Name of Future Parksley Bar and Grill Causes Local Stir

By Carol Vaughn

The name of a new bar and grill was on the minds of speakers during a public comment period at Monday's Parksley Town Council meeting.

Several speakers, all women, said the name, "The G Spot," is disrespectful of women and not a good reflection on the town.

Co-owner Kelly Hart also spoke about the choice of name, explaining her husband, G.W. Hart, often goes by G.

Those speaking both for and against the name said it is not within the town's jurisdiction to say what a private business calls itself.

Still, one speaker, former council member Julie Nash, asked the council to send a letter to the owners asking them to modify the name. The council took no action on the request.

The Harts announced earlier this year they had bought the former Club Car Cafe, with plans to reopen it as a restaurant on one side of the building and a bar and grill on the other.

After they held a contest to name the restaurant, the name Off the Rails was selected.

In a June 28 post on Off the Rail's

Facebook page, the bar name and logo were announced.

"So a lot of friends and family from the community named the bar ... we kept getting the same name so it just kinda stuck lol," the post said.

"I'm not trying to start an argument," said resident Betty Farley during Monday's meeting.

Farley said she was "gobsmacked" when she saw the bar's name and logo, including the tagline, "Everyone wants to come, but only a few can find it."

"I was, like, I can't believe this could be real. I thought it was a joke," she said.

Farley said she asked G.W. Hart about it and was told the name is a play on words and on his name.

"To me, it's not very funny. ... It might be a generation thing," Farley said.

Farley said Hart has "some great plans" and said she wants the restaurant to succeed, but said the name "is putting women's sexuality there. ... What kind of people are going to come? They're going to think it's for a lap dance."

Northampton Principal Casts His Eye to Lancaster, Va.

By Connie Morrison

Northampton High School Principal Mike Myers announced Wednesday in an email that he is leaving his post to become principal of Lancaster Primary School in Lancaster, Va., for the 2022-2023 school year. Myers has been at Northampton for eight years.

“Lancaster Primary is 15 minutes from my house which will cut down significantly on my driving time,” said Myers the email to the Eastern Shore Post. “For the last 8 years I have driven 2.5 hours each way to come and work with the wonderful students and staff of Northampton High School.”

Superintendent Jaime Cole said Thursday that Northampton County Public Schools supports Myers’ decision to accept a position closer to home. “We want him closer to family – it’s very important. We want him to be happy. ... He had a lot of support in the community and the high school.

“We will miss him, but we wish him the best. ... We appreciate all his years of service here,” Cole said.

When he started, Myers was the high school’s eighth principal in 10 years. “Hopefully the eight years provided some level of stability,” he said in an email to the Post.

The accomplishment for which he is most proud is piloting the school out of “school improvement” status. “We have been out of improvement since the end of year one. We now have improved scores including math scores at 92% and a graduation rate at 92% thanks to the wonderful staff at NHS and hard working students,” he said.

He is also proud of the turnaround in the sports programs. “Overall participation in activities and athletics is much improved,” Myers said. “We ended a 36-game losing streak in football in year one of my tenure and in the last four years have had two of the best football seasons in the last 20 years breaking many school records.”

During his tenure, Myers started several recognition programs to strengthen the bonds between current students and alumni such as the Northampton High School Athletic Hall of Fame, NHS Exemplary Teachers, NHS Distinguished Alumni, and the Melvin Burton Service Award. “NHS has a rich history with many exceptional graduates, teachers, and employees,” Myers said.

According to Myers, Vice Principal and CTE Director Heather Marsh will be recommended to the school board as the next principal of Northampton

High School. “She will do an amazing job as she is a huge reason NHS was able to make the improvements over the last 8 years,” he wrote.

Myers is effusive in his praise for the school. “I believe the Northampton High School students, staff, and community to be the best anywhere. I have truly loved my time in Northampton,” he said.

“One of his philosophies was relationships – the importance of relationships – and we will continue that,” Cole said.

That point comes through strongly from Myers. “My greatest accomplishment at NHS are all the wonderful relationships I was able to build with students, teachers, parents and community members,” he said

Farley said the town “is on the verge of getting out of this rut where people think we’re nothing but a bunch of lowlifes. ... They have entrusted our town with a $5 million regional library and we’re going to have a logo that’s putting women down about their sexuality. That ain’t right.”

Mayor Frank Russell replied, “I honestly never thought I’d have this conversation in a Town Council meeting, but I will say this ... There is absolutely nothing the council could do even if it wanted to.”

Russell said he had spoken with Hart, who told Russell if Parksley does not want him, he had been contacted by “several restaurants in Onancock.”

“Would I have named it that? Probably not, but here’s the reality of life now — have you been to Chincoteague lately? Have you seen some of the T-shirts they’ve got over there lately?” Russell said, adding, “It’s a generational thing.”

Nancy Duncan, of Greenbush, said, “To have a restaurant or a bar allude to a woman’s vagina, this just doesn’t seem like Parksley to me. ... With the new library and Parksley improving all the time, I just think it’s a bad look.”

Nash asked council members to request Hart to modify the name to “G.W.’s spot” or “G’s spot.”

She also asked members to state publicly what they think of the name.

“It’s embarrassing to the town, because if they start calling The Eagle’s Nest (the current bar name) The G Spot, then Parksley becomes the vagina of the Shore,” she said, adding, “And we have been working really hard to bring up our reputation.”

She noted town elections are coming up in November and said, “As voters in Parksley, I think we have the right to know where you stand on the issue.”

In reply, Councilman Ricky Taylor said, “So you’re going to base your vote on what we think of this one issue?”

Councilwoman Carol Matthews said she agrees with Farley and Nash.

“I have the same hesitation about supporting a restaurant that seems to put women’s anatomy on display,” she said.

Councilwoman Jan Welch said it “took a lot of courage” for the women to speak out.

“There just no two ways to look at it. It’s very suggestive and I just don’t think it’s appropriate,” she said.

Councilman Sam Welch said he is a son, a husband, a father to three girls and a boy, and a grandfather to two boys and a girl.

“The other thing is, I’m a pastor. ... I believe the Bible and I believe as a pastor, as a man, as a husband, as a father of precious girls, that does not turn me on,” he said.

Welch said he was “really impressed” when Hart came to the council and told them about his plans for the restaurant, but said, “I’m not real happy about this.”

Councilman Henry Nicholson said, “I think it’s a marketing plan. G.W. is very intelligent. I’ve known him all my life. A lot of us call him G. We’ve been calling him that for years. I understand his marketing plan.”

Nicholson said he “will stand behind G.W., whether you vote for me or not.”

Councilman Dan Matthews said, “I do believe it’s inappropriate. If it were my place, I wouldn’t call it that.” Still, he said, “It’s his business. He can do what he wants.”

Russell said he agreed with Nicholson.

“It wouldn’t have been my first choice, either,” he said, but noted Hart “has been successful in everything he has ever done.”

“If it doesn’t work, he’ll change it,” he said, noting, “...Times change.”

“I want G in town. I want this restaurant and if this little uproar here causes him to bail out, I’m going to be sad because if he decides to go to Onancock, he’s not going to change it there, either,” Russell said.

Co-owner Kelley Hart then spoke about the bar’s name.

“Everyone calls him G. He is retiring and this will be his spot,” she said of her husband.

She said the response to the name has been “overwhelmingly positive,” with more than 250 positive comments on the business’s Facebook page alone, along with likes and shares.

“My husband and I love the town of Parksley,” she said, adding, “... It would break my heart for him if he hears people saying he doesn’t want the best for the town.”

She said, “As a woman, I don’t feel like the name is degrading, but that’s my own opinion.”

Hart described her husband as compassionate and thoughtful.

“As a woman and his wife, I’m outraged by the way some of the people in this town are insinuating my husband is degrading women by naming the bar ‘The G Spot,’” she said.

“Yes, it’s a play on words. So are a lot of other restaurants,” she said.

Hart also said, “As far as the word being degrading for women, I’m a little confused on that. ... When you hear G spot, it’s definitely not a bad thing for women.”

She said the bar’s name will not be on the outside of the building.

Menhaden Removed From Silver Beach but Stench of Fish Spill Remains

By Stefanie Jackson

Last week, around the July Fourth holiday, a break in a fishing net caused thousands of dead menhaden to wash up onshore in Silver Beach, and even though the beach has since been cleaned up, Northampton County residents were still left with the stink of the incident, both literally and figuratively.

Menhaden are filter-feeding fish that are related to herring; they can be used as bait or for producing fertilizer or fish oil-based health supplements or animal feed.

Ocean Harvesters, which catches menhaden for the company Omega Protein, reported and took responsibility for a spill that occurred July 5 about a mile offshore from Silver Beach.

There appear to have been two separate spills involving different fishing companies, as Silver Beach residents reported dead menhaden washing up onshore as early as July 2, and Ocean Harvesters reported none of its vessels were operating between July 2 and July 4.

The entity responsible for the earlier spill remains unknown.

The Virginia Marine Resource Commission is investigating the Ocean Harvesters spill, and a representative of the Virginia Department of Environmental Quality, environmental specialist Kevin Cline, visited the spill site Wednesday morning.

On or after July 5, a cleanup crew was sent to Silver Beach and removed most of the dead fish. However, they left behind one of the large black trash bags full of smelly, decaying carcasses, said Debbie Campbell, who lives in Salisbury, Md., but owns a home in Silver Beach, where she retreats during the summer.

Most of the trash bags were placed in a dumpster belonging to Hepaco, a company that provides emergency response services to clean up spills of all types and sizes.

Both Northampton and Accomack administrators confirmed that Davis Disposal, which provides roll-off dumpster service, had contacted the landfills for both counties to inquire if either would accept the dead fish. Both said “no.”

It is against Accomack County policy for its landfill to accept waste from Northampton County. Furthermore, the Accomack landfill is for residential waste, but the fish spill was an “industrial accident,” said Deputy Administrator of Public Works and Facilities Stewart Hall.

The Hepaco dumpster, still full of dead fish, was left at Morley’s Wharf and was found by concerned citizens over the weekend. As of Wednesday morning, the dumpster had not been removed, but by the evening hours, it was gone, according to Exmore resident Bill Thomas.

Northampton County Deputy Administrator Janice Williams recalled that it was once common for commercial dumpsters or “green boxes” full of trash to be left in the Morley's Wharf parking lot, and to the best of her knowledge, temporarily leaving a dumpster at the public facility did not violate any code or ordinance.

However, there was concern in the Silver Beach community that the rotting and liquefied fish waste was leaking out of the dumpster toward Occohannock Creek.

Concerned citizens have created a Facebook group called "Menhaden – Little Fish, Big Deal!" Its members are advocating for companies like Omega Protein to be held accountable for actions that adversely impact the environment and surrounding communities.

According to the Good Jobs First website, Cooke Inc., the Canada-based parent company of Omega Protein, has paid nearly $13 million in penalties for violations related to the environment, safety, government contracting, and finances.

More than $10 million of the penalties paid were for environmental-related offenses.

Citizens are also concerned that laws and regulations related to the menhaden fishing industry may be influenced by Omega Protein's political donations.

According to the Virginia Public Access Project website, since 1996, the earliest year for which data was available, Omega Protein has made nearly $700,000 in political donations.

Omega Protein has donated a total of $303,000 to Democrats and about $385,000 to Republicans, including $25,000 each to the 2018 inaugural committee of former Gov. Ralph Northam and the 2022 inaugural committee of Gov. Glenn Youngkin.

Fishing net breaks occur about two or three times per year, and of the 14 net breaks reported from 2018 to 2022, two were in the Chesapeake Bay, said VMRC Deputy Chief of Fisheries Management Adam Kenyon.

Kenyon also said that menhaden are managed on a regional basis and fishing is permitted in the entire Chesapeake Bay, but in practice, happens only in the Virginia portion.

Over the past 20 years that Debbie Campbell has spent summers in Silver Beach, she has witnessed dead fish from spills washing up onshore almost every year.

"We are not a bunch of whining, elite neighbors who don't want to be troubled by a dead fish on our beach," Campbell said of the Silver Beach community.

"This is a huge issue about the waters of the Chesapeake (Bay) in Virginia being the only waters of the Chesapeake where this nonsense (reduction fishing) is allowed."

M.K. Miles Awarded Corps of Engineers' Highest Civilian Honor

By Carol Vaughn

M.K. Miles III, whose family roots run deep on the Eastern Shore, was awarded the highest honor given to civilians by the Army Corps of Engineers in a ceremony Wednesday, June 29, in Washington, D.C.

Many people on the Eastern Shore know Miles as a historian and a genealogist, but this honor was about his 35-year career with the Corps.

Miles retired in September 2008.

Miles was inducted into the Army Corps of Engineers Gallery of Distinguished Civilians, including being presented his framed portrait to be hung in the gallery.

Miles during his career helped revolutionize engineering and navigational practices worldwide during the early development of Global Positioning System (GPS) technology.

Miles served from November 2006 through May 2007 as deputy chief of engineering and construction in the Civil Works Directorate at the Corps headquarters in Washington, D.C., where he was responsible for policy, program, and technical expertise in the execution of more than $10 billion of design and construction programs for the Army, the Air Force, the Department of Defense, and other federal agencies, as well as in more than 60 foreign nations.

Miles led a field organization of eight divisions, 41 districts, and around 15,000 employees.

During his career, Miles saw the introduction of the military GPS in the 1980s, which was intended for military tactical use at the time and had limited availability and low accuracy for civil uses.

Through his establishment of a surveying and mapping research and development program, techniques leading to much greater accuracy in the new technology were developed.

Miles also coordinated a partnership with the Coast Guard, enabling development of an inland electronic navigational charts system now used by vir-

"The technology significantly increased the safety of the inland navigation system, while reducing costs," according to the nomination narrative.

His leadership in GPS technology also resulted in "numerous federal patents and partnerships with private corporations, such as Caterpillar, culminating in a new industry centered around machine guidance and control, so successful that it has become a routine system in daily use throughout the worldwide marine construction and heavy civil construction and earthmoving industries,” according to the nomination.

The new technology revolutionized high-resolution airborne mapping capability for military and civil applications and coastal engineering with Light Detection and Ranging (LIDAR) systems.

Miles was instrumental in establishing the Joint Airborne Lidar Bathymetry Technical Center of Expertise, a partnership among the Army Corps, the Navy, NOAA, and the U.S. Geological Survey.

Miles also promoted the introduction to field offices of the first multi-beam acoustic depth measurement system, which greatly increased the accuracy and resolution of bottom mapping.

Miles “was an active proponent of CAD (computer-aided design), GIS (geographic information systems), and BIM (building information modeling), and a strong supporter of National Standards. Before any of the computing tools were widely recognized and were in use, he mandated data standards,” according to the nomination.

Before working at the Washington, D.C., headquarters, Miles worked in the Corps’ Norfolk District from 1973 to 1981.

He served as a second lieutenant in the Air Force from 1971 to 1973.

Miles earned a Bachelor of Science degree in civil engineering from Virginia Tech in 1971.

Among other awards, Miles is a recipient of the Silver Order of the de Fleury Medal, an award of the Army Engineer Association.

He also in 2007 was the first recipient of the Management Association for Private Photogrammetric Surveyors Public Service Award, given for contributions to the public and the geospatial profession in a government service role.

The Army Corps Gallery of Distinguished Civilians was established in 1955 and now includes around 100 members.

To be inducted, members must have served at least 10 years at Army Corps headquarters or the Office of the Chief of Engineers; served as an exemplary role model and mentor; accomplished their duties in an outstanding manner; developed new and improved methods and procedures which produced significant benefits to the Corps; and contributed substantially to the reputation and honor of the Corps, according to a memorandum about the induction ceremony.

Miles during comments at the induction ceremony noted his Eastern Shore ancestor, Col. Edmund Scarborough, born in 1617 in England and a prominent early Shore settler, was appointed Surveyor General of the Virginia colony, serving in that capacity from 1655 to 1670.

Scarborough came to Virginia around 1621 and settled on the Eastern Shore around 1628. He represented the Accomac Shire in the Virginia House of Burgesses.

“I’m his ninth great-grandson and I’m a surveyor,” Miles said, adding, “...I’m really thankful for the opportunity to work with the Corps of Engineers for 35 years.”

BACK TO SCHOOL INFO FOR PARENTS

FALL 2022 PreK AND KINDERGARTEN STUDENTS:

Your child must have required immunizations* and school physical to enter school 9/6/22. If your child has not had a well child check/physical completed after 9/6/21, schedule an appointment.
*Two doses of hepatitis A vaccine (HAV) now required for kindergarten.

STUDENTS ENTERING 7TH GRADE:

A Tdap booster and the 1st doses of the human papillomavirus (HPV)* and meningococcal conjugate (MenACWY)* vaccines are required. Call your center and ask for a nurse appointment if your child does not have a well child annual exam scheduled before 9/6/22, but has had a well child check/physical within the last year.
*HPV and MenACWY vaccines are now required for all students. Parents have the right to decide if a child receives the HPV vaccine. A student can attend school and be missing HPV. Parents discuss this with your healthcare provider.

STUDENTS ENTERING 12TH GRADE:

A meningococcal conjugate (MenACWY)* booster is required. Call your center and ask for a nurse appointment if your child does not have a well child annual exam scheduled before 9/6/22, but has had a well child check/physical within the last year.
*The MenACWY booster is now required.

STUDENT ATHLETES

A sports physical and completed VA High School League physical exam form, signed by your child's medical provider, is required before school team tryouts and participating in conditioning. An updated form must be submitted each school year. Go to the Forms section of the esrh.org home page to download the form.

- If your child has a well child exam scheduled from now through 7/31/22 their sports PE form can be completed at their appointment.
- If your child has already had a well child check performed after 5/1/22 and before 7/31/22 at Rural Health, the child's medical provider will complete the sports physical form. Parents fill in pages 1, 2 & 4 then drop off the form at the center where your child is a patient.

Call for an appointment! Pediatric appointments can be scheduled online – see Make an Appointment at esrh.org.

Affordable Housing Shortage Creates Camper Dilemma for Exmore

By Stefanie Jackson

The Exmore Town Council at its July 11 meeting was made aware of an issue stemming from a lack of affordable housing on the Eastern Shore: residents living full time in campers, which is prohibited by town code.

Town Manager Robert Duer called the issue a “hot potato” because he has been receiving complaints about people living in campers, but their options are limited due to the housing shortage.

Duer said there’s “no easy answer” to the problem and asked the Town Council for advice.

Taylor Dukes, Exmore’s zoning and utilities director, noted the town’s ordinances do not allow visitors or residents to stay in campers, either temporarily or permanently.

Town Council members were amenable to permitting visitors to stay in campers for a short period but agreed campers should not be used as permanent residences.

Duer suggested the Town Council may consider enacting an ordinance allowing a person to stay in town in a camper for a limited time – for example, no more than 28 days, like a short-term rental home.

Mayor Douglas Greer was satisfied with the existing ordinance that prohibits dwelling in campers, but Dukes cautioned, “with the housing shortage and house prices through the roof, it’s become affordable housing.”

Duer said town staff will make a recommendation to the Town Council at one of its next meetings.

Dukes also told the council members to expect a discussion on tiny houses in the future. A tiny house is typically 400 square feet or less and can serve as an affordable housing option for an individual or small family.

Dukes noted that a tiny house is technically a mobile home because most tiny houses are built on trailers.

Sewer Funding Update

Exmore officials continue their efforts to line up funding for the town’s upcoming sewer project, which will include a complete replacement and expansion of the collection system so the entire town can receive sewer service.

The Town Council will hold a public hearing Sept. 12 on its plan to borrow $3.2 million from the U.S. Department of Agriculture to help pay for the sewer project. Exmore’s objective is to keep its borrowing to a minimum and fund most of the project with grants from various sources.

Duer confirmed that Exmore will receive a $3.5 million grant from the Virginia Department of Environmental Quality, which was included in the two-year state budget. The town is still waiting to receive the letter of notification of the grant award from DEQ.

The office of Congresswoman Elaine Luria announced July 12 that Exmore will receive $750,000 in federal funding for the sewer project “to provide service for affordable housing units, apartments, and commercial buildings,” the press release stated.

About 85,000 feet of sewer lines will be installed throughout Exmore “for additional commercial and residential growth without impacting open space and environmentally sensitive areas” of Northampton County, the release continued.

The $750,000 in federal funding awarded is a fraction of Exmore’s original request of $3 million, and as of Monday, town officials had still planned to pursue the remainder of the requested funding.

Dukes remarked that authorities at the federal level “don’t know if we really need the money, but they want us to hook ... all the houses up. So, I told them if they want us to do that, we’ve got to have $3 million; $750,000 is not going to do it.”

Chesapeake Bay Preservation Act

The Town Council voted unanimously to adopt a corrective action agreement from DEQ directing Exmore to update its Chesapeake Bay Preservation Area Overlay District map to define its Resource Management Area and Resource Protection Area.

Dukes said the update pertains to about 5% of one parcel west of U.S. Route 13 and will affect any developments in that area.

“I Am a Welder”

Connor Henderson calls it an epiphany: “Being introduced to welding during dual enrollment at Eastern Shore Community College was a game-changer for me,” he said. “I was hooked from the very start and knew right away I wanted to learn everything I could about the process of welding.”

Connor began taking college classes while still in high school through the dual enrollment partnership between Eastern Shore Community College and Northampton High School.

Connor said, “I’ve always known that I wanted to work with my hands.” ESCC Welding instructor Lloyd Wagar saw the enthusiasm and talent immediately and encouraged him to explore the many career paths that would present themselves.

Wagar said, “Today’s job market for welders is wide-open. Students leaving our program are sought after talents in so many career fields on the Shore with the ever-expanding landscape of opportunities at NASA-Wallops and the ag and marine-related applications. It’s also a trade skill that can take you literally across the nation and around the world.”

Connor took full advantage of the required internships of the program, putting in time at both Coastal Precast and JRC Mechanical, all while also working locally with RBW Construction. “The hands-on experiences that follow the fundamentals gained in class are so important,” Connor said. “I applied what I learned in evening classes to my day job.”

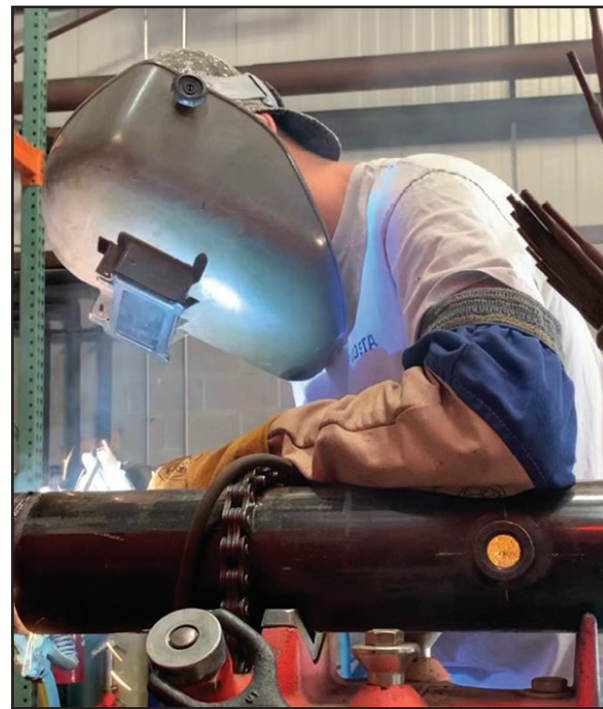

When Connor received his associate degree in technical studies, he was already receiving a full-time offer from JRC Mechanical. “I love the fast pace of the job. I never stop learning. As a pipe welder in the field, I get to use my skills in acetylene cutting, stick welding, fabrication and so much more.”

ESCC Vice President Dr. Patrick Tompkins said, “When students leave us and find such gratification in their careers, it’s a huge ‘YES!’ for ESCC. We tell the Shore all the time: share your hopes and dreams with us—we can help.”

Here’s where ESCC’s help led Connor: “Every day I drop the hood on my helmet, it’s going to be a good day.”

Find your future and pursue it at ESCC. Call us at 757-789-1720 or email studentservices@es.vccs.edu today.

“I Play A Nurse Aide In Real Life”

“It’s amazing how much information you can learn in such a small amount of time,” says Maesha Johnson, a temporary nurse aide at Shore Health and Rehab.

Maesha was hired as a nurse aide on an emergency basis during the pandemic even though she did not have her certification. Now, through YOUR Eastern Shore Community College, Maesha is enrolled in an accelerated program to prepare her to sit for the nurse aide exam.

The program is based on Maesha’s on-the-job experience and tops it up with content knowledge so she can become an officially certified nursing assistant (CNA).

“What it means for me,” Maesha said, “is that I will be officially recognized by the state for the work I’ve been doing for the last two years. The certification will give me more options to advance in my career.”

Instructor Felicia Blake is overseeing the Accelerated Nurse Aide Refresher Course at ESCC that is already in its second session. Blake said, “Having been hired during the pandemic to cover staff shortages, these students have the great opportunity to test for certification. Although the course is accelerated, we are providing content lectures, practicing skills, and preparing for the exam.”

Maesha won’t stop there. “I will be taking a phlebotomy class at ESCC as well. I have plenty of goals I plan on reaching, including working in a hospital setting and living my passion of taking care of people.”

ESCC Workforce & Business Solutions Officer Scott Hall said, “We’re excited to provide a quick response to the needs of the business community to credential employees in time to meet a state deadline to become certified. We worked closely with the Virginia Board of Nursing to ensure the accelerated program meets state program guidelines.”

Gena Mullen, of New Church, has also been able to benefit from the program. “I was excited to learn of this opportunity from Ms. Blake at ESCC. She is a wonderful instructor, and she has helped me set my sights on continuing my nursing education here. I will be a full-time student this fall at Eastern Shore Community College!”

ESCC Vice President Patrick Tompkins said, “Our innovation and quick response to modify an existing nurse aide program directly benefits our students and the local business community. This is truly our “YES!” (Your Eastern Shore) mission in action.”

He added, “ESCC’s relentless message to students like Maesha and businesses like Shore Rehab is, ‘Contact us. We can help.’”

Annual Report Tracks Eastern Shore Crime, Arrests: Part I

By Carol Vaughn

The rate of both serious crimes and arrests on the Eastern Shore in 2021 was down from the previous year, according to the 2021 Crime in Virginia report, released recently by the Virginia State Police.

The number of murders on the Eastern Shore stayed even with the previous year.

Sheriff's offices in Accomack and Northampton reported 10 murders or nonnegligent manslaughters, nine in Accomack and one in Northampton, in 2021.

Additionally, state police reported two murders in Accomack in 2021.

In 2020, the Accomack Sheriff's Office reported 11 murders and the Northampton Sheriff's Office reported one murder.

In Virginia as a whole, the violent crime rate increased in 2021 to 194.4 per 100,000 population from 183 in 2020. There were 16,823 violent crimes reported in 2021, compared to 15,713 in 2020, a 7.1% increase, according to a press release.

The report employs an Incident Based Reporting (IBR) method for calculating offenses.

By state mandate, Virginia State Police serves as the primary collector of crime data from state and local police departments and sheriff's offices.

The 2021 report includes statistics from both counties' sheriff's offices, Virginia State Police reporting on crimes on the Shore, and statistics from seven Shore towns with police departments.

Accomack County Sheriff's Office

The Accomack County Sheriff's Office (ACSO) made 383 arrests in 2021, including two juveniles, according to the report.

The ACSO reported 875 serious offenses in the county and 130 adults and one juvenile arrested for crimes in the Group A category, which includes more serious crimes such as murder, rape, and burglary, among others.

The ACSO reported 250 arrests, including one juvenile, for Group B incidents, which include crimes such as liquor law violations, trespassing, driving under the influence, disorderly conduct, loitering, and nonviolent family offenses.

The rate of Group A crimes reported was 2,947.1 per 100,000 population and the arrest rate was 1,405.7 per 100,000 population.

The crime rate was down from 2020, when ACSO reported a serious crime rate of 3,447.5 per 100,000 populations and an arrest rate of 1,357.2.

The ACSO had 61 employees in 2021, including 52 sworn officers and nine civilians.

Details of the most serious crimes reported by ACSO in 2021 are as follows.

Crimes against persons:

- 9 murders/nonnegligent manslaughter; one juvenile arrested
- 1 negligent manslaughter

Court Postings

By Nancy Drury Duncan

Accomack Circuit Court

A New Church woman charged with murder and arson was found not guilty by reason of insanity. Both the commonwealth and the defense attorney agreed this was the proper disposition of the case. Kimiko Tenallie Dickerson, 41, was charged with the April 2021 second-degree murder of her uncle 58-year-old Delbert Dickerson and the arson of the home they shared with another man.

When police and firefighters responded to a house fire on Bishop Road, Dickerson admitted setting the fire but said, "I didn't mean to kill him." She was treated for burns. Autopsy results showed Delbert Dickerson died from smoke inhalation. Dickerson told officers she heard someone "crawling around in the attic earlier and needed to get rid of them." She talked sometimes about a girl living in the attic and other times about a "baby python" there. Other times, she talked about things in the basement. The home had no basement. Dickerson said she was smoking and lit the rug on fire and then jumped out the window.

Testimony was that Dickerson was diagnosed with bipolar disorder and schizophrenia at age 26. Defense attorney Garrett Dunham said his client suffers from "acute mental illness" and had been off her medications for some time before the fire. He said she had a history of dangerous behavior and was not taking her meds because of money.

Commonwealth's Attorney Spencer Morgan told the court a finding of not guilty by reason of insanity was the only logical outcome.

"There is no question that you suffer from mental illness that has gotten worse over the last 15 years or so," Judge W. Revell Lewis III told Dickerson. He ordered her to the custody of the Virginia Department of Behavior Health and Developmental Services. She will not be released without a court order, he said. Judge Lewis set Jan. 26, 2023, for a hearing on Dickerson's status. "Something hopefully will be done so you don't run out of medication," he said.

Malik Javon Johnson, 24, of Virginia Beach, pleaded guilty to possession of ammunition by a convicted felon. In exchange for this plea, a second felony charge of attempted malicious wounding was not prosecuted by the commonwealth.

On Nov. 13, 2020, deputies responded to a call of gunshots fired at the Community Services Board office in Belle Haven. Deputies saw cars departing at a high rate of speed, said Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney William Fox. A white sedan came close to striking an officer's car. When the chase continued to Nassawadox in Northampton County, two officers from there followed the car. The car crashed and the driver and a passenger exited the car and ran. A deputy recognized Johnson from previous interactions. He saw Johnson drop a ski mask along with an extended 9 mm magazine.

A K-9 unit was deployed and tracked Johnson to a nearby house. The officers saw one of the cars that had sped away from the CSB office and went to the door where they were allowed inside. They found Johnson hiding in a closet. A witness who was at the CSB office said two individuals wearing black ski masks approached her and began shooting. When Johnson was arrested, he admitted to being in one of the vehicles and to dropping the mask and the ammunition. Judge W. Revell Lewis III accepted the plea agreement and found Johnson guilty of possession of ammunition by a convicted felon. He ordered a presentence investigation report and set sentencing for Sept. 8.

Sheena Jackson, age unknown, of Exmore, pleaded guilty to misdemeanor destruction of property and assault and battery in a plea agreement with the commonwealth. She was originally charged with felony breaking and entering.

In the afternoon of Aug. 21, 2021, a deputy responded to a complaint at an Onancock address. The woman there said Jackson came to her house, broke through the door, assaulted her, and took her (Jackson's) two children, ages 7 and 5. Jackson had been living there with the woman who was a grandmother to her children. The woman had obtained a protective order to keep Jackson away, but the order had not yet been served, said Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Fox. He said the grandmother has custody of the children and added that the children were in the room watching when Jackson broke through the door and assaulted the woman.

Fox asked that Jackson be given some time in jail. Defense attorney Brandon Matthews told the court Jackson has a job in Pocomoke City, Md., and works six days a week.

Judge Lewis found Jackson guilty of the two misdemeanors. He extended the protective order to July 7, 2024, and sentenced her to 12 months in jail on each charge with 11 months suspended on each. She will have two months of active jail time to serve, which the judge said could be done on weekends. He warned her not to go to the woman's house and to arrange for another person to pick up and return her children. She is required to be on good behavior for three years.

Joshua Seth Powell, 36, of Parkesley, was found guilty of possession of a firearm by a convicted felon in a bench trial. Police received a call about a domestic dispute at Royal Farms in Onley. Before the officer got there, he received another call from dispatch telling him the location of a firearm. He went to the location, which was near the Virginia State Police barracks in Melfa. The officer found a Mossberg 88 shotgun submerged in a roadside ditch and with a live round inside.

The officer then went to the Royal Farms and spoke with the woman who made the complaint. The woman identified Powell as the man she made the complaint about. The officer asked her to call Powell and ask him to meet her. Powell soon arrived and was arrested. He told the deputy he was under the influence of cocaine and molly when he shot at the woman's residence. He also admitted to throwing the shotgun out of his car window at the location where the deputy found it.

Commonwealth's Attorney Spencer Morgan told the court he could not prosecute Powell for shooting the firearm because the victim moved from this area and said she could not afford to return to testify against Powell.

ESCC Evacuated After Bomb Threat

ESCC Evacuated After Bomb Threat

Staff Report

A bomb threat Tuesday about Eastern Shore Community College, in Melfa, shut down a building until officers were able to search it.

No explosive device was found.

According to Accomack County Sheriff Todd Wessells, the sheriff's office received a report at around 1:13 p.m. that a potential explosive device was on the second floor of the college building.

When deputies arrived, they immediately started to evacuate the building.

K-9s from the Norfolk Police Department, which specialize in detecting bombs, were requested to respond.

The K-9s searched the building thoroughly and no explosive device was found.

Multiple other colleges and universities across the Tidewater region received similar threats Tuesday and bomb threats have been made against colleges and universities throughout the United States in the past week, according to a press release from Wessells.

The Accomack County Sheriff's Office was assisted by the Norfolk Police Department, Eastern Shore Community College Police and Security, and the Accomack County Department of Public Safety.

An investigation into this incident is ongoing. Anyone with information is asked to contact the Accomack County Sheriff's Office at 757-787-1131 or 757-824-5666, or tips may be submitted at www.accomackcountysheriffsoffice.org

Northampton County Indictments

By Stefanie Jackson

Kevin Lawrence Clark, 42, of Lankford Highway, Nassawadox, was indicted July 11 on three felony charges of assault and battery of a law enforcement officer.

Clark is accused of the assault and battery of Deputy D. Cobb and Deputy J.L. Smith, Northampton County Sheriff's Office, and Officer C. Little, Exmore Police Department, on April 7.

Clark was arrested the following day by the Accomack County Sheriff's Office and was held without bail.

His prior criminal record includes disorderly conduct, making a threatening phone call, assault, domestic assault and battery, resisting arrest, obstruction, violating a protective order, and theft.

Clark was released May 26 on $2,500 unsecured bond.

Derek Joseph Davis, 34, of Rogers Drive, Nassawadox, was indicted July 11 on a felony charge of maliciously causing bodily injury to Jessica Charlton on Feb. 19.

He was arrested and held without bail Feb. 24 by Deputy J.W. Foisey, NCSO, who also investigated. A protective order was later filed against Davis.

His prior criminal record included a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

Davis was released Feb. 25 on $2,500 bail or bond.

Robert Keith Dillard Jr., 37, of Plantation Drive, Cape Charles, was indicted July 11 on two felony charges: forgery of a draft, check, or other writing, and uttering a check belonging to the Cornish Funeral Home, both between May 5 and May 9.

He was arrested and held with bail May 9 by Deputy M. Johnson, NCSO, who also investigated.

Dillard also faces two misdemeanor charges of obtaining money by a false pretense, one at El Ranchito Mexican Store and one at Cheriton Quick Mart, also between May 5 and May 9.

Dillard was released May 10 on $2,000 secured bond.

Dashawn Lamont Holloway, 18, of Mill Run, Belle Haven, was indicted July 11 on two felony charges: malicious shooting of Qurnesha Davis while he was part of a mob, and using a firearm while committing malicious wounding, both on Feb. 14.

Holloway was 17 when the alleged offenses occurred, and he was taken into police custody by Deputy Michelle Hallett, NCSO. Holloway was later transported to the Norfolk Juvenile Detention Center.

According to Northampton County court records, Holloway first became involved in the juvenile justice system at age 11, when he was charged and found guilty of assault and battery of a family member.

He was offered participation in a diversion program but then was charged and found guilty of shoplifting, and the diversion closed unsuccessfully.

Holloway later was found guilty of a probation violation, and he was taken into police custody twice on runaway charges.

Malik Javon Johnson, 24, of Adron Street, Exmore, was indicted July 11 on three felony charges: possession of a firearm by a violent felon who had been convicted within the last 10 years, malicious wounding by a mob, and use of a firearm while committing malicious wounding, all on Feb. 14.

He was arrested the same day by Sergeant A. Lewis, NCSO. Johnson was held without bail.

His prior criminal record includes felony charges of possession of a weapon and/or ammunition and malicious wounding in 2020 in Accomack County, but there has been no disposition in that court case.

Soufiana Kaba, 21, of Glen Myrtle Avenue, Norfolk, was indicted July 11 on a felony charge of eluding police and causing the endangerment of a person on May 16.

He was arrested May 17 by Deputy J.W. Foisey, NCSO, who also investigated.

Kaba faces five related misdemeanor charges: driving without a license, reckless driving and endangerment, reckless driving by speeds exceeding 85 mph, failure to maintain control of a vehicle, and carrying a concealed weapon.

He received two traffic infractions: driving without headlights and failing to signal.

At the time of his arrest, Kaba also had charges pending against him for having no vehicle insurance or registration and having mismatched license plates.

He was released the same day on $5,000 secured bond.

Jeffrey Cameron Rickard, 74, of Junction Lane, Cape Charles, was indicted July 11 on a felony charge of making a false statement on a form to obtain a firearm on April 7.

He was arrested the same day by Trooper G.L. Gillimore, Virginia State Police, who also investigated.

Rickard was released later that day on $1,500 secured bail.

He also faces a misdemeanor charge of possession of a firearm after involuntary commitment to an outpatient treatment facility.

16-Year-Old Raises Money, Awareness on the Plight of Agricultural Workers

Antonia Baudoin, a 16-year-old senior at Norfolk Academy, sits at a booth at the Cape Charles July Fourth celebration. Baudoin's booth served Latin American food, made and donated by her mother and aunt, in an effort to make others aware of the plight of agricultural workers. The proceeds from the booth will help offset financial burdens held by the workers and caused by emergency hospital visits and trips to return to their native country. The Community Services wing of the Dos Santos Food Pantry will vet the requests and distribute the funds approved by the Agricultural Workers Advisory Council. Submitted Photo.

Rosalie Stevens Hart

Mrs. Rosalie Stevens Hart, 86, of Keller, was reunited in heaven with her beloved husband, Donald L. Hart Sr., on Saturday, July 9, 2022. Born Jan. 24, 1936, in Hacksneck, she was the daughter of the late Jefferson Floyd Stevens Sr. and the late Etta Bell Stevens.

In June of 1954, Rosalie graduated from Central High School and just days later, she married her sweetheart and the love of her life, with whom she shared 64 beautiful years. Rosalie gave her all to anything and everything she did and gladly went out of her way to help those in need. She was the longtime secretary and bookkeeper for Gulf Stream Nursery in Wachapreague and later for the ARC of the Eastern Shore in Exmore, where she retired. She was a devoted member of Mears Memorial United Methodist Church and remained loyal to her faith in the Lord throughout her life. Rosalie’s family was her greatest blessing, and she cherished every moment spent with those she loved most. There was never an occasion she didn’t have her camera handy, ensuring she preserved each precious memory for generations to come. Rosalie embodied the definition of a true Christian woman through the infinite love and compassion she gave without question or hesitation.

In addition to her husband and parents, Rosalie was also reunited with her son, Lemuel Ray Hart, and brother, Jefferson F. Stevens Jr. She leaves to cherish her memory, her son, Donald L. Hart Jr., and his wife, Beth, of Keller; grandchildren, Dereck Lee Hart and his wife, Courtney, of Keller, Donald L. David Anson Naar

Mr. David Anson Naar died on July 3, 2022, at his home on Nasawadox Creek. David was born in 1931 in Yonkers, N.Y., to Joseph Lennox Naar and Anne Eigenrauch Naar. Growing up in Ossining, N.Y., playing in the woods and Croton River and Hudson River, he acquired lifelong loves of the outdoors, boats, and animals and was almost never without a boat (or boats) and a dog. David also manifested an early talent for classical piano and later jazz improvisation.

Mr. Naar

At age 10, David saw his first darkroom and became fascinated with photography. His father, editor of the local newspaper, gave him his first shot at news photography. Here on the Eastern Shore, David continued to photograph its waters, landscape, buildings, and boats, capturing the same themes in acrylic and watercolor. He taught photography at ESO and to private students.

For kids growing up in New York in the 1940s, World War II was a living presence. Patriotism ran high, and military paraphernalia were readily available and responsible for a number of adventures and mishaps by David and his buddies. In December 1948, just short of his 18th birthday, David enlisted in the Army and was assigned to the 3rd division, 35th Artillery. Outfitted only with summer gear, they made an amphibious LST landing at Wonson, North Korea, in December 1950. As a halftrack squad leader, that Christmas he participated in the famous frozen Chozin retreat maneuver, followed in 1951 by long patrols up and down North Korea. All his life, David vividly remembered the cold and wind of North Korea, the long lines of refugees carrying all their possessions on their backs, and the bravery and resilience of Korean soldiers on both sides. Later he wrote extensively about his Korean experience which drastically changed his views of the military, war, and man's place on this Earth.

Upon return and honorable discharge from the Army, David worked at various trades, joining NY Telephone in 1955 and continuing there as an outside plant engineer for 17 years. At age 57, he joined the Peace Corps and spent two years in Gabon, West Africa. Marrying his third wife, Marion, in 1990 they moved to the Eastern Shore a few years later with schooner Yemanja, beloved former Harlem River launch Queenie, and dog Two Socks. Here David built workboat models for the Cape Charles Museum, a mini tug, and rowboats for his grandchildren.

David was predeceased by two brothers, Joseph and twin Frank, and is survived by his brother, Thomas, of Ossining; wife, Marion; daughter, Michele, from his first marriage and her husband, Greg; granddaughter, Rachel; stepchildren, Michael Madrid and Tanya Madrid, along with their families, including four grandchildren. All adored Grandpa Dave for his many skills and stories of his adventures and animals.

By wish of the family, no formal public service is planned.

Online condolences may be sent to the family at www.doughtyfuneralhome.com Arrangements were made by Doughty Funeral Home in Exmore.

Patricia L. Rogers

Ms. Patricia L. Rogers, 58, of Bloxom, departed this life Sunday, July 3, 2022, at her residence.

Born in Northampton County, she was the beloved daughter of the late Francis and Ellen Rogers. "Pat," as she was affectionately known, was educated in the public schools of Northampton County. In later years, she gained employment with the Accomack County Public Schools as a bus driver and an instructional assistant for the alternative education program. She dedicated over 30 years of service until her untimely passing. Pat was also a personal care assistant for Briggs Home Health and Love Thy Neighbor.

Pat was a dedicated member of Ebenezer Baptist Church in Wardtown. She was the youth director and the founder of the Youth Church. She also sang in the choir in prior years. Pat was willing to assist in any capacity. She was the epitome of dedication and commitment to Ebenezer Baptist Church.

Funeral services were held Saturday, July 9, 2022, at Ebenezer Baptist Church, Wardtown, with the Rev. Milton P. Bunting officiating. Interment was in the church cemetery.

She leaves to cherish her memories: four children, Jessica Boggs, James Boggs Jr., Joshalyn Boggs, and Jennifer Boggs; 14 grandchildren; 10 siblings; eight special friends; and a host of other relatives and friends.

Arrangements are by the Cooper & Humbles Funeral Co., Accomack.

Virginia Trader

Mrs. Virginia L. Bloxom Trader, 66, of Melfa, silently entered into eternal rest on Thursday, June 23, 2022, at Virginia Beach General Hospital in Virginia Beach.

She was born Aug. 30, 1955, in Modest Town, to Robert "Bobby" Byrd and Virginia Bloxom-Sneed. Virginia was raised by her grandparents, the late William and Bessie Bloxom, along with her two cousins, Donnie and Tyrone Bloxom.

Mrs. Trader

"Ginn," as she was affectionately known, attended the public schools of Accomack County. She was baptized at Gospel Temple Baptist Church at a very early age and became a faithful member. She served on the Usher Board until her health started to decline.

Ginn retired from Perdue Farms in Accomack, after she dedicated over 20 years of service.

Graveside services were held Saturday, July 2, 2022, at Wharton Cemetery, Parksley, with the Rev. Percell Widgeon officiating.

She leaves to cherish her memory: daughter, Zakea Trader; son, Perez Trader; two grandchildren, Qatashia Trader and Zeneriakya Trader; one brother, Stephen Byrd (Darlene); a very special friend, Randy Bailey; special cousin, Joyce Colona; special friend, Shenita Logan; and a host of special cousins and special friends.

Arrangements are by the Cooper & Humbles Funeral Co., Accomack.

The Osprey-Eyed Reader Contest

Last Week's Runners-Up

Here's what the world needs more of: book-lovers! This is 15-month-old Savannah Kay Ballard, the baby cousin of Melissa Potter, of Exmore.

James Lamberth, of Cape Charles, didn't have to go to Texas to beat the summer heat — but he did and here's proof.

"An osprey with lunch for the family," according to Laurie Paschall, of Cape Charles. Hey, osprey, you're late sending in the next contest.

Last Week's Contest and Winner

Last week, 56 people qualified as contestants by finding hot peppers on pages 1, 17, 18, 25 (two), 27, and 41. We indicated six peppers were hidden but we didn't realize there was a second pepper on Page 25. So, seven peppers but you had to find only six to qualify. DeCola Johnson, of Accomac, was randomly chosen to win the $25 gift certificate to Hot Stuff! on Chincoteague. Here's encouragement for our regular players who've won before: This was Johnson's second win and you can win again too. Keep playing! Meanwhile, Johnson enjoyed posing with the giant crab at Suicide Bridge restaurant in Hurlock, Md.

This sight is familiar to gardeners and to those who have gardeners as neighbors. Linda Robinson, of Parksley, says, "Time to make pickles."

Randy Miller, of Parksley, identifies those in the photograph: "This is me and my grandson Wyatt on the boat to Tangier."

Leslie James, of Birdsnest, explains this classic summertime photograph: "Family day at the beach in North Carolina."

Carolyn Weatherly, of Painter, said, "Niko from Virginia Beach was visiting over the holiday." One look at Niko, you don't have to ask which holiday.

Photos

We'd love to publish a photo of you, your children, your pets, your friends, your hobbies, and your life on the Shore. We have room for only a few photos each week, but please feel free to send a picture along with your osprey-eyed entry.

Maurice Spector: Self-Taught Painter and Sculptor

By Adolphus Ames

Pungoteague resident Maurice Spector is one of the most prolific self-taught artists on the Eastern Shore. His work consists primarily of watercolor paintings and sculptures made of cherry, oak, and walnut wood.

“I work every single day,” Spector said. “I get up in the morning and I’m in my wood shop until 11:30. Then I turn on the fans in the house and draw in pen and ink and paint. I’ve got really good discipline. I create sea creatures. I like flowers, vegetables, women, and horses too.”

Spector, born in Philadelphia and raised in various states across the East Coast, has been surrounded by artists all his life. “Most of my friends were artists including my ex-wife,” he said. “I wasn’t an artist back then. When I was young I joined the army. I also used to be a freelance photographer in New York City and once upon a time I was a furniture maker in Florida.”

He didn’t become an artist until he moved back to the Shore. “I was about 50 years old then,” he said. “I was working in a shop on Onancock Creek when a woman came in and saw some of the drawings and sketches I had lying around. She suggested I start painting and shortly afterwards I began finishing my drawings and transforming them into finished paintings.”

Spector is influenced by several renowned artists, including 20th century European sculptors Henry Moore and Marino Marini. “I also like Leonard Baskin,” he said. “He’s had a strong influence on me the last few years. I also admire Saul Strindberg. He created a lot of whimsical drawings for the New Yorker. Strindberg’s imagination was unbelievable.”

Spector’s work doesn’t mimic his influences. It bears his own unique style. “Everything I create is dealt with in a different way,” he said. “Whatever interests me in the moment has an influence on what I create. I don’t just sculpt or paint reality. I’m interested in what my imagination sees and my own personal interpretation of reality. I like to transcend reality.”

He also has a taste for gothic and spiritual phenomena. Spector’s house resides near an old plantation cemetery that dates back several centuries. It has served as a source of inspiration for some of his work.

“I’m interested in death and spirits because it’s part of our existence,” he said. “Pungoteague is one of the oldest English settlements in the country. I’m fascinated by the spirits that live in the cemetery. I speculate about their stories and experiences.”

Spector’s advice for aspiring and beginning artists is to find a way to continue working. “You should complete what you start even if you don’t like it,” he said. “Afterwards, put it away and review it later with a fresh pair of eyes. Your opinion of it could possibly change. Every project is a learning experience.”

Spector’s work can be found at Timothy Smith & Son’s antique shop in Onancock and at Stravitz Sculpture & Fine Arts Gallery in Virginia Beach.

Fishing from the Shore

By Bill Hall

Cobia catches diminished slightly in number over the last week. Whether this is a temporary lull in the fishery or an indication that the fishery has peaked remains to be seen. Inshore flounder fishing continues to be good as long as the water clarity remains on the clear side, while flounder fishing on the wrecks continues to improve.

In offshore action, the Wachapreague charter vessel, Teaser, with Captain Keith Neal returned to port with a bigeye tuna measuring 74 inches and weighing 250 pounds!

Upper Shore – Captain Matt Abell, at the Sea Hawk Sports Center, said the Washington Canyon produced yellowfin tuna and an occasional bigeye for participants in last week's Ocean City Tuna Tournament. Anglers fishing the offshore wrecks in 20 fathoms found limit catches of black seabass and even a few dolphin (mahi), while inshore wreck fishermen had success with flounder and ribbonfish. Inside flounder fishing was good with some of the best action occurring during the last of the flood tide into the first of the ebb. Cobia fishing was described as sporadic.

Chincoteague – Flounder fishing remains productive, both in Chincoteague Bay, Assateague Channel, and over the inshore ocean wrecks. Captain Steve's Bait and Tackle recently weighed citation flounder for Bob Sparks (6 pounds, 2 ounces) and Travis Horton (6 pounds, 4 ounces). Both fish were caught on the ocean wrecks. A charter aboard the Ashley Jewel recently caught eight keeper-sized flounder as well as 10 larger bluefish. Red drum continue to be caught in the surf on Assateague, with the largest reported release measuring 48.5 inches. A 21-inch sheepshead was caught in the waters off the Tom's Cove Campground. A variety of sharks are prowling the waters inside the inlet and the deeper holes in Chincoteague Bay.

Wachapreague – Amanda Manzel-

ed that a 250-pound bigeye tuna was caught over the weekend aboard the Teaser. The trip also produced a pair of yellowfin tuna. She added the flounder fishing continues to be "great" and that there has been some drum catches in the barrier island surf.

Captain Lindsay Paul, at Trident Tackle, reported the inshore flounder bite continues to be "very good" during conditions of clear water, with lots of limits obtained. The members of the Foxy Lady's charter on Tuesday all scored limit catches. Kingfish (whiting) have been a welcome bycatch of the flounder fishery. The inshore ocean wrecks are producing a larger class of flounder and some black sea bass. Offshore trollers are finding a few yellowfin tuna and an occasional bigeye tuna.

Lower Shore – Dez Louie, at Oceans East – Eastern Shore, said the cobia action slowed down over the weekend. Louie felt that fishing pressure at buoy 36A had caused a portion of the population to scatter, with some moving back towards the bridge-tunnel, and another group pushed north, farther up into the bay. Schools of large red drum linger around the third and fourth islands of the bridge, where they are being caught by bottom fishing and sight casting.

The same islands are holding schools of Atlantic spadefish. Sheepshead fishing was described as "excellent" around the bridge pilings and up off along the concrete ships. Spanish mackerel catches are being made throughout the lower bay by anglers trolling 0 and 00 size Clark Spoons behind #1 and #2-size planers. Recent catches off the Kiptopeke Pier have consisted mostly of ribbonfish and small croakers.

Jeb Brady, at Bailey's Bait & Tackle, reported spadefishing around the fourth island of the bridge-tunnel continues to improve, both in size and in numbers of fish. Spadefish catches have also been reported from the Plantation Light and up at the Cell. The shop had weighed in sheepshead up to 11 pounds and 4 ounces, including several fish topping the 10-pound minimum citation-qualifying weight. Most of the sheepshead have been caught along the pilings of the bridge-tunnel.

Brady told me when conditions are favorable, sight fishing for cobia has recently been out producing bottom fishing for larger cobia. Bottom fishing is still producing keeper-sized fish. Reports of Spanish mackerel catches have been coming in and he expects the fishing to improve as more anglers switch over to targeting the speedsters by trolling spoons. The southern bayside piers are producing small croakers, gray trout, and ribbonfish.

Central Accomack Senior League Softball Wins State Championship

By Whitney Metz

The Central Accomack Little League senior softball team traveled to Luray, Va., to compete in the Virginia State Championship. The team started the season with a strong run in the District tournament going undefeated and brought home the District 8 Title.

Central Accomack competed in the first round of the state tournament against District 10 Friday, July 8. The squad earned a 13-0 victory and continued to dominate the competition until earning the Virginia Senior League State Banner. Central Accomack did not allow a single run throughout seven games in district and state tournament play.

Pitcher Reghan Hintz showed off her talent in the circle during the state championship, throwing four complete game shut-outs. Hintz tossed a total of 25 innings, allowing only 11 hits and two walks with 58 strikeouts.

Many of the Central Accomack players dominated at the plate with multiple hits in the tournament. Hintz led the team with a .571 batting average, including eight hits and four RBIs. Reagan Justice also had a strong tournament offensively, earning seven hits including two triples, two home runs, and five RBIs. Multiple players on the tough Central Accomack squad recorded five or more hits in the four-game run: Desiree LeCates-Brown, Kacey Ford, Cassidy Hickman, Kylie Killmon-Ford, and Chloe Hall.

The team will travel to Salisbury, N.C., to compete as "Team Virginia" in the 2022 Senior League Softball Southeast Regional Tournament starting on July 22.

Local Anglers Club Hosts Multispecies Fishing Tournament

Submitted Story

The Eastern Shore Anglers Club will host a multispecies fishing tournament Sunday, July 17, at the Harborton public boat ramp. The tournament time is 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., with sign-up at 8:30 a.m.

Species included in the tournament are blues, croaker, flounder, kingfish, puppy drum, Spanish mackerel, and speckled trout. The longest of three of these species will win first place. The public is welcome to enter. Club membership is required, which is only $10.

Off the Shelf: News From Eastern Shore Public Library

By Karen Sharp, library manager

Chincoteague Island Library celebrated 27 years of service to the community on July 4 with a parade. The event had a great turnout with both participants and attendees.

Prizes were given in four categories. They were for the best patriotically dressed family, the oldest participant, the youngest participant, and the best non-motorized patriotically decorated vehicle.

"The Little Library That Could"

Before the Chincoteague Island Library, if one wanted to purchase a newspaper and/or magazines, a visit to Gallagher's on Main Street would be the place to go. Many local citizens gathered there every morning to drink coffee and discuss the day's news, such as weather reports and mosquito control.

To find a book, some residents recall visiting a room at the firehouse. Imagine a 10-foot-by-10-foot room. It was called the "lending library" and held a few shelves of donated books. It was open one day a week, when a volunteer was able to assist patrons. It's chief problem? Borrowed books not being returned.

An arrangement was made with the Eastern Shore Public Library in Accomac to have their bookmobile visit the island once every two weeks. It was staffed by Willie Thornton, librarian, and assistant librarians. The converted bus parked on Church Street for two hours loaded up with new books, requested materials, and other items. The bookmobile, which traveled throughout Accomac and Northampton counties, ran for many years until the old bus was declared beyond repair and was retired.

In 1982, the oldest wood structure in downtown Chincoteague closed. Wallace Jester, a barber, had his business there since 1908. The building housed the Chincoteague Drug Store previously. The property was owned by the Watson heirs and survived the fires of the 1920s and the 1962 flood. It desperately needed many renovations and was listed for sale. It was agreed that the building would make an excellent building for a small public library.

The Chincoteague Island Citizens' League was formed to acquire the building in the hope of making that dream come true. After securing a loan to purchase the building, the league began soliciting for memberships for $1 to raise money and was also given generous donations. The loan was paid and repairs were made. With the town of Chincoteague donating land for the library in the Robert Reed Park, the building was moved to its present location in 1983. The library, after 13 years, finally opened in June 1995, and was dedicated on July 4, 1995. The dream became a reality!

Present day, the library assists the community through special events and visits from authors and speakers. There are also children's programs such as Tales 4 Tots held in Brianna's Kindness Park, the Young Explorers program for third through fifth graders, and "Lubbock's Learners" Summer Reading program for children from kindergarten through 12th grade.

CIL also sponsors several book clubs and offers public computer access, printing, FAXing, and e-resources.

The Chincoteague Island Library services are available six days per week. The ESPL library card can be used at CIL and books can be returned to any of the four ESPL libraries. The library thanks the Eastern Shore Public Library for providing part-time staffing and assistance, the library's dedicated volunteers, the town of Chincoteague, and the generosity of donors.

DUCK SCOOP! Now, here's the scoop — two of the ducks above look enough alike to be twins. Which two is for you to decide.

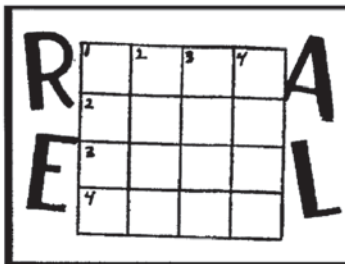

KNOW DOUBT! "It is better to know — than to know what ain't so," said Josh Billings. What seven-letter word is missing? Take a guess.
 Missing word is "nothing."

SIGHT PLAN! Just what design do you see in the drawing at right? It all depends on how you look at it. For instance, it may appear simply as a hexagonal figure consisting of six diamonds. Then again, it may appear as a cube stacked upon other similar cubes. Or, presto chango, it may appear as two cubes above, one cube below.

It's an illusory design, of course, that tends to change before your very eyes.

REAL WORD POSER TO PONDER

PUZZLISTS, get real. Object of this exercise is to form a word square using only the four letters of the word REAL. That is to say, you are asked to find words comprised of letters R, E, A or L (used one or more times as necessary), to find four four-letter words that read the same both across and down.

Definitions:

1. Not exactly plentiful.
2. Kind of a code.
3. Aft section of ship.
4. Husband of an English countess.

Remember, words are to be formed using letters R, E, A or L.

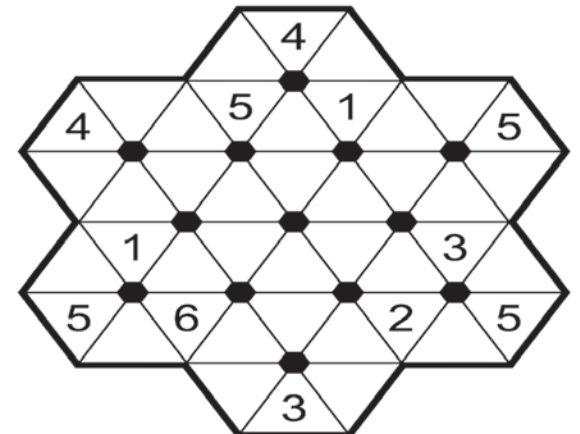

Time limit: Two minutes.

1. Rare. 2. Area. 3. Rear. 4. Earl.

Random Facts About ... the History, Use, and Misuse of Credit Cards

By David Martin

When we opened our internet tubes this week, a bunch of credit card bills came out. What a mess. How did people live, and shop, before credit cards? Brace yourself, young people, for the answer: People saved their money until they had enough to buy what they wanted or needed. If you didn't have the cash, or the money in your checking account, you typically couldn't buy household goods, groceries, or gas. Big-ticket items like cars, houses, and farm equipment could be bought on credit. Everything else, you bought it when you had the money to pay for it. You might not have a lot of stuff but neither were you swamped with debt.

In the booming 1920s, individual stores offered charge accounts, but it wasn't until 1950 when the cardboard Diners Club card was issued that something resembling the modern credit card became available. A Diners Club member could show the card to a restaurant, sign the bill, and then pay all dining bills at the end of the month. Unlike other charge accounts at the time, the Diners Club could be used at different merchants — at first, restaurants but then hotels too. You had to pay your bill in full each month, but typically you weren't charged a fee or interest if your payment was late. Diners Club made its money from the 7% fee it charged its merchant members.

By 1959, issuers of credit cards (Bank of America and American Express being among the first) allowed cardholders to carry a balance forward from month to month in return for paying interest. Around this same time, BankAmericard began sending out millions of credit cards, unsolicited. The credit card revolution was underway.

A big part of that revolution was, and remains, debt. Unlike early credit cards that made money by charging merchant members, today's credit cards make most of their revenue from interest charged to cardholders. Credit cards that concentrate on serving people with bad credit make most of their money from fees — late fees, annual fees, cash advance fees, and so on.

According to CNBC, the average American credit card debt is $6,194. Alaska has the highest average, at $8,026, and Iowa's average is the lowest, $4,774. Virginia comes in as fifth highest at $6,969. Gen X, ages 40 to 55, owe an average of $8,215 in credit card debt, more than any other age group.

People who pay off their credit cards each month and have a card that doesn't charge an annual fee can use the convenience of a credit card for free. Of course, that would require purchasing only those things you can afford and can pay for with money in your bank account — and that idea went out with your grandparents.

U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Safe Boating Tips

Submitted Article

Whenever using a VHF radio, realize that the on-water radio is not a citizens band radio and should not be used like one.

Marine radio protocol requires beginning each broadcast with the name of the vessel, marina, or Coast Guard Station you want to contact followed by your vessel's name or number.

For example, "Angler Management this is Natural Selection on channel 16." Repeat that, ending with "over," and wait for an answer. If you are answering a call do the reverse: "Natural Selection this is Angler Management, over." Then a quick message: "Angler Management this is Natural Selection switch and answer channel 23 alpha over."

At the end of every broadcast, the initiating vessel signals the end with the simple words "Natural Selection out."

The reason for this protocol is simple: with many vessels speaking on the same channel we need decorum to make sure we are speaking with the correct people.

The proword (procedural word) "over" signals "I am finished speaking and waiting for your response." The word "out" signals end of conversation, no response expected.

VHF transmissions don't use "over and out" as that is a conflicting message. So use either "over" or "out." Next week, we'll discuss making messages clear and succinct.

Community-Wide Victims Vigil

Northampton County Sheriff David Doughty, in collaboration with several local pastors and ministers, will sponsor a Victims of Violence Vigil Saturday, July 16, from noon to 2 p.m., at the Cape Charles Town Park.

The focus of the vigil is to commemorate and honor those who lost their lives resulting from wanton violence. The vigil will commence with a gathering of the attendees in a silent march around the park. Orange ribbons will be attached to poles to commemorate the lives that have been lost to violence. Speakers will include family members who have lost a loved one through violence.

Prayer, poems, and songs will be offered by local pastors and choirs, and the names of individuals who lost their lives to violence will be read aloud, followed by a bell peal. All attendees will be asked to submit the names of loved ones lost to violence as they enter the park.

All are welcome. Bring a chair and umbrella. Refreshments and care packages will be provided for all attendees.

Happy 80th Birthday Mama

We love and miss you dearly

Your Children and Grandchildren

On behalf of the Chincoteague Vol. Fire Co., I would like to express our sincere gratitude to the Town of Chincoteague, The Chincoteague Police Dept., Accomack County Sheriff's Office, Virginia State Police, Oak Hall Rescue, Atlantic Vol. Fire Co., Bloxom Vol. Fire Co., New Church Vol. Fire Co., Accomack County School bus drivers and maintenance personnel, plus the numerous others that made our 4th of July fireworks show a huge success!! The crowds were huge and every one of these agencies went above and beyond to keep traffic flowing and keep people safe. We cannot thank you enough.

We would also like to extend a great big ol' THANK YOU to the Wachapreague Vol. Fire Co. for being so generous in loaning us their seats off their Scrambler ride. They closed up on July 2 we went down on July 3 and picked up their ride seats so we can use them for our carnival until ours get replaced. We share more than the "eague" in our last names— we share the fact that we are the only two remaining fire companies who still hold an old-fashioned tradition in hosting a fun, family-friendly carnival. Wachapreague didn't hesitate one bit in loaning their ride seats and we are truly grateful for their kindness.

Working together with all the agencies mentioned above sure makes Shore life even more special. We come together when a job needs to get done. We support each other when we can, and we all give it 110%. As the saying goes, "Teamwork makes the dream work!"

Thank you,
Denise Bowden

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARINGS

THE ACCOMACK COUNTY BOARD OF ZONING APPEALS WILL HOLD A PUBLIC HEARING ON WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 3, 2022, AT 10 A.M., IN THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS CHAMBERS, ROOM 104, 23296 COURTHOUSE AVENUE, ACCOMAC, VIRGINIA, TO AFFORD INTERESTED PERSONS THE OPPORTUNITY TO BE HEARD OR TO PRESENT WRITTEN COMMENTS CONCERNING THE FOLLOWING:

A. SUSE-000361-2022: Harry Beasley - Tax Map #119-A-13

A hearing initiated by Harry Beasley to request a Special Use Permit pursuant to Accomack County Code Section 106-53(14) which states Travel trailers, located outside of travel trailer parks, which are to be occupied for habitation or storage of chattels. Mr. Beasley is requesting a Special Use Permit to allow him to live in his RV while he constructs a new dwelling on the parcel. The property is Tax Map # 119-A-13 and is an unimproved parcel located on Big Pine Road, Belle Haven and is zoned Agriculture.

B. VAR-000366-2022: Peter Van Sickels - Tax Map #121-3-B2

A hearing initiated by Peter Van Sickles to request a Variance pursuant to Accomack County Code Section 106-57 which states the minimum frontage for permitted uses shall be 150 feet at the setback line. Mr. Van Sickles is requesting a variance of 129.86', so that he can split his 11.8 acre parcel into 2 separate parcels. The Property is Tax Map #121-3-B2, located at 36260 Upshur Neck Rd, Quinby and is zoned Agriculture.

C. VAR-000377-2022: Benny & Delores Henry - Tax Map #40-A-43

A hearing initiated by Benny and Delores Henry to request a Variance pursuant to Accomack County Code Section 106-82 which states the minimum frontage for permitted uses shall be 100 feet at the setback line. Mr. & Mrs. Henry are requesting a variance of 36.98', so that the previous dwelling that was destroyed by fire can be replaced by a new dwelling in a different location on the parcel. The property is Tax Map #40-A-43, located at 28059 Saxis Rd, Temperanceville and is zoned Residential.

D. Revocation of May 6, 2015 SUP: Shore Aviation - Tax Map #119-A-101

A hearing initiated by the Accomack County Board of Zoning Appeals pursuant to Accomack County Code Section 106-252(5) which states the Board of Zoning Appeals shall have the power to revoke a special use permit if the board determines that there has not been compliance with the terms and conditions of the permit. No special use permit may be revoked except after notice and hearing as provided in Code of Virginia, § 15.1-495. Shore Aviation is not in compliance of the SUP that was granted on May 6, 2015, due to the use of a travel trailer for habitation that was not shown on the approved site plan.

Public hearing related materials are available for review at the Office of the County Zoning Administrator at 23296 Courthouse Avenue - Room 105 - Accomac, Virginia or <http://www.boarddocs.com/va/coa/Board.nsf/Public> on the Friday prior to each meeting date.

Handicapped Assistance available, call: (757) 787-5726 or 824-5223.

ACCOMACK COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARINGS

Wednesday, July 20, 2022 - 6:30 P.M.
Metompkin Elementary School Cafetorium
24501 Parksley Road, Parksley, Virginia 23421

The Accomack County Board of Supervisors will hold Public Hearings beginning at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, July 20, 2022, to solicit input concerning the following matters:

• Revenue Share Ordinance for Energy Storage Facilities

The Code of Virginia §58.1-2636 authorizes localities to adopt an ordinance that authorizes a revenue share arrangement with energy storage systems and solar energy projects known as revenue share. Under the provisions of this Code section, the County is authorized to impose a rate of up to $1400.00 per megawatt, which would be assessed in lieu of traditional machinery and tools taxation. Based on the staff's analysis, for energy storage systems, revenue share provides the County with a greater revenue stream over the life of an energy storage facility than that associated with traditional taxation methods. Adoption of the revenue share ordinance is therefore recommended.

• Scout Storage/Jupiter Energy Siting Agreement

The Code of Virginia § 15.2-2316.8 authorizes host localities to enter into a siting agreement with an applicant seeking to construct and operate an energy storage facility. The draft siting agreement between the County and Scout Storage LLC is being presented for the Board's review and consideration. It is contingent upon approval of the conditional rezoning and conditional use permit associated with the Scout Storage/Jupiter Energy proposed battery storage facility to be located on tax map # 27-A-103A. It is also contingent on the adoption of a revenue share ordinance by the Board (item above). The draft siting agreement is available for public view on the electronic Board Agenda.

• Amendments to Accomack County Code Section 70-2 to reflect changes in State Code

Consider Amendments to County Code Section 70-2 to add "clutter" to the list of materials that may be removed from private property, and specifically exempting agricultural properties from the ordinance, both of which are reflected in current state law.

TERMS OF SALE: CASH OR CASH EQUIVALENT.

A deposit (non-refundable) in an amount equal to the lesser of $20,000 or 10% of successful bid price, payable in cash or by certified or cashier's check to the undersigned, will be required at the time of sale from the successful bidder. The balance shall be paid in cash, certified or cashier's check at settlement. Settlement shall be held within thirty (30) days from the date of the sale (or at such other time as may be acceptable to the Substitute Trustee) at the office of the Substitute Trustee, Pender & Coward, P.C., 222 Central Park Avenue, Ste. 400, Virginia Beach, VA 23462, TIME BEING OF THE ESSENCE. The Substitute Trustee reserves the right to waive the deposit requirement as to any bidder, withdraw any Property from sale at any time before the termination of bidding, keep the bidding open for any length of time, and reject any and all bids. In the event the successful bidder fails to complete settlement as required, the deposit shall be retained and applied to the costs of the sale, including Substitute Trustee's fees, with the remaining balance delivered to the Lender to be applied against amounts secured by the Deed of Trust, and the Property shall be re-sold at the risk and expense of the defaulting bidder. Such retention of deposit shall not limit any rights or remedies of the Substitute Trustee or the Lender with respect to such default. All closing costs, including but not limited to the payment for preparation of the Substitute Trustee's Deed by the Substitute Trustee's attorney and payment of the grantor's tax, shall be borne by the successful bidder. Real estate taxes shall be pro-rated as of the date of sale.

The risk of loss or damage to the Property by condemnation, fire or other casualty shall be borne by the successful bidder from and after the date and time of the sale. The Substitute Trustee is not obligated to deliver possession of the Property to the successful bidder; obtaining possession of the Property shall be the responsibility of the successful bidder.

The successful bidder shall be required to execute a Memorandum of Sale concerning the purchase of the Property by the successful bidder, a copy of which will be available immediately prior to announcing the sale.

The Property shall be conveyed with no warranties and by special warranty deed. The sale of the Property shall be subject to the right, if any, of parties in possession, and the Property shall be sold "AS IS" and "WITH ALL FAULTS", without representation or warranty of any kind including, without limitation, warranty relating to the zoning, structural integrity, physical condition, extent of construction, construction, workmanship, materials, habitability or environmental condition, fitness for a particular purpose or merchantability of all or any part of the Property, and SUBJECT TO conditions, restrictions, rights-of-way, easements, reservations, agreements and other conditions contained in the chain of title thereto, and all other matters of record taking priority over the Deed of Trust, if any.

The Memorandum of Sale will contain the following provision: "Purchaser waives and releases the Substitute Trustee, the Lender, and their respective agents, successors, and assigns from any and all claims the Purchaser or its successors and assigns may have now or in the future relating to the "AS IS" condition of the Property, which was a negotiated part of the Memorandum of Sale and serves as an essential component of consideration for the same. The parties specifically acknowledge and agree that this clause bars all claims by the Purchaser arising from the condition of the Property pursuant to the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act of 1980, as amended, and all other actions pursuant to state or local laws, ordinances or regulations of any environmental condition of the Property."

Announcements made at auction time take precedence over any print, electronic, or verbal information.

The property and the improvements thereon will be sold "AS IS" and without representation or warranties of any kind. The sale is subject to all liens, encumbrances, conditions, easements and restrictions, if any, superior to the mentioned deed of trust and lawfully affecting the property. Sale is subject to post-sale confirmation that the borrower did not file for protection under the U.S. Bankruptcy Code prior to the sale, as well as to post-sale confirmation and audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower(s) entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, the sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of the Purchaser's deposit without interest. Additional terms to be announced at the sale. For more information contact: Michael T. Cantrell, Esq., member of Surety Trustees, at 301-490-3361 or www.mwc-law.com.

Local Healthcare is Outstanding

Dear Editor:

This letter is written as I reflect tonight on one year ago when I began to feel the effects of a bacterial infection in my heart which nearly took my life.

When it became clear I required medical intervention, I was taken to my medical “port” by wonderful Exmore EMS, with doctors Hines, Mott, and Lloyd Kellam. I appreciate the coordination implemented by Dr. Snyder, nurse Denise Clayton, and excellent office support staff at Riverside Eastern Shore Physicians and Surgeons. I received care far exceeding my expectation. Immediately, support staff did necessary tests and life/organ retaining measures were taken. I was surrounded by a stellar team that I trusted implicitly. I received necessary diagnostic echocardiogram, blood products, and all other medications necessary for treating acute sepsis.

When I was stable, Dr. Kellam had me transferred to Sentara Heart Hospital for surgery by Dr. Kiehl, who is one of the best heart surgeons in the business and is 45 minutes away, folks, if you drive it. The level of professionalism at Sentara is unparalleled and its tie with Eastern Virginia Medical School is invaluable.

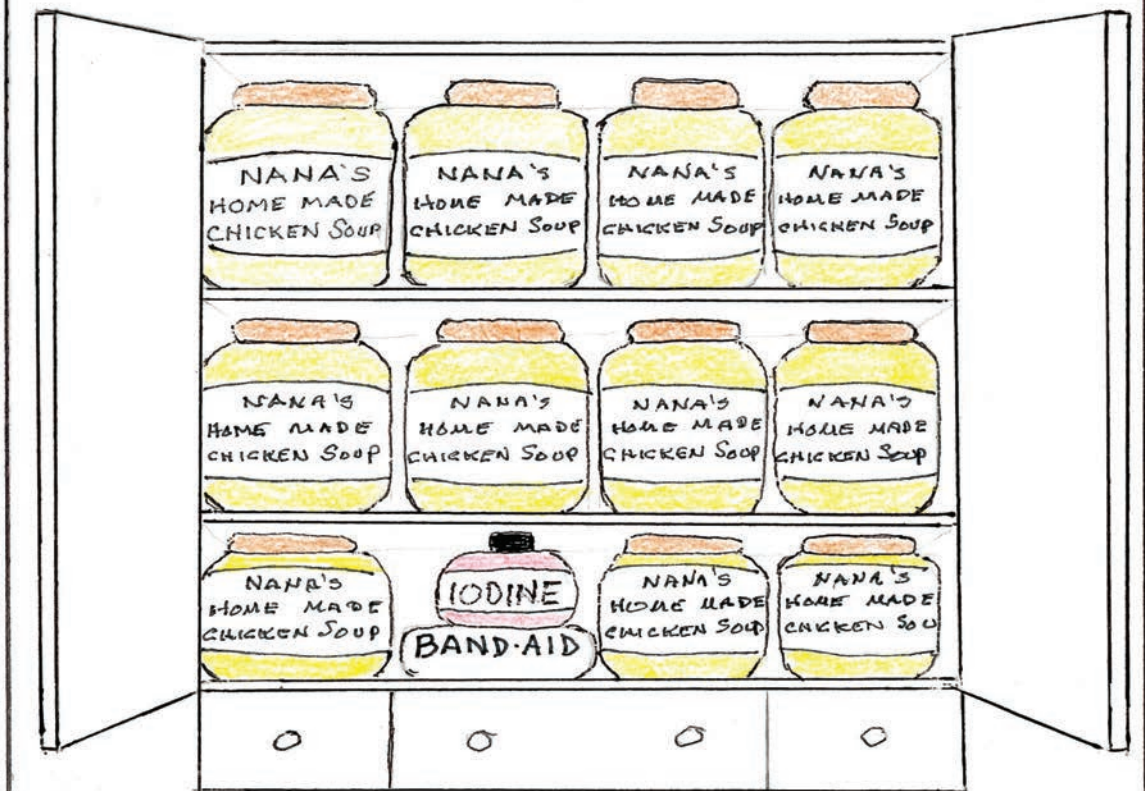

I am so grateful to the ER/ICU nurses, to second floor telemetry, and always to Riverside for letting me continue to live the life I love — that Eastern Shore “God’s country” stuff.

These accolades come, in my opinion, a bit late, but better late than never. You can access excellent medical care on the ESVA without a doubt. I know that for a fact — I am living proof.
