New leadership, same mission for Habitat group

Eastern Shore of Virginia Habitat for Humanity in its 34 years has built more than 50 houses, helping to improve the living conditions of Shore residents who otherwise wouldn't be able to afford to own a home.

Volunteers, alongside the future homeowners, currently are working to build house number 52, east of Melfa. Construction on the four-bedroom house started in spring and is nearly halfway completed.

Habitat volunteers and staff are looking for more people to join in their effort to help Shore residents become homeowners.

The local affiliate has logged more than 148,000 volunteer hours since it began.

The goal is to build two homes each year, each with either three or four bedrooms, depending on the family's makeup.

Accomack County school enrollment grows slightly

Students now number 4,307, according to superintendent

BY CAROL VAUGHN
Eastern Shore Post

Enrollment in Accomack County Public Schools was 4,307 as of Sept. 6, compared to 4,204 the same time last year, according to School Superintendent Chris Holland.

Holland spoke at the Accomack County Board of Supervisors meeting Wednesday, thanking supervisors for passing a county budget that helped give school employees a 5% raise, and thanked county and state legislators for their support to get a $1.4 million, one-time cost of living adjustment from the state, which will help the school district offer salaries competitive with neighboring districts.

Holland said all 11 schools in the district are accredited, compared to eight when he became superintendent.

The district has 86 buses on the road, transporting 3,600 children to and from school daily, Holland said.

Noting COVID-19 "is still around," he said clean buildings are a must, noting the district has 44 full-time custodians, as well as part-time ones.

The school district has nine new teachers who came here from other countries, along with three returning international teachers. The teachers come from nations including Jamaica,

Columbia, and the Phillipines, Holland said, noting, "Their customs will teach our kids more than we can imagine — and they are good teachers, too."

Additionally, the district hired 26 minority teachers this year.

Of 981 school employees, 745 are women.

Holland also spoke about safety, saying about the school shooting that happened in Texas, "It can happen anywhere."

The district already has conducted active shooter drills this school year in Nandua High School, Nandua Middle School, and Arcadia High School.

Additionally, the district created a safety audit team, which has met twice.

"We're looking at everything that goes in the building. We're studying digital mapping right now — if the sheriff's department or EMT people have to come in that building during the day, they know where they're going to go," Holland said, adding, "I want a door locked. I don't want doors open, outside doors, and I expect it."

In an additional safety measure, spotlights are brought in to provide additional lighting in parking lots during football games.

Holland also spoke about the five Cal Ripken Sr. STEM labs established in the schools and plans to start a Navy ROTC, which likely will take a year to implement.

"We're hoping to get 50 cadets in, girls and boys," he said, adding, "...The military is going to help these kids."

It would be the first such program in the school district.

Additionally, the district will offer an EMT class for high school students starting in January.

homeownership is one step to address what is often called the Shore's "housing problem."

A housing study released in March found the need for at least 1,000 additional housing units in each Shore county.

The study also found low-income rental households on the Shore, in particular, experience excessive housing costs.

In 2019, 24% of Accomack households and 27.1% of Northampton households were considered cost burdened, meaning they spent more than 30% of their income on housing.

The figures were higher for renters.

In Accomack, 36.1% of renters were cost burdened, compared to 18.3% of homeowners.

In Northampton, 34% of renters were cost burdened, compared to 23.4% of homeowners.

Habitat's model is to provide families who otherwise would not qualify for conventional loans the opportunity to buy their own home, working with approved lenders to provide the family with an affordable, interest-free mortgage.

Monthly mortgage payments are used to fund construction of future Habitat homes, encouraging a cycle of receiving help and then giving back to the community.

Once selected, prospective homeowners attend financial seminars and start work on the required 350 hours of "sweat equity," which can include working on other Habitat homes as well as their own and volunteering at Habitat events or on special projects.

"It's more of a hand up than a hand-out," said Chris Guvernator, a civil engineer who recently became the Shore affiliate's executive director.

Guvernator was environmental programs director for Accomack County, after a career that included serving as senior project manager for the City of Norfolk, among other engineering-related positions.

"So, 25 or 30 years of my career was as a civil engineering consultant to private companies and that was great, challenging. The last five-and-a-half years was with the county, running the environmental programs. That was challenging, as well.

"But I was looking for something that's more challenging and combined with doing some good in the community," Guvernator said.

Chase Sturgis, a Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel employee, Exmore Town Council member, and member of two volunteer fire companies, recently became board of directors chairman.

He also is a longtime Habitat volunteer.

Volunteers are key

Volunteers are the mainstay of Habitat, including Navy personnel stationed at Wallops and other local volunteers, who typically work at the house under construction Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Volunteers from Accomack-Northampton Electric Cooperative, among others, also are regulars at the construction sites, Sturgis said.

Additionally, Sept. 29 will be a corporate work day for Lipman Family Farm at house number 52, planned around Lipman's annual meeting on the Eastern Shore. It's something the produce company, which has fields and a packing facility in Painter as well as locations around the country, has done previously.

"They have done this before, but with the COVID impacts and other groups canceling (including college groups that formerly came to the Shore to volunteer), we really need their help," Guvernator said.

Some 20 to 30 Lipman volunteers plan to work the entire day at the site, he said.

Additionally, a women-only work day is planned, among other events in the works, according to Guvernator.

"The added value of bringing local business in (to volunteer) ... is they can also go back and talk our message out to other people, so if we create advocates from a work day who go back into our community, it's self-sustaining," Guvernator said.

"We feel like there is a lot of untapped capital and resources here," including second-home owners and retirees new to the Shore, Sturgis said.

Sturgis also emphasized that the value of the organization and process is that individuals "can pick something that would be fun and valuable to you to participate in" — from construction, to donating funds, to making telephone calls, to organizing inventory or helping check out customers at Habitat's ReStore in Exmore, Guvernator said.

Recent strategic planning discussions have included consideration of building more than two houses a year, along with other ways to address the Shore's need for affordable housing — for example, by rehabilitating existing houses.

"We're talking with one of the counties to partner with their derelict structure program on some properties — so this board has got a vision that's more than just one or two houses a year," Guvernator said.

The construction budget for each house varies, but material costs are in the range of approximately $140,000. Habitat uses paid staff to supplement volunteer labor so the house stays on schedule.

The houses are constructed at no profit, and the result is an interest-free loan, managed by Virginia Housing, typically around $550 a month. This includes escrow for taxes, insurance, and an annual termite inspection.

ReStore in Exmore

Renee Spady, manager of Habitat's ReStore, a resale outlet in Exmore, has worked wonders organizing the store, according to staff and board members.

"Everything is donated here. The good thing about this is all the proceeds go to Habitat for Humanity, building homes right here on the Shore ... so it's going to a great cause," said Spady.

Additionally, the ReStore "is also reaching out to the community" by offering furniture, appliances, and good, reusable building materials such as doors and windows, all at a reasonable price, Spady said.

Volunteers help in the store, as well.

"This is a big part of our operation," by providing inexpensive, good-quality

Sanford woman guilty of bilking man of nearly $70K

BY NANCY DRURY DUNCAN
Eastern Shore Post

An Accomack County woman working as a caregiver has pleaded guilty to bilking a man out of almost $70,000.

Rose Marie Thornes, 62, of Sanford, pleaded guilty to the financial exploitation of a mentally incapacitated person in a plea agreement with the commonwealth. From May 2017 to September 2018, while acting as a caregiver, Thornes made numerous unauthorized cash withdrawals from Phillip Fisher's bank account in the amount of $68,200.

Fisher was a widower with friends and family in the area, said Commonwealth's Attorney Spencer Morgan. His health deteriorated in 2017. An investigation found abnormally large cash withdrawals from Fisher's accounts.

Thornes was originally charged with 17 felony counts, one for each withdrawal. Because there was only one video from BB&T bank showing Thornes withdrawing money, the commonwealth agreed not to prosecute 16 of the charges. Nonetheless, she is required to make restitution of the entire amount taken.

Defense attorney Carl Bundick argued there was no trail of money going into bank accounts in her name. Commonwealth's Attorney Morgan told the court Thornes and her husband paid a roofer $14,000 in cash for a roofing job.

Judge W. Revell Lewis III accepted the plea agreement and ordered a presentence investigation report and sentencing guidelines be prepared.

He ordered Thornes to turn over the title to a 2002 Ford F-150 pickup truck to Fisher's stepdaughter and to make restitution in the amount of $68,200 to her.

Thornes is set to be sentenced on Dec. 15.

Rocket Lab

Lab, especially their culture. Everyone is treated with kindness and respect across the board, which I deeply value," Harley is quoted in the report as saying.

Harley answered questions this week about her background and her affiliation with the latest company making aerospace news on the Eastern Shore.

"I was born on the Eastern Shore and grew up on Chincoteague Island, Va., where my family has been for generations. I graduated from Chincoteague High School and was lucky enough to have great teachers who helped me earn college credits while still in high school. This definitely gave me a leg up in getting my bachelor's degree from Liberty University in Lynchburg," she said.

After graduation, Harley moved to the Washington, D.C., area to start her career, working mainly in the legal field.

When another company on the Eastern Shore contacted her to see whether she was interested in moving back to the Shore to work, Harley said her answer "was an immediate yes."

"Luckily, that led me to Rocket Lab where I'm currently the office manager," she said.

In that capacity, Harley said she wears "a lot of different hats in my day-to-day," including supporting project planning, launch operations, security, community outreach, and local staff, among other duties.

"I love the dynamic culture of this career and the team we've built so far at Launch Complex 2," Harley said.

As a Shore native, Harley considers the community important.

"It's been a blast bringing what Rocket Lab has to offer to the community, not only with jobs, but with the community grants and STEM (science, technology, engineering, and mathematics) education support," she said.

The company currently has 11 employees at its Wallops location, with additional jobs coming this year.

"We will be phasing in new jobs over the foreseeable future, which will include careers ranging from logistics, (to) manufacturing, engineering, facilities, administration, and technicians focused in composite, mechanical, and electrical," Harley said.

She works at Rocket Lab's Integration and Control Facility in Wallops Research Park.

"(T)he team is gearing up for our first Electron mission out of LC-2 this December for HawkEye 360 while also making strides toward the Neutron Production Facility. We have broken ground for the Neutron Production Facility, which is located just outside the NASA WFF island gate and construction is well underway," Harley said.

30th Electron launch

Rocket Lab last week successfully launched its 30th Electron rocket and delivered its 150th satellite to orbit, according to a press release.

It was launched from Pad B of Rocket Lab's Launch Complex 1, in New Zealand.

The company also plans to launch Electron and the larger Neutron rockets, which are in development, from its launch complex at Wallops' Mid-Atlantic Regional Spaceport.

The 30th Electron launch, called "The Owl Spreads Its Wings," was a dedicated mission for Earth-observation company Synspec, of Japan.

The mission was Rocket Lab's seventh Electron launch in 2022, with a 100% success rate for the year.

Additionally, the mission marked the 300th Rutherford engine flown to space on Electron, according to the release. The engine, designed and built by Rocket Lab, is the world's first 3D-printed, electric pump-fed orbital rocket engine.

Rocket Lab intends to make Electron the world's first reusable orbital small rocket; the company hailed the successful test fire of a reused Rutherford first-stage engine earlier this month as a significant technical achievement toward that goal.

The company has on its 2022 schedule another attempt at recovering an Electron rocket with a helicopter and the first Electron mission to launch from Wallops Island.

NASDAQ, with 1,400 employees in California, Colorado, New Mexico, Virginia, Maryland, Toronto, and New Zealand.

The company's motto is "We go to space to improve life on Earth."

In the past year, Rocket Lab entered the public markets, completed its third successful rocket first-stage ocean recovery, introduced sustainability initiatives on Earth and in space, and unveiled plans for the Neutron rocket.

The company in 2021 also announced acquisitions of three space systems companies and brought a record number of new employees into the company.

Electron has been the United States' second most frequently launched rocket annually since 2019, having delivered 150 satellites to space in 30 launches since first reaching orbit in 2018.

According to the report, community outreach is among the company's priorities.

"We have a great need in our area for STEM advancement and really just awareness of everything this area has to offer. Before I was offered a job back home, it was never even on my radar that I would be able to have a successful career here. Growing the local workforce is so important. I truly never knew all that was here, and I lived here all my life," Harley said in the impact report.

One way the company is raising STEM awareness on the Shore and elsewhere is through its Space Ambassador program.

More than 3,120 children interacted with Rocket Lab ambassadors through the program in 2021.

The company also awarded $40,000 in scholarships last year and gave $76,000 to nonprofit groups near its launch complexes in New Zealand and Wallops.

Additionally, 44% of its interns in 2021 were women.

As a sponsor of the Virginia Spaceflight Academy, the company shares the academy's vision for inspiring young people to become scientists and engineers.

Last summer, Rocket Lab hosted campers from the academy's residential summer camp in Wallops for a few hours each week, giving them behind-the-scenes tours "and teaching them everything we know," Harley said in the report.

The experience also was valuable for camp counselors, all of whom are pursuing degrees in STEM fields.

"Many counselors have expressed great interest in internships with Rocket Lab and careers," according to Harley.

EDUCATION

Shore students closing COVID-19 learning gaps; all schools accredited

BY STEFANIE JACKSON
Eastern Shore Post

Accomack and Northampton students' spring 2022 scores on the state-wide Standards of Learning or SOL tests may appear low, but that doesn't mean students haven't made progress in closing the learning gaps created by the COVID-19 pandemic, local school administrators say.

"Our teachers are doing a great job, and the students are doing a great job with the learning gaps they have," said Accomack schools Assistant Superintendent Rhonda Hall.

The Virginia Department of Education considers many factors in determining a school's accreditation status, not just test scores. One of those factors is academic growth, which is a big part of why Accomack's 11 public schools and Northampton's four public schools are all accredited.

For example, 58% of Kiptopeke Elementary School students passed the reading SOLs, but when accounting for academic growth or improvement, the pass rate jumps to a 82%.

Kiptopeke students passed the math SOLs at a rate of 40%, which also jumped to 82% when accounting for growth.

Occhohannock Elementary School students passed the reading SOLs at a rate of 49%, or nearly 79% with growth, and they passed the math SOLs at a rate of 32%, or 70% with growth.

The SOL pass rates for Northampton middle schoolers were 43% or nearly 56% with growth in reading and 41% or 65% with growth in math.

Northampton schools also achieved double-digit academic growth within the subgroups of Black students and economically disadvantaged students, said Associate Superintendent Lisa Martin.

VDOE measures academic growth only in grades 3 to 8 in reading and math, subjects in which knowledge and skills are cumulative.

Growth can't be demonstrated by comparing science scores from one year to the previous year since the courses may not be related. For example, a student might take biology one year and chemistry the next year.

VDOE also does not measure academic growth at the high school level, since students must not simply show growth but pass their courses to earn credit for graduation.

To measure growth, VDOE compared student SOL scores from spring 2022 to spring 2021. If academic growth was not found, VDOE compared SOL scores from spring 2022 to fall 2021.

For students who are English learners, academic growth was measured using data from WIDA (World-class Instructional Design and Assessment).

Accomack's reading SOL pass rates increased when they were adjusted for growth. The increases by school were: Accawmacke Elementary, 67% to 92%; Chincoteague Elementary, 58% to 73%; Kegotank Elementary, 53% to 80%; Metompkin Elementary, 56% to 89%; Pungoteague Elementary, 62% to 88%; Tangier Combined, 72% to 87%; Arcadia

Accomack pump stations to be transferred to HRSD

BY CAROL VAUGHN
Eastern Shore Post

The Accomack County Board of Supervisors authorized staff to negotiate with owners of land on which the county's three sewage pump stations are located, for the purpose of gaining ownership of the parcels instead of the existing easements.

The county and Hampton Roads Sanitation District are working to develop a sewer transfer and service agreement as part of HRSD's $25 million project to install sewer system infrastructure on the Eastern Shore, starting with a line from Nassawadox to Onancock.

HRSD requires fee simple title to all three of the county's sewage pump stations as a component of the agreement.

Two of the pump stations are in the Accomack County Industrial Park, in Melfa, and one is behind Chesapeake Square Shopping Center, in Onley.

"The EDA is on board with the real estate there," said Deputy County Administrator Stewart Hall about the requested transfer of the two parcels in the industrial park.

Chesapeake Square Shopping Center's owner is willing to gift the property if the county agrees sewer service connection fees will not be charged for the shopping center, according to Hall.

Middle, 64% to 77%, Chincoteague Combined, 82% to 85%; and Nandua Middle, 75% to 84%.

Accomack's math SOL pass rates also increased when adjusted for growth: Accawmacke Elementary, 66% to 91%; Chincoteague Elementary, 58% to 84%; Kegotank Elementary, 37% to 85%; Metompkin Elementary, 46% to 89%; Pungoteague Elementary, 62% to 90%; Tangier Combined, 57% to 85%; Arcadia Middle, 53% to 86%, Chincoteague Combined, 76% to 96%; and Nandua Middle, 73% to 91%.

"We want to celebrate what we've done," said Accomack schools Superintendent Chris Holland.

Every Accomack public school will follow an improvement plan to foster continued academic growth, and a plan is in development for students with disabilities, Hall said.

Northampton will continue providing extra support for reading and math teachers in elementary school, because when foundational skills are built in the lower grades, "everybody pays dividends going forward," said Superintendent Jaime Cole.

The focus on academic growth over raw test scores likely will be a trend in education for years to come.

According to a July report by the NWEA (Northwest Evaluation Association), the average elementary school student will take three years to recover academically from the COVID-19 pandemic, and middle and high school students may take five years or more.

SERVING VIRGINIA'S EASTERN SHORE

THE PAPER'S POSITION

A royal death and our royal roots

The death of Queen Elizabeth II and the proclamation of King Charles III happened an ocean away. The lavish funeral Monday was spellbinding and a fitting tribute.

It is remarkable to consider anew that the Eastern Shore of Virginia for generations fell under royal authority and that the late queen's ancestors held sway here.

For better or for worse, the queen's family has its fingerprints all over our state, region, and proud peninsula. The monarchs controlled the ground under our feet until the colonial revolutionaries wrested it away.

The first Europeans came to the Eastern Shore after one of the late queen's forebears, King James, granted a charter to an exploration company named "Virginia," after Queen Elizabeth I — another of the late queen's ancestors. Soon, John Smith was exploring our area.

The town of Cape Charles is essentially named for one of James' sons. The municipal moniker comes from the geographical headland at the peninsula's southern tip, which was named for the first King Charles (who was later beheaded).

His son, King Charles II, called Virginia "The Old Dominion" because of its loyalty to him. But on the Eastern Shore and elsewhere, those loyalists who supported royal monarchs weren't always popular with those who wanted freedom from tyranny. Our allegiances were as divided then as now, it would seem.

When the first recorded play in English America, called "The Bear and the Cub," was performed in a tavern near Pungoteague in 1665, its content likely was a play on a testy parent-child relationship — England and the colonists. The play's content, though unknown today, got the performers hauled into court, probably because it was offensive to the crown.

More than 100 years later, the Declaration of Independence was read on the Eastern Shore. In the ensuing two wars, we extracted ourselves from under King George III.

The royal progeny's influence here is so ubiquitous that it is hidden in plain sight. But our monarchical heritage connects us to the poignant passing of the British crown.

Actions of Luria's committee 'nonsense'

To the editor:

In the Sept. 16 edition there was a letter promoting U.S. Rep. Elaine Luria with the writer lauding her participation and actions on the Jan. 6 Committee — and how she is fulfilling her constitutional duty.

The obvious target by this committee is the viability of the candidacy of former President Donald Trump in the 2024 election.

The actions of the commission are utter nonsense. The entire system of justice in the U.S. is based on an adversarial system, where the plaintiff and defendant have legal representation to advocate in their interest including those that are granted under the Constitution, which is not afforded in this proceeding.

In the adversarial system, the defense is also given access to the evidence in the plaintiff's case prepared through discovery. In addition, the defense is given a means to compel production of evidence in their defense using subpoenas.

The committee on which Luria sits is nothing but an equivalent of a Stalinist show trial.

It is about presenting propaganda without granting any means of evaluating the truth and allowing it to be tested through the adversarial approach, without the defendant able to present a defense.

The committee consists of Democrats and two anti-Trump Republicans. The minority Republican leadership was rejected in its nomination of its chosen Republican representatives, and therefore chose not to participate. It is a farce.

I cannot laud Congresswoman Luria for her participation in this sham, and I condemn her for it.

I know something about the justice system. I worked as a special agent for various federal agencies for 28 years, and as a detective for a county prosecutor's office for four.

I am a strong believer in the Constitution and the rule of law, and the constitutional rights of our citizens.

I am also a naturalized citizen.

Discovering lives heroic and tragic in a cemetery exploration

There is a small informational warning poster in a men's restroom at the Wallops Navy base detailing the criminal misdeeds of John A. Walker Jr., convicted in 1986 of running a spy operation for the Soviet Union against the United States.

Ted Shockley

Five miles away is the gravesite of Walker's father at the John W. Taylor Cemetery in Temperanceville. He died in 1987.

The resting place of the father and the cautionary-tale placard chronicling the crimes of the son are oddly close.

Dennis Fox, of Temperanceville, knew the father — and had met the son, whose ignominious acts made him the poster boy for espionage and deceit.

"It just devastated him," Fox said of the father, who had lived in Temperanceville for years. The son isn't from the Shore and never lived here.

The associated media coverage — including national reporters and television cameras at his front door — forced the weary father to find another place to live.

"They ran him right out of town," he said.

I had asked the gentlemanly Fox the location of Walker's father's grave. He did better.

He invited me to an onsite history of the Temperanceville cemetery. The tour was a gift of the first order and a fascinating way to spend an afternoon.

Call me odd, but over the years I have walked miles in Eastern Shore cemeteries. It is a reprieve from the hustle and hurry of modernity and responsibility.

I am usually alone among the gravestones. Traffic rips by on nearby roads as I plod along, reading inscriptions on crisp fall afternoons.

Our full schedules these days leave us little time to mingle among the rows of monuments and memories. We drive into the future and drive past the past, and shamefully.

Fox, helpful and softspoken, is in the insurance business and comes from a family of undertakers. He is also president of the cemetery and its financial trust.

We approached the humble grave of an soldier who gave all: Army Cpl. William S. Hartman, a son of Temperanceville who was a paratrooper in World War II.

Hartman had jumped into battle behind enemy lines in North Africa, Sicily, Italy, and Normandy, and had been previously wounded, before he was killed in action on Oct. 23, 1944, in Holland. He was 25.

"He's one of our lost and forgotten heroes," said Fox.

He drove his pickup truck to the ornate gravestone of Mary T. Fedderman, whose life coincided with a remarkable swath of history.

Fedderman was born on Sept. 12, 1860, and died April 19, 1958 — meaning she lived from before the Civil War to the midst of the Cold War, and through every war between them.

She was alive both during slavery and for the Supreme Court case that led to the integration of public schools.

"You just stop and think what history she saw," Fox said.

Fox thinks frequently about the elder Walker, the heroic Hartman, the long-lived Fedderman, and so many others. They cross his mind every 10 days or so when he mows the cemetery property.

"I'm instinctively reading the names while I'm cutting grass," he said. "Most all of these people I could tell you something about."

The gravestone of the elder Walker, who once had worked as a publicist for Warner Bros., is flat and unobtrusive, as is the stone of his second wife, who died in 1991.

Fox recalled their daughter, Cheri Lynn, who died at 14 due to complications from leukemia. Her remains are interred nearby.

Walker the spy died in a federal penitentiary in 2014 and I was always curious whether the man who sold Navy secrets to the Soviets is buried beside his father in Temperanceville.

He isn't, according to the kind man who knows just about everyone in the cemetery.

That's kind of a relief, somehow.

RANDOM FACTS

Like our families, viruses are good, bad, and part of our DNA

If you were given the opportunity to push a button and get rid of all viruses on Earth, you might — considering how the COVID-19 virus has disrupted our lives — be tempted to push it.

Please don't.

Although some viruses wreak havoc on humans, other viruses enable life on this planet. And viruses have been with us so long they make up part of our DNA.

Scientists have three main theories on how viruses evolved more than four billion years ago: the progressive hypothesis, the reduction — no, wait, don't go, we promise not to torture you with these theories. We will just say that when life was forming on this planet some free-floating genetic material developed the ability to enter and exit living cells.

One branch of this genetic material evolved with more complexity and became bacteria, which are single cell, living organisms.

Another branch, viruses, went in the opposite direction, shedding genes and becoming so simple over time that they lost the ability to replicate outside a host.

Scientists, who would debate a sunrise, have pretty much settled on whether viruses are alive. They're not — not alive, but doing well for themselves.

According to the National Library of Medicine, "Viruses have emerged as the most abundant biological entities on earth ..."

Antibiotics, which kill living bacteria, don't do squat against viruses because you can't kill something that isn't alive.

You get rid of viruses by stopping them from replicating, usually by preventing them from binding to our human cells.

To replicate, zombie viruses need to get into a host and turn that living cell into a copying machine for making more viruses.

A few hundred thousand years ago, some viruses entered human reproductive cells, made themselves at home, and the virus-generated DNA started to be reproduced along with human DNA.

The result of this ancient invasion is that about 8% of our DNA consists of virus DNA.

Studies are still being conducted to find if any of our ancient virus DNA is related to diseases, such as cancer. But it is known that at least one of the viral DNA sequences in our genome is responsible for development of a cellular layer around a human fetus that protects that fetus from toxins in the mother's blood.

Other pieces of virus DNA might help us ward off infections from bad viruses.

zen, and I value the constitution and the rights granted thereunder.

During my career, I never had to go to trial on any of my cases.

The reason is that I presented a case based on solid evidence, and it was the truth.

Defendants are more willing to accept their fate before the court when they are facing evidence of the truth, and the investigator treats them with respect.

Random facts

Oh, and if we pushed that button to eradicate all viruses, life as we know it on Earth would be over. There's that.

Half of all our oxygen was supplied by the ocean's plankton, which keeps generating more than half of all oxygen produced on Earth. Plankton is killed by bacteria and there is so much plankton-killing bacteria in the ocean that plankton and our oxygen would soon be gone if it wasn't for, yes, viruses. Ocean-going viruses kill half of all ocean bacteria each day!

Kill the bacteria, save the plankton, take a deep breath.

We have to live with it, avoiding the bad viruses, thanking God for the good viruses, and accepting that viruses are part of our DNA. (And if you replace "viruses" in that sentence with "family members," the sentiment still works.)

Onancock man makes plea in 2019 slaying

BY NANCY DRURY DUNCAN
Eastern Shore Post

The third co-defendant involved in the 2019 slaying of Alvin Lee Rogers Jr. has entered into a plea agreement with the commonwealth.

Lavar Heath, 19, of Onancock, originally charged with murder and attempted robbery, pleaded guilty to attempted robbery. In exchange, the murder and firearm charges were not prosecuted.

"The commonwealth believes he was not the shooter and did not have a firearm," Commonwealth's Attorney J. Spencer Morgan told the court. He said Heath was acting as a "lookout" and said he told police he did not get out of his car during the shooting. "He was present and he was aware of the circumstances," Morgan said. "Lavar Heath made poor choices."

Co-defendants, 26-year-old Bronta Ames and Nyxavier Snead, 20, were each convicted of murder and attempted robbery in circuit court, also after entering into plea agreements.

Ames pleaded guilty to first-degree murder and attempted robbery. Snead pleaded guilty to second-degree murder and attempted robbery. Both also pleaded guilty to firearms charges.

Rogers was called by Snead to the Boggs Road address to make a marijuana purchase, said Morgan. Rogers was backing out of the driveway when the shooting occurred.

Ames was in front of the vehicle shooting and Snead, also with a gun, was next to the passenger-side door.

Bullet holes were found in the windshield of the van. An autopsy showed Rogers was shot in the shoulder and the stomach and died at the scene.

Marine Police Officer Wessells receives Medal of Valor

STAFF REPORT

Marine Police Officer Trevor Wessells was awarded the highest honor given by the Virginia Marine Police, the Medal of Valor, at the Aug. 23 Virginia Marine Resources Commission meeting.

The award is given to an officer who, while attempting to save a life, performs heroically under unusually difficult and dangerous conditions.

Wessells was awarded the first ever Virginia Marine Police Medal of Valor for his heroic actions that saved the lives of three duck hunters on the night of Jan. 19, 2020, at the mouth of Nandua Bay, according to the Virginia Marine Police.

“Wessells, along with Virginia Conservation Officers (Steve) Garvis and (Anthony) Pennino, braved 36° air temperature, 40 mph winds and six-foot seas to recover the three duck hunters, who had capsized in the 39° water,” according to a Virginia Marine Police post on Facebook.

The Department of Game and Inland Fisheries received a distress call around 5:45 p.m. that day, and the three officers coordinated their response and launched their patrol boats to try to save the hunters, according to a press release.

Wessells, who was not on duty at the time, dispatched himself from his home.

“With brave action and expert boat handling, Officer Wessells put the safety of others above his own and demonstrated the ideals of professionalism, dedication, and courage that all Marine Police Officers strive for,” the post continued.

All three hunters were rescued successfully and were taken to Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital for treatment of hypothermia.

Wessells upon receiving the medal received a standing ovation at the VM-RC meeting.

Wessells is the son of Shannon Wessells and Accomack County Sheriff Todd Wessells.

Accomack volunteers get tax breaks from county

BY CAROL VAUGHN
Eastern Shore Post

The Accomack County Board of Supervisors approved an amendment to county law to allow a special tax classification for motor vehicles owned or leased by members of volunteer fire and rescue companies.

The law goes into effect Jan. 1.

Robert Crockett made the motion to change the law, seconded by Ron Wolff.

At the Aug. 17 board meeting, supervisors asked staff to prepare the ordinance, after staff presented various incentives the county could opt to offer volunteer fire and rescue personnel.

The change allows a lower personal property tax rate for active volunteers — those who regularly respond to emergency calls — on one vehicle they own or lease.

By state law, the tax rate can not be zero.

The board set a tax rate of one cent per $100 value for the new classification, at an estimated annual cost to the county of $123,550.

Raymond Eugene Brady

Mr. Raymond Eugene Brady, affectionately known as "Buddy" to family and friends, departed this life peacefully on Sept. 12, 2022, at Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital in Onancock.

Buddy was a resident of Nassawadox and was born June 9, 1951, in Oyster, a son to the late Burleigh "Dick" and Julia Anne Brady. He grew up in Northampton County where he spent years working on the Chesapeake Bay alongside his Daddy and other family.

Buddy was a man of God and loved his Lord and Savior. He ministered to many until his health failed him. He enjoyed woodworking and had an art for sculpting boats with a very distinctive design. He also had a love for music and he even wrote his own songs and sang at family funerals.

In his younger years, he played his guitar in a band with his brother, Sonny, called The Rambling Ranch Hands, in which they entertained many folks.

Buddy is survived by his loving daughter, Roseanne Brady, of Nassawadox; two adored grandchildren, Willie and BreAnna Holden; special nieces, Jackie Abraham (Joe), of Capeville, and Tracy Steuer (John), of Eastville.

Earl Kilmon Drewer Jr.

Mr. Earl Kilmon Drewer Jr., 74, beloved husband of Brenda Miles Drewer and resident of Davis Wharf, passed away Sunday, Sept. 18, 2022, at Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital in Onancock. The son of the late Earl Kilmon Drewer Sr. and the late Madge Davis Drewer, he was a retired co-owner of Churn's Truck Line Inc. and a fuel delivery driver for H.W. Drummond Inc.

He was predeceased by a son, Matthew Drewer, and his brother, John Davis Drewer.

Earl grew up in Davis Wharf with an unwavering love of Occohannock Creek and the Chesapeake Bay. He often recalled childhood baseball games with his cousins and neighborhood friends. spotted a pool table out and about.

At family meals, he would talk about loving his mother's fried soft crabs and chicken, homemade bread, and chocolate chip cookies. He was very proud of his Saxis heritage on his father's side; loved being Uncle Buddy and taking family, especially his niece, Jeanne Noonan, and his grandniece, Ashley Rossignol, to visit the island; and spoke often about the boats his family had owned through the years. As an adult, when he wasn't riding the backroads of the Shore spotting deer and wild turkeys, he would sit on the front porch swing watching boats come and go at Davis Wharf. He absolutely loved to fish.

He was a hard-working man who was dedicated to his wife and children. People who knew him well will remember his easygoing nature and unquestionable integrity. He encouraged his children to put others first and push themselves to excel in academics and sports. He didn't miss a home game for all the years his children played and could not have been prouder of his kids' careers.

In his later years, though, he was all about his grandkids. He looked forward each summer to having his grandson, Addison, here for a couple of weeks and visiting Flynn and Clara in Maine. He was buds with his youngest grandson, Porter, from day one, sitting with him for tea parties in which they both ate more cookies than drank tea, and loved cheering him on at hockey games. One of the last things he asked of his family was to give Porter the fishing rod "Papa" had received for his recent birthday.

He loved attending Virginia Tech football games with his daughter, and one of the last things he asked was if Tech had won their most recent game. His family will miss him tremendously.

His wife and children invite family and friends to join them for a time of remembrance Friday, Sept. 23, from 6 to 8 p.m., at Doughty Funeral Home in Exmore. In lieu of flowers, the family asks that contributions be made to the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, Attn: Membership Dept., 6 Herndon Ave., Annapolis, MD 21403; or the American Red Cross, P.O. Box 37839, Boone, IA 50037-0839.

made their final move to the Eastern Shore of Virginia. Over the last 26 years, they made their home at Wishart's Point in Atlantic, where Eric made fast friends with neighbors, who affectionately appointed him "Mayor of Wishart's Point." Eric served as senior warden of Emmanuel Episcopal Church in Jenkins Bridge, as well as volunteered as an election official for Accomack County and the Foodbank of the Eastern Shore. He was also a member of the Air Force Association, the Military Officers Association of America, and the Kappa Alpha Order.

Col. Eric Lee Redifer was a man of great honor and respect, one whose life truly made a difference and whose legacy will continue to impact others for generations to come.

In addition to his loving wife of 56 years, he is survived by his sons, Matthew Eric Redifer and his wife, Saynne, of Palmdale, Calif., and Col. Douglas M. Stiles

On Sunday, Sept. 25, 2022, there will be a gathering of family and friends for a Celebration of Life for Mr. Douglas M. Stiles, of Cape Charles, who passed away Aug. 26, 2022. This informal celebration will take place in Cape Charles Central Park on Plum Street, from 1 to 4 p.m., at the open air pavilion. Those who wish to join others who have been fortunate enough to have known Douglas over the years and had the pleasure of meeting, laughing, and sharing precious time together are welcome to gather and reminisce about his life and times of joy.

Mr. Stiles

Douglas had a life filled with laughter, music, and was always surrounded by a loving family and many friends. He enjoyed sports, cooking, and telling funny stories about past adventures. His laugh was often contagious. But his path through life was filled with challenges, many of which he faced with courage and an open heart. His later years were always a perpetual series of hopes and dreams, sometimes just out of reach.

A loving son, brother, dad, and friend, he will be missed by his wonderful family including his mother, Loretta (Jim); children, Nicole and DJ; and siblings, Mimi, Brock, Karen, Scott, and all of his relatives and friends. He has moved on before us, but will not be forgotten. Douglas is now in a better place where he is finally free at last.

Linda Jones Turner

On Sunday, Sept. 18, 2022, the angels softly whispered, "It's time to go home," as Mrs. Linda Jones Turner, 77, of Melfa, earned her wings and began her journey to heaven, with her loving family at her side.

Linda Rose Jones was born July 20, 1945, in Nassawadox, to Marvin Roland Jones and Helen Mae Smith Jones. Raised in a military family, Linda moved often throughout her school years and graduated from Newark High School, in Newark, Del. Following graduation, she returned home to the Eastern Shore of Virginia, establishing residency in Accomack County. For most of her adult life, Linda worked two jobs and unfailingly waived her own needs in order to support her family. She worked for Eastern Shore Printers for 40 years, where she wore many hats, but utilized most of her expertise processing and developing film negatives. During that time, she also worked part time at the Roseland Theatre, and later for Peebles Department Store in Exmore.

Mrs. Turner

A motivator, giver, and unsung hero, Linda was constantly pushing forward in a positive direction and always with a clear mind, an open heart, and an extended hand. As a devoted mother, she understood the uniqueness of both of her children, recognizing what made them different. She applied this knowledge to their individual situations to help them understand the meaning and purpose of their experiences and how those experiences would benefit their path going forward. Although she never expected complete conformity, she instilled in her children the importance of how their actions, and those they interacted with, would affect their lives. Linda raised her children to never give up and to take pride in their work. Linda especially coveted her role as "Mom-Mom." She idolized her grandchildren and embraced every moment spent with them. In recent years, Linda looked forward to Wednesday visits with her sisters, with whom she shared a beautiful bond and special love.

Linda had a passion for crafts. Among her many talents were crocheting, knitting, beadwork, plastic canvas, cross-stitch, handmade jewelry, and stenciling. Over the years, her works of art were displayed at various functions on the Shore. Linda was also an avid bingo player and was often found blotting cards several nights a week throughout the community. She was a collector of pitchers, magnets, and miniature shoes. ADDITIONAL PERSONAL PROPERTY COLLECTION EFFORTS

COUNTY OF ACCOMACK, VIRGINIA; (9/21/2022):

James Lilliston, the Treasurer of Accomack County, announces the implementation of a new delinquency collection program. These efforts will focus on the collection of delinquent personal property taxes owed to the County.

The Treasurer is working with Taxing Authority Consulting Services, P.C. (TACS), a Virginia law firm that concentrates its practice representing treasurers throughout the Commonwealth. Lilliston stated, this action is to ensure every taxpayer that all efforts are being taken regarding the collection of personal property. The fees charged by TACS are paid for by the delinquent taxpayers and the County will pay no fees for the service.

In collecting these accounts, TACS and the Treasurer may pursue all means of collection authorized by law, including liens, the attachment of wages, personal property and other assets.

To avoid these actions, and the additional 20% collection fee, taxpayers must take prompt steps to resolve their delinquent accounts. The Treasurer has taken additional steps to aggressively pursue more recent personal property delinquencies including implementing holds of DMV registrations for unpaid balances.

"I am aware of our current climate," said Lilliston, "and by no means want to put anyone in any undue hardship. We are willing to assist where we can; however, I am tasked to collect taxes from everyone and will be fair in doing so as I enforce the duties placed upon me."

Virginia Union's Jones, Nandua grad, back after injury

Putting on his Virginia Union University football jersey and returning to the field was like an out-of-body experience for Larry Jones Jr.

Adolphus Ames

"It was like having your love stripped away and suddenly she has been brought back into your life," he said.

Jones, who plays left guard for the Virginia Union Panthers, tore his ACL in a 51-7 loss against Valdosta State last season.

"It was my first major injury," he said. "I went through a long rehab process and had to teach myself how to be a lineman again."

On Sept. 10, the Panthers traveled to Georgia for a rematch against VSU.

LARRY JONES JR. plays football for Virginia Union University.

This time the Panthers came out on top, 45-40.

Jones, a junior in the classroom and a sophomore on the field, considers it the most memorable victory so far in his college football career.

"It felt good to go down there and win against the same team I injured myself against," said Jones. "It was an all-around great matchup."

"Our running back broke a record with over 319 yards rushing. I'm happy I contributed to that by blocking and opening lanes for him as a lineman."

Jones, son of Lisa Cypress and Larry Jones Sr., was a late bloomer. Unlike many young athletes, he didn't step on the football field until he was in eighth grade.

"My brothers played on Nandua's defensive line," he said. "I watched them play and wanted to be like them and fell in love with the sport."

For the Warriors, Jones played on the offensive line and as a defensive tackle and defensive end. From his sophomore year to senior year, he made first-team all-district on offense.

During his senior year, he had 89 tackles, 20 tackles for loss, and 1.5

sacks. That same year he also made the second-team all-region list.

When he started playing at VUU, Jones had to adjust to a different style of football. College football is more fast-paced and technical than high school.

"The most challenging part of playing football in college is you have to get every detail correct," he said. "You have to be perfect. We watch a lot of film on hand and feet placement."

Jones is the first person in his family to play football at the collegiate level.

He is an accounting major but is interested in getting involved in sports medicine and sports nutrition after college. He also hopes to make it to the NFL.

"I'm improving every year and doing anything I can to help my game," he said. "I'm doing extra workouts and rehab treatments to maintain my body. Making it to the NFL is my dream goal."

Homestanding Firebird gridders fall to Snow Hill

The Arcadia Firebirds played their first home football game of the season last Friday against Snow Hill but lost, 42-6.

Snow Hill took a 7-0 lead in the first quarter. In the second quarter, the Firebirds responded with a rushing touchdown by Cooper Brock to make the score 7-6. Snow Hill outscored the Firebirds 35-0 throughout the remainder of the game.

The Firebirds focused primarily on their ground game all night. Brock had 72 rushing yards and one touchdown. Bradley Hall had 54 rushing yards, Jacob Hall had 36, and Nasir Dorsey had 24.

Defensively, Hall, Tony Dickerson, and Carson Lucy each had four tackles. Ben Wright had three tackles.

Chincoteague football outdueled at Brunswick

The Chincoteague Ponies played tough football last Thursday evening but fell to Brunswick Academy, 62-14.

Garrett Daisey scored a rushing touchdown in the first quarter. The Ponies didn't score again until the fourth quarter when Jackson Maguire had a kickoff return for a touchdown.

"Our offense moved the ball well, but four turnovers halted most of our momentum," said head coach Wyle Maddox.

"Defensively, we missed assignments that led to quite a few long touchdown runs for the other team. Our team is back at work this week preparing to bounce back at Richmond Christian."

Jonathan Holloway led the offense with 56 rushing yards. Elliot Garland led the defense with four tackles. Daisey had three tackles.

Jacket netters move to 12-2 in win over King & Queen

The Northampton Yellow Jackets varsity volleyball team improved to 12-2 on the season by defeating King & Queen High School in three straight sets.

The Yellow Jackets were led offensively by Lyerick Brickhouse with eight kills, three aces, and five digs.

Mariah Matthews had six kills, three aces, and three digs. Peyton Sayers earned five kills, two aces, and four digs. Jacqueline Santos Maldonado had two kills, four aces, and four digs. Ta'Nyah Tankard earned two kills, two aces, and two digs. Allison Tittermary and Lucy Lusk each had one kill.

Warriors and Lady Vikings win at Nandua XC meet

Girls and boys cross-country teams from Broadwater, Northampton, Nandua, and Arcadia competed in a 5-kilometer course at Nandua High School last Wednesday.

For the girls, the Vikings placed first, the Warriors came in second, and the Firebirds finished third. In boys competition, the Warriors placed first and the Yellow Jackets came in second.

Top finishers in the girls category were: Lizania Morales (NOR 25:53), Laylah Jones (NAN 26:31), Olivia Gaskin (BW 27:30), Dalili Morales (NAN 28:29), and Emma Philpot (BW 28:54).

The Broadwater Vikings and Nandua Warriors varsity volleyball teams faced off once again this past Wednesday.

The Warriors were looking to avenge the 3-2 loss against the Vikings on Aug. 31 in Exmore. Once again the outcome was a Vikings victory in five sets, this time at Nandua.

Broadwater won the first set 25-20. The Warriors won the second set 25-20. It was a back-and-forth contest that featured several lead changes. The Vikings dominated the third set 25-14.

Elizabeth Price closed out the third with an ace. In the fourth set, the Warriors built an early 7-2 lead. The Vikings managed to tie the score at 14, but fell behind once again. The Warriors won this set 25-17. In the fifth set, the Vikings built an early lead and momentum never swung in the Warriors' favor. Chloe Hall ended the game with a kill. The score was 15-5.

Eyeing specks and puppy drum — and awaiting rocks

Productive flounder fishing can still be found inside Chincoteague Bay and over the inshore ocean wrecks, while southern Shore anglers have turned their attention to speckled trout and puppy drum.

Look for an influx of small rockfish into the Chesapeake Bay within the next few weeks.

Chincoteague

Recent flounder action out of Chincoteague has been a little more productive than the waters of Metompkin and Wachapreague. Anglers fishing inside Chincoteague Bay are not finding big numbers of flounder, but what they are catching are large in size, with most keepers measuring over 21 inches and a few fish topping 6 pounds.

A few speckled trout have been caught by anglers casting artificials around the marsh edges. Surf fishing has slowed up with stingrays dominating the action off the beach. Anglers casting small pieces of Fish Bites have landed some spot, croakers, and kingfish (whiting).

Heavy seas have canceled most recent offshore trips, but Captain Steve's Bait and Tackle did register a 45-pound wahoo caught aboard the Deez Knots with Captain Aaron Mattox.

Wachapreague

Captain Lindsay Paul, at Trident

Tackle, said the flounder fishing out of Wachapreague is still feeling the effects of the recent northeast winds. The muddied water continues to slow down the flounder action, with the bulk of the fish being on the small side. Paul added that a few speckled trout and puppy drum are starting to show up. The recent winds have prevented the offshore fleet from venturing out.

Amanda Manzella, at the Wachapreague Inn, said the flounder fishing seems to have slowed from the previous week, though there are fish still around. She added that kayak fishermen have enjoyed some success with trout catches.

Lower Shore

Dez Louie, at Oceans East — Eastern Shore, said even though the state's cobia season ended last week, anglers are still catching and releasing a few late "stragglers" heading out of the bay.

The run of large red drum continues off Cape Charles and up at the Cherrystone Reef. Anglers using cut crab for bait have caught an assortment of slot-sized to citation-sized red drum, small black drum in the 10- to 15-pound range, sheepshead, and tautog.

Large sheepshead and tautog are still being caught at the Concrete Ships and along the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel pilings. Yellow-bellied spot and croakers are being landed by anglers using Fish Bites and bloodworm baits off Cape Charles and Kiptopeke.

Flounder catches are coming from inside the Ditch and along the little bridge, but the largest flatfish have been found around the high rise section of the bridge-tunnel.

The lower bayside creeks and shorelines are producing catches of speckled trout and under-slot puppy drum. Most of the speckled trout have been on the smaller side, but expect the average trout size to increase as the water temperature cools. Catches off the Kiptopeke State Park Pier have consisted mostly of lots of ribbonfish and small gray trout.

Jeb Brady, at Bailey's Bait & Tackle, said now that the cobia season has closed, a lot of the local fishermen have turned their angling efforts to more traditional autumn species, primarily speckled trout and puppy drum.

Successful tactics for speckled trout out of Oyster on the seaside and inside the bayside creeks have included casting Mirrorlures and soft plastics, as well as floating live baits. For puppy drum, artificials fished under popping corks have worked well in the early season. Some slot-sized puppies have been found in the schools roaming the bayside shallows.

Nonagenarians recognized

Mayor Leonard and the Chincoteague Town Council presented three well-loved members of the community on Sept. 15 with resolutions celebrating their 90th birthdays.

Winnie Rose Barrett was born on Aug. 16, 1932; Nora Walker was born on Aug. 28, 1932, and Leonard Jester was born on Aug. 12, 1932.

All three have made significant impacts on the people of Chincoteague whether through business ventures or volunteering their time to church and fire company activities.

All three have been friends since grade school and continue to be friends to this day.

"While at the ceremony they spoke of the various times they have been together, with Mrs. Winnie Rose quipping that she wouldn't ride with Mr. Leonard to the ceremony because she had been in two accidents with him when they were teens double-dating," said Chincoteague Town Council member Denise Bowden.

NOTICE OF VOLUNTARY REMEDIATION

Pursuant to the Virginia Voluntary Remediation Regulations, Virginia Administrative Code section 9VAC20-160-120, Virginia Commercial Space Flight Authority (VCSFA), 7414 Atlantic Road, Wallops Island, 23337 hereby provides notice of voluntary remediation at the following site:

Automated Integrated Test Facility
32355 Wallops Island Road, Temperanceville, VA
VRP Number VRP01049

The subject location was used as a poultry farm with a total of nine chicken houses consisting of approximately 28 acres. A buried debris pile was identified on the north side of the property which had the potential to impact soil and water. Sampling on the site detected the presence of naphthalene in groundwater and arsenic in soil above Risk Screening Levels (RSL) that pose a risk to human and environmental health. In order to address potential risks, VCSFA applied to and was deemed eligible to participate in the Voluntary Remediation Program.
The Site Characterization Report and Risk Assessment have been reviewed and accepted as complete by the Virginia Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ). The Remedial Action Plan (RAP) included the removal of the buried debris which included 124 tons of material which was properly disposed of at the county landfill. Additional sampling resulted in no contaminants above the RSL in soil nor groundwater. The land will not be required to have any land use controls or restrictions.

Persons wishing to comment on the voluntary remedial action or request additional information should contact the following person who is familiar with the Site:

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC OF AN APPLICATION BY AQUA VIRGINIA, INC.

FOR APPROVAL OF A WATER AND WASTEWATER INFRASTRUCTURE SERVICE CHARGE PLAN AND FOR AUTHORITY TO IMPLEMENT WATER AND WASTEWATER WWISC RIDERS CASE NO. PUR-2022-00113

- Aqua Virginia Inc. has applied for approval of Water and Wastewater Infrastructure Service Charge ("WWISC") Plan and For Authority to Implement Water and Wastewater WWISC Riders.
- Aqua Virginia seeks to recover a revenue requirement of approximately $411,000 via the proposed WWISC Water Rider associated with approximately $6,185,000 in WWISC-eligible water main replacement projects.
- Aqua Virginia further seeks to recover approximately $148,000 in revenues via the proposed Wastewater WWISC Rider associated with approximately $1,490,000 in WWISC-eligible wastewater projects.
- A Hearing Examiner appointed by the Commission will hold a telephonic hearing in this case on January 25, 2023, at 10 a.m., for the receipt of public witness testimony.
- The Hearing Examiner will hold an evidentiary hearing in this case on January 25, 2023, at 10 a.m., immediately following the public witness hearing, in the Commission's second floor courtroom located in the Tyler Building, 1300 East Main Street, Richmond, Virginia 23219.
- Further information about this case is available on the State Corporation Commission's website at: scc.virginia.gov/case.

On August 15, 2022, Aqua Virginia, Inc. ("Aqua Virginia" or "Company") completed the filing of an application ("Application") with the State Corporation Commission ("Commission") for approval of a water and wastewater infrastructure service charge plan ("WWISC Plan" or "Plan"), and for authority to implement water and wastewater WWISC riders ("Water WWISC Rider" and "Wastewater WWISC Rider," collectively, "Riders") recovering costs of approved infrastructure replacement in a program substantively identical to the WWISC pilot program authorized by the Final Order entered October 19, 2018 in Case No. PUR-2017-00082 and the WWISC authorized in Case No. PUR-2019-00209.

Through the Application, Aqua Virginia seeks approval for:

1. Recovery of a revenue requirement of approximately $411,000 via the proposed Water WWISC Rider associated with approximately $6,185,000 in WWISC-eligible water main replacement projects;
2. Recovery of approximately $148,000 in revenues via the proposed Wastewater WWISC Rider associated with approximately $1,490,000 in WWISC-eligible wastewater infiltration and inflow ("I&I") projects;
3. Aqua Virginia proposes a volumetric charge of $0.3910 per 1,000 gallons of water used and $0.5205 per 1,000 gallons of wastewater billed, to be applied across all customer classes and all bills rendered with an ending read date equal to or greater than the effective date of the Company's proposed WWISC tariff. The true-up component of the proposed Riders is zero; and
4. Aqua Virginia has requested to add to customer bills, the Company's new Water WWISC and Wastewater WWISC Riders, effective for the period from 120 days after filing of this Application until the filing of the Company's next WWISC proceeding or the effective date of interim base rates in its next base rate case, whichever comes first.

The proposed WWISC projects include six main replacement projects and three wastewater system rehabilitation projects:

- Aqua Virginia's Twin Cedars system. Twin Cedars is a community of approximately 31 homes in Caroline County. This system experiences a main break rate of approximately 224 breaks per 100 miles per year and has a nonrevenue water ("NRW") of 26%. The entire system is comprised of two-inch PVC mains. The proposed main replacement project will replace approximately 2,400 feet at a total project cost of $280,000.
- Aqua Virginia's Callao system. Callao serves a community of 134 homes in Northumberland County. The system experiences a main break rate of approximately 47 breaks per 100 miles per year. Of the 2.8 miles of distribution mains in the system, approximately 4% are asbestos cement and 46% are cast iron. The remaining distribution mains are PVC. The replacement of the asbestos cement and cast-iron mains requires approximately 8,570 feet of new mains and is estimated to cost $895,000.
- Aqua Virginia's White Stone system. White Stone is a town with approximately 276 connections in Lancaster County. The system experiences a main break rate of approximately 22 breaks per 100 miles per year and has a NRW of 31%. Of the six miles of distribution mains in the system, approximately 14% are asbestos cement and 35% are cast iron. The remaining distribution mains are PVC. The replacement of the asbestos cement and cast iron mains requires approximately 21,000 feet of new mains and is estimated to cost $2,135,000.
- Aqua Virginia's Foxwells system. Foxwells is a community of approximately 69 homes in Lancaster County. The system experiences a main break rate of approximately 71 breaks per 100 miles per year and has a NRW of 36%. Of the 3.3 miles of distribution mains in the system, approximately 54% are steel. The remaining distribution mains are PVC. The replacement of the steel mains requires approximately 8,030 feet of new mains and is estimated to cost $760,000.
- Aqua Virginia's Pelham Manor system. Pelham Manor is a community of approximately 71 homes in Culpeper County. The primary driver for this project is the main break rate of approximately 235 breaks per 100 miles per year. The project requires the replacement of approximately 8,350 feet of mains and is estimated to cost $980,000.

- Aqua Virginia's Lively system. Lively is a town with approximately 145 connections in Lancaster County. The system experiences a main break rate of approximately 38 breaks per 100 miles per year and has a NRW of 39%. Of the 3.5 miles of distribution mains in this system, approximately 52% are cast iron. The remaining mains are PVC. The replacement of the cast iron mains requires approximately 10,530 feet of new mains and is estimated to cost $1,135,000.
- Aqua Virginia's Lake Holiday wastewater system. Lake Holiday serves 976 customers in Frederick County. As of December 2021, the percent of I&I over the prior 12 months was approximately 18% and the peak day peaking factor was 4.9. While the percent I&I is within the desired range, the peak day peaking factor presents major challenges to operations and compliance. Peak day flows of this magnitude can overwhelm the capacity of both the collection system and the treatment facility. The proposed I&I projects will rehabilitate approximately 22,307 linear feet at a total projected cost of $500,000.
- Aqua Virginia's Lake Monticello wastewater system. Lake Monticello serves 4,921 customers in Fluvanna County. As of December 2021, the percent I&I over the prior 12 months was 24% and the peak day peaking factor was 2.4. The proposed I&I projects will rehabilitate approximately 13,430 linear feet at a total projected cost of $750,000.
- Aqua Virginia's Lake Land'Or wastewater system. Lake Land'Or serves 875 customers in Caroline County. As of December 2021, the percent I&I over the prior 12 months was approximately 38% and the peak day peaking factor was 2.8. The proposed I&I projects will rehabilitate approximately 7,855 linear feet at a total projected cost of $240,000.

If the Commission approves the proposed Riders, the monthly residential bill for an Aqua Virginia water customer using 4,000 gallons per month would increase, on average: for water service, by about 3.15% or $1.56 and for wastewater service, by about 3.49% or $2.08. The Company will calculate the WWISC Rider as follows:

1. The Company will determine the eligible infrastructure replacement costs by rate schedule as defined below for the period the WWISC rider will apply.
2. The Company will estimate the water and wastewater sales by rate schedule for that period.
3. The Company will divide the eligible infrastructure replacement costs by the estimated water and wastewater sales to arrive at the WWISC Rider that shall be allocated in conformance with the revenue allocation approved by the Commission in Case No. PUR-2020-00106 by rate schedule.

Interested persons are encouraged to review the Application and supporting documents for the details of these and other proposals.

TAKE NOTICE that the Commission may apportion revenues among customer classes and/or design rates in a manner differing from that shown in the Application and supporting documents and thus may adopt rates that differ from those appearing in the Company's Application and supporting documents.

Per the Company's request for interim rates, the Commission granted the Company authority to begin charging customers for its proposed WWISC Riders on an interim basis and subject to refund and interest for billings made on or after December 13, 2022, and has done so with express notice that the Commission may adjust such WWISC rates based on the final outcome of these proceedings.

The Commission entered an Order for Notice and Hearing in this proceeding that, among other things, scheduled public hearings on the Company's Application. On January 25, 2023, the Commission will hold a telephonic hearing, with no witness present in the Commission's courtroom, for the purpose of receiving the testimony of public witnesses. On or before January 18, 2023, any person desiring to offer testimony as a public witness shall provide to the Commission (a) your name, and

This public witness hearing will be webcast at scc.virginia.gov/pages/Webcasting.
