NANDUA: DIVISION II STATE SOCCER CHAMPS

Jonathan Ramirez grasps the Virginia State Soccer Championship trophy as spectators rush the field and launch the champ in the air.

Story and Photos by Brennan Waldorf

The Nandua Warriors hosted the Graham G-Men, from Bluefield, Va., June 23 in the Division II Boys Soccer State Championship in Onley. The Warriors wrote their names in the school's history books by beating Graham 6-1 in front of a large home crowd. Nandua dominated through both halves, racking up 33 shots on goal compared to the G-Men's seven.

Scoring opened when Graham's Benjamin Morgan had a solo goal just four minutes into the game, but it proved to be Graham's only goal. Nandua defenders quickly put Morgan on high priority, shutting the quick forward down the rest of the game.

Bryan Tinoco was first to score for the Warriors on a solo goal at the 31-minute mark. Odin Bolster then followed with two goals, his first one assisted by Leo Bonilla shortly after Tinoco's to give Nandua its first lead at the 29-minute mark. Odin Bolster then hit a solo goal at 8:32 from the left side giving Nandua a 3-1 lead, which they kept until the close of the half.

The second half saw a barrage of shots by Nandua as the Warriors poured in 17 compared to Graham's three shots. Despite the G-Men's 11 saves, Nandua still put three more scores on the board and shut out the G-Men in the second.

seph at the 33-minute mark and followed it later with a solo goal at the 8:39 mark. Joseph chipped in the last goal at the six-minute mark on a Jonathan Ramirez assist to clinch the game.

Injuries piled up on both sides throughout the game, including Graham's starting goalie Nicholas Knowles having to leave the game with 15 minutes left. Nandua's Clarvens Derizard was injured at the end of the first quarter and did not return. He scored in the first but the goal was called off due to an offside call.

Nandua and Graham adjusted to the injuries accordingly, but it was Nandua that came out on top completing a perfect season 13-0 and becoming the 2021 Division II state soccer champs.

Chincoteague Town Council Continues Discussions on Causeway Safety

By Carol Vaughn

The Chincoteague Town Council continued discussing problems with the Chincoteague causeway at the council's work session Thursday.

Town Manager Mike Tolbert reported he spoke with Chris Isdell of the Virginia Department of Transportation about causeway safety, including the idea of making it a no passing zone.

VDOT currently is doing pavement sealing work on the causeway and Isdell asked whether the council wants to make any changes to passing zones before line painting is done.

If town officials wanted to remove passing zones, a VDOT engineer would need to do a traffic study before changes are made. The study would take around three weeks, Tolbert said.

The center line but not edge lines will be reflective but the causeway will not have center line rumble strips under the current plan of work, he said.

Councilwoman Denise Bowden said she formerly was on board with making the entire causeway a no passing zone but said she no longer feels that way because people pass anyway in the double yellow line areas.

“If they are passing on a solid yellow line now they are going to continue to do it, so I would still like to have passing zones on the causeway because at least that does give them a safe option if they are going to pass anyway,” Bowden said.

Bowden said the council should ask the state for other causeway improvements, including rumble strips, cameras, and more state police presence.

“I feel like we need to ask for everything right now and then see what we get from them,” she said.

Vice Mayor Chris Bott asked whether the roadway is wide enough to accommodate rumble strips. He said he would like to see reflectors added to the edges of the roadway.

“When you are coming across on a dark night and it is blowing and raining, those reflectors make a world of difference,” he said.

Bowden agreed.

Councilman William T. McComb Jr. said signage also is needed, including signs noting where drivers can pull off. Bowden recommended signs telling drivers to maintain speed on the causeway.

“You have a lot of folks that impede traffic sightseeing. We live in a beautiful area — we all get it,” McComb said.

Leonard said the town did not get notice beforehand about the work currently going on on the causeway.

“I don’t know if it’s time to get our representation on board, whether it be the county representation or our state (representatives)...to go to VDOT and say, ‘Look, this road in the summertime is a major thoroughfare,’” he said.

Leonard noted a study was done of Chincoteague Road from Route 13 to the Royal Farms, but said VDOT also needs to study and address issues with the causeway itself.

“That is what VDOT is paid to do, is study the roads,” he said, adding, “...I think it’s time we go over Suffolk District’s head and go to the state level.”

Leonard also said people swerving to avoid running over terrapins crossing the road this time of year are a hazard on the causeway. He said VDOT needs to look at putting up some type of barrier to stop terrapins from crossing the roadway.

Leonard reiterated the council’s recommendation is to keep the passing zones as they are but to try to engage VDOT at the state level about causeway safety improvements.

Bowden asked about the traffic signal at the intersection of Maddox Boulevard and Main Street, where lengthy backups often happen during summer.

Tolbert said he sent a letter about the problem to Isdell, who passed it along to the Suffolk District office.

Tolbert, Chincoteague Police Chief Robbie Fisher, Emergency Management Coordinator Bryan Rush, and Public Works Director Harvey Spurlock met recently to discuss changes the town would like to see made to the signal, which might help the traffic problems there.

“I put those in writing and sent them in a formal letter to Chris Isdell. He passed them along (to the district office)...and we’re hoping to get a response from them quickly,” Tolbert said.

Floating Dock Project

The council approved purchasing floating docks for installation at the harbor from Raven’s Marine, at a cost of $120,000.

American Rescue Plan Update

Chincoteague should receive the first half of a federal allotment resulting from the American Rescue Plan Act within a week. The amount of the first payment is $1.491 million, according to Tolbert.

A second payment is to be made in 12 months.

A public hearing on use of the funds is scheduled for Thursday, July 15.

Tolbert recommended the mayor appoint a subcommittee of the council to review projects, costs, and benefits. The committee would make recommendations to the full council for projects to approve.

The town has until December 2024 to encumber the money and until December 2026 to distribute the money.

Neighborhood Cats Complaint

Teresa Hockensmith, a resident of Ocean Breeze, told the town council it is her last hope to address a problem with feral cats in the neighborhood.

“We have never had a cat problem down there,” said Hockensmith, a 20-year part-time resident.

Three years ago, a neighbor “started a cat colony,” she said, adding, “They are spaying, neuter(ing) them and he’s bringing them back.”

“They are pooping and they are a nuisance all over the place. They have created havoc in the neighborhood,” she said.

Mayor J. Arthur Leonard said the matter would be discussed at a future ordinance committee meeting, saying perhaps a nuisance ordinance or similar measure could address the situation.

“I want help so I can continue to come down here and enjoy it with my family,” Hockensmith said.

VDOE Considers New Math Standards Emphasizing Problem Solving

By Stefanie Jackson

The Virginia Math Pathways Initiative (VMPI) is a collaboration of the Virginia Department of Education (VDOE), the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia, and Virginia's Community Colleges to determine how K-12 public school math curriculums can be reimagined to better prepare students for success after high school, no matter which career they choose to pursue.

VDOE also wishes to address inequities among student groups in the math classroom.

For example, 82% of Virginia students passed the math Standards of Learning or SOL tests in 2019, including 94% of Asian students and 88% of White students but only 74% of Hispanic students and 70% of Black students.

Similarly, data from the 2017-2018 school year revealed that of all students taking developmental math courses in community college, 17% were Asian, 23% were White, 29% were Hispanic, and 41% were Black.

VDOE promotes the idea that "everyone is a math person" and each student can succeed in math when schools focus on teaching math concepts and tailoring course schedules to students' individual abilities and career interests, not accelerating all students to advanced math courses that they may not need.

Less than 19% of students who take calculus I in high school take calculus II in college because it is often not required for the degrees they pursue.

Only 28% of college majors require calculus; 72% of majors require other math courses.

"Why, then, this race to calculus?" asked Tina Mazzacane, VDOE's K-12 mathematics coordinator, during a VMPI online presentation March 23.

High school students, no matter what secondary education and career paths they pursue, should be able to take relevant math courses, including statistics, mathematical modeling, data science, and other types of technical math, she said.

The employment of statisticians and mathematicians is expected to grow an average of 33% from 2019 to 2029 – faster than all other occupations.

Learning and building on basic math concepts instead of studying subjects like algebra and geometry in isolation gives students "a better alignment of skills that make relevant connections, which allow students to have greater retention of the knowledge and ability to transfer the knowledge to new situations," said Justin Maffei, a Warren County Public Schools educator who participated in a VMPI online presentation April 27.

"The content from Math 8, algebra I, geometry, and algebra II is not being eliminated by the VMPI, but rather the content of these isolated courses will be blended into a seamless progression of connected learning in the essential concept course sequence," Mazzacane noted.

Math taught in grades eight, nine, and 10 would be three progressive levels of essential math concepts from algebra I, algebra II, and geometry. No math subject would be taught as a stand-alone course. For example, a ninth-grade math class might study elements of both algebra I and geometry.

A presentation slide showed grades eight, nine, and 10 being taught Essential Concepts I, II, and III, but it noted that those course names were for sample purposes only and school divisions may name their math courses to reflect the algebra I and II and geometry content taught.

"The Virginia Math Pathways Initiative also supports a curriculum that is rich and not rushed," said Jennifer Allard, a Fairfax County Public Schools educator who participated in the March 23 online meeting.

Some students can accelerate to year-long studies of pre-calculus and calculus in grades 11 and 12, but others may take semester-long classes in trigonometry applications, geometry and design, math modeling, and financial modeling.

For example, an aspiring engineer will take calculus, but a future small business owner may be more interested in financial modeling.

The presenters emphasized that even though some junior and senior math classes would be more advanced than others, they would be equally rigorous.

The VMPI plan “drastically reduces the need for acceleration ... but that’s without taking anything away from students – it’s deepening their knowledge and understanding and giving them opportunities to explore and problem-solve,” Allard said.

VMPI proposes K-12 math standards that shift away from basic calculations and routine math practice to reasoning, communication, conceptual connections, and real-world problem solving.

Ray Singletary, a Manassas County Public Schools educator who participated in the April 27 meeting, provided the following as an example of a “non-routine” math problem:

“The dimensions of a walk-in closet are six feet by four feet. The floor is to be tiled. Which tile do you select, what is the cost, and why did you select this option?”

The problem requires students to not just calculate, but to research tile shapes, sizes, quantities, and costs, and to think critically about which available options would work best.

One real-world question presents an opportunity “for our students to develop knowledge of area, perimeter, money, decimals, multiplication, addition, comparing numbers, while also providing access to sustaining inquiry and providing space for students to justify their decisions,” Singletary said.

Giving students “authentic tasks” to complete shows them how math is applied. The floor tile problem requires students to not only use math but evaluate information and make choices to find a solution.

With multiple paths to explore to find solutions, students become better problem-solvers and “begin to see themselves as capable learners,” Singletary said.

Giving students choices along the way provides “entry points for students at various levels of prior understanding,” he added.

This shift in focus from routine practice to real-world application of math encourages students to see themselves as “knowers and doers of mathematics,” empowering them and supporting their future success, the presentation stated.

The work of the Virginia Math Pathways Initiative is ongoing and the current Virginia Standards of Learning for math remain unchanged, the presenters emphasized.

VMPI expects to have recommendations ready for review by the Virginia Board of Education and Superintendent of Public Instruction in 2023, with full implementation of the recommendations by the 2025-2026 school year.

Coast Guard Assists Sinking Boat With 4 People Aboard

Staff Report

The Coast Guard dewatered and towed a vessel with four people aboard that was taking on water Thursday 32 miles east of Wachapreague Inlet.

Watchstanders at Coast Guard Sector Virginia received the report at 7:08 a.m. They issued an Urgent Marine Information Broadcast, then dispatched a 45-foot response boat from Station Wachapreague, a 47-foot motor lifeboat crew from Station Chincoteague, an MH-60 Dolphin helicopter crew from Air Station Elizabeth City, and Coast Guard Cutter Angela McShan to respond.

The Angela McShan arrived on scene at 8:11 a.m. to assess the vessel’s stability. At 9:05 a.m., the boat crew from Station Wachapreague transferred a dewatering pump to the sinking vessel and took the vessel under tow.

After a six-hour tow, Station Wachapreague moored the vessel in Wachapreague, where it was later trail-ered. No injuries were reported.

“Situations can change very quickly while you’re out on the water, which is why it’s so important to have the requisite safety equipment in case of an emergency,” said Chief Warrant Officer Daniel Butierries, search and rescue mission coordinator at Coast Guard Sector Virginia.

“A working VHF-FM radio is imperative, and always make sure that you and your passengers are wearing life jackets,” he said.

Planning for Your Future

How much does senior living cost and how do people pay for it?

You're the kind of person who plans ahead. You chose a home that fit your budget and helped the kids pay for college. Now is the time to start preparing for your future by choosing a senior living community. But how much will it cost?

The cost for senior living depends on the size suite you select as well as the amount of support you require. On average, this works out to be between $3,500 - $5,000 per month.

Families pay for senior living in a variety of ways. If you have invested in Long Term Care insurance, this is the time to reach out to your insurance provider and ask about qualifying for benefits. Many families sell the home and use part of the sale to pay for senior living. Finally, if you served in the military during wartime or had a spouse who served, you may be eligible for senior living benefits:

Veterans Aid & Attendance

Veteran	$1,936/mo*
Surviving Spouse	$1,295/mo*
Couple	$2,296/mo*

*Depending on the level of care needed.

This benefit combined with social security payments and savings often covers the cost of senior living.

Ultimately, the formula of how senior living is paid works out to be different for every family. But just like any decision you make for the future, it is worth the time and effort to plan ahead, choose the right community, and design a plan that makes sense for you.

Accomack School Board Approves Resource Officer MOU

By Stefanie Jackson

The Accomack school board voted unanimously June 15 to approve a memorandum of understanding or MOU between the school district and the Chincoteague Police Department, allowing the CPD to continue the application process for a state grant that would fund a new school resource officer position at Chincoteague High School for the next two years.

Chairman Paul Bull, anticipating that the school board would approve the MOU, had signed it two weeks ahead of the vote so the CPD could meet a grant application deadline.

A public hearing was held June 15 before the vote on the MOU, with only one person commenting, Karen Downing, who spoke on behalf of the Eastern Shore chapter of Virginia Organizing.

She questioned why a separate MOU for school resource officers was needed for the Chincoteague Police Department when the school board had approved an identical MOU for the Accomack County Sheriff's Office in September 2020, which should have covered the entire county, including its towns.

Bull clarified that the separate MOU was needed for the grant application.

Downing also remarked that "the MOU that was signed in September, it was done so in an urgent manner ... right before school started. And here we are again, with this urgent matter, and it seems like it's more of a business practice than an exception."

She spoke again during the regular public comment period to voice concern over alleged issues with sportsmanship during competitions on Accomack County Public Schools athletic fields.

Bull noted that the allegations were being investigated and a report would

Course Offering Guide

Director of Secondary Education Karen Taylor presented the school board with the proposed Accomack County Public Schools Course Offering and Graduation Guide for the 2021-2022 school year.

The proposed guide addressed new requirements from the Virginia Department of Education (VDOE), particularly that a student now must pass only five Standards of Learning or SOL tests to graduate with either a standard or advanced diploma, down from six and nine, respectively, Taylor said.

The biggest change in the guide was the addition of more electives and dual-enrollment classes that students may take.

More automotive dual-enrollment classes will be offered so that participating students can graduate with up to 10 automotive certifications and five college classes completed.

Emergency medical technician or EMT dual-enrollment classes will be offered; Taylor is still working out the details with Eastern Shore Community College (ESCC), which will include age requirements and experiences in the field such as participating in ambulance runs.

Two environmental science dual-enrollment classes will be offered; students who take both courses will earn eight college credits.

School board member Camesha Handy suggested also adding a dual-enrollment student development class, a one-credit, approximately eight-week course that all college students must take before graduating, which teaches them college success skills.

The course covers topics such as college and university operations, fiscal responsibility, and the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act, Handy said.

She believes all high school graduates who have taken dual-enrollment courses should be “fully aware of what college is really about.”

New history courses to be offered include foundations of history, an elective that can be used as remediation to help a student pass a history SOL needed for graduation, and African American history, an elective set to return after about a 15-year hiatus.

Seven computer science courses will be added, three of which will be electives. The other four computer science courses can be used to fulfill standard credit requirements for graduation: computer math for one math credit, Advanced Placement (AP) computer science A for one science credit, and programming or advanced programming for one career and technical education (CTE) credit.

ACPS also will offer the Virginia Teachers of Tomorrow curriculum, a program approved by VDOE for students interested in education careers, which teaches the foundations of education and provides field experiences.

Accomack students took about 320 dual-enrollment and 150 AP courses this year.

The number of dual-enrollment and AP classes being dropped by students decreased “dramatically” since a $100 penalty was introduced for dropping those types of classes, Taylor said.

The $100 penalty also must be paid if a student earns a grade of D or F in a dual-enrollment or AP class.

The course offering guide also will be changed to align with ESCC’s requirements for dual-enrollment and career and technical education CTE classes.

A student must have a minimum grade-point average (GPA) of 2.0 to take CTE classes and 3.0 for dual-enrollment classes. A student who does not meet the minimum GPA requirements will not be permitted to take a dual-enrollment or CTE course with a letter of recommendation from a teacher.

ACPS will also require a minimum GPA of 3.0 to take AP classes; a GPA of 3.5 is recommended to take either a dual-enrollment or AP class.

About 30% of ACPS students will meet the 3.0 GPA requirement to take dual-enrollment or AP classes. Taylor noted more students achieve a 3.0 GPA now that ACPS uses a 10-point grading scale.

Virtual Virginia

Assistant Superintendent Rhonda Hall reported that of 4,866 ACPS students, only 107, or 2% of students, applied to participate in virtual learning for the 2021-2022 school year through the online learning program Virtual Virginia.

Of the 107 applications received, 69 were approved by a committee of school personnel and administrators, based on the students’ previous experience with virtual learning, including online class attendance, grades, and SOL data.

About 1.4% of ACPS students were approved for virtual learning when classes resume this fall.

Approval of Library Roof Change Order Pushes Price Tag Up by $50,000

By Carol Vaughn

The Accomack County Board of Supervisors approved a change order related to steel roof decking for the new Eastern Shore Regional Library.

The estimate to replace the existing roof on the older part of the building, which formerly was a grocery store, came in at $162,093, with a note that there would be a four- to five-month wait for the roofing material.

A second estimate, based on receiving materials more quickly, in six weeks, from a different supplier, was for around $186,000, according to Deputy County Administrator Stewart Hall.

Both options are higher than the $130,000 the board had authorized in May.

The second, faster option would use up all remaining contingency funds for the construction project and leave a $7,000 shortfall.

Supervisor Paul Muhly, who serves on the library construction steering committee, said it was the committee's consensus that the longer wait time is "absolutely unacceptable."

"Anybody that is familiar with the present condition of the library — it is ... the steering committee's consensus that we go ahead and bite the bullet and go for the shorter time to get this project done. Until we get that new roof on, there will be no work done inside that building," Muhly said. He said the company that can deliver the steel material more quickly is the same company that did the steel work for the new Eastern Shore Community College building.

Supervisor Robert Crockett asked what guarantees the county has that the work will be completed more quickly under the second option.

"None, to my knowledge," Hall said, noting the contractor has asked for time extensions in the past.

The board voted unanimously to approve the faster option.

Accomack County Administrator Mike Mason said the $7,000 needed could come from the county's general budget contingency funds, which had $32,000 in it.

Work Session Set to Discuss Federal Funds Use

The board scheduled a work session Wednesday, July 7, at 5 p.m., at Metompkin Elementary School in Parksley, to discuss how to use the coronavirus state and local fiscal recovery funds coming to the county through the American Rescue Plan Act.

Economic Development Authority

David Lungair, vice chairman of the Accomack County Economic Development Authority, spoke about the EDA's request for additional funds from the county.

"We have a couple of things that we see coming near-term," he said.

One is related to a state-funded hangar.

"One of the issues that we see forthcoming with that is stormwater mitigation," Lungair said, noting there are advantages to dealing with stormwater mitigation in the industrial park as a whole, rather than piecemeal as each project comes up.

"One of them is it will of course get the project going faster," he said.

Additionally, the EDA is continuing to work on an unmanned aerial vehicle project within the park, which includes building a service road among other improvements.

Lungair said the EDA plans to provide quarterly updates to the board of supervisors.

Landfill Expansion Contract Awarded

The board approved award of a $3.8 million contract to expand Cell 7 at the northern landfill to the low bidder, Harnden Group.

The board also approved a resolution for issuance, sale, and award of a solid waste system revenue bond related to the landfill project.

15 Businesses Share More Than $100,000 in Recovery Funding

By Carol Vaughn

Onancock is at around the half-way point in distributing grant funds to small businesses to help with rent and mortgage payments and other costs incurred as result of the COVID-19 pandemic.

The town to date has provided 15 qualifying Onancock businesses with grant funds totaling over $100,000, according to Jenny Gehman, program manager for Onancock Main Street.

Onancock Main Street, a volunteer-driven, nonprofit organization, is partnering with the town to administer the grant.

Onancock applied for and received a Small Business Recovery Assistance grant from the Virginia Department of Housing and Community Development to help Onancock businesses with rent and mortgage payments and certain retooling costs incurred because of COVID-19.

Each qualifying business can receive up to $15,000.

The deadline to apply is Nov. 1.

Among Onancock businesses that have benefited from the grant is the Blarney Stone Pub.

“The grant administration team went out of their way to assist with the application and documentation required by the state to get the grant approved and the check delivered. I would urge those in business to pursue the grant money and not be hesitant to ask for assistance,” said Terris Kennedy, owner of the Blarney Stone Pub.

“We strongly encourage every Onancock business to apply for these funds. There is no payback requirement if you are awarded the grant. This is not a loan; it is a gift to qualifying businesses,” Gehman said in an email.

Home-based small businesses also may apply to be reimbursed for a maximum of 25% of their rent or mortgage.

To apply, visit <https://www.onancock.com/community/page/>

Additionally, a project management team stands ready to assist businesses in applying for the grant. The town office telephone number is 757-787-3363 for information.

“The grant administration team is here to help and has high hopes of allocating every cent that has been made available to us through DHCD,” Gehman said.

Study Team Presents Shore University Business Plan to Governor

By Carol Vaughn

A group advocating for a four-year university on the Eastern Shore of Virginia got a boost earlier this month when Gov. Ralph Northam heard a presentation about a business plan for the proposed university.

Six students in Virginia Commonwealth University's Executive MBA program created the plan as a capstone project.

Terry Malarkey and Kristine Marcy, of the University of the Eastern Shore Foundation, attended the presentation in Richmond.

"The governor asked very probing questions" at a meeting which lasted well over an hour, Marcy said, adding, "There was a lot of energy there."

"Here at VCU we recognize the economic impact of higher ed in a community and we are always open to improving the quality of life for Virginia residents by building new educational pathways," said "Butch" M.K. Sarma, director of the Executive MBA program at the VCU School of Business, quoted in an article in the June 16 edition of VCU News.

For 26 years, Executive MBA teams at VCU have taken on "strategic dilemma" projects as part of their program.

"Strategic dilemma projects have successfully taken on many high-profile challenges and we believed that this would be another really great project for our students," Sarma said.

University of the Eastern Shore Foundation founder and president Terry Malarkey and others interested in the idea of founding a four-year higher education institution on the Shore created the nonprofit foundation in 2019.

The group's website is www.ShoreU.org

Members began contacting state higher education officials and university administrators around Virginia for guidance. Among other contacts, they were put in touch with a VCU Business School administrator who offered assistance from the school's executive MBA students.

"We were treated extremely well; no one turned us down," said Marcy, the foundation board's vice president and treasurer, speaking Friday, June 18, at a meeting held in Accomac to review the business plan.

The VCU team — Tanner Clements, Kate Lee, Nicole McMullin, William Nicoll, Jin-Li Richardson, and Seth Roby — put together an exhaustive plan.

Shore University board members spent an hour working with the team every Friday morning for three months, Malarkey said.

"Those students and their professors put us through our paces. They really forced us to clean up our mission statement, articulate who our target audiences were, explain to them why we thought this would be a good idea.

And at some point, probably halfway through this, the light went on — this was not solely about education; this was predominantly about economic development here on the Shore."

The students presented the plan to VCU faculty April 23.

"Through our research, we highlighted the economic conditions on Virginia's Eastern Shore and the need to stimulate the economy in that region," McMullin said in the VCU News article, adding, "But we also learned about what makes the area unique. The Eastern Shore is the only place in Virginia where a student studying engineering could intern at NASA. And one of few places where a student interested in environmental sciences could start their day in the classroom and end it on a commercial fishing vessel. This combination of economic need and relationships to businesses unique to the area would allow the state to create a destination for higher education that would attract students to a one-of-a-kind program.”

The students presented the plan to Northam June 4.

“I enjoyed meeting these hard-working VCU students and hearing their proposal for Shore University,” Northam was quoted as saying in the VCU News article. “As a native of the Eastern Shore and a firm supporter of public education, it was a pleasure to see the research, creativity, and attention to detail that went into this project. I admire the students’ dedication, and I thank them for all their hard work.”

The plan notes household income on the Shore is $29,806, lower than other parts of Virginia. Additionally, 14% of Shore residents lack health insurance, 19% live in poverty, and there has been a 13% population decrease since 2000.

A four-year, degree-granting university could have a positive economic impact on the Shore, both through student spending and tuition and through resulting jobs, according to the plan.

“The Eastern Shore of Virginia possesses a combination of industries unlike anywhere else on the eastern seaboard. The key to unlocking an entire region lies in its development,” the presentation states.

The business model recommendation is to stimulate economic development by locating an extension of an existing accredited four-year college on the Shore, with upper-level courses done in partnership with local businesses, creating sustainable jobs, building infrastructure, and generating tax revenue.

In terms of economic impact, and by way of comparison, the study found Old Dominion University, with around 24,000 students, averages more than $48.3 million spent each year by the student body; UVA Wise, with around 1,900 students, averages around $3.8 million; Virginia Tech, with more than 36,000 students, averages almost $73 million; VCU, with around 29,000 students, averages almost $29 million; and Eastern Shore Community College, with 654 students, averages nearly $1.5 million.

The figures do not include tuition and living expenses.

The target market for Shore University would be threefold: Virginia community college students; first- and second-year students at any Virginia college or university; and any student wanting to enroll in STEM-B (Science, Technology, Engineering, Math, and Business) programs.

Both the natural environment and the presence of NASA Wallops Flight Facility and other Wallops entities including the Mid-Atlantic Regional Spaceport could be a draw for students from out of the area, according to the plan.

The team conducted two surveys in connection with creating the plan. Between 200 and 300 people, 80% of whom were from the Shore, responded to each.

Survey responses showed 69% think finding skilled employees is among the biggest challenges to economic growth on the Shore. Additionally, 53% said a larger customer base is needed and 50% said education and resources are among the biggest challenges to growth in the region.

The top response to a question about what would have the biggest economic impact on the Shore was “increasing the consumer base for businesses,” followed by “investment in new types of businesses,” which according to the findings would have above average impact; and “opportunities for education and professional development,” which would have average impact.

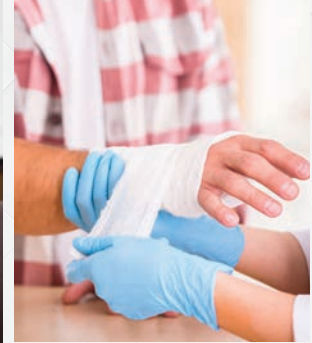

Fifty-seven percent of respondents said they or a family member would be interested in an undergraduate degree program on the Shore, while another 24% said they might be interested.

The team recommended the group hire an executive director and establish a working committee as next steps.

Additional recommendations include partnering with an accredited university; partnering with ESCC, Wallops, and the Chesapeake Bay Foundation; designing curriculum; and marketing the program to ESCC second-year students.

Goals stated in the plan for years one through five include growing the student base to 150 by year five; hiring professors; beginning to shop for a permanent campus location; and starting to raise funds and seek grants to help with startup costs.

For years six through 10, the plan sets a goal of having 300 students enrolled by year 10; beginning campus construction; and starting to create an endowment.

In years 11 through 20, goals include expanding course offerings to medical programs; partnering with local hospitals; and continuing to focus on the community's needs.

The budget for a year five, break-even scenario would total $4 million, including $1.9 million from tuition; $1.6 million in state aid; and $500,000 from grants, according to the plan.

Initial funding of $9 million would be needed to provide five years of operating cash flow, according to the plan.

Malarkey said the idea of starting a branch campus of an existing university is not a new one for Virginia, noting eight of 15 Virginia four-year public colleges began as spinoffs.

"So this is not a new idea; it's just we haven't done it in a while," he said.

Malarkey noted UVa Wise, starting as a branch of the University of Virginia, has achieved success in a rural region similar to the Eastern Shore in many ways.

"No university starts off with 10,000 students. They all seem to start off with 100 students and four professors," Malarkey said.

ESCC President Jim Shaeffer, who attended the meeting, said nursing and teacher education are among top higher education needs on the Shore.

"When we think about attracting students here, it is going to have to be programs that they may not be able to get other places or the amenities that those programs can offer," he said, noting virtually all ESCC students come from the Shore.

Arnold William Verbeck

Mr. Arnold William “Bill” Verbeck, 83, husband of the late Patricia Tapman “Pat” Verbeck and a resident of Temperanceville, passed away Friday, June 18, 2021, with his family at his side. Born July 2, 1937, in Ware, Mass., he was the son of the late William Morton Verbeck and the late Beatrice Larson Verbeck.

Following high school graduation, Bill enlisted in the U.S. Navy, proudly serving his country for the next six years. As fate would have it, he was assigned to the Naval Air Station on Wallops Island, where he met the love of his life, Patricia Tapman, in 1957. Soon, after honorable discharge from the Navy, Bill began working as a heavy equipment operator for Fox Bros. in Oak Hall, and later began working as a printing press operator for Moore Business Forms in Snow Hill, Md., where he retired upon Moore’s closing. He then worked in security at Lankford Sysco until his second, and final, retirement.

With a heart full of compassion and selflessness, Bill was happiest when doing for others. He and Pat built a beautiful life together, one based on faith, love, and family. Throughout their 59 years of marriage, they made every moment count, often hand in hand. As a longtime member of Hallwood Baptist Church, Bill served as deacon and remained a devoted member for decades. Among the many things Bill and Pat did together, softball and family were priority and often coincided as they were either coaching or cheering from the sidelines when their daughter and granddaughter played. After Pat’s passing, he began preparing Friday lunches (that were more like feasts) for the crew at Tapman’s Truck Repair, a tradition that attracted more and more folks each week. He was a member of the Temperanceville Masonic Lodge No. 121, having received his 50-year pin in 2018. Blessed with an incredible voice, you could often find him singing while working around the house and in his flower gardens. Bill was never seen without a smile, an unforgettable smile that will continue to bring light and joy to your heart each time you hear the name Bill Verbeck, “Bobo,” or “Pop.”

Left to honor and cherish his memory are his daughter, Tamara “Tammy” Hudson, and her husband, David, of Wallops Island; granddaughter, Rebecca Hudson, of Parksley; sisters, Lynda Klem, of Arizona, and Kris Verbeck, of Maine; sister-in-law, Charlotte Tapman, of Snow Hill; friends of the family, Becky Chew and her son, “Little David,” who Pop thought of as a granddaughter and great-grandson; his Boston terrier and best bud, Tyson; and several cousins, nieces, and nephews. In addition to his wife and parents, he was predeceased by his brothers-in-law, J.W. Tapman and Leo Klem.

A memorial service was held at the Williams-Parksley Funeral Home Wednesday, June 23, 2021, at 3 p.m., with the Rev. Danny Shrieves and the Rev. Kevin Eley officiating.

Contributions in Bill’s memory may be made to Holly Grove Christian School Archery Program, c/o Bruce Bowden, 2110 Old Furnace Road, Eden, MD 21822, or to Hallwood Baptist Church, c/o Max Marshall, P.O. Box 36, Hallwood, VA, 23359.

G. Wayne Wheatley Jr.

Mr. Gordon Wayne “Waynie” Wheatley Jr., 58, lifelong resident of Tangier Island, passed away Thursday, June 10, 2021, at his home. Born Oct. 3, 1962, in Crisfield, Md., he was the son of Gordon Wayne Wheatley Sr., of Tangier Island, and the late Sandra Gail Crockett Wheatley.

Waynie was a proud Tangier waterman and continued to work on the water throughout his life until his health began to decline. Known for his laid-back personality, Waynie was as laid back as they came. He loved music, and especially enjoyed listening to U2, as they were one of his favorite bands. An avid sports fan, both college and professional, Waynie never missed the opportunity to cheer on his teams: the Angels, Rams, 76ers, Oilers, and Michigan, and he looked forward to watching NASCAR races. Waynie adored his family, as they did him. He will be greatly missed but forever remembered through the many memories shared with loved ones.

Mr. Wheatley

In addition to his father, he is survived by his brother, Jonathan “Paul” Wheatley Sr., and his wife, Kelly, and nephew, Jonathan Wheatley Jr., all of Tangier; niece, Ashley Eskridge, and her husband, Joseph, and their children, Harlow, Oliver, and Waylon, all of Greer, S.C.; as well as many aunts, uncles, and cousins.

Funeral services were conducted from the graveside at the Crockett Family Cemetery in Canton Monday, June 21, 2021, at 2 p.m., with the Rev. Charles W. Parks III and the Rev. Edward Pruitt officiating.

Contributions in Waynie’s memory may be made to Swain Memorial United Methodist Church, P.O. Box 199, Tangier, VA 23440.

A graveside funeral service will be conducted at the Belle Haven Cemetery Saturday, June 26, 2021, at 12:30 p.m., with Chaplain Mary Jimenez officiating.

Arcadia Middle Schoolers Chronicle Pandemic Experiences for Library Time Capsule

By Stefanie Jackson

Arcadia Middle School is the only school on the Eastern Shore that was selected as a winner in a contest to determine the contents of a time capsule to be stored in the historical archives of the new Eastern Shore Public Library (ESPL) in Parksley.

"2021 marks an important year with the opening of the Heritage Center in the new library. It also, hopefully, marks the end to the pandemic," stated the announcement of the contest, which ran from April 5, during National Library Week, to May 1.

The judges were impressed by the "well done and very moving" entries submitted by Arcadia Middle School students and decided to compile all the submissions in a book to be stored in the time capsule.

"Collectively, the poems and essays were very personable and gave true insight into the students' recognition that they are living through something historical affecting humankind. They testified that what they have experienced during the pandemic needs to be conveyed to future generations," wrote ESPL Director Cara Burton in a congratulatory letter to Arcadia Middle School media specialist Jeanne Pruitt, who had shared the contest opportunity with her students.

Their achievement was celebrated June 4 with a pizza party in the Arcadia Middle School media center attended by several of the student writers, teachers, Burton, Pruitt, Principal Wandnetta McCray, school board member Edward Taylor, and Superintendent Chris Holland.

The 11 students honored were Ciara Abbott, Makiyah Davis, Nathan Allen Green, Jordyn Hinmon, Daniela Larreinaga-Bertrand, Sarah Taylor, and Barbara Toussaint, who attended the event, and Anna Nguyen, Christy Ortiz, Luis Pedro Ramirez-Cabrera, and Na’Kahi Wilson.

“This honor showcases the wonderful job schools are doing during a challenging academic year to promote reading and writing,” Pruitt wrote in an email.

The book also will include a group photo of the students and possibly additional photos of the middle school setting during the COVID-19 pandemic, featuring face masks, plexiglass barriers, and extra cleaning and sanitizing measures.

One copy of the book will be kept in the time capsule in the archive room and another will stay in the main library.

The archive room is a 1,104-square-foot space with climate control to preserve the historical documents inside.

The time capsule and its contents will show “future generations ... they can get through anything just like you are right now,” Burton said to the middle schoolers.

McCray told her students, “This is phenomenal, and I could not be more proud of each and everyone of you.”

60th Anniversary

EASTERN SHORE OF VA. ANGLERS CLUB
EST. 1961

The Eastern Shore of Virginia Anglers' Club is celebrating its 60th Anniversary in 2021: sixty years of fishing, conservation, and fellowship. After nearly shutting down for a year, the club is now operating at full speed. Our monthly in-person meetings have resumed at the Sage Diner and we recently enjoyed a great "Youth Fishing" outing at Morley's Wharf. We look forward to another Johnny Conquest Memorial Youth Fishing event at Saxis Pier on September 12th. In May, members of our surf fishing team instructed local youngsters in surf fishing from the beach at Assateague. The club has monthly outings through December where members compete for annual prizes; these are open to the public.

Our Awards Banquet, normally held in March, will be combined with the "End of Summer" picnic at beautiful Sawmill Park on the afternoon of October 3rd.

The signature club event, The Onancock Bay Challenge, will resume this year on October 9th. In addition to supporting conservation scholarships for local youths at the Chincoteague Bay Field Station, this year the tournament will be paying tribute to the late Willie Crockett for his many years of quiet service to the Anglers' Club. We will donate some of the event proceeds to the Willie Crockett Scholarship Fund.

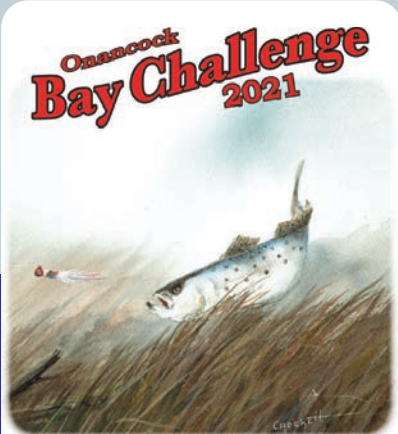

You can learn more about the 200-plus-member club and our events in the "About Us" section of our website: esanglersclub.org and also find a membership form.

Knox Found Not Guilty of Murder

A man who shot and killed another man after a dispute at a dice game was found not guilty of murder in a two-day jury trial.

Ambrose Felix Knox, 30, was acquitted of second-degree murder and use of a firearm in the death of Joe Northam, 41, of Tasley.

On May 2, 2020, Knox was in a dice game with a group of people in a garage in the Whitesville area near Parkesley. At about 1 a.m., there was a bet. Northam told Knox that Knox owed him $5. Knox said he did not. Witnesses testified that Northam was angry with Knox and continued to harass him over the $5 he said he was owed.

Northam had consumed a large quantity of alcohol and had a blood alcohol level of greater than .14, according to testimony from a forensic scientist.

Northam continued to demand that Knox give him $5. He was so insistent that one of the other players gave him $20 and another gave him $5 “to make him leave it alone.”

But Northam did not leave Knox alone. He continued to insist he wanted money from Knox. According to witnesses, Northam walked around to the other side of the table and confronted Knox, still demanding $5. He had a bottle or a can in his hand and threw it at Knox, striking him above his eye.

Witnesses said blood was pouring down Knox’s face when they saw him reach into his jacket and pull out a .40 caliber pistol and fire one shot at Northam. “He ran to the back of the room holding his chest,” testified Lashanta Edwards, who said Northam was the father of her children. Northam collapsed there and never regained consciousness in spite of efforts from a deputy and an EMT to revive him.

After the shooting, Knox was driven from the area by his cousin Bryan Taylor, another of the dice players. He said Knox called his mother who arranged to pick him up and take him to the Accomack County sheriff’s office where he turned himself in later that morning.

On the witness stand, Taylor described what happened. “Joe Northam lost a bet on somebody else’s roll. He told Knox he owed him $5. I gave him $20 to leave the situation alone. Everyone was telling him to leave it alone,” Taylor said.

He said he saw Northam get up and walk around the table toward Knox. He said he did not see Northam throw something at Knox. “I felt a splash of liquid” and turned to see Knox “bleeding and reaching for his gun.”

Taylor said he took Knox away from the area where a large crowd was gathering. A deputy testified there were a lot of people there when he arrived. He said most refused to speak with him about what happened.

When Knox came to the sheriff’s office, he admitted to the shooting in a taped interview. He said he was drinking and had also smoked marijuana, though neither showed up in the blood test he agreed to take. He brought the gun he used and the magazine and turned them in to the police. He was charged with second-degree murder and has been in jail since the shooting.

Defense attorney Thomas Northam, who is not related to the victim, took the unusual step of putting his client on the witness stand. “He said I owed him $5,” said Knox. “He kept going on and on.

Everyone told him to leave it alone. He pushed me, I backed away. He pushed me again.” Knox said Joe Northam threw something at him. “Blood was coming down my face,” he said. “I saw him coming toward me. I reached for my gun.” Knox said he was scared and he ran. “Most of the people there were related to Mr. Northam,” he said. “I got a phone and I called my mother. She took me to the sheriff’s office,” he said.

In his closing argument, Commonwealth’s Attorney Spencer Morgan argued that the shooting was a murder. He said Knox exhibited malice with his actions and told the jury malice is required for a murder conviction. “A crime committed in the heat of passion could be manslaughter,” he said. He asked for a conviction of second-degree murder, but asked for manslaughter “at the very least.”

“The commonwealth wants you to base your decision on the testimony of these witnesses,” said Thomas Northam. He said witness Derek Miller, who said he saw Knox push Joe Northam, did not come forward to police with his story until a month ago. “Between three witnesses are 17 felonies,” he said.

Thomas Northam noted that Knox and his cousin Bryan Taylor had no felonies on their records and that Knox had a permit to carry a concealed weapon. He described the victim as “intoxicated and the aggressor. He chose an object to hurl at Knox who immediately started bleeding.”

He said there was blood on Knox’s face, his clothes, “and even on his gun. It was not a little scratch, it was a laceration,” he said.

The jury of six women and six men deliberated almost four hours before returning a verdict of not guilty.

‘Walking Classroom’ Program Gets Brains and Bodies Moving

Submitted Article

Youth on the Eastern Shore of Virginia are now getting fresh air and exercise while they learn in a new program called The Walking Classroom.

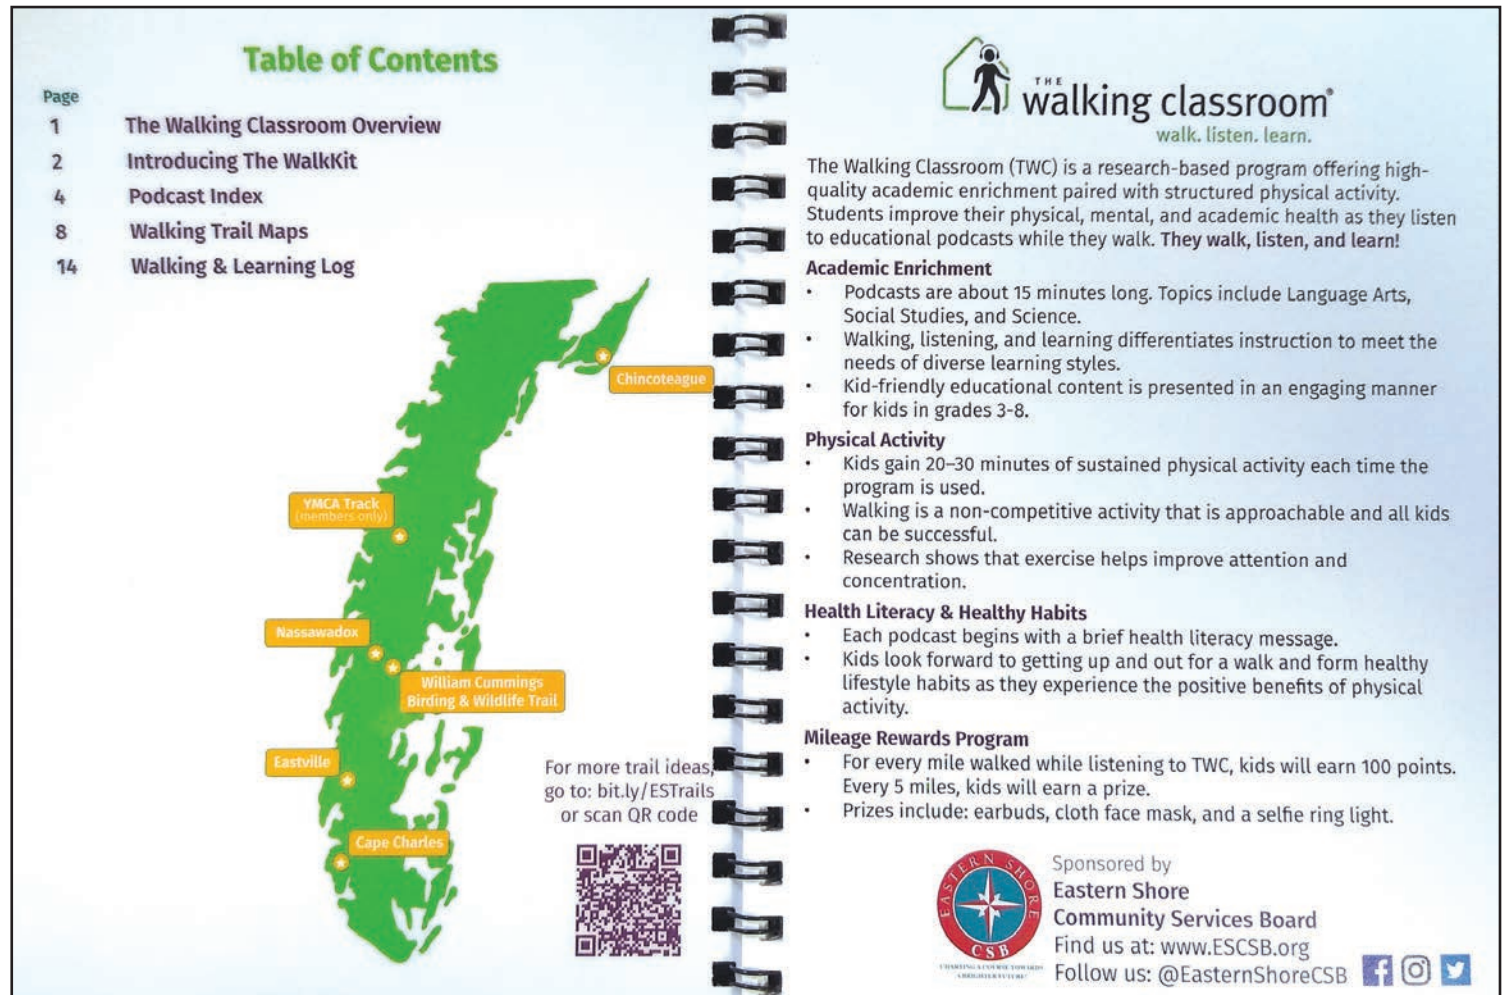

The Eastern Shore Community Services Board Prevention Office purchased “WalkKit” audio players for youth in the eLearning program at the Eastern Shore YMCA in Onley and elementary age youth at the Eastern Shore Public Library branch in Nassawadox.

Each audio player is preloaded with over 160 podcasts on topics including science, social studies, and language arts. Comprehension quizzes, discussion questions, and other supplemental materials are provided in a teacher’s guide which is available to the YMCA staff and to parents, teachers, and staff who use the library WalkKits.

The walking classroom is simple. Youth take brisk 20-minute walks as a class or with their program facilitator or family member, while listening to the same custom-written, kid-friendly podcast. Each podcast begins with a brief health literacy message, and the lesson plans in the teacher’s guide help educators, parents, and YMCA program facilitators effectively discuss and review the podcast material. The program gets kids out of their seats and walking without sacrificing instructional time.

Andre Elliott, executive director of the Eastern Shore Family YMCA, says the program has been popular with both the staff and the students. “When the students finish their assignments, they will ask to use the WalkKits. It is wonderful to have an extracurricular standards-based program that encourages learning and exercising.”

A local elementary school principal learned about the program and has encouraged her teaching staff to use the program through the Eastern Shore Public Library. The teachers and students are enthusiastic about the podcasts. The ESCSB is hoping to expand its partnership with local schools to reach more youth and educators with the walking classroom program.

To encourage families to check out the WalkKits at the library, James Foley of the ESCSB Prevention Office created a Trail Passport for each user. The Trail Passport has a list of all of the podcasts and maps of six walking trails on the Eastern Shore with the distance of each trail and the points the youth accumulates when the trail is completed. A Walking & Learning Log in the back of the passport allows participants to keep track of the podcasts they have listened to, trails they have walked, distances they have logged, and points they have earned. They can present their passports at the library desk to receive incentives such as earbuds, power packs and selfie lights.

Why It Works

The Walking Classroom’s “Walk, Listen, and Learn” methodology combines listening with exercise to capitalize on the strong connection between physical activity and improved brain function, resulting in improved classroom performance. And it’s fun!

Youth return to the classroom or their online classes in better moods, more focused, and more likely to engage in post-walk discussions. Teachers regularly report that after implementing The Walking Classroom, students retain the information better, demonstrate better behavior and engagement in the classroom, and perform better on standardized exams.

While all students benefit from the increased activity and educational content of The Walking Classroom, inactive children and those with low academic achievement stand to benefit the most. The program also provides teachers, parents, and YMCA program facilitators with an innovative tool to meet the needs of youth with alternative learning styles such as ADHD, dyslexia, and/or autism.

About The Walking Classroom

The Walking Classroom is a national award-winning education program that provides students and teachers with an innovative way to get exercise without sacrificing instructional time. The nonprofit program’s “Walk, Listen, and Learn” methodology capitalizes on the favorable link between exercise and cognitive function. To learn more about the program here on the Eastern Shore, contact the ESCSB Prevention Office at 757-442-5388 or visit www.escsb.org

Osprey-Eye Contest: Just LETTER Go, You Chicken!

Last Week's Runners-Up

Left: In our tradition of running mermaid photos whenever we can, here's one from Teri Collins, of Bloxom. This merperson hails from the underwater show in Weeki Wachee, Fla.

Right: Marion Basford, of Alum Bank, Pa., was the first to ring in with all the clues. Here's a picture he took of a cruise through the Panama Canal.

Left: Anabel Beatty, of Silver Beach, captured this Hemingwayesque moment that she has entitled, "Neighbor Mackenzie slaying fish on my dock!"

Right: Ashlynn Crockett, of Melfa, age 14, was one of the many osprey-eyed readers who missed only the beach ball dot above the "i" on Page 25.

Left: This energetic, personal protection ferocity is also known, by Stephanie Bailey, of Chincoteague, as, "My dog Buddy."

Right: Here's regular player Kim Rice, of Bloxom, "with my handsome nephew Jordan. He was getting ready for prom."

Last Week's Contest: Beach Ball Bonanza!

More than 60 osprey-eyed readers went on the beach ball hunt last week. We took a look too and upon review of both the printed and online versions of last week's newspaper, we determined that one of our clues (the beach ball dot above an "i" in the headline on Page 25) could not be seen on the paper edition and was barely visible on our online edition. So to be eligible for the random drawing, readers were included who found at least the other 23 beach ball clues we hid on pages 3, 4, 18, 21, 24, 27, 29, 30, 31 (2), 34 (2), 36, 36, 38, 39, 40, and 45 (6). Further complicating matters was the beach ball in the Seaview ad on Page 12, which looked exactly like our clue beach balls. Readers got credit for the Page 12 beach ball but still had to find all 23 or 24 of our original clues to be eligible for the random drawing for the $25 gift certificate to C.D. Marsh Jewelers in Onancock, which was won by Delaney Wessells, of Bloxom.

This Week's Contest: Can You Spell Chicken?

In recognition of this week's sponsor, we are hiding letters that spell a name that means chicken to a lot of people. Instead of giving an elaborate explanation or examples, we'll just say that all the letters we've hidden are in the same style and we get to be the final and arbitrary judge of what letters are acceptable. Those who find all the letters that spell the name we're looking for will join a group of eligible contestants from which one person will be randomly selected to win a Super Tailgate dinner from Bo-jangles in Onley. See sponsor box on this page.

The rules:

- To become a contestant, find the letters that spell the name we're looking for. All the letters will be of the same style. Tell us where you found the letters (page number and location on the page). Send this information to david@easternshorepost.com.

- You can start sending your entries now. Entries MUST have your first and last names and your town.
- Entries will be accepted until noon on Monday, June 28. Entries arriving after noon on the 28th will not be entered in the contest.
- Do not submit multiple entries.
- Include a photograph if you choose to submit one and tell us a little something about the picture.
- Anyone submitting a photograph must have taken the picture or have permission to use it.

The winner and as many runners-up as possible will get their photographs in the paper. If you don't want to use your own picture, you can submit a photo of your child or a pet — or a hand-carved letter, an Irish setter, or a photograph of someone even if you're trying to forget her. Just no feet.

Last Week's Winner

Delaney Wessells, of Bloxom, didn't need credit for the almost-impossible-to-see clue on Page 25 because she saw it and included it along with all the others. Delaney was randomly selected to win a $25 gift certificate to C.D. Marsh Jewelers in Onancock. Celebrating the win is Penelope running with her chicken leg squeaky toy during a joyful period that Delaney calls, "Toss-a-rod Tuesday."

Random Facts About ... A Terrible Plan, Terribly Misnamed

By David Martin

When we looked in our internet tubes this week, we found a national plan that was so damaging it's difficult to believe it ever existed ... and that it was given the name it was given.

During the buildup for World War I, the U.S. military found that more men were being sidelined due to venereal diseases than because of enemy action. The military turned to Congress, which passed the Chamberlain-Kahn Act of 1918. That act authorized and funded a variety of initiatives to combat venereal disease in the American population, but the most notorious was the unleashing of thousands of hygiene police (or local police acting as morals squads) to round up women, largely at random, to be taken in for invasive gynecological examinations and then, if they were found to have a venereal disease, forced to undergo treatments that were damaging and not always effective in those days before penicillin.

Yes, working prostitutes and known houses of prostitution were targeted but so were women simply walking to the grocery store. You know who wasn't targeted: men. The law, as written, was gender neutral but men were largely ignored. Women, meanwhile, were picked up on the whims of men ... for eating alone in a restaurant or changing jobs frequently or looking suspicious, however a man might define that, unregulated by law or statute or guidelines. Tens of thousands of women — some estimates say the numbers went into the hundreds of thousands — were taken into custody without any legal protections under this law, which became known, cruelly, as the American Plan.

In 1918, a town deputy stopped an 18-year-old woman, Nina McCall, coming out of a post office in St. Louis and told her she had to go for a medical exam. She did and even though McCall insisted she had never been with a man, she was told she had gonorrhea and given a course of treatment that ruined her health and her life.

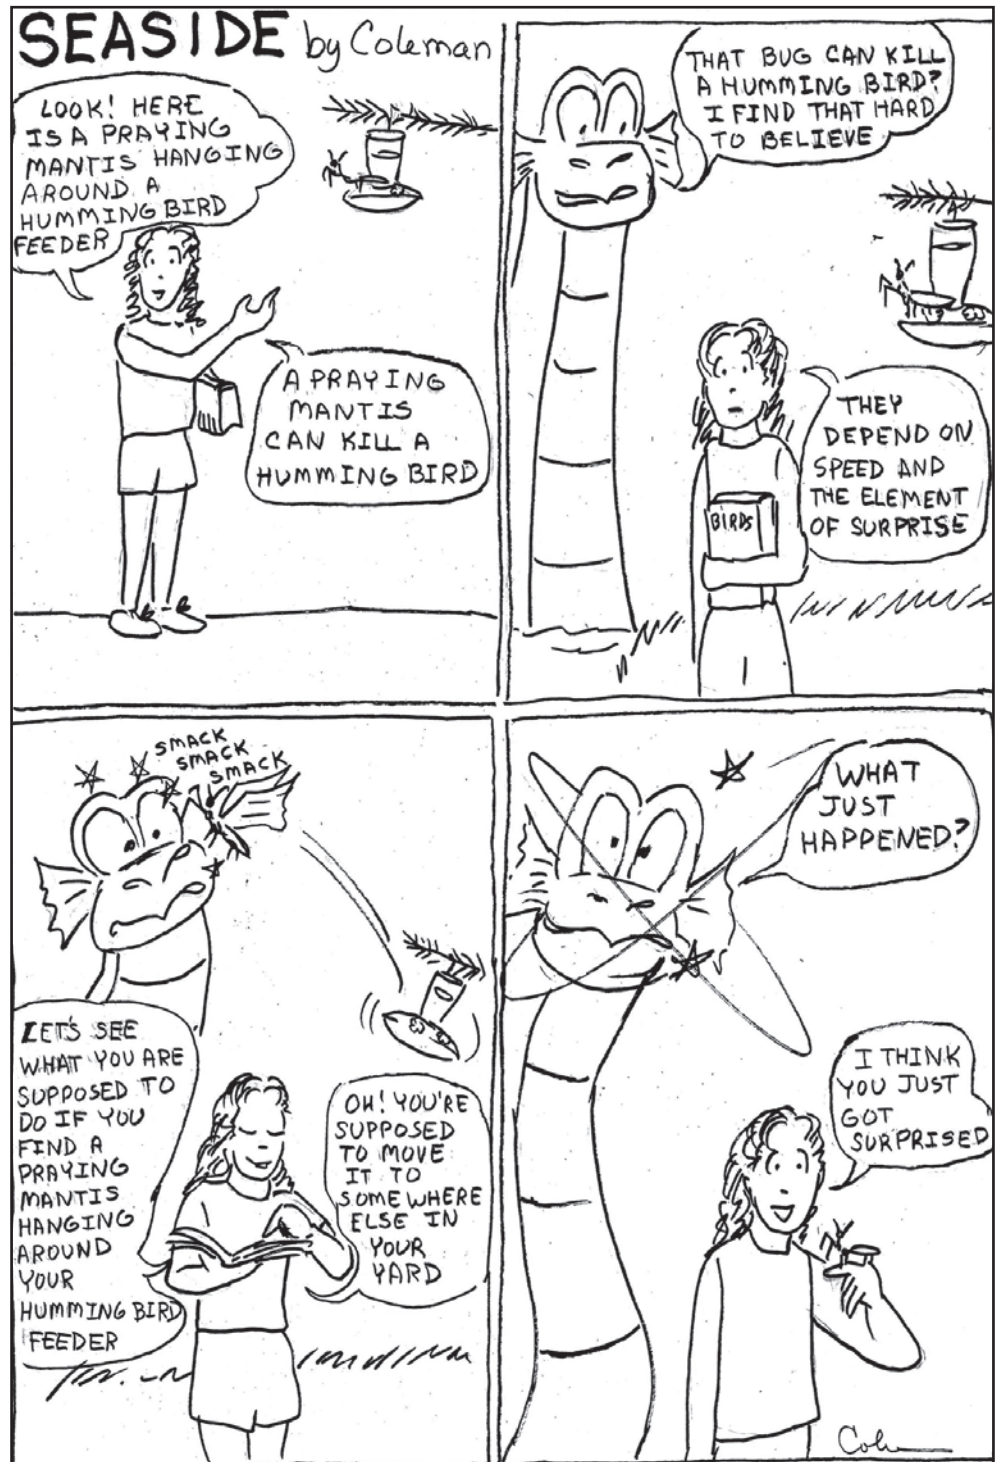

In 1919, more than 20 women were taken in by the morals squad in one day in Sacramento, Calif. — among them, Margaret Hennessey, who was married and had a toddler. Her crime? Walking down the street in the middle of the day with another woman (her sister) on the way to the market. Arrested as suspicious characters, the sisters were taken to a hospital where doctors examined them for STDs. The women were released without charges (or diseases) or any way of righting the wrongs done to them.

American women were rounded up under this American Plan all the way into the 1950s throughout our country and, in some places, into the 1960s and '70s. The damage was disproportionately done to the poor and to women of color. Women who did have STDs were treated without their consent and many were sterilized, also without their consent, while under the "care" of the state. In at least one case that's known, although there are probably more, a woman and her daughter, both prostitutes, were brought in under the American Act. The daughter was sterilized and then her younger sisters were brought in and sterilized under the theory that they were associating with unsavory persons, their sister and mother.

Some people poke fun at modern feminism for being strident, but that stridency is well-earned. Andrea Dworkin, among the most strident of feminists, was forcibly examined by male doctors after she was arrested at an anti-war demonstration. She was only 18 and her treatment, under vestiges of the American Plan, was so rough that she bled for several days. Dworkin and others protested these examinations until, by the mid-1970s, the American Plan was on history's trash heap where it belonged, although versions of the plan are still on some state law books.

It was the most un-American of plans and details of it are in a 2018 book, "The Trials of Nina McCall: Sex, Surveillance, and the Decades-Long Government Plan to Imprison 'Promiscuous' Women," by Scott Wasserman Stern.

Fishing from the Shore

By Bill Hall

Anglers had a productive week fishing the waters around the Eastern Shore. The cobia season finally opened and cobia are being caught from the bridge-tunnel all the way up into the bayside waters of southern Maryland. Flounder numbers are good on the seaside, though there are more throwbacks than keepers. The Teaser, a sportfishing charter vessel out of Wachapreague, had the first reported blue marlin release of the year – an estimated 500-pounder caught by Bill Miller.

Upper Shore – Captain Matt Abell, at Sea Hawk Sports Center, described the recent offshore action as great, with catches reported from the Poor Man’s Canyon off Ocean City, Md., south to the Norfolk Canyon. Yellowfin tuna have been making up the bulk of the catch, with a few marlin mixed in. Deep dropping for tilefish has also been very productive, according to Abell. He said the inshore fishing in the shallows around

Smith Island has been good, with the number of rockfish on the rise, as the speckled trout numbers have been in a decline. Cobia have been seen and hooked off Holland Island as the upper bay cobia fishery has startled to rival the numbers of fish caught to the south. A handful of red drum have been caught and released by anglers seeking cobia. On the seaside, Abell said the flounder fishing has definitely entered the usual summertime pattern with more fish being caught during the last of the incoming tide than any other time.

Chincoteague – Pete Vasiliou, at Captain Steve’s Bait and Tackle, said the shop weighed in a 90-pound yellowfin tuna over the weekend. He said catches of kingfish (whiting) and spot are coming from the surf of Assateague. He added, there has been a good flounder bite in the bay, where there are increasing numbers of croaker moving in.

Donna Rae Roeske, at Captain Bob’s Marina, listed her top fish-catching areas of the week as the Queen Sound Bridge, the Fingers, the Chincoteague Channel Triangle (buoys 17, 19, and 21) and north to Chincoteague Bay, the Canal, and Assateague Channel. She said jumbo live minnows, silversides, and Gulp Swimming Mullet have been the top flounder baits, while Gulp artificial bloodworms have produced plenty of panfish catches. Flounder have started hitting over the subway cars while bluefin and yellowfin tuna are being caught while chunking farther offshore. The marina’s Kid’s Kingfish Tournament is scheduled for July 2 to 11.

Wachapreague – Debbie Shrieves, at Trident Tackle, said anglers were slaying the flounder. One boat caught 50 fish in a single trip, keeping 11 fish. She said anglers were finding plenty of action. Small croakers are moving in, she added.

Captain Lindsay Paul ran two three-person charters over the weekend, boating a total of 94 fish between the two trips, keeping 19 fish. Paul said that black sea bass are hitting over the wrecks.

Captain Keith Neal’s Teaser released a large blue marlin estimated to weigh 500-pounds.

Amanda Manzella, at the Wachapreague Inn, confirmed that the flounder bite is still great.

Lower Shore – Jeb Brady, at Bailey’s Bait & Tackle in Cape Charles, said the cobia fishermen were glad that they were finally able to legally keep their catch, as the season opened June 15. Cobia have been caught around Latimer Shoal as well as the areas around buoys 36 and 38, out of Cape Charles. Both chunking with cut bunker and sight fishing with live eels and bucktails have been effective when conditions allowed. Big red drum are still being caught and released in the breakers behind Smith Island and around the rock islands of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel, while smaller puppy drum are being caught along the creeks of the bay and seaside. Flounder fishing was described as decent at the Ditch and along the bridge-tunnel pilings. Spadefish are around the Chesapeake Light Tower and the fourth island of the bridge-tunnel. Kingfish (whiting) and small gray trout are being caught off the lower bayside piers.

Bill Hall was the first Eastern Shore resident to achieve Virginia Salt Water Master Angler Status. He has been named Virginia Saltwater Angler of the Year and Virginia Saltwater Release Angler of the Year and is a Virginia Press Association award-winning sports columnist.

It's been an eventful couple of weeks for the Nandua Warriors boys soccer team leading up to its 6-1 win over the Graham G-Men in the state championship held Wednesday, June 23, at Nandua High School.

The G-Men came into the state finals with a 15-0 record, advancing to the championship after defeating Glenvar High 3-2 in triple overtime.

The Region A Division II Tournament was set to begin June 11, but inclement weather canceled games across the state, postponing them to the following Monday, June 14. The Warriors were set to play Windsor in the first round but a forfeit by the Dukes automatically put Nandua in the Regional semifinals.

The semifinals brought a familiar foe as the Arcadia Firebirds were given the No. 5 seed in the tournament, unfortunately landing them on the same side of the bracket as Nandua. Arcadia upset No. 4 seeded Nottoway High School 5-0 in the first round on June 14, setting up another district battle between the two rivals. A lame seeding for the Firebirds resulted in another loss as the Warriors downed Arcadia 5-2 handing the Firebirds their fourth loss of the year and eliminating them from postseason play. Nandua was led by Hoslerson Joseph with two goals. Odin Bolster, Bryan Tinoco, and Jefferey Joseph had one goal each.

The win over Arcadia advanced the Warriors to the Regional finals where they faced the Poquoson Bull Islanders on June 17. Poquoson advanced to the finals after upsetting the No. 3 seed Prince Edward High in the first round 9-1 and then by defeating the undefeated No. 2 seed Bluestone High 6-0 in the semifinals. As the No. 1 seed in the tournament, Nandua was given home field advantage in the Regional Final. With the shortened season the Warriors were in a must-win situation as the VHSL ruled that only one team from each of the four regions would advance to play in the state tournament. Backed by a home crowd the Warriors played at high level to defeat an under seeded Poquoson squad 4-3. Hoslerson Joseph finished the game with two goals, Jeffrey Joseph and Leo Bonilla each tallied one goal and one assist, and Tinoco and Bolster recorded one assist each.

The win over Poquoson advanced the Warriors to the state semifinals, with only the regional champions advancing, and the tournament shaping up to be a battle of the unbeaten, as all the remaining teams had perfect records. Nandua's first game was on the road and required the Warriors to travel almost five hours to Clarke County High School in Berryville, Va. The Eagles entered the bout 11-0 after defeating Staunton High School 3-1 in the Region B finals. Similar to Nandua, the Eagles had an outstanding season going 9-0 in the regular season where they scored 79 goals and let up only five.

Clarke County hosted both the boys and girls state tournament June 21, as both their teams won the Region

B Tournament, but a weather delay once again pushed both games back an hour. The Warriors took the field at 6 p.m. and were put to the test in the first half as the Eagles matched up well with the maroon and silver.

Nandua was first to get on the board on a penalty kick after the Eagles' goalie, TJ Lowery, came out of the box and made contact with Bolster. Bolster drilled the penalty kick giving the Warriors the first lead of the game, 1-0, after just 11 minutes of play. The penalty kick was the one blemish on the Eagles' defense in the first half as they held a 12-3 shot advantage over Nandua. The Warriors' defense worked as a cohesive unit limiting the quality of shots on goal as they kept pace with the Eagles fast wings with their precision touches. An outstanding half by the Nandua backs and goalie Noah Montalvo led to a tie game 1-1, with the Eagles' Colin Moran scoring the only Athletes from Chincoteague, Nandua, and Arcadia participated in the Virginia High School League Track and Field State Championships held June 18 and 19 in Harrisonburg, Va.

Chincoteague standout Emma Jackson placed first in the 100-meter dash, fourth place in girls discus, and 10th place in girls long jump in the Class 1 division held June 18.

In Class II competition, Nandua's Carlo Balmoria recorded strong showings, taking sixth place in the boys 1600-meter run, 11th place in the boys 800-meter race, and sharing an eighth-place finish with teammates David Gastelum, Ethan Harrower, and Brayden Shotwell in the 4x800 relay. goal of the game for Clarke County at the 20-minute mark. Moran was able to chip one in over Montalvo's head on a reshot after the goalie had just deflected a shot from another Eagle striker.

In the second half, the Warriors turned the tide on the Eagles as the Warriors' defense locked down and their strikers picked up the intensity. It was Nandua that had the shot advantage in the second, outshooting the Eagles 10-7 with several high-quality shots on goal.

Hoslerson Joseph struggled in the first but awoke in the second and did exactly what he's done all year. He found himself on the beneficial side of two Eagle turnovers: in open field at the 31-minute mark, he stuttered stepped once, twice, then took off past the last defender and took an open shot for his first goal. Then at the 18-minute mark, an almost identical goal occurred, this time Joseph only had to beat the Eagles' goalie, which he made look easy, chipping in his second goal and putting Nandua ahead 3-1.

Nandua went on to hand the Eagles their first loss of the year and punched the Warriors' ticket to the final dance. They were led by Hoslerson Joseph with two goals and Bolster with one goal. Montalvo had 13 saves in the game.

place in the 4x100 relay. The Nandua boys team tied for 22nd place overall.

The Nandua girls top finishers included Amber Myers, with a third-place finish in the girls 100-meter hurdles, and Amizyah Harmon, who placed fourth in the 100-meter dash. The girls team tied for 18th place overall.

Arcadia's Kevin Cropper, placed third in the high jump, 11th in the triple jump, and shared a sixth-place finish in the 4x100 relay with teammates Terrance Reid, Markell Williams, and Renaldo Tull Jr. The Arcadia boys team finished 21st overall.

Arcadia girls saw two 12th place wins: Kalya Wharton in the 100-meter dash and Aniyah Miles in the triple jump.

Warriors Fall 4-5 to Poquoson in Regional Championship Game

Nandua's run through the regional playoffs ended Thursday night with a heartbreaking 4-5 loss on the road in Poquoson, Va. The Islanders scored a pair of runs in the bottom of the seventh to stun the Warriors, and in doing so became the 2021 VHSL Region 2A Champions.

The Warriors built an early lead scoring two runs in the first inning. Luke Parks set the tone, sending a two-strike single up the middle. Likewise, Tyler Greene defended the plate with a two-strike single of his own, putting two on base for Brandon Adamos, who delivered with an RBI single. Greene and Adamos advanced following a throwing error by Josh Markley, and Dylan Marshall made the Islanders pay for the mistake with an RBI ground out.

The Warriors added two runs in the second inning after Ben Stodgill got a rally going, legging out an error by third basemen Robbie Check. Parks again singled up the center and was followed by back-to-back RBI singles from Everett Savage and Greene, pushing the Warriors' lead to 4-0.

On the mound, Cade Williams was hitting his locations and kept the Islanders off the board the first two innings. Williams found trouble in the bottom of the third, walking Chase Horton, then allowing a single to right off the bat of Justin Bradshaw. The next batter, Markley, hit a ball past second base, bringing home Horton for the Islanders' first run. Williams then hit Check to load the bases, and the Warriors nearly turned a ground ball by Cianan Moaratty into a double play but failed to convert, and in the process, two runs scored to narrow the gap to the slimmest of margins.

As the Islanders were making a comeback, the Warriors' bats began to get cold at the approach of the crafty left-hander Wyatt Helsel. Helsel relieved starting pitcher Max Fritts in the top of the third inning and proceeded to spend the next three-plus innings frustrating the Warriors at the plate. Helsel strung together a pair of 1-2-3 innings in the fourth and the fifth with accurate command.

During the same stretch, Williams matched Helsel toe-to-toe with equally precise command and great velocity. Williams fanned a pair of Islander hitters to end the fourth, and topped that by striking out the side in the fifth, with both off-speed pitches and heat, as he appeared really dialed in those innings.

The Warriors' effort to put insurance runs on the board was further thwarted by the sidearm reliever, Bradshaw, who spelled Helsel in the sixth inning. Bradshaw came in after Dylan Ross led the sixth with a single off Helsel, but his teammates weren't able to bring him home.

The Islanders, too, threatened in the bottom of the sixth, after Moaratty reached on an errant throw by Marshall at third base. Kai Baker came in to pinch-run and had thoughts of stealing second, but Williams caught him lunging and picked him off in a brief run-down for the second out of the inning. Williams then walked Isaiah Dickerson and hit Nick Mastro Jr. with a pitch, prompting a change on the mound.

Savage came in from the outfield but had command issues in both his warm-up and against batter Gabe Ford. Savage walked Ford on four pitches to load the bases and started the next hitter, J.W. Rose, with a high ball. Ross then relieved Savage and pitched the remainder of the at-bat to Rose, who showed no intention of swinging. At a crucial point in the game, Ross dug deep and struck out Rose with no margin for error on a full count, inspiring raucous applause from the Warrior fans who made the trip.

Nandua got a base runner in the last inning after Greene was hit by a pitch, but a failed steal attempt spelled the end of the inning.

Ross stayed in to pitch the bottom of the seventh to face the heart of the batting order from Poquoson. Horton led off, reaching first base after being hit by a pitch. Horton later advanced to third on a wild pitch. Marshall made a great play on a ground ball, playing up at third and keeping Horton in check for the first out. An error on a ground ball by Markley to second base, though, brought Horton home to tie the game. Markley then stole second to get into scoring position, and Check delivered one of the Islanders' only balls out of the infield all game to bring home Markley in dramatic fashion for the winning run.

The Northampton Yellow Jacket girls soccer team finished its season last week, June 19, as runners-up in the Region A Division I Tournament. After defeating the Essex Trojans 17-2 in the opening round, the Jackets advanced to the semifinals where they faced off June 16 against the No. 2-seed Northumberland Indians in Heathsville, Va.

The Indians entered the tournament after going 7-1 in the regular season. The Jackets defeated the Indians 2-1 behind the goals of Daniela Gonzalez and Ryan Jones to advance to the regional finals against West Point High School.

West Point defeated the Jackets 8-0 last weekend for the third time this season. Virginia High School League rules have moved to a winner-take-all scenario this season, as only one team is to advance from each region instead of two and have also eliminated all-regional and state sections, a change that has baffled players, press, and coaches alike. The loss to West Point eliminated Northampton from advancing to the state tournament.

The Jackets finished their season as a top-eight team in the state with a 9-4 record and scored 72 goals while allowing 39. They were led in scoring by Vashti Holmes with 18 goals. Rocio Cruz had 16, Jacqueline Santos had 13, Edith Palacio had 9, Ryan Jones had 6, and Daniela Gonzalez finished with five.

Master Naturalists Welcome Alexander

Shannon Alexander was recently hired by the Virginia Department of Recreation and Conservation Natural Heritage Program as the Coastal Region steward and the regional supervisor in the Division of Natural Heritage.

Alexander was born in Williamsburg, but raised primarily on the Outer Banks of North Carolina. She has extensive experience along shorelines from Florida to Maine and internationally in Thailand and New Zealand. She enjoys being out in natural areas and sharing them with others, which she has also been doing since 2012 through her ecotour company Bay Country Kayaking.

In addition to responsibility for managing and maintaining the Natural Area Preserves (NAPs) on the Eastern Shore, Alexander also has responsibility for all the NAPs in the new Coastal Region. The Eastern Shore Master Naturalists announced that Alexander has agreed to become their chapter advisor. In light of her educational training as an environmental scientist with a B.S. from UNC-Wilmington and a master's degree from Nova Southeastern University in Florida in coastal planning, the master naturalists look forward to Alexander's leadership for their activities in educational outreach, stewardship of the NAPs, and citizen science projects.

Greenworks Committee Receives $1,000 Grant

Keep Virginia Beautiful awards its annual 30 in 30 Green Grants each day during June. Greenworks Committee, in Accomack County, was awarded a grant of $1,000 for its Community Beautification project.

The Greenworks Committee unites Virginians in a common mission to engage in litter reduction efforts on Virginia's Eastern Shore and to create a cleaner and greener environment. Greenworks Committee will use its grant funds to restore the native plant garden at the Historic Onancock School. Native gardens play a key role in preserving diversity, beauty, and function of the Eastern Shore's natural ecosystems. Native plants are often more resistant to insects and disease and require little to no fertilizer, which results in less runoff. They are also more resistant to salt-water stress and capable of providing critical habitats and food for migratory birds, butterflies, and other pollinators. Through grant funding, Greenworks Committee will be able to restore this native garden to its healthiest state with additional plants, soil, and supplies.

Love,
Great-Aunt
Debbie

To Reese...On Her 16th Birthday

My Precious Reese,

Happy Sweet Sixteen, my precious angel! It's hard to believe it has been 16 years, it feels like just yesterday that I met you for the first time and instantly fell in love – you were so beautiful and holding you literally took my breath away. Every time I think about the moment you were born, all these years later, it continues to stop me in my tracks.

I miss you every single moment of every single day and I know I will never stop yearning for the day I can be with you again. I often wonder what you would look like, and can only dream of how beautiful you would be, and how much you would've accomplished by this milestone birthday.

Being your mother was the greatest joy and honor of my life and I feel so blessed to have had you, even if for only eight short years and eight days. I am grateful for every moment I had with you and am writing this on June 22, the day you officially earned your angel wings and went to be with the Lord (and Granny Jane). It has been eight long and difficult years since that day, and in nine short days I will have gone longer without you than I had you. The Lord will have held you in his arms longer than I held you in mine – and although I know you are in good hands, I can't help but think how lucky HE is to have spent these past years with you by his side.

However, it's obvious you two have been very busy making plans for me to receive two new blessings that I could've never imagined would come into my life. I know you had something to do with your new brother and sister, Walker Reese and Wynter Jane, because little "Wyn" is the spitting image of you and sometimes I look at her and just know you are a part of her and that the Lord gave part of you back to me. Your brother, Rourke, misses you very much and knows you are also up there orchestrating amazing blessings and favor in his life as well. You are a part of him and I am so thankful that he is here to always carry your memory in all he does.

You'll be happy to know that all of your beloved animals – pup, Murphy, Rocky, Friendly Bear, and the Grateful dog, to name a few, are being well taken care of and more importantly LOVED by Wyn, and I can only thank you for giving me the gift of another daughter. Thank you for helping me keep your memory and favorite things alive through the two of them.

Reese, you were the best daughter any mother could ask for and continue to send me strength and show me that life is not over because I lost you because we will be together again. In the meantime, I will raise Rourke, Walker, and Wynter to always remember they have a direct connection to heaven and a guardian angel who is always watching over them and protecting them. I love you so much, sweetheart.

Happy Sweet 16!

Love,
Mama, Rourke, Walker Reese,
& Wynter Jane

Message of Thanks

I want to take this opportunity to express my sincere gratitude to each of you for the prayers, acts of love, calls, text messages, and gifts extended to me during my time of illness.

I am deeply thankful for the care the doctors gave, the professionalism the nurses extended, and the time put in by the in home and outpatient rehabilitation teams, however, I am convinced that the support of family, friends, colleagues, co-workers, and members were essential to my recovery.

My illness brought to reality Jeremiah 32:17 "There is nothing too hard for God."

Good health is a treasure greater than gold, and because of God's undying grace and mercy I am being restored to health day by day.

Thanks again for your continual prayers, expressions of love, and your support throughout my journey to restored health. I pray that God would richly reward and bless each of you while restoring to you 100% of all that you gave.

2020 Annual Drinking Water Quality Report — Town of Cape Charles Waterworks PWSID No. 3131120

INTRODUCTION

This Annual Drinking Water Quality Report for calendar year 2020 is designed to inform you about your drinking water quality. Our goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water, and we want you to understand the efforts we make to protect your water supply. The quality of your drinking water must meet state and federal requirements administered by the Virginia Department of Health (VDH).

For information pertaining how you may participate in decisions regarding your water supply you may contact:

Scott Neville, Town of Cape Charles
2 Plum Street
Cape Charles, VA
757-331-1018

GENERAL INFORMATION

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

- Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife;
- Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally occurring or result from urban storm-water runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming;
- Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm-water runoff, and residential uses;
- Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff, and septic system;
- Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities

Drinking water, including bottled drinking water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, the EPA prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. Food and Drug Administration regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water, which must provide the same protection for public health.

MCLs are set at very stringent levels by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. In developing the standards EPA assumes that the average adult drinks 2 liters of water each day throughout a 70-year lifespan. EPA generally sets MCLs at levels that will result in no adverse health effects for some contaminants or a one-in-ten-thousand to one-in-a-million chance of having the described health effect for other contaminants.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

SOURCE OF YOUR DRINKING WATER AND TREATMENT

The Town of Cape Charles water system receives its water from 2 well/s (165-558 East and 165-387 West) located within 100 yards to the East and West of the WTP. Your water is treated with chlorine to preserve water quality.

The Virginia Dept. of Health conducted a Source Water Assessment of the Waterworks in 2001. The well was determined to be of low susceptibility to contamination using the criteria developed by the state in its approved Source Water Assessment Program. The assessment report consists of maps showing the Source Water Assessment area, an inventory of known Land Use Activities and Potential Conduits to Groundwater utilized at Land Use Activity sites in Zone 1, Susceptibility Explanation Chart, and Definition of Key Terms. The report is available by contacting your waterworks system owner/operator at the phone or address included in the CCR.

WATER QUALITY RESULTS

Contaminants in your drinking water are routinely monitored according to Federal and State regulations. The EPA requires that Table I reflect monitoring results for the period of January 1st 2016 through December 31st, 2020. The state allows us to monitor for some contaminants less than once per year because the concentrations of these contaminants do not change frequently. Some of our data, though accurate, may be more than one year old. Only the most recent sample results from the prescribed period are reported. The table lists only those contaminants that had some level of detection. Many other contaminants have been analyzed but were not present or were below the detection limits of the lab equipment.

DEFINITIONS

In this report you will find many terms and abbreviations you might not be familiar with. The following definitions are provided to help you better understand these terms:

- Non-detects (ND) – Lab analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.
- Parts per million (ppm) or Micrograms per liter (mg/l) - One part per million corresponds to one minute in 2 years, or a single penny in $10,000.
- Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter – One part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.
- Action Level (AL) – The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.
- Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) – The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
- Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) – The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
- Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL) - The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.
- Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG) - The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
- Treatment Technique (TT) – A required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.
- Level 1 Assessment - An evaluation to identify the possible presence of sanitary defects, defects in distribution system coliform monitoring practices, and (when possible) the likely reason that the system triggered the assessment.
- Level 2 Assessment - An evaluation to identify the possible presence of sanitary defects, defects in distribution system coliform monitoring practices, and (when possible) the likely reason that the system triggered the assessment in a more comprehensive investigation than a Level 1 assessment.

- Sanitary Defect - A defect that could provide a pathway of entry for microbial contamination into the distribution system or that is indicative of a failure or imminent failure in a barrier that is already in place.

WATER QUALITY RESULTS (Detected Contaminants Only)

Contaminant (units)	MCLG	MCL	Level Found	Violation	Date of Sample	Typical Source of Contamination
Combined Radium (pCi/L)	0	5	0.3	No	2015	Erosion of natural deposits
Gross Beta (pCi/L)	0	50*	3.3	No	2015	Erosion of natural and man-made deposits

* The MCL for Gross Beta is 4 mrem/year however EPA considers 50 pCi/L to be the level of concern.

DISINFECTION AND DISINFECTION BY-PRODUCTS

CONTAMINANT (units)	MCLG or MRDLG	MCL or MRDL	Level Detected	Range	Date of Sample	Violation	Typical Source of Contamination
Chlorine (ppm)	4	4	0.36	0.01-0.96	2020	No	Water additive used to control microbes

TTHM (ppb)	80	80	69	11-95	2020	No	By-product of drinking water chlorination

LEAD AND COPPER CONTAMINANTS

CONTAMINANT (units)	MCLG	Action Level	Level Detected	Range	# of samples above AL	Date of Sample	Typical Source of Contamination
Copper (ppm)	1.3	1.3	0.117	0.038 – 0.179	0	2020	Corrosion of household plumbing systems; Erosion of natural deposits; Leaching of wood preservatives.
Lead (ppb)	0	15	4.07	ND-6.03	0	2020	Corrosion of household plumbing; Erosion of natural deposits

A note about lead in drinking water: If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. This Waterworks is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>.

A note about fluoride in drinking water: Some people who drink water containing fluoride in excess of the MCL (4 ppm) over many years could get bone disease, including pain and tenderness of the bones. Fluoride in drinking water at half the MCL or more may cause mottling of children's teeth, usually in children less than nine years old. Mottling, also known as dental fluorosis, may include brown staining and/or pitting of the teeth, and occurs only in developing teeth before they erupt from the gums.

Additional Nonregulated Monitoring Results

Analyte (units)	Level Detected	Range	Date of Sample	Typical Source of Contamination
Sodium (ppm)	203	NA	2020	Sodium occurs naturally in groundwater. However, sources such as road salt, water softeners, natural underground salt deposits, pollution from septic systems as well as saltwater intrusion due to proximity to the ocean are often causes of elevated levels in drinking water supplies.

Sodium was detected in your water sample. There is presently no established standard for sodium in drinking water. Water containing more than 270 mg/l of sodium should not be used as drinking water by those persons whose physician has placed them on moderately restricted sodium diets. Water containing more than 20 mg/l should not be used as drinking water by those persons whose physician has placed them on severely restricted sodium diets.

Causeway is Dangerous

Dear Editor:

Kudos to Denise Bowden for her comment, “The Chincoteague causeway is one of the most dangerous stretches of road on the Eastern Shore ... leading to one of the most popular places on the Eastern Shore.”

I know a lot of us who travel the causeway frequently get impatient when we find ourselves behind a slow-moving vehicle. Whether a truck delivering goods, a motor home, or the newcomer to our island who wants to see every duck and egret, I would rather be following one of those slowpokes than have the impatient driver fly past me risking themselves and other travelers on the causeway.

After the recent paving and new line painting, I couldn't help notice when heading westbound there are new passing dashes leading up to Mosquito Creek bridge. Heading west, oncoming traffic is not visible. Passing is permitted right up to the base of the bridge. Someone may want to rethink that option.

Kathy Scott, Chincoteague Island
Big Thanks to Exmore

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Virginia Division of Rehabilitative Services and the Job Assistance Center Inc., we would like to thank Robert Duer and his staff at the Town of Exmore for allowing us to utilize the Exmore Town Park for the Eastern Shore Regional Job Fair held May 5. Over 200 people attended the event (104 job seekers and over 44 booths with employers, resource agencies, etc.).

Participants were able to apply and interview for many positions available on the Eastern Shore and Maryland. In addition, they were able to access information from local agencies on services available for various programs and services.

The feedback from employers was very positive with many successful hires.

Robin Sexauer, Virginia Division of Rehabilitative Services

Hard Lessons Learned

Dear Editor:

On May 26, my wife, son, and I went to the Star East Cemetery on Church Road in Accomac to cut the grass. This is something that we have done for approximately 55 years, mostly every other week during grass cutting season.

We normally cut more than just our family plots, but as much of the cemetery as we can possibly do to keep the area looking good. Sometimes this work is most of the front and way back for some distance. Sometimes we also actually pay a person to help us do all of the work.

We worked this day in 90 degree-plus temperatures and for approximately two hours. This work included mowing, edging, blowing off grass clippings from graves, and putting U.S. flags on family veterans' graves.

After completing this work, we loaded up the equipment — all except the Stihl BG66L blower (purchased Oct. 31, 2020, and for a total price of $242.14) that we used last. I forgot to load the blower from the ground on the other side of the vehicle.

We left for home and at the point that we realized that the blower was missing, returned to the cemetery. In the short period of time the blower had been taken by someone. This person watched us work and the moment we left, went to the middle of the cemetery and took the blower and probably watched us returning to get it.

The blower can and will be replaced. To the person who took the blower, you have taught my 14-year-old son who works hard with us that no matter how many good deeds one may do in life, there is always evil around that will take away from them.

James Veney, Melfa

Excellent 'Random Facts' Article

Dear Editor:

Many thanks to David Martin for his superb article in the Eastern Shore Post on the WWII encounter between Charles Brown of the U.S. Air Force and Franz Stigler of the Luftwaffe (“Random Facts,” June 11 and June 18). He relates an example of combatants recognizing the humanity of individuals forced by their countries to wage war.

There are many such incidents in history. Perhaps the most famous is the Christmas truce of 1914, when WWI combatants at multiple sites stopped fighting to bury their dead and simply to fraternize together.

In all cases, the combatant countries classified the incidents and forbade soldiers and officers to speak of them. Their attitude: What we all share as humans must not defeat such purposes as oil company profits, national belligerence, and the (totally discredited) concept that communism will take over the world.

My Veterans for Peace shirt carries a quote from President Eisenhower, who commanded Allied troops in World War II, the only war of my lifetime that was clearly justified.

“I hate war, as only a soldier who has lived it can, as only one who has seen its brutality, its futility, its stupidity.”

If only national leaders — including ours who sent troops to die in Vietnam, Afghanistan, and Iraq — felt as Ike did.

Al McKegg, Onancock
