone and cigarettes. His angry demeanor throughout much of his testimony caused Judge W. Revell Lewis III to admonish him to answer the questions he was asked without comment. He told Mapp he was not allowed to ask questions of the attorneys who were attempting to question him.

When police and the ambulance arrived, Mapp said he did not tell them who shot him. "I was worried about my health," he said.

On the witness stand, Charles McPherson, who was at the time an Accomack County investigator, described Mapp as not being fully forthcoming about what had happened that day. "Victims don't always tell the truth," he said. Two days after the shooting, Mapp told McPherson it was Logan and Byrd who robbed and shot him. McPherson said that further investigation led to obtaining warrants for Logan and Byrd.

Commonwealth's Attorney Spencer Morgan called two forensic scientists as witnesses. Each said he could not obtain a large enough sample from the spent shell casing to match DNA or markings from a particular gun to identify a weapon. The commonwealth based its case primarily on evidence from cellphone location data obtained from Verizon. A presentation by expert witness Patrick Siewert showed an animation of the location of the cellphones belonging to Logan and Byrd before, during, and after the time of the crime. The phones were shown to be in the same vicinity at the time of the attack on Mapp. Logan told police he never left his Accomac home that day but to visit a sister who lives nearby. Location records from his cellphone dispute his assertion. Text messages from the two men's cellphones provided by Verizon indicate they were planning something together. "Get dressed in the right clothes get down now," one said.

Defense attorney Carl Bundick argued that the records showed only that the phones were in the "same vicinity" and not their exact location. He told the court that Mapp had ample opportunity to tell police the names of his assailants and did not until days later. He accused Mapp of "making up his story as we went along." He asked the jurors to examine the credibility of the victim and how he acted during his testimony. He spoke about the discrepancies between the physical evidence of cartridge casings from two different weapons found outside Mapp's house and Mapp's assertion that he fired the gun at his attackers only from inside his house as they were leaving. He said the commonwealth's evidence did not rise to the level of beyond reasonable doubt.

Morgan said the text messages indicate a planned action. He said Mapp's anger on the witness stand was a result of his "being shot in the arm and in the head." He said the movement of Logan's cellphone away from his Accomac address, "Is borne up by cell records." Morgan said the corroboration between what the victim told them and the cell records proved his case against Logan. "There is no DNA, no firearm," said Morgan. "But we got their cellphones. The messages between Byrd and Logan are damning beyond a reasonable doubt."

The jury deliberated three hours before finding Logan guilty of three of four charges. They found him not guilty of attempted first-degree murder. After further deliberation to consider a sentence, they returned with a recommended sentence of 20 years for the robbery, 10 for malicious wounding, and three years for the use of a firearm. Logan will be sentenced on June 24. The trial was held in Northampton County circuit court because the judicial emergency due to COVID-19 requires greater space for jury trials than is available in the Accomack circuit court.

Warner Edward Byrd Jr. pleaded guilty to one count of robbery and one count of malicious wounding in January 2020, which included a sentence of 15 years in prison on each count, with all but seven years suspended.

A felony larceny charge against Janice Tracey, 62, of Hallwood, was reduced to a misdemeanor in a plea agreement with the commonwealth.

A neighbor saw Tracey go onto a porch and remove several items from bags left behind by former tenants of the trailer next door to hers. "She had been previously convicted of multiple counts of larceny," said Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney William Fox. "The tenants had been out of the trailer for three months," said defense attorney Tucker Watson. "The defendant wrongly assumed the property was abandoned. "She took children's hair ties and nail polish. The value of the items was extremely low," he told the court. He said she immediately gave the items to the person who confronted her about the theft a few minutes later. Judge Lewis accepted the plea agreement and sentenced Tracey to ten days in jail with all time suspended. She is to be on good behavior for two years.

Keith Dale Lilliston, 62, of Deep Creek, will serve 12 months in jail for assaulting Paul Young and damaging his truck. Lilliston said he had recently found out that Young, who had dated his daughter since he was 15, had been violent and abusive with her on numerous occasions over the years. He said he drove to Melfa to meet Young. Angry words were exchanged and Lilliston struck Young with a PVC pipe. A witness testified he saw Lilliston striking and damaging Young's truck with the pipe after Young left the area with friends. Judge Lewis sentenced Lilliston to 12 months, with six suspended for assault and battery and five years, with all but six months suspended, for felony property destruction. He ordered him to be on supervised probation for two years and to be on good behavior for five years. In addition, he ordered Lilliston to have no contact with Young or his immediate family while on probation.

Damon Treyvonne Justice, 33, of New Church, pleaded guilty to breaking into a home and stealing cash and other items, breaking into an automobile repair shop in New Church and stealing food items, breaking into the Virginia Welcome Center damaging a vending machine and stealing food items, and breaking into the First Baptist Church in New Church and stealing food. He will be sentenced on June 24.

Anthony Michael Page, 25, of Hallwood, was sentenced to five years with all but one year suspended for DUI, third offense, and 12 months, all suspended, for driving on a revoked license. He will be on supervised probation for three years when released. Judge Lewis remanded him to jail to begin serving his time immediately.

SPECIAL EVENT INVITATION

Taking the Reins of Your Retirement

Did you know that 70% of people over the age of 65 will require some form of senior living? In spite of this fact, very few seniors have actually put together a plan. Because of this, most decisions about their care and lifestyle will be made by their adult children.

We invite you to come learn how you can take the reins of your retirement plan. We'll discuss choosing the right fit, preparing your finances, and creating a professional team to ensure your plan is executed according to your wishes if and when the time comes that you need senior living.

Meet Our Newest Agents, Ben Clark & Jonah Baker!

Ben Clark

I was born and raised in Reno, NV, where I have worked on national political campaigns, voter outreach groups dedicated to empowering young adults, and global citizen diplomacy promotions. These opportunities drilled into my head the importance of individual relationships and that every interaction is an opportunity to grow. My wife and I, with our two young children, are relative newcomers to Chincoteague and our newfound family here have guided me into the world of real estate professionals. I am known as the "Tie Guy" and always seek to provide both professionalism and friendliness to my work. In my free time you'll find me playing with my kids at the beach or strolling along Main Street.

Jonah Baker

Hi, my name is Jonah Baker and I am a native of the ESA. As a Licensed Realtor with Docksides Properties, I also have 6 years experience as a Real Estate Appraiser, holding licensure in both VA and MD. This combination gives me an extra set of skills to assist you in the process of buying or selling real estate. Although born on the Eastern Shore, I grew up in a military family, so I know what it's like to relocate to a new place. I can answer any questions you may have about the relocating process. I have many years experience with the hospitality industry, sales, as well as managing accounts & staff. I will listen to your requests & help guide you on the path to your desired destination!

Salutatorian Parker Stern delivers riveting remarks. Touching on the deaths of two classmates, Sarah Taylor and Jose Lopez, he told the audience, “You are loved. Check on your family and friends and make sure they know they are loved.”

Nandua High School Class of 2021 Commencement

Left: Balloons mark the celebration by the Vazquez family, from left, Daniel, Armando, Yesenia, and Katheryne, of Onancock. They cheered for graduating senior, Julio Vazquez. Middle: Bryce Ward, an honor graduate, shakes hands and is photographed with Principal Deon Garner. Despite the rigors of COVID-19 lockdowns and remote learning, 38 percent of the class graduated with honors, based on their grade point averages, Garner said. Right: A tear on her cheek and flowers in her hand, Anna Ardila-McCarter receives a hug from her father after graduation. She had received another hug and her diploma on stage from her mother, Nandua teacher Alicia McCarter.

Fishing from the Shore

By Bill Hall

The weekend leading up to last Monday's Memorial Day observance was anything but memorable, at least when it comes to fishing. The much-needed rains were a blessing to the local farmers and gardeners but was a bane to the local tackle shop operators and fishermen.

On the bright side, most of the great fishing occurred before the wind and rain, even the flounder bite which is ever so dependent on good water clarity.

Upper Shore – Captain Matt Abell and his son, Ian, were passing through Miami, enroute to Islamorada, Fla., on Monday afternoon. He will surely have a creel full of fishing stories from the Keys when he returns.

Captain C.L. Marshall, of Tangier Sound Charters, said the speckled trout fishing in the Crisfield, Md., area has been fantastic. He said that weather permitting, the early morning top water fishing has been as good as it gets for quality fish. Carlton and Hob Mason recorded 27- and 29-inch speckles, respectively. The large post-spawn rockfish have been replaced by loads of smaller 18- to 25-inch stripers. A fair number of trophy-sized red drum remain in the area for anglers soaking soft crab baits on the grassy bottom.

Chincoteague – Donna Rae Roeske, at Captain Bob's Marina, said the weather played havoc over the weekend and the recent bite had slowed as a result of the windy conditions. When boats could safely venture out, anglers were finding increasing numbers of croaker and kingfish (whiting) in Chincoteague Channel and Assateague Channel. Live bloodworms and artificial baits flavored with bloodworm scents have all been productive. Flounder catches during the blow were a challenge, although some fish were caught. Roeske said success was associated with high visibility baits. Minnows fished with brightly-colored Berkley Gulp and silversides/squid combos fished on flashy mylar bucktails from two-hook tandem rigs were responsible for the bulk of the dirtier water catches. She added that the surf was still producing stripers, red drum, and black drum.

Jimmy Vasiliou, at Captain Steve's Bait and Tackle, said the weekend fishing had been tough. The good news is that anglers were back to catching kingfish (whiting) in the surf as early as Monday. Jason Kraft landed, tagged, and released a 7-foot sandbar shark from the beach.

Wachapreague – On Monday, Captain Lindsay Paul, at Trident Tackle, guided his half-day charter to a catch of 17 flounder. Paul said that he is starting to see an influx of smaller-sized fish with the warming water temperatures. He added that the drum bite in and just outside the inlet seem to be nearing the end. The offshore wrecks are producing catches of black sea bass, but he has not heard of any vessels venturing out to the blue water to target the pelagic species.

Amanda Manzella, at Wachapreague Inn, echoed the productive flounder fishing and added that the offshore sea bass bite has been fantastic. One customer brought in a slot-sized puppy drum, which was caught on squid.

Lower Shore – Jeb Brady, at Bailey's Bait & Tackle in Cape Charles, said the weather had delayed a lot of anglers' plans for the recent holiday weekend. He expects the action to return to the pre-storm level, especially for anglers targeting black drum out of Oyster. He added that red drum are still in the barrier island surf and there are reports of cobia along a large segment of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-

Tunnel up to the waters off Cape Charles. Prior to the weekend's blow, flounder reports were described as strong along the bridge-tunnel and in the Ditch, with anglers limiting out on fish up to 23 inches. Sea mullet (whiting) and small gray trout were being caught from the Cape Charles Pier and Kiptopeke State Park Fishing Pier.

Last Week's Winner

Last week's contest was, let's face it, easy-peasy-lemon-squeezy, but only 20 contestants made the cut and identified the three lightning bolts. Among those was Decola Johnson, of Accomac, who was randomly chosen to win the Super Tailgate Dinner from Bojangles in Onley. Johnson dropped by our office with this picture of her "baby, Queenie. The Queen of the Johnson's household. Our Heart."

Last Week's Contest: Lightning Strikes! Chicken Dinner!

We have been accused of being sneaky by more than one contestant! We're highly insulted. It's true, but still ... The previous week, we offered a difficult contest hiding 20 bull's-eyes and 71 of you competed. This past week, we set it up as another difficult contest but then pulled a fast one and hid only two lightning bolts in addition to the one example on the contest page. This too-easy-to-be-true contest apparently put people off and we had only 20 contestants finding the lightning bolts on pages 20, 43, and 49. We did give a hint in the headline, saying "lightning strikes twice," meaning two lightning bolts in addition to the one on the contest page but apparently that didn't help. We're sorry. We won't be sneaky again ... until the next time.

This Week's Contest: House Keys Unlock Cake!

This week we have hidden six literal house keys. When you find them, you'll know why we call them literal house keys, and we're the final judge on whether the clues you find are acceptable.

Readers who identify the location of these six house keys will become contestants and, from that pool, one lucky osprey-eyed reader will be randomly selected to win a $25 gift certificate to Becca's Smith Island Cakes. See sponsor box on this page.

The rules:

- To become a contestant, find the six house keys and tell us where you found them (page number and location on the page). Send this information to david@easternshorepost.com.
- You can start sending your entries now. Entries MUST have your first and last names and your town.
- Entries will be accepted until noon on Monday, June 7. Entries arriving after noon on the 7th will not be entered in the contest.
- Do not submit multiple entries.
- Include a photograph if you choose to submit one and tell us a little something about the picture.
- Anyone submitting a photograph must have taken the picture or have permission to use it.

The winner and as many runners-up as possible will get their photographs in the paper. If you don't want to use your own picture, you can submit a photo of your child or a pet — or a house, a mouse, or an ex-spouse louse. Just no feet.

Last Week's Runners-Up

Left: A regular player and often the first to send in her answer, Jeanette Bell, of Onley, is a car enthusiast. Here she is with her husband and their new Hyundai Elantra N Line.

Right: Maybe next time we'll have a find-the-turtles contest. This pic of turtles sunning in Bay Creek was sent in by Laurie Paschall, of Cape Charles.

Left: Janet Leigh Cooper, of Onley, aimed her camera at the sky and hoped for lightning bolts but got this crop duster flying over where she lives. Totally cool.

Right: When it comes to examples of lightning speed, Amy Eckard, of Temperanceville, takes a picture of Joey to show what it doesn't look like.

Left: Cindi Bowen, of Wachapreague, was the only contestant to mention our headline hint about lightning striking twice. Here's her boy, Sandy.

Right: It's never too early to start practicing getting a rest from the heat. James Lamberth, of Cape Charles, asks, "Have the dog days of summer started already?"

Random Facts About ... the Mega-Wealthy Pursuing (Nearly) Eternal Life

By David Martin

When we opened our internet tubes for cleaning this week, we found something unsettling: rich men trying to stay forever young.

Apparently, it galls the mega-rich that they can have everything in the world but, just like you and me, will eventually die. With all their money! Die when they're ONLY 100 like any old poor person! Not fair! So they're doing something about it. And in some cases that "something" is bizarre.

Entrepreneur Dave Asprey thinks "it's not outrageous" to believe he'll live to 180. He's 47 so far. In his home, Asprey has a half-million-dollar bio-hacking lab designed to helping his body rest and recover from the strains of life. He also uses a cold cryotherapy chamber and has stem cells taken from his own bones and fat and then injected into multiple places on his body. He told a "Robb Report" interviewer he had the stem cells injected, "Into every joint, between every vertebra and into my cerebrospinal fluid, face and sex organs."

Peter Nygard, the billionaire fashion designer, is 79 and had been taking stem cell infusions for years. He once claimed tests showed he was actually getting younger each year, which could be a disaster for Nygard now that he's in jail on sex trafficking and rape charges.

A start-up called Ambrosia was charging $8,000 to transfuse blood plasma from young people (as young as 16) to older people (median age 60). The company had Silicon Valley interest but was shut down by its founder.

Aside from the vanity of individual rich people seeking to live longer, an entire anti-aging industry has been established with billions in funding by men such as the co-founder of Google Sergey Brin, co-founder of Oracle Larry Ellison, Amazon founder Jeff Bezos, and investor Peter Thiel. Not all the anti-aging investors are men. Liz Parrish, 49, is CEO of BioViva and she thinks life doesn't have to stop at 100. Six years ago, she had gene therapy performed in Colombia, receiving new genes and a virus that was designed to deliver those genes into her body's cells. The goal was to slow her aging. She was patient zero for her longevity company's new gene therapy. Parrish had to leave the country for the therapy because it would've been against federal regulations to perform the procedures in the United States. In an irony of what you can and cannot control about life, three years before Parrish left the country to experiment on herself in the hopes of developing a therapy that would keep her alive for decades beyond what is now considered a natural lifespan, her 9-year-old son was diagnosed with Type 1 diabetes.

Enabling people to live longer, healthier lives seems a noble pursuit. The longevity boosters are already talking about people downhill skiing on their 100th birthday. But let's face it: the live-longer option is going to be available only or primarily to people with the money to buy the stem cell or gene therapy that the tech investors are now putting billions of dollars into bringing to the market. The wealthiest Americans already enjoy eight to nine more disability-free years of life after 50 than the poorest Americans do. And the richest among us currently live an average of 12 years longer than the poorest Americans. If the rich technocrats' wishes to live-longer-and-prosper-even-more come true, that gap might be 40 or more years.

And here's something else to consider: The world birthrate is low enough that a world population decline is now inevitable, which leads to an aging population. According to "Why Population Aging Matters/ A Global Perspective," published by several U.S. government agencies, "Since the beginning of recorded human history, young children have outnumbered older people. Very soon this will change. For the first time in history, people age 65 and over will outnumber children under age 5. This trend is emerging around the globe." With this aging population comes a variety of problems, including burdens on retirement and social services programs and fewer younger people working and paying into those programs.

And yet, as this aging population crisis develops naturally and gets more intense each year, the rich would like to add to it so they can enjoy a few more years at the trough, a couple decades more of their featherbed lives. Bless their hearts.

By Brennan Waldorf

The Nandua Warriors finished their regular season as the 2021 District Champions last week May 26, in Onley. The Warriors played the Arcadia Firebirds on the Warriors' Senior Night, beating the district rival for the third time this season 11-3. Before the start of the game, Nandua recognized and honored seniors Betsael Ortiz-Roblero, Sebastian Bonilla, Jeffrey Joseph, Cameron Mears, and Kevin Rueda.

A game that saw both teams missing some key players started off tight with the score locked 3-3 at the end of the first half. But the Warriors, who had several good looks in the first but couldn't capitalize, turned it up a notch in the second shutting out the Firebirds 8-0 in the half.

The victory cemented Nandua as the 2021 District Champions as the team finished the regular season undefeated. The Warriors outstanding season has them positioned well in the region as they hope to secure the number one seed in the Region A Tournament. Arcadia and Nandua will wait to hear where they are seeded and who they'll play in the Division II Region A Tournament set to begin June 10.

Nandua's Hosleron Joseph has been an absolute menace to opposing backfields this season and capped the season off leading Nandua in scoring. He recorded a rare double hat trick against Arcadia scoring six goals in the contest. Odin Bolster followed by chipping in three goals with one assist, while Jeffrey Joseph and Sebastian Bonilla added one goal apiece. Bryan Tinoco and Tyler Greene pitched four shut-out innings allowing only one hit while striking out 11 batters to keep Nandua's undefeated season rolling along in a 14-0 defeat of Arcadia last Thursday.

Greene was supported by a five-run first inning from his offense, highlighted by a lead-off home run from Luke Parks. Dylan Ross added an RBI single, and a Jacob Meilhammer brought in two with a check-swing double to deep field.

From there, Greene frustrated the Firebirds' batters with both command and velocity. Parks, Ross, and Meil-

Tyler Padgett had the lone hit for the Firebirds, a double, and Landon

Fuller took the loss, pitching two innings, allowing five hits and five runs while striking out one.

Firebirds Make Strong Senior Night Show on Soccer Pitch

The Arcadia Firebirds put on an impressive display of offensive fortitude on Senior Night, dismantling the Northampton Yellow Jackets 8-1.

Individually, Franklin Juarez had a breakout performance with six goals, but to gain a perspective of his exploits is to also mention the tremendous efforts by his teammates in setting him up for success.

The game started with a light, steady rain, and the equally steady pressure of the Firebirds approaching the Yellow Jackets zone. Time and again, Arcadia challenged loose balls in the midfield and translated them into opportunities for its strikers. The game remained scoreless, however, until the 24th minute, when Alex Soto threaded a low pass to Juarez who connected on a mid-range shot.

Northampton struggled to enter Arcadia's zone, as the Firebirds defenders used their speed to swallow any open spaces for movement. When Jose Gomez found Elder DiazReynoso with a pass, Arcadia's goalkeeper, Jenrry Vasquez, simply ran to the action to neutralize the opportunity.

Arcadia added to their lead in the 36th minute after Larry Velasques precisely directed a free kick in the direction of Juarez, who headed the ball to the back of the net.

Coach John O' Brien Jr. substituted Jon Molina in goal for the second half, but the action largely remained on the Yellow Jackets' end of the pitch. Two minutes into the second half, Sergio Escalante sent a beautiful, cross field pass to Juarez, allowing him to run out and score his third goal of the game.

Despite the deficit, Northampton continued to seek any moments of complacency to their advantage, and after the referee called an Arcadia player for not defending the ball, Abraham Guerreo made the most of the free kick opportunity, sending a shot soaring just above Molina's hands.

From there, the Firebirds quickly regained their focus and started to score goals at a torrid pace. Juarez scored his fourth goal fighting for a loose ball. Next, Escalante sent a perfect corner kick for a Velasques header. For goals six and seven, Lillmer Perez set up Juarez with scintillating passes, and Perez rounded out the scoring chipping in a goal off a pass from Kelvin Perez.

While the stats sheet largely lists one man for the majority of the goals, the total team effort from Arcadia made Perez's amazing efforts possible.

The win was the Firebirds' fourth on the season, on Senior Night, which honored the contributions of captains, Ronaldo Lopez, Angel Larreinaga, and Larry Velasques, as well as Abe Mateos and Jenrry Vasquez.

The Arcadia Firebirds secured their first district championship in 14 years, defeating the Nandua Warriors for senior night last Thursday.

Seniors Hailey Berry, Skylar Stapleton, and Haley McDaniel were all honored prior to the game, then proceeded to make strong contributions on the field to bring their school a long-awaited title. McDaniel finished the game with a pair of hits, an RBI, and scored two runs, while providing a solid defensive anchor at shortstop. Brianna Montross and Hannah Parks, likewise, had two hits, and Savannah McDonald had a hit and scored two pivotal runs.

Sydney Jester tossed a complete game for Arcadia, allowing two earned runs on hits, with no walks and eight strikeouts.

Alana Shea incurred the loss for Nandua, allowing seven runs on nine hits. Shea was relieved by Reghan Hintz, who pitched 2.2 scoreless innings. Hailey Justice and Jaelyn Killmon both had two hits and an RBI for Nandua, and Carol Hope Greer's solid RBI double in the bottom half of the seventh inning capped a rally for Nandua that fell just short.

ODU Wins Conference USA Title With Help of Local Players

By Brennan Waldorf

The Old Dominion Monarchs won their first Conference USA baseball title last weekend, May 30, against Louisiana Tech.

Chincoteague's Trey Fisher and Pocomoke's Jared Hancock both play for the Big Blue team that's currently 42-14 on the season and was last seen in the eighth position of the final NCAA RPI rankings.

The Monarchs beat the Bulldogs 7-5 and have been given the number 11 seed in the NCAA DI College World Series. The Monarchs are the number one seed in the Columbia Regional and will play Jacksonville June 4 at 7 p.m. If they win, they'll face off against the winner of the Virginia and South Carolina Game.

Arcadia Loses in Hard-Fought Battle With Chincoteague

SOFTBALL

Chincoteague 8
Arcadia 6

By Matthew Yoder

With playoff seeding at stake, the Chincoteague Ponies bested the Arcadia Firebirds for the second time this season Tuesday night by a score of 8-6.

The Ponies welcomed back starting pitcher Alex McComb and put aside a pair of disappointing losses to get back into the win column. McComb was largely economical in her pitch count, picking up her fifth win of the season going the distance allowing six hits, while striking out five.

Emma Jackson provided the offense for Chincoteague, hitting tremendous home runs in both her first and third at bats, tallying four hits in total on the night with six RBIs. Lily Mathews added a pair of hits, and Danielle Jimmo got the start in left field, playing her final game as a graduating senior and leaving in style with a hit.

The Arcadia Firebirds made a valiant effort in the bottom on the seventh inning to rally, following a lead-off walk from Haley McDaniel and single to centerfield off the bat of Brianna Montross. A pair of Pony infield errors brought home both runners and left two more on base for Skylar Stapleton, who hit a towering home run to left field, bridging the gap to two runs. Arcadia kept the rally alive, but McComb battled, striking out Taylor Fluhart, who replaced an injured Jayda Tull, to end the game. Sydney Jester took the loss for Arcadia.

Vikings Crack Top 5 In State Track Championship Meet

By Brennan Waldorf

The Broadwater Vikings track and field teams traveled to Richmond May 21 to compete in the 2021 VISAA State Championship Meet at the Sports Backer Stadium.

Broadwater was a small fish in a big pond as a Division III team. They competed as Division II team due to the small number of Division III teams but produced big results on a disproportionate stage. The boys team placed fourth overall with only five athletes qualifying and the girls weren't far behind as they placed eighth overall.

Walsingham Academy ran away with the girls division with 118 points and the boys event was won by Norfolk Christian with 84 points. The Vikings found the most success in the field events and were highlighted by Gunnar Gustafson capturing his third state championship in the pole vault and Clay Wardius claiming a state title in the high jump. Gustafson was awarded The Outstanding Field Event Performer after placing in six events including the pole vault, high jump, long jump, triple jump, discus, and shot put. Senior Brant Bloxom landed on the Second Team All State after finishing second in the high jump behind Wardius who broke the school record with a 6'3" leap.

The Vikings have been top performers at the state meet for the last decade and were the 2016 boys and girls state champions. They were viewed as a long shot in the boys 4x100 but Gunnar Gustafson, Reade Nicolls, Ture Gustafson, and Clay Wardius strung together quite a performance, running the event in 48.24 seconds for a fourth place finish. Broadwater boys finished with 62 points placing several athletes on the podium while the girls finished with 26 points with senior Hannah Davis making All-State Honorable Mention.

Nathan Barnes picked up his third win of the season in dominating fashion, going six innings, while allowing only two hits and striking out 11 to help fuel Arcadia's 7-3 defeat of Chincoteague Tuesday evening.

Barnes helped his own cause at the plate, going 2-4, with two RBIs, while scoring two runs. Tyler Padgett and Armonte Dickerson also had two hits apiece for the Firebirds, and Brooks Mariner Jr. and Bradley Hall each added RBI hits. The Ponies staged a last inning rally but fell short, as Arcadia notched its fourth win in the regular season finale. Marcello Rosa-nova took the loss on the mound for Chincoteague.

Nathan Barnes continued his strong season on the mound for Arcadia, striking out 11 Chincoteague batters Tuesday night for his third win.

VHSL Presents Wilfong With 2021 Regional Award of Merit

Mike Myers, Northampton principal and Virginia High School League Region 1A chairman, presents the VHSL Regional Award of Merit to Richard Wilfong.

Submitted Article and Photo

The Virginia High School League recently presented Richard Wilfong with its Regional Award of Merit for his administrative efforts during his career and as a member of Region 1A while working for Northampton High School.

In addition to his many accolades, Wilfong recently won his 100th game as a cross-country coach.

A Harrisonburg, Va., native, Wilfong came to Northampton High School in 1989 as assistant principal after an already successful coaching career elsewhere in the state.

He retired after 15 years as assistant principal and then taught horticulture part time for seven years. It was while teaching that Wilfong began coaching cross-country, compiling championship records for both boys and girls teams.

Wilfong returned to administration in 2010 as the school's athletic director, a position he served in until his retirement last fall.

Youth Shore Soccer Making a Splash on the Big Stage

A desire to get Shore athletes better competition and coverage has led to another Shore Travel team finding success. Head coach J.P. Binard formed the ESVA Football Club Under-12 Co-Ed team last year after convincing officials of the Beach Football Club to allow his team to play in the Advanced Rec League. The team's success in the league led it to being promoted to the U12 Travel Lite Division this year where the team went 6-2. ESVA FC's played against teams from Virginia Beach, Williamsburg, and Petersburg and were recognized not just for the team's outstanding play but also great sportsmanship. The team will be moving up to the next division in the fall after winning the division and will be holding tryouts toward the end of summer. Photo by Rachel Stevens.

As YMCA Celebrates Cape Charles Branch Opening, Eyes Are Already On Expansion

Story and Photos by Jim Ritch

More than two years of fundraising and construction culminated in the ribbon-cutting and official opening Saturday of the new Northampton County YMCA in Cape Charles.

The $4.7 million fundraising campaign, led by volunteer Bruce Bradley, retired president of Landmark Publishing Group, was so successful that the ceremony also marked a mere pause in construction.

Already, $500,000 has been raised toward a new gymnasium that will facilitate summer camps and other community events, said Anthony Walters, president and CEO of the YMCA of South Hampton Roads.

"We accomplished this great goal. Now, it's 'Wouldn't it be nice if we could' add further to the facility, said Walter.

The gymnasium will cost an estimated $1.3 million to build and might include garage door openings or other features to promote varied uses, including weddings and family reunions.

"There are opportunities to bring the community together in other ways," Walters said.

Much of the fundraising resources and team remain in place, he said.

Addressing a crowd that packed the new lobby and spilled into the exercise area, Bradley asked individuals to contribute toward underwriting memberships for needy county residents.

He said that $500 would make possible a family membership for two adults and children; $300, a family membership for a single parent and children; and $100, one child's membership.

The new facility will employ 50 to 60 people, mostly part-time employees. Employment could grow to about 75 workers with the opening of summer camps.

Directing the operation will be five full-time employees, who will divide their time between the Northampton County YMCA, in Cape Charles, and Eastern Shore YMCA, in Onley.

Membership is off to a strong start with 100 families and individuals having signed up, Walter said.

To break even financially, the facility will need about 300 memberships.

Health Matters June Is Stroke Awareness Month

Courtesy of Virginia Department of Health

A stroke, sometimes called a "brain attack," occurs when something blocks the blood supply to part of the brain, known as ischemic stroke, or when a blood vessel in the brain bursts, known as hemorrhagic stroke. You can greatly reduce your risk for stroke through lifestyle changes and, in some cases, medication.

To understand stroke, it helps to understand the brain. The brain controls our movements, stores our memories, and is the source of our thoughts, emotions, and language. The brain also controls many functions of the body, like breathing and digestion. To work properly, your brain needs oxygen. When something happens that blocks the flow of oxygen to the brain, the brain cells are damaged. This causes a stroke.

Prevention

Up to 80% of strokes are preventable.

If you want to prevent a stroke, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends living a healthy lifestyle and preventing or treating your medical conditions. Here are some healthy behaviors that will minimize your risk of stroke:

- Know your blood pressure! If it's high, control your blood pressure through diet, exercise, and medication.
- Eat a healthy diet. Eat plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables, whole grains, lean meats, and fat-free or low-fat dairy products. Limit foods high in saturated fat, cholesterol, salt (sodium), and sugar.
- Maintain a healthy weight. To determine if your weight is in a healthy range, you can calculate your body mass index (BMI).
- Stay active. The surgeon general recommends that adults should engage in moderate-intensity exercise (brisk walking, water aerobics, bicycling) for at least 150 minutes per week.
- Quit smoking. Smoking doubles the risk of stroke. If you need help quitting, call the QUIT NOW Virginia toll free line at 800-784-8669.

• Avoid drinking too much alcohol. Drinking too much alcohol can increase your blood pressure and the risk of stroke.

Signs and Symptoms of Stroke

Some new treatments can reduce stroke damage if you get medical care soon after symptoms begin. When a stroke happens, it is important to recognize the symptoms, call 911 right away, and get to a hospital quickly.

Treatment

Type of stroke, ischemic or hemorrhagic, will determine which treatment options are available. Ischemic stroke occurs when a clot or embolism blocks a blood vessel going to the brain and is the most common type of stroke. The goal of treatment is to bust or remove the clot; the available options of treatment are time sensitive so call 911 at first suspicion of stroke. Depending on the stroke location, time from onset of symptoms, and hospital specialization will determine if treatment with a clot-busting drug or physical removal of the clot is an option. Hemorrhagic stroke occurs when a weakened vessel in the brain bursts spilling blood into surrounding brain tissue. The goal of treatment is to stop the bleeding either by a catheter guided coil or by surgical means.

Court Green Day

The Northampton Historic Preservation Society will host Court Green Day, Sunday, June 13, noon to 4 p.m., in Eastville as a fundraising event for the restoration of the 1907 jail.

Activities include visits to the 1907 jail, the 1731 courthouse, the clerk's office, and the debtors prison. Docents will be on hand to discuss the purpose and use of the buildings and to answer questions. Box lunches from the Eastville Inn will be available between noon and 1:30 p.m., for $10, and must be ordered in advance through the NHPS website, northamptonhistoricpreservationsociety.com, by June 8.

Donations for the restoration will be accepted throughout the event, via cash or check.

ESVCF Announces Spring Grant Recipients

The Eastern Shore of Virginia Community Foundation board of directors met in April and awarded grants to the Accomack-Northampton Pregnancy Center, the Eastern Shore Agency on Aging, Historic Cokesbury Cultural Center, Arts Enter, the Davis Center, the Eastern Shore of Virginia Public Library Foundation, and Children's Harbor. In addition, an emergency COVID-19 grant was awarded to the Dos Santos Food Pantry. The spring 2021 grants total $292,000.

The grant application from A-N Pregnancy Center funded the purchase of infant car seats for three years as part of the center's Project Safe Ride Home.

The Eastern Shore Action Agency on Aging was awarded a grant to purchase a refrigerated transport vehicle to support the agency's Meals on Wheels program.

The Historic Cokesbury Cultural Center was awarded funding to restore and preserve the exterior of the building.

ArtsEnter, a community arts organization in Cape Charles, was also awarded a challenge grant to upgrade theater equipment.

Also awarded a grant this spring was The Davis Center, located in Whitesville adjacent to Parksley, to help restore the center's community center.

The ESVCF awarded grant funding to Children's Harbor, a nonprofit organization that will provide expanded, affordable day care services in the Onancock area.

Dos Santos Food Pantry in Pungoteague received an emergency grant to purchase food for distribution up and down the Shore.

Senior Farmers Market
Nutrition Program

The Virginia Department for the Aging will be providing coupons to seniors whose income is below 150% of the poverty level. The coupons can be exchanged for fresh fruits and vegetables at authorized roadside stands. Eligible participants must be age 60 or over and will be able to receive $45 for individuals or $90 per couple in coupons.

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic and the safety of all participants and staff members, the ESAAA/CAA will be adjusting the process for application approval and coupon distribution via the steps below:

1. *Applications will be collected via telephone initially.
2. Pending review of application, they will be mailed to the appropriate party to obtain required signatures from the applicant.
3. Once the application is received back from the party, and pending approval, coupons will then be distributed accordingly.

Telephone intakes for the program will be June 21 through 24, from 9 a.m.–noon. The coupons are distributed on a first come, first served basis.

*Reservations for applications will only be processed during the allotted times above, any phone calls received outside of the allotted times are prone to failure of processing.

Long-Term Investments Are Best Opportunities

By The ESVA Chamber of Commerce

Accomack and Northampton counties are slated to receive a total of $8.5 million from the American Rescue Plan Act of 2021, and the ESVA Chamber of Commerce is urging the counties to take a long-term perspective with its investment.

The U.S. government provided a great degree of flexibility in not only what these funds can be spent on, but when they need to be spent. Counties have until the end of 2024 to obligate them and 2026 to spend them. They did that for good reason, providing lots of time to invest this funding thoughtfully.

The ESVA Chamber is urging both counties to work cooperatively and invest in areas that will bring a future return to its citizens. By investing properly, our citizens can receive a benefit many times in size in future years. Incorporated towns are receiving funds as well and should explore how they might collaborate with neighboring towns to increase funding impact.

The ESVA Chamber proposes focusing on areas that have two characteristics: broad impact and long-term benefits. Specific areas for the counties to consider are:

- Affordable housing
- Childcare access
- Transportation
- Broadband internet access
- Skilled labor development and workforce training
- Reducing energy costs
- Economic development.

But that is not all. Since labor shortages are dire heading into critical summer months, the ESVA Chamber proposes a portion of this money be utilized to offer incentives to citizens that come off unemployment and re-enter the workforce.

Finally, we urge the board of supervisors from both counties to set aside at least 20% of this funding for strategic, long-term investments in a regional effort. To determine the best means to invest this 20%, the ESVA Chamber would convene a commission of leaders from across all sectors of ESVA industry, hear proposals, create a strategic investment plan, and present this plan to the board of supervisors for their approval. Our board and our members represent all industry sectors across the Shore, so we already have the mechanism in place to do this.

ACPS Sweet Deal

Dear Editor:

Did you know Accomack County School year-round employees (not teachers) have more paid time off than state and county workers? I listened to a recent school board meeting where they talked about and voted on just working four days a week this summer. They also managed to give themselves a five-day weekend for 4th of July, paid of course. How do you get five days off for a holiday that falls on a Sunday? The county employees get July 5 off as a holiday.

The pandemic was difficult on the children and families of this county and the students missed out on so much this past year. Why are the school division employees working LESS?

Whither ANEC?

As the Shore struggles to solve the difficult problem of getting affordable high-speed broadband to 100% of its homes and businesses, we ask, "What is the Accomack-Northampton Electric Cooperative doing to help?"

In some Virginia counties, the electric co-ops are taking the lead role. In Nelson County, the Central Virginia Electric Cooperative, through its subsidiary Firefly Fiber Broadband, has committed to provide the entire county with broadband by 2024.

Indeed, the CVEC will provide broadband to all of its members by 2022.

In Louisa County, the Rappahannock Electric Cooperative, with Firefly, has committed to provide broadband to 100% of the county by 2025.

And in the Shenandoah Valley, the BARC Electric Cooperative is now offering broadband to its 13,000 members in five counties and the cities of Lexington and Buena Vista.

We live a mile from the current Spectrum and Broadband Authority service areas, and a half mile from a state road. At the Northampton public hearing last week, Administrator Kolakowski acknowledged that authority broadband connections can cost many thousands of dollars to homes like ours, especially if the fiber is buried underground.

Yet ANEC electric service comes directly to our home already via utility poles until it goes underground for the last 300 yards.

It seems like ANEC, with its many years of experience and ample resources, could play more of a lead role in providing broadband to our community so we can educate our kids and grow economically.

Boys & Girls Club Grateful

The Eastern Shore Boys & Girls Club is grateful to good Samaritan, Jim LeCato, the president and chief of the Nassawadox Fire and Rescue Station. Because of Chief LeCato's generosity, Kathy Custis and staff were able to offer academic support to club members in the station's community space throughout the winter and spring. The program operated Mondays and Wednesdays when students weren't going to school and participated virtually on a hybrid schedule. The opportunity relieved stress felt by working parents and provided a social outlet for elementary and middle school students who have had few opportunities to play with others since the onset of the pandemic.

High school students are gathering at the YMCA two evenings a week thanks to another good Samaritan, Executive Director Andre Elliott. As difficult as the last 14 months have been for adults, they've been as difficult (or more so) for our children and teens. We at the Eastern Shore Boys & Girls Club want to acknowledge how important these opportunities have been for our children, teens, and families, and applaud the community leadership shown by Chief LeCato and Mr. Elliott.

Many thanks also to all the individuals who contributed to the B&GC lunch bus. You've all made a huge difference and we appreciate your support.

Karen Hatch and the Auxiliary Board of the Eastern Shore Boys & Girls Club
